FALL FUN

Get Ready for Clifton Day

The 45th annual fest is Sunday, Oct. 7.

Live bands, moonbounces, hand-made crafts, Civil War re-enactors, food galore, pony rides and a unicyclist—all these things and more will be part of the 45th annual Clifton Day. The festival is slated for Sunday, Oct. 7, from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. (Rain date is Oct. 14.)

"I have a lot of fun on Clifton Day," said event Chairman Fred Ansick. "I really enjoy seeing the smiling faces on the kids, and folks laughing and having a good day. They love the atmosphere of the town. The residents welcome everyone to see Clifton as a community—a small town in the shadows of the big city. So we want everyone to come on out and have a good time."

The Clifton Betterment Association (CBA) puts on Clifton Day and proceeds go to the town's nonprofit groups, including the Clifton Lions Club, Girl and Boy Scouts, Clifton Presbyterian Church, Clifton Gentleman's Club, Clifton Woman's Club, the CBA and Acacia Lodge.

Admission is free; parking is $5/car ($10 on the floodplain), with proceeds going to charity. "It's the largest fund-raiser for all our local nonprofits," said Ansick.

Sonia Dyer, 88, moved to Clifton with her family in 1964, and her daughter Bonny and oldest son Tuck went to the first Clifton Day. "It was in the old firehouse on the second floor," she said. "There were tables with crafts and things, but that's all there was to it. My children bought me a little, ceramic jewelry chest that I still use."

"At the time, we didn't think Clifton Day would amount to anything; but through the years, it just kept growing," continued Dyer. "It's that small-town feel Clifton has that makes it special. And I think the citizens are more involved in town activities now than they were then, so there's more of a community feeling."

For her family, she said, Clifton Day's a holiday. Said Dyer: "My children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren all come home for Clifton Day." And this year, they'll have lots of things to keep them busy.

The town park off Chapel Street will host a slew of children's activities. JumpWorks will have inflatables and moonbounces there, Kerry the Face-Painter will decorate children's faces and Sharon the Balloon Artist will twist colorful balloons into fanciful shapes. Local Girl and Boy Scout troops will also have booths there with games such as safe darts and beanbag toss.

The Northern Virginia Therapeutic Riding Academy will give pony rides near the barn behind Acacia Lodge. It will also provide a pony for petting in the park. The Unicycle Lady will perform mainly in the park, but will also do some stunts on Main Street. There'll also be some roaming entertainment. Performing while strolling through town will be the Banjo Man and bagpiper Michael Ahnell.

The stage on Chapel Road will feature a variety of singers, dancers and musicians. At 10:30 a.m. is the Boyle School of Irish Dance; 11:30 a.m., They Call Me Piano, a local girl who sings; 12:15 p.m., Steve Hudson and his Fabulous Exaggerations, a stand-up comedian and musician who plays piano and guitar.

At 1:15 p.m. will be The Wayward Street Players music group; 2:15 p.m., The Acoustic Burgoo, a bluegrass group from Purcellville; and 3:15 p.m., The Randy Thompson Band playing modern country-rock music. Clifton resident Thompson recently returned from a music tour in Switzerland.

Artisans on Main Street's Ayre Square will demonstrate crafts such as wood-carving, wool spinning, weaving and pottery- and basket-making. And more than 200 arts- and-crafts vendors will sell their wares throughout the town.

Items include jewelry, candles, plant hangers, glasswork, children's clothing, baskets, ceramics, woodworking products, furniture, mixed media, needlework, quilts, sculpture, metalwork, seasonal decorations and holiday items, sports memorabilia, toys, stained glass, and watercolor and oil paintings.

Food will be available in several places. The Clifton Lions Club will offer hamburgers, hot dogs and barbecue; Clifton Presbyterian Church, crab-cake meals, brisket meals and corndogs; Clifton Gentleman's Club, red beans and rice, chili and chili dogs; Cub Scout Packs 1861 and 1104, cotton candy, popcorn, lemonade, cookies, candy and apple cider; Acacia Lodge, pulled pork and Italian sausage.

As for commercial food vendors, Baja Fresh will sell burritos, quesadillas and chicken, fish and shrimp tacos. Rachelle Slotnick is catering an Oktoberfest booth by the stage in front of the Clifton Town Meeting Hall on Chapel Road. It'll offer a-la-carte, German-style food such as bratwurst, kielbasa and sauerkraut. The CBA will sell beer there, too.

Trummer's on Main will have outside tables where people may purchase food and cocktails. Food samples will be available in front of the former Heart in Hand restaurant, which is becoming a new restaurant called Buckley's. And Paradise Springs Winery will offer wine samples in front of the post office on Chapel Road.

Altogether, there'll be 10 food vendors throughout the town, selling treats including kettle corn, funnel cakes and Sno-Cones. The Clifton Store and Peterson's Ice Cream and Dog Pound will also be open for business, as will the town shops.

Antiques vendors will be behind Buckley's, and the Acacia Lodge will have some Clifton artifacts and memorabilia on display upstairs. Also for history buffs, Civil War re-enactors Tony Meadows and the 49th Virginia Infantry will be encamped in the yard across from the stage on Chapel Road.

The American Red Cross Bloodmobile will be stationed next to the lodge, and people donating a pint of blood will be entered in a drawing for a gift certificate for door prizes.

The VRE train will run to and from Clifton, or festival attendees may park at Clifton Elementary, the floodplain, Kincheloe Road, Newman Road, and Chapel Road at Frosty Meadows. CBA-sponsored shuttles will ferry people to and from Frosty Meadows. For more information, see www.cliftonday.com.

This year's sponsors are The Peterson Cos., Ourisman Toyota, VRE, Blackbarn Media and the Norfolk Southern Railroad. Ansick, in his sixth year as chairman, says his 10-person committee begins working on Clifton Day in January, reserving the stage and the town properties.

"Things start ramping up in April, when I get the volunteer list," he said. "In May, June and July, we do the planning; and in September, we start praying for good weather."

Cordial Debate Turns Into Controversy

Allen, Kaine battle for Northern Virginia votes.

BY VICTORIA ROSS
THE CONNECTION

Mohammed Ashiq, a longtime employee at Luciano's restaurant in Oakton, was working at the restaurant Sunday when former Democratic Gov. Tim Kaine met with supporters at the Oakton shopping center.

"I'm still pretty much undecided," Ashiq said, "but I have a 9-year-old daughter and education is an important issue for me."

Ashiq said he liked what Kaine had to say about increasing access to affordable higher education, but he wanted to hear more from both candidates before making up his mind.

Scott Tanner, who was dropping his daughter off at the center for a birthday party, said he is "leaning slightly in favor of Kaine" over former Republican Senator George Allen, who is vying to win back his seat from retiring Democratic Senator Jim Webb.

In a tight race that could decide which party controls the Senate, Northern Virginia has become the battleground region within the battleground state, and both candidates have spent an increasing amount of time and money courting voters in the region.

In the past few weeks, Kaine and Allen have crisscrossed Fairfax County almost daily, meeting with voters at business roundtable candidate forums. Last week, campaign momentum was beginning to favor Kaine when two independent polls showed Kaine opening up a significant lead for the first time after 17 months of campaigning. A Quinnipiac University-CBS News-New York Times poll released Wednesday, Sept. 19, showed Kaine had a 7 percentage point lead over Allen, 51 percent to 44 percent.

THE NEXT DAY, the former governors faced off in a highly-anticipated debate at the Capitol One Center in McLean that demonstrated clear differences in their approach to policy and fiscal issues. It was the third of five scheduled debates.

Hosted by the Fairfax Chamber of Commerce and moderated by David Gregory, host of NBC's "Meet the Press," the candidates were more cordial than confrontational. Kaine positioned himself as a bipartisan problem-solver, while Allen portrayed himself as a small-business champion.

The candidates also found areas of agreement: each stressed the need to preserve the home mortgage interest deduction, and both candidates vowed to reduce the nation's deficit and avoid the looming $500 billion in defense cuts scheduled to begin in January.

Several times during the debate, Kaine reiterated his proposal to reduce the federal deficit and avert the automatic cuts—or "sequestration"—through a three-pronged approach.

"We will let the Bush tax cuts expire as planned for people making more than $500,000; we will fix Medicare so we can negotiate to get better prices on prescription drugs; we will let the tax subsidies to the big five oil companies expire," Kaine said.

Police Chief Tapped For New Position

The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors on Tuesday appointed Police Chief Dave Rohrer as deputy county executive for public safety. He'll begin his new job Oct. 20.

This action, explained County Executive Ed Long in a Sept. 25 memo to all County personnel, will dedicate this newly created position exclusively to public safety. It will also free up Deputy County Executive Rob Stalzer—who currently oversees public safety, in addition to his other duties—"to focus on planning, development and transportation functions." Some of the major issues in these areas impacting the county include Dulles Rail; transportation funding; Tysons redevelopment; BRAC; regional water systems; and the redevelopments of Springfield Mall, Bailey's Crossroads and Merrifield Town Center.

Rohrer will be responsible for the County's public-safety programs and will oversee the police and fire departments, Office of Emergency Management and Department of Public Safety Communications. He'll also have a liaison relationship with the Sheriff's Office and the courts.

Long said this new position will also "prioritize public safety resources for the county's 1.1 million residents, while serving the County's long-term growth and development needs. A dedicated deputy county executive for public safety is better able to quickly respond to events as they occur and to coordinate regional preparedness in advance."

This appointment completes Long's leadership team, which includes the deputy county executives, CFO, assistant county executives and directors of human resources and public affairs. "We will work together in the months and years ahead to address our continuing challenges and continue the culture of excellence for which Fairfax County Government is so well known," said Long.

Rohrer is a longtime County employee who's served nearly 32 years as a sworn police officer. His career here includes 13 years as a senior commander and eight years as the county's police chief; he's held that post since 2004.

He's also served as deputy chief for investigations and operations support; Patrol Bureau commander; Special Operations Division and district commander; SWAT first-line supervisor and first-line patrol supervisor.

Rohrer holds a bachelor's degree in administration of justice from GMU. His annual salary will be $191,168.

Kaine Clarifies Position on 'Minimum Tax'

Allowing tax increases on those earning more than $500,000 a year is compromise, Kaine said, between Democrats who would let the cuts expire on those earning $250,000 or more, and Republicans who want to make the cuts permanent for everyone.

Allen repeatedly said he would not entertain any tax increases to keep the government from falling off a "fiscal cliff," and he stuck to his message that "job creation" would solve many of the nation's problems.

"As I stated in the beginning, David, the best social program of all is a job," Allen also said he would repeal President Obama's health care law, and proposed allowing households to choose a flat tax over the existing tax code.

"I want to create more job opportunities. If you want a job, you ought to join the Allen team," Allen said, adding that he should have the backing of "99 percent of Virginians, anyone who pays an electric bill, drives a car or has a job."

He said his return to the Senate would be about "making sure America is ascending once again and is a land of opportunity once again."

THE DEBATE was mostly devoid of headline-making news until Gregory asked Kaine if he thought "all Virginians should have to pay some level of federal income tax."

"I would be open to a proposal that would have some minimum tax level for everyone," Kaine said, "but I do insist, many of the 47 percent that Governor Romney was going after pay a higher percentage of their income in taxes than he does."

Kaine's statement almost immediately ignited a furor by bloggers, tweeters and news reports of the debate.

In interviews after the debate, Allan hammered Kaine for the remark, accusing him of "always trying to raise taxes." In a press release Saturday, the Allen campaign accused Kaine of "doubling down" on the idea of imposing an income tax on all Americans in his TV appearances.

"It shouldn't be news that somebody who wants to go into the Senate is willing to start from a position of openness and dialogue," Kaine said after the debate. "We can't start with non-negotiable."

Kaine added that while many Americans do not pay federal income tax, low-income individuals are subject to many other taxes. "The lie that some perpetrate that poor people don't pay a lot of taxes is wrong," he said.

"I kind of chuckled about (the furor)," Kaine said Sunday after meeting with volunteers in Oakton and

Manassas. "I'm open to dialogue, and I don't see how openness is something controversial."

Del. Mark Keam (D) introduced Kaine to the 70-plus grassroots supporters who assembled in Oakton to hear Kaine as he launched the community canvass. Judy Fisher, a retired Fairfax County teacher, said she was supporting Kaine for several reasons.

"The health care bill is very important. No, it's not perfect, but I have a 97-year-old mother, and health care is a big issue for us." She also said she liked Kaine's positions on abortion rights, education and other issues.

"I'm electing someone to make substantive, deliberative, thoughtful decisions," Fisher said. "The Republicans get hysterical. We need more moderate, thoughtful candidates like Tim Kaine."

Arralean Ellis, a City of Fairfax volunteer, said Virginia's new Voter ID laws concerned her.

"I've worked at polling places, and there was no reason, no justification to make it tougher for people in Virginia to vote," she said.

Kaine told supporters that "the most important thing is to find people who know how to work together. [Republicans] would run the ship aground just to get the captain," Kaine said.

"The differences in this race are very clear," said Kaine. "On the big issues of the day—how we strengthen the economy, how we address the federal budget, and how we break through Washington's partisan gridlock—my opponent and I have a very different record and a very different approach."

How to Register, Vote, Vote Early

Don't sweat voter ID; voter registration card, current utility bill, bank statement, paycheck or government check with name, address of voter will work.

Changes in Virginia's voter identification rules are causing confusion in many quarters, and some voters might be tempted to stay home rather than deal with a difficult situation. What about your 92-year-old mother who hasn't driven in almost a decade? Do you need to schlep her to the DMV to get her a photo ID before November?

Slow down, there are alternatives, including a current utility bill, bank statement, government check or paycheck indicating the name and address of the voter.

Acceptable forms of identification include: Virginia voter identification card (due to arrive in the mail next week); current utility bill, bank statement, government check or paycheck indicating the name and address of the voter; valid Virginia driver's license; military ID; any Federal, Virginia state or local government-issued ID; employer issued photo ID card; concealed handgun permit; valid student ID issued by any institution of higher education located in the Commonwealth of Virginia.

How important is it for Virginia voters to turn out on or before Nov. 6? As a critical "battle-ground" state, Virginia will be key in determining who will be the next President of the United States. Who will represent Virginia in the U.S. Senate is also too close to call. Since polling shows that there are very few undecided voters in the Commonwealth, every eligible voter will want to be sure to cast a ballot. Turnout in Northern Virginia could determine who is president and which party controls the U.S. Senate.

This is a high-participating, politically engaged area.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

State Vs County On Transportation

To the Editor:

When I read my colleague Supervisor John Cook's Sept. 13 Connection column advocating that Fairfax County take over state roads, I wondered how our taxpayers would feel about accepting a $150 million per year unfunded mandate from the state. That would be a slap in the face given everything that the County has done to balance its budget and provide for our residents during difficult budget years.

On the face of it, the proposal for Fairfax County to take over its roads makes sense. Why shouldn't we take responsibility for our own roads? Don't we know our needs better than the state?

So here's where that pesky reality comes in. Those needs cost a lot of money—about $150 million yearly just to maintain our pothole-

Fairfax County, with a population of just more than 1.1 million people, has 717,105 registered voters as of Aug. 31, 2012.

And consider that in 2008, 79 percent of Fairfax County's registered voters turned out at the polls.

The City of Alexandria has a population of about 144,000 with 103,445 registered voters as of Aug. 31, 2012.

Arlington has a population of about 216,000 and 160,326 registered voters as of Aug. 31, 2012.

When you consider the sheer numbers of people likely to go to vote on Election Day, wouldn't it make sense to go and vote early?

Virtually every voter in Virginia is eligible to vote absentee, which includes voting in-person absentee at a variety of locations. Absentee voting began Sept. 21 and will continue through Nov. 2.

There are many reasons that voters are allowed to vote absentee, but the most broad of these applies to almost anyone with a job: "Any person who, in the regular and orderly course of his business, profession, or occupation, will be at his place of work and commuting to and from his home to his place of work for 11 or more hours of the 13 that the polls are open (6 a.m. to 7 p.m.)."

See http://www.sbe.virginia.gov/cms/absentee\_voting/index.html for a complete list of acceptable reasons to vote absentee, links to download a request for an absentee ballot and other instructions.

You can download an absentee ballot and mail it to your local voter registration office, or you can vote "absentee in person."

To vote on Election Day, you must be registered roads in their current poor condition. To bring those roads up to even adequate condition would cost a whole lot more. Unless the state is planning to hand us a big check—every year—to cover those costs, then Fairfax County taxpayers will be left holding a very expensive bag.

Why should Fairfax County bail out the state? The Commonwealth of Virginia has primary transportation responsibilities and has since the 1930s. In recent years we've seen the state shed more and more of this responsibility, essentially saying, "Can't afford it anymore so it's your problem." That's not reasonable and it's certainly not responsible governance. I can't think of a single reason why Fairfax County should be forced to cut critical services to its residents—like schools, public safety, human services, parks and libraries—because the state needs a bail out.

Rather, it's time for the state to do its job and address our growing transportation chal-

Pumpkin Playground Details

Burke Nursery and Garden Centre will host its 18th annual Fall Festival and Pumpkin Playground from Oct. 1 through Oct. 31 at its nursery on 9401 Burke Road.

♦ Festival Hours: 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday; 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Friday and Saturday and 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Sunday.

♦ Cost of admission on weekdays is $9 per person; weekend price is $12 per person. (Columbus Day will have the same activities as weekends, and the admission price will be $12.) Children under the age of two are admitted free. Each paid admission receives a small patch pumpkin and unlimited hay rides (wheel chair accessible). For more information, go to www.pumpkinplayground.com or call 703-323-1188.

When Fred Dickinson, general manager of the Burke Nursery and Garden Center, started the pumpkin festival with his wife Cassandra 17 years ago, he said he had no idea it would grow to be such a large event.

In fact, the nursery didn't start to sell carving pumpkins until the last two weeks of October.

"People didn't buy all the Halloween pumpkins they do now. When we started this, we had our pumpkins and our pumpkin forts," Dickinson said. "We were giving hay rides in the field, just playing around, and our customers were very responsive to that, so we decided to turn it into a real old-fashioned fall festival. Kids have a ball."

The event, spread out over four acres, now features more than 1,500 pumpkins, several pumpkin forts, hayrides, a 90-foot burlap sack slide, two smaller slides, pumpkins crawls, a merry-go-round, farm animals, face-painting and a giant sand pile, where children can dig for coins and other treasures.

There is also a food tent with hamburgers, hot dogs, apple cider, popcorn and other goodies.

A popular feature is the festival's produce tent, where visitors can purchase homemade jams, jellies and pick out fall harvest fruits and vegetables.

Talents Galore at ‘Arts by George!’

BY DAVID SIEGEL
THE CONNECTION

A bevy of incredible talent is set to entertain as the seventh annual George Mason University “Arts by George!” is coming on Saturday, Sept. 29, at 5 p.m. Arts by George! will take place in the de Laski Performing Arts Building on Mason’s Fairfax Campus, as well as the Harris Theater and a tented plaza next to the performing arts building.

From the multi-talented, multi-Tony Award-winner Sutton Foster to aspiring creative artists from the Mason College of Visual and Performing Arts, there is a jam-packed day of events.

“We want audiences to ‘become ‘infected’ with the energy and creativity of the next generation of artists,” said William Reeder, chair of Mason College of Visual and Performing Arts. His description of headliner Foster was simply this: “She is as good as it gets!”

Notably, the benefit event will use proceeds to support student scholarships as well as the Great Performances at the Mason Center for the Arts.

This year’s programs will include many diverse student performances. Guests will be able to visit all sorts of Mason spaces to take in performances or exhibitions. There is even a Smartphone App created by the Computer Game Design program that provides a program for the “Arts by George!” event.

Joseph and Carol Catalano are event co-chairs for this year’s “Arts by George!”

Asked why people should come to the event, especially those who may have never attended before, the Catalanos said, “You will be amazed at the talent of the these young students who come from all over the world to attend GMU and it’s right here in your backyard. Secondly, the funds raised go directly toward scholarships for these students and supports the Great Performances at Mason concert series. Lastly, you will have such a good time that you can’t wait for next year’s event.”

“Having Sutton Foster as our headliner this year has created much excitement,” said the Catalanos.

“I want the audience to have a such wonderful time; to have fun,” said Sutton Foster in a recent interview. “It will be an eclectic evening with a

Foster spoke of some of her theatrical experiences, including as Janet Van De Graaff in “The Drowsy Chaperone.” That role was “a very appealing character in such an original and a smart show. It was a highly original musical, not based upon a previous book or movie. Singing ‘I Don’t Want to Show Off’ was like a dream come true role; just so much fun, and still a favorite.”

Miss Greater Springfield Crowned

Jennifer Gilbert, 23, of Fairfax, wins contest.

BY MONTIE MARTIN
THE CONNECTION

Glamour and grace were on full display at this year's 2013 Miss Greater Springfield beauty pageant, held Saturday, Sept. 22. A total of 13 contestants from across Virginia vied for a title to promote platforms of personal commitment to the community at large.

Contestants impressed judges with swimsuit and evening gown attire, a talent showcase and the all-important interview. In the end judges had to choose a candidate well-rounded in all four categories, and while every contestant was worthy of a title, the honor fell to 23-year-old Jennifer Gilbert of Fairfax.

Gilbert plans to use her title as Miss Greater Springfield 2013 to promote a platform of educating women with disordered eating habits. According to Gilbert, nearly 75 percent of young women have a negative perception of food, a trend she hopes to change.

"I hope to go to community high schools, town hall forums, and work with women to address disordered eating habits," said Gilbert. "The best way to help is to have a title, and be a local role model."

Gilbert competed amongst many notable young women, each with a platform of promoting a service to the community. Self-esteem building activities, music, art and dance education, support for the United Service Organizations, and promotion of service animals for people with physical and mental disabilities were some of the featured categories.

Herndon resident Grace Hu won first runner up with a platform of support for homeless children. The issue is especially close to Hu as she personally experienced homelessness as a child.

"When I was homeless I remember going to Marlows to bask in AC," said Hu, a veteran of the pageant circuit despite being only 18 years old. "I'm so blessed, I'm one of the youngest contestants here. It's a fun experience for all the girls, they're all friendly and intelligent; usually you don't associate beauty with brains."

The spirit award was given to Sarah Johnson, who traveled six hours from her home in Woolwine to compete. Johnson brought with her a flare for elegance in the talent competition with her dance performance. "It's about having a positive presence," said Johnson, who attends Rutledge

College. "Tonight I'm going to IHOP and officially pigging out."

In an emotional final address to the crowd, Miss Greater Springfield 2012 Catherine Blaire Borum emphasized the reality of beauty pageants, and the lifelong connections they form.

"The experience has nothing to do with Toddlers and Tiaras, some of my best friends were made here," said Borum, who plans to pursue her interests in speech and language pathology. "It's been an honor getting to meet all the people associated with the pageant, dreams do come true."

"This will certainly give me the opportunity to get out to Springfield more often."

Pageant organizers were quick to note the high caliber of all the contestants, and how earning a title paves the way for future endeavors. Organizers are confident Miss Greater Springfield has a chance to win the Virginia state title this year, with the hope of making it to the national stage and on to become Miss USA.

"This is the best pageant yet, we think we can have a Miss Virginia," said Jerry Burks, executive director of the Miss Greater Springfield Scholarship Organization. "These girls are like my daughters, some day these women can become members of Congress or go on to become president."

Hendersons Are Winners in Return to West Potomac

Bruins overcome 16-7 halftime deficit to beat Wolverines.

BY JON ROETMAN
THE CONNECTION/THE GAZETTE

The night before the West Potomac Wolverines and Lake Braddock Bruins met in a passionate Patriot District football contest on Sept. 21, former teammates Caleb Henderson and Demornay Pierson-El took part in some friendly banter over the phone.

In 2011, Henderson and Pierson-El were sophomore standouts for a high-powered West Potomac offense. Henderson was the quarterback and Pierson-El a receiver for a Wolverines team that won a share of the district title and reached the Division 6 Northern Region semifinals.

One year later, Henderson is the trigger man for the Lake Braddock offense and Pierson-El has moved to running back for West Potomac. He's also a safety on the Wolverines defense. While the two remain friends, on Friday they were foes battling to stay atop the district standings.

"He called me for about an hour last night, telling me about how he was going to [intercept] me," Henderson said after Friday's game.

Pierson-El made good on his prediction. In fact, he picked off Henderson twice. But when the game was over, it was the first-year Bruin signal caller who had the last laugh.

Lake Braddock defeated West Potomac, 37-23, on Friday night. It was the first time Henderson and his brother, Jon, a senior linebacker, returned for a game at West Potomac High School since they transferred from the Alexandria school to Lake Braddock during the 2011-12 school year. Their father, Eric Henderson, was the head football coach at West Potomac from 2004 through the 2011 season before being informed he would not return. The Henderson family moved to Burke and Eric became the Lake Braddock defensive coordinator. Former Wolverine assistants Sean Brooks and Dave Murray also joined the Bruins staff.

CALEB HENDERSON accounted for 388 yards of offense and four touchdowns. He completed 25 of 40 passes for 246 yards, two touchdowns and three interceptions.

He also carried 20 times for 142 yards and two scores. His 1-yard touchdown run in the third quarter gave Lake Braddock a 21-16 lead it would not relinquish.

"There's so much spotlight on Caleb and pressure, I said just play within the scheme, take the plays when they come to you and once he did that and settled down, he did a heck of a job," Lake Braddock head coach Jim Poythress said. "With Demornay and Caleb, you might be seeing the two best individual players in the region on the field at one time."

Caleb Henderson said the experience of playing at his former school was emotional during and after the game.

Lake Braddock quarterback Caleb Henderson on Sept. 21 led the Bruins to a win during his first game back at West Potomac High School, where he played varsity football as a sophomore.

"The emotion was definitely high because these guys are my brothers," Caleb said about his former Wolverine teammates. "I've known them since I was 4. I just miss them a lot. It sucked to have to hold some of them and watch them cry."

What was it like in the handshake line?

"It was sad," Caleb said. "I've got to be honest, it was sad. I miss them all."

What was it like on the field?

"That's just friends playing backyard football," he said. "It's always going to be chippy. It's always going to be rough."

Jon Henderson was part of a Lake Braddock defense that limited West Potomac to seven points in the second half.

"I played with [West Potomac] for three years. They're like brothers to me," he said. "When I came to Lake Braddock, they accepted me as a family and as a team member. I didn't want to let ... my team down by coming back to this place and losing."

LAKE BRADDOCK will host T.C. Williams at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 28. West Potomac will travel to face Annandale.

The U.S. Army has prepared an EA that considers the proposed implementation of the Privatization of Army Lodging program at Fort Belvoir, Virginia. The proposed action would transfer ownership and operation of Fort Belvoir's lodging facilities and lease the underlying land of the existing facilities and land for construction of a new hotel to a private-sector development company. Therefore, preparation of an environmental impact statement is not required in accordance with the National Environmental Policy Act. In accordance with Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act, this 30-day comment period will also serve as the public's opportunity to review and comment on any effects this undertaking may have on Fort Belvoir historic properties that are on or considered to be eligible for the National Register of Historic Places. Copies of the EA and Draft FNSI are available for review and comment online at <http://www.belvoir.army.mil> and at the following libraries: Van Noy Library, Fort Belvoir; the following branches of the Fairfax County Public Library system: City of Fairfax Regional, John Marshall, Kingstowne, Lorton, Richard Byrd, and Sherwood Regional; and the following branches of the Prince William County Public Library system: Lake Ridge Neighborhood and Chinn Park Regional.

Comments on the EA and draft FNSI should be submitted to Mr. Patrick McLaughlin, Chief of Environmental and Natural Resources Division, Directorate of Public Work, 9430 Jackson Loop Suite 200, Fort Belvoir, VA 22060-5116 or to imcom.fortbelvoir.dpw.environmental@us.army.mil. Comments must be received no later than 30 days after publication of this Notice of Availability. Subject to review and consideration of comments submitted by individuals, organizations, or agencies during the comment period, the U.S. Army intends to issue the final FNSI at the conclusion of the comment period and to proceed with the proposed action.
