Members from more than a dozen Great Falls organizations, including Great Falls Citizens Association, are spearheading an effort to make the Great Falls Grange the center of the community, as founding Great Falls farmers envisioned almost a century ago.

Future of Brooks Farm, Jan. 21

Fairfax County Planning Commission staff published its report to recommend approval of the rezoning of Brooks Farm on New Year’s Eve.

The planning commission has scheduled a public hearing on Brooks Farm development for Jan. 21.

Great Falls Citizens Association has scheduled a Jan. 19 meeting at Great Falls Elementary School that will include a presentation by the applicant on revisions to their proposal. County staff from the Fairfax County Department of Zoning Evaluation and Health Department will also present their findings and be on hand to answer questions.

“Staff finds that the application is consistent with the recommendations of the Comprehensive Plan and conform to the requirements of the Zoning Ordinance,” according to Planning Commission staff documents.

Brooks Farm is a 51.97-acre site off Springvale Road, located between Springvale Road and Walker Road and north of Parkerhouse Drive and south of Walker Lake Drive. The applicant, Basheer/Edgemoore-Brooks, requests rezoning from the R-A (Residential-Agriculture) and R-E (Residential Estates) zoning districts to the R-E zoning district to permit a cluster subdivision of 20 single family detached dwelling units.

When first proposed, 1,400 Great Falls residents signed a petition to oppose the rezoning of Brooks Farm, which some call the heart of Great Falls.

The potential developer tried to compromise, eliminating three houses from 23 in their cluster development proposal. But Great Falls Citizens Association voted in May for a resolution to oppose rezoning and cluster development of Brooks Farm.

“The GFCA believes the property should be developed as a five-acre subdivision, perhaps in the Residential-Conservation “RC” Zoning Category,” according to the resolution.

“Let me be as blunt as I can be,” said attorney Gregory A. Riegle, of McGuire Woods who represents Basheer/Edgemoore-Brooks, LLC at a meeting with GFCA. “We would not be able to meet the expectation of the landowner with five acre lots. There is an economic value to this that we have to balance.”

According to the Planning Commission’s report on the proposed rezoning, 41 percent of the site will be designated as open space.

The county’s Planning Commission is scheduled to hold a public hearing on a redevelopment proposal for Brooks Farm, a 52-acre site off Springvale Road on Jan. 21. GFCA is scheduled to hold a meeting on Jan. 19 to hear the developer’s changes to its plan. Members of Great Falls Citizens Association line up on May 12, 2015 to vote on the proposal to develop Brooks Farm.

Pumping and treatment of the Exxon cleanup will continue this year. A drive-through TD Bank will eventually replace the former station on Georgetown Pike. See www.gfca.org.

Grand Grange Vision

Representatives from a dozen or so Great Falls organizations, coordinated by Jorge Murphy, have met monthly since October to plan making the Great Falls Grange the centerpiece of the community, as founding Great Falls farmers envisioned almost a century ago.

“It’s gone through ups and downs, but through all its history it has always been the center of the community. It can become that again,” said Phil Pifer, of the Great Falls Citizens Association.

“The potential is extraordinary,” said Adeler. “The possible activities for community use, for youth, senior citizens, adults, artists, musicians, nonprofits and the entire community are endless.”

The Great Falls Grange was the first grange hall built in Virginia and one of five granges built in Fairfax County, said Kathleen Murphy, president of the Great Falls Historical Society.

Last March, the community celebrated renovations to the 1929 Great Falls Grange Hall building that made it accessible to all.

“Far too long, it was not accessible to our residents with disabilities and to our senior citizens,” said Supervisor John Foust, who helped secure $350,000 for the $503,000 project from County carry-over funds in 2013. The Fairfax County Park Authority funded the balance.

“A really impressive group of community organizations got together and signed a letter to me basically asking for more access to these facilities,” Foust said. “The proposal was that I would get the Grange made ADA accessible and they would come forward with a proposal that community groups would take responsibility for these two buildings.”

“If the community groups come together the way I think they might and the way it was initially proposed, I see something more grand here.”

Talk to the General Assembly

The Fairfax County delegation to the Virginia General Assembly will hold a hearing for public comment on the upcoming 2016 session on Saturday, Jan. 9, 2016 beginning at 9 a.m. at the Fairfax County Government Center, 12000 Government Center Parkway, Fairfax.

The Virginia General Assembly will meet for 60 days in Richmond beginning Jan. 12.

Residents who want to sign up in advance to speak at the hearing should contact the Office of the Clerk to the Board of Supervisors at 703-324-3151, TTY 711, by noon on Friday, Jan. 8.

Two Town Hall Meetings

Del. Kathleen Murphy is hosting a Great Falls Town Hall on Saturday, Jan. 9 from 1:30-3 p.m. at Great Falls Library, 9830 Georgetown Pike.

Murphy is hosting a Mclean Town Hall with McLean and North Arlington General Assembly Delegation at the McLean Community Center, 1234 Ingleside Ave, McLean, on Saturday, Jan. 16, from 1:30 to 3 p.m.

Exxon Cleanup Continues

The Exxon cleanup in Great Falls continues. Despite ongoing efforts to remove the Methyl Tertiary Butyl Ether (MTBE) from the groundwater as a result of the leak from the former Exxon Station at 9901 Georgetown Pike, concentrations of the chemical remain more than 10 times the target level at least one spot.

Approximately 256 pounds of MTBE have been removed since pumping and treatment began in August 2014, according to the Great Falls Citizens Association.

“We will keep being vigilant until the problem goes away,” said Glen Sjoblom, chair of the Great Falls Citizens Association’s special committee on groundwater contamination.

Route 7 Widening

Throughout January, teams from the Virginia Department of Transportation will meet with Amberwoods, Bradley Oaks, Lockmeade, Locust Hill homeowners and Shouse Village homeowners association as well as the Towlston Meadow Community Association about plans to widen Route 7.

VDOT hopes for approval of the design from the Virginia Commonwealth Transportation Board in the summer of 2016.

Safety accessing the road remains a major concern to neighborhoods along Route 7 corridor. See www.ConnectRoute7.org.

Mental Health, Not Jail?

The county began its new Merrifield Crisis Response Center, a key component of the county’s Diversion First initiative, on Jan. 1.

A sheriff’s deputy and a police officer will be stationed in CSB Emergency Services, the Merrifield Crisis Response Center, every day from 11:30 a.m. until midnight starting on New Year’s Day.

Their primary duty will be to accept custody of individuals brought in to the crisis response center by other police officers and sheriff deputies who have detained an individual for a nonviolent offense but may need mental health treatment rather than incarceration, according to county documents.

This is designed to balance providing appropriate assessment and care for individuals in crisis while allowing those other officers and deputies to go back into service for other duties more quickly.

Interagency and community teams have made progress in developing components of the Diversion First initiative, designed to reduce the number of people with mental illness in local jails by diverting non-violent offenders experiencing mental health crises to treatment instead of incarceration.

Some of the components of Diversion First have already begun, including Crisis Intervention Team training for police officers and sheriff deputies and Mental Health First Aid training for other county first responders.

Presidential Primaries

The Democratic and Republican Presidential Primary Election Day is scheduled for Tuesday, March 1.

To participate in the primary, voters must be registered by Monday, Feb. 8.

The Virginia State Board of Elections (SBE) determined by random drawing the order that candidates’ names will appear on the ballots for the upcoming presidential election.

On Dec. 11, 2015, the Democratic Party of Virginia certified that the following three candidates qualified to appear on the 2016 Democratic Presidential Primary ballot. The names will appear on the 2016 Democratic Presidential Primary ballot as:

❖ Hillary Clinton
❖ Martin O’Malley
❖ Bernie Sanders

On Dec. 15, 2015, the Republican Party of Virginia certified that the following 13 candidates qualified to appear on the 2016 Republican Presidential Primary ballot. The names will appear on the 2016 Republican Presidential Primary ballot as:

❖ Marco Rubio
❖ Lindsey Graham
❖ Ben Carson
❖ Rand Paul
❖ Mike Huckabee
❖ Ted Cruz
❖ Donald Trump
❖ Jim Gilmore
❖ Chris Christie
❖ Jeb Bush
❖ Rick Santorum
❖ John Kasich
❖ Carly Fiorina

Absentee voting by mail, fax or e-mail is due by Feb. 23. Voting in person but by an absentee ballot can be done by Feb. 27. See elections.virginia.gov.

Congressional Race

U.S. Rep. Barbara Comstock (R-10) is serving her first term in Congress, elected following the retirement of long-time Congresswoman Frank Wolf.

Comstock is up for reelection in November, and will face Democrat LuAnn Bennett, who describes herself as a small business owner and working mother who has lived in Northern Virginia for more than 30 years. Virginia Congressional District 10 includes McLean, Great Falls, Herndon, Chantilly, Chantilly and some other parts of Fairfax County.

Noise Ordinance

The Board of Supervisors is at peace with the county’s new Noise Ordinance.

“Believe it or not, that passes,” said Board of Supervisors Chairman Sharon Bulova at the Nov. 17, 2015 meeting of the Board of Supervisors. The new ordinance becomes effective on Feb. 17.

The Board directed staff to monitor the effectiveness and impact of the new Noise Ordinance for an 18-month period after its enactment.

Some groups advocated for stronger enforcement and stronger details in the legislation, especially in neighborhoods close to county schools and parks. The school system has pledged to ensure that there will be specific technology on loudspeakers at schools to stay within new county code.

The Board delayed the effective date of implementation of the new ordinance to February in order to provide time for staff training, to update county websites, and to assist staff in understanding the new regulations, according to county documents.

The overall goal of the Noise Ordinance is to recognize that there will always be certain levels of noise that occur in the normal course of daily living; to allow certain levels of daytime noise so that people can live, work and play during the day; and to minimize noise at night so residents have an appropriate quiet environment in their homes at night. Cedars Luncheons for Great Falls Seniors End After 55 Years

By Coty Dickson

Dec. 15 marked the end of an important era for Great Falls seniors. The celebrated and highly-touted monthly luncheon get-together, Cedars, convened for the last time at the Great Falls Methodist Church.

Known for its delicious food, interesting presentations and relatively small fee, Cedars was a mainstay with 55 and over residents in Great Falls. While located and largely supported by the Great Falls United Methodist Church, it had support from other churches in the Great Falls Area Ministries including Christ the King Lutheran Church and St. Catherine’s Catholic Church.

The luncheon was established in the early 1960s based on a biblical reference coupled with the preponderance of cedar trees in the area at the time. It began with 60-80 participants meeting once a month for card games at 10 a.m., followed by a presentation at 11 a.m. with historical, musical or artistic relevance. The luncheon started at noon. For five dollars, seniors were treated to a complete sit-down meal with table service on china tableware. The luncheon always included a soup or salad, an entrée with two vegetables, melt-in-your-mouth hot rolls, dessert and tea or coffee.

For the past thirty years, the major planner, coordinator and chef of the entire luncheon operation has been Dorothy Harsher.

Under her stewardship, turkey dinners were always served in November, roast beef dinners with the Southern dessert, coconut cake, were always served in December. Valentine’s Day meant special desserts while St. Patrick’s Day in March always included a menu with Irish stew and corned beef and cabbage. Martha Sullivan would drive from Berryville, Va. to make the warm, fresh rolls. Her duties were later taken over by Betty Brienza.

In more recent years, the game portion of Cedars was dropped and the presentations that began at 11 a.m. became a major attraction. Whether it was Robert “Mitch” Mitchell playing Christmas carols on the piano in December or a presentation bringing history alive with the story of Rosie the Riveter in November, the audience was always thoroughly entertained.

Participation had fallen off in the past year due to the aging population and the addition of new more vibrant organizations in the community. While it was a wonderful outreach program, a decision was reached that it was no longer a viable operation.

While many seniors will miss the delicious lunches and fascinating entertainment, the fellowship, camaraderie and friendships established by Cedars will be missed the most.

Veterinary Clinic, Seneca Hill Animal Hospital to Merge

Mission: first-class pet care in Great Falls.

By Nikki Cheshire
The Connection

The Georgetown Pike Veterinary Clinic is a familiar sight tucked comfortably in the Village, but next month the operation is seeing big changes. Come Feb. 1, the clinic will be merging with Seneca Hill Animal Hospital and relocating to Seneca’s facility down the road.

After more than 30 years, there’s reason for the change.

“It’s timing, for one thing,” said Dr. Randy Custer, owner and veterinarian at the Georgetown Pike Veterinary Clinic. “We’re outgrowing our space here, and this is a good opportunity to join a group down the road that’s like-minded as far as our philosophy in medicine is concerned.”

Custer said his clients and their pets will benefit from the larger updated space at Seneca Hill.

“Great Falls itself has grown up. It still maintains a small-town flavor, but it’s not the small town that it was 20 years ago,” Dr. Custer said. “The clientele is very sophisticated and interested in getting the best care for their pets. We’ve always tried to provide that, and will continue to do so.”

Both Dr. Custer and John Homan, COO of Seneca Hill Veterinary Company, expect the transition to go smoothly. “We’re very like-minded, we practice the same medicine and approach to pet care,” Homan said.

They don’t anticipate a hiatus in service during the move; the clinic in Great Falls will close during the last weekend in January, and business will resume at Seneca Hill on Monday, Feb. 1 as usual.

The rest of the veterinary staff at Georgetown Pike Veterinary Clinic is moving along with Dr. Custer. “It’s a change in the home, not the family,” said Homan.

“We’re excited beyond belief,” said Marty Veron of Seneca Hill. “Seneca Hill is a family operation, and we intend to keep it that way. Dr. Custer is just moving his family over to us.”

Seneca Hill Animal Hospital is located at 11415 Georgetown Pike.
A Workable Solution for I-66

BY DAVE MARSDEN
STATE SENATOR (D-37)

T here was a great deal of concern about “$17 tolls” inside the beltway on I-66 during the recent election. I shared those concerns as I did not want to set a prece- dent of tolling a road that we were not adding infrastructure to. As you know solo drivers cannot use I-66 during rush hour and must wait until 9 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. to access the road depending on the direction of travel. While I still have concerns over the tolls, the agreement between the Commonwealth and the Northern Virginia Transportation Commission provides new insight on how this project will work.

I feel better about the tolling as the average toll will cost $6 and part of the revenue collected will be spent on multimodal (transit) solutions to improve traffic on this extra-ordinary congested highway and will in the future be used to widen the road eastbound. At its December meeting the Commonwealth Trans-

Langley Girls’ Basketball Beats West Springfield

Saxons win nine of first 10 games.

By Jon Roetman
The Connection

The Langley girls’ basketball team suffered its first loss of the season during the Boo Williams holiday tournament in Hampton, but the Saxons responded by avenging the loss that ended their 2014-15 campaign.

Langley concluded its appearance at the three-day event with a 41-37 win over West Springfield on Dec. 30, improving its record to 9-1. The Spartans defeated the Saxons in last year’s regional quarterfinals, putting an end to Langley’s season, which included 21 victories and a runner-up finish in Conference 6.

Langley’s seven-game win streak to open the 2015-16 season ended with a 45-38 loss to Lake Taylor on Dec. 28 at the Boo Williams tournament, but the Saxons bounced back with wins over Henrico (58-36, Dec. 29) and West Springfield.

“We played pretty tough during the Boo Williams tournament,” Langley head coach Amanda Baker wrote in an email. “After losing our first game to Lake Taylor we did a good job staying mentally sharp and bouncing back to win the next two games.”

Senior guard Paige Galiani, who surpassed 1,000 career points this season, is averaging 19 per contest. After 10 games, she was 14 points shy of setting the school record for career scoring.

Senior guard Lizzy Shamloo and sophomore guard Jordyn Callaghan averaged more than 8 points per contest through 10 games. Junior guard Ari Aulisi, who has been out the last seven games, is expected back this week.

Langley opened the 2016 portion of its schedule with a game against Hayfield on Tuesday, after The Connection’s deadline. The Saxons will host McLean at 5:45 p.m. on Friday, Jan. 8.

Oakton Girls’ Basketball Enters 2016 Undefeated

The Oakton girls’ basketball team wrapped up the 2015 portion of its schedule with an 11-0 record.

The Cougars won their holiday tournament Dec. 28-30, beating Hayfield (70-49), South Lakes (73-52) and Patriot (70-49). Oakton won each of its first 11 games by at least 12 points.

Oakton entered 2016 with a game against Stone Bridge on Tuesday, after The Connection’s deadline. Oakton will travel to face Herndon at 7:15 p.m. on Friday, Jan. 8.

Madison Girls’ Basketball Competes at Bulldog Bash

The Madison girls’ basketball team won two of its three games at the Bulldog Bash holiday tournament at Westfield High School Dec. 28-30 and ended 2015 with a 6-4 record.

The Warhawks lost to Battlefield 60-48 at the Bulldog Bash and defeated Centreville (45-33) and Yorktown (51-39).

Madison faced Fairfax on Tuesday, after The Connection’s deadline. The Warhawks will host Washington-Lee at 7:15 p.m. on Friday, Jan. 8.
Mason, Inova to Collaborate on Personalized Medicine Research

Partnership expected to develop treatments, grow economy.

By Marilyn Campbell
The Connection

Researchers and doctors from George Mason University and Inova Health System will collaborate on a series of personalized medicine research projects under a new partnership between the two institutions. The effort will include joint research on heart disease, cancer and metabolic diseases.

In announcing the agreement late last month, Gov. Terry McAuliffe said that the joint research effort, “will spur opportunities for entrepreneurship, create new companies and generate jobs that will grow our economy and help us prosper.”

Under the agreement, the institutions will share facilities at both the Inova Center for Personalized Health in Merrifield and at Mason’s Science and Technology Campus in Manassas. The partnership calls for the establishment of Inova-Mason Proteomics Center at the Inova Center for Personalized Health campus and Mason-Inova Institute for Personalized Medicine Public Policy and Ethics, which will address public policy and ethical issues related to personalized medicine.

The partnership gives Inova researchers access to Mason’s animal facility where they will be able to test new drugs. Inova CEO J. Knox Singleton, calls the partnership an investment in “research and development to help keep healthy people healthy and provide precise, effective and personalized treatment to patients we are privileged to serve.”

Inova will contribute $2.5 million in funding and will work with Mason to raise additional money for the project over the next five years.

A joint steering board made up of key administrators from both Mason and Inova will run the venture. The partnership will establish a joint fellowship board to recruit researchers from around the world.

Mason will also begin offering a graduate certificate program in personalized medicine, which Mason president Ángel Cabrera, says underscores the university’s commitment to “delivering research of consequence that improves lives, drives economic growth and helps solve the most complex problems of our time.”

Gerald L. Gordon, Ph.D., president and CEO of the Fairfax County Economic Development Authority, said, “It is important that two of Fairfax County’s major institutions and economic development assets are formalizing a collaborative relationship today around personalized medicine. Separately Inova and George Mason have strong research capabilities for personalized health but, working together, they will multiply the research and discovery capacities at both which will, in turn, only improve the economic development potential for this burgeoning industry and increase the possibility of spinning out companies and creating high-paying jobs that will improve the general health and well-being. The job creation aspect is important as well because it will further diversify Fairfax County’s economic base.”

Upon Further Reflection

I'm not a look-in-the-mirror kind of person. Other than in the morning when I wash up, brush my teeth, shave and get ready for the day, I spend very little time reflecting on my appearance. In fact, during the early days of my cancer treatment when I was infused with a chemotherapy cocktail for six non-stop hours every three weeks – I lost all my hair, as forewarned; I have no recollection of what I looked like, but I remember my hair being on my head. Presumably, every morning when I prepped for the day, I would have seen what I was doing and watched how it was done; yet there is no image, still or otherwise, in my mind of how I appeared to others.

Seven years of continuous treatment later, when I look in the mirror now (I have a full head of hair and a growing stubble, like most men), I can't evaluate what I see. Do I look sick? Or do I look as I should for a middle-aged man aging gracefully? Not that I need to look good to feel good ("and you know who you are"), any more than I need to "look mah-velous," but the cumulative effects of chemotherapy and the inevitable signs of aging have blurred (no pun intended; I can see perfectly well) my objectivity. So much so that on any given day, what I see is what I get and I'm happy to have gotten it, subjectively speaking. Ergo, looking in the mirror more often than not serves no appreciable benefit – to me, since I know what I see, or rather, don't know how to evaluate what it is I do see.

Then along comes the holidays, when many social gatherings are planned where in addition to food and drink, face-to-face interactions occur with may people you see regularly and some you know but rarely see. It is the observations and comments from these rarely-seen persons, with whom you are familiar – and who are familiar with you and your "undeflying diagnosis," as I call my cancer, that are the genesis of this column.

I am happy and amazed, and incredibly flattered even to say that the feedback I received was uniformly positive and extremely encouraging; and if I had to bet a nickel, I'd say their comments were all sincere and honest. And since I don't want to look for trouble (since trouble has already found me), I am going to take their words at face value (again, no pun intended). And in thanking them grav-

As much as I'd like to believe that form follows function and that looking good is a clear indicator of one who is not only feeling good, but doing well (cancer-wise), I'm still wondering what it is that sets me apart from many other similarly diagnosed patients who have succumbed to this terrible – and mordantly terri-
