A masked community member (left) spoke near the end of the April 27 Ad Hoc Police Practices Review Commission meeting. He asked Captain Bob Blakely, Detective Chris Flanagan and Commonwealth's Attorney Raymond F. Morrogh about use of tear gas and pepper spray by police being considered deadly or non-deadly force.

Increased Fairfax County Police presence was noticeable at the rear of the room after three masked men entered the second meeting of the Ad Hoc Police Practices Review Commission.

Their faces were veiled by the iconic pale plastic and long, up-curved mustache made popular by the movie "V for Vendetta." The men had been protesting with the group Justice for John Geer prior to the meeting.

When given the chance to speak, they asked questions about police use of tear gas and pepper spray, and the difference between police officers and citizens with regards to the amount of time allowed after being involved in a shooting before giving a statement.

The masked men left the room once they had asked their questions, but were stopped on their way out by commission chairman Michael Hershman, who said he respected their rights to demonstrate as they did and thanked them for participating peacefully.

Though he reminded the commission discussion of the Geer case details are off the table while investigations are still underway, he said, "This is not the last bite of this apple."

THE BULK OF THE MEETING featured presentations from three guests: Fairfax County Police Captain Bob Blakely, Detective Chris Flanagan and Commonwealth's Attorney Raymond F. Morrogh.

Flanagan, whose department deals with cold cases, officer-involved shootings and in-custody deaths, walked through his typical progression following an officer-involved shooting. This includes responding directly to the scene, conducting interviews of witnesses, returning to the scene with the officer and interviews with the officer after a day or so have passed.

"At the end of the day I have to be right," Flanagan said, commenting on adhering to administrative policies. "These take a long time."

Morrogh explained a bit about his role as a prosecutor of criminal, rather than civil, cases and addressed the issues of transparency that were a main focus in the formation of the Ad Hoc Commission.

On transparency, he said, "We're seeing the same questions around the country. I would turn over all reports as soon as I get it but it would be unethical to disclose information pretrial to the public."

Similar to Flanagan, Blakely described the course of events following an officer-involved shooting from the police perspective of Fairfax County Police Internal Affairs.

After the presentations, members of the commission and the public in attendance were able to ask questions of the three speakers.

Commissioner Peggy Fox of news channel WUSA9 asked if the men were in favor of dashboard cameras in police cruisers and body cameras on officers.

Their responses were in favor, including Morrogh, who said if a picture is worth a thousand words, "a video speaks ten-thou

John Geer Protest Continues

Adam Buchanan of Springfield was among a group of about 20 protesters in front of the Fairfax County Government Center prior to the Ad Hoc commission meeting on April 27. He began following the case of John Geer after some of his friends who lived nearby where Geer was killed told him about the incident.

"I'm glad to hear about the grand jury," Buchanan said, "but all these cases, why are people getting killed in these situations? What can be done to prevent this in the future?"

Mike Curtis of Manassas is a founder of the Facebook Group Justice for John Geer, which organized the protest, as well as Northern Virginia Cop Block and vice president of the Virginia Citizens Coalition for Police Accountability.

Curtis said the protest was first advertised on Facebook about a week ahead of time and had more than 50 people signed up to come.

He responded to the announcement of a special grand jury being formed to look at the John Geer case: "It's happening, but they're never addressing the bigger problems in the county with transparency and accountability."

Explaining the motivation for the protest, Curtis referenced released emails between Board of Supervisors chairman Sharon Bulova, county executive Edward

"I don't think I'm being cynical, but the pattern shows they're not dedicated to change," Curtis said.

Twice during the protest, Fairfax County Police officers approached Curtis and the group. The first time, Curtis said, they were asked to move their protest to the island on the other side of the circular driveway in front of the Government Center. The second time, Captain Jeff Powell spoke with Curtis, addressing concerns that the protest remain nonviolent and protesters not block pedestrians from entering or leaving the building.

Sites and developments to look at in Burke area.

1 Terra Centre Elementary School renovation

6000 Burke Centre Parkway

The project by Henley Construction Company, Inc., includes renovating the 68,500 square feet of the previous school building, as well as 20,500 square feet of additional space. Completion is expected this summer, with a ribbon-cutting tentatively scheduled for June.

2 Penn's Crossing subdivision

Braddock Road and Dequincey Drive

Construction is still underway on this 10-home infill project located around Braddock Road and Dequincey Drive. The land had been owned by the Penn family and sits within the Briarwood area.

3 Lake Royal Dredging

Royal's 10 acres of dredged material will be more difficult to relocate than Woodglen's five acres. Design for the dredging is in its final stages and the project, one of Supervisor John Cook's (R-Braddock) highest priorities, his office said, is scheduled to receive funding after July 1, 2016.

4 Burke Commons Road sidewalk

North side of Burke Commons Road from Meredith Circle to Roberts Parkway.

The sidewalk was completed, opened officially with a ribbon-cutting on April 16.

5 Silas Burke House property

Along Burke Lake Road between Burke Centre Parkway and Shiplott Boulevard.

Sunrise Senior Living is planning to build an assisted living facility behind the Silas Burke House, but requires an amendment to the county's Comprehensive Plan that would allow for a higher residential density for the area. This matter still requires a public hearing before the Fairfax County Planning Commission and approval by the Board of Supervisors.

6 Park Glen development

Five acres around 6408 Spring Lake Drive

The developer Van Metre is working on a subdivision of 12 single family homes, with construction on utilities, sewer lines and an entrance road about to begin.

7 Van Metre Communities

7.72 acres around 7421 Swope Lane and 7407 Gambrill Road.

This subdivision plan is for 18 single-family detached homes on 7.72 acres zoned R-3. Construction has not started yet.

8 Pilgrim Community Church

4925 Twinbrook Road

The plan for a 20,687-square-foot addition to the church with private school on 5.16 acres zoned R-1 is about ready for construction.

9 New Chick-fil-A

5793 Burke Centre Parkway

Chick-fil-A is moving into a former bank building near the Burke Kohl's. Their plans are expected to come before the Planning Commission in June and could progress to the Board of Supervisors by July; approval could allow for construction to begin before the end of 2015, with an estimated opening in late 2016.

10 Christopher Companies townhomes

9537 Burke Lake Road

The plan for 13 townhome at the intersection of Burke Lake Road and Shiplott Boulevard in Burke is scheduled for a Planning Commission public hearing on Sept. 24.

Board Approves New Mental Health Program

On Tuesday, the Board of Supervisors approved a joint board matter submitted by Chairman Sharon Bulova and Supervisor John C. Cook. The submission initiates the development of a countywide collaborative mental health program between Fairfax County staff, the Fairfax-Falls Church Community Services Board, and branches of the Public Safety and the Criminal Justice Advisory Board. This new program will close current gaps in the mental health system and improve the county's diversion program for mentally ill persons who have committed non-major crimes. This program will also provide first responders with Crisis Intervention Training, enabling them to respond to crises more safely and effectively.

"Becoming more conscious of mental health issues in our community must be an active process for all of us," said Cook.

"Many of our neighboring jurisdictions in Virginia already have programs like these in place, and it is necessary that Fairfax County provide these same services. It is vital that law enforcement officials be equipped with the proper tools and tactics to respond to crises in the safest manner for all those involved, and it is crucial that we have the proper diversion programs in place to help those suffering from mental illness."

OPINION

Fostering Connections, Faltering

Why are federal dollars acceptable for roads, but not for helping foster children?

While there is plenty of competition for the title “most vulnerable,” foster children are certainly among them.

In Fairfax County right now, there are more than 240 children in foster care. There is no benign way to end up in foster care. Foster children are victims of abuse and/or neglect significant enough for them to be removed from their families. On Tuesday, April 29, the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors announced that May is Foster Care and Foster Family Recognition Month.

Ironically, May, 2015 could be a month of uncertainty for older foster children in many places in Virginia because of a failure in the Virginia General Assembly.

About 50 foster children a year “age out” of the foster care system in Fairfax County. There are children who may have spent much of their lives in foster care, and reach the age of majority while they are still in foster care, without being reunited with their families or being adopted.

“The research shows that our youth who have been in foster care are extremely traumatized,” said Carl E. Ayers, director of the Virginia Division of Family Services. “Children who have aged out of foster care are much more likely to be homeless, to end up in psychiatric hospitals, to end up in jail, to be young parents, to be on public assistance and just in general have higher rates of poverty. If you can think of a negative outcome, that’s what we see [at high rates] with foster children who age out.”

But right now, about 150 young people between 18-21 who are receiving foster care services in Virginia, with as many as 50 of them here in Fairfax County, are discovering that because the General Assembly failed to pave the way for Federal “Fostering Connections” funding, they could be aging out sooner than they expected.

In 2008, President George Bush signed the Fostering Connections Act that gives for children who were in foster care up until the age of 21.

In Virginia, the General Assembly passed in 2014 a plan for implementation that required legislation in 2015 session. But that bill died in committee, and Virginia Family Services has begun the process of informing local agencies, like Fairfax County Department of Family Services, that once a foster child turns 18, they must be transitioned out of foster care.

By spending a little over $3 million, the state could have gained more than $10 million in federal money to help these emerging adults at a critical moment. Savings to localities would have been more than $3 million.

But instead, foster children 18 or older will need to have services transitioned. Ayers says the department will work with local agencies to be sure that none ends up homeless, no one ends up in the hospital. But for youth in foster care 18 or over, a new plan will have to be worked out, and each such youth will have to deal with one more uncertainty.

“It is very, very important that no one is turned on the street,” said Ayers, citing specific instructions that local agencies contact him personally if they are having trouble identifying services for any of the youth being transitioned.

Localities got the word via a “broadcast” memo on April 15, and are still sorting out what it all means.

In Fairfax County, the goal is for youth who are currently in foster homes to be able to stay in them by shifting how they are served, but there will certainly be a financial impact.

“With this being so new, our immediate step was to see exactly which kids will be affected, timelines and expectations,” said Nannette Bowler, director of Fairfax County Family Services. “We’ll scramble and do an assessment on all these children to figure out how we can support them given what has occurred.

“We’re going to have ... to look any avenue that we can to be sure these children are not derailed.”

Celebrate Mom, Dad—Without Selling One Short

BY CHRISTIAN PAASCH

In today’s marketing environment, it seems as though one gender cannot make progress without disparaging another. However, a few inspiring and refreshingly positive television ads have recently managed to gain popularity while avoiding this pitfall. I applaud Dove, Nissan and Toyota for having the courage to step away from the norm and, in doing so, not only bring men into the mainstream picture of the modern American parent, but also for doing so in a way that is perhaps more innovative than anything else: championing one gender without attacking, alienating or poking fun at the other gender.

Toyota has done a terrific job of bridging the strong bond between fathers and daughters. In the company’s latest ad, Toyota depicts the various stages of a daughter’s life where her dad is there to console, protect, guide and eventually, set out into the world with tears in his eyes. The message of the ad is to make bold choices — what better term to describe what any parent would want for his or her child, in particular a daughter?

In a seeming balance to Toyota, Nissan focused on the relationship between a father and his son. Perhaps too stereotypically, the father here is depicted as the absent father, a race car driver in this instance, and the son looking on, wanting to be just like his father. Of course, the soundtrack to this commercial is none other than “Cats In The Cradle,” but thankfully, the father realizes before it’s too late that his son needs to physically see him and know that their relationship is more important than any job.

Dove has arguably the most moving, yet simple ad: clip after clip of young and adult children calling for “Dad” or “Daddy” at various stages of their lives. From the toddler needing help to the adult calling his father with the wonderful news of a pregnancy, the commercial ends with a simple question and answer: “What makes a man stronger? Showing that he cares.”

So why do these ads matter? Why are they so special? Here again, the answer is simple: because they are a rarity. Because they champion the roles dads play in the lives of children, both boys and girls, without denigrating the crucial and complementary role mothers play in those same children’s lives. This spirit of gender equality is one to celebrate and emulate.

In fact, the path these three companies have forged serves as a marketing model for others and reminds parents everywhere that they are parents first, united by the love for their children and made stronger by a mutual appreciation of their unique strengths and differences.

Burke School's Fabulous Anniversary

To the Editor:

I was excited to visit the wonderful school I attended in 1944-1949. As I drove into the driveway I noticed the beautiful blue ribbons and posters. They were a reminder of the welcome and love I received there so long ago!

Inside I received a warm welcome, name tag, 75th celebration button, a handsome program and an escort to the gym! Upon entering the gym, I was overwhelmed at the sight of so many faculty, staff, and students wearing the blue Burke School T-shirts.

Excitement and anticipation filled the air. The Pledge of Allegiance left the impression that some things have stayed the same. What an inspiring moment for me!

The introduction of the principal, Mr. Frank Tranfa, was a memory too. His warm welcome, gift of confidence, knowledge, leadership, and pride in his school spoke volumes. The introductions of guests were brilliant. Their speeches were interesting and gave us some insight into the real reasons for this historic celebration.

The two short videos were so informative. The educational value was immeasurable. The audience was captured in the content of the films.

I loved the special program with Ms. Haley and the ALC students. The fashion show was a real chance to see some students in action. The "Old Time" fashions brought back many memories. The fashions were modeled with style and pride. The student participation was fantastic.

The time capsule captured my imagination. I wondered what had transpired before, what was to be included now, and what the future would hold for the next generations. The students who presented items for the capsule were beaming with pride.

At the conclusion of the program, the students enjoyed refreshments and guests had a reception in the Library which was a joyful occasion with festive napkins and Birthday Cake. Friends and former students were sharing experiences, stories, and gratitude for having this time together.

The businesses that supported the fundraising are an example of our community spirit and pride in our school. Our thanks to the Burke Nursery, Spartans, and Glory Days Grill.

A big thank you to the Fairfax History Commission, Burke School Parent Teacher Organization, and friends, for their donations and their time.

Burke School looks great. It is colorful, modern, and continues to serve the county in its own way.

In closing, I want to say "thank you" to all for your valuable work, the spirit, support, and continuing progress in our wonderful Fairfax County Public School system.

Virginia Lee Fowler Hyer
Retired FCPS Teacher

The letter is being included in the anniversary time capsule.

Who Pays For a Mistake?

To the Editor:

So the agreement was reached to pay John Geer's family just under $2.95M for the mistake of a police officer. My heart goes out to the family.

But I am concerned about the payment.

Why are taxpayers responsible to pay for this? Where is the statute that justifies this?

I pay over five digits in real estate tax, personal property tax, car registration fees, licensing fees, and who-knows-how much in sales tax.

But the Board of Supervisors pays millions to a victim of a mistake; yet the roads I have to drive on are still full of lumps, bumps, cracks, and potholes. Where is the money for that? What gives?

Virginia Lee Fowler Hyer is the oldest of seven girls who used to live in the "top of the hill" home now referred to as the Silas Burke House. She attended Burke School from 1944 through 1949 and on April 23, crossed the building's threshold again to witness a program celebrating its 75th anniversary.

"It was fantastic, the program was so well done," Fowler Hyer, a former Fairfax County Public Schools teacher, said. "The students were amazing, the way they were involved."

The morning's program featured speeches from Supervisors Pat Herrity (R-Springfield) and John Cook (R-Braddock), a history lesson from Col. Silas Burke himself (alter-identity of Jon Vrana, president of the Burke Historical Society), a fashion show where current students modeled school fashions from previous decades, and a presentation of items to go in the school's time capsule.

An audience of current students, former students and community members were shown an historical film about the history of Burke School, followed by a documentary-style short depicting modern students working on a variety of arts and science projects.

Fowler Hyer was especially appreciative of the modern short film, including "the age-appropriate projects the students were doing — hands-on, occupational work."

While the Burke School at one time served only the Burke community, it's now a regional special education center with a population of 130 students in sixth, seventh and eighth grade from across the county, as well as 30 elementary-age students in an Alternative Learning Center.

"It's great for the kids that need the attention," said Burke resident Carl Reno. Reno attended Burke School from first through seventh grades, beginning in 1949. "It moves me to see how connected everyone in the community still is in this school," principal Frank A. Tranfa, Jr., said.

Burke School graduate Suzi Fowler Neal presented principal Frank A. Tranfa, Jr., with an historic commemorative coin to go in the school's time capsule.

Col. Silas Burke (also known as Jon Vrana, president of the Burke Historical Society) made an appearance at the Burke School 75th anniversary celebration to describe for current students what life was like in Burke when the school was opened.

Lake Braddock catcher and Villanova commit Caroline Jones went 3-for-4 with a home run against Bishop O'Connell on April 25.

Lake Braddock Softball Suffers First Loss

Villanova commit Jones has three hits, home run against O'Connell.

BY JON ROETMAN
THE CONNECTION

The Lake Braddock softball team was in control for six innings during Saturday's contest against Bishop O'Connell, one of the top private-school programs in the area.

Junior catcher Caroline Jones set the tone in the batter's box, driving in a run in each of her first three at-bats, including smacking a solo home run over the fence in left-center to lead off the bottom of the fourth.

Senior pitcher Amanda Hendrix held O'Connell scoreless, limiting the Knights to just three hits. The left-hander even worked her way out of a bases-loaded, no-out jam in the fourth.

After six complete innings, Lake Braddock led 3-0 and was on the verge of continuing its undefeated season. But the Bruins ran into trouble in the seventh, when a dominant performance transformed into an afternoon of adversity in a single inning.

O'Connell scored nine runs on eight hits during the top of the seventh inning and the Knights added a blemish to the Bruins' record with a 9-3 victory on April 25 at Lake

Braddock Secondary School.

The Knights sent 13 batters to the plate during the seventh inning and all nine members of the O'Connell lineup either reached base at least once or drove in a run.

First baseman Olivia Giaquinto led off the decisive frame with a single and later ripped a three-run homer. She finished the game 3-for-3, reaching base four times.

"Going into the top of the seventh," Giaquinto said, "we kind of came together and we were like, 'We've got to do this now and we're going to do this.'"

Lake Braddock head coach George Rumore said Hendrix suffered a back injury during the game and the team's No. 2 pitcher was unavailable due to being on an orchestra trip.

"Amanda's back went," Rumore said. "She pulled her back around either the fourth or the fifth [inning]. ... She hung in there, but then come the seventh her back was bothering her. I know I'm making excuses, it's just a fact."

JONES, a Villanova commit, had a big day in defeat. She went 3-for-4 and drove in all three Lake Braddock runs.

Jones gave the Bruins a 1-0 lead with an RBI double in the first inning, extended the lead to 2-0 with a solo homer in the fourth, and delivered a run-scoring single in the fifth.

Jones said she was motivated by facing O'Connell sophomore pitcher Patty Maye Ohanian, who was Jones' teammate at Lake Braddock in 2014 before transferring to the Arlington private school.

"We want to win states, absolutely. We were so close last year. ... We really think we can do it this year."

— Caroline Jones,
Lake Braddock catcher

Head coach George Rumore and the Lake Braddock softball team are off to an 11-1 start.

"This was a game that I really wanted," Jones said. "I did really want to hit well. I used to play travel with [Ohanian], I played high school with her and I don't play anything with her anymore. ... I wanted to show her that we are a good team, we still can hit ..."

Ohanian, a University of Illinois commit, earned the win against her former team. She surrendered three runs on nine hits, while walking two and striking out three.

"Before the game in left field ... I said this game is more than just a win for me," Ohanian said. "I'm playing for kind of my name, kind of my respect. I want to walk out of here with my head held high. I knew that there was no one I'd rather do it with than all those [O'Connell] girls."

"I think they all had an understanding that this was a really important game for me and so did Coach Tommy [Orndorff], and that's why he let me pitch."

Lake Braddock freshman center fielder Eleanor Mataya finished 2-for-4. Senior shortstop Katherine Plescow, Hendrix, and freshman third baseman Ally Kurland each had one hit.

The loss dropped Lake Braddock's record to 11-1, but Rumore remains confident.

"[It equates to] a high-dollar scrimmage and we had it," Rumore said. "Unfortunately, things happen."

Lake Braddock reached the state tournament last year and doesn't appear to be slowing down. Despite four new starters and the graduation of standout pitcher Ashley Flesch, the Bruins are 7-0 against Conference 7 opponents, including a pair of shutout victories against defending 6A state champion South County.

"I think we use [the O'Connell loss] as great motivation," Jones said. "I think we did play well until the last inning and we all recognize that we did play well. We just had one bad inning and it cost us the game. I still think that we're really motivated, we have our goals set high and I think we're still looking to achieve [them]."

What are the team's goals?

"We want to win states, absolutely," Jones said. "We were so close last year. ... We really think we can do it this year."

LAKE BRADDOCK will look to get back in the win column when the Bruins travel to face Lee at 6:30 p.m. on Thursday, April 30.

"I was happy with [the Bruins' effort]," Rumore said. "We're No. 3, [O'Connell is] No. 2 [in The Washington Post softball rankings]. ... We play with whoever's in our district and the girls did a great job and we just needed [Hendrix's] back to hang in there a little longer and I think it would have been over."

Members of the group Justice for John Geer protested outside the Fairfax County Government center prior to the second meeting of the Ad Hoc Police Practices Review Commission on April 27.

Police Use of Force Re-examined

Connection Newspapers editor and publisher Mary Kimm followed that by asking Morrogh when the public would get to see the dashboard camera footage of the 2009 police shooting of David Masters.

Morrogh responded that he had no problem with the public seeing the video. He also confirmed recent media reports that he has decided to convene a special grand jury to review evidence in the killing of John Geer. Emotions bubbled over when commissioner Nicholas Beltrante asked Morrogh why it had taken 18 months since Geer's death to draw a grand jury. Morrogh remarked about letters he has received from Beltrante and commented negatively on the commissioner's skills before Hershman moved the meeting along.

Morrogh said that regarding information related to the Geer case, "I'd love to tell, I really would, but I'm not going to do it."

The commission was formed after public criticism of how Fairfax County police and government officials handled the release of information regarding that incident. Kimm alluded to this when she commented the evening's presentations about administrative policies "don't add up to events that brought us here."

Board of Supervisors chairman Sharon Bulova, who formed the commission and brought it before the supervisors for endorsement in March, said that one could write "a paper on things that went wrong" in that situation.

Bulova listed the delayed sharing of information, the wrongful death civil lawsuit between the Geer family and Fairfax County and the Internal Affairs investigation into the incident. "It's been such a long time," she said.

ADDITIONAL BUSINESS of the meeting included announcing the formation of themed subcommittees that will more closely examine Police Use of Force, Communications, Mental Health and Crisis Intervention Training, Police Recruitment and Vetting, and Independent Oversight and Investigations.

Shirley Ginwright, chairman of the Communities of Trust Committee, president of the Fairfax County NAACP and chairman of the commission's recruitment and vetting subcommittee, spoke to the need for more diversity on the subcommittees than exists on the commission, as additional citizens are allowed to be selected to participate at that level. "It's supposed to be inclusive of members of the community," she said.

The next meeting of the commission will be a public forum, held Monday, May 18 at 7:30 p.m. at the Fairfax County Government Center.

Documents from the meeting, information on upcoming meetings and lists of commission and subcommittee members can be found online at www.fairfaxcounty.gov/policecommission.

Fairfax County video from the April 27 meeting is set to be online soon.

Summer Sailing Camp

BY SHIRLEY RUHE
GAZETTE PACKET

Amy Zang has just returned from a week sailing the British Virgin Isles with nine members of her extended family ranging from her 78-year-old, legally-blind father to her brother's 4- and 6-year old children.

"I was the captain of the 46-foot catamaran, but I had to get used to it. It is the biggest boat I have sailed. You use the same sailing skills but adapt the technique when the boat is this large."

Zang is the director and owner of the Youth Sailing Day Camp at the Washington Sailing Marina. The Washington Sailing Marina camp offers six different youth sailing classes in the summer with the Sunfish for beginners and the Flying Scot for intermediates. The advanced class uses a Hobie Cat. The racing class sails a Collegiate 420 that is a fast, maneuverable boat allowing campers the chance to work on boat balance and roll tacks.

Adventures on a Big Boat sails a Catalina 25. This group has a picnic lunch under anchor on Thursdays and they, along with the intermediate boats, sail to Old Town for lunch on Fridays. Other groups get smoothies on Friday "so everyone gets a treat."

Sailing students must be certified before moving on to the next level. Some campers come for one week and others move up the skill level over successive weeks at camp. Windsurfing is also offered.

The camp opens June 1 and runs weekly through Aug. 22, and is already over 50 percent full. The classes run from 9:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. and are open to rising third graders-15 years of age. She thinks children choose sailing for summer because "it is different, it is outside, it is hands on and they get immediate gratification." They walk away with a life skill that they can carry into adulthood, she says.

Sailing class is empowering, Zang says. Children don't have much in their lives that they can be fully in charge of. "I give them trust, here is a boat, and you can learn to sail it and they give trust back. They learn responsibility and it is a huge confidence builder for both male and female students. Sailing isn't about strength." She adds, "When kids come they love it and keep returning year after year." She said word of mouth is powerful and she has had a number of children for many years.

She calls each day "controlled chaos" where she has to be mentally two steps ahead watching weather, keeping track of the boats at all times and supervising the instructors as well as tending to children who may need special attention. "Every single cog in the wheel has to work." Zang describes herself as a big communicator and sends group email updates to parents during the week. If there are specific things to pass along she emails the parents directly.

At this time of year, Zang is interviewing staff, rescheduling returning staff, reviewing insurance policies and other business, organizing buses, getting boats ready for the season "putting a screwdriver to every screw, washing out boats and getting them in the water."

Zang offers bus service pickup from Bethesda. This year, a mom organized a group of 24 sailing campers from Chantilly so "I am sending a bus there to pick up the kids that week." Sailing students come from all over the metropolitan area and some are visiting relatives and attend sailing camp for a week or two. "We have a lot of diplomat kids, too, a nice diverse population."

The staff includes more than 40 full-time summer counselors; many started in sailing camp themselves a number of years ago. "I have one counselor this year who started camp when he was 9." She has better than a 1-6 ratio of staff to campers.

Preparing for Summer Camp Away

Many emotions arise when a child leaves for camp.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
THE CONNECTION

Julie Kaminski remembers the language from her desperate letters to her parents: “I love you. I want to come home now!” She recalls penning a dramatic plea to be rescued from residential summer camp more than 40 years ago. Today, Kaminski is preparing for her daughter’s first camp experience away from home this summer.

“Looking back, I can see how going away to camp helped me become more self-sufficient, self-confident, self-reliant and taught me how to get along with so many different kinds of people,” said Kaminski, a local mother of two children.

“Of course I didn’t think that at the time. I was extremely homesick even though it was my idea to go to sleep away camp in the first place.”

A child’s first residential summer camp experience can be fraught with emotions that run the gamut from excitement to terror. While glee at the thought of a summer filled with sports, swimming, crafts and new-found friendships can be the dominant feeling, the thought of an extended period of time away from home can cause sadness and anxiety for both parents and their children.

An American Camp Association study showed that 96 percent of children who attend sleep away camps experience homesickness at some point during their stay. While these emotions are normal, parents can help children tame the pre-camp jitters. The life-long lessons gained from such camps make it worth the effort.

“Becoming comfortable with your child being away at summer camp, perhaps the first extended separation you have had, is a matter of trust,” said David Kaplan, Ph.D. of the American Counseling Association in Alexandria, Va.

Summer camp experiences can help children become self-confident and self-reliant.

“Trusting your child that they can handle themselves without your supervision. Trusting that they can handle relationships with other children. Trusting that they can get up in the morning, take a shower, wash their clothes, and change their sheets without your prodding.”

ACKNOWLEDGING THAT homesickness is normal and many campers experience it, can help children accept and cope with their emotions.

“Expecting to miss home and feel somewhat anxious helps children feel less surprised and overwhelmed when it occurs,” said Barbara Meehan, Ph.D. executive director, Counseling and Psychological Services, George Mason University in Fairfax, Va.

A child’s apprehension can be eased when parents share their own camp experiences, particularly positive memories.

“Don’t let your child get caught up in your own anxiety about leaving for camp,” said Linda McKenna Gulyn, Ph.D., professor of psychology at Marymount University in Arlington, Va. “Kids sometimes worry about the parents they left behind. Be positive, but not sad that your child is leaving.”

Meehan says that developing a few self-soothing activities like playing outdoors or reading is one strategy for helping children deal with feelings of missing home. Identifying people with whom young campers can share their emotions is another means for dealing with homesickness.

“Talking to a camp counselor and even peers can help ease the difficult feelings and often they will learn they are not alone,” said Meehan.

Encouraging a child to make friends and become involved in camp activities will put the focus on the positive aspects of camp. Packing letters and stamped envelopes and developing a plan for letter exchange can help a child feel connected to their families.

“Isolating and avoiding what feels hard can often worsen anxiety and homesickness,” said Meehan. “Remind your child they are stronger than they feel in the moment and that engaging in camp activities can be helpful.”

There are times however when a child might not be ready for residential camps. The American Camp Association reports that while most cases of homesickness subside, there are cases — if a child is not eating or sleeping, for example — when it could be time to seek help. “Consult with camp professionals about resources if your child’s anxiety worsens or persists,” said Meehan.

Diverse Camps Offer Summer Fun

Northern Virginia has scores of local camps for summer learning and fun.

BY STEVE HIBBARD
THE CONNECTION

Scores of local camps in Northern Virginia that offer many opportunities for summer fun and learning. Here is a sampling of diverse camps that range from art to theater to field trips to swimming, tennis and music. There's even a camp for aspiring musicians who want to form a band.

ROAM Rock Camp

ROAM Rock Camp gives children the opportunity to build communication skills and confidence through the language of music. The camps are designed to focus on why each participant wants to be in a band, why they love music and what they want to get out of it. The goal is to create an environment or band that children will thrive in. They will hand select each member to create a group that best fits their age and experience. During the camp, groups will learn three to four of their favorite songs or even write songs if they wish. At the end of the week they will record the group and give them a CD to take home to show off their progress.

"The best thing about these camps is that we are able to show these young musicians from first-hand experience how to be players and performers. I wish I had something like this when I was growing up," said John Patrick, owner/director, who is the former co-founder of the national touring act Virginia Coalition.

Camps are offered from June 1 to Aug. 28. To register, contact ROAM to let them know every week your child would be available to do a camp. Deadline for registration is June 1.

Take part in a business simulation and experience the decision-making that goes on in an international business enterprise.

Work closely with Marymount faculty who have expertise and professional connections in the field. The program will include classes in the mornings, experiential learning in the afternoons, and fun activities in the evenings.

Live in a residence hall on Marymount's Main Campus in suburban Arlington. Tuition for three college credits awarded upon successful completion of the program.

Space is limited and priority will be given to rising high school seniors.
