For many local families, the holidays are a time of hunger. So the Sully District Police Station, Westfields Business Owners Association and Western Fairfax Christian Ministries (WFCM) teamed up to help feed them. And with donations of non-perishable food items from the community, they collected more than 2,500 pounds of food.

Then on Saturday, Nov. 15, volunteers gathered at the Sully District Police Station to pack up bright-red bags full of food to give to 40 families in need. Also participating was Target, which donated the food bags, as well as canned goods.

The packaging turned out to be a family affair. The workers included station commander Capt. Ed O'Carroll and his daughter Sarah, assistant station commander Capt. Bob Blakley and his daughters, Kara and Kasey, plus station Crime Prevention Officer Tara Gerhard. Also pitching in were Chantilly Target employee Iris Calvo and her daughter, Kiyah.

"This is awesome," said O'Carroll. "The donations have been overwhelming."

"Justice Federal Credit Union in Westfields was a big contributor," said Gerhard. "And members of the Sully Station I Homeowners Assn. brought 400 pounds of food."

In addition, she said, "The squads at this station also did food drives. They had a competition to see which one could bring in the most food, Chantilly High senior Mari Takeda has an extra-special reason to look forward to the holidays. On Jan. 3, 2015, she'll join an elite group of musicians who'll perform at half-time of the U.S. Army All-American Bowl in San Antonio, Texas.

A percussionist, Takeda, 17 was selected to be part of the 2015 U.S. Army All-American Marching Band. That honor also recognizes her as one of the top 125 high-school senior marching musicians and color-guard members in the country. And on Oct. 29, she received her official invitation from four Army members during a ceremony at her school.

"It's amazing to be recognized at this high a level; I didn't expect it," she said. "But I think it's great for them to provide this opportunity."

In front of her fellow band members, Staff Sgt. Joshua Smith said those chosen for this honor must possess exceptional musicianship, character, achievement and leadership. "It takes a special person to wear the Army colors, and their loyalty, dedication to duty, self-respect, integrity and personal strength earned them [this] right," he said. "Mari embodies these characteristics and we're proud to welcome her to the band."

"I couldn't have achieved this great honor without the strong support from my friends, family and teachers," said Takeda. She then thanked Chantilly Band Directors Doug Maloney and Chris Singleton, plus former band Director Drew Ross, "for pushing the band to its limit and helping us realize the potential in the band and in ourselves."

She also thanked her private teachers, P.J. Fadoul and John Kilkenny, and her parents "for encouraging me to follow my passion. Being in band has been life-changing — from meeting inspiring people to experiencing the beauty of music, itself." Takeda noted that, after seeing her older brother Yoshi perform the show,

Free Carseat Inspections

Certified technicians from the Sully District Police Station will perform free, child safety carseat inspections Thursday, Dec. 4, from 5 p.m. to dusk, at the station, 4900 Stonecroft Blvd. in Chantilly. No appointment is necessary. But residents should install the child safety seats themselves so technicians may properly inspect and adjust them, as needed.

Because of time constraints, only the first 35 vehicles arriving on each date will be inspected. That way, inspectors may have enough time to properly instruct the caregiver on the correct use of the child seat. (The inspection may be cancelled in the event of inclement weather). Call 703-814-7000, ext. 5140, to confirm dates and times.

Police, Fire Games Help Needed

The 2015 World Police and Fire Games will need upwards of 3,000 people to take on a wide variety of roles across the National Capital Region. These include welcoming visitors, transporting athletes, joining the medical team, assisting sports coordinators, helping out behind the scenes on the technology team. For more information or to volunteer, go to <http://fairfax2015.com/volunteer>.

Volunteering Made Easy

Fairfax County introduces its new volunteer management system, paving the way for easier navigation of county volunteer opportunities. People may visit volunteer.fairfaxcounty.gov, fill out one application and search for opportunities meeting their interests by geographic location, dates, type of people or program type. They may view positions from a variety of agencies track their hours and review upcoming volunteer jobs. They may even volunteer to serve during emergencies.

Fairfax County needs Respite Care volunteers throughout the county to give family caregivers of a frail older adult a well-deserved break. Volunteers visit and oversee the safety of the older adult for a few hours each month. Volunteers are matched with families in or near their own neighborhoods. Support and training is provided. Contact Kristin Martin at 703-324-7577, TTY 711, or Kristin.Martin@fairfaxcounty.gov.

Helping Immigrant Children

The Centreville Labor Resource Center (CLRC) is collecting donations for the 70 immigrant children and 15 young mothers being housed at a secure facility in Bristow while awaiting hearings. The children need health and hygiene supplies, clothing and bedding. Donations may be brought to CLRC, 5956 Centreville Crest Lane in Centreville.

Especially needed are clothing and underwear for both boys and girls, ages 7-17; white towels, twin-sized blankets, sheets and bedspreads; new pillows and personal-hygiene products including shampoo, conditioner, hand soap, lotion, deodorant, hair brushes and accessories, tooth paste and toothbrushes, and disposable diapers.

Walney Road Widening Meeting Set

Work is scheduled to begin Dec. 2.

Supervisor Michael R. Frey (R-Sully) and VDOT are co-hosting a "Pardon Our Dust" meeting for the Walney Road widening and bridge replacement. It's set for Monday, Dec. 1, at 7 p.m., in the Sully District Governmental Center, 4900 Stonecroft Blvd. in Chantilly.

Residents will be able to meet VDOT's project team and learn more about construction and traffic impacts, including detours for the four-and-one-half-month closure of Walney Road.

Crews are slated to start work Tuesday, Dec. 2, on the $14.8 million project to improve safety and ease congestion by widening Walney Road from two to four lanes near Willard Road. The work will include adding 5-foot-wide bike lanes on both the northbound and southbound lanes. Also planned are a sidewalk on the west side and a shared-use path on the east side.

The project will also replace and widen the 85-foot-long Walney Road Bridge over Flatlick Branch. Beginning in mid-April 2015, Walney Road will be closed from Westfields Boulevard to Mariah Court for relocation of the existing sanitary sewer line and for bridge construction. The road will re-open to one lane of traffic in each direction on Sept. 1, 2015.

Drivers will be detoured via Westfields Boulevard, Route 28 and Willard Road. However, access to all adjacent properties will be maintained throughout the duration of the project. VDOT will announce this closure again in the spring.

The work is expected to be finished in December 2015. For more details on this project, go to

November Raises Awareness and Celebrates Caregivers

Resources available for people living with Alzheimer's and their caregivers.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
CENTRE VIEW

Mary Driver-Downs has been one of the primary caregivers for her mother-in-law, who suffers from Alzheimer's disease, for the past six years. It has been a difficult journey, but one she says is well worth it.

In fact, she has become a spokesperson and a role model for other caretakers of those who suffer from the disease. Caregivers often overlook self-care, she says.

"Taking care of myself is the most difficult part of care giving," said Driver-Downs, an Alzheimer Ambassador. "I have learned lots of little things that seem to help. I am more aware that I need to get adequate sleep so I make it a point to sleep when I should. Sometimes that means I turn in earlier than most people. Being rested helps me cope with the stress of daily care."

November is National Alzheimer's Disease Awareness and National Family Caregivers Month. The Alzheimer's Association, an organization founded by caregivers, celebrates the efforts of caregivers, and raises awareness about both the disease and innovative resources that have been designed specifically with families in mind.

One of the issues that many families of those suffering from Alzheimer's disease face is denial.

"Unfortunately, this is a very common problem," said Maureen Charlton, helpline program coordinator at the Alzheimer's Association's National Capital Area Chapter in Fairfax. "The person who is showing symptoms is often seemingly in denial about their condition. Part of it may be some true denial as they see changes in themselves and are scared to think of what it might be, and the other part is people sometimes lose the ability to have insight into their deficits."

"It can be helpful to encourage the person to go to the doctor for another reason

[such as a] Medicare annual wellness visit or a checkup for another medical issue. If at all possible, provide the physician some information in advance of this visit."

The Institute for Innovations in Caregiving, a statewide effort to help ease the burdens of those who care for ailing seniors, especially those with Alzheimer's named two George Mason University faculty members, Catherine Tompkins and Frank J. Whittington, to the institute's advisory council.

The institute aims to preserve and improve the physical and emotional wellness of family caregivers by helping them manage emotional stressors and tough decisions. It also will try to improve caregivers' access to the latest technologies and community resources.

Resources

Alzheimer's Association Helpline (1-800-272-3900): This toll-free 24/7 helpline is staffed by masters-level counselors and provides information and guidance in more than 170 languages and dialects.

The Alzheimer's and Dementia Caregiver Center (alz.org/care): This site provides more than 70 pages of information and easy access to resources, such as:

- ❖ Community Resource Finder: Find local resources.
- ❖ Care Team Calendar: Coordinate caregiving responsibilities among family and friends.
- ❖ Safety Center: Access information and resources for safety inside and outside of the home, wandering and getting lost, and dementia and driving.

ALZConnected, powered by the Alzheimer's Association (alzconnected.org): The first social networking community designed for people living with Alzheimer's and their caregivers.

"Caregiving, whether by a spouse, a child, a parent, a sibling or a friend, is one of the hardest and most rewarding jobs any of us can ever undertake," Whittington said. "Most caregivers accept and embrace the role without hesitation, but in time, the responsibility among family and friends, and emotionally overwhelming. The [Institute for Innovations in Caregiving] is an exciting, innovative venture to support, educate and celebrate caregivers in Virginia, and I believe it can become a model for other states to follow."

There are 130,000 people living with Alzheimer's and 447,000 unpaid caregivers in Virginia, according to the Alzheimer's Association. For more information on Alzheimer's disease or available resources, visit alz.org or call 1-800-272-3900.

Renovation Keeps Rolling at Thomas Jefferson

Thomas Jefferson senior Thomas Rogers is big on the laser cutter. "You can cut anything you want," said the McLean resident, "like exact designs on sheet metal." Rogers was enthusiastic about the device, but wouldn't fire it up during the Nov. 14 tour of the Science and Technology Governor's School's new two-story wing with 14 research spaces.

The transportation and robotics labs received numerous structural upgrades from their former facilities, including lighting and a more open floorplan with large garage doors.

"I'm extremely stoked about the new lab," said Rogers. "I could live in here. It smells better, the light is better and the garage doors between the labs give a sense of community. The last rooms were pretty cramped."

renovation since spring 2013, with an expected completion by fall 2016. Friday's ribbon-cutting marked being ten to 15 percent of the way there, according to Brandon Kosatka, director of student services at previous manager of the project.

Builders Henley Construction Company, Inc, working with Ballou Justice & Upton Architects, plan to double the size of the original building to 390,000 square feet.

"This renovation isn't about just putting paint on the walls, it's about restructuring the layout to support how learning has evolved over time," said Jefferson Principal Evan Glazer. "We need research spaces for more collaborative team teaching and inquiry-based projects that didn't exist in the '60s. This will support those spaces."

IN ADDITION to the new labs for neuroscience, quantum physics, optics and other scientific specialties, the full renovation plan includes internet cafes, three-dimensional art galleries, a black box theatre, a massive virtual collaborative research network and improved energy efficiency. And a great dome reminiscent of President Thomas Jefferson's Monticello is up, but still under construction.

Glazer announced to the ribbon-cutting audience phase two should begin in about a month. "The whole center of the building will be excavated," he said. "Front and back, it'll look great, but there won't be anything in the middle. Students have really had to manage with the 64 different learning cottages we've had at multiple places on campus."

Cabrejos To Perform at Nightclub

Singer/songwriter Nick Cabrejos, 24, of Singleton's Grove in Centreville will perform on Saturday, Nov. 29 at 12 p.m. at The Empire Nightclub and The Alchemy Room, 6355 Rolling Road, Springfield.

Originally from Lima, Peru, Cabrejos will play original easy listening pop and cover songs from his debut album, "86 Sleep," which is being officially released on iTunes on Dec. 2. The album is a reflection of past loves, restless nights, and the yearning for discovery outside of the suburbs of Northern Virginia.

"My brand of music is often referred to as 'singer/songwriter,'" he said. "I plan to stand out in this genre by delivering interesting melodies and catchy rhythms that are influenced by artists from all around the world." A 2009 graduate of Centreville High School, Cabrejos started his musical journey by taking violin classes in fourth grade at Centreville Elementary school. He later switched to guitar at Liberty Middle School after taking a music lab class. Once in high school, he enrolled in the guitar department, and performed his first singer/songwriter performance in the Acoustic Gumbo concert his senior year with original music created by students.

"I remember being really nervous until the audience began to clap along with my chorus," he said. "After that I was hooked."

Fairfax County Public Schools Superintendent Karen Garza thanked the parents and community members at the ribbon-cutting for supporting bonds that help make renovations possible around the county.

"These are young people who could potentially solve some of the greatest challenges that we face in our world," she said, "so we're very excited about them having the kind of space to allow their learning to thrive and flourish."

GARZA was followed by School Board Chairman Tammy Derenak Kaufax.

"I'm proud when I see any one of our 25 high schools get the upgrades that they so much deserve and the students need," she said. "We all know TJ needed a renovation and here we are, it's finally happening."

OPINION

Holidays Are About Giving

Give thanks and share; tens of thousands of families around us are in need.

The holidays are about giving, and giving thanks. The holidays are about children and family. The holidays are about sharing, about joy. The holidays are about being thankful and about faith and appreciation. The holidays are about alleviating suffering for others.

Surrounded by the bounty in so many neighborhoods in Northern Virginia, many of us see little signs of the massive unmet needs here. But in Fairfax County Public Schools, more than 52,000 of the students are poor enough to receive free or subsidized meals, a significant measure of poverty.

In Arlington more than 32 percent of the students are poor enough to receive free or subsidized meals; that's 7,452 students at last count.

In Alexandria, 8,582 students are poor enough to receive free or subsidized meals. That's 60 percent of the 14,222 students enrolled.

These are children who are living in families who may be on the brink of homelessness, families who must choose between medical bills, car repair, heat and food. These are children who may not be sure that they will have a meal between the meals they get in school. School holidays can bring uncertainty and hunger, a far cry from the celebrations, gifts and plenty that we associate with Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Hundreds of homeless students attend the public schools, and their needs are greater.

There are literally hundreds, probably thousands, of ways to give locally this season. Here are a few ideas. We will rerun this list again during the holiday, so let us know what we have missed.

Many Reasons To Give Thanks

To the Editor:

Gobble, gobble, it's near that time of year again. The time we all check our Smartphones to see who has received the most likes on their turkey feast. Even though that may be one of the many modern customs we have created for Thanksgiving Day, some may tend to forget the true purpose of why we have this grand celebration.

Like many other Americans, I too celebrate this glorious occasion with family and friends. We indulge ourselves in a hearty thanksgiving meal and all gather together in the living room while still in our food comas to play charades. However, being an American Muslim I do not stop thanking God after this one day has passed each year. Every day is Thanksgiving in my household. Before eating any meal, snack or drink we give thanks. We pray five times throughout the day to give our thanks. God says in the Holy Quran, "If you are grateful, I will, surely, bestow more favors on you" (14:8). This verse makes me feel ungrateful considering the fact that God gives to us continuously.

To me, Thanksgiving is one of those holidays that everyone in the world can come together and celebrate with family and friends because it gives us a reality check to reflect on all the people and things we are surrounded by.

Hand & Stone Opens in Chantilly

Spa offers facials, massage, waxings.

BY STEVE HIBBARD
CENTRE VIEW

A new Chantilly Hand & Stone Spa opened in the Greenbriar Town Center behind the Starbucks along Route 50 on Oct. 12. Owned by Darielle Danver, 25, and her father Eric Danver, 52, of Medford, N.J., the franchise spa decorated in warm earth tones and ambient lighting specializes in facials, hot stone massages, skin peels, waxing, eyebrows, hand therapy, and hot towel foot treatments with scrubs and lotions.

"It's a five-star spa experience at a one-star price," said Darielle Danver, who recently moved to Fairfax to start her new business. "It's a spa environment as opposed to a clinical environment."

She added: "Everybody wants to feel good, and we're bringing that to them at a very affordable price ... You can come in and feel pampered and not break your bank while doing that."

The Signature Service is a 50-minute hot stone massage using river stones where the stones are heated to 120 degrees. The therapist uses the stones as an extension of their hands; they help break down lactic acid in muscles. "The heat from the stones draws out stress and tension," said Darielle Danver. "It's a whole body massage; everywhere their hand goes, the stone will go as well."

The spa offers Clarity and Dermalogica Facials. After an aesthetician does a full analysis of the skin, they determine if there are any problem areas, and can recommend customized upgrades. They do cleansing, exfoliation, steaming, extractions as well as a decolleage massage of the neck and upper shoulders. In addition, they offer anti-aging facials, sensitive skin facials, and detox facials for acne-prone skin. "They are always customized for whatever skin condition the client has going on," said Danver.

For sun-damaged and dry skin, there's a hydrating facial. For autumn, there's a pumpkin facial with pumpkin enzymes to help peel away the years. For acne-prone skin, there's the MediBac line that targets bacteria.

The spa provides upgrades based on the aesthetician's recommendations for the client's skin: the ultra-calming line is used for skin with problems like rosacea; the MediBac line for acne and oily skin; the Age-Smart line for pre-maturing skin and the Grey Line for normal skin.

In addition, the spa does hair removal and waxing, using NuFree Hard Wax, which sticks to the hair follicle and lifts the hair from the root.

Hand & Stone was founded by physical therapist John Marco in Tom's River, N.J., in 2004. It has 160 locations nationwide. With a staff of 12, the Chantilly location has 2,300 square feet with eight different rooms — two aesthetician rooms, five massage rooms, and one couple's room. The Danvers plan to expand to the South Lakes Shopping Center in Reston in mid-January, plus five other Hand & Stone spas in the communities of Vienna, Falls Church, Burke and Ashburn.

Eric Danver, who owns 22 Papa John's Pizzas in New Jersey and Delaware, has the franchise background, and daughter Darielle is in charge of the day-to-day running of the spa. "I was a customer in New Jersey for a couple of years; I was fascinated with the business and wanted to do multiple spas in the area," he said.

Manager and operations director Kristina Lovelace, 29, who moved to Fairfax from New Jersey, has 10 years of experience in the spa business. "Hand & Stone spa is meant to be its own private oasis — a place for clients to escape and relax and come to clear their minds from the day-to-day chaos," said Lovelace.

"I fell in love with Hand & Stone because of the extensive services it offers; they are more customized and therapeutic," said Kay Hechler, 52, who owns a Hand & Stone franchise with her husband John Phillips in Gaithersburg, and who was at the soft-opening of Danvers' store. "It's based on wellness principles; the services are very solid and I don't think there's anything like this in Chantilly."

THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving Tablescape Ideas for giving thanks in style.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
CENTRE VIEW

Whether one's taste in table settings is subtle or over-the-top, it is possible to give thanks in style. From centerpieces to table runners, local designers say the right combination of accessories can create a Thanksgiving table that guests will remember long after the holiday.

"Start with candles," said Susan Taylor of Design for You in Centreville. "They are simple, clean and classic and affordable. You can use traditional candelabras on your table and place small floral arrangements evenly spaced between each one. For a rustic or romantic look, place candles down the table on a bed of greenery, especially fragrant greenery like holly."

When using greenery, warns Taylor, make sure the flames cannot touch the greenery or anything that can start a fire.

Candles always set the mood on the table, said Sallie Kjos of Grey Hunt Interiors in Chantilly.

"Have a collection of different heights, possibly different colors for added interest," she said. "If you want to go with an elegant look, go for the burlap, white pumpkin, and use all of your metallics such as bronze, champagnes and golds."

Ideas for table décor can found almost anywhere, even in a supermarket, says Sharon Kleinman of Transitions by Sharon Kleinman in Potomac, Md. "While there, I get inspiration from their beautiful produce and flowers," she said. "The persimmons were such a lovely shade of orange I knew I wanted to use them in my table decor. I decided to cut the bottoms off, scoop out part of the inside and fill them with fall flowers for individual arrangements at each place setting. I also purchased some bright orange pyracantha branches figuring I could use them in my table arrangement."

Sallie Kjos of Grey Hunt Interiors in Chantilly says metallic accessories in colors such as bronze, champagne and gold create an elegant setting.

Options for runners and tablecloths run the gamut from rustic to elegant. "Use your tablecloth and a runner, doing a burlap table cloth is a very inexpensive way to get a fall color, but it doesn't mean you have to go rustic," said Kjos. "Any runner on top of the tablecloth adds texture. Consider getting two runners and running them the width of the table verses the length."

Accessories you already own can be updated easily. "In my stash of holiday decor I have three ceramic pumpkins that are really quite elegant and anchor my centerpiece. This year I purchased some beautiful napkins in the same rust and plum tones" said Kleinman. "To create an eye catching centerpiece, I used the largest pumpkin in the center and placed the two smaller pumpkins approximately 24 inches to the right and left of the center. In the space between the pumpkins and on each end I layered the dried berries, magnolia leaves, pyracantha and dried flowers. I tucked fresh flowers among the dried flowers and branches. I keep them fresh by using the plastic tubes the florist sends with long stem roses that I always save."

Kjos has a centerpiece idea that focuses on the meaning of the holiday. "For each center piece, wrap up a little box," she said. "Inside the box use fall colored craft paper and write down five things about that guest that you are thankful for. The box can be wrapped in bronze paper, gold, whatever you like that is fall looking and goes with your decor, then tie up with a ribbon or twine and add a leaf to the top with their name is metallic sharpie for a place setting."

Kleinman visited a local nursery to gather foliage. "I picked up some burlap ribbon to tie up my napkins, dried berries, fake magnolia leaves that looked real and some dried exotic flowers," she said. "My last purchase was four apple cinnamon scented candles encased in a plum glass."

The combination of scented candlelight, fresh flowers, dried flowers and berries, fresh produce and fine linens feels colorful, bountiful and elegant but understated, said Kleinman.

"The best part of creating a lovely table setting is that it shows family and friends that you care," she said. "For me preparing a beautiful table is just as important as preparing a delicious meal. It is my way of showing family and friends that I'm thankful for them."

Gifts for the Hostess Stylish ideas for saying thank you.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
CENTRE VIEW

If you're planning to be a guest rather than a host for Thanksgiving dinner this year, you don't want to arrive empty handed. For those who are still searching for the perfect hostess gift, local tastemakers come to the rescue with presents that are stylish and thoughtful.

Candles in seasonal fragrances are among the popular hostess gifts. "Our Rosy Rings Spicy Apple Botanical candle has the fragrance of an apple pie cooling on a windowsill," said Ann O'Shields of The Nest Egg in Fairfax.

"A 200 hour burn time and made with apple slices, bay leaves, cinnamon sticks, rosehips, essential and high quality fragrance oils," said O'Shields. "Customers await our first shipment every fall."

"Fragrances like pumpkin or cinnamon are popular this time of year and can carry through the holiday season," said Courtney Thomas of the Picket Fence in Burke.

Cocktail napkins are something that every host can use, said Thomas.

"A couple packs in a decorative holder make a great and useful gift," she said. "Many people choose one fall and one holiday design so they can be used throughout the holidays."

Luxurious white marble and natural wood make these cheese boards an elegant gift.

Interiors in Potomac, Md., says she has an array of items for the hostess including, "candles and potpourri."

Food items always make a nice gift. "Put together a little goodie bag of snack items — peanuts, cheese biscuits or candies for the hostess to enjoy after all the festivities are over," said Thomas.

A marble-and-wood, monogrammed cheese board and spreader is a thoughtful and personal idea, said O'Shields.

"These fabulous boards come in handy for everyone who entertains," she said. "They are great for serving cheese, fruit and more. The monogram makes it a personal gift and the natural wood and marble easily fit into all décor styles."

For a larger gift you could include a package of cocktail napkins, wine, cheese and crackers for an instant appetizer.

Pace Headed to Charlotte for Foot Locker South

Westfield senior competes in annual Turkey Trot with family.

As a junior, Johnny Pace was the first Westfield harrier in 10 years to qualify for the state meet. This year, Pace has been one of the top runners in Virginia.

Pace finished runner-up at the Conference 5 meet on Oct. 30 at Burke Lake Park, placed fifth at the 6A North region meet on Nov. 5 and earned all-state with a fifth-place finish in the 6A race during the VHSL state meet on Nov. 15 at Great Meadow. Pace finished with a time of 15:28.

Q&A Pace recently participated in a Q&A via email, sharing some insight about his Thanksgiving plans.

Q: What are your plans for Thanksgiving?

Pace: This year, most of my Thanksgiving will be spent driving down to Charlotte, N.C., for the Foot Locker South Regional Meet on Saturday. I'm hoping we'll arrive early enough that we won't have to resort to eating drive-thru Thanksgiving dinner while on the road to Charlotte.

Q: Do you or your family have any annual Thanksgiving traditions?

Pace: My family and I have run the Virginia Run Turkey Trot every year since I was 6. That's an 11-year streak! I will be running it nice and slow just to keep the streak going but don't be surprised if you see me running the same time I ran when I was 6! As much as I'd like to run hard, I have to keep my fresh legs for the Footlocker meet.

Q: Does your family incorporate sports into Thanksgiving? If so, how?

Pace: Like I said, year in and year out, my family has made the early morning trek to the Turkey Trot starting line and doing so has provided us with reason enough to enjoy eating up during dinnertime.

Q: What is your favorite thing to eat on Thanksgiving?

Pace: It is impossible to pick one single item. Like a good work of art, Thanksgiving dinner is all in how one chooses to meld and interpret the various components to craft a single magnificent menagerie of deliciousness. Trying to select a single food would be like trying to paint with one color; it simply can't compare to the blending of the full food spectrum.

Q: You finished fifth at the state meet. How do you feel you performed?

Pace: I'm happy with my race execution. I dropped my time by 30 seconds from last year's state meet, although I have some things to work out in the last mile, which I know could lead to even faster times. I'm looking forward to seeing everything come together this week at Foot Locker and I am hoping I can really leave everything out there and do something special.

Q: Do you compete in any other sports at Westfield?

Pace: I am a four-year member of the marching band and have enjoyed the journey of being selected to play in the 2014 Rose Parade. It was an experience I will remember for the rest of my life. Moreover, I am a three-season runner, participating in cross country, indoor track, and outdoor track, where I have been a varsity member of the two-time indoor/outdoor regional champion teams.

Q: What is your favorite sports moment during your Westfield career?

Pace: My junior year, I became the first male Westfield runner to qualify for states in 10 years. The year before, I had been a JV runner and the emotion of having come so far in one year was enough to solidify that meet as one I would never forget.

Q: You were named Westfield homecoming king. What was that experience like?

Pace: It was a very flattering experience, to say the least. I never would have imagined I would have the privilege of being selected by my peers for king and it certainly made me proud to be a Bulldog. Fortunately, the other class officers and I had been working on a castle float for the Candyland homecoming parade, so the whole king thing fit very nicely with the float.

Q: What are your college plans? Will you run for the school you're attending?

Pace: I am still looking at colleges near and far but I know that collegiate running is something I definitely want to pursue. I am being careful to assess schools based on academic strength first and then hopefully, they have a strong athletic program to follow. People will tell you the college search process is stressful, but I have enjoyed every step of it! I just hope I will choose a place I feel comfortable being and can grow as both a student and an athlete.

Q: Who is your favorite music artist? Why?

Pace: Kids these days seem to be aligned with the hip hop scene so I tend to culture myself with the likes of wordsmiths such as Kanye West, although I can certainly appreciate Queen, Stevie Wonder, and most other artists.

Q: What is your favorite movie? Why?

Pace: Few movies have had such enduring legacies of enjoyment in my own mind as "Napoleon Dynamite." The film's simplicity coupled with its sophisticated level of humor has provided for endless quotability in my lifetime and for the purchase of a genuine pair of American flag workout pants as a result of one of its most iconic scenes.

Q: What location is the farthest you have traveled from the Washington, D.C. area?

Pace: I traveled with the Westfield marching band to Pasadena, Calif., for the 125th Tournament of Roses Rose Parade last year. It was truly a once-in-a-lifetime experience and if anything can justify the work that goes into a marching band, it would certainly be the feeling of rounding the television corner to look down Colorado Boulevard at hundreds of thousands of cheering observers. Truly indescribable.

Q: Who are your favorite pro sports teams?

Pace: While I can't call myself an avid sports fan, I have always been a supporter of the Washington Redskins.

Q: Who are your favorite pro athletes?

Pace: I am an admirer of RG3 for his activism in the community. To see the good he has done in the local area alone is enough to make me proud of his accomplishments, regardless of his recent mistakes on the field. It is character that defines who I look up to, not solely his or her athletic accomplishments.

SCHOOL NOTES

Email announcements to centreview@connectionnewspapers.com. Photos are welcome.

John F. Horoho has enrolled in the Army Reserve Officers' Training Corps (ROTC) program at College of Charleston, S.C. Upon graduation and completion of ROTC Military Science courses at the host university, the cadet receives a bachelor's degree and a commission of second lieutenant in the U.S. Army. Horoho is the son of Patty Horoho of Fort McNair, Washington, D.C. He is a 2014 graduate of Centerville High School, Clifton.

To celebrate Colonial Day at Centreville Elementary, students dressed in costumes from the period; played Colonial games; made candles out of beeswax and necklaces out of buffalo sinew, bone, and glass bead; and learned rope tying. Authentic learning was the order of the day.

Teachers will be able to reference the material and experiences from Colonial Day as they move forward with the Virginia Studies units from Eastern Woodland Indians to Jamestown, through Colonial Virginia and even into the American Revolution.

Michael T. McCaffrey is an Army ROTC cadet involved in Cadet Language and Cultural Immersion Training — their first training deployment as a cadet. After a week-long training session at Fort Knox, Ky., the selected cadets are deployed to partner nations where they are immersed in the local cultures and languages and spend three weeks assisting with current Army missions that range from community outreach projects to teaching English to local children or host country military personnel.

McCaffrey deployed to Macedonia on his cultural and language immersion tour. He is the son of Lisa McCaffrey of Honolulu, Hawaii. The cadet is a 2012 graduate of Centerville High School and currently a student at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, Blacksburg.

Takeda To Perform with Army's All-American Marching Band

"SANDSCAPES," with Chantilly's marching band, a few years ago, she "instantly knew" she wanted to be part of it.

"Worthwhile things only come from hard work," said Maloney. "[And] Mari's industrious nature certainly served as a cornerstone for each of her musical successes. She's the epitome of someone who eats, sleeps and breathes music — [whether] she's practicing the marimba outside, rehearsing with our Symphonic Winds or working on percussion rudiments to improve her musical precision and expression."

When Takeda's not busy rehearsing with the marching band, said Maloney, she's giving private instruction to elementary-school percussionists, preparing for auditions or performing with ensembles such as the American Youth Philharmonic Orchestra.

"Mari, we're so blessed to have you as a member of the Chantilly Band," he said. "We're incredibly proud of your well-deserved recognition. We can't wait to see you perform in January and we're even more excited to see where your passion, talent and dedication carry you in your future musical endeavors."

A resident of the Chantilly Highlands community, Takeda played violin three years before switching to percussion to try something different. "When I heard a marimba for the first time, I knew I wanted to play it — I loved the sound," she said.

Besides performing all four years with Chantilly's marching band, she's also part of the American Youth Symphonic Orchestra in Alexandria and the Peabody Youth Orchestra in Baltimore. She's applied to several prestigious colleges and wants to become a professional chamber or orchestral musician.

Percussion's much more than just drums, said Takeda. "There's now a huge emphasis on marching percussion and drumline, and that's opened up more opportunities for people to play percussion," she said. "This school really supports its marching arts, so I'm proud to be part of it."

At Chantilly, she said, "I realized the importance of time and how long you have with each person — whether it's a teacher or a best friend in marching band — and to treasure that time before moving on to college. Marching band had a really successful year and a successful Bands of America competition, and everyone in the band is proud of what we achieved."

Takeda applied for the U.S. Army All-American Marching Band in May, sent three audition tapes and was nominated by Maloney. About 2,000 students applied and the National Assn. for Music Education selected the All-Americans. "I had no idea if I'd make it, but I knew it was an awesome program."

She found out in July. "I was really excited and immediately called Gabe Luebke, who's my best friend and who got it last year," she said. "But I couldn't tell anyone else officially — no social media — until the presentation." At that time, she received an "Army Strong" cap, All-American Marching Band jacket, a plaque and an official invitation.

Takeda's already begun practicing the music — an entire, 10-minute show. "It's pretty surreal to know I'm going to San Antonio to meet other All-Americans, and we'll all be there with the same attitude and skill level," she said. "And being brought together for one week will be an amazing experience. It'll definitely be a trip I'll remember for the rest of my life."

handles complex events with little to no direction needed from her supervisors."

He also noted that her reports detailing what happened, her investigation and the outcome are written "in a manner well above the average patrol officer." And, he added, besides her supervisors observing her attention to detail, investigative aptitude and ability to draft an excellent report, a supervisor from the Major Crimes Division has also acknowledged her superior work.

"PFC Briney maintains the demanding certifications associated with being an EMT-paramedic without impacting her primary responsibility to patrol," continued Avery. "She then utilizes these specialized skills by supplementing the Helicopter Division's critical mission."

He said she's demonstrated her knowledge and skills on several, joint Police and Fire Department events. And as a result, "Her abilities are widely recognized by the Fire Department's EMT-paramedics who work within the Sully District."

Briney also assists with squad administrative tasks. "She willingly steps up to coordinate squad staffing, ensuring minimum numbers are met," said Avery. "She works with new officers assigned to the squad to ease their transition to the station. These tasks are all self-initiated and evidence of her devotion to duty. PFC Briney is a reliable employee and most deserving of this recognition."

She was formally honored at a recent CAC meeting. Capt. Ed O'Carroll, commander of the Sully District Station, said Briney's on permanent night shift there. "She has an outstanding work ethic, puts detail in her crime reports and maintains a positive attitude," he said. "She has the ability to get the job done, and her leadership on her squad is a shining example to others."

"I've relied on her here at Sully," said O'Carroll. "And the community has definitely benefitted — she's saved lives."

Accepting her certificate from him, Briney said, "I truly appreciate it; I did not expect it."

"Shrinkage"

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

Not exactly "like a frightened turtle" as "similed" on a long-ago Seinfeld episode by Jerry himself; this shrinkage is the good kind, the kind you hope a radiological oncologist characterizes when viewing your CT Scan (computed tomography). Specifically, the exact kind of scan I get every three months to assess and evaluate the tumors, and fluid, in my stage IV, non-small cell cancer-affected lungs. The actual scanning itself takes about 30 seconds of "breathe in," "hold it," and "breathe out" to determine if my life is on hold – in a good way – or in jeopardy (not a belated reference back to last week's column). The week-long wait until we have our face-to-face appointment with my oncologist to learn the results is not as interminable as you might think. Over time, we have gotten used to the experience. After all, living with cancer means living, not dying, and adapting and compartmentalizing cancer's effects – mentally, physically and spiritually; all keys to surviving and enduring the good, bad and ugly that daily can traumatize those of us "characterized as terminal" who frequent the Infusion Centers hoping for a miracle cure.

Since March, 2009, I've been treated with nearly non-stop chemotherapy, infused mostly, except for 12 months or so when I was able to take a targeted therapy pill at home and only had to show up at the Center for scans and doctor's appointments. Six years ago almost, this process began; I can't say it seems like yesterday, because there are yesterdays – due to the effect of chemotherapy – that I simply don't remember ("chemo brain" is the accepted condition/characterization), but time flies when you're having fun or rather, you're still alive against all odds. And so it seems as if I still have a few tomorrows. Tomorrows that were hardly promised to me back at the original Team Lourie meeting in late February, 2009. Somehow, through a variety of fits and starts, I have survived: my DNA, my family history, my attitude, my pills, my supplements, my alkaline water, my diet and lifestyle changes, my above-average luck, whatever, however, I am still present and accounted for. And though "stable" is a radiologist's/ oncologist's description I have come to hope and pray for and embrace over these past six years, "shrinkage" is a description "most welcome" as Hercule Poirot might say and one I rarely anticipated hearing – considering my stage IV circumstances.

But I can take it. Though I'm not cancer-free and certainly not in remission, I am doing reasonably well. I am, as a good friend says: "in pretty good shape for the shape I'm in." The scan results are results with which I can live (Duh!) and so I intend to – until three months hence when we do this scan dance all over again. Granted, this cycle of gloom and doom and results-not-soon-enough is hardly ideal, but it is a living and a living I was not "prognosed" to have ("13 months to two years" was the original prognosis) when first diagnosed. I'm nowhere near home free; I'm still in for the fight of my life – for my life, but for the moment, at least, for this quarter, due to the shrinkage, I can take a bit of a break, which if you want to know the truth, I can certainly use.

Turbo Tutoring Helps Ellie's Hats

Dan Harris and Gregg Greentree, co-owners of Turbo Tutoring LLC, are conducting a hat drive for Ellie's Hats in conjunction with their SAT prep seminar on Wednesday, Dec. 3 from 6:30 to 9 p.m. at Stone Bridge High School, Room 303, at 43100 Hay Road, Ashburn, VA 20147.

Students who take the two-and-a-half-hour SAT prep class for $175 are encouraged to bring in hats, which will then be donated to area hospitals and clinics for kids who are undergoing chemo treatments for pediatric cancer. "Students are encouraged to take our class and bring in a hat to donate to area clinics for kids who are undergoing chemo treatments," said Harris.

The Westfield High School English teacher and school counselor have been in the tutoring business for two years. To encourage kids to bring in those hats, they are having raffle items with Clyde's gift cards, and other gift cards. "We're going to raffle off some prizes to give kids and families incentive to give back," said Harris.

He added: "We've developed a really fun prep class for kids," said Harris. "We've had a lot of success with kids' scores going up after our class. Kids feel like they learn a lot from our class that they can apply to other classes.

Ellie's Hats was started by retired Fairfax County PE. teacher Jay Coakley with whom Harris once worked. The program donates hats to kids with cancer at local hospitals, Ronald McDonald Houses, NIH and a cancer clinic in Falls Church.

"I think we all reflect at this time of year. Giving something as small as a hat, to a child battling pediatric cancer, hopefully will help brighten their day, and put a smile on their face in such a difficult time for them," said Harris.

Preschool and elementary school students from eight Chesterbrook Academy schools in Northern Virginia worked together on Nov. 7 to gather and sort more than 1,000 pieces of candy for U.S. troops. Students from Chesterbrook Academy locations in Centreville, Chantilly, Clifton, Fairfax and Herndon gathered at Chesterbrook Academy Kids Campus in Chantilly to sort the candy and package it for delivery. Each year in honor of Veterans Day, Chesterbrook Academy schools participate in the project, called Operation Gratitude, as a token of their appreciation for servicemen and women. The candy will be distributed to USO locations in the Baltimore-Washington metro area and to children who have parents deployed in war zones.

"Twas the Night Before Christmas"

A fun filled family holiday event, presented by The Alliance Theater, begins with a performance of Ken Ludwig's "Twas the Night Before Christmas" by special arrangement with Samuel French, followed by Christmas caroling, and bring a camera for an opportunity to sit with and take pictures with Santa

"Twas the Night Before Christmas" is the tale of Amos the mouse whose house gets missed by Santa. He and his two friends, an elf named Calliope and a spunky little girl, Emily, go to great lengths to ensure that Santa doesn't miss him again. They set off on wild adventures that involve a heist, a crazy airplane flight, and an elf's stint as a secret agent in this playful tribute to the holiday season.

All performances will be held at Mountain View High School, 5775 Spindle Court, Centreville. Show dates are Friday, Dec. 5, 7:30 p.m.; Saturday, Dec. 6, 3 and 7:30 p.m.; Sunday, Dec. 7, 3 p.m.; Friday, Dec. 12 at 7:30 p.m.; Saturday, Dec. 13, 3 and 7:30 p.m.; and Sunday, Dec. 14, 3 p.m. Visit TheAllianceTheatre.org.
