Fairfax County Public Schools: Go Inside the Classroom with Teachers

Coming in April: Visual and Performing Arts

When was the last time you visited a classroom? You may remember the desks, the chalkboard, or even the heavy copy of the dictionary sitting on top of the bookshelf.

Today's classrooms are dynamic and interactive settings where students learn from teachers who use a wide variety of resources and tools in the classroom to engage and empower students. Whether they are creating unique lesson plans or

This Just In:

Michelle Henry, health specialist and physical education teacher at Liberty Middle School, has been named the National K-12 Health Teacher of the Year by the American Association for Health Education.

inviting professionals into the classroom to share their experience with students, teachers provide opportunities for students to be curious and stimulate thoughts and ideas.

Sometimes the art of teaching requires the use of unique methods to engage students. Jeff Lonnett, an art resource teacher at Mosby Woods Elementary School, is doing just that. Mosby Woods in Fairfax is one of 16 schools in the Washington, D.C., area that partners with the Kennedy Center for Performing Arts as part of its Changing Education Through the Arts (CETA) program.

Through CETA, Lonnett works with teachers throughout the school to help them develop knowledge and skills to integrate the arts into other subjects such as history, math, language arts, and science.

"Our sixth graders recently completed a unit on the Revolutionary War and were asked to design propaganda posters promoting a real political position of the Revolutionary War," explained Lonnett.

"Art highlights the importance of learning at every opportunity," said Lonnett. "You can probably get through life without being an artist, but art teaches storytelling, problem solving, and creative thinking that you need for so many other things in life."

Teaching students the skills they need to lead responsible, fulfilling, and respectful lives is one student achievement goal in Fairfax County Public Schools. Tom Harlow works with more than 50 physically disabled students from around the county to help them develop the resilience and self-confidence required to deal effectively with life's challenges. He's the adapted physical education teacher at Falls Church High School.

Harlow started a program to bring general education students into the adapted PE classes to work with his students. It is called the Peer Teaching Program.

"At the beginning of the year, I have my students introduce themselves in front of the whole class and talk about what they can do," said Harlow. "Self-advocacy is an important skill and it makes them more confident."

The peer teachers get to know the other students helping by them participate in activities such as fishing, kite flying, in-line skating, archery, and much more.

"It's a win-win situation," said Harlow. "The students who serve as peer teachers come in to help, but by the time the class is finished, they have learned a lot about each other, especially about the ability of the other students. The physically disabled students enjoy working with their peers and have a lot of fun."

Every year, more and more students ask to be a part of the Peer Teaching Program.

"The Peer Teaching Program helps knock down walls that should never be there," said Harlow.

Knocking down walls on the other side of the county is Linda Martin, a resource teacher for the advanced academic program at Dogwood Elementary School in Reston. She is passionate about fostering interest in science, technology, engineering, and mathematics (STEM).

"Children are naturally curious and should be given simulated opportunities to innovate, create, and resolve unique problems," said Martin. "That's what we try to do through our clubs, camp, and classes."

Martin sponsors the Girls Excelling in Math and Science (GEMS) club at Dogwood and organizes the GEMS conferences annually.

"I believe very strongly in bringing professionals into the classroom to give us authentic experiences. Our students need to meet people in the field who are doing these things now. Suddenly their work is elevated. It has purpose, relevance, and there is a vision that starts to take shape in their minds."

"I never forget that this is their childhood and I am their teacher and I am creating indelible memories for them. I don't want them to just learn and remember things. I want their learning to be unforgettable."

Getting To Know Us

School-Based Technology Specialist Patrick Ledesma

"These are exciting times to be a teacher," says Patrick Ledesma, school-based technology specialist and special education department chair at Holmes Middle School in Alexandria.

"The greatest fulfillment as a teacher is helping students learn. The wide availability of technology tools today, when combined with effective teaching practices, provides almost unlimited ways to inspire students."

Whether students use mobile computing devices such as netbooks, tablets, and iPads in the classroom or teachers use interactive whiteboards and classroom response systems, Ledesma says it will be the technology advances promoting more equitable student access to technology, rather than a specific brand or device, that will allow us to "inspire, enable, and empower all students to meet high academic standards, lead ethical lives, and demonstrate responsible citizenship," which are FCPS student achievement goals.

Ledesma says it is critical for students to be able to use technology to prepare for careers.

"Technology is seamlessly integrated into many job procedures and responsibilities today. Walk around any workplace or office, technology is evident somewhere in the background. To prepare students to use technology, we must continue to give students as many opportunities as possible to use technology in the learning process," he said.

"More importantly, we must focus on empowering students to be successful in applying higher level thinking skills. The more students are successful in activities that promote these skills, the more prepared they will be to use any technology available to them in the future."

Did You Know?

More than 10,000 (70 percent) of FCPS teachers have master's degrees and more than 370 FCPS teachers are certified by the National Board of Professional Teaching Standards, the highest credential a teacher can earn.

Students Engaged Through Technology

It may sound like something from a James Bond movie, but the Smart Pen is a teaching tool that is helping students of all ages.

The Smart Pen contains a computer that can capture handwriting and simultaneously record audio. The user taps a specially made sticker placed in a Smart Pen notebook to record the writing and audio.

"My students are extremely excited and motivated when they use the Smart Pen," said Courtney Taylor, a kindergarten teacher at Parklawn Elementary School.

Taylor has multiple uses for the Smart Pen in her classroom.

"Recently each student wrote a report about polar animals and recorded themselves reading what they wrote," said Taylor. "Now any student can pick up the reports, use a Smart Pen to tap on the special dot in the notebook and listen to their classmates read their reports. It is a technology that fosters independence and engagement."

Taylor also records herself reading stories so her students can use free time to listen to a story on the Smart Pen and follow along in the book.

"The pens are very user friendly and my students love using them. They are even generating their own ideas on how we can use them!"

Honoring the Past, Empowering the Future

Group reenacts Silent Sentinel protest during Women's History Month.

BY VICTORIA ROSS
THE CONNECTION

Nearly 100 years ago, a group of women stood in front of The White House and launched a revolution without guns or bloodshed.

Instead of throwing bricks, the protesters threw words at a newly-elected President Woodrow Wilson. The women stood silently for months, carrying signs that read: "Mr. President, what will you do for Woman Suffrage? How Long Must Women Wait for Liberty?"

After months of escalating tension – and after 200 suffragists were jailed, beaten and force-fed at the Occoquan Workhouse – Congress passed the 19th Amendment on August 18, 1920, which gave women the right to vote.

The Commonwealth of Virginia was one of 12 states that initially rejected the amendment, subsequently ratifying it on Feb. 21, 1952, 33 years after the amendment became part of The U.S. Constitution.

DRAPED IN PURPLE, white and gold banners, and wearing period clothing, 10 members of the Turning Point Suffragist Memorial Association reenacted the Silent Sentinel protest on Wednesday, March 21.

"We want to keep history alive so that future generations know that women have done this, have been there," said Jane Barker, board chair of the TPSM Association, an all-volunteer non-partisan group dedicated to honoring the lives of the suffragists and establishing a memorial in their honor at Occoquan Park.

"With March being Women's History Month, we wanted to let people know about this important, but little-known, peaceful picketing of the President Woodrow Wilson White House - the first of its kind. They were brave women," Barker said.

The silent reenactors drew several curious tourists, including women's author Penny Colman, who recently published the book Elizabeth Cady Stanton & Susan B. Anthony: A Friendship that Changed the World.

"This is pretty cool. I was speaking at a conference, and I saw this email and thought I have to stop by here," Colman said. "This history is profoundly liberating for women. It challenges status quo."

After spending nearly two hours in front of The White House, and handing out educational leaflets to tourists, the group marched to Capitol Hill to urge lawmakers to support construction of the memorial.

The Turning Point Suffragist Memorial Association is currently fundraising for the creation of a $7 to $9 million memorial at Occoquan Regional Park in Lorton. The group is working with the Northern Virginia Regional Park Authority to see the memorial built before 2020, the 100th anniversary of the ratification of the 19th Amendment.

Architect Robert Beach said the memorial will be located directly across from the former Occoquan workhouse.

Some of the design features for the Turning Point Suffragist Memorial include:

- ❖ A memorial wall with 120 plaques for the women incarcerated for the cause, a waterfall and a copy of the "jailed for freedom" pin that Alice Paul gave to the women.

- ❖ Entrance plaza gates duplicating the White House gates where suffragists stood as "silent sentinels" in protest.

- ❖ Commemorative banners at the entrance, replicating those carried by the suffragists.

- ❖ A footbridge into a memorial garden symbolizing the advancement of the movement.

"At a time when the percentage of eligible voters casting a ballot continues to fall, it is important to reflect on how and why women were so long denied the right to vote," said Nancy Sargeant, the media and marketing chair of the TPSM committee. "It's also important to 'remember the ladies,' as Abigail Adams once said, who endured so much to win the right to vote."

Reenactors of the Silent Sentinel protest accompanied members of the Turning Point Suffragist Memorial Association to Capitol Hill after staging a reenactment of the historic protest in front of The White House on Wednesday, March 21. The reenactment, held during Women's History Month, commemorates passage of the 19th amendment giving women the right to vote.

"This whole story of women's contribution to history is mostly invisible," said John Houser, manager of Occoquan Park, and liaison to the TPSM association.

"Just look at all the monuments to men in this area, but try to find monuments to women," Houser said. "The suffragists are American heroes, not just heroes for women, and they have not been recognized adequately in our history books or our monuments. We're changing that."

THE NEXT FUNDRAISING EVENT will be Wednesday, May 20 from 7-10 p.m. at Meadowlark Botanical Gardens in Vienna. For more information about the event and the Turning Point Suffragist Memorial Association, go to www.suffragistmemorial.org.

Interrupting Harassment and Bullying

Empowering bystanders to intervene, students to set boundaries.

With a controversial and much discussed new movie, "Bully," coming out this week, local school districts continue to wrestle with the issue of bullying in the schools.

And while school officials are still looking at "cyber-bullying" as novel and separate phenomena, it's fair to say that for students, there is little distinction between the teasing, harassment and worse that happens on school grounds and the school bus and the nastiness, rumors and character assassination that takes place online. The combined effect, including the graphic, lasting, visceral attacks that are possible online, can make school literally unbearable for some, and more than unpleasant for others.

As adults, we can only be thankful that we escaped this environment before the advent of cell phone cameras and videos, instant posting to websites and other technological "advances." (I have long believed that middle school, by its very existence, is unconstitutionally cruel and unusual punishment.)

Fairfax County undertakes an annual survey of all students in grades 8, 10 and 12 that gives insight into the lives of teens.

More than 30 percent of Fairfax County students recently surveyed reported being depressed in the past year.

This is probably not unrelated to the fact that 56 percent of students surveyed reported being bullied while 43 percent admitted to bullying others. This is consistent with findings from other areas, with 8th grade as a bullying "hot-spot." In Fairfax County, 62 percent of 8th graders said they had been bullied and 55 percent admitted to bullying others. Of course there is some overlap in the two groups.

"We've seen that over 40 percent of the students who say they have been bullied have themselves bullied someone," Mary Ann Panarelli, director of Fairfax County Public School's Intervention and Prevention Services department told Connection reporter Alex McVeigh. "It's not a matter of punishing it out of the system, it's a matter of enacting a culture change."

In seeking that culture change, much of the outreach is dedicated to the bystander, the person witnessing someone being bullied, and their ability to make the bullying behavior less acceptable.

Students who witness bullying can say to the perpetrator: "Why would you say something like that? Why would you do that?"

Panarelli added: "Things like going up to the victim after, saying 'I saw what happened, and don't agree with it,' helps that victim from feeling isolated."

It's the sort of lesson that can start very young. We can learn to say: "This is not right," even in the face of fierce peer pressure. This ability to set boundaries which can begin in preschool will serve our children well later in life when they are resisting being a passenger in a car driven by someone who has been drinking or refusing to participate in rumors and ostracizing.

This starts with learning empathy, to care for animals, people and things who vulnerable and face challenges.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

It's Discrimination and It's Wrong

To the Editor:

The League of Women Voters was born more than 90 years ago from the long fight to get women the right to vote. Since 1992, when League members studied health care policy, we have worked to ensure access to quality health care for all. The League also has a strong commitment and belief that public policy in a diverse society must affirm the right of all individuals to make their own reproductive choices.

That's why the League is so deeply concerned about recent proposals that would allow employers and health plans to block contraceptive services and discriminate against women.

By a narrow margin, the U.S. Senate recently defeated an amendment that would limit access to contraception for women if any employer or insurance plan has an undefined "religious or moral objection" to it. A couple's decision about whether and how to limit the size of their family is a personal one and theirs alone to make. Giving employers the authority to limit available options is an inappropriate intrusion into the private lives of their employees.

We understand that not everyone agrees with the League on this subject. But we strongly believe that public institutions, including schools and hospitals that receive substantial federal assistance, should not limit the health care choices available to their employees. While no organization should be forced to violate its religious principles, institutions that serve the public at large should show the same respect for their employees' differing beliefs that they demand the community show for their own principles.

The League of Women Voters believes that all persons, regardless of gender, should be eligible for preventive health services. Allowing employers to exclude contraceptive services is discrimination based on sex, and it's wrong.

"Gov. Bob McDonnell should read the handwriting on the wall..." [Reference: "Veto Voter ID Bill," Opinion Section, Connection Newspaper, March 15-21, 2012]. There is no "handwriting on the wall," unless you mean Attorney General Eric Holder's ignoring of and interference with states' rights on everything from attempting to enforce federal immigration laws which the federal government is not enforcing (Arizona and Georgia) or attempting to ensure the validity of the vote through voter ID bills (South Carolina and most recently Texas) which are anathema to liberals in general and Democrats in particular. While Democrats have long claimed Republicans try to suppress the vote, it's also a longstanding contention that Democrats want illegal immigrants, certain ethnic minorities, dead people and cartoon characters to vote, of which, in fact, there was evidence in the 2008 election.

Despite however many registered voters in Texas (or Virginia) do not have the identification that the voter ID law would require, it is a liberal fiction to say such laws put an unbearable burden on voters, most of whom already have to show photo IDs to receive food stamps, apply for unemployment, buy alcohol or tobacco products, fly on an airline, make any major purchases (from cars to washing machines), and do countless other things, and especially when the proposed state law provides such photo IDs for free and in some cases even provides transportation to and from obtaining such IDs. Where is the burden? Where is the alleged suppression? Statistics have also shown that photo IDs actually open up the voting process and make it fairer for all (Georgia).

The majority of states, thirty-one, already have voter ID laws of one kind or another, and the handwriting that's really on the wall is that President Obama's attorney general is just trying to do his part to ensure his own job by ensuring Obama's reelection in 2012.

Ensuring Integrity Of the Process

To the Editor:

One needs a birth certificate to play youth soccer and an i.d. presented for many trivial circumstances. Voting for public representation is far too important to treat with less gravitas than youth soccer [Editorial, "Reenacting a Dark History?," The Connection, March 7-13, 2012]. There is a responsibility to ensure the integrity of the process as there is a responsibility to exercise one's voting privilege, among others.

Why is the Connection such a liberal rag?

Senior gardeners prepare green thumbs for National Garden Month.

Gardeners at Greenspring retirement community in Springfield are ready for spring. The community's two tool sheds are organized, the garden plots are tilled with fresh dirt, and Greenspring's 99 gardeners have their green thumbs ready for gardening season. "We have 116 garden plots that are maintained and nurtured by garden club members," said George Tateosian, chairman of The Tillagers, the garden club at Greenspring. "You can always find people out here when the weather is nice, sharing tips and ideas on their gardens."

According to the National Gardening Association, which celebrates National Garden Month in April, research indicates that gardening has significant health benefits: "Attitudes toward health and nutrition improve, and community spirit grows."

Greenspring's gardening spirit has grown from 10 plots in 1998 to 116 plots today.

"Gardening was my salvation. My husband died soon after we got here 10 years ago, and I don't know what I would have done without my garden," said

Many gardens at Greenspring feature angels and other garden ornaments and statues, like the lady and swan, and the whimsical frog.

Moot said she thought she would have to give up gardening when she and her husband moved from their home in North Carolina to Greenspring. "I didn't want to give up my piece of earth," Moot said, "but I still have it here, and I love growing veggies, like Kale and Swiss Chard, and my tulips are really doing well."

"During gardening season, you can find the majority of the 99 current gardeners at the community maintaining their gardens nearly every day," said Jessica McKay, Greenspring's public affairs director. "They are able to easily find and use supplies like gardening tools and fertilizer in two garden houses located near the plots."

McKay said groundskeeper John St. Louis, who has been at the community since 1999, helps with maintenance by rototilling, digging, and planting when needed. Recently, he installed an automatic irrigation system for those resident gardeners who travel frequently or cannot water every day.

Tateosian said he held the gardening club's first meeting of the season last week to prepare for the gardening season ahead. He reminded club members that there are always garden plots available for any resident who wants to continue cultivating their interest or who may want to start a new hobby.

While many of the gardens contain flowers and bushes, most also have vegetables. "Everybody grows tomatoes. In the summer, I eat tomatoes every day," Tateosian said.

"We all feed our neighbors," Moot said. "It's a lot of fun in the summer when everyone is out here every day."

Area high school students discuss cyber bullying.

VIEWPOINTS

The Connection high school interns – Nikki Cheshire (Langley High), Monika Bapna (Marshall High) and Mary Grace Oakes (Madeira) – asked area high school students:
 ♦ Do you think cyber bullying is more damaging than regular bullying? Does the fact that it's online make it more hurtful or easier to ignore?
 ♦ Have you or your friends experienced cyber bullying? What was it and what was your response?

Anna Fahlberg, Grade: 12, Langley High School

"You can't erase cyber bullying, and it's more hurtful because you see it over and over again. It's easy to ignore if it's a private message, but it becomes worse than regular bullying if it's posted for the whole world to see."

"I've definitely seen people posting sly statuses on Facebook that are clearly directed at certain people. It's definitely not acceptable, but I ... scrolled past it."

Cody Jones, Grade: 11, Langley High School

"Cyber bullying is worse, because you can say meaner things. It's easier to say something rude online than face-to-face. It's harder to ignore since it's much easier to access."

"There were a few cases I heard about, kids making fun of each other and ganging up on groups of five or more kids. I was never involved in any of it, though."

Thomas Blazon, Grade: 10, Langley High School

"Cyber bullying is on the Internet, so everyone can see that. Physical bullying can be kept secret. It's more cowardly to cyber bully, and it's emotionally more hurtful since it's hard to know where to get help for it."

"This guy started cussing at me online a few years ago, but I just unfriended and blocked him."

Ian Lagoe, Grade: 9, Langley High School

"Cyber bullying can be more hurtful since it's so easy to see. Everyone can see Facebook posts, which makes it worse than regular bullying."

"I haven't seen any cyber bullying, but I've heard of it happening."

— NIKKI CHESHIRE

Michael Orndoff, Grade: 11, Marshall High School

"I think that the fact that it's online makes it easier to ignore. With cyber bullying, it's easy to simply block or ignore what someone keeps telling you. But when someone bullies you in person, you actually know them, which makes it hurt more. You can stop someone from sending texts or posting on your wall on Facebook, but you can't stop someone from talking."

"I've never personally experienced cyber bullying, and I don't know anyone that's experienced it either. Bullying someone in person seems to be more common than cyber bullying."

Kevin Lam, Grade: 11, Marshall High School

"I think cyber bullying is more damaging than regular bullying by a lot. The Internet is a big place that's filled with lots of people you may not know. That element of being "unknown" makes it easier for people to be bullied and be the bully. In a cyber bully's mind, in my opinion, by being unknown on the Internet would allow a cyber bully no restrictions on what the bully would have to say. As for being more hurtful or easier to ignore, it really depends on the means of receiving the cyber bullying."

"Yes, my friends and I have definitely experienced cyber bullying, typically though it would really fall under the title of flame wars, which are basically comment wars between people on a topic. Usually I tend to ignore the whole situation once I feel no need to be part of it or if I don't see an out to it."

County Takes Aim at Bullying

BY ALEX McVEIGH
 THE CONNECTION
 SECOND IN A THREE PART SERIES.

Monitoring aggressive behavior is a primary concern of Fairfax County when conducting the annual Youth Survey. While fewer than 5 percent of students report gang activity or carrying a weapon, a majority of students have experienced bullying from one side or the other. According to the survey, 49.4 percent of students reported "bullying, taunting, ridiculing or teasing" someone in the past year. More than 8 percent said they did so 20 or more times.

THE SURVEY also shows that 56.2 percent of students reported being bullied, taunted, ridiculed or teased in the past year, and more than 10 percent more than 20 times.

"We've seen that over 40 percent of the students who say they have been bullied have themselves bullied someone," said Mary Ann Panarelli, director of Fairfax County Public School's Intervention and Prevention Services department. "So we're not talking about a clear-cut case of 'good guy-bad guy.' It's not a matter of punishing it out of the system, it's a matter of enacting a culture change."

Since the question is phrased to include "teasing," which isn't regarded as seriously as bullying, the county focuses more on the victims and perpetrators involved in more than 20 incidents per year.

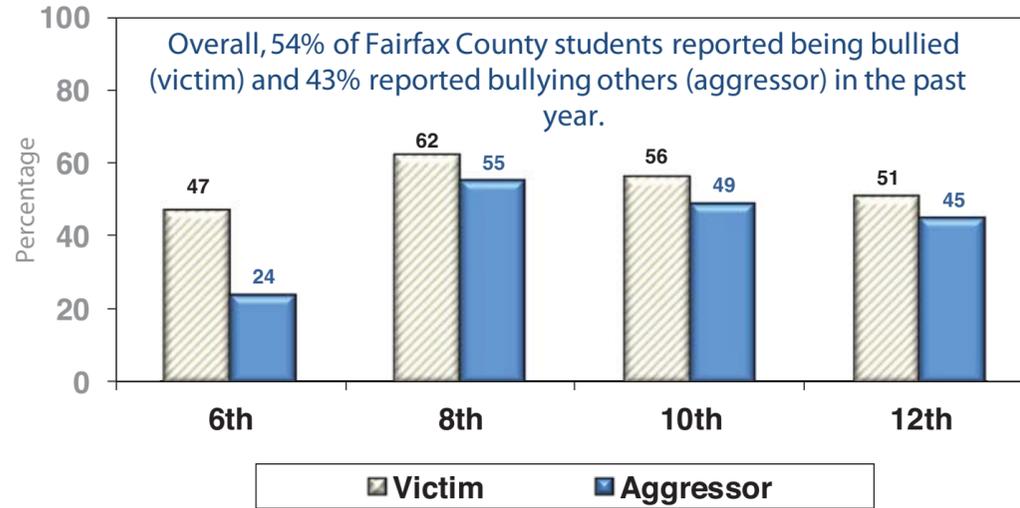

The county currently conducts a variety of awareness programs, and is working on a system-wide bullying intervention and prevention group. Panarelli says much of the outreach is dedicated to the bystander, the person witnessing someone being bullied.

"We've found in talking to students that in the moment, there really isn't a comfortable way to identify what is happening, and try and stop it," Panarelli said. "But things like going up to the victim after, saying 'I saw what happened, and don't agree with it' helps that victim from feeling isolated."

With the emergence of social media, bullying hasn't been limited to school hours. With access to fellow students' profiles and information online, bullying can happen online too. Cyberbullying is defined by the survey as "bullying through email, chat rooms, instant messaging, websites or text messaging." Almost one in seven, 14.1 percent, of students said they were cyberbullied over the last year, with 12.5 percent saying it was someone from their school. One third of students said they knew someone who has been "really hurt" by cyber bullying.

While cyber bullying most often stems from interactions at school, Fairfax County Public Schools has a limited authority over what happens off school grounds. But when it becomes harassment or worse, that's where the Fairfax County Police become involved.

High School in Ohio, or Columbine.

"We can't be scouring everyone's Facebook page to see what's happening, we need the kids who are going through this to come to us," Ferguson said. "Any enforcement is simply trying to put someone on notice, we're not concerned with punishment as much as we are with changing the destructive behavior."

More than 70 percent of students said they would report cyber bullying incidents if it could be done anonymously.

"It used to be you only had to worry about this happening at school, but now it follows people home on their computers."

— Capt. Bruce Ferguson

VIEWPOINTS

Ash Abbas, Grade: 11, Marshall High School

"I think cyber bullying isn't more damaging than regular bullying. Since it is online, I feel as if it is easier to ignore because it's indirect unlike regular bullying."

"Obviously, playing online games consists of a lot of cyber bullying. After playing many games, it just gets me irritated sometimes. But, most of the times I just ignore it."

— MONIKA BAPNA

Jennifer Oler, Grade: 12, McLean High School

"I think it makes it a lot easier to ignore because you could delete the Facebook wall post for instance or delete your entire Facebook account for that matter. If someone came up to you and started bullying you in person, it is definitely a lot harder to not say anything but over the computer through any sort of social network or email or text message, you just don't have to respond."

Annie Wattenmaker, Grade: 12, The Madeira School

"I'd say cyber bullying is more damaging because it can be done in sneaky and mean ways. When someone is cyber bullied, others can often see it online, which makes it way more harmful. If a bully confronts you directly, their words aren't as planned out and they're likely to say something less hurtful. With cyber bullying, kids have time to plan out what they're going to say and plan a systematic way to hurt others. Also, cyber bullying can go viral. One post or video can be sent to thousands of people within a minute, unlike face-to-face confrontation, which only lasts for a certain amount of time."

"No I haven't experienced cyber bullying myself but I've watched girls say horrible things about other girls on Facebook."

Kristen Bilowus, Grade: 12, The Madeira School

"I think cyber bullying can be more dangerous because it is more public than in-person bullying. If it happens online, the whole world can access it and perpetuate the abuse. It is harder to ignore something that you are reading in front of you than something that you experience that you can block out of your mind."

"I have not, but I have heard stories of how negatively it can affect kids. I would delete my social networking sites and move on from the incident if I were cyber bullied."

Makenzie Parent, Grade: 12, The Madeira School

"Cyber bullying is more damaging because its on display for a wider audience, can last for a longer time, and can take a lot more forms, such as online posts, photos, etc."

Snow, Gaudian Lead Bruins Past T.C. Williams

Lake Braddock girls' lacrosse responds to loss with pair of victories.

BY JON ROETMAN

Lake Braddock sophomore midfielder Allie Snow scored less than 30 seconds into Tuesday's girls' lacrosse match-up against T.C. Williams. Moments later, Snow controlled the draw, scampered down the field and scored again. Fellow 10th-grade middle Kristen Gaudian then made it three goals in the opening minute and the Bruins were off to the races.

In less than 15 minutes, Lake Braddock built a 10-0 lead and cruised to a 15-6 victory on its home field during the Bruins' Patriot District opener on March 26. Snow finished with a team-high four goals, all in the first half, while Lake Braddock built a 13-2 halftime advantage. The Bruins took their foot off the accelerator in the second half, opting to pass the ball around the perimeter.

"I think we've been working together well," Snow said, "and we've been able to win the draws."

Draw control helped get Lake Braddock on track as Snow's effort lifted the Bruins to an early lead that was never challenged.

"I saw it was open," Snow said, "so I took it and scored."

5-0 lead and her final goal extended the margin to 9-0.

"She's one of those players that are really talented," Lake Braddock head coach Victor Chen said. "I can't say enough good things about her. The maturation phase in terms of being a lacrosse player has increased tenfold from last season. She's one of those types of players, she's an impact player. She's a utility player for us; she knows that she can really dictate the tempo of a game and anything else for us. She's an integral part of the offense and defense."

Gaudian scored three goals, her third giving Lake Braddock an 8-0 advantage.

"She knows how to attack the goal and play close quarters to the goal, so that helps a lot," Chen said. "She has really good field sense and real good high lacrosse IQ."

Lake Braddock opened the season with a 20-8 loss to Oakton, last year's state runner-up, on March 16. The Bruins responded with a 16-10 victory against rival Robinson on March 24 and Tuesday's win against T.C. Williams. The victory against Robinson is believed to be the Bruins' first in more than a decade.

"We learned a lot from playing Oakton first," Chen said. "We knew we had to limit our turnovers. That was our game plan all along. I knew if we limited our turnovers we would be able to pull it together. ... We did that and we were able to excel and execute against Robinson, which was a great win for us. That was a telling game for this team."

Junior midfielder Taylor Livick scored three goals against T.C. Williams. Sophomore attacker Grace Youn finished with two goals, and junior attacker Alexis Torres, junior midfielder Rachel Wimer and senior defender Sarah Price each added one.

"We worked the ball around a lot when we got down [on the offensive end]," Gaudian said, "and we did well on transitions."

Chen also referenced junior goalkeeper Alyssa Harrison and Livick as standout performers.

The Bruins will compete in the Cape Henry Girls' Lacrosse Spring Invitational on March 30-31. Lake Braddock will return to district action on April 11 at Annandale.

SPORTS ROUNDUPS

The Lee High boys' soccer team (1-2-1), under head coach John Millward, was able to hold off a late charge by the Oakton Cougars to win 1-0 in Lee's home opener this past Tuesday night, March 27. After a quick re-start, and some quick midfield play, Luis Aguilar, a senior forward, found senior midfielder Jamie Ahmed, who took a one-touch into space then placed a 36-yard shot into the upper net with 12 minutes left. Lancer junior goalie Douglas Gutierrez had his first shutout of the season and tallied eight saves in the net. The Lancers' next home game will be after the spring break when they take on visiting Patriot District opponent Lake Braddock on Tuesday night, April 10 at 7.

The Springfield Youth Club (SYC) Pride United under-14 girls' soccer team was crowned champion of the Classic Level at the Baltimore Mania Tournament, which took place March 24-25 in Jarrettsville, Md.

Coached by Stu Pierson, United was able to battle back after a loss in their first game - notching a shut-out win in their second game, a 1-0 shootout victory in a semifinals match, and then a 2-1 finals triumph in the championship game.

A month earlier, the Pride United had also captured the championship of the Elite Level during the Richmond Kickers Ultimate Cup Tournament, held Feb. 24-26.

The team is looking forward to a successful WAGS season in Div. 3, beginning this weekend. More information on Pride United can be found on the team website at <http://sycprideunited.teamopolis.com/members/default.aspx>.

Springfield Storm White followed up its recent Arlington Invitational Spring Soccer Tournament win with their biggest championship victory yet as they garnered the coveted gold medal in the girls' under-12 Championship Division (eight versus eight) of the Jefferson Cup, held March 17 and 18 in Richmond. ments in the country, attracting teams from approximately 35 states and receiving more than 1,400 applications to play.

Over the weekend of March 10-11, Storm White won the highly competitive Arlington Invitational Spring Soccer Tournament (11 versus 11). And last week, the locals took the title at the Jefferson Cup.

"We are very proud of our Storm players, who showed both great skill and joy in their first full-sided matches (Arlington) and in their first Jefferson Cup," said head coach Mark Heilbrun. "The kids simply love to step on the field and play, and these two tremendous tournaments are a reflection of that and also provide a great foundation for Storm White."

Storm White, which receives additional professional training from Gayle Wilson, Curtis Wilson and Tony Howard, is generously sponsored by local businesses Kay Jennings Springfield Toyota; Mannix Heating and Cooling; Peter K. Cocolis, Jr., DMD, Family and Cosmetic Dentistry; Elhady Orthodontics; and Glory Days Grill. Storm White is a part of the Springfield/South County Youth Club and competes within the Washington Area Girls Soccer League (WAGS).
