The Connection

In a bitter and historically expensive battle, President Barack Obama defeated Gov. Mitt Romney, winning a second term Tuesday after grabbing the key swing state of Virginia after midnight.

With the addition of the Commonwealth's 13 electoral votes—as well as those of Colorado, Iowa, New Hampshire and Wisconsin—Obama sailed over the electoral cliff with the critical 270 electoral votes he needed for victory.

More than 200 Democrats gathered at the Tysons Sheraton Tuesday evening—some cautiously optimistic, some nervous—about the Democrats' chances of another four years for Obama in The White House.

Mondana Nicksolat, an Obama volunteer from McLean, said she was so nervous about Obama's chances for victory, "I feel like I'm getting ready to take a final exam. . . . I'm nervous. I'm not sure he will win," Nicksolat said. But as the evening wore on, Nicksolat became more optimistic.

"Obama shouldn't be called a politician," she said. "He is a human being. He has a lot in common with the American people. We are not all rich; we all did not go to elite schools; some of us are immigrants and we're Americans. Obama is with us."

Close to midnight, the Sheraton crowd erupted in cheers, hugs and tears when news networks projected the win for Obama.

"The country and women are safe for four more years," one guest shouted.

According to the Fairfax County Board of Elections, Obama won the county with nearly 60 percent of the vote.

Kaine Wins Senate Seat

It was one of the most competitive and closely-watched Senate races in the nation, but after 17 months of brutal campaigning, former Virginian Governor and DNC Chair Timothy M. Kaine grabbed the seat of retiring U.S. Sen. Jim Webb from former Governor George Allen. Kaine won 51.85 percent of the vote over Allen's 47.97 percent with 100 percent of the state's 2588 precincts reporting, according to the Virginia State Board of Elections.

The 11th District: Connolly

U.S. Rep. Gerry Connolly (D-11) knows how close a race can be on election night, beating challenger Keith Fimian in 2010 by a razor-thin margin, but Connolly handily defeated Republican challenger Chris Perkins Tuesday night along with four other candidates: Chris DeCarlo (Independent), Mark Gibson (Independent), Joe Galdo (Green Party) and Peter Marchetti (Independent Green Party). Connolly received 60.05 percent of the vote, or 163,212 votes, compared to Perkins's 36.22 percent of the vote with 98,456 votes.

"Tonight our voters also sent a message about our politics. They want more functional government," Connolly said, standing with his daughter and wife at the Sheraton. "They don't want more rabid, partisan rhetoric as a substitute for real solutions to real problems."

Connolly said he was honored "to have been reelected, by my widest margin ever, and to have received the thrust of our voters to represent them for the next two years. On their behalf I will fight for the values we share while seeking common ground to move our country forward."

Connolly also displayed his trademark wit when he told the crowd he had another announcement: "CBS News just called it for Tim Kaine. . . . Not so fast, Tea Party!"

The 10th District: Wolf

U.S. Rep. Frank Wolf (R-10), the most senior of the 11 members of the House of Representatives from Virginia, won his 17th consecutive term on Tuesday. This year, Wolf faced a challenge on two fronts: Democrat Kristin Cabral and Independent Kevin Chisholm fought hard to take his seat.

Wolf won 58.71 percent of the vote (194,817 votes) compared to Cabral's 38.38 percent of the vote (127,355 votes) with 192 of 195 precincts reporting at 1 a.m.

Wolf sits on the powerful House Appropriations Committee, where he is the chairman on the Commerce-Justice-Science subcommittee. In addition, he is the co-chairman of the Tom Lantos Human Rights Commission, a bipartisan organization made up of more than 200 members of Congress who work together to raise awareness about international human rights issues.

The 8th District: Moran

opponent J. Patrick Murray with 63.42 percent (174,974 votes) of the vote over Murray's 31.5 percent of the vote (86,910 votes). A senior member of the Appropriations Committee, Moran serves as the ranking member on the Subcommittee on the Interior and Environment and also serves on the Defense and Military Construction Subcommittees. Throughout his two decades of service in the House of Representatives, Moran has championed regional transportation solutions, the environment, women's issues, technology, fair and open trade, and fiscal discipline. He is also well known for his efforts to protect federal employees and military retirees.

The County Line

Long Lines on Election Day Revisited

Bulova calls for bi-partisan group to address the issue, improve election process.

By Victoria Ross
The Connection

While voter turnout in Fairfax County on Election Day was at an all-time high—80.5 percent of registered voters cast their ballots, compared to 78.7 percent in 2008—some voters faced long lines and endured hours of waiting on a chilly day to cast their ballots.

Lines and wait-times varied throughout the County's 237 precincts. Voters at Vienna's Flint Hill Elementary School reported ample parking and virtually no lines. At other locations however, lines snaked around elementary school parking lots and through buildings, and it was not unusual for voters to have an hour-long wait.

Long wait times and other voting-day issues concerned Board of Supervisors Chairman Sharon Bulova (D-at-large), who called for the creation of a bi-partisan commission to explore any inefficiency and analyze ways to streamline the process.

"While all together the day went well, I think it would be beneficial to examine what lessons we can learn from the 2012 Election," Bulova said on Wednesday, adding that she waited only 20 minutes at Villa precinct Tuesday morning to vote.

"I plan to present this issue to the Board of Supervisors at our next meeting and suggest the formation of a bi-partisan commission to identify ways to reduce lines, decrease wait times, and streamline our election process," she said. The next Board of Supervisors meeting takes place on Tuesday, Nov. 20.

She said the commission will review and make recommendations regarding Fairfax County's election process. "The commission will be asked to concentrate on ways to improve the County's efficiency on Election Day, with a specific focus on addressing wait times, long lines, and other voting issues," Bulova said.

ELECTIONS OFFICIALS said a shortage of poll volunteers coupled with complicated ballot questions, bond issues and confusion over County-wide redistricting meant some voters took much longer to finish their ballots.

At the Bailey's Crossroads precinct, where it had been reported that some voters waited for more than three hours, Cameron Quinn, the County's chief election official, said further investigation last week showed the last voter at the Skyline precinct voted at 9:30 p.m., according to the time stamp on the voting equipment. Polls closed at 7 p.m., so any voters arriving at 7 p.m. waited more than two hours before casting their ballots.

Some voters complained the County did not provide enough high-tech touchscreen voting equipment, preferred by 80 percent of voters over paper or optically-scanned ballots. According to election officials, there were between two and five touchscreens in every precinct this year, depending on the number of voters assigned to each precinct. Additionally, each precinct had one or two optical scan machines, and paper ballots for a projected 80 percent voter turnout.

"Rovers, who are in the field on Election Day to assist precinct officials with problems, also carry several spare machines in case of breakdowns. A number of these were rushed to precincts to prevent lines from building up too much when machines were down," Quinn said.

ONE OF THE KEY REASONS for some of the long waits was the lack of precinct volunteers, Quinn said.

"This is a longstanding issue that has become more acute across the entire country over the past decade, particularly in large urban and suburban areas," Quinn said. "Despite the County executive's extraordinary request to all County employees to sign up, using County administrative leave, to work for Election Day, there were relatively few additional officers resulting from that request."

"Given the extraordinary voter turnout, things went fairly smoothly on Election Day," Quinn said. "There were some precincts that had issues and problems, but no more than any presidential election, and smoother than anticipated, given the challenges as a result of Hurricane Sandy and the recent redistricting." While long lines created headaches for some Fairfax County voters, it was much worse in other parts of the state. In Prince William County, some voters faced five-hour waits before casting their ballots.

"Asking anyone to wait several hours is unacceptable," Virginia Democratic Party Chairman Brian Moran said in a statement Wednesday. "Why did it go so poorly this year and why were these long lines experienced? We're going to be a battleground state, so ultimately we don't want this to happen again. Let's take the proper steps. Let's fix it."

McLean Holiday Parade Set for Dec. 2

Mark your calendars for McLean's only community parade Sunday, Dec. 2. To register to be in the parade, go to the WinterFest site at www.mcleanwinterfest.org. WinterFest again this year will present a check to Share of McLean, the local organization that does so much to help families in need. "We're asking residents to share their good fortune with those who have fallen on hard times by bringing grocery, pharmacy or clothing store gift cards to the parade that Share volunteers will collect," said Trish Butler, chair of the parade steering committee.

What's new about WinterFest in this its fifth year? Food trucks and pizza by the slice from Naked Pizza. There will also be a tent in the Langley Shopping Center near the stage where the 495 Express Lanes team will be available to provide information and answer questions about the Express Lanes. Attendees will also be able to pick up an E-ZPass or E-ZPass Flex.

Here's more information about this year's parade:

- ❖ The parade route will be the same as last year's: Old Chain Bridge Road from Fleetwood Road to Elm Street. The parade route will be closed from 3 to 6:15 p.m. on Dec. 2.

- ❖ There is still no fee to be an entry in the parade. But you must register before Nov. 16.

- ❖ WinterFest 2012 will have food trucks this year along the parade route.

- ❖ Free popcorn from Cardinal Bank and hot beverages courtesy of Giant and McLean Pharmacy.

- ❖ Peggy Fox from WUSA/Channel 9 will again call the parade from the Fairfax County Showmobile situated in Langley Shopping Center.

- ❖ The pre-parade entertainment begins at 3:15 p.m.

- ❖ The parade will step off at 4 p.m.

For more information on WinterFest, go to the website at mcleanwinterfest.org or contact the parade committee at 703-917-0611.

Sending Coats, Blankets to New York, New Jersey

The spirit of community service runs deep in the Churchill Road Elementary community. In the week following Hurricane Sandy, a group of Churchill Road sixth graders organized a coat, blanket, and toiletry drive to help the victims in New York and New Jersey. In the words of sixth grade students Mitchell Farah and Jack Hoeymans, "We wanted to help the people who were hit hard by the storm. Our parents suggested a relief drive and we thought it was a good idea." After discussing the drive with Churchill Road principal Don Hutzal and assistant principal Sharon Jones, the boys used their student holidays on Nov. 5 and 6 to create posters describing the drive and place collection bins throughout the school. The outpouring from the community has been great and the boys expect they will be able to fill a truck, which some of their family members will drive to the stricken area.

Hurricane Sandy victims will receive many coats, blankets and other needed supplies thanks to the efforts of six Churchill Road students. Pictured with just one day's worth of contributions from the community are Churchill Road sixth graders Mitchell Farah, Kevin Kaldes, Whit Walter and younger brother Colin, Jack Hoeymans and Dillon Kaldes.

Shop Locally, Give Locally

Small business Saturday isn't enough; don't wait until then, and don't stop after that.

An effort to support locally owned businesses has resulted in the recognition of Small Business Saturday, the Saturday after Thanksgiving. This year that is Nov. 24. Black Friday, the day after Thanksgiving, a day of national zeal for shopping. Presumably the next day shoppers can focus on local shopping.

It sounds like an obligation, and it is. But there is a joy to shopping in local stores at the holidays, to walking along a sidewalk with the streets decked out for the holidays, to being greeted by someone likely to be the owner of the store, to finding gifts that are not mass-produced.

We all benefit when local stores thrive, when local business districts beckon.

Locally owned retail shops, services, restaurants depend on vibrant local communities to thrive. Most small, locally owned businesses invest in community, helping to transform our towns and communities with a sense of place.

Supporting small businesses, locally owned businesses, has to be more than a one-day affair.

The economy continues to improve slowly without inspiring. But still, local families will shop and exchange gifts during the next month, spending tens of millions of dollars in a variety of places.

One way to be sure holiday shopping comes with some holiday spirit is to do a portion of your shopping in some of the area's locally owned stores. There is special holiday ambience available by shopping in the heart of a town that is decked out for the season. Small retail shops are part of defining any community. Their livelihood depends on the livability and quality of the neighborhoods around them. A small business owner pays attention to every detail in his or her business in a way that no chain can.

Frequently, it is the small retail person who is active in fundraising for local charities, for fire and rescue service, for local schools and in organizing holiday events.

Local retail stores, mom-and-pop stores, face

Give Locally

Poverty and homelessness are sometimes hard to see in Northern Virginia, but there is no shortage of families in need locally, especially at the holidays. Here are some of the local organizations ready to help, and in need of your help. Financial contributions are always preferred.

Where to Give Locally

In no particular order:

- ❖ SHARE of McLean seeks donations of grocery gift cards and more. Checks and gift cards can be sent to: Holiday Celebration, Share, Inc. PO Box 210, McLean, VA 22101. 703-284-2179. www.SHAREofMcLean.org
- ❖ LINK, serving Herndon, Chantilly, Loudoun and more, needs contributions of food, coats and holiday toys for children, plus volunteers. More than 4,000 adults and children have signed up for help with Thanksgiving and Christmas meals. 703-437-1776 www.linkagainsthunger.org tough challenges right now. Competition from big box stores and online sellers makes the holiday shopping season all the more important to locally-owned retailers.

Everyone will do some of their shopping at the mall. Everyone will do some shopping online. But local shoppers should be sure to save some shopping time and dollars for local stores. Spend some time shopping in your own community, and also plan an excursion to a nearby town to check out the local businesses and holiday spirit there.

Letters to the Editor

Election Over, Now What?

To the Editor:

The election is over, and whether your candidate won or not, your job as an American is not over. We still remain in a deep economic slump, and there are many things that we as individuals can do to help the situation, that we all can agree on.

START A BUSINESS

As I was taking my constitutional walk a couple days ago, there were two young girls, about 10 years old, who had set up a table along the road. I stopped to speak with them. They said that they were raising money to start a business at Dulles Town Center. They said they were selling their Halloween candy, that they didn't need anyway, and they had $16 so far, in a jar. They explained that their mother was going to make clothes, and they were trying to get some seed money. I thought this was a small but inspirational example of a small business startup. Who knows what it will become? One thing is clear—it is not sending our money overseas. These kids were also learning a trait that will serve them, and America well, over the long term. Teach your kids this lesson. Our government also needs to step out of the way of small business startups, or they will not happen.

BUY AMERICAN

There are things that every consumer can do, and one of them is to preferentially purchase high quality products that are made in America. We do not need the government to change the tax code for this to help. Every dollar used to purchase something made in America, stays in America, and creates demand for the domestic companies to produce more. It is easy to determine what is made in the USA, as you just need to look on the label. It is even easier today, as there are Internet sites listed on Google which identify products of every type, that are made here at home. Try it this year when buying toys and gifts for the holidays. You say they cost more, but you surely see that every dollar spent on products made in the USA benefit the entire business chain, and probably contribute several dollars to our economy. Select well-made American products, and you will not need to return them or throw them away. Some, including this writer, have certain problems with actions of some of the unions in our country, but one thing we can all agree upon is that union workers make high quality products, including American automobiles.

DEMAND COOPERATION BETWEEN PARTIES

We all know that Congress is often deadlocked on political ideology, and cannot seem to do the right thing for all of America.

There should be debates on the pluses and minuses of alternate courses of action on issues, but the proper basis for choosing among options is not necessarily that which will garner votes in the next election, but that which will solve a problem that needs to be solved. Many issues being battled at the federal level today should not be settled at the federal level in a "one size fits all." What is terribly wrong with people settling their own affairs, so long as they do not harm other people? This is what we call freedom. Write letters or speak with your elected leaders and tell them they need to say No more often to special interests, and support them when they do. Filling up all the rice bowls with tax money is not desirable. It is clear that our 535 elected leaders in Congress need to work across party lines, and we need to hold them to it.

Stop Hunger Now in McLean

Volunteers assemble 250,000 meals for Haitian children.

By Lori Baker
The Connection

Last Saturday nearly 1000 volunteers gathered at McLean's Lutheran Church of the Redeemer to assemble more than 250,000 pre-packed meals. The volunteers knew that the project would help feed up to 800 Haitian children every day for about a year. But what they may not have known is how their effort last week will help change lives.

Once assembled, the bagged meals consisting of rice, soy, dried vegetables and vitamins, were packaged and loaded directly onto a shipping container in the church parking lot. Two days later, that container began its journey to Haiti.

What makes these pre-packed meals life changing is not just the sustenance it will give to those who often go without eating. While these meals will likely be the only meal that the Haitian children will eat each day, they will provide something even more important. The meals, which are distributed to students in Haiti through the organization, Mission of Hope, encourage families to send their children to school. This is important in a country whose families are so poor that they sometimes resort to sending children to landfills to find food, or to a street corner to beg, or even send them out as child prostitutes.

"I'm grateful that I live in a community where I have the opportunity to do things like this."

— Langley High School senior Ellen Sensiba

LONGTIME MCLEAN RESIDENT Bob Hahne and his wife heard about the Stop Hunger Now program, and committed to packaging a total of one million meals. Hahne, with the help of the church and McLean Rotary, put together a committee of community organizers. Now the committee includes representatives of the McLean,

Dunn Loring, and Tysons Rotary Clubs, local high schools, and a wide range of religious groups, just to name a few. Local busi-

Star Crossed Lovers Take Stage at Langley

Theatre department presents ‘Romeo and Juliet.’

By Alex McVeigh
The Connection

During Langley High School’s inaugural theater tech class, several students had a vision: Shakespeare’s character Juliet giving her famous speech on a scaffolding. The school’s upcoming production of “Romeo and Juliet” took on a new look after that idea, transforming the setting of the play from an Italian city to an apocalyptic future city.

“We were looking for a way in tech class to learn about building scaffolding, and once we came up with the idea of Juliet on a scaffolding instead of a balcony, we went from there,” said senior Alex Swann, head of the tech crew for the play. “In addition to the scaffolding, we had to build a lot of flats with a very futuristic, industrial feel to it. We wanted the set to feel very oppressive, and it’s been one of the biggest sets I’ve ever worked on.”

Gray bare metal streetlights and metal piping are surrounded by backgrounds containing multiple shades of gray, but nothing else. Though the play features a different setting than the source material, the students will be performing the play’s classic language.

“I’ve done Shakespeare before, so I knew the language would be a challenge, but this is my first lead,” said senior Chris Paul, who plays the role of Romeo. “It’s one thing to get used to it, to find the rhythm, but it’s also important to find the meaning, so it comes out sounding as natural as possible.”

Senior Kaitryn Evans, who plays the nurse, says she enjoys the role because she enjoys the nurse’s humorous nature, as well as her ability to get serious when it matters. Evans says many cast members are able to find common ground with their characters.

“I think the play has been cast very well, most of our roles in some way match the personality, which helps everything look more natural,” she said. “The characters’ actions in the play are all something the person playing them could do, except for the killing of course.”

The play features a large number of freshman, one of the highest turnouts from that class in years.

Langley High School senior Chris Paul, as Romeo, speaks to Juliet, played by junior Katherine Welch, during the play’s balcony scene.

The large cast also had to learn to work together as a crowd during some of the larger scenes

“With such a big ensemble, there are a lot of scenes, like the brawls and the parties, that have to be very organized in order to look chaotic,” said stage manager Shannon Keen, a senior. “This was my first major play as a stage manager, and it was a very enlightening process. It’s fun to work with the actors and tech department and see the things they go through to do their jobs.”

“Romeo and Juliet” will be performed at the Langley High School auditorium Nov. 15, 16 and 17 at 7:30 p.m. More information is available at www.saxonstage.com.

Inspired 'to Make a Difference'

Langley High School students inspiring teens around the globe.

The Connection

While many high school students are busy worrying about upcoming SAT exams and sport practices, Langley High School junior Jason Cui is busy heading Youth Inspire, a non-profit organization dedicated to supporting teen cancer patients one picture at a time.

At just 16 years old, the Great Falls resident not only serves as founder and executive director of the non-profit organization that was officially launched in August 2012, but has also taken it from a local movement to an international movement. With advocates in over 200 schools across 10 countries worldwide, Youth Inspire acts as a network for peer-to-peer support, help, and encouragement.

"Youth Inspire is basically an idea I had to connect teens worldwide with cancer patients to provide motivation and emotional support," said Cui.

THE IDEA came to him two years ago while he was competing at an international science fair after placing fourth at the national level with a science project examining the effects of Cordyceps sinensis on the adverse effects of current chemotherapy treatments. While at the competition, it was the interaction of students from all over the world and the support that he encountered, as well as encounters with cancer in his family, that inspired him to make an idea into reality.

"I spent about a year trying to fundraise on my own and refine ideas, and last summer, I reached out to kids in Langley to help," said Cui.

One of those classmates is 17-year-old

Founder and president of Youth Inspire, Jason Cui.

Ezzy Sriram, a junior at Langley. "We worked on Youth Inspire all summer," said Sriram. "I started off just making the website and wanted to get more involved." As chief operating officer, that is exactly what he did. Starting in July 2012, Sriram and Cui spent a month doing research on creating a non-profit organization and filling out paperwork.

"We worked on establishing a foundation and getting our name out there," said Sriram. "What set us apart was the fact that we were high school students and we had never done this before. We did all the research and got everything running in a professional sense."

With 40-50 active members at Langley High school, Youth Inspire locally coordinates with Inova Children's Hospital in Falls Church and is quickly growing as it inspires other local high schools to follow.

Youth Inspire is more than simply taking pictures; it is about connecting teenagers in a digitally operated world to show teen cancer patients the enormity of support behind them by fellow peers. "Support doesn't need to be financial," said Sriram. "We want to show people the satisfaction of helping and how easy it is to get involved."

Youth Inspire's "Teens Helping Teens" program embodies the organization's fundraising efforts by using digital media to capture teenagers from across the globe holding the Teens Helping Teens sign to show their support. For every picture the campaign gets, a charitable organization will donate $1 to Youth Inspire. In addition, the organization's interactive program, "YOU Inspire," allows the students to go to Inova Hospital in groups to pay frequent visits to interact and connect with patients their same age while providing emotional support in a variety of ways, whether it is simply by hanging out and talking, making cards, or playing games.

To date, the volunteers have raised $5,000 from "Teens Helping Teens," and an additional $5,000 from miscellaneous fundraising, including bake sales and car washes—not bad for an organization that is just shy of the three-month mark. The money is used to buy games and toys for patients, and will soon also help fund a third program, "Inspire Connect."

Cui got the idea for "Youth Inspire Connect" after going to the international science fair for a second time in the spring of 2012 and asking his international peers to take the movement to their local hospitals and schools. "One of their hospitals was not [technologically] equipped to give this kind of support; some of the patients were even barely receiving the treatments they needed. We decided we should try to provide them with an Ipad as a 'connector' to give support so the patients can use it to play with, research and communicate."

CHUI HOPES to send a few hundred Ipads by spring break. "I want to concentrate on rural areas in China and India, and eventually also areas in Germany and Korea," said Cui.

While Youth Inspire is a relatively young organization, its success can be attributed to the students' hard work, dedication, and enthusiasm for the movement and their peers. "I am very impressed by Youth Inspire," said Jamie Gentile, the director of child life services at Inova Children's Hospital. As director of child life services, Gentile coordinates any and all activities for the patients.

"It is completely student-run and I can already see they have all the ducks in a row better than some other professional non-profit organizations. The students are committed, enthusiastic and hard workers. They've put in a lot of time and energy, and they've done a phenomenal job," said Gentile. Both Cui and Gentile see a lasting partnership with Inova Children's Hospital.

With hopes to see Youth Inspire continue and spread, Cui and fellow volunteers have set a goal to raise $100,000 by the time they graduate in the spring of 2014. "Young people from around the world can use their own efforts to make a difference," said Cui. "Seemingly small acts can make a big difference."

Thieves Market Offers Holiday Gift Ideas

Antique furniture, art, home furnishings available at 60-year-old, family owned business.

By Alex McVeigh
The Connection

Since 1952, the Cohen family has operated the Thieves Market, featuring a wide variety of furniture, jewelry, art and other household goods that might be difficult to come by in other places. In their 60 years of existence, dignitaries from around the world have shopped their selection of 18th and 19th century American and European antiques, porcelain, bronzes, furniture, candlesticks, Persian and Oriental rugs, mirrors, chandeliers and more.

"We specialize in one-of-a-kind gifts that last forever," said owner Kaplan Cohen. "Sweaters won't last more than a couple of years, but something you can find here, that you give your mother for Christmas, will become a family heirloom in the years to come, something that's passed along from generation to generation."

Their most popular items during the holiday season are china crystal, silver items and jewelry, according to staff.

"I used to come here to look at the big items, the antique mirrors, the furniture, the statues," said Cathy Roth of Great Falls. "Then I discovered their selection of smaller things, like the jewelry and the antique pocket watches, which are a lot of fun to check in on every few weeks."

The store, located in downtown McLean, is packed with as many items as employees can fit on the floor, with antique furniture next to large statues next to tables stacked with antique dishes.

"It's always a bit chaotic here, sometimes it gets organized for two or three days, and then we get a new truck in, and it gets chaotic again," Cohen said. "I really like the art, I don't think people guess that Thieves Market is a place with a lot of art, but I really enjoy browsing everything that comes in," said Jon Collins of McLean. "I sort of have a routine, where I go around the perimeter to check out the paintings, then I check out the sculptures. I wasn't much of a sculpture fan, but they get such a variety in, it's fun to compare different styles, you can really get a sense of what you like and why you like it."

Thieves Market is located at 6811 Old Dominion Drive in McLean, and updates on their latest items can be found on their Facebook page, at www.facebook.com/ThievesMarket.

Thanksgiving Centerpiece Ideas: Flowers Not Required

Floral design pros share secrets to creating swoon-worthy centerpieces.

By Marilyn Campbell
The Connection

While the turkey is often the star of a Thanksgiving dinner table, a nonedible focal point can play a leading role in creating an elegant dinner table aesthetic. From lush floral arrangements to designs without blooms, three local floral design pros offer ideas for spectacular centerpieces that can be replicated easily at home.

"We usually suggest low containers for the Thanksgiving dinner table," said Jenny Park, a floral designer with Reston Floral Design in Reston. "I use things that represent harvesting, like pumpkins or artificial fruit like grapes and apples."

Floral designer Alison de Wit, of Distinctive Floral Designs in Great Falls, suggests going horizontal: "Create a runner of sorts at the midpoint of a long table with blooms and autumn harvest elements. These can be placed in a lush carpeted type form to create a meandering avenue of décor or grouped along the length of the table. The effect is one of abundance and is particularly aesthetically pleasing when paired with groupings of candles of different heights [such as] pillar candles, votive candles or floating candles."

Old Town Alexandria-based designer Rebecca A. Henry often includes elements of nature. "Incorporate leaves — either dried or fresh," said Henry. Henry owns Petal's Edge Floral Design with her business partner, Arlington resident Gerry Rogers. "Fresh leaves don't hold up very well, so preserved leaves are actually a better choice with gourds and mini-pumpkins. They add a touch of nonfloral, and Thanksgiving arrangements tend to veer toward nonfloral."

DESIGNERS SAY GLASS, basket or pumpkin containers are ideal for Thanksgiving. "If you want to do something contemporary, but still stay within that feeling of fall, use a glass container but fill it with something like cranberries or coffee beans to give it the color

Secrets to Creating Centerpieces

"Greens can diverge from the traditional to a mélange of hues from soft mint to deep leaf green. Lambs ear, seeded eucalyptus, variegated ruscus, pittisporum and papyrus all provide a lovely aesthetic within a composition. Likewise, feathers are a beautiful component of mixed medium pieces."

Make use of the woody elements that are in abundance now. "Popular things to incorporate into fall centerpieces are dried pods like lotus pods or cattails, dried wheat, dried pomegranates, dried fruits or anything that reminds you of harvest time," said Henry. "Most of these dried items can be picked up at a craft store."

Use sentimental or personal pieces to create an elegant presentation. "Rather than having a singular arrangement ... create a tableaux with floral or organic pieces to form a pleasing central theme," said de Wit. "This would include a grouping of smaller vases — and these can be special pieces from personal collections or all glass, ceramic or antique pieces. This offers an interesting variant on a single arrangement."

Marika Meyer, of Meyer Interiors, in Washington, said, "Look for flowers that are in the autumn palette but might be out of season. I recently saw a beautiful arrangement of French tulips in oranges and reds, but used on a tablescape with gourds, it was a fresh take on a flower arrangement."

Inexpensive flowers are in vogue. "This is a great time of year to use less expensive flowers that are not always highly prized like mums," said Henry. "At this time of year that it what is in the garden, so those make a lot of sense in Thanksgiving arrangement."

Consider mixing warm and cool tones, as well. "Color for autumn arrangements were traditionally the rich saturated orange, yellow and reds," said de Wit. "These colors retain their popularity but are often augmented with deep purples and blues to offer a counterpoint to the warm tones. Perennially popular blooms are hydrangea, roses, sunflowers and dahlia."

Langley Secures State Tournament Berth

Saxons turn season around after early loss to South Lakes.

By Jon Roetman
The Connection

The Langley volleyball program has been one of the best in the Northern Region in recent years and the 2012 team figured to be strong, as well. But after a 5-1 start, the Saxons received a wake-up call.

Langley lost its Liberty District opener to South Lakes, 3-1, on Sept. 6. Saxons Head Coach Susan Shifflett believes it was the first time South Lakes had ever defeated Langley.

"I feel like [the loss to South Lakes] was such a beneficial thing for us," Langley senior setter Jenna Dean said recently. "Even though it was a loss on our record in a district game, we fought after that. ... We came into the season knowing that we were going to be pretty good and I feel that loss really put us in our place. We need to work. Talent doesn't get you anywhere unless you put it out there."

Four days later, Langley dropped its next match against Potomac Falls, 3-1. From that point, however, the Saxons won 19 of their next 20 matches, including a victory against Fairfax for the Liberty District championship on Nov. 3, and a come-from-behind win against Madison in the Northern Region semifinals on Nov. 8 at Centreville High School.

THE DISTRICT TITLE was Langley's first since 2007, the year the Saxons finished state runner-up. Langley had finished district runner-up to Stone Bridge each of the last four seasons, but the Saxons didn't get a chance for another rematch as the Bulldogs lost to Fairfax in the district semifinals. Langley defeated Stone Bridge, 3-2, in the regular season finale on Oct. 25.

On Nov. 10, however, Stone Bridge returned the favor, beating Langley, 3-1 (25-18, 23-25, 26-24, 25-11), in the region final at Centreville. The Saxons' season continued, though, as the semifinal win against Madison meant Langley had secured a berth in the state tournament.

"We're considered the underdog," Dean said. "However, we don't consider ourselves the underdog. Our team is so cohesive and so functional, it's stuff that other teams don't have."

In the region final against Stone Bridge, junior Alex Andrejev and sophomore Rachel Andrejev each had 11 kills for Langley. Freshman Jessica Donaldson had nine kills. Alex Andrejev is a first-team All-Northern Region selection who recently committed to Columbia University.

"She's our stud," Shifflett said. The Langley coach also praised the performance of Rachel Andrejev and Donaldson against Stone Bridge.

"You've really got to hand it to them that they both stepped up and really went for it," she said. "They didn't hide from the challenge. I'm really proud of how our young kids did."

Langley Football Advances to D5 Semifinals

The No. 5 Langley football team defeated No. 4 Hayfield, 21-14, in the quarterfinal round of the Division 5 Northern Region playoffs on Nov. 9 at Hayfield Secondary School.

Langley (7-4) will travel to face No. 1 Stone Bridge at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 16. Stone Bridge defeated Langley, 27-6, during the regular season on Oct. 5. The Bulldogs are 11-0.

Langley Football All-District Honors

Twelve members of the Langley football team received All-Liberty District honors.

Running back Phil was named Offensive Player of the Year and was a member of the first team. Jack Howerton (offensive guard, defensive lineman) and Phil Novacki (receiver, linebacker) were each named first-team all-district for both offense and defense.

Quarterback Nick Casso, defensive end Kyle West and defensive back Aaron Yi were each named to the second team. Alex Kolencik (center), Brooks Norris (guard), Philip Antypas (tight end), Andrew Gentry (defensive end), Kevin Fisher (linebacker) and Garrett Collier (defensive back) each garnered honorable mention.

Langley got off to a rough start, falling behind, 13-2, in the opening set before making things competitive.

"We've played this team before many times," Alex Andrejev said. "It was like the energy had to pick up and once we got the momentum back on our side, then we really started to [make] good plays and we were back in it."

After splitting the first two sets, Stone Bridge scored the final three points to secure the pivotal third set, 26-24, before cruising in the fourth set, 25-11.

LANGLEY TRAVELED TO ROANOKE to face Patrick Henry on Tuesday in the state quarterfinals on Tuesday, which was after The Connection's deadline. If the Saxons won, they would advance to the semifinals at 7 p.m. on Thursday, Nov. 15 at VCU's Siegel Center.

"They're very resilient," Shifflett said about her players. "Jenna Dean is a little fireball of the group. She just keeps them positive and keeps them going."

nesses, Chain Bridge Bank and Wheat's Landscaping, are big contributors. The group focuses on fundraising and volunteer recruitment. To date, the program has assembled more than 700,000 meals. After next year, the program will reach its goal of one million meals.

Dominic Alexander is the program manager for the national capitol office of Stop Hunger Now. He works closely with Hahne to run the McLean program. Stop Hunger Now provides the meal ingredients for the project for about .25 cents per meal. Alexander calls it his largest and favorite event of the year.

"The idea of hungry people transcends any religion, any group, any age. Folks coming together here to package meals, it just shows that we can come together to collaborate and cooperate," said Dominic Alexander, "regardless of our own religious beliefs."

At first glance, one might think that the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer was hosting a party. The large gymnasium was filled with hundreds of smiling faces of all ages. The pop music was loud, which the younger volunteers loved, and the older volunteers didn't seem to mind. Every few minutes a thunderous gong would clang followed by an eruption of cheers. The gong marked another 1,000 meals assembled.

"It's really meaningful to be making meals for people on the other side of the world who are starving," said Langley High School senior Ellen Sensiba. "It's really meaningful and really rewarding. I'm grateful that I live in a community where I have the opportunity to do things like this."

SANDY KESSINGER is the new pastor at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, which lends its facilities to the event each year. She joined the church in January of this year. "This is my first experience with Stop Hunger Now," she said. "It's a phenomenal way for the faith community and the whole community in McLean to come together. It's fantastic to see many of the young people giving of themselves today. It's just awesome."

Fourth grade Girl Scouts Audrey Wallach, Lauren Coakley, Lilee Keeler, and Charlotte Henry, from the Langley School in McLean, get ready to start the third shift.

A.O. "K," Emotionally

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

Well, I did, along with 2,000 or so other like-minded individuals, walk the Walk on November 4th: Five Ks, although not exactly the route mapped out by the literature provided by the LUNgevity Foundation. (If truth be told, our group, "Team Kenny's Column" veered off course prematurely by a "K" or so to attend to some prearranged business, unfortunately). Nevertheless, we started the Walk behind the Washington Monument, then alongside the Reflecting Pool up toward the Lincoln Memorial, stopped at the steps for a "photo op," then returned on the other side of the Reflecting Pool back down to 7th Street, then across the Mall - with the U.S. Capitol in our sights, finally turning back along the sidewalk bordering the Mall and returning to the Start/Finish.

Twenty-two registrants from our "team" paid their money and made their presence felt. Spirits were high even though the temperature was low, in the 40s. Still, the sun was mostly shining, the breeze was light, and the turnout was record-setting, as was the money raised: over $261,000 as of November 10, 2012 (the site, www.LUNgevity.org will remain active/open through December 31st for donations), and the greater good was most definitely served.

As a "survivor," I was given a green t-shirt with "Survivor" printed on the front; the other participants received blue t-shirts without being so identified. In addition, we all received LIVESTRONG-type wrist bracelets with "www.lungevity.org" and "Cure Lung Cancer" printed on them. I wore my bracelet proudly that day, (as everyone did) and even kept it on my wrist when I went to bed that night. However, I had trouble sleeping and attributed it to the bracelet reminding my brain that I have cancer. Feeling a physical reminder like that touched me - subconsciously. And though I may wear my emotions on my sleeve, as you regular readers know, having such a constant reminder of my cancer diagnosis dangling on my wrist didn't seem to help me fall asleep. I know I have cancer. I don't need to be convinced. Nor do I need to be reminded all the time. Forgetting helps too.

And if I did forget about having cancer, it would qualify as a mental health moment. Being diagnosed with cancer is bad enough, especially the kind (non-small cell lung cancer, or NSCLC) that I have, which is, at present, incurable/terminal ("Treatable," my oncologist said, "but not curable;" words I never imagined hearing at age 54 and a half). Forgetting about my diagnosis, as often as possible and living life - as normally as possible, has been a part of my process diagnosis-to-date. Though sometimes it seems irresponsible to do so, and almost inappropriate even, concentrating and focusing on it/the disease/my compromised life expectancy shall we say, 24-7 seems counter-productive. It's sort of a bastardized version of: "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em." Somehow, I have to live my life like I have a life, not like I have a cancer. I'm not giving up, and I'm not giving in. I'm just making the best of bad situation. And as bad as it is, I don't need to make it any worse. If it sounds counter-intuitive, it probably is. But that's life in the cancer lane. One conundrum after another.

Participating in Breathe Deep DC/ LUNgevity Foundation's 5K made that life better. And "better" is all I can ask for. Thanks to all who organized, volunteered, participated and donated their time, energy and money. See you all next year.
