WE CHANGE LIVES

Maybe it really is you. Maybe you really don't belong in a "gym."

Many people just don't do well in a typical big box gym. Those gyms are too big, there is nobody to help you, and it's easy to get lost in the sea of people already in shape.

It is hard to get serious about fitness when you feel like you don't belong at the gym, when you feel like nobody really cares about you after you join.

But fitness might be the most important thing to living a healthy life. Being healthy makes you a happier person, a better parent, employee, partner or spouse. Fitness is the key to getting involved in life. You can choose to fully embrace your own fitness life, or you can watch other people living theirs. Only YOU can decide to change your life and body when you are ready.

At Koko, we understand all of this, which is why our company was founded over a decade ago. We are the small, alternative fitness choice that exists for people who feel they don't fit into that impersonal big box fitness center.

If you like lots of help and guidance, then we are for you. If you like a small, comfortable place to work out with people just like you, then Koko is your gym. If other gyms have failed you and you felt lost in the crowd, we are here to make sure that this time -- with personal guidance and the proven Koko training methodology -- you will succeed.

Don't take our word for it, come see us for yourself. We offer a full 30-day membership, including full access to our training and coaching programs, for only $30. Come experience what makes Koko so special. Meet our clients and our staff, and give us a chance to prove that this time you will succeed.

Fitness has to be part of your life; it shapes the way you live today and how you'll look and feel tomorrow. If you have failed before in fitness, remember that there is a place here in our community that is truly different and willing to prove it to you. This time, it is all about you. This time, you will change your life.

Yours in fitness,
The Team at Koko FitClub

Try us 30 days risk free for just $30. Meet our team, talk with our members, and enjoy all that the digital gym has to offer. There is no obligation: If you don't love Koko in 30 days, we haven't earned your business.

*Some restrictions may apply. See club for details.

Koko is all about family for us... it was my 17 year old who begged me to give it a try. I loved it at first because it was easy to fit into my schedule and was something fun for me to do with my teenager. Now I love KOKO because I see the results and I feel so much better. KOKO is just a part of my life. KOKO is like no other fitness experience. It's not a regular gym (thank God -- no mirrors!). And it is an easy way to fit exercise into your schedule without it being a drag. I actually like working out now which was certainly not the case before. KOKO is fun because it challenges you individually, is efficient and gets results! I recommended it to my neighbors and now they're KOKO Nuts too!

~ Leesa Donner, Great Falls

I previously belonged to three other gyms in Reston, and I had never made it a full year before my attendance dropped off. With Koko, however, I recently passed my two year anniversary and am still going strong. I love that I can get a full body workout every time in less than an hour.

The cardio and strength workouts continue to push me to work harder than I ever did on my own at previous gyms. As a result, I'm in the best shape of my adult life. And the desire to keep feeling this healthy and strong keeps me coming back. Thanks Koko!

~ Watt H., Reston, VA

There is absolutely no way I would achieve what I do at this club ANYWHERE else. I've lost over 15 lbs, my blood pressure is lower, and I am looking and feeling better than I have in 10 years!

~ Scott Kreitz

1 Reston Golf Course
11875 Sunrise Valley Drive

The Board of Zoning Appeals was expected to issue a ruling on tax day on the Reston National Golf Course's appeal of the Zoning Administrator's "determination that redevelopment of property in the PRC District from a golf course to residential uses would require an amendment to the Reston Master Plan, a development plan amendment and Planned residential Community Plan approval from the Board of Supervisors," according to Fairfax County documents.

But it took more than two hours for the appeals board to rule that it could not rule, other than to uphold some portions of the case but to overrule other portions of the Zoning Administrator's previous ruling.

Any application, if proposed by RN Golf Management, will need to go back through the entire proceeding before the Department of Planning and Zoning and the Board of Supervisors, with public hearings during all phases.

But under the BZA's ruling, owners of the golf course won't be required to seek an amendment to the Comprehensive Plan before submitting proposals to the Department of Planning and Zoning, according to Reston Association.

It remains to be determined which course of action both sides next choose to play.

2 Lake Anne Revitalization
11404 Washington Plaza

The Board of Supervisors approved a massive redevelopment of Lake Anne and surrounding apartments, businesses, and property in March. The project includes more than 1,000 new residences and 193,000 square feet of retail and office space. There will be 185 new affordable apartments in two five-story buildings to replace the 181 existing affordable units at the Crescent Apartments.

Lake Anne turned 50 years old in 2014, the year Reston's Founding Father turned 100.

"Lake Anne is still taught today as a case study at almost every American architecture and urban-design program," said Michael E. Hickok, architect of the redevelopment proposal. "To say it was ahead of its time is an understatement."

Hickok wanted to design a plan that fulfilled "the spirit and image of Robert E. Simon's vision of 50 years ago," and stands for the next 50 years.

3 Reston Town Center Metro Silver Line Station

<http://www.dullesmetro.com/silver-line-stations/reston-town-center/>

In the median of the Dulles Airport Access Highway/Dulles Toll Road just west of the Reston Parkway overpass. Serves Reston Town Center, Phase 2 of Silver Line projected to open in 2019.

The Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority announced Monday that a combination of safety modifications and last winter's severe weather will delay the completion of Phase 2 of the Metro Silver Line by about 13 months, and that design modifications made for safety and reliability will add $76 million to the previously announced cost of Phase 1. Toll rates on the Dulles Toll Road will not be affected. Phase 2 of the Silver Line project, will extend service from the end of Phase 1 at Wiehle-Reston East in Reston, through Herndon and Washington Dulles International Airport and into Loudoun County.

scheduled to be completed this summer. The new facility was constructed on the same site as the existing police station and government center which allowed employees to remain there during construction. The project cost approximately $18.8 million. See http://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/dpwes/construction/facilities_construction.htm.

7 Tetra

11450 Baron Cameron Avenue

Should the Reston Association borrow $2.65 million to purchase the 3.47 acre Tetra property on Baron Cameron Avenue as an addition to RA's common area? That's the question members of the Reston Association will vote on until May 14 via referendum. The property is located on the south shore of Lake Newport, immediately adjacent to the west end of Lake Newport dam, bounded to the west by RA's Lake Newport tennis court complex, and to the east by common area that is part of RA's Brown's Chapel Park. The purchase would create a 98 acre band of contiguous undeveloped property and would prevent future overdevelopment of the property, according to proponents, including RA Board members. Opponents claim the purchase is a poor economic investment and that the building is not worth the cost, among other issues.

8 Tall Oaks Village Center

12052 N. Shore Drive

The McLean-based developer, the Jefferson Apartment Group, purchased the Tall Oaks Center in December 2014. The shopping center is currently being considered for a redevelopment project that would include a mix of residential and commercial uses. Community meetings were held on April 23 and 27, 2015 to allow residents to ask questions and voice concerns. Tall Oaks is within about a mile of the new Wiehle-Reston East Metro station.

Watching yeast rise may not be the most exciting, unless it involves baking cinnamon rolls, but by the end of the day, middle school students from Fairfax County will have had a chance to extract strawberry DNA, study soap molecules, learn about centripetal force and build a motor from scratch. These are the experiments Project BEST, Building Excitement for Science and Technology, had at Langston Hughes Middle School in Reston on Saturday, April 18 during its third annual Science Innovation and Inspiration Youth Conference.

About 50 students attended Saturday morning, with more expected to arrive, to learn about chemistry, biology, physics and technology. Vienna's NT Concepts CEO Michele Bolos made the opening remarks. Speakers throughout the day included principal Evan Glazer, of Thomas Jefferson High

Fairfax Chamber Hosts Innovation Awards

Fairfax Chamber staff has active spring season.

Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce (Fairfax Chamber) announced winners for the 1st Annual Greater Washington Innovation Awards, the premier event celebrating the thought leadership, innovation, and creativity of individuals and organizations in select industries in the Greater Washington metro area. Winners were announced live at the April 20th awards gala at the Hyatt Regency. The event began at the outdoor Reston Town Center Pavilion and later moved to the Hyatt Regency Reston.

In addition to recognizing the most innovative organizations in the region, the awards honored an Innovator of the Year and a Lifetime Innovator. "The 2015 Greater Washington Innovation Awards Winners represent companies that are shaping the future of business as we know it," said Jim Corcoran, Fairfax Chamber president and CEO. "We applaud each of the winners for their contributions to the Greater Washington business community and beyond. They are true leaders." Also attending the event were local dignitaries and officials including state Del. Ken Plum (D-36), Fairfax County Supervisor John C. Cook (R-

- ❖ Hospitality, Tourism & Entertainment Innovator of the Year: Wolf Trap Foundation for Performing Arts
- ❖ Health & Life Sciences Innovator of the Year: Inova Fairfax Hospital
- ❖ Marketing & Advertising Innovator of

the Year: AOL

❖ Innovator of the Year award went to Emanuel Petricoin, Ph.D, University Professor and Co-Director, Center for Applied Proteomics and Molecular Medicine in the School of Systems Biology, George Mason University.

Businessman and former Del. Joe T. May was honored by the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce with an award for Lifetime Innovator. May represented Loudoun County in the General Assembly for two decades and founded EIT LLC, a technology and manufacturing company in Sterling, in 1977. May remains chairman of the board and chief technology officer. "Joe May and Chip Petricoin represent leading innovators in their fields, and we are thrilled to honor them this year," said Fairfax Chamber president Corcoran.

The next day, political commentator Chris Matthews moderated a discussion with President Obama on the Trans Pacific Partnership trade deal. The Fairfax Chamber of Commerce hosted the taping of the political talk show at their Tysons Corner office. Also on the program were Chamber President Corcoran and Congressman Gerry Connolly (D-11th). Connolly energetically supports the free trade agreement. The discussion also included Debbie Askin, founder of Team Askin Technologies; and Dr. Abhijit Dasgupta, the chief data science officer of Zansors.

A ragweed pollen as a treatment for a ragweed allergy?

It's called immunotherapy.

RAGWITEK.
An immunotherapy tablet made from ragweed pollen.

RAGWITEK®
Short Ragweed Pollen Allergen Extract
Tablet for Sublingual Use 12 Amb a 1-U

Make an appointment with your allergy specialist and ask if RAGWITEK is right for you.

Not actual size.

Immunotherapy is what RAGWITEK is all about—it uses ragweed pollen, which may help you gradually build tolerance so you become less sensitive to that very same allergen. RAGWITEK is a once-a-day tablet that dissolves quickly when placed under the tongue. After taking it, don't swallow for at least 1 minute. Taken over time, it helps treat that allergic reaction which causes eye and nasal symptoms associated with ragweed allergies.

RAGWITEK is a prescription medicine used for sublingual (under the tongue) immunotherapy to treat ragweed pollen allergies that can cause sneezing, runny or itchy nose, stuffy or congested nose, or itchy and watery eyes. RAGWITEK may be prescribed for persons 18 through 65 years of age who are allergic to ragweed pollen.

RAGWITEK is taken for about 12 weeks before ragweed pollen season and throughout the ragweed pollen season.

RAGWITEK is NOT a medication that gives immediate relief for symptoms of ragweed allergy.

Important Safety Information about RAGWITEK

- RAGWITEK can cause severe allergic reactions that may be life-threatening. Stop taking RAGWITEK and get immediate medical treatment right away if you have any of the following symptoms after taking RAGWITEK: trouble breathing; throat tightness or swelling; trouble swallowing or speaking; dizziness or fainting; rapid or weak heartbeat; severe stomach cramps or pain, vomiting, or diarrhea; severe flushing or itching of the skin.
- Do not take RAGWITEK if you have severe unstable, or uncontrolled asthma; had a severe allergic reaction in the past that included trouble breathing, dizziness or fainting, or rapid or weak heartbeat; had difficulty with breathing due to swelling of the throat or upper airway after using any sublingual immunotherapy before; have ever been diagnosed with eosinophilic esophagitis or are allergic to any of the inactive ingredients contained in RAGWITEK.
- For home use of RAGWITEK, your doctor will prescribe epinephrine if you have a severe allergic reaction after taking RAGWITEK. Talk to your doctor or read the epinephrine patient information.
- The first dose of RAGWITEK must be taken in the doctor's office. After taking the first dose, you will be watched for at least 30 minutes by a healthcare professional for symptoms of a serious allergic reaction.
- You should tell your doctor about any medicines you take.
- Stop RAGWITEK and contact your doctor if you have any of the following after taking RAGWITEK: Any type of a serious allergic reaction; heartburn, difficulty swallowing or pain with swallowing, or chest pain that does not go away or worsens; any mouth surgery procedures (such as tooth removal), develop any mouth infections, ulcers or cuts in the mouth or throat.
- The most commonly reported side effects were itching of the mouth, lips, or tongue, swelling under the tongue, or throat irritation. These side effects, by themselves, were not dangerous or life-threatening.

You are encouraged to report negative side effects of prescription drugs to the FDA. Visit www.fda.gov/medwatch, or call 1-800-FDA-1088.

Brief Summary

RAGWITEK®

Short Ragweed Pollen Allergen Extract
Tablet for Sublingual Use 12 Amb a 1-U

Carefully read the Medication Guide before you start taking RAGWITEK® and each time you get a refill. This Brief Summary does not take the place of talking with your doctor about your medical condition or treatment. Talk with your doctor or pharmacist if there is something you do not understand or if you want to learn more about RAGWITEK.

What is the Most Important Information I Should Know About RAGWITEK?

RAGWITEK can cause severe allergic reactions that may be life-threatening. Stop taking RAGWITEK and get medical treatment right away if you have any of the following symptoms after taking RAGWITEK:

- Trouble breathing
- Throat tightness or swelling
- Trouble swallowing or speaking
- Dizziness or fainting
- Rapid or weak heartbeat
- Severe stomach cramps or pain, vomiting, or diarrhea
- Severe flushing or itching of the skin

For home administration of RAGWITEK, your doctor will prescribe auto-injectable epinephrine, a medicine you can inject if you have a severe allergic reaction after taking RAGWITEK. Your doctor will train and instruct you on the proper use of auto-injectable epinephrine. Talk to your doctor or read the epinephrine patient information if you have any questions about the use of auto-injectable epinephrine.

What is RAGWITEK?

RAGWITEK is a prescription medicine used for sublingual (under the tongue) immunotherapy to treat ragweed pollen allergies that can cause sneezing, runny or itchy nose, stuffy or congested nose, or itchy and watery eyes. RAGWITEK may be prescribed for persons 18 through 65 years of age who are allergic to ragweed pollen. RAGWITEK is taken for about 12 weeks before ragweed pollen season and throughout ragweed pollen season. RAGWITEK is NOT a medication that gives immediate relief for symptoms of ragweed allergy.

Who Should Not Take RAGWITEK?

You should not take RAGWITEK if:

- You have severe, unstable or uncontrolled asthma
- You had a severe allergic reaction in the past that included any of these symptoms:
 - o Trouble breathing
 - o Dizziness or fainting
 - o Rapid or weak heartbeat
- You have ever had difficulty with breathing due to swelling of the throat or upper airway after using any sublingual immunotherapy before.
- You have ever been diagnosed with eosinophilic esophagitis.
- You are allergic to any of the inactive ingredients contained in RAGWITEK. The inactive ingredients contained in RAGWITEK are: gelatin, mannitol, and sodium hydroxide.

What Should I Tell My Doctor Before Taking RAGWITEK?

Your doctor may decide that RAGWITEK is not the best treatment if:

- You have asthma, depending on how severe it is.
- You suffer from lung disease such as chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD).
- You suffer from heart disease such as coronary artery disease, an irregular heart rhythm, or you have hypertension that is not well controlled.

- You are pregnant, plan to become pregnant during the time you will be taking RAGWITEK, or are breast-feeding.
- You are unable or unwilling to administer auto-injectable epinephrine to treat a severe allergic reaction to RAGWITEK.
- You are taking certain medicines that enhance the likelihood of a severe reaction, or interfere with the treatment of a severe reaction. These medicines include:
 - o beta blockers and alpha-blockers (prescribed for high blood pressure)
 - o cardiac glycosides (prescribed for heart failure or problems with heart rhythm)
 - o diuretics (prescribed for heart conditions and high blood pressure)
 - o ergot alkaloids (prescribed for migraine headache)
 - o monoamine oxidase inhibitors or tricyclic antidepressants (prescribed for depression)
 - o thyroid hormone (prescribed for low thyroid activity).

You should tell your doctor if you are taking or have recently taken any other medicines, including medicines obtained without a prescription and herbal supplements. Keep a list of them and show it to your doctor and pharmacist each time you get a new supply of RAGWITEK. Ask your doctor or pharmacist for advice before taking RAGWITEK. RAGWITEK is not indicated for use in children under 18 years of age.

Are There Any Reasons to Stop Taking RAGWITEK?

Stop RAGWITEK and contact your doctor if you have any of the following after taking RAGWITEK:

- Any type of a serious allergic reaction
- Throat tightness that worsens or swelling of the tongue or throat that causes trouble speaking, breathing, or swallowing
- Asthma or any other breathing condition that gets worse
- Dizziness or fainting
- Rapid or weak heartbeat
- Severe stomach cramps or pain, vomiting, or diarrhea
- Severe flushing or itching of the skin
- Heartburn, difficulty swallowing, pain with swallowing, or chest pain that does not go away or worsens

Also, stop taking RAGWITEK following: mouth surgery procedures (such as tooth removal), or if you develop any mouth infections, ulcers or cuts in the mouth or throat.

How Should I Take RAGWITEK?

Take RAGWITEK exactly as your doctor tells you. RAGWITEK is a prescription medicine that is placed under the tongue.

- Take the tablet from the blister package after carefully removing the foil with dry hands.
- Place the tablet immediately under the tongue. Allow it to remain there until completely dissolved. Do not swallow for at least 1 minute.
- Do not take RAGWITEK with food or beverage. Food and beverage should not be taken for the following 5 minutes.
- Wash hands after taking the tablet.

Take the first tablet of RAGWITEK in your doctor's office. After taking the first tablet, you will be watched for at least 30 minutes for symptoms of a serious allergic reaction. If you tolerate the first dose of RAGWITEK, you will continue RAGWITEK therapy at home by taking one tablet every day. Take RAGWITEK as prescribed by your doctor until the end of the treatment course. If you forget to take RAGWITEK, do not take a double dose. Take the next dose at your normal scheduled time the next day. If you miss more than one dose of RAGWITEK, contact your healthcare provider before restarting.

What are the Possible Side Effects of RAGWITEK?

The most commonly reported side effects were itching of the mouth, lips, or tongue, swelling under the tongue, or throat irritation. These side effects, by themselves, were not dangerous or life-threatening. RAGWITEK can cause severe allergic reactions that may be life-threatening. Symptoms of allergic reactions to RAGWITEK include:

- Trouble breathing
- Throat tightness or swelling
- Trouble swallowing or speaking
- Dizziness or fainting
- Rapid or weak heartbeat

Doing the Heavy Lifting

BY KENNETH R. "KEN" PLUM
STATE DELEGATE (D-36)

I announced my first bid for elective office in 1973 while standing on the steps of the historic Fairfax County Courthouse. Only my immediate family and my secretary and her husband were there to hear me harken back to the Fairfax Resolves of 1774 when the citizens of Fairfax County enumerated their complaints against the Crown. I suggested that our contemporary problems were not much different except that they were directed at the government in Richmond, and I promised to go to the state Capitol and do something about our grievances.

Last week I announced my candidacy for re-election. While the basics of government have remained the same since my first announcement, attacks on the functions of government have become increasingly shrill. Ideological differences in the legislature have seldom been more intense.

With the retirement last year of a legislator who had served as a member of the House of Delegates for 50 years, I became currently the longest-serving member of the House of Delegates. As a member of the minority party in the House, my length of service does not provide me any special privileges or considerations, but it does require me to examine my role as a legislator.

As I told the constituents and friends who assembled to kick off my current campaign, I consider my role in the House of Delegates to do the heavy lifting. Above all, I will serve my constituents as best I can with their individual and community needs and interests before the legislature. I will be leaving the introduction of routine and housekeeping bills to junior members to get their practice in law making.

When I say "heavy lifting" I mean taking on the difficult and challenging issues that while divisive need resolution. I need to be clear to voters and to my fellow legislators about my positions on issues that have evolved over many years of dealing with them. For issues to be resolved, all sides need to be clearly articulated, something I am generally able to do.

I will continue to speak out on the need to expand Medicaid to provide health insurance to the working poor. Not only will it bring about five million dollars a day of Virginia taxpayer monies back to the state, but it will free up about $200 million of state monies that are spent on items that would be covered by Medicaid. I want those extra millions spent on education, including the expansion of preschool programs—one of the best investments in the future

Fostering Connections, Faltering

Why are federal dollars acceptable for roads, but not for helping foster children?

While there is plenty of competition for the title “most vulnerable,” foster children are certainly among them.

In Fairfax County right now, there are more than 240 children in foster care. There is no benign way to end up in foster care. Foster children are victims of abuse and/or neglect significant enough for them to be removed from their families. On Tuesday, April 29, the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors announced that May is Foster Care and Foster Family Recognition Month.

Ironically, May, 2015 could be a month of uncertainty for older foster children in many places in Virginia because of a failure in the Virginia General Assembly.

About 50 foster children a year “age out” of the foster care system in Fairfax County. There are children who may have spent much of their lives in foster care, and reach the age of majority while they are still in foster care, without being reunited with their families or being adopted.

“The research shows that our youth who have been in foster care are extremely traumatized,” said Carl E. Ayers, director of the Virginia Division of Family Services. “Children who have aged out of foster care are much more likely to be homeless, to end up in psychiatric hospitals, to end up in jail, to be young parents, to be on public assistance and just in general have higher rates of poverty. If you can think of a negative outcome, that’s what we see [at high rates] with foster children who age out.”

But right now, about 150 young people between 18-21 who are receiving foster care services in Virginia, with as many as 50 of them here in Fairfax County, are discovering that because the General Assembly failed to pave the way for Federal “Fostering Connections” funding, they could be aging out sooner than they expected.

In 2008, President George Bush signed the Fostering Connections Act that gives states the ability to use federal dollars for children who were in foster care up until the age of 21.

In Virginia, the General Assembly passed in 2014 a plan for implementation that required legislation in 2015 session. But that bill died in committee, and Virginia Family Services has begun the process of letting local agencies, like Fairfax County Department of Family Services, that once a foster child turns 18, they must be transitioned out of foster care.

By spending a little over $3 million, the state could have gained more than $10 million in federal money to help these emerging adults at a critical moment. Savings to localities would have been more than $3 million.

But instead, foster children 18 or older will need to have services transitioned. Ayers says the department will work with local agencies to be sure that none ends up homeless, no one ends up in the hospital. But for youth in foster care 18 or over, a new plan will have to be worked out, and each such youth will have to deal with one more uncertainty.

“It is very, very important that no one is turned on the street,” said Ayers, citing specific instructions that local agencies contact him personally if they are having trouble identifying services for any of the youth being transitioned.

Localities got the word via a “broadcast” memo on April 15, and are still sorting out what it all means.

In Fairfax County, the goal is for youth who are currently in foster homes to be able to stay in them by shifting how they are served, but there will certainly be a financial impact.

“With this being so new, our immediate step was to see exactly which kids will be affected, timelines and expectations,” said Nannette Bowler, director of Fairfax County Family Services. “We’ll scramble and do an assessment on all these children to figure out we can support them given what has occurred.”

“We’re going to have ... look any avenue that we can to be sure these children are not derailed.”

Stand by, because it is going to take a village to raise these children.

Celebrate Mom, Dad—Without Selling One Short

BY CHRISTIAN PAASCH

In today’s marketing environment, it seems as though one gender cannot make progress without disparaging another. However, a few inspiring and refreshingly positive television ads have recently managed to gain popularity while avoiding this pitfall. I applaud Dove, Nissan and Toyota for having the courage to step away from the norm and, in doing so, not only bring men into the mainstream picture of the modern American parent, but also for doing so in a way that is perhaps more innovative than anything else: championing one gender without attacking, alienating or poking fun at the other gender.

Toyota has done a terrific job of bridging the strong bond between fathers and daughters. In the company’s latest ad, Toyota depicts the various stages of a daughter’s life where her dad is there to console, protect, guide and eventually, set out into the world with tears in his eyes. The message of the ad is to make bold choices — what better term to describe what any parent would want for his or her child, in particular a daughter?

In a seeming balance to Toyota, Nissan focused on the relationship between a father and his son. Perhaps too stereotypically, the father here is depicted as the absent father, a race car driver in this instance, and the son looking on, wanting to be just like his father. Of course, the soundtrack to this commercial is none other than “Cats In The Cradle,” but thankfully, the father realizes before it’s too late that his son needs to physically see him and know that their relationship is more important than any job.

Dove has arguably the most moving, yet simple ad: clip after clip of young and adult children calling for “Dad” or “Daddy” at various stages of their lives. From the toddler needing help to the adult calling his father with the wonderful news of a pregnancy, the commercial ends with a simple question and answer: “What makes a man stronger? Showing that he cares.”

So why do these ads matter? Why are they so special? Here again, the answer is simple: because they are a rarity. Because they champion the roles dads play in the lives of children, both boys and girls, without denigrating the crucial and complementary role mothers play in those same children’s lives. This spirit of gender equality is one to celebrate and emulate.

In fact, the path these three companies have forged serves as a marketing model for others and reminds parents everywhere that they are parents first, united by the love for their children and made stronger by a mutual appreciation of their unique strengths and differences.

Rachel Carson Wins 'We The People' Nationals

Herndon middle schoolers crowned national champions.

BY ANDREA WORKER
THE CONNECTION

They did it! In February, The Connection reported that the students of Cynthia Burgett's special Civics class at Rachel Carson Middle School in Herndon had won the State Championship of the "We The People Competition" and were determined to bring home the gold at the National Invitionals. On April 20, at the Marriott Fair Lakes, they did just that, being crowned the national champions at the third annual Middle School Division event. The qualifying rounds of the nationals took place at George Mason University, where the Rachel Carson kids were up against eight other teams from around the country, including the junior high group from Indiana who had taken the top honors for the last two years. "We were so excited when we heard that we were going on to compete for first place," admitted team member Maggie Sparling. "Yes," agreed classmate Debbie Dong. "That meant no matter what, we wouldn't place less than third overall. We wanted to do our school and teacher proud!"

THE COMPETITION, part of the outreach efforts of the California-based non-profit Center for Civic Education, requires serious commitment from the students and their teacher. The team was formed back in October of last year. To get to the final round of competition, the youngsters had to survive numerous practice rounds, the regionals in Purcellville and the state championship in Williamsburg, where they finally earned the right to represent their school and the Commonwealth.

Formatted to simulate congressional hearings, the competition divides the students into six groups based on the six units of the textbook "We the People: The Citizen and the Constitution" where they act as constitutional experts "testifying" before a panel. In this case, the panel, rather than comprising senators or congressmen, is made up of recognized experts in the field of constitutional law, government, foreign affairs and related areas. "It was pretty intense," acknowledged Maggie Sparling, whose team was tasked with the unit covering the Bill of Rights and the concept of Due Process. "The judges were attorneys, professors, people like that from all around the country. You really had to know what you were talking about."

"We won!" Students from Rachel Carson Middle School, participating in the national finals of the "We The People" competition, react when they hear the announcement for the second place winners. "That meant we were the winners! We just went a bit crazy. We couldn't believe it," said team member Debbie Dong.

Each "hearing" opens with a Unit giving a four-minute speech about their subject. The judges then have six minutes to ask follow-up questions, or probe for knowledge by asking new questions within the field of study.

"I think there were a few surprises," said Varshini Babu, who was part of the Unit 3 team, "but we had a good strategy. Each person on the team had a strength and a depth of knowledge on a certain piece of the unit and we knew how to get the right person to answer each question."

Developing those strategies for studying, preparation of speeches and for communicating the team's comprehensive understanding of each topic and ability to apply their knowledge to current day affairs was as important as learning the actual textbook material, according to the youngsters who represented their winning team members during an interview.

For example, Unit 2 expert Amrit Gorle noted that the judges seemed to like a bit of disagreement among the team members. "If you politely showed different opinions that were based on knowledge, and then came to agreement for your answers, it showed them that you all knew the information and really thought about it."

"That was a good thing," declared Debbie Dong from Unit 6. "We had some battles in our group." "Don't forget the tie back," said Ria Singh.

"We found it was really important to bring our answers back to the original question, or the basis of our unit. I think it showed that we could keep it all together and stay focused," Singh said.

While some of their strategies were applied universally across all six units, the students were also able to adapt strategies unique to their individual units to accommodate the strengths and weaknesses of individual team members.

THE TROPHY and the recognition make all of the hard work worthwhile, but other lessons and benefits garnered seemed to be of equal import to the winners. The opportunity to make new friends ("Real ones, that you can have real conversations with," as defined by Maggie Sparling) came in high on the list of the good things to take away from the experience. "Learning to collaborate," was a benefit to Amrit Gorle, and "learning and practicing effective communication, being clear, concise and pertinent," was a valuable lesson for Varshini Babu.

"This was a real life experience," said Unit 4 member Sophie Halkett, "where you were tested and had to think on your feet. It was hard work and sometimes scary, but I wouldn't have missed it for anything."

Town Center Opens Fountain

Celebration held at Reston landmark.

At almost 28 feet tall, the Mercury Fountain has become a symbol of Reston Town Center and a Reston landmark. Erected in 1990, the design of the fountain was chosen after a call for artists and interviews were conducted for a memorable attraction to the Town Center. Mercury was chosen to represent Reston Town Center as a symbol of communication and commerce. Designed by Brazilian-born sculptor Saint Clair Cemin, the Mercury Fountain creates powerful yet soothing sounds meant to draw patrons towards the common area.

On Wednesday, April 22, a free public celebration was held at Reston Town Center as the fountain began to flow for the first time of the season. All were welcome to enjoy live music and refreshments. The celebration was presented in partnership with Reston Community Center. Refreshments were provided by Mon Ami Gabi, with mini-burgers provided by The Counter. Live music, courtesy of Enviro Drum, was presented by the Reston Community Center. The event on Wednesday also marked Earth Day, celebrated annually, nationwide since 1970.

Representatives from Cornerstones were on hand to accept a donation from Reston Town Center Association, the Master Association for the Reston Town Center District. All of the coins collected in the fountain in 2014 were donated to Cornerstones.

Cornerstones, formerly Reston Interfaith, is a nonprofit organization that promotes self-sufficiency by providing support and advocacy for those in need of food, shelter, affordable housing and quality childcare.

On April 24, Cornerstones volunteer Mike Harrison was presented with a 2015 Fairfax County Volunteer Service Award. Established in 1993, the Fairfax County Volunteer Service Awards serve a community-wide celebration of volunteerism. The awards honor individuals, groups and organizations that have given outstanding volunteer service through a broad range of activities and programs.

Seahawks Finish as Runners-up

South Lakes track and field teams finish second at Invitational.

Twelve South Lakes High School track and field athletes met state qualifying standards in leading both the boys and girls team to runner-up finishes at the Lake Braddock Hall of Fame Invitational April 17-18 at Lake Braddock Secondary School in Burke.

Juniors Anas Fain and Eric Kirlew qualified for state in individual events as well as in the relays. Fain finished second in the 110 meter hurdle finals (15.15) and Kirlew won the triple jump (45-01.00). They teamed with junior Skander Ballard and sophomore Timiebi Ogobri for third in the 4x100 meter run in a state qualifying time of 43.69.

SLHS won both the girls 4x100 and 4x400 meter relays with state qualifying times. Seniors Ozioma Chinaka, Comfort Reed, Samantha Webb and Jordan Lozama ran a 49.36 in the 4x100. Sophomore Devyn Jones, junior Golden Kumi-Darfour and seniors Claire Nieusma and Delaney Wickman won the 4x400 in 3:59.50.

Jones' second place finish in the girls 100 meter hurdles (15.10) qualified her for the state meet.

Several Seahawks runners met Northern Region 6 qualifying standards at the Lake Braddock Hall of Fame Invitational:

Girls 4x800 relay team (freshman Olivia Beckner, sophomore Seretha McHugh, senior Augusta Durham, Kumi-Darfour), 9:44.01, 2nd

Finding the Courage to Say 'No'

Local nonprofit group presents "Perils of the College Drinking Culture" program.

BY ANDREA WORKER
THE CONNECTION

The final quarter of the 2014-2015 school year has arrived. For thousands of area high school seniors that means time to say farewells to friends, teachers, and the familiarity of the routines and activities of the past four years. For many of them, it also means time to prepare for that first year of college, and possibly their first time away from home and daily parental guidance. On April 14, the United Prevention Coalition of Fairfax County (UPC) presented one of their signature programs, "The Perils of the College Drinking Culture," at Madison High School in Vienna to help both the young adults and their parents make a safe and healthy transition to this next phase in their lives. The documentary "HAZE," was shown, melding a mixture of medical facts about the effects of alcohol with expert commentary from doctors, scientists, and school administrators. The thread that wove the film together was the tragic real-life story of Lynn Gordon Bailey, Jr. known by all as simply "Gordie."

Adults and youngsters alike could be seen leaning forward toward the screen as Gordie's story unfolded before them. An excellent student and gifted athlete involved in a variety of academic and social activities, on Sept. 17, 2004, Gordie was found dead by his new fraternity brothers at Chi Psi Fraternity House at the University of Colorado at Boulder. The night before, Gordie and 26 other fraternity pledges had been taken blindfolded to a National Forest where they were encouraged to drink four 1.75 litre bottles of whiskey and six bottles of wine in 30 minutes. When the group returned to the Fraternity house, Gordie was intoxicated and did not drink further. After placing him on a couch and then writing on his face and body with markers in another fraternity ritual, they left Gordie to "sleep it off." Ten hours later he was found dead, face down on the floor.

Interviews with Gordie's family highlighted their grief, but the warning in the story was their mutual shock and disbelief. Mother, father, family and friends all echoed, "How could this have happened, especially to him?" Gordie Bailey had been a happy, healthy, friendly, outgoing young man. He had no prior history of any kind of substance abuse. No mental health issues. He came from a stable home with strong and loving relationships. Yet, just three weeks after arriving on campus, Gordie was gone.

ATTENDING with his mother, Brenda, William Parada found the program "breaks down your perceptions. It really shows you the effects and the consequences."

The agenda included a welcome by Madison PTSA President Jill Hecht. Sara Freund, executive director of UPC, set the stage, outlining the agenda, and following the showing of "HAZE," Lisa Adler, president of UPC, introduced a panel and facilitated a question and answer session after each member gave a brief summary of their credentials and some thoughts on the movie and the topic under discussion. The panel represented a depth of knowledge and personal experience, including Dr. William Hauda, M.D. an emergency physician and medical director of the Forensic Assessment Consultation Team at Inova Fairfax Hospital. Hauda described in detail the effects of alcohol on the brain and on the body. "First there is the animated stage. Then the alcohol begins to diffuse around the body." Alcohol affects the part of the brain that controls basic bodily functions, slowing down all reflexes and functions, even breathing. "It's scary," said Hauda. "It looks like a person is simply sleeping, when they could be going into a coma, and dying."

Tylia Turner, a sophomore at George Mason University spoke about the pressures faced by college students, then offered tips and alternatives. "There are lots of activities, things to do on and off-campus that don't involve drinking," she said. "It's true," added panellist Casey Lingen, chief deputy, Commonwealth's Attorney for Fairfax County. "I made a decision not to drink at all when I went to college, and I still had a lot of fun. That first 'No,' is the hardest, but after awhile, people just accepted it. And since I usually had a cup in hand – filled with diet soda or whatever – it wasn't really an issue. Remember, the drinking may come from peer pressure, but the consequences are all yours."

The panelists all agreed with a central message of the film. If someone had just checked on young Gordie and made a call for help, he would probably have survived. Several of them, however, like Dan Pang, Fairfax County Police Department Sergeant and School Resource Office Supervisor, warned that in the long run, "it's really about personal responsibility." Pang and others advocated for "doing the right thing. Looking out for others and not being afraid to make the call."

"You can save others that way," said Jeff Levy, president of Virginia College Parents, whose son died in a car crash after drinking at a college party. The panelists were unanimous, however, in their belief that it was more important to abstain, not getting into situations where safety is dependent on the care and awareness of others who more than likely were equally under the influence of alcohol or drugs and incapable of providing assistance.

THE GROUP also agreed with advice from Mary Ann Sprouse, director, George Mason University's Wellness, Alcohol and Violence Education and Services. "Have a plan," she said. "Know what you are going to do, and know what your response will be when you are faced with these situations. Making it up as you go can lead you to do something that you really shouldn't or don't even want to do."

"And don't count on those friends who say that you'll all stick together at a party," warned Pang. "That never happens. Trust your sixth sense, before it's dulled by alcohol."

The takeaway from the program that the panelists and the UPC members stressed for the parents was, in Mary Ann Sprouse's words, "to use your voice." Staying involved and communicating, especially when the student has left the home environment, is critical.

UPC is a non-profit organization working to prevent substance abuse by youth and young adults. Collaborating with more than 60 community organizations and partners at the county, state and national levels, UPC addresses the problem with educational programs, advocacy, research, and work groups that include parents, teachers, health care personnel and the young people, from middle school and up, that they seek to protect. UPC offers a number of resources and guides, like its "Virginia's Guide for Parents of First-Year College Students." More information is available at www.unifiedpreventioncoalition.org. The website www.virginiacollegeparents.org will provide more information on that group's efforts with resources for parents. Discovering the Arts in Everyday Places

Classical Ballet Theatre will participate in a creative collaboration for this year's edition of the Northern Virginia Fine Arts Festival. A regional favorite, this event invites art fans of all ages to interact with multiple visual artists and their works in fun, outdoor spaces at Reston Town Center. Attendees will also enjoy unique performances, as four dance companies will be presenting choreography in response to sculptures created by Mary Anne Mears and Patrick Dougherty.

Representing the only pre-professional dance organization invited, the Classical Ballet Theatre (CBT) students and Artistic Director Gillmer Duran are thrilled about this opportunity. With his signature style, Duran is creating a piece titled "Branching Out," with music by Zoe Keating. Duran said, "I find the words that Ms. Mears and Mr. Dougherty use to describe their sculptures to be inspiring. Both artists created pieces that respond in unique ways to the physical and spatial qualities of the sites that host them. 'Branching Out' is my way of offering a performing arts element that harmonizes with these essential qualities, while also bringing physical energy and exhilaration. It is yet an additional way to celebrate the importance of human interaction with art in everyday life."

Duran thanks the Greater Reston Arts Center for inviting CBT to perform, and he encourages all who enjoy the arts to come to Reston Town Center on Saturday, May 16 and Sunday, May 17. Visit northernvirginiafineartsfestival.org/Artists2015/ArtistList2015.php.

Deep Space Mind

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

A few years back (OKAY, more than a few years back; I'll blame the cancer for my time lapse), there was a spin-off from the original Star Trek: Star Trek: The Next Generation captained by Jean-Luc Picard (a.k.a. Patrick Stewart) which itself spawned two other spin-offs: Star Trek Voyager and Deep Space Nine (commanded by Avery Brooks, a.k.a. Captain Sisko). I was reminded of this television-watching time of my life recently when I saw a former Deep Space Nine actor's name (the son, actually: Remy) in the credits of a recent "The Good Wife": Auberjonois.

On Deep Space Nine, René Auberjonois (the father) played a non-humanoid character from a race known as Changelings, shape shifters; a species able to transform/conform/reform itself into any shape. For the purpose of the show, Constable Odo, as he was known, who was the director of security on the space station, "shape shifted" himself into a humanoid form. He mostly looked, acted and spoke as any other human. However, his facial features were noticeably imperfect, and his ears were also a bit unusual. Occasionally, when Odo did not go to his quarters in a reasonable cycle of time (never really specified) and in turn did not have the opportunity to return to his natural state: described as "gelatinous goo," to reside in his bucket, his features would begin to lose their shape and he would appear to be melting (an occurrence/appearance he was determined to hide). Though this circumstance rarely manifested itself, when it did, Odo explained how stressful it was for him to maintain the shape/illusion of a humanoid (given the intricacies of the species) and how the demands of doing so (consciously, subconsciously) were nearly overwhelming. This story line was not dominant, but us regular viewers understood the ongoing strain on Odo and what might happen if he didn't have the time to regenerate in his bucket.

Now I don't have a natural state other than the obvious, or a bucket for that matter (I have a couch), but I can certainly relate to Odo's emotional/psychological fears and anxieties and the effort required to maintain what appears – to the outside world anyway, to be a "normal" existence. For a cancer survivor/patient, "normal" no longer exists. In fact, the date of your diagnosis/prognosis is the day/date when normal ceases to exist. For me, that date was February 27, 2009, the date Team Lourie first met with my oncologist and heard the unbelievable news that I had non-small cell lung cancer, stage IV, a "terminal" diagnosis. My oncologist further added that he could "treat me but he couldn't cure me." "Excuse me. What did you say?"

And just like Odo, I try to hide/minimize my situation. I don't want to, if at all possible, exhibit any of the signs or circumstances of my diagnosis. I try to live life as normally as possible and not bring attention to myself or my particular challenges. Let me assure you, maintaining this façade would be a lot easier if I too had a bucket in which I could return to some gelatinous-type goo and regain my strength. But I don't. I only have my privacy, where I can retreat in an attempt to summon up the fortitude necessary to take each day as it comes without further adieu. Some days are more difficult than others, particularly those days waiting for the results of a current CT Scan two months after a prior scan showed new tumors/growth. Odo mostly managed to endure his unique challenges, and I am striving to do the same. Seeing the actor's name on television the other week inspired me that even though I am often alone with my thoughts, I am not alone. And as one who has been there and done that, I know there is strength in our survivor numbers; hopefully in reruns too, especially when you've been given a "terminal" diagnosis.

Kenny Lourie is an Advertising Representative for The Potomac Almanac & The Connection Newspapers.

Beginning Sunfish classes sail from the dock on a summer morning to practice the day's maneuvers.

Sailors rig the Sunfish in preparation for beginning the day's lesson at Youth Sailing Camp at the Washington Sailing Marina.

Summer Sailing Camp: Outside, Hands-On, Empowering

BY SHIRLEY RUHE
GAZETTE PACKET

Amy Zang has just returned from a week sailing the British Virgin Isles with nine members of her extended family ranging from her 78-year-old, legally-blind father to her brother's 4- and 6-year old children.

"I was the captain of the 46-foot catamaran, but I had to get used to it. It is the biggest boat I have sailed. You use the same sailing skills but adapt the technique when the boat is this large."

Zang is the director and owner of the Youth Sailing Day Camp at the Washington Sailing Marina. The Washington Sailing Marina camp offers six different youth sailing classes in the summer with the Sunfish for beginners and the Flying Scot for intermediates. The advanced class uses a Hobie Cat. The racing class sails a Collegiate 420 that is a fast, maneuverable boat allowing campers the chance to work on boat balance and roll tacks.

Adventures on a Big Boat sails a Catalina 25. This group has a picnic lunch under anchor on Thursdays and they, along with the intermediate boats, sail to Old Town for lunch on Fridays. Other groups get smoothies on Friday "so everyone gets a treat."

Sailing students must be certified before moving on to the next level. Some campers come for one week and others move up the skill level over successive weeks at camp. Windsurfing is also offered.

The camp opens June 1 and runs weekly through Aug. 22, and is already over 50 percent full. The classes run from 9:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m. and are open to rising third graders-15 years of age. She thinks children choose sailing for summer because "it is different, it is outside, it is hands on and they get immediate gratification." They walk away with a life skill that they can carry into adulthood, she says.

Sailing class is empowering, Zang says. Children don't have much in their lives that they can be fully in charge of. "I give them trust, here is a boat, and you can learn to sail it and they give trust back. They learn responsibility and it is a huge confidence builder for both male and female students. Sailing isn't about strength." She adds, "When kids come they love it and keep returning year after year." She said word of mouth is powerful and she has had a number of children for many years.

Classes are systematic, beginning with a 10-minute "chalk talk" about what they will be doing that day. Then on to a drill such as a figure eight on the water followed by docking. The routine gets instilled with a game like "stick, stick, capsize." Sailing students practice docking, sailing to the dock where an instructor awaits them. If they do a perfect docking, they get a paint stick and they sail back to a buoy not too far off, switch positions (crew moves to skippers position) and sail to the dock again. If they do a good docking they get a second paint stick, and from there they sail out into the lagoon where a safety boat is stationed. They hand in their two paint sticks and get to do a capsize, the reward for two good dockings.

She calls each day "controlled chaos" where she has to be mentally two steps ahead watching weather, keeping track of the boats at all times and supervising the instructors as well as tending to children who may need special attention. "Every single cog in the wheel has to work." Zang describes herself as a big communicator and sends group email updates to parents during the week. If there are specific things to pass along she emails the parents directly.

During the school year, Zang provides home-bound school instruction for students with illness or special needs that keep them from attending traditional school.

At this time of year, Zang is interviewing staff, rescheduling returning staff, reviewing insurance policies and other business, organizing buses, getting boats ready for the season "putting a screwdriver to every screw, washing out boats and getting them in the water."

Zang offers bus service pickup from Bethesda. This year, a mom organized a group of 24 sailing campers from Chantilly so "I am sending a bus there to pick up the kids that week." Sailing students come from all over the metropolitan area and some are visiting relatives and attend sailing camp for a week or two. About half come with a friend although she tries to match everyone up with a buddy if they don't. "We have a lot of diplomat kids, too, a nice diverse population."

The staff includes more than 40 full-time summer counselors; many started in sailing camp themselves a number of years ago. "I have one counselor this year who started camp when he was 9." She has better than a 1-6 ratio of staff to campers.

"It's a good job for high school and college students, getting a tan, learning valuable skills and how to work with kids."

Preparing for Summer Camp Away

Many emotions arise when a child leaves for camp.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
THE CONNECTION

Julie Kaminski remembers the language from her desperate letters to her parents: “I love you. I want to come home now!” She recalls penning a dramatic plea to be rescued from residential summer camp more than 40 years ago. Today, Kaminski is preparing for her daughter’s first camp experience away from home this summer.

“Looking back, I can see how going away to camp helped me become more self-sufficient, self-confident, self-reliant and taught me how to get along with so many different kinds of people,” said Kaminski, a local mother of two children.

“Of course I didn’t think that at the time. I was extremely homesick even though it was my idea to go to sleep away camp in the first place.”

A child’s first residential summer camp experience can be fraught with emotions that run the gamut from excitement to terror. While glee at the thought of a summer filled with sports, swimming, crafts and new-found friendships can be the dominant feeling, the thought of an extended period of time away from home can cause sadness and anxiety for both parents and their children.

An American Camp Association study showed that 96 percent of children who attend sleep away camps experience homesickness at some point during their stay. While these emotions are normal, parents can help children tame the pre-camp jitters. The life-long lessons gained from such camps make it worth the effort.

“Becoming comfortable with your child being away at summer camp, perhaps the first extended separation you have had, is a matter of trust,” said David Kaplan, Ph.D. of the American Counseling Association in Alexandria, Va.

PHOTO CONTRIBUTED

Summer camp experiences can help children become self-confident and self-reliant.

“Trusting your child that they can handle themselves without your supervision. Trusting that they can handle relationships with other children. Trusting that they can get up in the morning, take a shower, wash their clothes, and change their sheets without your prodding.”

ACKNOWLEDGING THAT homesickness is normal and many campers experience it, can help children accept and cope with their emotions.

“Expecting to miss home and feel somewhat anxious helps children feel less surprised and overwhelmed when it occurs,” said Barbara Meehan, Ph.D. executive director, Counseling and Psychological Services, George Mason University in Fairfax, Va.

A child’s apprehension can be eased when parents share their own camp experiences, particularly positive memories.

“Don’t let your child get caught up in your own anxiety about leaving for camp,” said Linda McKenna Gulyn, Ph.D., professor of psychology at Marymount University in Arlington, Va. “Kids sometimes worry about the parents they left behind. Be positive, but not sad that your child is leaving.”

Meehan says that developing a few self-soothing activities like playing outdoors or reading is one strategy for helping children deal with feelings of missing home. Identifying people with whom young campers can share their emotions is another means for dealing with homesickness.

“Talking to a camp counselor and even peers can help ease the difficult feelings and often they will learn they are not alone,” said Meehan.

Encouraging a child to make friends and become involved in camp activities will put the focus on the positive aspects of camp. Packing letters and stamped envelopes and developing a plan for letter exchange can help a child feel connected to their families.

“Isolating and avoiding what feels hard can often worsen anxiety and homesickness,” said Meehan. “Remind your child they are stronger than they feel in the moment and that engaging in camp activities can be helpful.”

There are times however when a child might not be ready for residential camps. The American Camp Association reports that while most cases of homesickness subside, there are cases — if a child is not eating or sleeping, for example — when it could be time to seek help. “Consult with camp professionals about resources if your child’s anxiety worsens or persists,” said Meehan.

Paralympic Sports Team Seeking Players

The Fairfax Falcons Paralympic Sports team, a Fairfax County Neighborhood and Recreation Services Therapeutic Recreation program, is recruiting new players. The team provides a variety of sports experiences to athletes with physical disabilities impacting their lower extremities ages 4 1/2 to 18 (or high school graduation). Not all athletes use wheelchairs for everyday use. Some athletes are ambulatory and only use a wheelchair for sports. Their primary sport is wheelchair basketball, which runs late August through April. In the spring, they offer a variety of sports including floor hockey, track, field, fishing, rugby, golf, and football. For more information, email fairfaxfalcons@gmail.com.

Summer at Massanutten

Each year, Massanutten Military Academy offers a five-week intensive summer school program, an opportunity for students to get ahead in their learning, make up for bad or failing grades, or increase their knowledge and participation in their JROTC leadership skills. Massanutten Military Academy offers the safety of a structured learning environment, as well as the fun of a summer camp through a combination of classroom time and weekend activities. The program is offered June 27-Aug. 1, 2015.

Credit for academic courses is transferable to the student’s current school. JROTC leadership credit equals one high school course credit.

STEM CAMP Massanutten offers STEM Summer Camp, two two-week camps running from June 29-July 10 and July 20-31, open to students grades 7-12. This summer camp offers students the chance to explore the many facets of STEM education including hands-on experiences. Upon completion of the STEM Summer Camp, students will receive a certification of completion. Massanutten Military Academy offers the safety of a structured learning environment, as well as the fun of a summer camp through a combination of classroom time and activities. Diverse Camps Offer Summer Fun

BY STEVE HIBBARD
THE CONNECTION

Scores of local camps in Northern Virginia that offer many opportunities for summer fun and learning. Here is a sampling of diverse camps that range from art to theater to field trips to swimming, tennis and music. There's even a camp for aspiring musicians who want to form a band.

ROAM Rock Camp

ROAM Rock Camp gives children the opportunity to build communication skills and confidence through the language of music. The camps are designed to focus on why each participant wants to be in a band, why they love music and what they want to get out of it. The goal is to create an environment or band that children will thrive in. They will hand select each member to create a group that best fits their age and or experience. During the camp, groups will learn three to four of their favorite songs or even write songs if they wish. At the end of the week they will record the group and give them a CD to take home to show off their progress.

"The best thing about these camps is that we are able to show these young musicians from first-hand experience how to be players and performers. I wish I had something like this when I was growing up," said John Patrick, owner/director, who is the former co-founder of the national touring act Virginia Coalition.

Camps are offered from June 1 to Aug. 28. To register, contact ROAM to let them know every week your child would be available to do a camp. Deadline for registration is June 1.

Burgundy Farm

Burgundy Farm offers two summer camps: a day camp at the 25-acre Alexandria campus in eight week-long sessions, and a sleep-away camp in three sessions at Burgundy Center for Wildlife Studies in Capon Bridge, W.Va. Both camps are great options for children excited about learning in the outdoors with dedicated counselors. Day campers swim every day, and programs include sports, science and performing and visual arts. Sleep-away camp provides a mix of structure and freedom, fostering a respect to the natural world through greater knowledge of nature and self.

"At Burgundy Farm Summer Day Camp, our campers enjoy all the benefits of a sleep-away camp with the convenience of a day camp, including swimming, animal encounters, nature exploration, forming strong bonds and friendships with other campers and counselors, and the opportunity to build self-esteem and confidence in a fun and

Kenwood Summer Day Camp

Kenwood Summer Day Camp makes it their mission to provide campers with new experiences and lasting friendships each summer. "Whether it's watching a baseball game, riding a roller coaster, or seeing knights joust from the front row, we take pride in giving them these opportunities and watching them share it with their new friends," said Justin Elcano, camp director.

Kenwood Summer Day campers can go on daily field trips to exciting destinations including water parks, mini golf, roller skating, amusement parks and more. Campers also have a wide variety of activities to keep them entertained while they are on campus. There is a large wooded playground that is home to many kickball, capture the flag, and basketball games. They have five themed rooms that hold arts and crafts, video games, board games, ping pong, air hockey, and movies.

Kenwood summer day camp is open to children who have completed kindergarten through 8th grade. Camp starts June 15 and goes through Sept. 2. Visit the website to find a calendar with a schedule for each week at www.camp.kenwoodschool.com. Call 703-256-4711 or email camp@kenwoodschool.com.

Metropolitan School of the Arts

Metropolitan School of the Arts offer professional summer dance, music theater and acting camps. It also offers a wide variety of youth summer camps where students can explore and learn many facets of the performing and visual arts, including mini camps for the youngest students, ages 3-5, youth camps for students in grades 1-6, and intensives for students age 8 and up. Private summer music lessons are also available for piano, voice, guitar, violin and drums.

"MSA summer camps are the perfect way to try something new and a great way to keep young bodies active and develop new friendships," said Melissa Dobbs, president of Metropolitan School of the Arts in Lorton and Alexandria. "Whether your child is passionate about the performing arts or just looking to have some fun, MSA camps offer creative programs for all skill levels."

Langley School Summer Studio

The Langley School Summer Studio features more than 70 classes that allow for the personal, social, and intellectual growth of each camper in preschool to 8th grade. Innovative and engaging academic and STEM programs stimulate with math adventures, robots, and Raspberry Pi. Exploration abounds as campers take exciting field trips to become field scientists who investigate the Chesapeake Bay, cyclists who traverse local mountain bike terrain, and magicians who create illusions. The spotlight also shines on experiences that get campers "in the studio" with a Pulitzer Prize-winning photographer or the lead choreographer and dancer for MC Hammer.

"Each year, we look to add to our diverse roster of classes while growing the perennial favorites to ensure The Langley School Summer Studio offers the best possible experience for our campers," said Director of Auxiliary Programs Jennafer Curran. "Whether taking part in one of many field trips, exploring a new interest like soccer or dance, or refining math or reading skills, our campers develop academically, socially, and emotionally ... and have a great time in the process."

The Langley School Summer Studio will run in six weekly sessions from June 15 - July 31, for students in preschool to grade 8. Classes are held at The Langley School in McLean, and take advantage of the 9.2-acre campus, featuring a wooded nature area, state-of-the-art athletic center, artificial turf field, computer labs, and age-appropriate

Bishop Ireton Camp

Bishop Ireton High School offers campers the opportunity to participate in sports and/or theater while developing individual and group skills and fostering a love of the activity. It offer boys camps (baseball, basketball, lacrosse and football); girls camps (basketball, lacrosse and volleyball); and coed camps (soccer, theater). Age ranges for the camps are rising 1st graders to rising seniors depending on the camp. The 17 camp sessions are conducted by the school's coaches or teachers and assisted by student counselors. Lunch is provided for full day camps by the cafeteria at no extra cost.

"Last year we had nearly 600 campers attend one of our sports or theater camps. The camps are a great way for youngsters to get to know us and for our coaches and theater teachers to get to know them," said Peter Hamer, summer camp director.

Diverse Camps Offer Summer Fun

Centreville Dance Academy

Summer Camp at Centreville Dance Academy is a great way for a child to experience dance in a fun and safe atmosphere. It offers a Princess Party Camp, Broadway Bound Camp, Glitz & Glam Camp, and Me & My Doll Camp. Dancers will enjoy pretending to be their favorite characters, dressing up, and creating fun crafts. On the final day of camp there will be an in-studio performance for family and friends.

"Summer camp is a great way to expose your child to all that dance has to offer. Dance camp is a wonderful place to build lasting memories and relationships with the CDA teachers and new friends. We love seeing the dancers grow each year," said Kathy Taylor, owner/director.

Princess Party Camp offers The Little Mermaid from July 6-10; Frozen from July 27-31; Princess Ballerina from Aug. 3-7; and Frozen from Aug. 17-21.

Broadway Bound Camp is July 13-17. Glitz & Glam is July 20-24 and Aug. 10-14. Me and My Doll is June 29-July 13.

Park Authority and Rec-PAC

The Fairfax County Park Authority offers more than 1,400 summer day camp options at 100 locations plus the six-week theme-based summer Rec-PAC programs at nearly 50 elementary schools every summer.

Camps are held at RECenters, historic sites, lakefront parks and schools and offer a variety of camp titles. Both camps and Rec-PAC offer children a chance to have fun, build friendships and have a safe and rewarding summer experience. The Rec-PAC program runs June 29 through Aug. 6 from 8:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. daily and is open to children in Fairfax County who are rising first graders through those who finished sixth grade.

Registration begins April 27 online at www.fairfaxcounty.gov/parks/recpac. There is an $8 discount per week for those who register before June 12. Partial scholarships are available for those who qualify through free and reduced lunch program. The large summer camp program begins early June with camps for preschoolers and later in June for school age campers.

From crafts and games to high-tech and high adventure, the Park Authority has something for everyone. Many camps offer swimming at RECenters each day as well as

The Art League's Summer Art Camps

The Art League's Summer Art Camp provides children ages 5-15 a wonderful introduction to visual art. In the regular art camp, each day brings a new project that may include drawing, painting, printmaking, or sculpture. Projects vary from week to week, so campers can always come back for more. The specialty camps, like Drawing Camp or Painting Camp, focus on immersion in one particular medium.

"Inspiring young artists and helping them discover the joy of innovation is a big part of our mission. It's as rewarding for us to see what the campers create as it is for them," said Executive Director Suzanne Bethel.

SummerTimes

St. Stephen's & St. Agnes SummerTimes programs offers campers ages 3-18 an enjoyable and enriching experience with programs designed to stimulate curiosity and creativity, develop talents, and encourage exploration and personal growth. Most of the camp directors are SSSAS teachers and coaches, supported by alumni and students. Operating on three campuses with state-of-the-art facilities in the heart of Alexandria, the camp strives to inspire campers all summer long.

"At SummerTimes, your child will have the opportunity to see new sights in Washington, D.C., to expand artistic horizons in an art or filmmaking camp, learn about computer programming or jewelry making, challenge their abilities in one of our many sports camps, try their hand in TechPlay, or participate in a variety of fun activities in our traditional Day Camp. We pride ourselves on offering camps that will spark an interest in your camper, and will encourage them to create and try new things on their own in a safe and nurturing place," said Jim Supple, Director of Summer Programs.

St. Stephen's & St. Agnes summer programs run from June 15-Aug. 14, offering nine weeks with a variety of camps. With more than 145 different camp sessions to choose from, there is something for campers of every age. Visit www.summertimes.org to view camp offerings, pricing, registration procedures and more. Summer Fun for Adults

The region offers a wide range of programs for adults.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
THE CONNECTION

Summer fun is no longer reserved for children. Whether one's interests lie in exploring nature and hiking in the woods or immersed in history, art and literature on a university campus, the region abounds with warm weather opportunities.

The Osher Lifelong Learning Institute (OLLI) at George Mason University offers its members a chance to satisfy their intellectual and cultural curiosities. Want to read and discuss the "Iliad" or play Symphony No. 5 on the piano? Classes in Homer's writings or classical music are available in Fairfax, Reston and Sterling, Va. $375 gives members access to more than 400 trips, courses and clubs ranging from memoir writing to French cooking.

"This summer you can get outside with OLLI trips to the National Gallery of Art, the Hillwood Estate, Museum and Gardens, and The Franciscan Monastery," said Jennifer Disano, OLLI executive director.

From oil painting to soap making, Arlington County is offering a diverse smatter of classes for adults. "We have a smorgasbord of programs and really cool classes where you can learn about nature or go on hikes," said Susan Kalish, a spokeswoman for the county.

Potomac residents who want to distinguish an amethyst from an iolite are in luck this summer. A gemology class is among the most popular adult classes at the Potomac Community Recreation Center.

"We've got a host of different programs from tai chi, yoga and karate," said Peter Selikowitz, the center's executive director. "There's even a laughter fitness class which is a fun way to reduce stress."

For those wanting to learn how to avoid internet scams, Marymount University has teamed up with City of Falls Church to present "Living Better with the Internet." The series of five classes is designed for seniors and will be held at the Falls Church Community Center this summer. "The best news of all is that the classes are free," said Odette Shults, a spokeswoman for the University.

to a diverse offering of learning opportunities. "There is an absolute trend and evidence-based research is driving the trend," said Andrew Carle of George Mason University. "Adult activities are being reinvented. What used to be arts and crafts and now their being called wellness and enrichment and address the physical, cognitive, social and spiritual needs of adults. We're seeing people being given more choices on how to improve their lives rather than just giving them activities."

Play Unified

BY RICK JEFFREY
PRESIDENT, SPECIAL OLYMPICS VIRGINIA

In my 20-plus years in Special Olympics I still, on occasion, make the same mistake. I miss the boat. I underestimate the abilities either cognitive or physical of our Special Olympics athletes; athletes with intellectual disabilities. But by continually making this mistake, I, in essence, pretty much make them like everyone else; just another person, available to be judged and limited by what we see or what we think we see. You see, the limitations that all of us place on each other determine how we perceive each other, treat each other, like each other, fear each other, raise each other up or marginalize each other.

Ask most coaches out there and they will tell you that the biggest limitations on any student athlete are the ones coaches place upon them, among which might be too slow, not big enough or not tough enough. It might not be much different in the classroom where teachers might see a student as too lazy, too distracted or not interested. And these are just student athletes in any sport, in any classroom, at any high school in Virginia.

Now compound that with Down syndrome, autism or an undiagnosed disability resulting in a student's inability to keep up with peers. In most cases, the limitations in a school environment, an environment that moves all too fast, are enormous. And even in schools with wonderful inclusive classroom environments, the opportunity to interact and really build friendships and relationships remains limited.

These students with intellectual disabilities are, in most cases, not receiving an opportunity to really participate in sports; an activity that, at its heart, teaches teamwork, trust and communication; an activity that at its core promotes competency, credibility and caring; the building blocks of human relationships. Sports and sports teams are probably more conducive to building relationships and creating friendships than possibly any other school activity. Plus throw in the opportunity to "wear the colors" and represent your school and you create an emotional bond that may be the most inclusive opportunity for any student.

ability to play alongside his or her peers without disabilities in a Unified Sports team environment; to rely on each other, to communicate with each other, to believe in each other, to become Champions Together.

Imagine no more because Champions Together is here. In fact, it's right here in Fairfax at Robinson Secondary School and Robert E. Lee High School – and in 22 other high schools in Virginia.

This partnership with the Virginia High School League is aimed at bringing together youth with and without disabilities to build the first unified generation, a generation where youth will build upon the friendships and life lessons learned through sports and the Special Olympics movement so, later in life, they will not be afraid to live, work and THRIVE alongside their peers with different ability levels.

Champions Together high schools will form inclusive track and field teams this spring that will compete against other local high schools. Other components of the program include an inclusive student-led leadership team that will organize an awareness event to promote respect and inclusion, and promote philanthropy to support the future of the program.

AT SPECIAL OLYMPICS, we dedicate ourselves each day to building communities more respectful in their conduct, more inclusive in their makeup, more unified in their fabric. And each day the Virginia High School League is promoting education, leadership, sportsmanship, character and citizenship for students by establishing and maintaining high standards for school activities and competitions.

A new, young, energetic base of athletes and volunteers, which could include the sons or daughters of many reading this op-ed piece, will eventually transition from the schools into our communities and help Special Olympics Virginia and the Virginia High School League continue to achieve our missions.

The Champions Together program is new, and as it develops, we will learn a lot about how to build it, refine it and make it the best that it can be for everyone. And do you know who we will learn this from? We will learn it from our young people with and without disabilities who, through their participation and their ownership of this inclusive program, will prove to us that they are the future.

Let's Play Unified!

Rick Jeffrey has been the President of Special Olympics Virginia since 2000. He has served on many national and international committees for Special Olympics, and is currently serving on the United States Leadership Council where he is chair of the Sports Committee.

Winners of Awards in the 2014 Virginia Press Association and Maryland-Delaware-D.C. Press Association Editorial Contests

First Place Winners

Steven G. Artley, Alexandria Gazette Packet – Editorial Cartoon. Judge's comments: Smart and insightful.

Bonnie Hobbs, Centre View – Feature Series or Continuing Story. Judge's comments: Clear and concise writing with a good flow. Journalist captured the emotion of the event and engaged the reader well.

Michael Lee Pope, Mount Vernon Gazette – Business and Financial Writing. Judge's comments: First-rate, data-driven reporting and analysis on important issues. Fine work.

Michael Lee Pope, McLean Connection – Health, Science and Environmental Writing. Judge's comments: Michael Lee Pope's stories on driving habits, cesarean deliveries and the Affordable Care Act are well-researched, clearly written and engaging. His use of real-live people high up in his stories to illustrate his findings makes for very compelling material. He seems quite capable of turning some of these topics into a book. If he does, I'll read it.

Jon Roetman, Vienna/Oakton Connection – Sports Writing Portfolio. Judge's comments: Strong and clear writing and excellent storytelling helps game stories feel more like features. Excellent work.

Victoria Ross, Oak Hill/Herndon Connection – Government Writing. Judge's comments: An engaging look at a lobbyist who fights for the little guy; an entertaining story on a political candidate, helping readers put the upcoming election into context; one of the better budgeting stories I've seen lately that helps readers understand how the county's budgeting process is going to cost them more money. The supporting sidebars help bring the message home.

Jeanne Theismann, Alexandria Gazette Packet – Personal Service Writing, Obituaries. Judge's comments: These stories provide a glimpse inside the lives of people who have played significant roles in their communities. The writing is engaging and well-researched. And the stories serve as an example to others of how to live a life of purpose.

Jeanne Theismann, Alexandria Gazette Packet – Column Writing, Entertainment. Judge's comments: Ms. Theismann's entertainment columns demonstrate a breadth of knowledge that gives her opinions a ring of authority and authenticity.
