Fairfax County Public Schools: Go Inside the Classroom with Teachers

Coming in April: Visual and Performing Arts

When was the last time you visited a classroom? You may remember the desks, the chalkboard, or even the heavy copy of the dictionary sitting on top of the bookshelf.

Today's classrooms are dynamic and interactive settings where students learn from teachers who use a wide variety of resources and tools in the classroom to engage and empower students. Whether they are creating unique lesson plans or inviting professionals into the classroom to share their experience with students, teachers provide opportunities for students to be curious and stimulate thoughts and ideas.

Sometimes the art of teaching requires the use of unique methods to engage students. Jeff Lonnett, an art resource teacher at Mosby Woods Elementary School, is doing just that. Mosby Woods in Fairfax is one of 16 schools in the Washington, D.C., area that partners with the Kennedy Center for Performing Arts as part of its Changing Education Through the Arts (CETA) program.

Through CETA, Lonnett works with teachers throughout the school to help them develop knowledge and skills to integrate the arts into other subjects such as history, math, language arts, and science.

"Our sixth graders recently completed a unit on the Revolutionary War and were asked to design propaganda posters promoting a real political position of the Revolutionary War," explained Lonnett.

"Art highlights the importance of learning at every opportunity," said Lonnett. "You can probably get through life without being an artist, but art teaches storytelling, problem solving, and creative thinking that you need for so many other things in life."

Teaching students the skills they need to lead responsible, fulfilling, and respectful lives is one student achievement goal in Fairfax County Public Schools. Tom Harlow works with more than 50 physically disabled students from around the county to help them develop the resilience and self-confidence required to deal effectively with life's challenges. He's the adapted physical education teacher at Falls Church High School.

Harlow started a program to bring general education students into the adapted PE classes to work with his students. It is called the Peer Teaching Program.

"At the beginning of the year, I have my students introduce themselves in front of the whole class and talk about what they can do," said Harlow. "Self-advocacy is an important skill and it makes them more confident."

The peer teachers get to know the other students helping by them participate in activities such as fishing, kite flying, in-line skating, archery, and much more.

"It's a win-win situation," said Harlow. "The students who serve as peer teachers come in to help, but by the time the class is finished, they have learned a lot about each other, especially about the ability of the other students. The physically disabled students enjoy working with their peers and have a lot of fun."

Every year, more and more students ask to be a part of the Peer Teaching Program.

"The Peer Teaching Program helps knock down walls that should never be there," said Harlow.

Knocking down walls on the other side of the county is Linda Martin, a resource teacher for the advanced academic program at Dogwood Elementary School in Reston. She is passionate about fostering interest in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM).

"Children are naturally curious and should be given simulated opportunities to innovate, create, and resolve unique problems," said Martin. "That's what we try to do through our clubs, camp, and classes."

Martin sponsors the Girls Excelling in Math and Science (GEMS) club at Dogwood and organizes the GEMS conferences annually.

"I believe very strongly in bringing professionals into the classroom to give us authentic experiences. Our students need to meet people in the field who are doing these things now. Suddenly their work is elevated. It has purpose, relevance, and there is a vision that starts to take shape in their minds."

"I never forget that this is their childhood and I am their teacher and I am creating indelible memories for them. I don't want them to just learn and remember things. I want their learning to be unforgettable."

Getting To Know Us

School-Based Technology Specialist Patrick Ledesma

"These are exciting times to be a teacher," says Patrick Ledesma, school-based technology specialist and special education department chair at Holmes Middle School in Alexandria.

"The greatest fulfillment as a teacher is helping students learn. The wide availability of technology tools today, when combined with effective teaching practices, provides almost unlimited ways to inspire students."

Whether students use mobile computing devices such as netbooks, tablets, and iPads in the classroom or teachers use interactive whiteboards and classroom response systems, Ledesma says it will be the technology advances promoting more equitable student access to technology, rather than a specific brand or device, that will allow us to "inspire, enable, and empower all students to meet high academic standards, lead ethical lives, and demonstrate responsible citizenship," which are FCPS student achievement goals.

Ledesma says it is critical for students to be able to use technology to prepare for careers.

"Technology is seamlessly integrated into many job procedures and responsibilities today. Walk around any workplace or office, technology is evident somewhere in the background. To prepare students to use technology, we must continue to give students as many opportunities as possible to use technology in the learning process," he said.

"More importantly, we must focus on empowering students to be successful in applying higher level thinking skills. The more students are successful in activities that promote these skills, the more prepared they will be to use any technology available to them in the future."

Did You Know?

More than 10,000 (70 percent) of FCPS teachers have master's degrees and more than 370 FCPS teachers are certified by the National Board of Professional Teaching Standards, the highest credential a teacher can earn.

Students Engaged Through Technology

It may sound like something from a James Bond movie, but the Smart Pen is a teaching tool that is helping students of all ages.

The Smart Pen contains a computer that can capture handwriting and simultaneously record audio. The user taps a specially made sticker placed in a Smart Pen notebook to record the writing and audio.

"My students are extremely excited and motivated when they use the Smart Pen," said Courtney Taylor, a kindergarten teacher at Parklawn Elementary School.

Taylor has multiple uses for the Smart Pen in her classroom.

"Recently each student wrote a report about polar animals and recorded themselves reading what they wrote," said Taylor. "Now any student can pick up the reports, use a Smart Pen to tap on the special dot in the notebook and listen to their classmates read their reports. It is a technology that fosters independence and engagement."

Taylor also records herself reading stories so her students can use free time to listen to a story on the Smart Pen and follow along in the book.

"The pens are very user friendly and my students love using them. They are even generating their own ideas on how we can use them!"

When Cynthia Donavin, executive director of the Classical Ballet Theatre, was searching for inspiration to find a new location for the studio, she turned to one of the area's most famous patrons of the arts: Reston founder Robert Simon.

"I gave Mr. Simon a ride to our studio, he checked it out and said he knew the perfect place to relocate," Donavin said. "And sure enough, the spot he picked will be our new location. He said he chose it because of its proximity to two future Metro stops."

The Classical Ballet Theatre, a nonprofit dance studio dedicated to providing education, performance and outreach throughout the area, will be moving August a little more than a mile east in Sunset Hill Road, next to the Plaza America shopping center. To help facilitate their expanded facilities, the theatre hosted their annual Ballet and Bordeaux fundraiser at the Center for Innovative Technology in Herndon Saturday, March 24.

dance well, but to succeed in many aspects of life," said Richard Thayer, chairman of the CBT's board. "This is where you can get the best regional training in the Mid-Atlantic."

Thayer said he was "thrilled at the possibilities" of the new space, which will feature a third studio to help the CBT increase their program offerings.

"We're bursting at the seams at our current location, and the move to Reston will ensure the continuation of our quality programs," he said. "We want to continue everything positive we do, which includes reaching out to dancers, students, families and the community at large."

The CBT hopes their new location will encourage people to take a look and see what happens on a daily basis.

"We're growing by leaps and bounds, and this move will help us provide more offerings to the communities of Herndon, Reston and beyond," said Patricia McCabe, the CBT's director of development. "We want to open ourselves up more to the community, so we'll have a lot of windows and open space."

The CBT was founded in 1991, and since then more than 30 of its alumni have gone on to professional dance careers around the country, on Broadway and around the globe in Russia and Germany.

This Spring, the annual Taste of the Town festival will celebrate many of Herndon's signature restaurants by giving visitors a chance to sample their signature items. Hosted by the Council for the Arts of Herndon, the 21st annual event has long been known as a showcase for destination dining.

"Taste of Herndon is sort of how I keep up with the latest places that have opened over the past year," said Peter Neeson of Herndon. "I don't consider myself to have a particularly brave palette when it comes to trying a new place, much to my wife's chagrin, but the festival is a great way to get the feel of places."

More than 20 restaurants will be present at this year's event, including newcomers Jimmy John's, McAlister's Deli and old standards like Jimmy's Old Town Tavern and O'Sullivan's.

"I like seeing new places at Taste of the Town because if the family is thinking about going to a new place, or we happen to pass by one of the places I recognize, we're more likely to stop in," said Samantha Nguyen of Herndon. "I like supporting

This year will feature celebrity bartenders (often members of the Town Council and other officials) as well as a full compliment of auction items that include golf packages, wine tastings vacations and more.

The Taste of the Town will take place at the Worldgate Center on Thursday, April 19 from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. Admission is $20 per person for non-Arts Council members, $15 for members. More information can be found at www.herndonarts.org.

Promoting Arts and Music at Mosby Woods

One of the highlights of the year, the annual School Site Visit, continues to attract art supervisors, principals, and their art and music teachers to see exemplary arts education and arts integration programs in a local school. Council members and Principals' Arts Education Forum members joined Mahri Aste, principal at Mosby Woods Elementary School, and her staff on a guided tour of Mosby Woods' art education and arts integration programs. They had an opportunity to visit classrooms to observe arts-integrated lessons, tour the school and courtyard, examine documentation of student learning through the arts, and hear

Clearview Elementary Wins the A+ School Principal Challenge

This month, Clearview Elementary School of Herndon was all "a buzz" as it celebrated winning the annual A+ School Principal Challenge. Sponsored by Giant Food, this competition rewards school spirit by inviting principals to submit creative and unique challenges that they personally can meet in order to raise much-needed funding for their programs.

Kimberly Willison, Principal of Clearview, had one of the best ideas—and one of the best executions. Dressed in her school's yellow jacket mascot uniform, Willison rollerbladed throughout the hallways and visited classrooms, where students supported her with their smiles and cheers. By doing so, she earned the school $1,000. Willison plans to use the money to purchase the "Do the Math" program as well as some additional hands-on math items.

Interrupting Harassment and Bullying

Empowering bystanders to intervene, students to set boundaries.

With a controversial and much discussed new movie, “Bully,” coming out this week, local school districts continue to wrestle with the issue of bullying in the schools.

And while school officials are still looking at “cyber-bullying” as novel and separate phenomena, it’s fair to say that for students, there is little distinction between the teasing, harassment and worse that happens on school grounds and the school bus and the nastiness, rumors and character assassination that takes place online. The combined effect, including the graphic, lasting, visceral attacks that are possible online, can make school literally unbearable for some, and more than unpleasant for others.

As adults, we can only be thankful that we escaped this environment before the advent of cell phone cameras and videos, instant posting to websites and other technological “advances.” (I have long believed that middle school, by its very existence, is unconstitutionally cruel and unusual punishment.)

Fairfax County undertakes an annual survey of all students in grades 8, 10 and 12 that gives insight into the lives of teens.

More than 30 percent of Fairfax County students recently surveyed reported being depressed in the past year.

This is probably not unrelated to the fact that 56 percent of students surveyed reported being bullied while 43 percent admitted to bullying others. This is consistent with findings from other areas, with 8th grade as a bullying “hot-spot.” In Fairfax County, 62 percent of 8th graders said they had been bullied and 55 percent admitted to bullying others. Of course there is some overlap in the two groups.

“We’ve seen that over 40 percent of the students who say they have been bullied have themselves bullied someone,” Mary Ann Panarelli, director of Fairfax County Public School’s Intervention and Prevention Services department told Connection reporter Alex McVeigh. “It’s not a matter of punishing it out of the system, it’s a matter of enacting a culture change.”

In seeking that culture change, much of the outreach is dedicated to the bystander, the person witnessing someone being bullied, and their ability to make the bullying behavior less acceptable.

Students who witness bullying can say to the perpetrator: “Why would you say something like that? Why would you do that?”

Panarelli added: “Things like going up to the victim after, saying ‘I saw what happened, and don’t agree with it,’ helps that victim from feeling isolated.”

It’s the sort of lesson that can start very young. We can learn to say: “This is not right,” even in the face of fierce peer pressure. This ability to set boundaries which can begin in preschool will serve our children well later in life when they are resisting being a passenger in a car driven by someone who has been drinking or refusing to participate in rumors and ostracizing.

This starts with learning empathy, to care for animals, people and things who vulnerable and face challenges.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

It’s Discrimination and It’s Wrong

To the Editor:

The League of Women Voters was born more than 90 years ago from the long fight to get women the right to vote. Since 1992, when League members studied health care policy, we have worked to ensure access to quality health care for all. The League also has a strong commitment and belief that public policy in a diverse society must affirm the right of all individuals to make their own reproductive choices.

That’s why the League is so deeply concerned about recent proposals that would allow employers and health plans to block contraceptive services and discriminate against women.

By a narrow margin, the U.S. Senate recently defeated an amendment that would limit access to contraception for women if any employer or insurance plan has an undefined “religious or moral objection” to it. A couple’s decision about whether and how to limit the size of their family is a personal one and theirs alone to make. Giving employers the authority to limit available options is an inappropriate intrusion into the private lives of their employees.

We understand that not everyone agrees with the League on this subject. But we strongly believe that public institutions, including schools and hospitals that receive substantial federal assistance, should not limit the health care choices available to their employees. While no organization should be forced to violate its religious principles, institutions that serve the public at large should show the same respect for their employees’ differing beliefs that they demand the community show for their own principles.

The League of Women Voters believes that all persons, regardless of gender, should be eligible for preventive health services. Allowing employers to exclude contraceptive services is discrimination based on sex, and it’s wrong.

General Assembly More Productive Than Reported

To the Editor:

If one reads the national and local newspapers, one would have the impression that the General Assembly in Richmond devoted its entire legislative session to debating vaginal sonograms. In reality, over 1600 bills were passed by both the House of Delegates and the Senate and the session did a great deal to promote jobs and the economy in Virginia. For example, just looking at Delegate Comstock’s record, three bills she introduced and championed passed unanimously or overwhelmingly in both the House and the Senate: a tax exemption for business data centers and extensions of the capital gains exemption for new tech investments and the telework tax credit (that Comstock introduced and passed last year). These bills will encourage the continued growth of Virginia’s technology sector and its data center industry in particular that bring in millions of dollars of revenue. The telework tax credit bill promotes more flexible work situations for working Moms and Dads. Comstock also introduced her Fair and Open Competition in Government Contracting Act that would ensure that the 96 percent of Virginia’s workforce that is non-union has a level playing field in competing for contracts against out-of-state unions while giving the taxpayer more bang for the infrastructure buck. It is important that the public hear about these accomplishments and not be incorrectly left with the impression that the primary focus of the Assembly, or the Republican-controlled House of Delegates, was on social issues.

More In-state Opportunities

To the Editor:

Virginia has the best schools in the country. Regrettably the admissions process at schools like Virginia Tech, James Madison University, or University of Virginia have become so competitive for in-state students that these top tier schools seem unattainable. As students, we want to earn a phenomenal education from these well renowned schools in order to succeed in the Virginia workforce. To get to where we need to go to be successful, we need degrees from schools like University of Virginia. When we are forced to go to private colleges or out of state universities instead, the costs to obtain our degrees can double or even triple what an in-state college would cost.

Barbara Comstock is in favor of helping us obtain these goals; she is cosponsoring House Bill 1083, More In-State Students in our Virginia Schools. It is exciting to hear that Delegate Comstock is working hard to ensure Virginians succeed in the working world. By attending these institutions we will be able to stay close to home thus ensuring that the Virginia workforce will benefit from these highly educated students.

The Connection high school interns – Nikki Cheshire (Langley High), Monika Bapna (Marshall High) and Mary Grace Oakes (Madeira) – asked area high school students:

- ❖ Do you think cyber bullying is more damaging than regular bullying? Does the fact that it's online make it more hurtful or easier to ignore?
- ❖ Have you or your friends experienced cyber bullying? What was it and what was your response?

Anna Fahlberg,
Grade: 12, Langley High School

“You can’t erase cyber bullying, and it’s more hurtful because you see it over and over again. It’s easy to ignore if it’s a private message, but it becomes worse than regular bullying if it’s posted for the whole world to see.”

“I’ve definitely seen people posting sly statuses on Facebook that are clearly directed at certain people. It’s definitely not acceptable, but I ... scrolled past it.”

Cody Jones,
Grade: 11, Langley High School

“Cyber bulling is worse, because you can say meaner things. It’s easier to say something rude online than face-to-face. It’s harder to ignore since it’s much easier to access.”

“There were a few cases I heard about, kids making fun of each other and ganging up on groups of five or more kids. I was never involved in any of it, though.”

Thomas Blazon,
Grade: 10, Langley High School

“Cyber bullying is on the Internet, so everyone can see that. Physical bullying can be kept secret. It’s more cowardly to cyber bully, and it’s emotionally more hurtful since it’s hard to know where to get help for it.”

“This guy started cussing at me online a few years ago, but I just unfriended and blocked him.”

Ian Lagoe,
Grade: 9, Langley High School

“Cyber bullying can be more hurtful since it’s so easy to see. Everyone can see Facebook posts, which makes it worse than regular bullying.”

“I haven’t seen any cyber bullying, but I’ve heard of it happening.”

Michael Orndoff,
Grade: 11, Marshall High School

“I think that the fact that it’s online makes it easier to ignore. With cyber bullying, it’s easy to simply block or ignore what someone keeps telling you. But when someone bullies you in person, you actually know them, which makes it hurt more. You can stop someone from sending texts or posting on your wall on Facebook, but you can’t stop someone from talking.”

“I’ve never personally experienced cyber bullying, and I don’t know anyone that’s experienced it either. Bullying someone in person seems to be more common than cyber bullying.”

Kevin Lam,
Grade: 11, Marshall High School

“I think cyber bulling is more damaging than regular bullying by a lot. The Internet is a big place that’s filled with lots of people you may not know. That element of being “unknown” makes it easier for people to be bullied and be the bully. In a cyber bully’s mind, in my opinion, by being unknown on the Internet would allow a cyber bully no restrictions on what the bully would have to say. As for being more hurtful or easier to ignore, it really depends on the means of receiving the cyber bullying.”

“Yes, my friends and I have definitely experienced cyber bullying, typically though it would really fall under the title of flame wars, which are basically comment wars between people on a topic. Usually I tend to ignore the whole situation once I feel no need to be part of it or if I don’t see an out to it.”

County Takes Aim at Bullying

By ALEX McVEIGH
THE CONNECTION
SECOND IN A THREE PART SERIES.

Monitoring aggressive behavior is a primary concern of Fairfax County when conducting the annual Youth Survey. While fewer than 5 percent of students report gang activity or carrying a weapon, a majority of students have experienced bullying from one side or the other.

According to the survey, 49.4 percent of students reported “bullying, taunting, ridiculing or teasing” someone in the past year. More than 8 percent said they did so 20 or more times.

THE SURVEY also shows that 56.2 percent of students reported being bullied, taunted, ridiculed or teased in the past year, and more than 10 percent more than 20 times.

“We’ve seen that over 40 percent of the students who say they have been bullied have themselves bullied someone,” said Mary Ann Panarelli, director of Fairfax County Public School’s Intervention and Prevention Services department. “So we’re not talking about a clear-cut case of ‘good guy-bad guy.’ It’s not a matter of punishing it out of the system, it’s a matter of enacting a culture change.”

Since the question is phrased to include “teasing,” which isn’t regarded as seriously as bullying, the county focuses more on the victims and perpetrators involved in more than 20 incidents per year.

The county currently conducts a variety of awareness programs, and is working on a system-wide bullying intervention and prevention group. Panarelli says much of the outreach is dedicated to the bystander, the person witnessing someone being bullied.

“We’ve found in talking to students that in the moment, there really isn’t a comfortable way to identify what is happening, and try and stop it,” Panarelli said. “But things like going up to the victim after, saying ‘I saw what happened, and don’t agree with it’ helps that victim from feeling isolated.”

With the emergence of social media, bullying hasn’t been limited to school hours. With access to fellow students’ profiles and information online, bullying can happen online too. Cyberbullying is defined by the survey as “bullying through email, chat rooms, instant messaging, websites or text messaging.”

Survey helps county create bullying outreach, cyber bullying prevention.

Almost one in seven, 14.1 percent, of students said they were cyberbullied over the last year, with 12.5 percent saying it was someone from their school. One third of students said they knew someone who has been “really hurt” by cyber bullying.

While cyber bullying most often stems from interactions at school, Fairfax County Public Schools has a limited authority over what happens off school grounds. But when it becomes harassment or worse, that’s where the Fairfax County Police become involved.

Overall, 54% of Fairfax County students reported being bullied (victim) and 43% reported bullying others (aggressor) in the past year.

High School in Ohio, or Columbine.

“We can’t be scouring everyone’s Facebook page to see what’s happening, we need the kids who are going through this to come to us,” Ferguson said. “Any enforcement is simply trying to put someone on notice, we’re not concerned with punishment as much as we are with changing the destructive behavior.”

More than 70 percent of students said they would report cyber bullying incidents if it could be done anonymously.

“It used to be you only had to worry about this happening at school, but now it follows people home on their computers.”

Ash Abbas,
Grade: 11, Marshall High School

“I think cyber bullying isn’t more damaging than regular bullying. Since it is online, I feel as if it is easier to ignore because it’s indirect unlike regular bullying.”

“Obviously, playing online games consists of a lot of cyber bullying. After playing many games, it just gets me irritated sometimes. But, most of the times I just ignore it.

Jennifer Oler,
Grade: 12, McLean High School

“I think it makes it a lot easier to ignore because you could delete the Facebook wall post for instance or delete your entire Facebook account for that matter. If someone came up to you and started bullying you in person, it is definitely a lot harder to not say anything but over the computer through any sort of social network or email or text message, you just don’t have to respond.”

Annie Wattenmaker,
Grade: 12, The Madeira School

“I’d say cyber bullying is more damaging because it can be done in sneaky and mean ways. When someone is cyber bullied, others can often see it online, which makes it way more harmful. If a bully confronts you directly, their words aren’t as planned out and they’re likely to say something less hurtful. With cyber bullying, kids have time to plan out what they’re going to say and plan a systematic way to hurt others. Also, cyber bullying can go viral. One post or video can be sent to thousands of people within a minute, unlike face-to-face confrontation, which only lasts for a certain amount of time.”

“No I haven’t experienced cyber bullying myself but I’ve watched girls say horrible things about other girls on Facebook.”

Kristen Bilowus,
Grade: 12, The Madeira School

“I think cyber bullying can be more dangerous because it is more public than in- person bullying. If it happens online, the whole world can access it and perpetuate the abuse. It is harder to ignore something that you are reading in front of you than something that you experience that you can block out of your mind.”

“I have not, but I have heard stories of how negatively it can affect kids. I would delete my social networking sites and move on from the incident if I were cyber bullied.”

Makenzie Parent,
Grade: 12, The Madeira School

“Cyber bullying is more damaging because its on display for a wider audience, can last for a longer time, and can take a lot more forms, such as online posts, photos, etc.”

A highly skilled group of junior golfers competed in the 36-hole International Junior Golf Tour (IJGT), the Clifton Classic, at Westfields Golf Club over the St. Patrick's Day weekend. This was the first Northeast event of the spring season and the fast greens made the Fred Couples designed course quite a test for the juniors.

SPORTS ROUNDUPS

In the Girls Division, Julie Luo of Herndon took home the trophy in her first IJGT event with a tournament total of 159, eight strokes better than her competition. Entering the final round four strokes back, Luo was able to hit almost every fairway, which led to rounds of 13-over-par 84 and four-over-par 75. Luo was able to card two birdies en route to her solid second round score.

Stephanie Bosdosh of Clarksburg, Md., and Adrienne Schmidt of McLean tied for second, both posting a tournament total of 167. Bosdosh, who had the first round lead with a nine-over-par 80 finished the tournament shooting an 87. Schmidt had similar success for the tournament with rounds of 86 and 81.

Rij Patel of Hunt Valley, Md., took home the Boys 14 and Under Division trophy with a tournament total of 154. Gus Minkin of York, Pa., took second in the Boys 14 and Under Division with a tournament total of 156, just two strokes back from Patel. Vishal Giri of Chantilly carded a tournament total of 157 to take third.

Hundreds of the best 11 and 12-year-old ice hockey players from across the country will descend upon Northern Virginia to compete in the USA Hockey 12 and Under Tier II National Championships, Wednesday, March 28 through Sunday, April 1, at the twin rink Ashburn Ice House and SkateQuest Reston facilities.

Two local squads – the Reston Raiders and Ashburn Xtreme – will be among the 38 teams, representing 36 different states, set to participate in the five-day tournament. Each team qualified for the national championships by having won their own respective league, state championships or qualifying tournaments.

While Ashburn received an automatic berth as the official host team, the Xtreme 99 Pee Wee squad is well deserving of the honor, having compiled a 23-1 mark during the 2011-12 Chesapeake Bay Hockey League (CBHL) regular season and playoffs, in-Herndon's Julie Luo, competing in her first International Junior Golf Tour event, took home the title on the women's side.

Week-long tournament passes cost $35 (ages 13 and older) or $25 (youngsters ages 5 to 12). Single day passes are $15 (ages 13 and older) and $7 (youngsters ages 5 to 12). The Dominion Speedskating Club, based out of Reston SkateQuest, recently competed at the US Speedskating Short Track Age Group National Championships, held at the Cornerstone Arena in Green Bay. Several Dominion skaters won awards and broke records.

The Dominion team is under the direction of co-coaches Jimmy Jang and Choi Kwang-Bok, who have trained world class Olympians and World Class champions.

One member of the team, Maame Biney of Reston, is a sixth grader at Terraset Elementary. In Green Bay, she won all of her races and was awarded the overall winner for her age group (Midget Ladies). She also broke a record in the 500 meters event. Another team member, Luca Lim of Annandale, broke several Pony Boys records. He smashed four National Pony age class records – in 222-meters (22.935), 333 (33.866), 500 (49.783) and 777 (1:19.251).

His twin sister, Siobhan Lim, won all her races and was a short track National Champion in Pony Ladies.

Over 240 skaters, from Alaska to Florida and points in between, traveled to Green Bay to close the season.

Herndon resident Ashley McMahon to Play Volleyball at NOVA. On March 16, Northern Virginia Community College (NOVA) women's volleyball coach Marcus Robinson inked the inaugural signing of four student athletes to letters of intent to play for one of the nation's newest intercollegiate athletic programs. The four high school signees represent NOVA's first-ever class as new members of the National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA). The signing event took place on the NOVA Annandale Campus.

"This is an excellent recruiting class coming in that will provide us some strong net play and gives us a very big presence," said

Robinson. "They are all pretty versatile and that will give us good opportunities to be flexible which will make us even more competitive."

Taylor Laksbergs (Alexandria) brings three years of varsity experience to NOVA out of Edison High School. As a freshman, she was selected the Most Valuable Player (MVP) of the junior varsity program. Laksbergs, a 5-foot-9 setter, earned a starting role with the Eagles as a sophomore and received the Edison program's 'Coaches Award' in both her sophomore and junior seasons. As a senior, she was also the starting setter and co-captain. She was named the team MVP and received second team National District awards. She was her volleyball club co-captain as well.

Ashley McMahon (Herndon) has been a two-year starter as a junior and senior on the Westfield High varsity team. As a co-captain, the 5-foot-8 outside hitter led her team to the Northern Regional tournament in 2011. She played in 140 matches with career stats of 120 kills, 18 aces, 175 digs and 31 solo blocks.

Chelsea Dudley (Millsboro, Va.) brings three years of varsity experience to the NOVA squad and a state championship. As a senior, she helped lead Bath County to the Virginia Group A, Div. I state title with a 26-4 record.

Moriah Ryans (Ashburn), a 5-foot-11 middle and outside hitter, competed on the XCVB volleyball club. She attended Briar Woods High School.

The All-Virginia State Girls' Basketball Team was named recently. Caroline Coyer, the Oakton High senior guard who helped the Cougars capture their first-ever state AAA title this past season, was named Co-Player of the Year, along with Woodside's Adrienne Motley. Katherine Coyer, meanwhile, was named to the Second Team, as was West Springfield High's Logan Battle. Katherine Coyer, twin sister of Caroline, was this year's Northern Region Tournament MVP. Two other Northern Region players made the All-State Team – Fairfax High's Liz McNaughton (Honorable Mention) and Edison High's Ruth Sherrill (Honorable Mention). In all, seven players made first team, five made second team, and eight made honorable mention.

Fairfax Adult Softball (FAS) honored its dedicated volunteers in ceremonies on Sunday, Feb. 26 as FAS President John Carney presented the Ron Bullock Volunteer of the Year award (for 2011) to Bill Sikes of Fairfax.

Sikes, who has served on the FAS Board of Directors for nearly 30 years, devotes countless hours to the promotion of the Men's Masters League (35-plus) in Fairfax County. His innovative ideas and passion for the development of the program are demonstrated in the annual improvements to FAS. Sikes continually displays his commitment to the program by his ongoing tenure as Masters League Coordinator, working on committees and also supporting the program on the field.

Sikes has played ball at every level of competition but to him only one aspect is most important.

"The camaraderie has always been the most significant reason I continue," said Sikes. "I have had the pleasure of playing with some truly remarkable people over the years."

He also participates in the Special Olympics softball league and has been doing so for 20 years.

"Playing in the Special Olympics league is one of the most rewarding experiences of my life," he said.

Fairfax Adult Softball, a non-profit organization, prides itself on the success of its program from the continued support of its volunteers. The Ron Bullock Volunteer of the Year award was created to recognize individuals who make a substantial commitment to volunteering and improving the FAS program. The award is given to those that demonstrate outstanding volunteer service over the course of 12 months.

To learn more about FAS, to enter a team into the program, or to become a volunteer, please visit the FAS website at www.fairfaxadultsoftball.com.

Peculiar Presence

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

In the last few months, out of the blue, I have received electronic correspondence from each of my three oldest childhood friends (none of whom have remained adulthood friends, though all three remain of interest to me) commenting on my cancer diagnosis; each having stumbled across one of my cancer columns online, presumably after initiating a Google-type search for yours truly. This reconnection with my past has empowered me, sort of, to deal with the present. Feeling there are people – in other cities and states, thinking positive, supportive and encouraging thoughts about me, maybe even sending prayers my way as well, is powerful stuff. The stuff of which dreams are made, and let me tell you, when you're terminal, you dream. The associated vibe I feel is somewhere between not being alone and anything is possible.

Not that any of the three were offering insights on fighting cancer or presuming certain familiarities which no longer exist; theirs was more a general inquiry about a specific set of circumstances (my cancer diagnosis), simply letting me know that they recently became aware of my situation and were thinking about me and wishing me well; a "random act of kindness," if you will. And as a cancer patient, I can assure you, any thoughts of kindness, random or otherwise, are much appreciated. Certainly I corresponded back and expressed my gratitude for their having reached out to me. It was great to reconnect; these three friends were my friends at the beginning: Bowen Elementary School. Given our current ages, we're talking 50 years ago, even before Little League. That's heavy; heck, that's historical.

But all three looking for me, and finding me, at the same time, seems more than just a coincidence. And it's not as if they have any independent contact with one another, because they don't. Nor are any of the three in touch/connected with my best friend, Cary, (who lives in Needham, Mass.) and who is my conduit of sorts for all my adolescent/pre-college friends and acquaintances, should any inquiries be made – which I welcome and are no problem for me, but that's not what happened here. What happened here happened on its own; in Barnstable, Mass., Greenwich, Conn. and Sharon, Mass., without any communication or contact between the interested parties.

The cumulative effect – on me, as a result of this "three-for" has been sobering, and I don't even drink. I don't want to get existential here, but when multiple unrelated influences all of a sudden intersect, and the intersection is you, (meaning me), it does give one pause: Why me? Why now? The answer is partially, I would guess, that my situation (my less than enviable health circumstances) is fairly serious (Duh!), maybe even grave. (Although that's more a play on words than how I actually feel). And somehow, the seriousness of my circumstances has been realized by this triumvirate of extremely important people – from my earliest days, who now have found me again, hopefully not at the end. It's difficult – for me, to not notice the symmetry here. Sure, there's a randomness to the universe, but there's also a part of me that believes things happen for a reason. Then again, maybe not.

Originally I was given a "13-month to two-year" prognosis and advised by my oncologist to consider taking that vacation I always dreamed of. Yet here I am, three-plus years later, alive and reasonably well (and still not having taken that vacation). I'm not cured by any means, but neither am I a distant memory. In fact, given these three most recent inquiries, I'm a fairly current memory, and for that, I am most appreciative. Thanks for all your kind thoughts. I need every one of them.
