There's a bit of free something for all around town.

rom free concerts on the Town Green to Civil War-era exhibitions and festivals to presentations, there are lots of free things to do in the Vienna area for every age group. Even those not-quite-free things are a bargain for what 0 you get.

The restored and newly-repainted red caboose across the street from Freeman House is maintained by the Optimist Club of Greater Vienna. Children are always welcome to climb aboard, but once a month or on special occasions, the Optimists open the doors to the caboose for the public to walk through.

If there is an iconic landmark in Vienna, it is probably the red caboose, sitting adjacent to the W & OD trail, once a railroad track passing through Vienna.

The Saturday morning Vienna Farmers' Market is as much a social event as it is a resource for buying locally-produced produce and home-made goods. Running through the end of October, the Optimist-operated market sells seasonal produce and creates themes to celebrate the seasons. There's frequently a balloon artist to bring smiles to kids' faces.

Church Street Holiday Stroll, always celebrated the last Monday in November, rings in the holiday season. There's live music, bonfires for roasting marshmallows, a petting zoo and an antique fire truck carrying Santa down Church Street to his perch on the Freeman Store front porch. Church Street merchants keep late hours for shopping.

ViVa! Vienna!, hosted and sponsored by the Rotary Club of Vienna, is a three-day mega-festival dotting the historic Church Street corridor. While the amusement rides, food and vendor goods cost money, the live entertainment on two stages does not. There's a children's stage and a main stage, and local businesses or groups offer free kids' activities on the Town Green. The revenue Rotary collects is returned to the local community.

Concerts on the Green, performed on Friday and Sunday nights from mid-May through August, pull in every age demographic. Listeners bring lawn chairs, blankets, and picnics, spreading out on the

What Makes Living in Vienna Special?

-Donna Manz/The Connection

John Ferguson, retired foreign service officer, Vienna

"I think it's because, as a retired foreign service officer, I spent almost my entire life living abroad in fairly difficult places, and Vienna has that all-American small-town atmosphere I missed overseas... and it's something I really enjoy."

Cindy Stewart, Vienna Women's Club, Hunter Mill representative to Fairfax County Animal Shelter Advisory Board, Vienna

"I love Vienna's community identity and spirit. I grew up in a town in upstate New York and feel that in my retirement years I have found that same sense of belonging right here. As a member of the Vienna Woman's Club, I am so impressed with the partnerships we are able to develop with other local organizations to benefit the neediest members of our community. I could certainly add kudos to Caffe Amouri for always being willing to post special adoption events at our county animal shelter."

Laurie Di Rocco, Vienna Town Council member, Vienna

"There are a number of things that make Vienna very special. Vienna is one of just a few [incorporated] towns in Fairfax County. The town of Vienna hosts a number of special community activities, such as the Halloween parade, Oktoberfest, 4th of July fireworks, the Saturday farmers' market and ViVa! Vienna!, to name a few.

The town of Vienna provides personal service to its citizens with its own community center, police force and trash pick-up. These types of services provide accessibility and a small-town feel for its citizens."

Michael Amouri, owner of Caffe Amouri, Vienna

"It's funny because what makes it special is all the reasons I opened Caffe Amouri here. Vienna is a community and even though there are thousands of people living here, I can walk down the street seeing people I know, waving and saying 'hi.' We've got each other's back. Vienna is family."

School System Committed to Excellence

FCPS inspires, enables and empowers students to meet high academic standards, lead ethical lives and demonstrate responsible citizenship.

By Ilryong Moon Chairman and Member at Large, Fairfax County School Board

Fairfax County!
One of the primary reasons you chose to live here may be the excellent reputation of Fairfax County Public Schools (FCPS). As chairman of the Fairfax County School Board, I am pleased to inform you that our reputation as one of the best public school systems in the country is well-deserved.

elcome to

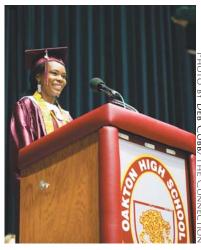

FCPS is the largest school division in Virginia and the 11th largest in the United States out of more than 15,000 school divisions. The organizational structure of FCPS is focused on meeting the needs of more than 180,000 students while managing 196 schools and centers.

The Fairfax County School Board sets general school policy and, within the framework of state regulations, establishes guidelines and rules that will ensure the proper administration of the county school program. The division superintendent works closely with the deputy superintendent and the assistant superintendents who oversee the day-to-day operations of the schools. As a world-class school system, FCPS inspires, enables and empowers students to meet high academic standards, lead ethical lives and demonstrate responsible citizenship.

Despite the economic challenges our school system has faced over the past four years, our students have continued to succeed at the highest levels. Our commitment to the achievement of all students is reflected in our students' SAT scores; FCPS' SAT average of 1654 exceeds both the state average of 1516 and the national average of 1500. For the 2010-11 school year, FCPS' pass rates for the Virginia Standards of Learning assessments were 93 percent in English and 92 percent in mathematics and the achievement gap continued to narrow in reading for Black students and in mathematics for Hispanic students. About 92 percent of FCPS graduates plan to continue on to postsecondary education. In the 2011 ranking of public high schools in the nation by the Washington Post, nearly all FCPS high schools were listed in the top 6 percent. Complete implementation of full-day kindergarten during the 2011-12 school year has been a vital success for the division, ensuring that all of our youngest students will benefit from the same educational opportunities. The commitment to serve our students is evident, with a majority of resources directed to the classroom. In FY 2013, 93 percent of our employees will be based in schools and a majority of the operating budget, nearly 86 percent, will be spent on instruction. Hiring and retaining the very best teachers and divisionwide staff is also an essential component of our success.

FPS values its diversity and a well-rounded education that goes beyond basics and encompasses the arts, literacy, technology and preparation for the world of work. In return, the residents of Fairfax County embrace their schools. Businesses and community members generously volunteer their time and resources to help students. Schools are integrated into the fabric of the community and residents take pride in the success of FCPS. Additionally, FCPS facilities and athletic fields are available for use by the community and adult and community education classes are offered throughout the year at locations throughout the

Once again, welcome to Fairfax County. Enjoy all that our community has to offer including our world-class school system!

Guild operates its three-day bazaar Thanksgiving weekend. Even if you're just browsing, the ambiance at the fall bazaars is enough to get a person into a holiday mood.

Not Free, But Pretty-close

Some of Vienna's local businesses go out of their way to be "good" neighbors. They give back to the community that supports their business by hosting activities, events and just being there to help when you need some help for a community project.

On a wretchedly-hot summer evening on the Town Grown, Whole Foods gave away bottled water and cherries from a tent it had set up. The store worked with the Town of Vienna to create a community garden. On many a Friday evening, Whole Foods hosts wine sippers and snacks for $5 [called 5 After 5]. For a lot of people living in Vienna, this is a regular event.

For the price of a cup of coffee or tea at Caffe Amouri on weekend nights, you can sit back and listen to vinyl records or live music and play board games. Michael Amouri is the same business owner who gave out free coffee all day the day after the dericho, brewed in his own home because the shop was without power. He raised $5,000 on behalf of the Khristin Kyllo scholarship fund. Here's the best part, though ... Amouri roasts his own coffee beans in-house and hand-grinds beans for "hand-pours." The coffee at Caffe Amouri costs no more than that sold at the chain coffeehouses, but at this coffeehouse on Church Street, the owner really does give back to the community. He still coaches women's basketball at Madison High School. During the school year, Caffe Amouri hosts "Penny University," free presentations on topics of interest to residents.

A fairly recent addition to Vienna hot-spots, Sweet City Desserts not only bakes out-of-the-world desserts, but it too is becoming a neighborhood hang-out. Wedged between Church Street and Maple Avenue in the alley that houses The Pure Pasty Co. and Bikes@Vienna, SCD hosts presentations and open-mic nights.

While the last few years have brought many challenges to the newspaper business everywhere, affecting us as well, we continue to publish 15 distinct papers every week that serve their communities in distinct ways.

As local, weekly newspapers, the Connection's mission is to bring the local news you need, to gather information about the best things in and near your community, to advocate for community good, to provide a forum for dialogue on local concerns and to celebrate and record milestones and events in community and people's lives.

Here in our Newcomers and Community Guide, we've included an insider's look at the

We publish photos and notes of a variety of personal milestones and community events, including births, engagements, weddings, anniversaries, awards and obituaries. We are also interested in events at your church, mosque, synagogue, community center, pool, school, club, etc. Email us a photo and a note about the event. Be sure to include the names of all the people who are in a photo, and say when and where the photo was taken. We also publish notes about news and events from local businesses. # Welcome to Fairfax County

By Sharon Bulova

reetings and welcome to Fairfax County! Fairfax County is an exceptional place to live, work and play. We have a range of fantastic parks, trails and recreational attractions as well as one of the best public school systems in the country. We are also one of the safest jurisdictions of our size in the United States. I'm sure that after experiencing what Fairfax has to offer, you will see why so many families, professionals and top-tier businesses call Fairfax County home.

The Fairfax County Public School system, with a budget this year of $2.4 billion, is consistently ranked among the top public school systems in America. Twenty-three Fairfax county high schools have been featured in the Washington Post's 2012 list of 1,800 top high schools in the nation, putting these Fairfax County schools in the top nine percent nationwide.

Fairfax County is also home to George Mason University, which is centrally located and an easy commute from all parts of the County. Mason has become one of Virginia's premier universities and was recently added to Kiplinger's list of best value universities in the country.

We are a business-friendly community. Fairfax County is home to nearly 600,000 jobs, with companies ranging from startups to Fortune 500 companies, ten of which have located their headquarters here. Our range of business start-up resources via the Fairfax County Economic Development Authority makes it easier for firms of any size to thrive. In fact, about 97 percent of the companies in Fairfax County are small businesses with fewer than 100 employees and less than $1 million in annual revenue. When a corporate leader recently moved his medium sized technology company to Fairfax County, he announced that he did so because he liked the "mood" in Fairfax, explaining that he wanted to be close to others who were as excited as he about their work and engagement in the community.

Accredited and nationally recognized for excellence by the award of the prestigious Gold Medal for Parks and Recreation, Fairfax at 703-324-2321. County's parks are ranked among the best in the nation. We have more than 22,500 acres in 416 parks, with 80 percent of residents utilizing our park services each year. Fairfax County also boasts more than 500 miles of bicycle and walking trails. The bicycle trail system is tied into the county transit system to make it easier to reach destinations without using a car. Fairfax Connector buses are all equipped with bicycle racks and VRE and Metro stations have bicycle racks or lockers - commuting by bicycle has never been easier!

Fairfax County also has a vibrant and growing arts community. The Workhouse Arts Center in Lorton, an historic county attraction and now converted arts space, allows visitors to watch artists perform their craft, and hosts many events ranging from exhibitions to plays.

As Chairman of the Board of Supervisors, I am elected at-large by all registered voters in Fairfax County. Community engagement is my hallmark. Visit my website at http:// www.fairfaxcounty.gov/chairman/ to be kept up-to-date on what is going on in the County. Whenever you have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to email me at chairman@fairfaxcounty.gov or call my office at Price lives in her girlhood home in Oakton. Not in the same place, but in the same house.

Price is 86 years old now. Her Oakton bonds go back to before 1850 when her great-grand-mother took over as Oakton School's first teacher. A great-grandfather fought in the Civil War. Her "people," as she refers to her ancestors, have been in the Vienna-Oakton area for more than 150 years.

Price's grandparents' home, that of the Kenyons, was finished in 1916, and, for 70 years, it stood at the corner of Chainbridge Road and Miller Road, across from the Oakton Methodist Church. For several years, the house had no electricity and was served by an outhouse. Price was a little girl in the 1930s when the house had a pasture and the family raised pigs and chickens. Price remembers the big red barn which, she says, she loved to play in.

Price said her family fared better during the Depression than many others.

"We weren't as affected because all the adults in the family kept jobs," she said. "Four people were bringing in a paycheck every week with just me and my mother to support."

After the death of her grandparents, the house was left to the three living children. Price's mother and husband bought the house from the siblings who inherited it.

THE PAYNE STORE, a general store that sold everything, Price said, went up at the corner of Hunter Mill Road and Rt. 123 about 1936. Price said she loved the Paynes, who lived upstairs above the store.

"I was lonely as a little girl because we were so isolated, but I have lots of good memories," Price says. "There weren't many little girls living in Oakton in those days."

Pat Kenyon Price remembers the "small town" of Vienna, going to the little library there and grocery shopping at the "Sanitary" store on Church Street.

"My favorite part of growing up in the Vienna-Oakton area was roller-skating down Rt. 123," Price says. "There were so few cars, then. I rode my bike all over creation."

Up through the early 1950s, there were still lots of farms in the Oakton area, Price recalls. Down Rt.

In 1955, an 18-year-old high school student from Oakton handcrafted this circus car toy box that Pat Price had kept for more than 55 years.

123 a little bit, toward Fairfax, was a fall turkey farm owned by the Craig family, that of Craig Movers.

In the early 1950s, the County started widening Rt. 123. World War II had ended a decade previously and post-war housing was popping up in the Vienna-Oakton area. "I guess that's when things started rolling," Price said. "I had a lot of friends on Hunter Mill Road in those days, but everything has just vanished."

As a teenager, Price got her driver's license at age 14. Two nights a week, Price—then still a Kenyon—and a girlfriend visited amputees at Walter Reed Hospital, playing cards with them, chatting. "To me, that was the greatest thing I've ever done in my life. It wasn't much, but it was something."

Along with girlfriends, Pat Kenyon the teenager took the Vienna trolley to go into Washington. "I loved taking the trolley to D.C.," Price said. "It was so much fun. The trolley would shake us all over the place because it was a jiggly ride. We would go to the movies. In those days, the theatres had live bands that played before the movies started."

After she graduated from Fairfax High School—there was no James Madison High School at that time—she worked in Washington.

[Kenyon] Price married at age 19, in 1946, and had five children, four of whom still live in the area. She herself was born in a D.C. hospital. "There were no hospitals around here then," she says. Growing up "lonely," she always knew she wanted a lot of children.

By the late 1970s, the area around the Hunter Mill corridor was blossoming. Businesses sprung up on the corners and bright light intruded on Price's home. As much as a "major production" it was, the house was moved to its current location – just around the corner - in 1985.

"I have happy memories of the old days, but, I love that everything is so convenient nowadays,' Price says. "I have the best of two worlds where I am situated.

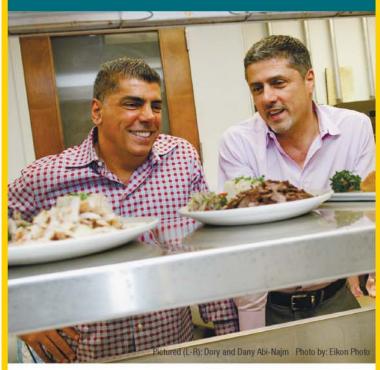

"To the east, I can walk to stores, to the church I've attended since I was a child [Oakton Methodist Church]." In 1998, the church celebrated its centennial and Price tap-danced to "Tea for Two."

"To the west is my heaven-onearth," Price says, pointing out her windows toward the woodland surrounding her house. "The little deer come every night and I just love seeing them. One of my favorite things in the world is our trees."

THE HOME LOOKS similar to its earliest years. Most of the windows in the house are original, as are the wood floors. The yard, however, was born of the house's new location. When the house was moved to its current location in 1985, the land was "strafed," as Price refers to it. Since there was nothing but empty land, Price ordered two little apple trees that were just "sticks" when she planted them. Today, those apple trees tower over her property, having bore apples for more than 15 years. The spruce tree that she treasures was given to her mother, then living with Price, for Christmas 1993, by Price's children, "The whole family got together to plant the little tree, and now it's more than 25 feet tall.

"I love Oakton, the people, the trees, just everything about Oakton."

'My Favorite Parks'

By Sharon Bulova

he tree I am standing next to in this photo is one of a number of large American Beech trees that populate the forests in Villa Park where I like to hike and jog. Villa Park is located in the central Fairfax area, with an entrance into the park off of Park Drive near Shirley Gate Road.

This park is unique. It has been left in its natural wooded condition and designated a Heritage Resource park to preserve features such as Native American quarries and work/chipping areas. It also contains remnants of the never-completed Independent line of the Manassas Gap Railroad. While no track was ever laid along this rail line, it played a significant role in the Civil War, serving as a little-known transportation route for both Confederate and Union soldiers. The earthworks served as protection during skirmishes.

A number of years ago a Civil War historian told me that he believed soldiers had carved their initials into trees located in Villa Park. The trees near my running path are covered with initials and symbols carved into the smooth grey bark. On the larger trees, the markings have become pretty much unreadable. I don't know if it's true or not, but I like to think these may be the trees my history buff friend was referring to

When running along this trail, I imagine passing Native American Indians chipping arrow heads out of hunks of quartz and Civil War camp sites with soldiers drawing water from the Popes Head Creek and passing time by carving their initials or troop insignia in the smooth-barked Beech trees growing nearby. The experience is a perfect marriage of my love for history and nature.

Some other favorite Fairfax parks that interpret our county's fascinating history and showcase its environmental beauty:

* Riverbend Park in Great Falls, includes more than 400 acres of forest, meadow and ponds. Trails include a 2.5-mile portion of the Potomac Heritage Trail linking national and regional parkland. Kayakers and canoeists can enjoy exploring many islands in the Potomac River.

Riverbend's visitor center overlooks the Potomac River and has an outdoor deck that is an ideal place to relax or have a snack after a hike. It has a wonderful interpretative display about the historic Native American presence in the area.

❖ In the South County Hybla Valley area, Huntley Meadows Park contains 1,425 acres of majestic forests, wildflower-speckled meadows and vast wetlands bursting with life. Some of the best wildlife watching in the Washington metropolitan area is enjoyed here. From the wetland boardwalk trail and observation tower, people have excellent views of beavers, frogs, dragonflies and herons. Huntley Meadows is well known as a prime birding spot, with more than 200 species identified in the park.

❖ Lake Accotink Park, located on 7500 Accotink Park Road in Springfield, is one of my favorite parks. Not only is this 493-acre park one of the most scenic in the county, it is also one of the most fun. In addition to boating, hiking, canoeing, and mini-golfing, you can always find a nice quiet spot to enjoy a picnic on the lake. Children love the beautiful antique carousel.

Lake Accotink was originally created to provide drinking water for troops stationed at Camp Humphries (which is now Fort Belvoir) during the early 1900s. The Norfolk Southern Railroad tracks carry D.C.-bound VRE commuter rail passengers over the Lake Accotink Dam. Remains of an older former railroad trestle make up part of the four-mile trail that winds around the lake and park.

How To Register, Vote and Vote Early

Election Day is Nov. 6, but you can vote as early as Sept. 21.

By Mary Kimm The Connection

hy does it matter?

How important is it for Virginia voters to turn out on or before Nov. 6? As a critical "battleground" state, Virginia will be key in determining who will be the next President of the United States. Who will represent Virginia in the U.S. Senate is also too close to call. Since polling shows that there are very few undecided voters in the Commonwealth, every eligible voter will want to be sure to cast a ballot.

This area has very high rates of voter registration. Consider that Fairfax County, with a population of just more than 1.1 million people, has 711,817 registered voters. And 24 percent of Fairfax County's population is under 18, so not eligible to vote.

Arlington has a population of about 216,000 and 157,236 registered voters. Sixteen percent are under 18.

The City of Alexandria has a population of about 144,000 with 101,887 registered voters; 17 percent are under 18.

REGISTER, CHANGE OF ADDRESS: In

order to vote on Election Day, you must be registered at your current address no later than Oct. 15, 2012. You can check your registration status online by going to www.sbe.virginia.gov. There you can also download a voter registration form and mail it to the elections office address, listed above.

Voter ID: New laws also affect what identification voters must bring with them to the polling place. Acceptable forms of identification include: Virginia voter identification card; valid Virginia driver's license; military ID; any Federal, Virginia state or local government-issued ID; employer issued photo ID card; concealed handgun permit; valid student ID issued by any institution of higher education located in the Commonwealth of Virginia; current utility bill, bank statement, government check or paycheck indicating the name and address of the voter.

Voters arriving to the polls without ID will be required to vote a provisional ballot and will have until noon on the Friday after the election to deliver a copy of identification to their locality's electoral board in order for their provisional ballot to be counted.

All Virginia active registered voters will be mailed a new Virginia voter identification card prior to the November 2012 General Election. Call 804-864-8901 or toll free 800-552-9745, TTY toll free: 800-260-3466. According to the State Board of Elections at presstime, some of the voter identification requirements listed are pending

VOTING EARLY, ABSENTEE

Virtually every voter in Virginia is eligible to vote absentee, which includes voting inperson absentee at a variety of locations between Sept. 21 and Nov. 2.

There are many reasons that voters are allowed to vote absentee, but the most broad of these applies to almost anyone with a job: "Any person who, in the regular and orderly course of his business, profession, or occupation, will be at his place of work and commuting to and from his home to his place of work for 11 or more hours of the 13 that the polls are open (6 a.m. to 7 p.m.).

See http://www.sbe.virginia.gov/cms/absentee_voting/index.html for a complete list of acceptable reasons to vote absentee, links to download a request for an absentee ballot and other instructions.

You can download an absentee ballot and mail it to your local voter registration office, or you can vote "absentee in person."

WHAT'S ON THE BALLOT?

Every voter in Virginia will vote for U.S senator and their member in the U.S. House of Representatives, in addition to President of the United States and two constitutional questions.

For Senate, Tim Kaine (D), former governor will face George Allen (R), also former governor and former U.S. senator, to replace U.S. Sen. Jim Webb (D) who is retiring from the Senate after a single term. Webb defeated George Allen six years ago. Connection coverage of the U.S. Senate race is http:// available at www.connectionnewspapers.com/news/ Election/National/Senate/

Two constitutional questions will appear on all Virginia ballots, one about the use of eminent domain and one about the timing of a particular session of the General Assembly to consider overriding vetoes by the governor of legislation that was passed by assembly. the See http:// www.sbe.virginia.gov/webdocs/ 201211ConstitutionalAmendmentsPoster.pdf.

10TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

In the races for U.S. House of Representatives, it's worth noting that redistricting resulted in significant changes in Northern Virginia in terms of who your U.S. representative will be. If you live in Reston, for example, while last election you were represented by Jim Moran and the 8th district, now you are in the 11th district where the incumbent is Gerry Connolly. See the map for details. Fairfax County is represented by three Congressional Districts, 8, 10 and 11. Connection coverage of congressional races is available at http:// www.connectionnewspapers.com/news/ Election/National/Representatives.

In the 8th District, incumbent Rep. Jim Moran (D), seeking his 12th term since being elected in 1990, will face Patrick Murray (R), and two independent candidates, Janet Murphy and Jason Howell. The 8th district includes all of Alexandria and Arlington, plus parts of Fairfax County including Mount Vernon, Lorton and parts of McLean, Tysons and Falls Church.

In the 10th District, Frank Wolf (R), elected to office in 1982, will face Democrat Kristin A. Cabral and independent J. Kevin Chisholm. The 10th district sprawls from McLean to Winchester, and includes Great Falls, Chantilly, parts of Fairfax Station, the Town of Clifton, part of Burke and Springfield.

In the 11th District, Gerry Connolly (D), former chairman of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, elected to Congress in 2008, will face Republican Chris Perkins and Independents Joe Galdo and Peter M. Marchetti. The 10th district now includes the City of Fairfax, the Town of Herndon. Reston, central Fairfax County including parts of Burke, Springfield and Lorton.

IN FAIRFAX COUNTY, voters will also decide whether to invest in infrastructure based on four bond questions, answering yes or no to supporting $75 million for parks, $55 million for public safety facilities, $25 million for library facilities and $30 million for stormwater and sewer improvements. http://www.fairfaxcountv.gov/elections/nov 2012 county bond issues.pdf

IN THE CITY OF ALEXANDRIA, voters will also choose a mayor, members of the city council and school board.

The Alexandria City Council is composed of a Mayor and six Council members who are elected at-large for three-year terms. Incumbent mayor Bill Euille (D) will face Andrew H. Macdonald (I) in the race for Voters will choose six City Council members from the list of 12: Frank H. Fannon IV (R)*, Alicia R. Hughes (R)*, John R. "Bob" Wood (R), John Taylor Chapman (D), Timothy Lovain (D), Del Pepper *(D), Allison Silberberg (D), Paul C. Smedberg❖ (D), Justin M. Wilson (D), Glenda B. Davis (I), Robert Krause (L), Jermaine A. Mincey (I). ❖ means incumbent.

The Alexandria City School Board is a nine-member elected body that adopts policy for the daily operation of schools and sees that school laws are properly explained, enforced, and observed. The city is divided into three voting districts, and three Board members are elected from each district. Each member serves a three-year term. Incumbents marked *.

School Board District A: Stephanie Amann Kapsis, William E. "Bill" Campbell*, Karen A. Graf, Helen F. Morris*, Joyce D. Rawlings, Heath E. Wells

School Board District B: Michael A. Brookbank, Chyrell D. Bucksell, Kelly Carmichael Booz, Justin P. Keating, Marc Williams *

School Board District C: Ronnie M. Campbell*, Patricia A. "Pat" Hennig, Christopher J. Lewis, Jeff N. Zack.

IN ARLINGTON, voters will choose one member of the County Board and one member of the School Board. Both Arlington boards are made up entirely of at-large members, so both races will appear on all Arlington ballots.

Incumbent Libby Garvey (D) will face Matthew A. Wavro (R) and Audrey R. Clement (I) for the seat on the County Board.

For School Board, incumbent Emma N. Violand-Sanchez will face Noah L. Simon.

Arlington voters will also decide yes or no on four bond questions, whether to authorize raising $32 million public schools, $28 million for community infrastructure, $50 million for local parks and recreation, and $32 million for Metro and transportation. http://www.arlingtonva.us/departments/voterregistration/forms/ Bonds2012ENG.pdf

Residents Voice Support, Worries

The process, Mayor Seeman said, is just beginning. The town will continue to hold public meetings and is inviting citizens and merchants to participate in the planning and design process.

The town is considering options that will cover the maintenance costs of the parking garage. Although no decision has been made regarding funding operational costs, charging a fee to park in the garage is on the table.

An area of concern—where delivery trucks would off-load if the open space is no longer available for that purpose—was one of the few points not considered by either the town or the architect for Arrington. Layer and Seeman added delivery alternatives to the design process.

The garage will hold 120 public parking spaces and 52 spaces for building tenants. Curbside on Church Street will be an additional five spaces. On Church Street, the mixed-use building, designed to fit in with the character of Church Street, fronts the street, concealing the parking garage behind it.

Along the alleyway, intersecting both Church Street and Maple Avenue, the builder is installing lighting and a pedestrian walkway, as well as a "parklet." Sightlines from Maple Avenue have not been evaluated vet.

"I'm very concerned," said The Pure Pasty Co. owner Michael Burgess. "Pure Pasty fronts the garage. During the construction phase, it will be very difficult for all the businesses around here."

"With a three-story building on Church Street, nobody will see us."

Bikes@Vienna owner Tim Frecker echoed Burgess's worries. "I've got the same concerns as Mike about the visibility of the shop," said Frecker. "The parking garage will remove the test-ride area for prospective buyers. It's going to affect the environment. We get an obstructed view of the rest of the world."

"I'll be looking at a concrete garage from my shop, and it will be very much an alley. It's going to feel closed-in."

TOWN OFFICIALS and Layer assured merchants and residents that as much as possible would be done to minimize construction challenges, from noise and dust to loss of business for those shops on the alleyway. Bikes@Vienna, The Pure Pasty Company and Sweet City Desserts make use of the open parking space across from those shops. A three to four-story structure would obscure visibility of those businesses from Church

A citizen asked the mayor if the town or developer had considered financial compensation to the alleyway shops that could suffer a loss of business during construction. Seeman responded that the town had not discussed compensation for loss of business but had, rather, focused on protecting the business interests of impacted shops. New signage along Church Street would direct shoppers to the new "way."

"This is still Vienna," Seeman said. "We want to keep Vienna's character."

Life in the Cancer Lane

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

Not to look a reasonably good result from my anti-cancer oral medication in the mouth, but however good I feel, however asymptomatic I am (other than the dry skin and pimply rash on my face), the results from my next CT Scan in early September will tell me how I should really feel. If the tumors (one in particular) have not grown or moved - or have even shrunk, I will feel Tony-the-Tiger "Great!" If on the contrary, the tumors have grown again, as they had in June – after my two previous chemotherapy infusions, then whatever I think I feel now will be replaced by what I don't want to think about ever: the presumably inevitable, now-what?

"Now what" as in "what next," has rarely been a discussion I've had with my oncologist, the scenario question as I refer to it. Whenever I would ask the perfectly logical question - to me, about what we might do if so and so happens or if such and such occurs (medically speaking relating to the cancer, that is) my doctor would always defer, and advise patience and caution, not wanting to get too far ahead of where we were but rather wait until we got there – considering that "there" is hardly a straight line. As difficult as it was for me to not always have clear options and strategies outlined for the future, what did become clear to me was that trying to anticipate such outcomes and plan treatment protocols accordingly, was not something my oncologist was comfortable doing, given the variability and unpredictability of how my body (cancer) would respond to whatever we had been doing. In a professional way, sort of, it was kind of a waste of his time to discuss treatment for eventualities which had not yet manifested themselves. The plan/his thinking was - as I soon learned, preempt what we could, treat what we knew, and wait for results to know what, or what not to do, next.

Presuming facts not yet in evidence and/or reactions not yet diagnosed/confirmed was natural for me - as a salesman. For an oncologist however, it would be unethical almost, to tell me things which are not yet true but might be or might not be, depending on... And so I've come to accept that (for awhile, I continued to ask except-type scenario/what if questions). Eventually, I grew comfortable with these perimeters and knew that waiting and hoping - and wondering, was going to be the currency with which I was going to pay my emotional dues. Once having assimilated these dos and don'ts into my understanding and expectations, the planning of my present and future life became less stressful, oddly enough. Once I knew the limitations of our conversations projecting medically (into a very uncertain future), I could work it into my head and better manage the emotional roller coaster which had/has become my life. Oh sure, we had general discussions about treatment options, and there was a road map of sorts, but specifically visiting and discussing scenarios A, B and C either in person or electronically was rarely how our time together has been spent.

If I hadn't learned to sit tight and wait for results – and then discuss those results and future treatment options, I might have driven myself and all those around me crazy. Now I'm waiting again – until September. Having been there and done that now for three ar half years certainly helps. And however familiar it may be and/or has become, it doesn't exactly help to pass the time or affect the results, unfortunately. Cancer sucks! That much is clear. Now and in the future.
