Competitive state races give voters more choices this election cycle.

> By Victoria Ross The Connection

he 2012 presidential election is history, and that means another three years before a major election for Virginia voters.

While this year's combative race for governor is clearly the one to watch, savvy Virginia voters know that every year is an election year in the commonwealth, and this year is no exception.

According to an official candidate list released in August by the Virginia State Board of Elections, the state's House of Delegates race is shaping up to be the most competitive in a decade.

Fifty-seven House seats are contested this November — marking only the second time in the last decade where at least half of the 100 House seats will have more than one name on the ballot.

2013 is also the second election cycle since the House Republican leadership redrew district boundaries following the 2010 Census. In 2011, voters in nearly two-thirds of the 100 House districts had no choice on the ballot.

Of the 57 contested races, 44 include races with at least one Republican and one Democrat, and most of the two-party races on the ballot will take place in the state's political frontline—Northern Virginia.

To help voters make informed decisions about their choice for state lawmakers, who make critical decision affecting residents' everyday lives, we sent short questionnaires to all house candidates whose names qualify to appear on the ballot. Please note that responses to our questions are published as submitted by the candidates. They are not edited except to comply with predetermined and stipulated word limita-

42nd District Delegate

Ed R. Deitsch is challenging Republican incumbent David Albo in the 42nd district.

Job Description: The House of Delegates has legislative power, with the Senate, to enact laws. Delegates serve a 2-year term and are eligible for re-election. The salary is $17,640 per year. A delegate must be at least 21 years old at the time of election and be a resident of the district he/she Q: What is your legislative priority this session?

Deitsch: I have three priorities, first would be a repeal of the mandatory ultrasound bill. Second would be finding additional funding for our schools, and third would be Medicaid expansion.

Albo: Using the Transportation Bill I co-authored, repave Keene Mill and residential streets. Continue to make government work so that companies will bring jobs to NOVA. Continue to keep Southern Va. from taking our education funds.

Q: What makes you the better candidate?

Deitsch: I will fight for the rights of all Virginians. My opponent voted 13 times to restrict a woman's right to choose and then joked about the ultrasound bill on the house floor. I believe that women should be trusted to make their own choices without the interference of a politician. I will be a full-time delegate, working all year for my constituents.

Albo: Instead of being preoccupied with social issues, I concentrate on delivering solutions. Congress in DC is obviously broken. In Virginia, we get along with each other and time, every year.

Q: In your role as a state legislator, how would you impact the lives of your constituents?

Deitsch: Everything a state legislator does impacts his or her constituents. School funding, Medicaid expansion, transportation, gun safety, air qualitv. Laws and budgeting on these issues and more has an effect on all of our everyday lives, on our quality of life.

Albo: I helped build South County High and Fairfax County Pkwy., delivered $399/student additional state money to Fairfax Schools, created hundreds of new in-state slots at Virginia colleges, and donated Ω my legislative salary to charity.

Q: Tell us something about yourself that you think people would find surprising—a hobby, a talent, or an interesting Deitsch: There are two things I think people should know. First, I spent five years as a stadium announcer for professional soccer. Second would be that in my position with the Humane Society of the United States' National Disaster Animal Response Team I have been associated with the rescue of several thousand animals.

Albo: I played trombone in the WSHS Band. Using that deliver balance budgets, on training, I taught myself guitar at age 40. Now my band, featuring my wife, Rita, on tambourine, rocks it out at Empire in West Springfield.

Two Speakers to Address Republican Women of Clifton

he Republican Women of Clifton (RWC) November meeting will feature Tom Fitton, president of Judicial Watch, and Nancy Schulze, founder of the Republican Congressional Wives Speakers in Washington, D.C.

The event will be on Wednesday, Nov. 20, at the Fairview Elementary School, 5815 Ox Road, Fairfax Station. The social hour will begin at 7 p.m. when refreshments will be served. President Alice Butler-Short will open the business meeting at 7:30 p.m., after which Fitton and Schulze will speak and answer questions.

Tom Fitton is president of Judicial Watch, the public interest group that investigates and prosecutes government corruption. Founded in 1994, Judicial Watch seeks to ensure government and judicial officials act ethically and do not abuse the powers entrusted to them by the American public. He has helped lead Judicial Watch since 1998 and overseen its growth and success in recent years. Under Fitton's leadership, Judicial Watch was named one of Washington's top 10 most effective government watchdog organizations by The Hill newspaper. Fitton has testified before Congress and is a nationally recognized expert on government corruption, immigration enforcement, congressional and judicial ethics and open government. He has appeared on ABC, CBS, NBC, CNN, FOX NEWS, C-SPAN and MSNBC.

Tom Fitton Nancy Schulze

In 2008, Schulze founded the Republican Congressional Wives Speakers in Washington. That year she also served on the National Steering Committee for the presidential campaign. Schulze served as the director of celebrities for the Dole/Kemp presidential campaign, with a production rate that had the top brass at the campaign referring to her as "The 800 Pound Gorilla." She serves on the Board of the Republican Women's Federal Forum in Washington, D.C. and is a member of The Council for National Policy, The Republican Congressional Spouses & The Congressional Club.

Attendance at the meeting is open to RWC members and their guests, associate members, members of other Republican Women's Clubs and all women interested in becoming members.

Making Voters Feel Welcome, No Matter Their Language

County election officials have stepped up outreach efforts and volunteer recruitment efforts.

By Victoria Ross The Connection

t's been nearly a year since more than 450,000 Fairfax County voters cast their ballots at 237 precincts in the 2012 presidential election, and for most voters, the process was quick and painless.

But long lines and even longer wait times at some polls frustrated voters and prompted Fairfax County to investigate what went wrong.

Making sure that history does not repeat itself, Board of Supervisors Chairman Sharon Bulova set up a special bipartisan Election Commission less than two weeks after the 2012 election to look into what caused the long lines, whether poll workers were trained properly and why some voters just gave up and went home.

Appointed by the Board of Supervisors, the 2013 Bipartisan Election Process Improvement Commission consists of county residents who represent the county's supervisory districts, communities within the county and organizations. Katherine Hanley, former chair of the the Board of Supervisors, and Stuart Mendelsohn, former Dranesville supervisor, co-chaired the commission.

One of the key reasons for the problems, election officials said, was a shortage of poll

This year, Cameron Quinn, the county's chief election official, and the county's Electoral Board have been working together to implement some of the 50 recommendations made by the bipartisan committee in May

"We've been doing a number of things since January to improve outreach and make things go smoothly for every voter this year," Quinn said last week. "We've done a lot more targeting of messages to people who need it, senior and disabled population, and we've been able to provide more bi-lingual volunteers at precincts that need language assistance."

In addition to printing all voting materials in English and Spanish, a federal requirement, Quinn said the county will have English/Spanish bi-lingual volunteers at every precinct, as well as Korean-speaking volunteers at some polling precincts with large Korean populations.

"I was touched with Korean community's efforts to help us translate materials and provide volunteers," Quinn said. "And so we're trying to encourage other pockets. My next target is Vietnamese. We've also printed recruitment brochures in Farsi, Arabic, Chinese Korean, French, and Spanish."

Another key improvement was raising the

Highlights of Bipartisan Election

Consider raising election officers' pay and increasing the number of rovers

The Office of Elections is considering the following recommendations to determine which may be implemented.

- * Refer to "electronically scanned" ballots, not "paper"
- ❖ Configure lines and precinct room layout for maximum efficiency ❖ Meet with EO teams the night before
- election to set up and for a quick review of duties
- Post maps outside rooms of co-located precincts
- ❖ Be sensitive to and assist voters with disabilities and those with limited English skills

"One thing we knew even before November was that we needed to begin thinking of replacing our aging voting equipment," Schoeneman said. "We have made significant progress in that area and are evaluating a variety of systems with a goal of implementing a new, fully integrated system by November 2014."

The Board of Supervisors allotted $6 million for new equipment this year, which Quinn said gives the election office "more breathing room" to implement some improvements.

Last week, the Sully District precinct, received its first Ballot on Demand machine. Adrienne Free of Fairfax, an election offimajority of the recommendations the commission made and most of those recommendations are being implemented right now or will implemented in the future," said Brian Schoeneman, a Fairfax County attorney and secretary of the Electoral Board.

cial stationed at the precinct, said the new technology would make it easier for both voters and volunteers.

"We have literally dozens of different ballot combinations of offices," Free said. "With the new equipment, we won't have to print as many ballots."

In some election years, like the upcoming 2015 elections, election officials will juggle more than 80 different ballots to accommodate the various jurisdictional boundaries across Fairfax County.

The multiple ballots are especially difficult to handle with absentee ballots and absentee in-person voting at the satellite locations and the Government Center, where officials have to have every single ballot combination available to allow every voter in Fairfax to vote.

"Ballot on demand technology lets us get around the need to print thousands of copies of each ballot and have them available, especially in the satellites and Government Center," Schoeneman said.

Instead, election officers can print the ballot for voters at the time they check-in, saving the time of finding the correct ballot, saving the money of printing thousands of ballots no one will ever use, and reducing errors caused by handing out incorrect ballots to voters.

"Many jurisdictions around the country are moving to this model and we hope Fairfax — if the tests are successful — will help lead the way here in Virginia," Schoeneman said.

An App for Election Day Information

Voting information for the Nov. 5 election is easily accessible on a smartphone. After downloading the county's app for Android or iPhone, residents can:

- ❖ Verify your voter registration and your registration address.
- Review a sample ballot and determine your choices before driving to the poll.
- Find poll location and driving directions to get there.
- ❖ Link to the Office of Elections' web page for easy access to other vital information.

Download the free Fairfax County app at www.fairfaxcounty .gov/news/mobile, or search Fairfax County Government on Google Play or the Apple App Store. Once you download and launch the Fairfax County app, look for the "Vote" icon.

"All Fairfax County voters with smartphones can take advantage of this opportunity to get critical election information on the go," said Fairfax County General Registrar Cameron Quinn. "The app will be a tremendous help on Election Day, Nov. 5, particularly for those coming from someplace other than home who may want driving directions."

In 2008, 74.5 percent of Virginia's registered voters turned out to vote in the presidential election. In 2009, the last time Virginians elected a governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general and members of the House of Delegates, just 40.4 percent of registered voters came out to vote.

That is to say that 1.7 million voters went missing in the commonwealth.

Vote 'Yes' on the School Bond

To the Editor:

I am writing to help inspire your readers to vote "yes" on the 2013-2014 Fairfax County School bond referendum on Nov. 5th. If you vote yes you are supporting prudent reinvestment of money back into our world class school system that helps attract new businesses to Fairfax County, one of the best places to live and work in the U.S. Delaying capital improvements will result in a lower quality education to a growing student population. Our children deserve to have excellent facilities, resources and a highly educated and talented staff so they can be successful through college and in their working years.

These school bonds are issued at a low interest rate and will fund the construction of new schools and improve more than 20 FCPS facilities across the county! As you know, construction costs are at an all-time low and therefore the timing is now. We need to make those improvements! Our continued growth has resulted in more students being taught in temporary "trailer" classrooms because the current school buildings do not have the space for increased enrollment. Building more classrooms will provide the learning environment our kids need and will maintain Fairfax County's reputation for top-notch public schools.

When your readers vote "yes," they are also supporting over 2,000 community organizations that use these FCPS facilities and about 250,000 of your friends and neighbors that participate in recreational activities on school grounds. The benefits to our children and the community are invaluable and the only vote that makes sense is "yes." On Nov. 5th, please vote to support our schools by voting "yes" on the school bond referendum.

schools as well as an essential investment in the heart of our community. It is important to note that the building and renovation of our schools are not financed through the school system's operating budget, but through bond referendums. Each referendum is developed with the combined input of the community, school board and school staff, who together develop funding priorities for construction and renovation of our school infrastructure.

More than a place for instruction, our school buildings across the county are used as places for community gatherings and activities. Each year, more than 2,000 community organizations use these facilities for recreation activities, teen centers and child-care programs. Last year alone, over 184,000 meals were served to senior citizens in school buildings across the county. Chances are, you will be casting your vote from a facility whose construction was funded by a bond of years past.

Our school facilities are invaluable in ways beyond educating our children, which is why it is so important to invest in the future of Fairfax County. On Nov. 5, I encourage everyone in our community to vote "yes" on the school bond referendum

Blame on Both Sides

To the Editor:

In Mr. Connolly's editorial ["The Damage Is Already Done," Connection, Oct. 24-30, 2013] he comes off as victim in this game called politics, when really all that comes from the Congress is lies, deceit and corruption, from both sides. I remind you that all of Congress' (not just the Republicans) approval ratings have reached depths never before seen in our nation's history. I also remind you that you passed legislation that controls 1/6th of our nation's economy, without a single "yes" vote from the other side of the aisle. There was no discussion, just slippery back room deals, followed by a last minute change in procedure by Harry Reid to ram this legislation through.

We are now seeing the result of your incompetence in the fact that, after $600MM dollars of taxpayer money, you can't even get the website to work. I'm sure you're proud. Further, nobody seems to want to be accountable. We hear "let's just look forward for a solution." No! That's not how it works in "real life." In my house, when my kids screw up we discuss accountability, we assign appropriate punishment, then we move forward to ensure that the screwups don't recur. That's real life, Mr. Connolly, not the fantasy land that you are lucky enough to enjoy.

around defeating the ACA, it seems you have forgotten the landslide election in 2010 where the American people cast their votes, in an attempt to put a stop to this madness. One thing I do agree with, Mr. Connolly, and that is that America deserves better. We deserve better than you, and we deserve better than all of the hypocrites (on both sides) that currently roam the halls of Congress without a clue about what they're doing or a care about anyone but yourselves, your job security and your special interests.

Frightened By Runaway Government

To the Editor: Kudos to the staff member in Congressman Gerry Connolly's office who gussied up Democratic National Committee talking points in the congressman's recently published editorial ["The Damage Is Already Done, Connection, Oct. 24-30, 2013].

Regarding your comments round defeating the ACA, it teems you have forgotten the landide election in 2010 where the merican people cast their votes, a an attempt to put a stop to this ladness. One thing I do agree Interesting that there was no mention or hint of the enormous financial implications of Obamacare in his simplistic and lecturing piece, nor any quarter given to those who are frightened and outraged at big, runaway government.

Could it be that Republicans on the Hill were trying to avoid the Shutdown (with a capital S, you know, the one that comes when your debt is so big no one will lend you any more money and you're forced to lay off government workers permanently?).

According to the GAO's February 2013 report, Obamacare will add $6.2 trillion to the long-term deficit, adding greatly to our jaw dropping $17 trillion dollar US deficit. (The average American household's share of this debt stands at about $140,000.)

All told, our government's unsustainable entitlement spending a-la Social Security, Medicare, federal employees' future retirement benefits, and now Obamacare,

Fairfax County Sheriff's Race Heats Up

Kincaid, Wolfe trade barbs over guns, vandalism.

By Victoria Ross
The Connection

ike many of her neighbors, Vienna resident Jane Li said she didn't know Fairfax County had a sheriff's department until a few weeks ago.

"That's when I started to see the campaign signs along Hunter Mill Road, and I thought I should find out what the sheriff does," she said.

The sheriff's office, with more than 600 employees and a $60 million budget, has three primary functions: operating the Adult Detention Center, providing security in the courthouse, and serving civil papers, such as eviction notices, child protective orders and subpoenas.

"The police do a good job of rounding up the bad guys, and the sheriff's deputies make sure they stay where they're supposed to," said Supervisor Jeff McKay (D-Lee), a reserve deputy sheriff himself. "Most people don't know the sheriff exists because they're not doing anything wrong."

"This race matters," McKay said. "There's the potential for a lot of things to go wrong in courthouse security. We've never had that happen. No one has escaped from the jail; no tragedies at the courthouse; the sheriff's department returns money to the general fund, and deputies do a lot of things that we take for granted."

Fairfax County Sheriff's Capt. Stacey Kincaid, the Democratic candidate, and her Republican opponent, retired Fairfax City Police Officer Bryan A. Wolfe, agree the campaign is an opportunity to educate residents about the role of sheriff.

But that may be the only issue on which they agree.

Kincaid, a 26-year-veteran of the sheriff's department, said her first order of business if elected would be to sign the Civil Service Protection Agreement which guarantees due process for department employees.

"I've been on record and said countless times that the primary thing it does it prevents any employee for being fired without just cause and prevents any political retaliation," Kincaid said.

Wolfe does not see the protection agreement as a priority. "That's a critical difference between me and my opponent," Kincaid.

Instead, Wolfe said his first act as sheriff would be to "modernize" the department with video recording equipment in the jail.

"Video cameras protect inmates and deputies in the jail and the cameras protect the taxpayer from frivolous lawsuits and suspicion of law enforcement generated by lawsuits," said Wolfe, who said that Kincaid "has said several times that it's too costly" and "it's a solution for a problem that doesn't exist."

The contest is the only county-wide office on the ballot this year, a special elec-

Stacey Kincaid, a 26-year veteran with the Fairfax County Sheriff's Department, in front of the Fairfax County Democratic Committee headquarters on Oct. 21.

Bryan Wolfe, a retired officer with the Fairfax City Police, was selected Officer of the Year twice during his 26 years with the police department.

On the Issues

STACEY KINCAID has made diversity a key issue of her campaign:

"Diversity is as important to me as it is to the citizens that I will serve. When I became a deputy sheriff in 1987, women were underrepresented in policing. The same can be said of many other underrepresented groups as well. The Fairfax Sheriff's Office has been slow to adapt to the change. No longer can values be self-serving. It is my belief that the Office of the Sheriff must face up to the evolving needs of the community and the expectations placed upon its top leadership. I am committed to developing new strategies and approaches that can be used to increase our effectiveness and, in turn, better serve our community. I am deeply committed to equal protection of the rights of all members of our commution to fill the post held by Democrat Stan Barry, who retired midway through his fourth term in July.

If elected, Kincaid will become the first woman sheriff in the County's history, and one of a handful of women sheriffs in the nation. A 26-year veteran of the sheriff's office, Kincaid has worked all four divisions. She began her career with the sheriff's office in 1987 as a summer intern, and in 2008, she received the agency's highest honor, the Distinguished Service Award.

A self-proclaimed "rookie politician," Kincaid soundly defeated acting Sheriff Mark Sites for the nomination in a July caucus, 63 percent to 37 percent. She won with the guidance of Kate Hanley, a family friend and former chair of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors.

Wolfe garnered the Republican nomination in late August. Although he has been endorsed by several prominent local Republicans, he has not received any campaign

BRYAN WOLFE has said better programs for the mentally ill would be a top priority if he is elected sheriff:

"The mentally ill are currently thrown in with hardcore criminals in a toxic situation. That's why I want the mentally ill whose only offense is causing a disturbance or committing a misdemeanor diverted into a program that helps the underlying problem, which is psychiatric and not criminal.

"As sheriff I want to start a Crisis Intervention Team approach modeled on the program currently in effect in Memphis. I propose that deputies receive an initial 40 hours of specialized training from experienced mental health professionals and law enforcement experts. After completing the initial training, qualified deputies would have annual inservice training and an additional eight hours of classroom work. The goal of this new CIT program is to provide immediate response to situations where the mentally ill are in a state of crisis and to prevent, reduce or eliminate potential injuries to deputies and inmates. Finding appropriate care — whether in the ADC or in an outside mental health facility - and working on a treatment program will help keep the mentally ill out of jail."

contributions from the Fairfax County GOP.
While the race has put the sheriff's office in the spotlight, it has also exposed the uglier side of politics. One of Wolfe's first acts as a candidate was to do "oppo research" on Kincaid and her family. Through the Freedom of Information Act, he requested all of Kincaid's emails, iPhone photos and texts

In August, he called Kincaid a "hypocrite" on gun control issues, and said he was motivated to run for the office after hearing Kincaid say she supports expanded background checks on firearms. Wolfe, an NRA member, opposes such measures.

While declining to confirm or deny Kincaid's allegations that she recently purchased two AR-15 rifles, Kincaid said she is a responsible gun owner and has purchased firearms legally.

On Friday, Oct. 25, Fairfax County Republican Committee (FCRC) Chairman Jay McConville entered the fray with a statement also denouncing Kincaid as a "hypocrite" for her gun purchases.

"When addressing the nominating body of the Fairfax Democrats, Stacy Kincaid said that she was in favor of both an assault weapons ban and a ban on high capacity magazines," wrote McConville.

"Specifically she railed against the notion that anyone would need either. I guess that is what she needed to say to get the nomination. Why then, did Stacy Kincaid order and purchase, for her own personal use, both an AR-15 Rifle and multiple high capacity magazines? This is hypocrisy of the most blatant sort, and should cost her the election now that it has become known," McConville said in the statement.

Kincaid declined to comment on McConville's statement, but said she stood by her earlier statements.

Wolfe also alleged that Kincaid's supporters tried to intimidate him by vandalizing his vehicles and tearing up a flower bed on his property in Clifton.

"They are bullying me ... and now the intimidation factor is affecting my volunteers," Wolfe said in a phone call on Friday. "(My volunteers) don't want to drive their cars into Fairfax County with my signs because they're afraid their vehicles will be vandalized. They tell me 'This has gotten too hairy for me'."

Wolfe said the repeated vandalism has impacted his entire family. "I just want the race to be over. I want to get my life back,"

"Unfortunately vandalism seems to be a common occurrence. My campaign has had a number of instances where my signs have been stolen or destroyed," Kincaid said in a call Sunday.

"While the appropriate response is to report these incidents to the police, as a law enforcement officer, I have no intention of diverting police resources for such childish behavior," she added. "Campaigns are about discussing the issues and making the community a better place and there is no place in campaigns or otherwise for acts of vandalism to personal or campaign property."

The two major party candidates are joined on the ballot by independents Robert Rivera, a security analyst and former sheriff's deputy, and Chris DeCarlo, a propane salesman.

A frequent candidate for local offices, the 55-year-old DeCarlo, who is also running against Del. Eileen Filler-Corn, the Democratic incumbent in the 42nd district, has livened up the race with rap videos against government corruption.

have now reached a whopping $86 trillion liability according to the Wall St. Journal, (that's 550 percent of the GDP).

How is it that a congressman who serves on the Subcommittee for Government Operations and the Subcommittee for Economic Growth can call the House Republicans resistance a "manufactured crisis" in his recent editorial?

Could it be that we are days from a gubernatorial election and year away from the congressman's own reelection?

We need patriots, not politicians, in Washington now, more than ever.

Stunned by the 'War' Theme

To the Editor:

The false slogan of "war on www.ConnectionNewspapers.com women"—trumpeted throughout the 2012 election—is being dusted off to slander a candidate who, unlike his opponents, has spent a verifiable lifetime of helping Virginia's women.

I had a chance to hear Ken Cuccinelli a couple months ago, and his wife shared some of Ken's accomplishments that—yes—are pro-woman. For example, as a student at UVA, Ken Cuccinelli started a sexual assault awareness program that is still in place today. The attorney general has received national recognition from the antihuman trafficking group Polaris Project and has quantifiably improved the state's ability to fight sexual exploitation and predators. His expansion of the Address Confidentiality Program allows countless victims to keep their addresses unknown to their abusers, affording them to live more peacefully.

Having sworn to uphold Virginia's Constitution, Cuccinelli has both defended laws he has supported and some he hasn't. One of those laws, which the attorney general directed to be enforced over the objections of the Board of Health, set standards for safety and hygiene in abortion clinics. Given the deplorable and dangerous conditions in Kermit Gosnell's "House of Horrors," who could be against safe conditions for women in facilities where sensitive and invasive procedures are being performed?

Ken Cuccinelli's history of standing up for women goes largely ignored by the media. As a woman, I am stunned by the opposing party's "war" theme. I have found no evidence of such a war. The attack appears to be more about the candidate winning at any cost—moral or not—than it does about the truth. The truth should always prevail.

We need someone who stands on principle and doesn't pander to the populace with flimsy promises. That person is Ken Cuccinelli. I hope you will join me on Nov. 5th in supporting him.

Lake Braddock QB Wins Battle of Future UNC Teammates

Henderson's Bruins beat Titans, lineman Clarke, linebacker Carney.

By Jon Roetman The Connection

ith the Lake Braddock football team threatening to score early in Saturday's contest, T.C. Williams linebacker Malik Carney tackled Bruins quarterback Caleb Henderson for a 3-yard loss on second down.

Two plays later, with Lake Braddock facing fourth-and-short inside the TC 5-yard line, Carney smashed Henderson to the ground short of the first down.

Lake Braddock again drove deep into TC territory on its next possession but failed to reach the end zone. Titans defensive tackle Jeremiah Clarke stopped Lake Braddock running back Trevor O'Brien for a 1-yard loss on first-and-goal from the 5 and the Bruins would eventually settle for a field goal.

The Lake Braddock-T.C. Williams matchup on Oct. 25 pitted future University of North Carolina teammates against one another. Carney and Clarke, who will play defense for the Tar Heels, had their moments, but the rest of the afternoon belonged to the Bruins and UNC quarterback commit Henderson.

HENDERSON THREW A TOUCH- DOWN PASS and rushed for two more scores as Lake Braddock cruised to a 44-0 victory at T.C. Williams High School, improving the Bruins' record to 8-0. Lake Braddock has outscored its five Conference 7 opponents 271-0.

Henderson completed 11 of 26 passes for 182 yards and carried 12 times for 120 yards against TC, according to stats from the Post's allmetsports.com. Henderson's 45-yard touchdown run gave the Bruins a 24-0 advantage in the second quarter. His 16-yard scoring scamper extended the Lake Braddock lead to 31-0 with less than two minutes left in the opening half.

The Bruins' first possession of the second half ended with a 26-yard touchdown pass from Henderson to AJ Alexander.

T.C. Williams entered the game with a 5-2 record, but the Titans and their Division I defensive duo had no answer for Henderson and the Bruins.

"It's a lot of fun," Henderson said about facing his future UNC teammates, Clarke and Carney. "I get to see what my team's going to look like. They look pretty big and athletic so I'm excited to play with them."

Henderson was the first of four Northern Virginia prep football players in the class of 2014 to commit to the University of North Carolina, committing as a junior on April 11. Clarke (June 16), Carney (June 22) and Yorktown running back/defensive back MJ Stewart (July 15), who will play DB for the Tar Heels, eventually also decided to play at Chapel Hill. Henderson said he tried to convince former West Potomac teammate DeMornay Pierson-El to choose UNC, but Pierson-El committed to the University of Nebraska, where he will be a slot receiver and kick returner.

Lake Braddock quarterback Caleb Henderson got the better of T.C. Williams standout defensive players Jeremiah Clarke and Malik Carney on Oct. 25. The trio will play for the University of North Carolina next year.

"I talked to Jeremiah and Malik every time I saw them at 7-on-7s," Henderson said, "and I would text Jeremiah and just say, 'Hey, keep Carolina in your mind, blah, blah, blah,' because he had a ton of offers, same with Malik. It's a really big grab for us to have Jeremiah and Malik."

Henderson, who was selected to play in the U.S. Army All-American Bowl, is listed at 6 feet 4 and 217 pounds. ESPN.com ranks Henderson No. 187 in its latest list of the country's top 300 college recruits. He's rated the No. 11 quarterback recruit in the nation, receiving a grade of 83 out of 100 and four out of five stars. Other schools that offered Henderson include Virginia, Virginia Tech, Maryland, Michigan State, Purdue and Miami.

Clarke was the next Northern Virginia player to commit to UNC. Listed at 6 feet 4, 265 pounds, Clarke is rated by ESPN.com as the 48th-best defensive tackle recruit in nation, receiving a grade of 79 and three stars. He also received offers from Virginia, Virginia Tech, Tennessee, Penn State, Nebraska and Miami, among others.

Clarke, who also plays left tackle on the Titans' offensive line, finished with two tackles against Lake Braddock while battling ankle and Achilles tendon injuries.

"It's fun going against somebody that's going to be your future teammate," Clarke said. "... It's fun to get a last play in before you're not allowed to hit [Henderson]."

Clarke said already knowing a few of his Tar Heel teammates will help with the transition to college. "It's great because you already have some friends," he said. "You don't have to worry about that awkward stage."

Carney, listed at 6-foot-2, 208 pounds, said UNC coaches are looking at him as a weakside linebacker. ESPN.com ranks Carney as the No. 111 outside linebacker in the nation, giving him a grade of 74 and three Against Lake Braddock, Carney tallied six tackles, two tackles for loss and one sack.

"Just seeing what [Henderson is] going to bring to the table," Carney said when asked about the experience of playing against future college teammate Henderson. "Just going against [him], being competitive. Just acting like I don't know him at all."

Carney is also a running back for the Titans. He carried 15 times for 46 yards against the Bruins.

LAKE BRADDOCK will host South County on Friday, Nov. 1 in a game that will likely decide the top spot in the Conference 7 standings. T.C. Williams will travel to face West Springfield.

deal with the lasting effects of the sequester and the government shutdown—jobs and the economy is also a major priority.

What makes you the better candi-

Burgos: I am more qualified to represent District 41 because of the most important issue facing our district which is the economy and jobs. For 25 years I have worked for small business in the home improvement industry and 12 years running my own small business right here in Burke. I have learned how to negotiate with people and how to come up with incentives to come together.

DeCarlo: I have experience with how money has corrupted the process of governance and I want to dispel the myth that candidates have to sell their soul to the devil before they can be elected.

Filler-Corn: With a long history of service to Virginia and Fairfax County, I am proud to have a reputation for working with members of both parties to bring back more funding for our schools and our roads throughout our community.

In your role as a state legislator, how would you impact the lives of your constituents?

Burgos: If I were our state legislator I would impact the lives of my constituents by working hard to make sure that the state government moves out of the way of economic opportunity and progress.

DeCarlo: By promoting the principles of democracy as we were taught in school and striving to restore their trust in their government.

Filler-Corn: My experience working for Governors Mark Warner and Tim Kaine, and serving as Delegate for 3 1/2 years prepare me to successfully navigate state government on behalf of my constituents. My goal is to assist residents of my community. I am available and accessible, always.

Tell us something about yourself that you think people would find surprising—a hobby, a talent or an interesting fact.

DeCarlo: I am a 55-year-old white male that has written and produced five anti-corruption rap videos that are posted on YouTube.

Filler-Corn: I hold regular office hours monthly at neighborhood coffee houses throughout the 41st district, where I meet with constituents to discuss issues, potential legislation and anything of importance to residents.
