The Northern Virginia Problem

Top Virginia Universities are harder to get into: checking why and how to help.

BY LISA SPINELLI
THE CONNECTION

Many Northern Virginian students are biting their nails, waiting for their college admission letters this week. But in a sea of overachievers, NoVa students are coming across a pervasive issue with in-state colleges—what is being dubbed the “the Northern Virginia Problem.” Many residents of Fairfax, Alexandria City, Loudon, Fauquier, Prince William and Arlington counties are spreading the word that top Virginia universities—the University of Virginia, Washington and Lee and William and Mary are becoming harder and harder to get into.

“I applied to a lot of Virginia schools. I didn’t get into UVA, but I’m not surprised because it’s gotten so hard—especially from Langley (High School) where everyone seemed to be applying to the same schools,” says Chris Susskind, a 3.8 (weighted) GPA senior at Langley High School with multiple AP courses, a near-perfect ACT score and a volunteer with disabled children. “It’s (UVA has) become ivy league for schools in Virginia.”

Other high-achieving seniors, like Drew Treger of W.T. Woodson High School, don’t even bother applying.

“I knew I wasn’t going to get in, so I didn’t even try,” says Treger, captain of the men’s varsity lacrosse team and of the Fellowship for Christian Athletes at Woodson, who also holds a 3.5 GPA with four AP classes under his belt.

THESE TOP VIRGINIA UNIVERSITIES are not trying to totally dispel the rumors either—they are in fact accepting less of a percentage of NoVa students. But the reasons are not that they’ve become more stringent in their admission policies or more selective, they claim. The problem it seems is an issue of sheer volume. All hope is not lost, however, and we have a few tips for those students vying for entrance into these top-ranked schools.

Data from the University of Virginia’s communications office supports the rumors that they are indeed accepting less of a percentage of Northern Virginia applicants—39 percent this year compared to 42 percent for fall 2009. However, the number of students applying from our NoVa counties is also increasing—up 25 percent in just five years. Unless UVA and the other top-rated schools grow their facilities as fast as their applicant pool, there’s naturally going to be less of a percentage accepted.

“Generally, the academic quality of incoming classes here has increased over the years and the number of applications for limited spots continues to set records,” says Charles McGregor McCance, senior director of media relations at UVA. “This raises the competitive environment for all applicants from everywhere. For the current academic year, the University received more than 31,000 applications for about 3,500 spots.”

The same trend appears to be the case with the College of William and Mary. According to data pulled from the State Council of Higher Education for Virginia, applications into this top-rated Virginia college increased 12 percent in the last five years and their acceptance rate only went down from 44 percent to 42. The actual number of students being accepted is steadily increasing at UVA and William and Mary, just not the percentage.

Washington and Lee University does not report or collect data by county, the communications department informed us.

“We have always taken 15 percent from Virginia,” says Brian Eckert, executive director of communications and public affairs for Washington and Lee. “We look at grades first and—once we know that someone can handle the work here—then we start looking at demonstrated strong leadership and students who have performed community service.”

Fairfax County alone grew from 969,000 in 2000 to over 1.1 million in 2013. With thousands more students flooding the application system, it may seem harder to stand out amongst classmates—many of whom are getting straight As. But stressing out over SATs and class rank isn’t the most effective way to beat out the competition.

Yes, it’s true the types and grades you get in those classes are the first and foremost aspects of a transcript these colleges are looking at but leadership roles, caliber of essays and an overall interesting aspect about you—something to make you diverse, is what they all claim to set those who stand out against those who get weeded out.

“More and more students are adding an area of interest when applying to colleges,” says Judith Hingle, career connections specialist with the Fairfax County Public School System. “Adding a prospective major can help, because colleges need to balance all those things.”

With engineering degrees being the most popular, Eckert agreed there are undoubtedly more STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering and Math) students applying now than ever before, but classics majors are at an all-time low across the nation.

JUST TWO YEARS AGO, Fairfax County schools adapted a more career-minded focus with the installation of the Naviance system, a Web-based system FCPS named the Family Connection. Naviance is a career and academic guidance software system that links students’ academic choices to the counseling offices and helps them determine their high school, college and subsequent career path. Hingle says this kind of focus can only help up students’ chances at receiving those coveted admission letters.

Another way around the system entirely—which can also cut down on your final tuition bill—is to attend a Virginia community college. Many top schools in Virginia and the D.C. area have a guaranteed admissions agreement with not just UVA, but William and Mary, certain colleges within George Washington University and Catholic University of America. Washington and Lee, however, does not participate.

And if all else fails, Hingle says not to despair, there are tons of other great schools in Virginia that were established after the 19th century—many of whom are taking a higher percentage of NoVa students than in years past.

“Pick a school that really interests you,” Hingle advises. “If you just focus on the high end, a lot of great kids become discouraged, but there are lots of chances to grow and learn here in Virginia.”

Classic Lillian Hellman play to run April 3-5.

BY REENA SINGH
THE CONNECTION

A dainty redhead who pops into a room with daffodils behind her back is yelled at by one teacher after another until she feigns a heart attack.

Two female teachers struggle with their friendship before one of theirs impending nuptials.

A vicious rumor causes turmoil within a farmhouse turned boarding school.

ACT BY ACT, "The Children's Hour," a Langley High School play running from April 3 through April 5, unfolds into a take that is relatable despite taking place in the 1950s.

"It follows two women who run the school," said senior Kathleen Welch, 17. "It navigates how words can hurt - the power of gossip."

Welch plays one of the lead roles as Martha Dobie, a school teacher who is jealous that her best friend is spending all her time with her fiance. Her best friend, Karen Wright, is played by senior Madeleine Chalk, 18.

"It's during a time period where the topic would have been more sensitive than it would be today," said Chalk. "A malicious person spreads a rumor that her two female teachers are having an affair. Especially in high school, you never know how far a rumor can go. A lot of people don't know how destructive their words can be."

Although it is set in the 1950s, the play was written by Lillian Hellman in 1934.

"She was way ahead of her time," said drama teacher and theater director Valerie Karasek.

The play was so far ahead of its time that it had a recent run in London's West End with the leads played by Keira Knightly and Mad Men star Elizabeth Moss.

She said the nature of the rumor would have "brought someone's school down in a heartbeat" in the early to mid-20th century, and it tears apart the two women who scrimped all of their savings to renovate an old farmhouse in New England into a boarding school.

Karasek said the play is a tragedy and does have a sad ending. However, audience members remember what they saw for days to come.

"Lillian Hellman makes you think," she said. "You don't walk out being able to forget it."

The play touches on the anti-bullying message schools have been pushing for the last few years.

She had other reasons for choosing "The Children's Hour" as the 2014 spring play, however. She just started teaching at Langley High School this school year and knew the school enrolled a lot of girls. Just like the fall play, "Little Women," she wanted to have a performance that had female-heavy roles. The Children's Hour fit the bill - it only has two male characters, both of which are double casted to give more boys the opportunity to be in the play.

She said when she had her drama class read it, the play was an instant hit with all of the students.

"I think it's relatable to everyone," said junior Nick Regan, 17, who plays one-half of Karen's fiance Doctor Joseph Cardin. "Even though it takes place at a different time, the story is timeless."

Regan says his character knows how to stay calm during a crisis because he is trained as a medical doctor. However, that strength snaps during the third act because of how the rumor affects him.

"There is a very visible character arc in each of the characters through the three acts," he said.

THE PLAY begins at 7 p.m. on April 3 and 4, and at 2 p.m. on April 5. General admission is $10. For patrons that want to pay in advance, tickets are sold at lhschildrenshour.brownpapertickets.com with a surcharge. OPINION

Why I Support Medicaid Expansion

BY SHARON BULOVA
CHAIRMAN, FAIRFAX COUNTY BOARD OF

COMMENTARY

As the Virginia General Assembly continues to discuss the expansion of Medicaid, the benefits and consequences of doing so have received a great deal of attention. Debates rage in the media, among businesses and around the kitchen tables of ordinary Virginians throughout the state. At our board meeting of March 25 my colleagues and I reiterated, in a bi-partisan vote, our strong support for Medicaid expansion in Virginia, and here's why:

First and foremost, Virginians have already paid for most of Medicaid expansion through our federal tax dollars. Through the year 2022, Virginians will pay $29.7 billion in Affordable Care Act related taxes and fees to the federal government. The federal government will cover almost all of the cost for Medicaid expansion with tax dollars collected from the states, including Virginia. If Medicaid is expanded in Virginia, the federal government will pay 100 percent of the cost through 2016, decreasing incrementally to 90 percent in 2020 and subsequent years. If Medicaid is not expanded in Virginia, we will still pay those same taxes but will see no corresponding benefit to our uninsured population — rather, our tax dollars will be used to pay for uninsured individuals in other states.

Second, the economic benefits of expanding Medicaid, aside from the obvious return of taxpayer dollars to our state, far outweigh the costs. To put it plainly, not addressing affordable health care coverage in Virginia costs Virginia money. Employed Virginians with insurance already subsidize care provided for uninsured Virginians needing urgent treatment when they show up in emergency rooms. These visits result in higher premiums for employed Virginians as well as increased provider costs. Medicaid expansion would increase less expensive preventative care thus reducing more expensive emergency care. This would not only drive down costs but could also improve the overall health of Virginia residents.

A largely unseen cost of our current situation is the existing financial burden on county-funded safety net providers, including non-profit organizations that assist lower income residents. The Fairfax-Falls Church Community Services Board estimates that the percentage of clients receiving substance abuse treatment or mental health services who are covered by Medicaid will rise from 38 percent to 50 percent under the proposed expansion, freeing up County funding for other critical needs.

Lastly, Medicaid expansion provides a tremendous opportunity to do more to help our most vulnerable residents. In Fairfax County alone, up to 30,000 low-income residents would become eligible for Medicaid through expansion, including: individuals earning less than $15,302 per year; families earning less than $31,155 per year; low-income children who lose Medicaid when they turn 19; and, adults with disabilities not eligible for Supplemental Security Income or Social Security Disability Insurance. Under Medicaid expansion, Virginia's health care delivery system will have the resources needed to provide quality services to those in need.

The Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce and Fairfax County's local hospitals recognize these facts, and have strongly endorsed Medicaid expansion. Let's keep Virginia's tax dollars in Virginia and increase access for uninsured Virginians at the same time.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Planned Parenthood Should Be Funded

To the Editor:

Several budget items before the budget Conference Committee in the General Assembly are of great importance to the Women's Reproductive Health Caucus. On behalf of the Caucus and with bipartisan support from Democrats and Senate Republicans, we have asked that the final budget include our recommendations.

One amendment would completely defund Planned Parenthood Centers. There are only seven Planned Parenthood Centers throughout the State. They are located in Blacksburg, Charlottesville, Falls Church, Hampton, Richmond, Roanoke and Virginia Beach. Over 24,000 Virginians visited these centers in 2012. In addition to providing pap tests, breast screenings, STD services and other preventive health care services, these centers provide family planning services to low income women through a Medicaid contract with the State. Under current law, a Medicaid contract cannot be terminated unless there is "cause." Planned Parenthood Centers should be funded.

There is a provision that prohibits funding any action by the Governor on TRAP (targeted regulations on abortion providers). This is an overreach by the legislature into Executive Branch authority and should not remain in the budget. We asked that this language be removed.

Finally, there is language that introduces the Hyde Amendment. This is redundant. Virginia law currently prohibits state dollars from supporting abortions except in cases of rape, incest and when the life of the mother is at risk. However, Virginia's Medicaid program does cover abortions in the rare cases where gross fetal abnormalities develop. The House budget deletes this provision and does not allocate funding to care for the children who would be born with these life-threatening disabilities. Full funding for gross fetal abnormality abortion must be restored.

The FAMIS MOMS program is only funded in the Senate budget. This program provides health care coverage to low-income pregnant women. As of January 1, 2014, FAMIS MOMS stopped enrollment. Eliminating FAMIS MOMS means some low-income women will go without essential prenatal and maternity health care. Full funding for this important program should be restored.

We ask our colleagues to make the health of women and families a priority in the upcoming budget.

Maintaining a Viable, Diverse Community

While need for housing, childcare, healthcare and other human services have grown, these programs have faced significant cuts over past few years.

To the Board of Supervisors:

The following open letter to the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors concerns housing and human services budget recommendations from the Fairfax County Budget Advocacy Coalition for Housing and Human Services.

As you consider the proposed FY 2015 county budget, we urge you to make additional and needed investments in housing, health and human services programs. These recommendations were developed through a collaborative process of nonprofit housing developers, human service providers, and advocacy organizations identifying community needs. Strategic public investments in housing and human services can leverage significant amounts of private capital to provide a return on the county's investment. These investments help us maintain a diverse, caring community that provides access to opportunities for all.

The guiding principles that informed our decisions are as follows:

- ❖ No one recommendation takes priority over the others;
- ❖ Each recommendation funds a program that is an essential component of a system of housing and services that offer individuals and families in need the optimum chances for success;
- ❖ These recommendations support a wide spectrum of households along the housing continuum;
- ❖ No funding for new initiatives is requested. Instead, these recommendations fund coordinated efforts between housing and service providers to deliver critical safety net supports with maximum effi-

Improving Children's Education

To the Editor:

The CLIPUS Foundation is an organization that focuses on school supplies as a gateway to improving children's education. Our members and volunteers share this same passion for children's education and together we push forward, coming up with unique ways to raise money and ultimately providing supplies to children in need. With our main program designed to collect used toners from companies, schools, and individuals, we help spread environmental awareness while receiving the funds needed to buy the school supplies.

Since the founding of CLIPUS in 2013, we have purchased 100 backpacks filled with notebooks, pencils and pens, markers, glue sticks, pencil cases, and more, totaling to more than $2000. Each backpack is designed to last one school year for an elementary school student. On March 25, this past Tuesday, five members (Grace Huang, Jessica Lee, Stephanie Michas, Mallika Subandh, Virginia Zhang) and I filled two cars with nine boxes of backpacks and headed to Cannon Road Elementary School, Silver Spring, Md., for our first school supplies distribution event. We braved the snow and rain and succeeded in giving around 80 backpacks to the students and families. Our members put so much effort into organizing this event, from contacting schools to packing the backpacks, and the smiles of the children were extremely rewarding. The distribution, lasting two hours, was a great success due to the joint efforts of the CLIPUS members, Cannon ES, and all of our wonderful supporters.

Looking into the future, we hope to distribute many more backpacks and supplies during a large-scale Back-to-School event this coming fall. We are also currently planning a summer Fun Run to garner more funds. In the meantime, we are continuing to collect toners from all places and strengthening our existing partnerships.

'The Cripple of Inishmaan' at the 1st Stage.

BY DAVID SIEGEL
THE CONNECTION

Tysons' 1st Stage is giving audiences a terrific evening's entertainment with a talented, engaging cast. The 1st Stage "The Cripple of Inishmaan" is a gem of a production. It is full of eccentric, ultimately poignant characters with sharp satire and charm; as well as their insensitive attitudes, using "cripple" to describe a person with a disability.

The play, written by Tony Award recipient Martin McDonagh, takes place in an unconventional setting; an isolated island off the west coast of Ireland in 1934.

Directed with allure by Steven Carpenter, the verbally energetic show is full of salty humor by quirky people with a host of troubles in a time without modern conveniences such television or telephones.

The islanders become overjoyed to learn a Hollywood film is being made about their hard life. A loner, the orphan Billy Claven, known as "Cripple" Billy, is eager to escape the ridicule he endures and the island's gossip-laden boredom. He is pegged by others as the least likely to succeed. To everyone's surprise, he successfully auditions and goes to America for a period of time. And then returns to make his mark.

Billy is played by the super Josh Adams. He is the sly underdog and "scapegoat" we root for. Ultimately, he bamboozles the others in his quest for a better life. Adams' major foil is the delightful Mark Lee Adams, as Johnny Pateen Mike, the town gossip and storyteller. He has an unexpected heart of gold.

Megan Graves is Helen the young, aggressively kooky girl. She is best described as a fierce hellion; a spitfire who fights to keep prying hands away from her. Susan Holiday and Carol Randolph well-play Billy's over-protective aunts who can talk to stones and eat too many sweets.

One cannot say enough about Rebecca Lenehan as Johnny's alcoholic 90 year-old mother. She is an adorable hoot with a cackle of mocking laughter. As Babbybobby, a man of decency who is duped and reacts with physical anger, John Strange is at war with his humiliation.

The set and props are meticulously detailed. That the set moves on a turntable is a wonder. Costumes are as rustic as the characters. The sound has plenty of fiddles and whistles to cast moods.

"The Cripple of Inishmaan" has a distinctive charm, a strong cast, a lampooning attitude and deep heart. Northern Virginia audiences are fortunate to have the Helen Hayes recipient 1st Stage in the area.

Junior catcher Mitch Blackstone is in his third season as a starter for the Marshall baseball team.

Marshall Baseball Shows Improvement in Defeat

Catcher Blackstone, pitcher Cummins lead Statesmen in 2014.

BY JON ROETMAN
THE CONNECTION

With the Marshall baseball team's two-run seventh-inning lead having vanished, Statesmen catcher Mitch Blackstone tried to make a play.

Marshall and Robinson were tied at 5. The Rams had runners on the corners with one out in the bottom of the frame when Blackstone saw an opportunity to help pitcher Riley Cummins get out of a jam. During an at-bat by Robinson's Tyler Fitchett, Blackstone fired the ball toward third base in an attempt to pick off the potential winning run. Instead, Blackstone's throw sailed high and into left field, allowing the winning run to score.

BLACKSTONE WALKED toward the Marshall dugout with his hands on his head and later had tears in his eyes, disappointed that his error helped the Rams complete their comeback from an early 5-1 deficit.

"[The runner at third] seemed to me that he was a little farther off the base than most people were," Blackstone said. "I thought I could get [Cummins] a quick out. ... [The] ball just got away from me."

Robinson beat Marshall 6-5 on March 27, dropping the Statesmen's record to 1-2 early in the 2014 season. Despite the sting of letting one slip away, Marshall's performance indicated how far the program has progressed in the last year.

Marshall lost its first seven games of the 2013 campaign and was 5-13 with one game remaining in the regular season. The Statesmen suffered several lopsided defeats during the rough start, including a 15-4 loss to Robinson. Marshall eventually turned things around, however, winning five of its final seven and reaching the Northern Region semifinals, falling one victory shy of qualifying for the state tournament.

While Marshall last week suffered an early-season loss to Robinson for the second straight year, the Statesmen have put themselves in a position to win games against quality opponents.

"Every season, we try to schedule really good teams at the beginning so that we can try to see where we're at," second-year Marshall head coach Aaron Tarr said. "Last year when we did that, it was a little bit of a disaster — I mean, these guys beat us [15-4]. This year, [it was] 6-5, with us coming out feeling like we let the game get away from us at the end. That's a lot different. It speaks to the strength of the program as it grows [and] that I love their kids, but I love ours, too. That's not always the case, where you can look across the field at a big program and say our kids are just as good as theirs."

Blackstone is one of the main reasons for Tarr's optimism. While the junior catcher's throwing error plated Robinson's winning run last week, Blackstone, in his third year as a varsity starter, figures to provide the Statesmen far more positive moments in the future than negative. Listed at 6 feet 3 and 195 pounds, Blackstone went 3-for-4 with a double against Robinson and threw out two would-be base-stealers. As a sophomore last season, he hit .444 with six home runs, 14 doubles and 22 RBIs on his way to first-team all-Liberty District honors.

"I'm not going to expect him to increase his offensive output because that would be really foolish of me to do and I don't want to apply that kind of pressure," Tarr said. "He had about as good an offensive year as you can have last year. ... The defensive elements of his game have gotten a lot better. His arm is stronger, he reads the game better [and] he commands the defense better."

Cummins is the Statesmen's top pitcher. While he had a rough outing in relief against Robinson, the 6-foot-5 senior left-hander, who will pitch for the University of Virginia, figures to bounce back. Junior right-hander Will Brooke is the team's No. 2 starter. He started against the Rams and pitched 5 1/3 innings, allowing three runs and five hits while walking four and striking out two.

"Unfortunately for [Cummins], he got sick with the flu for like 10 days about two weeks ago, so he's not at his midseason form yet, but we don't worry about that," Tarr said after the Robinson loss. "It gives guys like Will Brooke, who has pitched really well for us in both of his outings, it gives him an opening to demonstrate we've got a really, really good No. 2 guy, if you want to look at it that way. If you've got two guys that you can rely on and some bullpen guys that always get outs, [you will be in good shape]."

Marshal Shows Potential

Senior shortstop Alec Dolton is a team captain (along with Blackstone and Cummins) who hit .342 and scored 18 runs last season. He will play for Catholic University.

Junior centerfielder John Bennett and senior first baseman/designated hitter Conor Boyle also figure to be key contributors for the Statesmen.

MARSHALL IS SCHEDULED to face Madison on the road at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, April 2. The Statesmen return home to face Stone Bridge at 6:30 p.m. on Friday, April 4.

"We definitely have a lot more experience," Blackstone said. "Last year, we were more of a younger team. This year, we've got a lot of talented guys. ... Probably not the start we wanted, [but] 1-2 is much better than 0-7. ... I feel like our program has gotten significantly better and most of that is due to Coach Tarr. ... I think we've got some good potential to do some good things."

Human Services Face New Cuts

ciency and adoption of best practices.

Our coalition supports the limited housing and human services funding in the County Executive's Budget, and respectfully urges no further cuts to these budgets. This request is made in light of significant cuts to these programs over the past few years, even as the need for housing, childcare, healthcare and other human services have grown. In supporting the County's Executive proposals, we would like to highlight the following:

Contract Rate Increases for Human Service Providers: We support the County Executive's inclusion of $2.17 million for a contract rate increase for human services providers in the County, especially nonprofits. These providers offer critical services to low and moderate income households that would fall to the county alone if the nonprofit partners did not exist. These community-based organizations have built corporate and private sector support for their efforts to leverage public resources. However, funding for these organizations that provide services must keep pace with inflation, our high cost of living, pay and benefits, to attract and retain their staff.

Consolidated Community Funding Pool (CCFP): We support the increase of $743,388 (7.5 percent over the FY 2014 Adopted Budget amount of $9.9 million) for the first year of a two-year CCFP cycle that begins in FY 2015. FY 2015 Community Development Block Grant funding is projected to be $1.8 million, an increase of $250,791. The total FY 2015 CCFP funding is therefore anticipated to be $12.4 million, an increase of $944,179 over the FY 2014 amount of $11.4 million. This additional funding strengthens the county's investment in community-based programs and is welcomed.

Mondloch Place $275,000 (Office to End and Prevent Homelessness): We support funding needed for on-site supportive services to formerly homeless single adults. The funds will pay the contract costs to operate the program, including staffing the facility, and leverages the county's investment in the substantial renovation of the building.

Employment Services $200,000 (Office to End and Prevent Homelessness): We support continued funding for a pilot program integrating employment services into the existing Bridging Affordability framework of the Housing Blueprint. Providing services that adequately address the special needs of many in the Bridging Affordability program — something that is lacking in existing employment services programs — is essential for these households to achieve greater financial security and self-sufficiency. This funding was originally included in the FY 2014 budget, but was held in reserve pending approval of the plan.

Katherine K. Hanley Townhomes $235,220 (Office to End and Prevent Homelessness): We support funding to provide supportive housing and services to families with children. Two 3-unit buildings are scheduled to open in December 2014.

Domestic and Sexual Violence Services $139,973 (Department of Family Services): We support funding for one new program manager position to address both increasing caseloads and the complexity of work in the Office for Women and Domestic and Sexual Violence Services.

Investment in School Readiness $714,000 (Office of Children): We support the County Executive's proposal in the FY2015 budget to expand community-based programs for children living in poverty to reach school benchmarks.

Affordable Housing (Housing and Community Development): Securing safe, decent affordable housing remains one of the greatest challenges for low and moderate income households in Fairfax County and is a considerable barrier to a family's ability to achieve stability and self-sufficiency.

Housing Blueprint: The FY 2015 advertised budget includes $1.95 million to fund the Bridging Affordability rental program as a portion of the budget for the FY 2015 Housing Blueprint. The funding for this program was reallocated in the FY2014 budget, and the proposed FY2015 allocation is approximately $2 million less than FY2013.

Bridging Affordability was adopted as the county's signature program within the Housing Blueprint to move families out of homelessness and onto a more sustainable future. This program provides rental subsidies and case management to extremely low-income households, and has successfully served over 281 families. Bridging Affordability works. Nearly 70 percent of households that have successfully transitioned out of Bridging Affordability into permanent housing have moved on to fair market housing.

With the current Bridging Affordability program funding, we are positioned to continue to serve approximately 150 new households through FY14 and FY15. Beginning in FY16, it is critical that Fairfax County continues to invest in this high-impact, high-demand program to ensure that hundreds of extremely low income families have access to stable housing options and don't cycle back into homelessness.

The FY2015 advertised budget also includes $5 million for the New Private Partner Acquisition to increase the county's stock of committed affordable housing. This funding would be used to preserve or develop 120 units of affordable housing for low income working families, but this amount is inadequate to provide the gap financing for such a project, especially if the goal of serving formerly homeless persons, as stated in the Blueprint, is to be achieved.

In considering these requests, please note the following statistics:

❖ U.S. Census Bureau statistics show an estimated 73,916 households in Fairfax County earning less than $50,000 annually, or about 47 percent of the area's median income for a family of four ($107,300);

❖ Census data also shows an estimated 67,293 persons living below the poverty level in Fairfax County;

❖ According to the Center for Housing Research at Virginia Tech, the total affordable housing gap in Fairfax County for low and moderate-income renters (earning no more than $85,000 for a family of four) is 28,405 units;

❖ The Blueprint for Housing shows a shortfall of 1,818 units for FY2015 in meeting the goals of the 10 Year Plan to Prevent and End Homelessness;

❖ Nearly 1,650 CSB clients need affordable housing.

Communities who are successful in addressing their unmet housing needs have adopted a dedicated, reliable source of funding to preserve or develop housing that is affordable. The county's greatest strides in affordable housing were made during the years when one penny of the real estate tax was dedicated to housing preservation. Whether it's a dedicated revenue source or an annual, reliable commitment to a housing trust fund, we urge Fairfax County to once again consider this investment in housing that is affordable and needed for a significant and growing percentage of the County's population.

Community Health Care Network (CHCN): In FY 2014, funding for CHCN was cut by $752,000. The $250,000 reduction in specialty care contracts that resulted has worsened an already insufficient supply of local specialists. CHCN has therefore increased its utilization and reliance on University of Virginia Medical Center specialists, requiring CHCN's low income, uninsured clients to travel to Charlottesville, spending scarce money and missing days at work. It is our understanding that a working group of public and private providers and leaders has recently initiated efforts to build and sustain a local specialty network system. Therefore, rather than recommend restoration of the funding at this time, we suggest that the county continue to support this effort and play an appropriate role in developing solutions to this problem. By the time of Carryover, we should all have a better understanding about the needed resources, if any.

This coalition appreciates the significant budget challenges you face for FY2015, and thanks you for our partnership as we work together in support of the most vulnerable in our community. However, we are deeply concerned that the housing and human services system has reached a "tipping point" where it will not be possible to decrease funding without sacrificing services and failing to meet the human services needs of county residents. We believe that there is very little margin for error, and that any further cuts will result in program reductions, eliminations, or waiting lists for services. If Fairfax County is to remain a place of excellence, we must come together as a community to discuss a long term strategy for funding and maintaining adequate, annual investments in housing and human services in future budgets.

Friendship Blooms at Spring Hill Elementary

School welcomes Japanese exchange students with ceremony.

BY REENA SINGH
THE CONNECTION

Friendship is a transcontinental experience.

That is what Spring Hill Elementary students learned during a cultural and vibrant friendship ceremony with a small group of Japanese foreign exchange students on March 27.

The morning ceremony welcomed the students to the nation's capital with song, dance and hundreds of pictures drawn by Spring Hill students.

"In this world we live in, we need more person-to-person relationships," said Principal Roger Vanderhye. "People working with people, children with children - those create lifelong friendships."

In September 2008, Yabe Elementary in Japan and McLean's own Spring Hill Elementary signed a memorandum of friendship. This allowed both Yabe's students to travel to the district and Spring Hill students to jet off to Yokohama, Japan. Spring Hill rising sixth grade students traveled there last summer.

"It was very different," said Sarah Luthra, 12. "It was very clean there. In school, they would recycle their straw wrappers."

She and many other of the girls recalled how they felt like the school made them feel like celebrities.

Fourth grade teacher Christine Fowler said it was only a coincidence that the visit happened during the National Cherry Blossom Festival - another international tale of mended fences and friendship.

"It's their summer break right now," she said.

The students, children about 12 years old, traveled with three other adults. At the ceremony, two translators repeated everything said to the international students that day to help them feel included.

"Everything is big," said 11-year-old Risa Takagi, describing her first moments in the U.S. "We're going to see a baseball game Saturday." Her favorite part of the friendship ceremony was the music by the chamber orchestra, which played Walk Dem Bones, Square Dance and 1812 Overture. In turn, the Japanese students sang "It's a Small World" in their language and in English.

The trip also included the elementary school principal exchanging gifts with the supervisors accompanying the Japanese students. Principal Vanderhye said his gift was a clock with two faces - one face set to local time in Yokohama and one set to Eastern Standard Time.

The trip included a trip to the U.S. Capitol and Japanese Embassy on Monday. The students will stay until Wednesday.

"I'm going to leave you with this," said Principal Vanderhye. "Watashi wa, anata ga watashi no yujinda ureshii, which means, 'I'm glad you're my friend.'"

Before his first game, Ian had already made a comeback.

Ian was born with a heart that was not fully formed. Reconstructive surgeries were a must. Uncertain what to do, his parents put their trust in a team that knew newborn hearts better than anyone. Watch Ian's story at JustRightForChildren.com/Ian.

" I hit a ground ball to right field, and scored two runs to win. **"

Obituary

Gerry Edwards Shelton Tyner died at her home in Vienna, VA on March 25, 2014 after several months of declining health due to cancer. She was born in Gretna, VA on January 27, 1928, the fifth of six children born to Mollie and John Cabel Edwards. She was the first in her family to attend college, finishing her degree at Ferrum College in 1947. Upon graduation, she worked briefly for the Department of Social Services and a local bank in Danville, VA but said her greatest job was as a full time wife and mother. After the death of her first husband, Cy Shelton, in 1981, she re-entered the workforce, working in the administrative offices of the Sheraton Hotel in Arlington, at a local clothing store, and at Fairfax County Public Schools, where she worked until her marriage in 1996 to Claude Tyner.

She will be remembered for her passion for creating and appreciating all things beautiful, a strong work ethic, and a belief that any job worth doing was worth doing right. She enjoyed her work on various committees at First Baptist Church in Alexandria where she was a member since 1960 and on the Board of Lady Managers for Inova Alexandria Hospital where she was a Member Emeritus.

She was predeceased by her parents, 4 brothers and one sister. She is survived by her only child, Terri Shelton of Greensboro, NC, her husband Arthur Anastopoulos, and one grandson, Tyler Anastopoulos; as well as her husband of 17 years, Claude Tyner and his daughters, Claudia Offutt, Arlington, VA and Susie McSweeney, and her husband, Tim of Parthenon, Arkansas; his 6 grandchildren: Gwen Offutt; James Offutt and wife Hillary; Diana Stropko and her husband Landon; Jeffrey Offutt and his wife Valerie; Jennifer Davis; and Sean McSweeney; as well as two great grandchildren, AJ and Courtney Offutt.

Thank you to the staff of Capital Caring and a special thank you to Yaa Duah who made it possible for us to respect her wishes to remain at home during this illness.

In lieu of flowers, the family is requesting that donations be made to First Baptist Church of Alexandria, VA.

Family will receive visitors at Everly Wheatley Funeral Home, 1500 West Braddock Road, Alexandria, VA on Thursday, March 27th from 6-8pm. A service commemorating her life will be at First Baptist Church, 2932 King Street, Alexandria, VA on Friday, March 28th at 1pm. Burial will be held at Highland Burial Park, Danville, VA on Saturday, March 29 at 2pm.

"SERVICE FIRST... FUN ALWAYS!"

Thanks, Coach...

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

...my Certified Holistic Health Coach, Rebecca Nenner, that is. (Visit www.healthcoachdiva.com for information leading to a healthier lifestyle.) More than a coach, Rebecca is my friend – and has been for many years. A former co-worker at the Connection Newspapers, Rebecca is as passionate about health and fitness as I am about the Boston Red Sox. She has been my guiding hand now for over five years, most especially when I was first diagnosed with stage IV lung cancer back in February, 2009. Although there are no whistles involved in her coaching, there are phone calls, e-mails, YouTube videos, Webinars and miscellaneous other advisories regularly landing in my inbox. To say Rebecca has saved my life might be an overstatement, given that I am being treated by an oncologist; however, she has given me an alternate perspective on what I can do to help my body survive my treatment and live like I have a present and a future, a gift if ever there was one.

To say that I was a bad eater (think problem child) would be unfair to any child ever characterized as a "bad eater." My joke was: I eat about 10 things – all the time: meat and potatoes, bread and butter, bagels and cream cheese, pizza and more pizza; cake, cookies, candy and ice cream; bologna and hot dogs; sugary drinks for breakfast, lunch and dinner; salty snacks. I could go on, but I'm sure you get the picture, as Rebecca certainly did; and presumably you've noticed no mention of salad, fruits or vegetables included in my list. I wouldn't say – or even admit to, intentionally ignoring the produce section in the supermarket but one would be hard-pressed to notice me walking toward that outside-aisle-type area of the store unless it was on the way to the Entenmann's display. Typically, I shopped in the middle aisles where generally speaking, all the canned, pre-packaged, processed, non-organic, less expensive and shall we say, less healthier alternatives were/are readily available.

Though I had healthy parents who both lived well into their 80s, neither of whom ever exhibited any history of cancer, I was diagnosed with terminal lung cancer at age 54 and a half, a long-time non-smoker to boot. I was given a "13-month to two-year" prognosis at the time. Processing that kind of information doesn't happen overnight, I can tell you that. But eventually, you begin to sift through your options, traditional and otherwise, and proceed on a course of treatment/action that either stands you pat or changes you. I decided change was necessary and sought out Rebecca's help.

The goal was to make my body's blood chemistry (ph balance) as high and as inhospitable to cancer cells as possible by eliminating certain foods (basically everything I eat), and try to increase the oxygen in my blood stream and minimize the acid. The goal: to strengthen my immune system for the fight ahead. This meant – among other avenues – drinking alkaline water (using a machine that converts tap water to alkaline water, highly oxygenated), and following an alkaline diet: 75 percent alkaline and 25 percent acid. In addition to eating different foods than I ever used to (I give myself a "C;" friends who know my eating habits say I deserve an "A"), I take about 40 pills a day: Turmeric and Curcumin, Royal Jelly, Sea Kelp, Ubiquinol, Pancreatic Enzymes, Chinese Chlorella and Spirulina, Red Krill Oil, Juice-Plus multivitamins: Orchard, Vineyard and Garden blends; Resveratrol, probiotics, vitamin C, vitamin D; in addition, I mix/drink baking soda with 8 oz. alkaline water once a day; I mix/drink one tablespoon of Bragg's Organic Apple Cider, with the "mother," into my alkaline water once a day; spoon out 4 tablespoons of pureed asparagus twice a day; make fresh fruit/fresh vegetable smoothies once a day which also include flaxseed oil, almonds, hemp seeds, organic blackstrap molasses (unsulfured), and maybe even ginger if I can stand it (it's very strong). I've recently added wheat grass and almond milk to my regimen. Next up will be apricot kernels and whatever else Rebecca tells me – within reason, because I'm still very particular and this whole eating thing is practically impossible for me to maintain.

What does all this stuff do? I don't really know, but Rebecca does and I trust her. And five years later, I'm living proof. Even though I'm a survivor and a believer, I'm not a very good explainer. As I'm fond of saying, I know sports and chocolate. Rebecca does know more than that, a lot more, and for that, I am eternally grateful – and extremely fortunate to have her in my corner, because this cancer thing is definitely a fight.

Fairfax County Senior Centers

Senior Centers for Active Adults offer opportunities to make friends, stay on the move, and learn new things. Fairfax County residents age 55 and older may join any of the 13 senior centers sponsored by the Department of Neighborhood and Community Services. Senior centers offer classes, health and wellness programs, computer and internet access, trips and tours, and opportunities to socialize with others and stay connected with your community. There is an annual membership fee of $48 for attending the senior centers. Visit www.fairfaxcounty.gov/ncs/srctr.htm for more.

Lunch is available to those 60 and older with a suggested donation of $2-$6, based on age and income. Participants younger than 60 may purchase lunch for $8.50. Reservations must be made at least one day in advance.

Transportation, by Fastran bus, may be available at a nominal charge from your home to the center nearest you and back home. Check with the center to find out about transportation.

SENIOR+ is an innovative inclusion program for seniors with minor cognitive and physical disabilities. The program bridges the gap between programs for fully independent seniors and those who require some assistance. It allows seniors with disabilities to enjoy the wide range of programming found at the county's full service senior centers. Senior+ enables participants to remain in the least restrictive environment and maintain as much independence as possible. Participation reduces loneliness and isolation by providing fun and enjoyment in addition to preserving dignity and enhancing the quality of life.

Senior+ offers supportive services so that seniors with mild impairments may maintain as much independence as possible in their home and community. Services include:

- ❖ Planned and adapted activities created by a recreation therapist
- ❖ Health consultations and assessment by a registered nurse
- ❖ Consultation and assessment by a mental health specialist
- ❖ Referrals to other county agencies and transitions to other programs as needed
- ❖ An Individualized Wellness Plan developed with staff and participant input Senior+ programs also offer a sliding fee scale for monthly program fees or a nutritional lunch. Program hours are Monday-Friday, 10 a.m.-2 p.m. Transportation may be available from the participants home to the nearest center.

The Senior Plus program is offered through the cooperative efforts of several Fairfax County agencies: Department of Neighborhood and Community Services, Department of Family Services, Department of Housing and Community Development, Department of Systems Management for Human Services, Fairfax-Falls Church Community Services Board, the Health Department and our non-profit partner, Easter Seals of the Greater Washington-Baltimore Region, Inc.

Centers offering Senior+ are indicated with (+). Visit www.fairfaxcounty.gov/ncs/seniorplus.htm for more.

Seniors Rush to Yoga

Yoga teachers, research point to health benefits for seniors.

Shortly after 10 a.m. on any given Tuesday or Thursday morning, 84-year-old Lola Wulchin can be found slowly stretching into a downward facing dog pose or lunging into a warrior one posture. The Vienna resident has been a yoga devotee at East Meets West Yoga Center in Vienna for slightly more than two years. In fact, she credits twice-weekly, gentle yoga practice with boosting her health and improving her quality of life.

"I had been bothered by a lot of neck pain from arthritis," said Wulchin. "I had seen a pain management doctor who gave me shots, I had physical therapy, but I still had neck pain and very little range of motion."

A turning point came after she was struck by a passing comment from one of her doctors. "My neurologist mentioned that his wife had been doing yoga for back pain and it had helped. So I decided to try it."

Wulchin embarked on a twice-weekly ritual that she describes as life changing. "My gentle yoga classes have been a God-send," she said. "I have less pain now. I still have some stiffness, but I have a better range of motion."

She isn't the only senior to reap the benefits of yoga. Researchers at the American Congress of Rehabilitation Medicine and the American Academy of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation conducted an eight-week study of 23 adults aged 62 to 83 years old.

They designed a yoga program for that age group with the goals of improving lower-body strength and flexibility. Participants

More Seniors Plan To Age in Place

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
THE CONNECTION

The AARP reports that nearly 80 percent of adults age 65 and older want to remain in their current homes as long as possible. That population is growing. According to the Department of Health and Human Services' Administration on Aging, the population 65 years or older numbered 39.6 million in 2009. By 2030, that number will grow to about 72.1 million.

Many local techniques and programs can help seniors stay in their homes longer.

While people are living longer and healthier lives, there are still barriers to aging in place, including medication management, self-care, socialization and transportation. But there are innovative strategies and initiatives to help combat these roadblocks.

"We're showing people how to modify their home so that it is accessible," said said Robert C. Eiffert, the Long Term Care Program manager for the Fairfax County Health Department. Fairfax and other local counties are conducting workshops on how to make a home safe for a senior who wants to live alone. "We're talking about things like adding a ramp to your front door, changing your door knobs and cabinet handles for people who have arthritis in their hands."

"There are wonderful emerging technologies that allow adult children to monitor their parents who live alone," he said. "It is not intrusive. There are not cameras involved, but there are motion sensors. For example, if there is no movement in the morning, an adult child might think, 'Hmmm, I need to check.'"

Andrew J. Carle, director of the Senior Housing Administration at George Mason

University, recommends First Street for Boomers and Beyond (www.firststreetonline.com) which offers products for seniors and their caregivers. "Products like a nice walk in bathtub for seniors or an alarm that reminds you when to take your medicine are things you can do to change your home and make it safe."

A LACK OF SOCIAL interaction and mental stimulation can contribute to depression and mental deterioration, Carle said. Organizations like the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute (OLLI) at George Mason University, offer opportunities for intellectual stimulation and cultural experiences for retirees in Northern Virginia.

“OLLI, as we call it, is for people who don’t want to sit around and watch television all day,” said Carle. “Professors volunteer their time to give lectures on art, history, science and other topics. Listening to professors speak about stimulating topics helps keep their brains sharp.”

Jennifer Disano, OLLI’s executive director, says the group has 1,200 members, and is funded by an endowment from the Bernard Osher Foundation. The group’s main campus is in Fairfax, but other campuses are in Reston and Sterling. It serves the needs of those who might not feel comfortable in traditional college classrooms and don’t want the pressure of writing papers and taking tests, but are still interested in learning.

“We have people here who were economists and worked with finance, but in their retired life they want to explore areas ... like art classes or history classes,” she said.

One of those members is 76-year-old John Woods. He has attended three to four OLLI events a week for 10 years. “We have a wide variety of professionals and a wide variety of groups that meet,” he said. “We have a group that meets to talk about financial investments. Another group meets every Monday morning at 9 a.m. and looks at the past week’s headlines from the Washington Post, New York Times and Wall Street Journal. They have insights that are important. The stimulating thing is sharing ideas among ourselves.”

VILLAGES ARE community-based organizations designed to help members help each other remain independent and in the communities of their choice. “Back in 2000, villages started with a group in Boston, and in 2007 there was a big boom,” said Barbara Sullivan, executive director of Mount Vernon at Home in Mount Vernon. “It is community-based. Every village is different, but they’re there for people who want to age in place.”

Eiffert, of George Mason, says village members define the type and scope of services. “A good starting point when creating a village is to survey the community members to determine their needs,” he said. “We provide technical assistance to community groups that are interested in putting together a village and encouragement on what models work best for their community. Fairfax County is working with Montgomery County to rewrite the manual on how to start a village.”

There are a few different models, including the “Concierge Village,” which is a non-profit model that coordinates access to an array of services through vetted providers, including transportation, home repairs, care coordination and computer technicians. Most also include social and educational activities. Members arrange for services by calling a central phone number, and pay annual dues that can range from $500 to $800 for an individual and $700 to $1,200 for a couple.

The “All Volunteer” model organizes community volunteers to provide services and support to others. There are no paid staff. In some cases, hours donated by volunteers are “banked” and can be used in the future if the volunteer needs services or assistance. The “Neighborhood Network” is also informal. Groups meet on a regular basis to hear speakers on topics of interest selected by members.

ANOTHER BIG GAP is medication management, Eiffert said. “If someone can’t manage their own medication and can’t afford to pay someone to come in to do it for them, that is a service gap that forces people into assisted living facilities.”

Carle agrees that the decision to age in place is complicated. “The first knee-jerk reaction is that when asked, seniors want to stay in their own homes,” he said, adding that those surveys can be misleading: “The surveys are not always credible if you’re surveying people who are 50-plus. I’m 54 and of course I want to stay in my house, but ask me again in 20 years. I think they should be surveying people who are 75-plus.”

In addition, “people don’t always understand the economic, social and safety aspects of it,” he added. “You can create all kinds of technology and universal designs to create a house for aging in place, but a senior might not be able to afford it. It could end up costing far more than the best assisted living facility in town.”

Granny Pods, small prefabricated homes that allow families to house their relatives in small backyard cottages, are another alternative. “These small living units allow you to put an elderly relative in your backyard and hook up to your electricity,” said Carle.

attended two 90-minute yoga classes per week, and were asked to complete at least 20 minutes of directed home practice on alternate days.

The study found yoga programs tailored to elderly adults can be a cost-effective way to prevent or reduce age-related changes, specifically an increased risk for falls, dependency and other ailments.

Local yoga teachers agree, saying that while yoga classes designed for the 55 and older crowd are increasing in popularity, myths about the practice keep some seniors out of yoga studios.

"The main thing that I hear is that you have to already be flexible to do yoga," said Sandy Pradas of Joyful Heart Yoga in Mount Vernon. "People look at pictures in magazines of people wrapping their legs around their necks or doing other advanced poses and they think, 'If I can't do that, then I can't do yoga.'"

Pradas, whose students are mostly between 50 and 75 years old, said, "Everybody can do yoga, but there are a lot of types of yoga and not every type is good for everybody."

Dawn Curtis, owner of East Meets West Yoga Center, recently completed a course at Duke Integrative Medicine and believes an increasing interest in yoga among seniors will be known as the Silver Tsunami.

"That is baby boomers going into yoga," she said. "Yoga for seniors is going to be the biggest target audience that yoga teachers are going to have because of the number of baby boomers who are looking for alternative ways of exercise because they are not going to be able to keep up with impact exercises like running."

In fact, she says gentle yoga classes are among the most popular at her studio. "I have students who are as old as 84. We deal with people who can't get on the floor," she said. "We use chairs. We work on balance because that is a main concern among seniors. We work on coordination because that is another thing that tends to diminish as we age."

Jennifer Collins, a countywide program specialist in the Office of Senior Adult Programs in Arlington, said that yoga classes that are specifically tailored for those 55 and older are among her office's most popular.

"Some of our [yoga] classes fill up within minutes of opening," said Collins. "We have people sitting at computers at our senior centers ready to register as soon registration opens because they know the classes are going to fill."

Sean .FM (yes, that is his name) of OneAum in Potomac, works with seniors with a wide range of abilities. He said it's important to find a class that is a good fit.

"There are many kinds of seniors," he said. "There are seniors that are immobile and some who are really active. We have a student who is almost 70 and I just taught him how to do a handstand. We created Yoga Rx for those with mobility issues. We work them in the chairs. We also do a lot of private sessions."

George Lynch, fitness director at Vinson Hall Retirement Community in McLean, is planning to incorporate yoga classes into the community's fitness program. The instruction will be tailored to meet the needs of his clients. "We have residents who are in their 80s, 90s and some in their 100s. Everything we do is designed specifically for seniors."

Andrew J. Carle director of the Senior Housing Administration at George Mason University said an increasing number of retirement communities are offer yoga classes as part of their fitness programs. "The future of senior housing will include science-based wellness activities like yoga," he said. "Anything that gets us beyond senior activities such as birthdays, Bibles, bingo and bridge is a step up."

Birthstones

January - Garnet

Garnet, the birthstone for January, signifies eternal friendship and trust and is the perfect gift for a friend. Garnet, derived from the word granatum, means seed, and is called so because of the gemstone's resemblance to a pomegranate seed. References to the gemstone dates back to 3100 B.C., when the Egyptians used garnets as inlays jewelry. Garnet is the name of a group of minerals that comes in a rainbow of colors, from the deep red of the pyrope garnet to the vibrant green of tsavorites.

February - Amethyst

Amethyst, the gemstone believed by ancient Greeks and Romans to ward off the intoxicating powers of Bacchus, also is said to keep the wearer clear-headed and quick-witted. Throughout history, the gemstone has been associated with many myths, legends, religions, and numerous cultures. English regalia were even decorated with amethysts during the Middle Ages to symbolize royalty. It has been associated with many myths, legends, religions, and numerous cultures. Amethyst is purple quartz, a beautiful blend of violet and red that can found in every corner of the earth. Historically, the finest amethyst were found in Russia and were featured in much royal European jewelry.

March - Aquamarine

The two birthstones for March are aquamarine and bloodstone. The name aquamarine is derived from the Latin word aqua, meaning water, and marina, meaning the sea. This gemstone was believed to protect sailors, as well as to guarantee a safe voyage. The serene color of aquamarine is said to cool the temper, allowing the wearer to remain calm and levelheaded. Its pale, cool color beautifully complements spring and summer wardrobes. Aquamarine is most often light in tone and ranges from greenish blue to blue-green; the color usually is more intense in larger stones. The second birthstone for March is bloodstone, a dark-green jasper flecked with vivid red spots of iron oxide. This ancient stone was used by the Babylonians to make seals and amulets and was believed to have healing powers - especially for blood disorders. It is sometimes called the martyr's stone as legend tells that it was created when drops of Christ's blood stained some jasper at the foot of the cross.

April - Diamond

As the April birthstone, diamonds are the ideal gift for a loved one. And now you have more choices than ever. Get creative and give the ultimate gift of beauty: a fancy-color diamond. Fancy-color diamonds are natural, rare and truly exotic gem of the earth. Diamonds in hues of yellow, red, pink, blue, and green range in intensity from faint to vivid and generally the more saturated the color, the higher the value. In fact, diamonds sparkling with intense color are rare and may be priced higher than a colorless diamond of equal size. Because fancy-color diamonds are very desirable, color is sometimes introduced in a laboratory.

May - Emerald

As the birthstone for May, the emerald, a symbol of rebirth, is believed to grant the owner foresight, good fortune, and youth. Emerald, derived from the word smaragdus, meaning green in Greek, was mined in Egypt as early as 330 B.C. Today, most of the world's emeralds are mined in Colombia, Brazil, Afghanistan, and Zambia.

June - Pearl and Alexandrite

June counts three gems as birthstones, pearl, Alexandrite, and moonstone. Historically, pearls have been used as an adornment for centuries. They were one of the favorite gem materials of the Roman Empire; later in Tudor England, the 1500s were known as the pearl age. Pearls are unique as they are the only gems from living sea creatures and require no faceting or polishing to reveal their natural beauty.

Alexandrite

A relatively modern gem, Alexandrite, was first discovered in Russia in 1831 during the reign of its namesake, Czar Alexander II, and is an extremely rare chrysoberyl with chameleon-like qualities. Its color is a lovely green in both daylight and fluorescent light; it changes color to a purplish red in incandescent light.

Moonstone

The third birthstone for June is the Moonstone. It was given its name by the Roman natural historian Pliny, who wrote that moonstone's appearance altered with the phases of the moon - a belief that held until well after the sixteenth century. A phenomenal gemstone, moonstones show a floating play of light (called adularescence) and sometimes show either a multirayed star or a cat's eye. Considered a sacred stone in India, moonstones often are displayed on a background of yellow (a sacred color) and are believed to encapsulate within the stone a spirit whose purpose is to bring good fortune. Part of the family of minerals called feldspar, moonstone occurs in many igneous and metamorphic rocks and comes in a variety of colors such as green, blue, peach, and champagne.

July - Ruby

There's no better way to demonstrate your love than by giving a ruby in celebration of a July birthday. Rubies arouse the senses, stir the imagination, and are said to guarantee health, wisdom, wealth and success in love. Ruby is a variety of the gems species corundum. It is harder than any natural gemstone except diamond, which means a ruby is durable enough for everyday wear. Fine-quality ruby is extremely rare, and the color of the gem is most important to its value.

The top photo shows two women, one in a black shirt and sunglasses and another in a brown jacket, operating a cotton candy machine. The second photo features a large group of children, mostly girls, standing in a line and smiling for the camera. The third photo provides a wide-angle view of the festival grounds, filled with people of all ages and several large, colorful inflatable structures. The fourth photo depicts an egg hunt in progress, with children and adults scattered across a grassy field, some bending over to pick up eggs. The bottom photo shows four children sitting on the grass, focused on eating and playing with baskets of food.

August - Peridot

Two birthstones are available for August birthdays: Peridot and Sardonyx.

Peridot is said to host magical powers and healing properties to protect against nightmares and to bring the wearer power, influence, and a wonderful year. As peridot is a gemstone that forms deep inside the Earth and brought to the surface by volcanoes, in Hawaii, peridot symbolizes the tears of Pele, the goddess of fire and volcanoes. Today, most of the peridot supply comes from Arizona; other sources are China, Myanmar, and Pakistan.

Sardonyx

Sardonyx is a form of onyx and is recognized by its layers of reddish brown and white banding. It was popular with the ancient Greeks and Romans who carried into battle talismans of sardonyx engraved with images of heroes such as Mars or Hercules, believing that this would bring courage and victory. Because of its attractive banding, sardonyx has long been used to fashion cameos (carved raised figures) and intaglios (the reverse of cameos). This gemstone is found throughout the world.

Birthstones

FROM PAGES

According to folklore, will protect your loved ones from envy and harm. Medieval clergy wore sapphires to symbolize heaven, while commoners thought the gem attracted heavenly blessings. Blue sapphires range from very light to very dark greenish or violetish blue, as well as various shades of pure blue. The most prized colors are a medium to medium dark blue or slightly violetish blue.

October - Tourmaline and Opal

October is another month with two birthstone choices - Tourmaline and Opal.

Tourmaline has become a favorite gemstone among jewelry designer, and gem collectors the world over. Since it is available in a wide variety of colors, it is ideally suited to almost anyone's taste.

Tourmaline also is known for displaying several colors in the same gemstone. These bi-color or tri-color gems are formed in many combinations; gemstones with clear color distinctions are highly prized. One multi-color variety is known as watermelon tourmaline, and features green, pink, and white colors bands; to resemble its namesake, the gemstone is cut into thin slices having a pink center, white ring, and green edge.

The name opal derives from the Greek Opallos, meaning "to see a change (of color)." Opals range in color from milky white to black with flashes of yellow, orange, green, red, and blue. An opal's beauty is the product of contrast between its color play and its background. Opal is a formation of non-crystalline silica gel that seeped into crevices in the sedimentary strata. Through time and nature's heating and molding processes, the gel hardened into the form of opals.

November - Topaz and Citrine

Two gems are appropriate for November birthdays - Topaz and Citrine.

Topaz is a gemstone available in a rich rainbow of colors. Prized for several thousand years in antiquity, all yellow gems in antiquity were called topaz. Often confused with citrine quartz (yellow) and smoky quartz (brown), quartz and topaz are separate and unrelated mineral species. The most prized color of topaz is called Imperial topaz after the Russian Czars of the 1800s and features a magnificent orange body color with pinkish undertones.

Citrine, the other birthstone for November is known as the "healing quartz". This golden gemstone is said to support vitality and health while encouraging and guiding hope, energy and warmth within the wearer. Citrine can be found in a variety of shades ranging from pastel yellow to dark brownish orange. It is one of the most affordable of gemstones and plentiful in nature.

December - Tanzanite, Zircon, and Turquoise

The three birthstones associated with December are Tanzanite, Zircon, and Turquoise.

Discovered in the late 1960s in Tanzania, and found exclusively in this tiny area of the world, tanzanite exhibits a rich violet-blue color for which the gemstone is treasured; often it is heat-treated to achieve this color. Colors range from blue to purple, and tanzanites that are medium dark in tone, vivid in saturation, and slightly violet blue command premium prices.

Derived from the Arabic words zar and gun, meaning gold and color, zircon is found in a wide range of colors such as: blue, yellow, orange, brown, green, colorless, and red (the most prized color). For many years colorless zircon was used to imitate diamonds. Folk wisdom grants zircon the power to relieve pain, whet the appetite, protect travelers from disease and injury, to ensure a warm welcome, and to prevent nightmares guaranteeing a deep, tranquil sleep.

The name turquoise, from the French expression Pierre tourques or Turkish stone, originated in the thirteenth century and describes one of the oldest known gemstones. Turquoise varies in color from greenish blue, through robin's egg-blue, to sky blue shades and its transparency ranges from translucent to opaque.
