aya Simbulan of Fairfax is thankful for being normal. The Lake Braddock Second ary School freshman would like to pursue work with computer graphics and plays electric wheelchair soccer.

She owes her recovery from a traumatic brain injury, in large part she said, to Springfield-based Brain Injury Services, a nonprofit organization that helps individuals around Northern Virginia find recovery and rehabilitation resources, to manage the effects of injuries and find a sense of community through others with shared experi-

Seven years ago, Simbulan linked up with BIS Pediatric Case Manager Brooke Annessa of Fairfax.

"This has helped me to have a normal life," Simbulan said, "like going to school and playing soccer.'

ON MARCH 9, she and Annessa took the stage together to recognize other community partners of Brain Injury Services at the organization's 11th annual Volunteer Banquet, held at the Waterford in Springfield.

Macy's was among the business partners highlighted for giving back to the community through BIS.

"We've been able to purchase critical items like prescription glasses and assistive technology," Simbulan said as she thanked the partners from Macy's during the banquet ceremony, "and even pay for summer camps for children" who otherwise wouldn't be able to afford it.

A first-time donor and community partner was Mike Katounas of Centreville and his business HomeWorks Painting, based in Chantilly. This year they decided to donate a portion of sales made during their annual two-week winter promotion sale to a local nonprofit. Their total contribution was $5,000.

"The work that they do, especially with kids," was part of what drew Katounas and the HomeWorks team to Brain Injury Ser-

"I've worked with Special Olympics children, and we were able to specify the pediatric program, so 100 percent of our donation went to the kids."

Annessa said the pediatric program at BIS serves about 70 clients, from infants to age

Leaders of BIS also recognized community partners who've taken on brain injury survivors as employees, as finding work after a traumatic incident can be difficult, if not impossible.

"Your sense of self," while out of work, said Christine Heiby, a co-owner of Springfield-based business Auto-Grip. "Your identity gets robbed."

Christine and her husband D. David Heiby's company is the North American distributor of a special type of automatic locking pliers manufactured abroad. They assemble the pliers in-house and then sell them, which requires a lot of repetitive work that's well-suited to individuals regaining their concentration and organizational skills after a brain injury.

"This gives them purpose and a place to go," Christine said. The Heibys hired three part-time employees through Brain Injury Services in February 2015 for temporary positions. But the individuals have proven they were too valuable to let go.

"They're remarkable, the attitude they bring," D. David said. "They work their heads off."

"We think this is the future," D. David continued, saying they hope to hire more employees from BIS in the future, as well as veterans who are struggling to find work.

"It's important to give back to the community, for many who may not have those opportunities," he said.

Jennifer Adams of South Riding, keynote speaker at the banquet, wasn't aware of Brain Injury Services after she went through her traumatic brain injury, 12 years ago as a senior in college.

Adams was on the passenger side of a car that was turning when it was hit by another car going 70 miles per hour. Her head slammed against the window and she went into a coma for five days. It took her a year and extensive physical therapy before she returned to school.

Adams said she and her parents had to figure out resources and services by themselves, "learning as we went.

"A resource organization like this would've been great," she said.

LAST FALL, in 2015, Adams began volunteering with the Pals mentoring and socializing program of Brain Injury Services, finally getting connected to a community of people who've had experiences like hers.

Not everyone understands the loss of memory, organization and concentration that individuals who suffer brain injuries struggle with.

"We're kindred spirits," Adams said. "You learn that you're not going alone."

Adams encouraged the nearly 200 volunteers, donors and survivors at the banquet to "Go make a difference in someone else's life. Get out and volunteer."

Mason Neck Citizens Association president Hillary Clawson begins the March 16 meeting with a moment of silence for the death of resident Johan de Leede.

Captain David M. Smith is Commander of the Major Crimes Division of Fairfax County Police that's investigating the March 11 shooting death of Mason Neck resident Johan de Leede.

ason Neck Citizens Association president Hillary Clawson began the group's March 16 meeting at Gunston Hall with a moment of silence.

First on the agenda was a report from Fairfax County Police on the shooting death of resident Johan de Leede that occurred the previous Friday, early in the morning.

The death, Clawson said, "has shaken this community."

The initial report from police said de Leede, 83, was shot several times in a home on the 6000 block of River Drive in the Mason Neck area. He died after being taken to an area hospital.

Police responded to the house around 1 a.m. the morning of the 11th, after receiving a report that he was unresponsive, possibly from a fall.

After finding him in the house, officers began CPR and dressed de Leede's wounds. From their preliminary investigation, police said he was shot inside the house.

DETECTIVES from the Major Crimes Division have been working the case since the call about de Leede first came in, but have yet to announce that they have determined any suspects.

Several police leaders attended and spoke at the Citizens Association meeting, asking community members for help.

"You know what belongs here, what doesn't belong," said Captain David M. www.ConnectionNewspapers.com

Smith, commander of the Major Crimes Division. "We can't solve these cases without you."

Police handed out a neighborhood crime canvas flyer with photos of de Leede and the residence where he was killed, hoping the visuals might trigger someone's memory.

Community members in the packed meeting room, adjacent to the main Gunston Hall mansion, asked Captain Smith several questions about the shooting. For most he either did not have an answer for or declined to respond because he said it would threaten the integrity of the investigation.

One neighbor said he heard two distinct sets of gunshots at the time of the incident; another said she's seen a burgundy openbed truck circling the area and continually passing by the house in the days following the shooting.

Someone else asked if detectives knew which type of gun was used. Smith said little in the way of response, other than he and the other Captain Jeff Powell told people to call in anything suspicious, no matter how small.

"Let us decide what's important," Smith said. "Take that filter off."

Smith did confirm that while de Leede was found inside the residence, their investigation supports the shots being fired from outside the home.

Captain Smith encouraged all community members to feel as safe as possible inside their homes, and consider adding motionsensor lights.

"There's more unanswered questions than there are answers," he said. "Is there a concern here for public safety? Absolutely."

Though police have cleared the residence where they found de Leede as a crime scene, Major John R. Piper, Commander of Patrol Bureau — Division III which includes the Franconia District station, said a more robust law enforcement presence will be in place while the case is being investigated.

K-9 units and bloodhounds were initially brought out to try to pick up a trail right after the first call to police. Now, Major Piper said, there will be more marked patrol cruisers, the marine unit on the river and helicopter on aerial patrol, "to show the community we're here as another set of eyes."

"We're not going to pull out of here," Piper added. "We're committed to solving this case."

State Sen. Scott Surovell (D-36) responded rapidly to the police release on March 11, commenting that he remembered the Dutch constituent de Leede and the street well from canvassing and knocking on doors for the election.

"He was a nice man and this incident is a shock to the neighborhood," Surovell said in the post. "Please keep his wife and family in your thoughts."

Clawson said she really wasn't surprised to see so many people turn out on a Tuesday evening for the citizens association meeting.

"There are distinct neighborhoods," Clawson said, with independent homeowners' associations. But, "whenever there's a major issue facing Mason Neck, they really come together."

"It touches everybody out here," she continued. "It's shaken everybody."

The Major Crimes Division detectives encourage anyone with more information about the incident to contact them through www.fairfaxcrimesolvers.org, by texting "TIP187" plus the message to CRIMES(274637), calling 1-866-411-TIPS(8477), or calling the Fairfax County Police non-emergency line at 703-691-2131.

Mission: Promoting Peace

ith causes ranging from antibullying efforts to human trafficking awareness to interfaith dialogue, students in Fairfax County were recognized for their peacemaking efforts at the 11th Annual Student Peace Awards of Fairfax County on March

Students and student groups in any of 29 Fairfax County Public high schools, as well as three private high schools, were eligible for nomination. This year, 22 students or student groups received the Student Peace Award, for their efforts to promote peace.

"As one of their counselors said, these are people who not only looked for opportunities to do good things, they went out and created the opportunities. So many, many of these students have gone and created their own organizations and their own clubs to help whatever the issue is they wanted to work on," organizer Margaret Fisher said.

Mason Professor Al Fuertes, who travels to areas affected by war and natural disaster, spoke at the ceremony. Fuertes congratulated the recipients and spoke about his personal and professional experiences with fostering peace. Students received awards for a variety of peacemaking activities, however.

"As long as a student's contribution is something for peacemaking or nonviolent resolution of conflict, the schools could decide for themselves what that meant, because we didn't want to limit their thinking, and there's just millions of ways you can make peace either in your life, or in your school, or the greater community or the world as a whole," Fisher said.

EACH HIGH SCHOOL is responsible for selecting students to receive the recognition. Club leaders or counselors make recommendations and some schools allow students to self-select. Recipients of the award were informed in December so that they could include the recognition on college applications.

Because the awards are given to high school juniors and seniors, the Student Peace Awards program aims to give students another achievement to strive for, in addition to academics and athletics.

"What we want to do is find a way to promote peace, that's the only goal of this is to promote peace. We thought that encouraging young people to find projects that do that would be worth doing and we wanted to get the word peace into the conversation in schools," Fisher said.

In addition to rewarding good student behavior, The Awards also aim to promote nonviolent solutions within the community, which in turn can spread globally, according to planner Paul Murphy.

"We need to reward positive behaviors. And to get people thinking in problem solving modes, not just whenever there's a problem in the world, to think that it requires a military solution, but beginning with our communities, expanding nationwide and then internationally." Murphy said. "I think it's very important for people to see that there are alternatives to violence, and these kids are beginning to show it at a very young age and we want to encourage them."

Once nominated for the award, recipients were guided through the process by representatives. Nancy James, who has served as a representative for several years, said she was assigned to work with senior Laith Abuhaija of the Islamic Saudi Academy, who was recognized for his interfaith efforts and volunteer work.

As the award program has grown, so has its importance to families of nominees. Luis Urbina drove from North Carolina to attend the ceremony for his daughter and award recipient, Renata Urbina Dela Flor, a senior at Lake Braddock Secondary School.

"We talked and she mentioned some stuff, but it's good to see that it's a lot more than what she said. You know, she's very humble so it's nice to see something like an award," Urbina said.

RECIPIENTS were awarded $250 as well as $100 to be donated to an organization of their choice. However, according to organizer Nancy Davis, the monetary reward is certainly not the most valuable gift.

"I love to see the families' expressions," Davis said. "The families are just so happy to see their children recognized for this type of work. It's not the athletic field - which is important too - and the monetary gift isn't great but I think it's wonderful seeing the parents so proud."

"I was recipient of Fairfax County Peace Award for our efforts in combatting bullying around the County. Well, we took a look at a Fairfax County student survey report and we found a shocking statistic that over 50 percent of students around the County had reported being bullied at least once. So we thought that was a shocking statistic and shouldn't be happening in a County such as Fairfax, so we decided to take matters into our own hands by raising awareness through an anti-bullying fair, where we invited antibullying organizations from around the state to come and give presentations on their own efforts. And we invited students to come and tell their own stories about their experiences with bullying and how they dealt with the issues."

"I was nominated for this Peace Award, it was for helping another student who was being bullied. I brought him to my counselor, and I believe she was the one who made the recommendation.

I have a natural knack to sort of assist others. For instance I'm in the Army National Guard, it's kind of a calling of mine to protect and help others."

Sarah Hobbs, senior, Quander Road School, Alexandria "I made a video about mental health awareness last summer and my school nominated me for this award. Well, Fairfax County actually sought grant proposals at the end of last year to make a video about mental health awareness, and I actually suffer from mental illness and I love filmmaking, so I thought it would be a great opportunity for me to sort of put the two together."

Logan Mannikko, senior Westfield High School

"I received this award because of my support for people in the LGBTQ community and I'm transgender, so it's a big thing for me. Mainly my own identity, and knowing that there's a lot of students and kids in the community that aren't accepted or supported by family or their peers."

Comstock Announces Military Academy Day

Congresswoman Barbara Comstock (R-10) has announced the annual 10th Congressional District Military Academy Day. This year's Military Academy Day will be held Saturday, April 2, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Loudoun County Public School Administration building located at 21000 Education Court, Ashburn. The event is free and open to all students, parents and guidance staff who are interested in learning more about the nation's service academies.

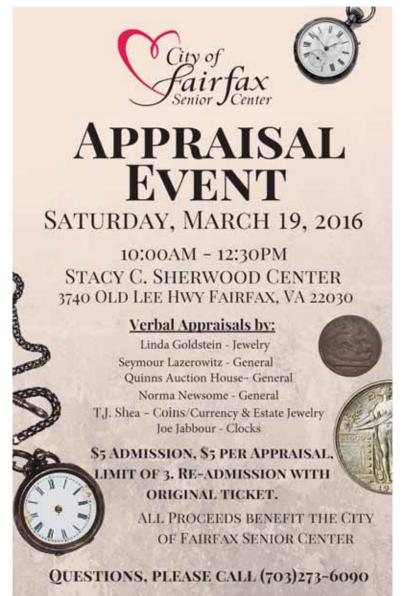

"To keep America's fighting force the best in the world our military service academies must recruit the finest young men and women to be our nation's future leaders," said Congresswoman Comstock.

Representatives from all of the service academies - Army, Navy, Air Force, Merchant Marine and Coast Guard - will be in attendance. Representatives from the Marine Corps ROTC program, the Virginia Army National Guard, Virginia Military Institute, the Virginia Tech Corps of Cadets and The Citadel have also been invited. Additionally, the American Legion and Randolph-Macon Academy will be represented. Beginning at 10:30 a.m. to noon a formal presentation will commence. Each of the academies will make a presentation and students will be able to meet with admissions staff and ask questions. If you have questions, contact Mary Ann Cannon at 703-404-6903 or by email at Maryann.Cannon@mail.house.gov.

Homelessness on Its Way Out in Fairfax

Homelessness should be rare, brief and nonrecurring; 776 fewer homeless individuals in 2016 than in 2008.

omelessness is down in Fairfax County in every major category, a fact confirmed on Jan. 28, 2016, the annual Point in Time Count. There were 145 fewer individuals homeless than the Point In Time Count a year earlier, 138 of those in families, and seven fewer homeless individuals. There also were no families in overflow motels, and no families were unsheltered in the 2016 count.

Sixty-four percent of the 577 family members who were literally homeless on Jan. 28, 2016 were in transitional housing, with the rest in emergency shelter. There were vacancies in emergency shelters for families and in domestic violence shelters; no families were unsheltered.

"This trend is beautiful," said Sharon Bulova, chairman of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors. "The things we're doing are making a difference."

In 2008, the Fairfax County established the Office to Prevent and End Homelessness with a plan to end homelessness within 10 years.

"Seeing the numbers decrease in so many different areas is encouraging after working on the 10 year plan," said Dean Klein, director Since 2008, the number of people who are literally homeless on the day of the Point in Time Count has decreased by 776 individuals. "Since 2008 there has been a 42 percent reduction in the number of people counted as homeless, from 1,835 people in 2008 to 1,059 in 2016," Klein reported to the Board of Supervisors on Monday, March 14. EDITORIAL

Julie Maltzman, manager of Continuum of Care, reported the details to the increased homelessness prevention and rapid Governing Board of the Fairfax-Falls Church Partnership to Prevent and End Homelessness on Monday afternoon.

A coordinated effort among partners, more housing options and flexible funding helped to get formerly homeless families into more viable housing with appropriate services, said Joe Meyer, executive director of Shelter House. More public awareness around homelessness is also making a difference, Meyer said.

Still, 341 children under the age of 18 were among those literally homeless in this year's Point in Time Count, 32 percent of all home-

Eighty percent (190 people) of the adults in homeless families were female; 66 percent of adults (155) in homeless families were employed; a slight increase from 62 percent in 2015. Twelve percent (21) of families were considered "youth households," with all family members under 25 years old.

Single adults made up 46 percent of all homeless people counted, a total of 482. Fortytwo percent (202 people) of single adults who were homeless suffered from serious mental illness and/or substance abuse, a 13 percent decrease from last year. Many had chronic rehousing efforts; prioritizing housing for individuals with the longest history of homelessness and highest vulnerability; additional permanent supportive housing for singles experiencing chronic homelessness; focus on housing veterans including use of Veterans Affairs Supportive Housing (VASH) vouchers; new permanent housing opportunities for families with children.

> Thirty percent (146 people) were experiencing chronic homelessness. This is a significant decrease from last year when 42 percent (203 people) were experiencing chronic homelessness.

Time to Speak Out for Quality of Life in Fairfax County

To the Editor:

Fairfax County is a composite of many things that make the quality of life rich for people living

- ❖ Low crime rate thanks to the police whose budget also pays for the School Resource Officers and the School Crossing Guards;
- ❖ Access to a variety of good health care including a Health Department whose Health Department budget pays for school
- ❖ 500 square miles of public parks, 300 miles of trails and the nation's only national park for the performing arts; libraries to enjoy with a variety of programs;
- ❖ Public Schools with great staff, a graduation rate of 93 percent, and 74 percent of graduates going on to postsecondary pro-

The county's proposed budget is $3.99 billion of which almost 60 percent is directly (52.2 percent) or indirectly (School Resource Officers, Crossing Guards, Nurses, and debt service for interest paid on bonds for construction or renovation of school buildings and athletic fields) going to public schools. Promoting Economic Vitality of Fairfax City

To the Editor:

As the local Fairfax City election approaches on May 3, 2016, now is the time to say "yes" to a forward-looking vision for Fairfax City's future.

We ask candidates for City Council and Mayor to take actions that promote the economic vitality of the City of Fairfax so that we may preserve and improve our quality of life. The City depends on an expanded tax base to include new commercial developments supported by nearby higher density residential developments. In accordance with this goal we ask that initiatives that incorporate and promote the following goals be supported:

- * the preservation of our neighborhoods, historic heritage, and existing open space;
- ❖ a range of transportation options to include biking, walking, and improvements to the street network for vehicular traffic;
- ❖ a variety of housing options

The Health Department confirmed rabies in one out of three animal bite incidents that occurred last week.

Health Department Confirms Raccoon in Clifton Incident Had Rabies

airfax County Police investigated three separate incidents of wild animal bites at the end of last week, including a report of a Clifton man being awakened around 11 a.m. on March 3 by a raccoon in his home. The next day, police said the Health Department confirmed the raccoon tested positive for the rabies virus.

The man fought the raccoon, a police report said, during which the animal bit him. The man eventually killed the intruder by suffocating it with his foot on the raccoon's throat. Afterward, he bagged the animal and took it to the Fairfax County Animal Shelter.

The first incident took place at Riverbend Park in Great Falls on March 2, when a woman running on the trail between the nature center and the river was bitten by a fox. Next. also on March 2. a woman living on Potomac Woods Lane (near by Riverbend Park) was also bitten by a fox while checking on her chickens, police said.

If you're bitten or scratched by an animal you suspect might have rabies, Fairfax County Police say to thoroughly wash the wound with soap and water, and get medical attention immediately. Residents should report any animal bites, or sightings of sick or injured animals, to Animal Control Services at 703-691-2131, TTY 703-877-3715. Fairfax County Schools to Apply for FEMA Relief Funds

January blizzard cost FCPS $7.2 million.

/ inter Storm Jonas, Snowmageddon, Snowpocalypse 2.0 — no matter what it's called, the county-crippling January 2016 blizzard cost Fairfax County Public Schools $7.2 million to pay for employee overtime compensation, additional contractors and equipment rental.

At the March 10 regular meeting of the School Board, Superintendent Karen Garza said the school system will be applying for Federal Emergency Management Agency relief funds to reimburse that

"We'll see what happens," Garza said, pointing out that it's uncertain how much the agency might hand out. "It may take some time, but that's good news. We'll continue to monitor that."

Schools are eligible to submit for relief funds, as well as counties, towns or cities and certain nonprofit organizations. If FEMA determines the costs are eligible, the agency could reimburse three-quarters of the expenses, with the Commonwealth of Virginia kicking in another 12 percent.

Fairfax County director of Public Affairs Tony Castrilli said the preliminary estimated costs from the blizzard for Fairfax County, the town of Herndon and public schools is $19.5 million, according to the Fairfax County Office of Emergency Management.

"This was the most expensive snow event in the county due in part to large expenses relating to snow removal activities," Castrilli said in an email.

If FEMA determines the submitted costs eligible for reimbursement, it would be welcome, if not immediate, assistance for the Fairfax County government and school system, whose budgets are at odds with one another: Garza's FY2017 budget featuring no additional cuts to programs or services, and notable increases to teacher compensation sits under-funded by roughly $68 million from the advertised County transfer.

"The good thing about that," Springfield District School board member Elizabeth Schultz said fully that'll give a little bit of breathing room to for FY 2018.

Fairfax County Public Schools Superintendent Karen Garza said the school system is eligible and will be applying for relief funds from FEMA for snow removal costs associated with the January blizzard.

At the March 10 meeting, the School Board unanimously approved revenue and expenditure adjustments from the Third Quarter Budget Review of FY2016 — including the snow removal costs.

Coming out of the review, the school system ended up with $5.3 million in available funds, a result of $2.8 million in increased revenue and $2.5 million in decreased disbursements in the school operating fund.

Nothing will be done with those additional funds until the FY 2016 Final Budget Review, when the School Board may need them to cover one-time about the potential FEMA reimbursement, "hope- costs or the obligations for the beginning balance End Breast Cancer.

The 52 members of the Shark Tank Racing Squad, between ages 8 and 18, brought in more than $25,000 at the Feb. 28 swimming marathon that took place at the South Run RECenter. That total beat last year's record of $23,200.

Each swimmer collected donations and then swam between 110 and 155 laps; the latter were referred to as "going the extra mile."

"It was truly one of the most beautiful marathons," coach Patty Friedman of Fairfax Station said in an email.

Friedman walked in the Avon Walk to End Breast Cancer and raised money independently for several years before getting the team involved. In the six years of the marathon, the team has raised $100,000, she said.

A number of swimmers completed the marathon and extra mile despite injuries. Friedman said one athlete with a cyst on her breast provided the group more motivation and a reminder that part of the money they raised will help women who otherwise wouldn't have access to top surgeons.

"These kids have paid for a lot of mammograms and breast surgeries over these years," Friedman said.

W.T. Woodson freshman Riley Allison completed his third swim marathon as a Shark Tank athlete.

"The event is very important to me because at any point in time someone I know could be diagnosed with breast cancer," he said in an email. "Even if it isn't somebody I know, I'm glad I can raise money to help anyone who is diagnosed with it."

As in past years, supporters from Shark Tank will accompany Friedman to the start of the two-day, 39.3-mile walk, beginning in Washington, D.C.

Robinson Boys' Lax Beats Broad Run in Season Opener

Two-time defending state champs have new leaders.

BY JON ROETMAN
THE CONNECTION

embers of the two-time defending state champion Robinson boys' lacrosse team sat quietly at one end of the Coffey Stadium field during halftime of their season opener Tuesday night when they were greeted by the sound of reality.

Visiting Broad Run led 5-4 and the Spartans let the Rams — and others in attendance — know it, confidently cheering at the other end of the field.

"We just weren't really into it and we snapped into it once we realized that they're up," Robinson senior attackman Johnny Daniel said. "When we hear them yapping it up over in the corner of the field — that's our field. You can yap all you want, but it's Coffey Stadium [and] we're defending our field." The Rams woke up in the third quarter, outscoring Broad Run 7-0, and Robinson pulled away for a 14-7 season-opening victory

Once Robinson got going in the second half, it didn't take long for the Rams to gain separation.

Five different Rams scored a goal during a 3-minute, 39-second stretch in the third quarter, taking Robinson from a 5-4 deficit to a 9-5 lead. Daniel and freshman attackman Declan Connolly each scored in the final minute of the period, extending the Rams' lead to 11-5.

Robinson led by as many as eight goals, when senior attackman Tristan Scoffield gave the Rams a 14-6 advantage with 1:04 remaining in the fourth quarter.

"I'm extremely happy with the way we responded in the second half," Robinson head coach Matt Curran said. "With a young team, you're in that position maybe for the first time and you're not sure exactly how

Eight different Rams scored at least one goal. Senior midfielder Austin Henry and freshman Connolly each scored three. Junior attackman Liam Curran and Daniel each scored two goals, and sophomore midfielder Reid Scarborough, junior midfielder Tyler Iriondo, sophomore midfielder Nick Rowlett and senior Scoffield each had one.

Junior goalkeeper Matt Bethard had eight

Robinson enters the 2016 season with a talented roster, but the Rams have new players transitioning into leadership roles after graduating several prominent athletes from their back-to-back title runs.

Curran said Robinson still has high expectations, but the loss of experienced players means the Rams aren't as far along when it comes to implementing strategy.

"It doesn't matter what year it is and what kind of talent we have, our expectations every year are to win the state championship and I think that's how it should be," Curran said. "Do we take them along slowly? Yeah, we do. Last year, we had a ton of starters back so we could get into things that we were running the year before right away and some of these guys ... are learning it for the first time.

"... We don't have Jack Rowlett or Chapman Jasien or Jude Buckholz or Chris White, guys like that that were three- and four-year starters, anymore. Those guys are gone, so you guys — Austin Henry, Johnny Daniel, [senior midfielder] Danny Krug, [senior long stick midfielder] Eric Scales — you guys have to step up and they did. They responded. Just like anything, they're going to have to learn to be the guys, the captains, the leaders. They know how to do the lacrosse part, now they have to figure out how to be the leaders of the team and I think they certainly made a step [toward that]."

Daniel said players who might have been overlooked in the past now have a chance to step up. "We had a great amount of talent last year, but that talent kind of shadowed a lot of underlying talent," he said. "For example, Austin and I, we're a duo that's been kind of been overlooked for a while and now we have the chance to [lead]."

Daniel and Henry have both signed with VMI

While Daniel, Henry, Krug and others transition into leadership roles, Connolly has an opportunity to be a young difference-maker. The freshman produced a hat trick in his first varsity game, including

"We just weren't really into it and we snapped into it once we realized that they're up. When we hear them yapping it up over in the corner of the field — that's our field. You can yap all you want, but it's Coffey Stadium [and] we're defending our field."

— Robinson senior Johnny Daniel

Robinson's first goal of the season.

"People need to be ready for him, honestly," Daniel said, "because that kid, he's one of the best players I've ever played with."

Curran praised Connolly.

"I've known Declan since he was in elementary school and coached him in some offseason stuff," Curran said. "He's got a really good head on his shoulders. He knows he's good, but he recognizes that this is a team game and he's always asking questions and he's always learning."

Robinson's next four games are at home, starting with a contest against Yorktown at 4 p.m. on Saturday, March 19. The Rams will host Northern at 2 p.m. on Monday, Langley at noon on Wednesday, March 23, and St. Ignatius (Illinois) at 7:15 p.m. on March 29.

Robinson will travel to face Chantilly at 7:15 p.m. on April 1 in a rematch of last year's Conference 5, 6A North region and state championship games.

"Every year is state championship — that's what we want," Henry said. "We'll work [through] whatever we have to to get that."

Food for Kids

"The whole point of it is to encourage kids to participate in healthier cooking and foods that are in school. We're trying to encourage kids to help change school food and to live a more active lifestyle," said Diana Nash, Real Food for Kids event coordinator.

"This year we decided to open it up for middle schoolers and high schoolers. I'm really impressed with the level of skill and preparation of the teams today," said Jenny Hein, executive director of Real Food for Kids.

An awards ceremony at the end included $200 scholarships, $50 gift cards to Sur La Table, a $500 raffle award to Williams-Sonoma, gift certificate to Earl's Kitchen & Bar for six people, cookbooks and a Veggetti Spiralizer, among other gifts. All participating students left with their own gift bags.
