No Tolerating Unsafe Driving

Police want motorists to get the message from their new cruiser.

By Bonnie Hobbs Centre View

here's a new weapon in the Fairfax County Police Department's arsenal, but this one has four tires and an engine. It's a new cruiser covered with messages warning people not to drive impaired or distracted.

It was unveiled on Friday, Feb. 21, at the Sully District Station, and the station's commander, Capt. Ed O'Carroll, explained its significance.

"This is a special day for the Police Department," he said. "We're here to launch an innovative idea to highlight traffic safety, reduce crashes and save lives. Enforcement, education and awareness are our goals. We want to be visible with what we do, so we're putting it out front — people need to know we mean business."

O'Carroll said the showy, new cruiser will let people who drink or use drugs before getting behind the wheel — or who text while driving — know that "we're out there. Drivers who are impaired, aggressive, distracted or unbuckled, we will find. The Police Department is committed to this."

A 2013 Ford Taurus Police Interceptor, the vehicle was already part of the department's fleet and is a fully functional patrol vehicle equipped with all the essentials of other cruisers. But it's been professionally wrapped with eye-catching messages on the back, front and sides. Each portion of the vehicle is dedicated to a particular, traffic-safety issue.

The driver's side bears the words, "Drive sober or get pulled over," and "Drive drunk and you'll be arrested," translated into Spanish. It also tells people, "Buzzed driving is drunk driving – designate a sober driver," and reminds them, "It's your call: cab or cell. Don't drink and drive."

The passenger side urges motorists to "Buckle up, every trip, every time." In English and Spanish, it warns, "Click it or ticket, day and night." And it tells drivers, "Move over, slow down — it's the law." Said O'Carroll: "We want drivers to move over when law officers are standing on the white line [so the officers won't get struck]."

County Faces Budget Challenge

Average homeowner will see tax bill increase $330 under proposed budget.

By Victoria Ross Centre View

airfax County Executive
Edward Long, Jr. unveiled a $7 billion budget proposal Tuesday that reflects his "cautious and deliberative approach to budgeting," a result, Long said, of continuing uncertainty over federal spending and sluggish commercial tax revenues

While Long's budget does not include an increase in the real estate tax rate from FY 2014, steady gains in the county's residential housing market mean the average homeowner will see a $330 increase in their tax bill, or a 6.5

percent increase over last year's bill.

"The one area that is experiencing an upward tick is the assessed value of residential property in the county," said Board of Supervisors Chairman Sharon Bulova (D-At-Large), which will lead to the increase in homeowner's property taxes even if the tax rate remains steady, as proposed by Long.

Supervisor Pat Herrity (R-Springfield) said "there's a lot of work to be done" before the final budget is approved in April, and the county needs to "eliminate barriers to the growth of our commercial tax base."

On the rear of the vehicle are these messages: "Don't text and drive," "One text or call could wreck it all," "Phone in one hand, ticket in the other," "Park the phone before you drive" and (in both Spanish and English) "Stop aggressive driving."

On the hood are the following facts: "One person is killed every 51 minutes by a drunk driver. A texting driver is 23 times more likely to crash. People not wearing a seat belt are 30 times more likely to be ejected from a vehicle during a crash. Three out of four persons ejected in crashes die as a result of their injuries."

The vehicle is also adorned with four QR (Quick Response) codes. When it's parked, people scanning these codes with their SmartPhones will be directed to various traffic-safety Websites.

"We're the first police department in the country to have this cruiser," said O'Carroll. "And it'll be on display at schools and other places throughout the county. We're excited to bring this to the community. It'll be avail-

2013 Fairfax County Traffic Data

Fairfax County traffic data underscores the need for additional public-safety outreach and enforcement measures. In 2013:

- ♦ More than 13,500 drivers were cited for failing to give full time and attention to their driving. That's an increase from 12,434 in 2012.
- ❖ Some 2,827 drivers were arrested for driving under the influence.
- ♦ There were 583 crashes in which alcohol was listed as a factor for at least one of the drivers involved.
- Some 117 summonses were issued for texting while driving; this number was up from 44 in 2012 able to all officers at all our district stations, SRO [student resource officers] and shopping-center officers. And we'll get community feedback on how well it's being received."

He said the police have already increased their DUI-enforcement efforts. And he praised Officer Matt Bell for making 30 alcohol-related arrests last year at night, plus Officer Tonya Trivett, who arrested several impaired drivers during the day. So, said O'Carroll, "It's a 24-hour/day problem in our community, and all our officers are out there making a difference."

Noting that Sully District Officers Todd Kincaid and Ryan Morgan worked on the messages emblazoned across the new cruiser, O'Carroll said a private/public partnership made the $4,000 wrap possible. Transurban, the Unified Prevention Coalition and the Fairfax County Law Enforcement Foundation all helped with both the design and dollars.

"This public/private partnership highlights how the Police Department, private sector and community come together to increase our culture of safety," said county Police Chief Ed Roessler Jr. "The car's an educational-awareness item which is more than capable of enforcing the law. But it's the Police Department's desire to remind our community members, and those traveling through [this county], that we will not tolerate unsafe driving."

He said behaviors such as texting and driving, not buckling up or being impaired in any way will not be accepted. As it is, said Roessler, "We lose more lives on the roads than we need to every year."

Agreeing, Supervisor Michael R. Frey (R-Sully) said, "The goal is prevention, rather than responding to, a serious accident. This is very creative — an example of thinking outside the box to reach some people we wouldn't otherwise get that message to. All the officers do a fabulous job and this is one more thing to help."

roadway comes to Fairfax with the arrival of actress Candi Boyd, currently appearing on Broadway in the play, "Jersey Boys." On Sunday, March 9, she'll present a musical-theater workshop, "Broadway: Behind the Curtain," at Fairfax High – and it's open to all area high-school stu-

It'll run from noon-4:30 p.m. in the auditorium, with a limited number of spots available. Tickets range from $10-$40, depending on level of participation.

The event's a fundraiser for Fairfax High's theater program, and school Theater Director Erich DiCenzo hopes to make it an annual tradition. "It's a fantastic opportunity for students to have exposure to professional and talented artists," he said. "Anyone with any interest in this field is welcome. Attendees don't have to be theater students."

Boyd was his college roommate at Point Park University in Pittsburgh — a conservatory for performing arts — where they were in three shows together. They also performed together in an awardwinning show at Cedar Point, Ohio, and kept in touch over the years.

So, said DiCenzo, "I've had unique and special experiences working in this career, and I wanted to bring them into the classroom. And I can connect to my friends - my theater family

- in New York and bring a handson experience to my students."

Working one-on-one with the students, Boyd will teach them original choreography from "Jersey Boys" and coach them through songs and monologues. She'll also answer their questions about what it's like to be on Broadway and the auditioning process.

She and DiCenzo designed the workshop together with three levels of tickets. For $10, students can watch her instructing the other students and will be able to ask her questions. For $20, they'll get to learn the dance and perform it onstage, besides participating in the Q&A session.

For $40 — limited to 24 highschool students — they'll do all those things, plus receive individual instruction from Boyd. This level of tickets is only available to non-Fairfax High students. To purtickets, www.fxplayers.org.

For those who do attend Fairfax, Boyd will work with and speak to 24 of them from 10 a.m.-noon. That way, the other 24 spots will be open to students from other high schools and/or counties.

Also participating in the workshop will be Boyd's husband, Matt Kaitila, the audio/visual technical engineer of the Barclays Center in New York, where the 2013 Video Music Awards were held.

"It's exciting that we'll also have a very highly esteemed techie coming in," said DiCenzo. "He'll do a tech talk to tell about the behindthe-scenes world of one of the nation's most popular and exciting venues. He's done every concert from Paul McCartney to Justin Bieber."

As for Boyd, said DiCenzo, "She's not only performing on Broadway, but she's also designated to perform any female role needed in Jersey Boys' productions in Las Vegas and South Africa and on the national tour. And she's donating her time away from the play to do this workshop." For more information about her, go to www.candiboyd.com.

So, said DiCenzo, "We're bringing Broadway, literally, to Fairfax. We're giving students — whether aiming to follow in Matt or Candi's footsteps or not — the unique opportunity to rub elbows with and learn from professionals in show business. And for those wanting to find a future in this industry, this workshop can provide them the affirmation they need." Proceeds from the event will go toward purchasing new microphones for the theater department. "We're hoping to start with some new mic packs and replace a few headsets for our stage manager," said DiCenzo. "Any extra funds would help supply us with lumber for sets, plus replace and repair sewing machines [for costumes]. In the future, we're hoping to add a scrim curtain to our incredible facility."

Most of all, he added, "I'm excited to introduce these two friends of mine to the community and continue to blend my two worlds of professional theater experience and teaching. We're hoping for a great turnout in support of, not only Fairfax High, but the arts in education."

nimals at the Fairfax County Animal Shelter were given the celebrity treatment on Feb. 23 when a team from the non-profit Shelter Art Foundation taught shelter staff and volunteers how to use Hollywood-style portrait techniques to photograph their adoptable animals.

"We believe that every animal is a celebrity. We want to give them the same exposure that we would give a budding star in Hollywood. We do this because it works. Great portraits get actors and actresses noticed and leading roles. We want these animals to get leading roles in new homes," said Shelter Art Foundation founder Steve Sloop after the Sunday workshop.

"We have conducted photo team workshops at 19 shelters in eight states, enabling these shelters to build the skills necessary to show off their stars. All of the shelters we have worked with have said that the better images make a difference," said

"When I was a kid if you wanted an animal, you went to the shelter. And now, if you want an animal you go online. If the online image isn't beautiful and inviting and

When the Shelter Art Foundation contacted Hammond about hosting a workshop, she said, "How soon can we do it?" Not only did volunteers from the Fairfax County Animal Shelter participate, but representatives from humane societies in the District of Columbia and Montgomery County, Maryland were also present.

The non-profit Shelter Art Foundation was founded in 2010 when Sloop realized that he and his volunteer photo team at the Monterey SPCA had figured out an easy to learn, low cost technique that combined advanced animal wrangling strategies with a basic studio photography setup. He founded the non-profit and started traveling to shelters around the country.

"At first, I'd visit a shelter whenever I was traveling to see family or friends," says Sloop. In late 2013 he was contacted by Purina to see if support from them would enable the Foundation to expand their program. Once they conduct the workshop. they are able to provide the shelters they visit with the equipment needed to set up the shelter studio at no cost.

THERE ARE CURRENTLY 25 shelters in California, two in Nevada, one in Alabama, one in Louisiana, one in Missouri and one in Virginia scheduled for this spring.

"Our goal is to empower as many shelters and rescue organizations as possible with the training and equipment they need to improve their images," says Sloop. For more information about the organization, to their website www.ShelterArtFoundation.org.

Giving Bianca a Second Chance

ianca, a nine-year-old, female, German shep herd mix dog, had been living her life on the end of a chain in a rural part of Virginia. In late January, an unknown stray dog approached Bianca and attacked her. Bianca's owner came outside and in an attempt to stop the attack he hit both dogs with a shovel, striking Bianca over the head and injuring her. Rather than pursue vet care, the owner drove Bianca to the local pound and surrendered her. For the next 36 hours, Bianca sat with no medical care, until a sympathetic staff person called the shelter's rescue partner at the Highland County Humane Society in rural Virginia.

Highland County Humane Society rescued Bianca from the pound and got her emergency medical treatment. She was taken to a foster home to recover and receive further treatment and was transported to the Fairfax County Animal Shelter on Valentine's Day. She was made available for adoption and her story was shared on the shelter's Facebook page, where it caught the attention of a long-time shelter supporter and adopter. The woman's beloved dog Princess (adopted from the shelter in 1999), died on Valentine's Day at the age of 18, on the same day that Bianca's story was posted. She knew that she was meant to help give poor Bianca a second chance. She immediately contacted the shelter and made plans to come and meet Bianca. Bianca went home with her new mom on Feb. 19, and she is doing great.

Crime Solvers Seeks Vandals

Fairfax County Crime Solvers is asking the public to help identify the people responsible for vandalizing vehicles in the Sully Police District. Between Sunday, Feb. 2 and Tuesday, Feb.18, at least 100 parked vehicles were struck by BB-type projectiles.

Police say the suspects are apparently driving through neighborhoods shooting the BBs at parked cars, breaking the windows and causing damage. Many of the vehicles were parked on or near Old Centreville Road, Skipton Court, Federation Drive, Singleton's Way and Compton Lane. Anyone with information about these vandalisms is asked to contact Crime Solvers at 1-866-411-TIPS(8477), e-mail www.fairfaxcrimesolvers.org or text TIP187 plus a message to CRIMES(274637). A $100 to $1,000 cash reward will be paid for information leading to an arrest. As always, callers never have to give their names or appear in

Free Carseat Inspections

Certified technicians from the Sully District Police Station will perform free, child safety carseat inspections Thursday, Feb. 27, from 5-8:30 p.m., at the station, 4900 Stonecroft Blvd. in Chantilly. No appointment is necessary. But residents should install the child safety seats themselves so technicians may properly inspect and adjust them, as needed.

However, because of time constraints, only the first 35 vehicles arriving on each date will be inspected. That way, inspectors may have enough time to properly instruct the caregiver on the correct use of the child seat. Call 703-814-7000, ext. 5140, to confirm dates and

Two Fastran Buses Burn

Fairfax County Fire and Rescue Department units responded last Thursday, Feb. 20, around 7:20 a.m., to a two-bus fire at the Fairfax County Government Center. Burning were a pair of county-owned, Fastran buses in Bus Lot Upon arrival, firefighters encountered the Ford E450 buses fully involved in flames. They brought the fire under control in approximately 10 minutes. According to fire investigators, the blaze was accidental, caused by an unidentified mechanical failure.

They say the fire originated in the engine compartment of one of the buses, and quickly ignited an adjacent bus. No one was injured, but damage was estimated at $20,000.

The plan includes the parkland north of Route 29 on the west side of Virginia Run, parkland along Bull Run Post Office Road, the Bull Run stream and parkland along Pleasant Valley Road up to the Loudoun County border.

Kenneth B. Column Next Week!

"While spending increased by 3 percent, the cost to our taxpayers is increasing over 6.5 percent due primarily to the reduction in our commercial tax base," Herrity said. "I am most concerned that this increase will hurt those in townhomes, condos and apart-least afford it." "This will be a very challenging budget," Bulova said, citing disappointing projected revenues from business taxes.

ments the hardest — the citizens that can

Among those disappointed with the proposed budget is Fairfax County Public Schools Superintendent Karen Garza, who last month requested supervisors send $2.5 billion to the schools, an increase of 5.7 percent in annual taxpayer funding and $98 million more than the schools requested last SUPERVISORS have said they were willing to increase their transfer by only 2 percent, which accounts for 52.1 percent of the proposed county budget expenditures.

Garza's request is about $64 million more than Long's budget recommendation of $1.93 billion, a 2.07 percent increase (or $39 million) over the current fiscal year.

Garza's budget proposal would have increased school funding, but also called for $96 million in cuts, including classroom testing fees for high school students, large class sizes and staffing cuts.

Long's proposal also includes $72.6 million in additional support for school services including Head Start, school health, resource officers and crossing guards, afterschool programming, field maintenance and recreational programs, among others.

To show support for Fairfax County schools and teachers, the Alliance for Fairfax Public Schools held a "Fund Our Schools" rally at the Fairfax County Government Center before Long's budget announcement. The Alliance is a partnership of parents, students, and civic organizations including the Fairfax Education Association, Fairfax County Council of PTAs, and Fairfax County Federation of Teachers.

"Our schools are bursting at the seams, talented teachers are leaving, and already large class sizes could get even bigger. The supervisors must make our schools the priority," the FCCPTA said in an online petition addressed to the Board of Supervisors.

"It's absolutely stunning that supervisors put forth a budget that shortchanges students," said Kevin Hickerson, an FCPS teacher and parent-advocate who supported the rally. "Two percent is not enough."

To close that gap and fund other priorities, Bulova said she will consider advertising an increase in property tax rates, which would add about $150 to the average homeowner's tax bill, on top of the $330 jump resulting from higher assessed values this year.

Bulova said the board will set the advertised real estate tax rate on March 4; the advertised rate represents the maximum potential tax rate for FY2015.

"Through the budget process, the board may adopt a rate lower than the advertised rate, but cannot adopt a higher rate," Bulova

According to the County Executive's proposed budget, one penny of the tax rate is equal to roughly $21.9 million in the general fund and $50 for the average Fairfax County residential tax bill.

"As the county continues to face fiscal challenges, we must persist in our cautious and deliberative approach to budgeting, only funding items that are sustainable,' Long said Tuesday, adding that almost all of the budget increase in his proposal will be earmarked for capital investment and employee compensation.

"These are two critical elements of our continued success," Long said.

But members of the County's Government Employees Union — SEUI Virginia 512 called Long's proposed budget disappoint-

"We are disappointed that the county executive's proposed budget fails to meet the needs of our community, and we call on the Board of Supervisors to do more to invest in our future success," SEIU Virginia 512 Secretary-Treasurer Karen Conchar

"The county executive's proposed budget falls short in protecting the county's jobs and services," said Joe Wilhelm, president of SEIU Virginia 512.

Wilhelm said Fairfax County employees have fallen behind peers in neighboring jurisdictions when it comes to pay, and Long's budget proposal fails to help employees catch up.

"As a result, the best librarians, social workers, engineers and more will continue to leave Fairfax County to serve in other jurisdictions, hurting the services residents depend on," Wilhelm said.

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS of Long's budget proposal include:

- ❖ A 1.29 percent compensation increase for county employees based on a Market Rate Adjustment, effective July 1, 2014, as well as an increase in funding of health insurance and other benefits.
- Increase in capital construction funding, including capital renewal (planned replacement of aging roofs, electrical systems, HVAC systems, plumbing systems, etc. in county facilities), compliance with the Americans With Disabilities Act (ADA) and athletic field maintenance.
- ❖ Increase in public safety funding, including 9-1-1 support and requirements, and full year funding of operations at the Wolftrap Fire Station.
- ❖ Increase in human services funding including behavioral health services for youth, school readiness for preschoolers and domestic violence services.
