Alarm Over Shelters' Fire Code

Fairfax County officials respond to concerns about fire code violations at local shelters.

BY VICTORIA ROSS

Spring fever hit the region early this year. Last week's record-high temperatures had residents flocking outdoors to play, bike, jog and picnic.

With the promise of more summery weather this weekend, it may seem like an odd time to be concerned about freezing temperatures and hypothermia.

But on Friday, April 13, Fairfax County's Board of Supervisors Chairman Sharon Bulova (D-At-large) sent an email to leaders in the faith community inviting them to a hypothermia prevention information session on Sunday, April 22.

According to county officials, the session is an attempt to quell concerns and rumors raised by some church leaders that the County's Fire Marshal will shut down their hypothermia programs next winter because of fire code violations.

On Tuesday, county officials stressed their longstanding support of Fairfax County's Hypothermia Prevention Program, and promised to work with each house of worship to address concerns about code violations.

"I have been working with County staff to make sure safety concerns that arose during this program year are addressed before the 2012-2013 program begins," Bulova said in the email announcing Sunday's session. "I am committed to finding solutions that do not put undue burden on houses of worship but still provide adequate safety for the vulnerable population that relies on the Hypothermia Program during the winter months."

On Monday, April 16, the Rev. Keary Kincannon of Rising Hope Mission Church in Alexandria sent out a press release stating the county will close 18 of 36 churches that host a hypothermia program. "Nine churches will not be allowed to bring the homeless in from the cold under any circumstances. An additional nine require extensive work to correct code violations that may cost hundreds of thousands of dollars," Kincannon said in the release.

Bulova said that currently four houses of worship may be affected by their inability to comply with fire codes, not 18.

"We'll find out at the meeting on the 22nd exactly what is being suggested and what kind of costs it would/could entail. The county's fire marshal is concerned that – even with the best of intentions – space where the homeless are sleeping shouldn't be a place where they are trapped and unable to exit in case of a fire," Bulova said.

More than 1,000 residents seek shelter through Fairfax County's Hypothermia Prevention Program each year. Last year, there were no hypothermia-related deaths reported during the season.

"The Hypothermia Program is unique," Bulova said. "It is a true partnership between the faith communi-

Fast Facts about Hypothermia Prevention Program

❖During the 2010-2011 winter season, approximately 1,025 residents sought shelter through Fairfax County's Hypothermia Prevention Program, in partnership with other agencies.

❖During the 2011-2012 winter season, partners opened their shelters to "no turn-away" status on Nov. 1, even if the weather was not at freezing temperatures.

❖FACETS' Hypothermia Prevention Season is Nov. 21 through March 17. FACETS served more than 219 clients last season.

❖Volunteers of America Chesapeake (VOA) Baileys Crossroad's Hypothermia Program served more than 442 clients last season and an additional 84 clients in their other winter seasonal programs for a total of 526 clients.

❖Reston Interfaith's Embury Rucker Community Shelter (ERCS) operates three separate winter programs. The ERCS Winter North County Program and winter seasonal programs served over 298 clients last season.

❖The Homeless Healthcare Program (HHP) has four nurse practitioners from the Fairfax County Health Department providing free flu shots during Hypothermia Prevention season.

ties in Fairfax County and county government."

She said that many of the county's churches, synagogues, mosques and temples take turns providing space to provide food and shelter for the homeless population during the winter months.

"County agencies such as the Community Services Board, the Police Department, and the Office to Prevent and End Homelessness partner to make the program successful," Bulova said.

"Our shared goal is to prevent deaths, and people who are homeless deserve both shelter from the elements and a safe place to stay. Fire and building codes don't discriminate, and they are intended to protect everyone," said county spokesman Merni Fitzgerald.

Supervisor John Cook (R-Braddock) said other localities, such as Richmond and Virginia Beach, have encountered the similar issues because the fire code is a state-wide set of regulations enacted by the General Assembly but enforced by local jurisdictions.

"The hypothermia program is one of the really good things we have in the county, both because it helps those in need and it's a great example of businesses, non-profits and the faith community working together," Cook said.

"We are deeply grateful to the faith community and nonprofits that partner with us in the fight against homelessness. They have given their own time, facilities and resources during the past seven years, preventing deaths from hypothermia, providing case management to hundreds of clients, and moving individuals into permanent housing," Fitzgerald said.

"The Hypothermia Program is unique. It is a true partnership between the faith communities in Fairfax County and county government."

Raising Money to Educate Children

Project LIFE 2K/5K is Sunday, April 22.

BY BONNIE HOBBS

Priya Khanna is still in high school, but she's the chairman and CEO of a nonprofit organization, The Hollow Trunk. Comprising students from Westfield, Chantilly, Fairfax and Thomas Jefferson high schools, plus Robinson Secondary, it raises money for worthy causes.

The Hollow Trunk is currently raising funds to educate poor children in India. So this Sunday, April 22, at 8 a.m., it's holding a 2K/5K Fun Run/Walk, outside the Cub Run Rec Center. Cost is $25 for the 5K; $20 for the 2K. Walkers are welcome in both events; registration information is at www.thehollowtrunk.com. Race-day registration begins at 7:45 a.m.

The USATF-certified course starts in the rec center's parking lot, goes down Stonecroft Boulevard, loops around Conference Center Drive and returns on Stonecroft to the start. The top three male and female finishers will receive gift cards donated by local merchants and restaurants. All participants will get commemorative T-shirts.

The Hollow Trunk was established in 2009 and, since then, has donated almost $2,000 to the Alzheimer's Association, more than $4,000 to the Red Cross' Haitian Relief Efforts, nearly $1,000 to INOVA Fairfax Children's Hospital and about $1,000 to CrisisLink, a suicide-prevention and awareness organization.

The Hollow Trunk is also helping educate a young girl in Afghanistan. "We selected her through an application process," said Khanna, a Westfield senior. "We bought her a laptop and are funding four years of online education for her."

In April 2011, The Hollow Trunk launched Project LIFE (Leading Initiatives to Foster Education) to help improve educational and recreational facilities for children throughout the world.

The first Project LIFE fundraiser was last year's 2K/5K, and it yielded more than $2,000 for the Casa Guatemala Orphanage for structural renovations and to furnish teaching and recreational supplies. This year's beneficiary will be the Social Outreach Foundation (SOF), a school that provides primary education for underprivileged children in India.

She's hoping lots of people register for the race or donate to The Hollow Trunk. "Our goal is to raise $5,000," said Khanna.

Those unable to participate, but wanting to contribute to the project, may make tax-deductible donations. Send checks payable to The Hollow Trunk to 5428 Chandley Farm Circle, Centreville, VA 20120.

Restoring Funding for Human Services

Residents, agencies testify to need for community services.

BY VICTORIA ROSS
THE CONNECTION

After three years of deep budget cuts and declining revenue, Fairfax County is showing signs of fiscal equilibrium as property values and revenues begin a slow uphill climb.

But human service agencies in the county are still feeling pinched by three years of cumulative cuts to their budgets, shrinking state and federal dollars, and increased demand on services.

More than 30 agencies and individuals showed up to testify during last week's public hearings on the proposed $6.7 billion fiscal year 2013 budget to deliver a unified message to the Board of Supervisors.

"The proposed cuts in human services funding are relatively small dollar amounts," said Frank Blechman, vice chair of the Fairfax County Alliance for Human Services (AHS), who testified before the board on Wednesday, April 11, "but the impact these cuts will have on programs and the vulnerable families and individuals who need them will be severe."

County Executive Anthony Griffin's proposed budget assumes no increase in current real property tax rates; however, the AHS - a non-partisan partnership that advocates for dozens of local public and private human service providers - urged board members to adopt the county's advertised tax rate 1-cent tax increase to $1.08 per $100 of assessed value, which would add nearly $20 million to the budget coffers.

To avoid raising tax rates, Griffin has proposed a 2013 budget with approximately $3 million in various human services cuts, including:

- ❖ Eliminating the Adult Dental Program (Savings: $50,000) - This program provides discounted basic dental care to low income adults. According to AHS, eliminating the program will result in 500 adults not receiving services. Instead, says AHS, they will have to seek care at the Northern Virginia Dental Clinic, which has a waiting list of six months to 4 years.

- ❖ Reduce home-based care funding (Savings: $300,000) - These services are provided to low-income adults to help them continue independent living in their own homes. In fiscal years 2010 and 2011, funding for this program was cut by a total of $1.7 million. To deal with that reduced funding, the County's Department of Family Services has tightened screening and services. According to AHS, the proposed fiscal year 2013 cut would lead to a waiting list for services.

- ❖ Decreased funding for Student Assistance Programs (Savings: $99,500) - These services, offered through the Community Services Board (CSB), provide year-round school-based alcohol and drug screening, assessment and early intervention. This reduction eliminates one position and, says AHS, will cause 81 youths to be shut out of the program.

"Funding human services is never easy," Blechman said, joking with supervisors that they could afford to demonstrate their "profiles in courage" during a non-election year by approving the county executive's advertised tax rate to fund "unmet human service needs."

"This is the year to turn the corner from survival mode to growth," Blechman said.

Several supervisors indicated their support of restoring funding to human service programs.

"These programs serve the homeless, the elderly, people suffering with drug and alcohol addictions, young and old residents with serious physical and mental disabilities, victims of domestic violence, and many other county residents who need help from their community," said supervisor John Foust (D-Dranesville).

"Because of their circumstances, many of these people live in poverty," Foust said, adding that Fairfax County has a number of active non-profits and faith-based groups providing services.

"But the sheer numbers of residents needing help means the county must play a large role in ensuring that needed services are provided," Foust said.

While Fairfax County's poverty rate is better than most — 5.08 percent in 2011^o — it still translates to nearly 63,000 people living below the poverty level, according to county officials.

The Alliance for Human Services provided board members with a list of budget recommendations regarding the proposed cuts as well as restoring certain other programs cut in prior years.

AHS acknowledged that Griffin's proposed budget does include some increases in several human services programs.

"We can't stress enough how important it

Recommended Funding Increases

Fairfax County Alliance for Human Services recommended funding increases in FY 2013 Budget include:

- ❖ Partners in Prevention Fund, which funds various organizations, including Safe Dates programs run by FACETS, The Lorton Community Action Center, United Community Ministries and Reston Interfaith - $400,000
- ❖ Additional funding for the Consolidated Community Funding Pool. During 2011, more than 119,000 people in 61,300 households was served - $448,534
- ❖ Restoring funding for Access Fairfax - $75,000
- ❖ Restoring funding for two Computer Learning Centers - $90,000
- ❖ Restoring funding for the Department of Family Services Rent Relief Program - $275,000
- ❖ Restoring funding for seven School Health Aide Substitutes - $110,997

Human Service Advocates testified before the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors during a public hearing on Wednesday, April 11, urging the board to increase funding for community programs that serve the homeless population and other vulnerable residents. From left, Kerri Wilson of Reston Interfaith; Gerald Poje of Reston Interfaith; Kathy Albarado, Governing Board of Office to Prevent and End Homelessness; Cheryl Simpkins of United Christian Ministries; Conrad Egan, Governing Board of Office to Prevent and End Homelessness; Michael O'Reilly, Governing Board Chair of Office to Prevent and End Homelessness; Amanda Andere of FACETS; Meredith Magwire of Habitat for Humanity and Judith Dittman of Alternative House.

is to approve the county executive's recommendations for increased human services funding. Anything less will further weaken the human services net that is already frayed," Blechman said.

- ❖ CSB's Infant and Toddler Connection: One of Griffin's recommended increases that generated emotional testimony was the $823,456 for the CSB Infant and Toddler Connection, which provides families screening and programs for children with possible developmental delays.

Lisa Arlt Escoto of Vienna brought her daughter Elena, 5, who has a neuro-genetic syndrome that causes severe global delays, seizures and drastically limits speech.

"I was shocked to learn that the (proposed budget) does not include increased funding for the Infant and Toddler Connection," Arlt Escoto said.

She said she and her husband were working in China for the U.S. Consulate when they discovered Elena was severely developmentally delayed and required immediate intervention therapy. So the couple returned to Fairfax County to get Elena the help she needed.

"I was already feeling overwhelmed and terrified by the discovery of Elena's disability, and being unable to find private therapists who didn't have a one or two-year wait list nearly drove me over the edge," she said.

When one of Elena's doctors referred her to the ITC, Arlt Escoto said it was a lifeline for her and her daughter. "They provided several therapy programs as well as a mom support group ... I am convinced that without ITC, Elena would not be nearly as functional as she is today." °

Supervisors Urged to Restore Funding

"I support a big chunk of those cuts being restored. Some are totally unacceptable, like ITC," said Supervisor Jeff McKay (D-Lee).

McKay said that the county's Infant and Toddler Connection touched his family in a profound and personal way. When his daughter Leann was 2 1/2, she stopped talking. At the time, she was attending the Bryant Early Learning (BEL) Center day care program in Alexandria, which referred her to the ITC. Through ITC, McKay's daughter received intense speech therapy for six months, and she completely regained her ability to speak. McKay said she is as chatty now as any four-year-old.

"It was one of those eye-opening moments when you appreciate that much more where you live. It's such a small budgetary item, and I'm glad most people never need these services," McKay said. "But it was a lifeline for us."

McKay said alarm bells went off when he learned that the ITC was going to stop admitting early intervention clients because of budget cuts, especially when referrals to the agency are up 38 percent in the past two years.

"When I saw it on the cut list, my jaw dropped ... I am more than appalled; I am outraged," McKay said. "Not only are these budget cuts abdication of our moral responsibility to our children but they are a poor financial decision."

Chairman Sharon Bulova (D-At-large) said individual testimony that demonstrates the value of the county's human services programs is always compelling.

"It absolutely matters when people are courageous enough to come before us to share their personal stories and experiences," Bulova said.

"It is also important for us to identify efficiencies and delivery methods that best leverage our county investments in human services programs and services," Bulova said.

"Ultimately, our job is to listen, care and weigh all of the options," said Supervisor Linda Smyth, (D-Providence). "We always end up with more requests than money. We're in a much better place than most of the country, but that doesn't mean people are not still hurting."

of all, it's like a treasure hunt and you never know what you'll find."

INSPECT YOUR GADGETS

Lyle Solla-Yates of Charlottesville manages our technology systems and suggests responsible recycling and purchasing of electronics: "Goodwill has partnered with Dell to recycle computer equipment, making them a good place to bring old equipment and to pick up used equipment that still works for a great price. When you do buy, choose greener electronics or consider a smaller device. You can do a lot more now with less machine, which can save money, hassle and the environment."

SOIL, IT'S GREEN

Brian van Eerden directs our Southern Rivers Program in Richmond and is an avid composter: "Composting helps the environment by reducing solid waste and the greenhouse gas emissions such as methane it produces in landfills. Compost is also a great low-cost source of organic fertilizer for your garden."

SUPPORT YOUR LOCAL SHARES

Jennifer Donovan, donor relations manager in Charlottesville, grows her own vegetables and buys from local farmers: "My family pays a fixed price per month to obtain a CSA share of organic vegetables, beef, chicken and fish. By purchasing food directly from local farmers, you are putting all the proceeds from the sale directly in their pockets. The food I buy locally also tastes much better. We really are what we eat, so eat healthy, local and fresh!"

MR. BEAN

Allegheny Highlands director Marek Smith of Lexington chooses coffee from shade-grown beans: "Growing coffee under the shade of trees in the Central and South American rainforests not only produces a richer flavor, but also helps protect critical wintering habitat for neotropical migratory songbirds such as scarlet tanagers and cerulean warblers. These same bird species nest here in the broadleaf forests of our Central Appalachians, including Warm Springs Mountain Preserve in western Virginia.

ENERGY AT THE GATES

By following recommendations from a comprehensive home energy audit, Charlottesville preserve steward Tim Sanjule reduced his energy use. "Energy usage of any kind has an impact on our environment. Heating and cooling a house that is not well-insulated or well-sealed will waste your money and precious resources."

MAN ON A HEDGE

Clinch Valley ecologist Braven Beaty of Abingdon says, "If you have a creek on your property, don't mow right up to the bank. Leaving a strip of taller plants and shrubs can help stabilize the bank and provide wildlife habitat. The root systems help keep banks from eroding during high water, and the shade and structure provide shelter and food for fish, birds, salamanders, and other wildlife that need cool, moist areas to live. Try it and see if you don't notice more critters."

LAWN & ORDER

For a lawn that's green in more than color, use less water and fertilizer, says Richmond's Michael Lipford, our Virginia executive director: "A significant amount of nitrogen is put back in the soil if you leave your clippings on the grass. Don't water every day, and don't fret if the grass goes dormant when the heat of summer comes. Using less fertilizer is good for the Chesapeake Bay. Nutrients are the main problem in the bay, and a significant portion comes from residential fertilizers. Use low-nitrogen and low-phosphate fertilizers, fertilize less, and wisely — not before a heavy rain. Many stores now supply low-nitrogen organic fertilizers that can also reduce your carbon footprint."

In celebration of Earth Day on April 22, I asked fellow Nature Conservancy staff from Maryland, D.C. and Virginia to offer their favorite ways of going green. Here are some responses that can help you save money, energy and maybe even the planet. To share your tips for living green every day, join us at facebook.com/dc.md.va.nature.conservancy.

HANG 'EM DRY

New mother Kristin Bramell, a fundraiser in Bethesda, prefers to air-dry her laundry: "Why not save energy by using a clothesline at least for your large items? I put up a clothesline in my backyard and love to hang my towels, sheets and t-shirts outside. It takes just five minutes, and there's nothing better than that fresh, natural smell. Now that the weather's nice, I'll probably start hanging up my cloth diapers too!"

THE THRIFTERS

Philanthropy Coordinator Karen Schuyler, who lived in Alexandria prior to settling in Barbourville, shops for clothes at thrift stores: "It's very green since the clothing is being used again, thus saving the energy costs in growing and harvesting plant-based fibers, as well as saving energy in the production and transport of new factory-made garments. Why Early Intervention Matters

By SUPERVISOR JEFF MCKAY
(D-LEE DISTRICT)

It's a parent's nightmare—one day—out of the blue, your princess, your first-born, your two-year-old daughter, loses her ability to speak. There's no identifiable reason and my wife and I were devastated.

This story has a happy ending because, fortunately, we live in Fairfax County. I hope that no one reading this ever needs one of our human services programs, but, should that happen, it's comforting to know that Fairfax County has a commitment to all of its residents, regardless of their abilities.

When this mutism struck, my daughter was referred to the Infant Toddler Connection (ITC) at the Fairfax-Falls Church Community Services Board.

I've worked for Fairfax County for more than 16 years but I had never heard of this organization. After months of therapy through the ITC, my daughter recovered her speech and is communicating fluently. In fact, like most four-year-olds, she never stops talking and I have a new appreciation for the voices of young children and for the ITC.

Not only did the ITC change my life, but it potentially saved the County a far more costly intervention later. Think about what intense speech therapy would have cost our school system and then compare that cost to the far smaller cost of early intervention.

Alarm bells went off when I heard that the ITC was going to stop admitting early intervention clients because of state budget cuts. As a parent, an elected official, and a taxpayer, I am appalled and more than appalled—I am outraged. Not only are these budget cuts abdication of our moral responsibility to our children but they are a poor financial decision.

Early intervention is the key to managing or healing developmental disabilities. It's penny-wise and pound-foolish to abolish programs for children, and then a few years down the road, pay a much larger bill for critical services for them when they are older.

As an elected official, I'm in the unique position of hearing about the many excellent services we provide at the local level. As a parent who has used those services, I am profoundly grateful to our taxpayers and their support.

I'm not blind to the financial constraints of the Great Recession and its impact on our state and local budgets, as well as individuals' budgets. However, cutting preventative programs makes no financial sense. That's like investing in a new car, not making routine repairs, and wondering why a more costly bill for an overhaul has come due.

Virginia has shortchanged our human service needs for a long time and Fairfax County has stepped into the gap and shouldered the costs of providing these services for our residents. Now we need to step up again.

My wife and I may never know why our daughter went mute. We do know, however, that every time our daughter speaks we thank our lucky stars that we can call Fairfax County home. I aim to keep it that way—for all our residents and all our children.

PARADE OF HOMES REMODELED HOME TOUR IN FAIRFAX!

SATURDAY AND SUNDAY, APRIL 28TH & 29TH - 11AM TO 5PM

Location: 4724 Holly Avenue, Fairfax, VA 22030

This REGIONAL GRAND COTY AWARD-WINNING renovation by Sun Design Remodeling was transformed from a 1960's, 2-level split foyer, into a traditional, country-style, 3-level home with full wrap-around porch. The desires of this client were achieved by relocating the front entry door to the 2nd level, relocating the interior staircase to access all levels while providing more useable space in living areas, adding the master suite over the garage, extending the kitchen with a full glass window wall, and adding the 3rd level loft with guest suite.

THIS IS A MUST-SEE REMODELED HOME!

Robinson presents 'How to Succeed in Business...'

BY BONNIE HOBBS
THE CONNECTION

It's been a movie, a Broadway play – currently in revival – and now "How to Succeed in Business without Really Trying" is coming to the Robinson Secondary stage.

The action unfolds over two weekends, Friday-Saturday, April 27-28; and Thursday-Friday-Saturday, May 3-4-5; all at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $12 at the door and online at www.robinsondrama.org. "We've been rehearsing since January and things are going great," said Director Chip Rome. "It's fun and filled with songs and dances; there are numerous, big, production numbers. And the audience will enjoy clever triumphing over bureaucracy."

THIS EXUBERANT MUSICAL features a cast and crew of 70, plus a 25-member orchestra conducted by Jackie Geldert. Suzy McCarthy is the vocal director and is choreographing the show with Susan Brock.

"We have a strong, talented cast," said Rome. "We had 90 people audition, called back 75 and cast 54. Carys Meyer has a gorgeous singing voice, and Morgan Miller's contrasts beautifully with hers."

The story's set in the 1962 "Mad Men" era, with costumes and hairstyles to match. "J. Pierpont Finch starts as a window washer and takes advantage of the corporate world and all its characters we see in 'Dilbert,'" said Rome. "And in the meantime, the girl gets her man. So it's a real, feel-good musical, watching the characters we've come to love triumph at last."

Set designer is Tim Cook, former Robinson theater student and GMU grad who now works in the college's theater department. The set is a series of levels illustrating Finch's climb up the corporate ladder at the World Wide Wicket Co.; so each time he's promoted, his office is on a higher level.

Playing Finch is senior Josh Israel, who'll attend NYU this fall as a theater major. Describing Finch as "the eagerest beaver of them all," Israel said his character is likeable, has a positive attitude and is willing to do whatever needs doing. "But at the same time, he's very ambitious," said Israel. "He manipulates most of the people in the company to bend them to his will and rise to the top."

Israel enjoys "showing how Finch gets his way to be able to hold the power. To be this crafty guy who thinks on his feet and solves problems quickly is fun." His favorite song is "Grand Old Ivy," Finch's duet with his boss, Mr. Biggley, played by Kyle Lynch. "Kyle and I have fun interacting with and playing off each other in that song," said Israel. "There's a lot of energy on stage and I try to make him laugh."

He said the audience will especially love the musical's finale, "Brotherhood of Man," sung by all the males because "it's pretty spectacular." The show, itself, said Israel, is "a classic, romantic comedy. Everybody in the cast has a great relationship with each other, and it definitely shows on stage."

Junior Carys Meyer portrays Rosemary, who's in love with Finch. "She's a secretary at the company and is also ambitious," said Meyer. "She seems to be the typical ingénue, but does everything she can to try to win Finch over. She wants to be a housewife, raise a family and live in the suburbs; she goes after Finch because she sees his potential."

Meyer likes her character's songs, plus the fact that "Rosemary knows what she wants, but is easily swayed and influenced. And her emotions switch quickly between anger, love and excitement." Meyer's favorite song is "Paris Original," which she sings with the other female cast members. "Something surprising happens during the song, so I play completely opposite emotions during it."

AEducation•Learning•Fun

Calling the show upbeat, lively and funny, she says the audience

"will have a really good time cheering for Finch, and the dancing and choreography is really good."

Playing Bud Frump, J.B. Biggley's nephew, is senior Jason Rath. "He got his job through his mother, J.B.'s sister; and when he's unhappy at work, he complains to his mother," said Rath. "He wants to work in the company, even though he has no experience. He's out for his own gain. He's the 'villain,' working against Finch, but I think of him as the hero because Finch is going about things unethically."

Rath likes his role because "Frump's an adult, but so childish, and pouts a lot. He disrespects other people's authority, so it's fun to see how far I can take his sense of entitlement." Rath particularly likes "The Company Way (Reprise)" number. "Frump sings it to Twimble, head of the mailroom," said Rath. "Frump's justifying to him how he's changed and deserves to succeed Twimble in his job. But Frump doesn't believe what he's saying."

OVERALL, said Rath, "It's going to be a high-energy production. We do a good job of highlighting the moments in business that are weird and don't make sense, but people go along with, anyway. And that's what makes this show a farce about the business world."

Senior Morgan Miller portrays Smitty, Rosemary's best friend and fellow secretary. "She's outgoing and outspoken and has strong opinions," said Miller. "She's almost living vicariously through Rosemary, but enjoys helping her get what she wants. I relate to Smitty since she's strong about her objective and always knows what she's doing. And it's fun how she's a third party to the romance between Rosemary and Finch and helps orchestrate it."

Miller's favorite song is "Coffee Break" because "it's really exaggerated, which makes it funny. When everyone comes to get coffee, it's all gone, so they totally freak out and overreact." She said the audience will like watching the romance between Rosemary and Finch and the funny storyline between Biggley and Frump. "There are lots of stories going on, and that makes it interesting," said Miller. "The audience will also love the quick quips, the dancing and all the show-stopping numbers."

FANFARE Eatery Opens at Fairfax Corner

New sports-themed eatery created by owners of Glory Days Grill.

BY VICTORIA ROSS
THE CONNECTION

A lot of feathers were ruffled during the grand opening celebration of FANFARE, Fairfax Corner's newest sports-themed eatery.

But feather-ruffling was just part of the fun, as Talon, D.C. United's mascot, and Slapshot, the official mascot of The Washington Capitals (both proud bald eagles) encouraged children, parents and anyone else to tousle their impressive plumage, or just hang out with them at FANFARE's grand-opening party on Saturday, April 14.

In addition to hanging out with feathered friends, guests could get a massage, have their faces painted by artist Arla Albers, play games, win prizes and dance to a DJ during the all-day party. Monument Wall Way was closed for the event, and firefighters from Fairfax Center Fire and Rescue Station 40 gave tours of their fire truck.

"We've had at least 300 people here today. We're beating the drum to let the community know this is a fun, fast, family-friendly restaurant," said Jeff Newman, one of the eatery's three local founders, who also launched the popular Glory Days Grill in Burke 16 years ago.

LIKE GLORY DAYS GRILL, Newman said FANFARE Eatery will continue the company's commitment to the community by partnering with nearby schools and sponsoring community events. In the past year, the company has raised and contributed more than $307,000 to community events, local teams, and charities, including Lorton's annual Monopoly Tournament and a fundraiser for the West Springfield High School dance team.

"We have a strong commitment to the community, to creating jobs, and to presenting a unique and family-friendly sports restaurant to our guests where they can enjoy great food and good sports," Newman said. "Our hope is that FANFARE is embraced as strongly by the community as our Glory Days Grill restaurants have been." He added that since the first Glory Days Grill opened in Burke, the company has launched 20 additional restaurants in Virginia, Maryland and West Virginia and employs 1,700 people.

Newman said the fast-casual restaurant's food offerings are similar to Glory Days Grill, featuring fresh Angus burgers, jumbo chicken wings and all-beef hot dogs. FANFARE's decor combines the nostalgia of a vintage stadium concession with modern conveniences such as digital menu boards, a self-service kiosk, and a Coca-Cola Freestyle® soda fountain. The restaurant also features a 40-seat outdoor patio; multiple TVs located on the interior and exterior, a TouchTunes jukebox, and serves a limited selection of draft beer, wine and margaritas.

DURING FANFARE'S HALF-TIME SHOW, Supervisor John Cook (R-Braddock) helped the owners and staff cut the ribbon on the new restaurant. Fairfax Corner Shopping Center is now part of the Braddock district after last year's redistricting.

"We want to encourage businesses like this," Cook said, after cutting the ribbon. "The owners are creating 40 jobs and injecting money into the economy. That's how we fund the budget."

While funding Fairfax County's proposed $6.7 billion fiscal year 2013 budget is a hot topic in many circles, some of the younger guests at FANFARE's kick-off just wanted to enjoy the party.

"The hot dogs are really good," said Aiden Ramos, 5, of Oakton, who also got a peck and a hug from Talon.

Robinson sophomore Jake Pinkston makes a slide into second base during a Rams' early season baseball scrimmage game versus South Lakes.

Rams Reach .500 Mark in Baseball

Robinson gets Concorde wins over Oakton and Westfield.

BY RICH SANDERS
THE CONNECTION

The Robinson Secondary baseball team reached the .500 record mark this past Tuesday night, April 17 when the Rams defeated host Oakton, 6-4, in a Concorde District game played in the Vienna area.

It was the second district win in a row for Robinson, which had also won a road game at Westfield High, 3-1, last Friday night, April 13.

Robinson, with the latest wins, stood at 6-6 overall and 2-1 in district play. The Rams lost their district opener last Tuesday, April 10 to visiting Centreville, 5-4.

Robinson coach John James said his team has seen its ups and downs thus far this spring.

"Our season so far has been a learning process," said James. "We've done things well at times and not so well at times. We're just trying to find some consistency in our approach."

The Centreville game was a game that could've gone either way, and Centreville got the job done when they needed to. Give them credit."

Robinson, over the recent spring break, competed in a tournament at Osbourn Park High School in Manassas where they went 2-2. The Rams defeated Wakefield High (National District) in its first game at the Osbourn Park tournament, 11-1, on March 31, but lost their next game to the tourney host team Yellow Jackets, 3-1, later that same day.

In its next game at the tournament on Tuesday, April 3, Robinson lost to Battlefield High (Manassas), 4-3. But in their second game that same day, the Rams defeated Stone Bridge High (Liberty District), 6-4.

Robinson entered the spring break with a 2-3 record with its early season wins coming over local rival Fairfax High, 12-11, in the season opener on March 14, and at Kettle Run (Nokesville), 2-1, on March 22. The three early season losses came to Northern Region opponents West Springfield, Woodson, and Marshall High Schools.

Robinson is scheduled to play games on both Friday and Saturday this weekend. The Friday night game will be a district home meeting versus Chantilly at 6:30. Saturday's game, a non-district game at Annandale High, will start at noon.

"Our goals for the rest of the season are the same as they've been up to this point," said Coach James. "We want to work as hard as we can, improve each day, and put ourselves in a position to compete at tournament time."

College Recruiting Seminar to be Held at Robinson Secondary

Parents, student-athletes to learn ins and outs of choosing a college.

A seminar to prepare parents and athletes for the college recruiting road ahead - complete with all its bumps - will be held on Monday night, May 7 at 7:30 in Russell Theater at Robinson Secondary School.

"Guiding the College-Bound Athlete" will provide information and topics for every student-athlete in middle and high school and their parents to educate and prepare them for opportunities and careers after graduation. Many student-athletes who aspire to play at the college level are not familiar with the ins and outs of academic requirements and eligibility as they need to be in order to pursue their goals.

"Guiding the College-Bound Athlete" is a program designed by Rick Wire, President of Dynamite Sports. The seminar will provide families with information about the availability of athletic scholarships and the realities of the college recruiting process.

Dynamite Sports Educational Recruiting System combines academic preparation and athletic training with marketing and recruiting strategies to navigate through the process. The plan provides direction to high school athletes and parents, and staff development training and resources to help all parties make knowledgeable choices and decisions in college athletics and recruiting.

Rick Wire or Coy Wire will present an hour-long seminar at 7:30 p.m. Interested participants are asked to come early, if possible, to receive a number of handouts and watch a pre-program video.

For information about Dynamite Sports, go to www.dynamitesports.com.

I ALEXANDRIA TOYOTA

My family and I have purchased all of our cars from Jack Taylor Toyota since the 1980s and we've been visiting Paul and his team at the dealership for all our service needs. Paul is always personable and friendly and his team always gets the job done right. They take much care to respect your car and your time. Any time I've been quoted a time it's always faster than expected. I will continue to take my car to Paul's team for all my needs and I know when I buy my next car, it will be at Jack Taylor Toyota in Alexandria, VA.
