Voting for Better Schools

Talking with voters at Vienna Elementary.

BY MARISSA BEALE
THE CONNECTION

Vienna residents cast their ballots at Vienna Elementary School on Election Day on Tuesday, Nov. 3. The Public Safety Facilities Bonds and Public School Bonds were both presented on the referendum. If voted in favor, the Public Safety Facilities Bonds would allow the Fairfax County Government to issue bonds in the maximum amount of $151,000,000 to fund construction, reconstruction, improvement and acquisition of public safety facilities. The Public Schools Bonds, if voted in favor, would allow the County government to issue bonds in the maximum amount of $310,000,000 for planned improvements to the County's public schools. These plans would include constructing new schools, new plan and design projects, renovations and other needs.

"Some think no bonds mean lower taxes, but that's not true," said Dan Press, who was a volunteer at the polls on Tuesday. "But the bigger issue is control of the Virginia senate and school board. Better schools mean better property values."

The state of public schools in the County was a topic of concern among several voters.

"Funding for schools needs to increase, especially teacher pay," said Vienna resident Heidi Thomas. "If schools are not funded, they are not going to improve and property values are going to go down." Another voter cited information being taught in the classroom as an issue of concern.

"Some Republicans are against teaching evolution in schools. I have no kids of my own, but it's important for children to receive a well-rounded education," said Vienna resident Stephen Sickels.

This election drew a smaller crowd, with no anticipation of long lines.

"The overall county voter turnout for this election is projected to be around 30 percent," said Karen Akers, chief election officer at the Vienna Elementary School polls.

VIEWPOINTS

What were the most important issues for you in this year's election?

Heidi Thomas, attorney:

"The most important issues are school funding and teacher needs. The pay, especially, needs to increase. I think that if schools aren't funded they're not going to improve and property values will decrease."

Sharon Kiernan, physician:

"The most important issues are transportation, so that we have adequate ability to get around the congested area. The second is education, and the third is a reasonable approach to gun safety."

Beth Glicker, nurse:

"I'd like to see the State approve Medicaid expansion. It's not on this year's ballot, but it's important."

Stephen Sickels, program manager and software developer:

"The most important issue I'm concerned about is the school board. I voted democratic. Some republicans were against teaching evolution in schools. I have no kids of my own but it's important for children to receive a well-rounded education."

Richard McCarty, political researcher:

"The important issues are taxes, roads and education. I'm voting for Bryan Wolfe for Sheriff. He warned that deputies need to be warned how to deal with mentally ill people. Stacey Kincaid doesn't get it. I don't understand why democrats would reelect her."

—MARISSA BEALE

Dan Press, attorney:

"Bond issues are important to the County to continue building infrastructure. With the growing population and aging infrastructure it's important to improve public safety facilities. By doing bonds, it allows the County to spread out the cost over several years. The County's got good bond rating, so the interest rate is pretty low. It's all about maintaining jobs and quality of life."

Champions of Character

Lila Roades, Female Athlete, Vienna Youth Soccer

Lila is an active athlete in Vienna. She has played soccer and basketball since she was in kindergarten and she is currently on the James Madison High School team for each of those sports. While playing for the high school and local travel teams, Lila maintains an A average in her academic classes. She is a certified Red Cross Babysitter and she is trusted in her neighborhood as a valuable evening resource. Lila has a dear friend with epilepsy and she has raised thousands of dollars for the National Epilepsy Foundation, in support of research, to help find a cure. She also raises money each year for the Heifer Foundation. The foundation sends livestock to developing countries, which then empowers those families to rise above. Aside from the charity work, the successful career as a student athlete and the community outreach, Lila somehow finds the time to coach a young girls team for Vienna Youth Soccer. The girls look up to Coach Lila as a strong female role model and they hang on her every word.

Jelani Murray, Male Athlete, Marshall High School

Jelani Murray is one of the strongest student athletes, both academically and athletically, to attend Marshall High School in many years. This young man leads by example. His teammates and peers follow him because of his mature attitude and stunning work ethic. Multiple faculty members have commented that Jelani is the "most mature and hardworking student athlete" they have ever coached or been around.

In the classroom, Jelani carries an IB workload and maintains a 4.015 grade point average. He finds time for work in his community. He has volunteered to work many hours at high school summer camps. He also volunteers to work at various fundraisers, including Christmas tree and mulch sales. His basketball coach at Marshall made the following comments: "He is unselfish in

After being rescheduled due to the rain, the Town of Vienna held its 69th Annual Halloween Parade down Maple Avenue on Thursday, Oct. 29. his personal relationships and he possesses the innate ability to empathize with others. I believe Jelani will be successful in any area that he chooses to pursue in life. I cannot think of a better candidate to represent our program, our school and our community as a Champion of Character”.

Katie DiFrancisco, Female Athlete, Vienna Girls Softball League

Katie is a positive role model, not only for her teammates, but also for players on opposing teams. Katie attends every practice and game with a smile on her face. As a pitcher, she is happy to strike batters out, but she is also thrilled when they get a hit. When she plays first base, she makes sure to congratulate opposing hitters who get hits and reach base safely. She does this all while making great plays in the field.

She is a member of the James Madison High School field hockey and softball teams. She also plays basketball for VYI, softball for VGSL and field hockey for Beyond Sticks.

As a student, she takes a full honors curriculum. She is involved in the Girl Scouts of America. She is active in Young Life. She is a member of Virginia Girls Summit, a program which empowers girls to achieve their goals. Katie was even an international finalist in the Council of Education Facility Planners International, Green School of the Future design competition.

Margaret Kerfoot, Parent, Marshall High School pyramid/Vienna Youth Soccer

As the president of Vienna Youth Soccer Margaret worked tirelessly with VYI and Marshall High School administration to coordinate both school and community needs. When Margaret’s oldest son went to Marshall, she jumped right into a volunteer role as a member of the Booster Board. She quickly became Vice President, and for the last four years she has served as the president. She is quick to volunteer whenever the need presents itself. Before her service at Marshall, Margaret was also the PTA president at Freedom Hill Elementary School for two years. She then served as the PTA president at Kilmer Middle School. Her peers describe her as an amazing leader and role model. Her commitment to Marshall has also made the jobs and lives of school administration much easier. They are very grateful for her service and her assistance. All of her work, along with her Booster Board, has transformed the Marshall High School athletics program. In the past two seasons alone, Marshall has achieved 18 conference championships, including six in two days this past spring. Margaret Kerfoot embodies the precise definition of a Champion of Character. The Champions of Character awards program honors youth, coaches and parents for extraordinary service in pursuing victory with honor.

Real Solutions for Real Problems on Roads

The truth behind I-66 inside the Beltway.

BY AUBREY LAYNE

SECRETARY OF TRANSPORTATION FOR THE COMMONWEALTH OF VIRGINIA

Virginians deserve a healthy public discussion about how best to improve our transportation system. But that discussion must also be grounded in fact, not political rhetoric. Unfortunately, the leadership of the House Republican Caucus is engaged in a campaign of misleading and flatly incorrect information on the McAuliffe administration's proposal to improve I-66 inside the Beltway. So in the interest of good public policy, here are the facts.

- ❖ Fact 1: Despite unfounded claims to the contrary, dynamic tolling on I-66 will reduce congestion.

In 2013 the McDonnell Administration released a study on reducing traffic congestion in the I-66 corridor. It was the third such study in 15 years.

The study stated that dynamic tolling and multi-modal improvements could move 40,000 more people a day through the I-66 corridor, which is equivalent to 10 additional interstate lanes in the morning and another 10 in the evening. The proposal would increase travel speeds from today's low of 5 miles per hour to a more reliable pace of 45 miles per hour or

What are you most looking forward to in the upcoming year? What is one thing that you would change about school? What do you want to be when you grow up? What is your favorite animal? What is your favorite toy? What makes a good parent? What makes a good friend? What is the best or worst thing that ever happened to you? What is the best gift you've ever given? Ever received?

The tangible congestion alleviation benefits this proposal will generate have led the Fairfax and Loudoun County Chambers of Commerce to express support for the proposed improvements. We are working collaboratively with Fairfax, Arlington and Falls Church on the proposed project. Just recently the Washington Metropolitan Council of Governments' Transportation Planning Board approved adding this project to the region's Constrained Long Range Plan.

- ❖ Fact 2: The McAuliffe administration's proposed changes will only add more choices for I-66 commuters without impacting current HOV commuters.

If you currently carpool through the corridor, you will ride free as you always have. If you are a solo driver who used to have to exit I-66 and take secondary roads to and from work, you will now have the option to pay a toll and remain on I-66 all the way into the city. Despite the disinformation political opponents are disseminating, tolling would only be in effect during peak hours, and this proposal offers more drivers the option of a fast and reliable trip without impacting current HOV commuters.

- ❖ Fact 3: Travel times on parallel routes will either improve or stay the same.

Studies show dynamic tolling will manage traffic more efficiently on I-66 inside the Beltway and parallel roads. In fact, this proposal will reduce traffic on parallel routes heading to D.C. in the morning, by offering more solo drivers the choice of paying a toll and staying on I-66.

VDOT has conducted a detailed analysis that shows no impacts on parallel routes, meaning that drivers who take Route 50 can expect roughly the same travel times in 2017 as they can today.

- ❖ Fact 4: Toll revenues will be used to help move even more people through the corridor.

Studies reveal that dynamic tolling itself is a mechanism for managing congestion and reducing travel times – and every cent from that tolling on I-66 will be used to even further reduce congestion in that corridor. This is a self-financing project and will not take funding away from other transportation improvements.

Again, contrary to what House Republicans have conjured, it would be against the law to use those revenues for bike paths in the woods or road improvements in other parts of Northern Virginia or the state.

Since the state will own and operate the facility and collect tolls, excess revenues will not go to the profit of large corporations. All monies will directly benefit the corridor to enhance motorist through-put.

- ❖ Fact 5: Widening I-66 inside the Beltway will take place – if necessary.

It is the Secretary of Transportation's job to ensure that transportation funds are spent wisely. In the case of I-66, that means implementing the most cost-effective solutions first, before we consider spending over $100 mil lion to perform even a limited widening of I-66.

Real Solutions

The Governor's proposals for I-66 will better manage traffic flow at a fraction of the cost of widening the road. We owe it to taxpayers to exhaust low-cost solutions, but, if after 5 years, vehicles are not traveling at free flow on I-66 during rush hour, then toll revenues will be used to widen the road.

COMMENTARY

❖ Fact 6: Doing nothing is not an option.

Opponents of the Governor's proposal for I-66 have a host of complaints. What they have yet to put forward are facts to back those claims, or real ideas for moving Virginians through the I-66 corridor more quickly. I am confident that this plan meets the transportation and political realities of this corridor – and that allowing campaign gamesmanship to block progress is not an option.

Local fitness experts suggest a training plan that will get you off the couch in time for Turkey Day.

When many of us are still in bed early Thanksgiving morning, Susan Colarco will be lacing up her shoes, joining a group of friends and getting ready to hit the road for the Arlington Turkey Trot as she has done for many years past.

"I've run this race more times than I can count and it's always a great time," said Colarco, a Road Runners Club of America tance and intensity vary based on the experience and fitness level of the runner, the goal they are aiming for and any injuries they may be working through."

Colarco tailors her training regiment to the environment of the chosen race. "For example, if it's a hilly race, we'll definitely work some hills into the training plan," she said. "If it's a trail race, we'll leave the nice paved running routes behind and head off road."

"Up your training distance each week, but do it in small amounts," said Steel. "A new runner should aim for three to five days per week of training," he said.

Creating a realistic training schedule that works in harmony with one's daily schedule is the key to becoming race-ready on Turkey Day, says Colarco. "I really try to take into account the fact that most of the runners in this area are working professionals with a lot on their plates. I work with my clients to determine not just what they should be doing, but realistically, what they can do given the stresses of everyday life."

Diet, both on the day of the race and the days and weeks leading to it, is an often-overlooked component of race training. "Eat a high-energy meal about an hour before the race," said Steel.

"Eating within an hour can lead to upset stomach. ... You may need to increase your calories, but don't go crazy. If you are eating natural foods, free of artificial fats, added sugars and other chemicals, your body will respond in an amazing way."

Protecting against injuries that can be sustained from the unrelenting pounding of the pavement, is another important, but often overlooked part of running. "You get an average of about 4,500 blows to your joints over the course of a 5K," said Christian Elliot, a personal trainer and founder of True Health and Wholeness. "Strength training helps your body handle the blows, and there's no works well."

"It has been proven that runners who do strength training have fewer knee injuries," added Chance Heare, of Koko FitClub in Herndon, Reston and Great Falls. "Strength training builds the stabilization muscles to support the joints and runners who strength train tend to get fewer injuries and have better endurance."

The most common injuries associated running are ankle and knee sprains, shin splints, stress fractures, runner's knee and plantar fasciitis. "Sprains and blisters are very common during races," said Steel.

Running shoes play an important part of injury prevention, but "by itself can't prevent all injuries," said Nelson Cortes, Ph.D., an associate professor in the Sports Medicine Assessment, Research & Testing Laboratory at George Mason University in Fairfax.

"Everyone has different foot and lower body morphology and it's important that running shoes are appropriate."

In addition, a daily full-body stretching routine "will help with injury prevention and performance," said Steel. "You'll be surprised how much better you feel in general after doing this for about a week or two."

"Get outside, do something in the community and stay active to counter the cold weather and extra helpings of mashed potatoes."

downside to having strong muscles."

Weight training exercises for the legs should be done two to three days per week, advises Steel. "You can hit the weights at the gym, do Pilates or use body weight, whatever you enjoy. Focus on light to medium resistance with higher repetitions to build muscle endurance; 12 to 15 repetitions, two to three sets for each exercise ity to get outside, do something in the community and stay active to counter the cold weather and extra helpings of mashed potatoes," said Colarco, who also works as a coach for True Health and Wholeness in Arlington.

While Colarco and her running mates train year-round, there's still time to get in shape and choose a turkey trot this year. "Many competitive and enthusiast runners start with 3 or 5K races," said Richard L. Steele, assistant dean of physical education at Northern Virginia Community College in Alexandria. "I tell most people to pick race that is conveniently located ... or has special meaning to them personally, [like] a charity."

Preparing for a turkey trot usually consists of dietary retooling, aerobic exercise and strength training.

"Typically, the folks I work with run between three and five times a week with some weight training and ... cross-training worked into the schedule," said Colarco. "The dis-

McArthur Leads McLean Volleyball to Regional Berth

Highlanders looking for first conference/district title since 2001.

BY JON ROETMAN
THE CONNECTION

The McLean volleyball program hasn't won a district/conference title since 2001.

This year's team won 20 matches during the regular season and earned the No. 2 seed in the Conference 6 tournament, giving the Highlanders hope of ending their lengthy championship drought.

Oh, and they have Maddie McArthur, as well.

The sophomore sensation tallied 23 kills on Monday night as No. 2 McLean defeated No. 7 Washington-Lee 3-0 (25-17, 25-22, 25-20) in the Conference 6 tournament quarterfinals at McLean High School. The Highlanders advanced to the semifinals, where they faced No. 3 Madison on Tuesday, after The Connection's deadline. McLean also earned a berth in the 6A North region tournament for the first time in Bill Musgrove's three seasons as head coach.

McArthur took control early, totaling 12 kills in the opening set. After W-L cut the McLean lead to 20-16, the Highlanders scored five of the final six points, including a pair of kills from McArthur.

"That makes life easy," Musgrove said.

kill of the evening finished off a pesky W-L team in the second set, 25-22.

What makes McArthur such a dangerous hitter?

"I think just the explosiveness," Musgrove said. "She hits the ball as hard as anyone I've ever coached and she's still just a sophomore. She jumps out of the gym for someone her height."

McArthur had three kills in the final set, including two after W-L had cut the McLean lead to 21-17.

"She's awesome," senior Sarah Park said. "I'm so happy. She was on the team as a freshman last year and just seeing her grow, even more through club season than this season, is amazing."

Karen Shedlock and Leona Ng each had five kills for McLean and Josephine Oakley had four kills and three aces.

McLean entered the regular-season finale against rival Langley with a chance to earn the No. 1 seed in the conference tournament, but suffered a three-set loss to the Saxons, who went undefeated during conference play. If the Highlanders can get past Madison, the defending state runner-up, they could again face Langley in Thursday's championship match at Washington-Lee High School in Arlington.

"I think that we didn't play our best volleyball against Langley," Musgrove said. "We know that. We'd like another shot at them. We're going to be playing Madison, probably, [on Tuesday], so I'm sure they're thinking they'd like another shot at us."

What would it mean for the Highlanders to break their championship drought?

"It would mean the world," McArthur said. "I would be so happy."

She wouldn't be the only one.

"I would probably cry for weeks," Park said, "... tears of joy running down my cheeks."

Crossing Guard Retires After 39 Years

At the age of 75 Peggy Maines passes the crossing guard torch.

BY CAROLINE BURR
THE CONNECTION

After 39 loving, friendly years as a Fairfax County crossing guard, Peggy Maines of Vienna is to retire. In her many years, Maines has worked at various crossings in Vienna and currently works the busy traffic morning and afternoon hours at Vienna Elementary and Thoreau Middle School. Friend and fellow crossing guard of 27 years Cathy Stride said, "She will really be missed by a lot of people."

When asked about her life as a crossing guard, Maines was convinced her story would not be an interesting one. "I don't think this will make a great story," Maines said many times, "I'm only someone who loves her job." Set to retire on Nov. 6 at the age of 75, Maines will pass on the crossing guard torch. Maines said, "I have been very fortunate to have had this job and I am going to miss it... But it's time for these young people to take over and have the opportunity to be as fortunate as I." Despite suffering from many injuries and illnesses unrelated to her job during her 39 years, Maines continued to work. "The average person would have retired," Cathy Stride said. Peggy Maines did no such thing. She wanted to get back to her schools to see her favorite familiar faces. "She wanted to get back to 'her kids' as soon as possible," Stride said.

When Maines started working as a Fairfax County crossing guard, she expected to only stay for a few years until her three-year-old graduated from elementary school. "Now look at me," she said, "39 years later." Maines said that crossing was the perfect job for being a mother of six – as she could keep her kids close and ensure the safety of her own children and others. "This is the best job I could have ever had...it couldn't have been cut out for anybody but me. I have been very fortunate and am going to miss it all," she said. "It's the best job I've ever had and I've loved every bit of what I've done," she added. When she started crossing at Gallows road 39 years ago, Maines remembers how it used to be only a two-lane road.

Coworkers and friends Cathy Stride and Edie Adcock call Maines "the Ever-Ready Bunny." They said, "It's because she keeps going and going and going." Maines remembers many of the kids she crossed every day many years ago. "Some come back and say, 'Do you remember me?' and it's just sort of unreal to think these kids are married now with their own kids," said Maines.

Eleanor, 5 1/2, and Arthur, 2 1/2, Meren, of Vienna, make a beeline for the train layout demonstration at the Vienna Train Show on Saturday, Oct. 31.

Toy train enthusiasts look for parts and trains to add to their collections.

Trains Bring the Young and Young-at-Heart to Vienna

Vendors and demos delight toy train enthusiasts.

BY ABIGAIL CONSTANTINO
THE CONNECTION

“When I was kid I devoured the catalogs. I used to sneak the train catalogs around Christmas time in between the school books and when we had a study group, I would open up the book and then I had the catalog inside so I could go through all the stuff that I would have liked to have had but unfortunately you couldn’t afford it. Or, dad couldn’t. But we grew up with trains, my brother and I, we had a lay out at home that we set up every Christmas, and I’ve got the same table and the same place,” said Philip Graves, of McLean. Graves is now in his 80s, living in the house he grew up in after years of living in Vienna Woods.

That is how it all started for a lot of people at the Vienna Train Show, sponsored by the WB and A Chapter of Train Collector’s Association, held, for the third year at the Vienna Volunteer Fire Department, on Saturday, Oct. 31.

Thirteen-year old, Flint Hill School students Adin Turetsky and Cadence Senate became friends because of toy trains. Turetsky saw Senate wearing a train shirt and discovered a fellow toy train aficionado. Turetsky and Senate both received train sets from their grandfathers, which started their interest in toy trains. They have been into trains for more than 10 years.

In their makers education class at Flint Hill School, they worked on finding a different way to power model trains. They came up with a pedal-powered train, which they demonstrated during the show. They also had a full train layout, attracting the attention of young attendees.

The train layout at the Vienna Train Show on Saturday, Oct. 31 fascinates Tyler McCarty, 4 1/2, of Vienna.

The toy train layout by Adin Turetsky, 13, of Falls Church, and Cadence Senate, 13, of Fairfax, is one of the main attractions of the Vienna Train Show.

Adin Turetsky, 13, demonstrates a pedal-powered toy train during the Vienna Train Show on Saturday, Oct. 31.

The young-at-heart, on the other hand, searched for parts and sets to add to their collections from the tables of toy train vendors, like Jerry Olexson, Robbie Schroeder, Russell Youens of Tiny Tim’s Toys and Trains in Ashland, Va. and Dan Danielson of Toy Trains and Collectibles in Manassas. Some also consulted with train doctor Allen Crotts, of Al’s Toy Train Service in Falls Church.

Author and WB and A member Bruce Greenberg said that toy trains create a “positive world of creative experiences.” He said that the world created around toy trains—the houses, people, cars, trees—leads to explorations about how things work. “How does a motor work? How does a motor make the wheels go round? There are many engineers that started with these questions,” he said.

Collectors and enthusiasts look to the next generation to pass on their passion for toy trains. Olexson’s and Greenberg’s grandsons have caught the bug. As with Turetsky and Senate, toy train collecting continues to attract the young. “We have a few. We’d love to have more. We welcome them. It’s a great experience for children,” said Greenberg.

A good starter set, according to Danielson, is the Pennsylvania Flyer by Lionel, which retails for about $269. “It’s a steam engine. It’s got headlights. It smokes. It’s got a bell whistle and it makes a chugging sound.”
