Police Cruiser Collides with Loaded School Bus

A Fairfax County Police patrol cruiser struck the side of a Fairfax County Public Schools bus carrying around 40 students and five adults around 12:44 p.m. on April 7, a police release said.

The female officer, a 16-year veteran out of the Franconia District Station, was responding to a nearby report of a shoplifting and driving northbound on Backlick Road when she collided with the bus that was crossing Backlick at Floyd Avenue. The students from Mark Twain Middle School were returning from a field trip.

During the incident, the bus kept moving forward and its rear wheels mounted the hood of the police cruiser.

Police said two students, one adult chaperone and the officer were treated for minor injuries and released after being taken to the hospital. They noted the bus driver was a 58-year-old woman but did not release the age or name of the officer who was involved.

Crash reconstruction detectives have already determined neither speed nor alcohol were contributing factors in the crash.

Investigation Continuing in Fatal Pedestrian Crash

In an April 8 release, Fairfax County Police said two-year veteran officer Salino was the driver involved with the April 2 collision that killed Jeffrey Ponce Aguilar, 26, of Alexandria. Police declined to release Salino's first name or age.

Officer Salino was driving northbound on Beulah Street when Aguilar stepped into the intersection against the green light at Old Beulah Street.

In an April 3 press conference, Chief of Police Edwin Roessler said dim lighting and heavy rain were the conditions at the time of the crash, and that it's not known whether speed or alcohol were contributing factors in the incident.

Salino is currently on administrative assignment, police said.

Summer STEM Academy at NOVA

High school juniors and seniors are invited to apply for a weeklong summer STEM academy at Northern Virginia Community College. Selected students will unravel a forensics mystery by conducting various STEM experiments in a college setting.

The summer STEM academy will be held at NOVA's Manassas Campus during the week of June 20 and at NOVA's Alexandria, Annandale, Loudoun and Woodbridge campuses during the week of June 27.

The $30 registration fee covers all activities and lunch each day. Seats are limited and interested candidates must apply by April 30 at <http://kajacomo.wix.com/ncsi-stem-academy>.

Selected candidates will be notified by May 10.

Students who attend the academy will be eligible to apply for two $500 scholarships to enroll in a college science course during NOVA's spring 2017 semester.

The STEM academy is sponsored by NOVA's College-wide STEM Initiative and funded by a Perkins grant. For more information, contact Academy director Ia Gomez at igomez@nvcc.edu.

Fairfax County Supervisors named their 2015 Community Champions at the 24th Annual Fairfax County Volunteer Service Awards hosted by Volunteer Fairfax.

From left: Jenny Lawson, Points of Light vice president of corporate strategy presents the Daily Points of Light Award to Kathy Hertz of Clifton, joined onstage by Board of Supervisors Chairman Sharon Bulova, Chief Executive Officer of Volunteer Fairfax Elise Neil Bengtson, Supervisor Pat Herrity (R-Springfield), Fairfax County History Commissioner and Clifton resident Lynne Garvey Hodge, Clifton Mayor William Holloway and Tyler Corey with the Sheriff's Department.

Kathy Hertz, a longtime volunteer in Clifton, spent more than a week in Lesvos, Greece just after Christmas with her cousin. The two of them volunteered in and around a refugee camp for individuals being funnelled to Athens and hopefully back to Germany or other European havens.

"This could be me in a different time and place," Hertz said of the refugees, "running for their lives, strangers in a strange land."

Hertz was recognized for her work with the Daily Points of Light Award, as well as the volunteer service award for Adult Over 250 Hours at the 24th Annual Fairfax County Volunteer Service Awards breakfast on April 8.

"Volunteering is activism," Hertz said, "standing up for what you believe in. I accept this on behalf of everyone who goes outside of their comfort zone for the greater good."

In a statement for the occasion, state Sen. George Barker (D-39) said, "Almost no one else would do what (Kathy) did. She accomplished what she set out to do, helping those with the least."

Fairfax County Board of Supervisors Chairman Sharon Bulova was on hand for the awards, held at the Waterford at Springfield, along with each district Supervisor. Together, they honored the 178 group and individual nominees for volunteer service awards with an official proclamation declaring April 8, 2016 "Volunteer Recognition Day" in Fairfax County.

"In Fairfax County, we have a culture of engagement," Bulova said. The day was meant for people in the community to "observe with friends, celebrate and promote volunteerism."

Each Supervisor named a community champion — one outstanding citizen or organization — and then winners of more than a dozen competitive volunteer service awards were announced by host Jeff Goldberg of ABC7/WJLA-TV.

Elise Neil Bengtson, chief executive officer of Volunteer Fairfax encouraged everyone in the audience to "share the gift of time, talent, wherever they are needed."

For more information, visit www.volunteerfairfax.org.

Braddock District Community Champion Jim Bertolini (right) took action when an older neighbor's home in the Ravensworth Farm area was cited for maintenance issues and got the community involved in helping with the home's repairs. (Left) Supervisor John Cook (R-Braddock) said, "John's actions and attitude are an excellent example of what community engagement is truly all about."

Lee District Community Champion Linda Waller (left) has helped organize the Springfield Community Bridge Walk and Springfield Days celebration, and serves on the Beth El Hebrew Congregation synagogue's board of directors. Supervisor Jeff McKay (D-Lee) said, "I have no doubt that if you opened up the dictionary to the Vs, you'd find a picture of Linda next to the word 'volunteer.' Our community will never be able to repay Linda for all her hard work."

Supervisor Linda Smyth (right) (D-Providence) named the Greater Merrifield Business Association the 2015 Providence District Community Champion for the organization's members' efforts to develop Merrifield and the Mosaic District. "Without the persistence of the Greater Merrifield Business Association," Smyth said, "Merrifield would not be the huge success story that it is today."

Lifetime Achievement award-winner Alan Schuman became a Fairfax Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA) volunteer in 2002 and now sits on the Board of Directors. Schuman became a youth basketball coach for Great Falls Basketball in 2000, after first working as a juvenile probation officer and then Director of Social Services for the Superior Courts. In a statement, Fairfax CASA Executive Director Darcy Cunningham said, "Because of [Schuman's] professional experience, he has seen first-hand the importance of interventions and wrap-around services. He is a champion for the CASA community."

Larry Peacock (right) accepts the Springfield District Community Champion Award on behalf of George and Estella Lynch, who began volunteering at the Fairfax-Falls Church Community Services Board Crossroads Residential Treatment Program in 2003. Supervisor Pat Herrity, left, (R-Springfield) said, "Whether it was driving, gardening or just being there to listen and talk with the residents, their work did not go unnoticed."

Adult Volunteer Under 250 hours winner Michele Duell (left) organized "Educators Night" at Richard Byrd Library in Springfield to celebrate the work of teachers and principals, and help keep their school libraries stocked. In a statement, President of the Friends of Richard Byrd Library Chris Peterson said Duell "puts her time, money and talents to work so Springfield children can flourish."

Les Esmond, chief cashier at Pender Re-Gift Thrift Store since May 2012, won the Senior Volunteer Award. The store is owned by Pender United Methodist Church in Fairfax. Awards host Jeff Goldberg of ABC7/WJLA-TV said, "Maryann Weber, executive administrator of Pender Re-Gift Thrift Store, is certain that their capacity to accomplish their mission would be diminished, if not impossible, without Les Esmond's continued and diligent service."

Living Well Summit Piques Interest of County Seniors

Summit helps county residents improve with age.

BY MARTI MOORE
THE CONNECTION

Local residents can learn how to age gracefully Saturday, April 16, at the Living Well, Aging Well Summit in the Fairfax County Government Center.

From 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., older adults, people with disabilities and their caregivers can see more than 100 exhibitors, and participate in seminars useful to improving the quality of their lives.

Keynote speaker Dr. Richard W. Lindsay will address the value of physical activity for living and aging well. He is a pioneer of the geriatric studies program at the University of Virginia's School of Medicine.

Part of the conference sheds light on transportation issues and offers solutions for people who cannot drive. Visitors will see the Fairfax County Connector bus, a Fastran shuttle and an accessible taxicab on display outside the government center entrance.

Across the street in the parking lot of the Pennino Building — at the corner of Post Forest Drive and the Government Center Parkway — CarFit specialists will examine the posture of senior motorists and make adjustments to maximize driver safety. Everyone is offered a free shuttle ride from this site to the summit, so they don't have to waste time finding a parking spot at the Government Center.

Inside, visitors can learn how to use Medicare for financial assistance with their long-term care needs, and access their medical records according to rules under the Health Insurance Portability and Accounting Act.

Instructors will show patients how to obtain valuable face time with medical professionals through their mobile devices without leaving the comfort of their homes.

People interested in volunteer opportunities may find a local non-profit organization in need of their time and expertise.

Area vendors will dispense health and wellness information. Diet, nutrition and exercise also are discussed at Living Well workshops — including a session on how to maintain the proper balance one needs to prevent falls and injuries.

Summit on Living Well, Aging Well

Recovering from a traumatic brain injury is an uphill climb for retired Army Lt. Col. Charles R. Thomas, 79, as he strolls up his driveway in Burke March 30. His caregiver, Gio Gavilanez — a certified nursing assistant with Vienna-based home health care agency Visiting Angels — holds onto a belt cinched around his client's waist to keep him balanced on a windy day as Thomas pushes a Drive Medical Nitro rollator his wife, Wanda, purchased last year for more than $300 from Roberts Home Medical supply in Falls Church. Local residents like Thomas and their caregivers can visit more than 100 exhibitors and attend workshops on health and wellness issues

Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Living Well, Aging Well Summit in Fairfax at the County Government Center. The inaugural expo will show older adults and people with disabilities resources available to them through county agencies and community service providers. Admission and parking are free at the April 16 conference at 12000 Government Center Parkway. Registration is on the main level near the entrance. Visitors can call 703-324-7647, TTY 711 or sign up at www.livingwellfairfax.org.

Event chairwoman Melanie Rochon Bush, who holds a doctorate in health sciences and physical therapy, says the summit is “an opportunity for Fairfax-area residents to access information that is difficult to get in one place.”

Fairfax Grows Up

According to a 2014 American Community Survey of the U.S. Census Bureau, Fairfax County has more than 1.1 million residents. Although the median age is 37.6 years, nearly 272,000 residents are ages 55 years and older.

Fairfax County demographers released a 2013 study that predicts 33 percent of county residents will be 50 years and older by the year 2040. Instead of flocking in droves Down South, local retirees are staying put — especially in Prince William and Loudoun counties.

For this reason, Fairfax County spokesman Brian Worthy said the Board of Supervisors is committed to older adults through its “50+ Community Action Plan,” adopted nearly two years ago as the last of the baby boom generation born in 1964 came of age.

“It’s a vision and action plan the county is executing,” he says. It is one of the guiding principles organizers used to plan the Living Well, Aging Well conference, according to Bush.

Patricia Rohrer, long-term care program manager in the Fairfax County Health Department says the summit is a brain child of the government’s Long Term Care Coordinating Council — “a citizen-driven program to examine gaps in the needs of the long-term care community.”

Bush said Fairfax County provided space and staff support for this function but plays “no part in establishing a budget.” The Living Well, Aging Well Summit has received support from the local business community and volunteers.

Sponsors include the Fairfax County Long Term Care Coordinating Council, the Fairfax 50-Plus Initiative, the Department of Health’s Area Agency on Aging, AARP, local hospitals and businesses, as well as community and advocacy groups.

Admission and parking are free to the general public at 12000 Government Center Parkway. Registration is on the main level near the entrance. Visitors can call 703-324-7647, TTY 711 or sign-up online at www.livingwellfairfax.org.

Teenage Sharks Hungry for Win at Senior Summit

Necessity is the mother of invention and local teenagers are learning what tools they may need to make their lives easier during their golden years.

In a contest modeled after the popular ABC Television Network reality show “Shark Tank,” local high school students invented assistive technologies geared for older adults, people with disabilities and their caregivers for the April 16 Living Well, Aging Well Summit in Fairfax.

Contestants must address one or more aspects of health and wellness, safety, social engagement and caregiving. Students were mentored by local business collaborator Refraction of Reston, which provides office space and business networking opportunities to technology entrepreneurs in the Reston Town Center.

Six teenage finalists have to wait exactly 19 days to find out who won this competition for winning innovation held March 28, when five judges watched students demonstrate their projects at the County Government Center. Panelists were on the lookout for user-friendly innovations that maximize independent use by older adults.

Event organizer Michael Behrmann said projects included a website for grandparents, a shoe device that helps visually-impaired users navigate their environment and a medicine cabinet that keeps track of prescription drugs.

Top innovators will receive four cash awards of $750 from Reston business and technology consulting services firm INTEGRITYOne Partners. Runners-up will earn four other awards worth $250 from this Reston-based business and technology consulting services firm.

Behrmann said INTEGRITYOne was so impressed with the competition, they added another $1,000 to the pool “so that every project would get an award.”

This contest is sponsored by the 50+ Community Action Plan, which contains 31 local government initiatives designed to address Fairfax County’s growing elderly population with special needs.

Behrmann — who earned his doctorate in special education from Columbia University — serves the community as a member of the Fairfax Area Long Term Coordinating Council. According to this group, 120,000 Fairfax County residents have a disability and more than 60,000 locals are ages 70 years and older.

Behrmann led the committee that spent nearly a year creating the Shark Tank contest, which was announced to local schools in August. Inventors from at least four Fairfax County Public Schools — including the Thomas Jefferson High School for Science and Technology in Alexandria — responded to the call. As a special education professor at George Mason University, Behrmann uses technology at his day job to capitalize on human potential as director of the Helen A. Kellar Institute for Human Disabilities — a GMU research arm that develops tools designed to improve the lives of people with disabilities.

“Shark Tank” winners are announced Saturday at the Living Well, Aging Well Summit inside the Fairfax County Government Center, where inventors will display their entries between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. at 12000 Government Center Parkway.

The event is free to the general public. Visitors may call (703) 324-7647, TTY 711 or register at www.livingwellfairfax.org.

Award Winning Connection Newspapers

Still striving to be the Connection to your community.

Connection Newspapers won dozens of awards from the Virginia Press Association for work done in 2015. Award winners were announced on Saturday, April 9, at an awards banquet in Richmond.

While the papers won awards in many categories, the common underpinning was community journalism, accessibility of information, and reporting on critical issues like transparency in government.

Thematically, the papers won multiple awards for stories and sections that were informative and helped make communities, events and resources more accessible to our readers.

Examples included Ken Moore's reporting on Robert Simon's role in Reston, which included coverage of Simon's 101st birthday, Simon's ongoing influence, and his obituary. The series won first place.

Print newspaper obituaries play a vital role in local communities, reflected in Jeanne Theismann's first place award for three obituaries in the Alexandria Gazette Packet. Earl Lloyd was born into "the cradle of segregation" yet persevered to become the first African American to break the color barrier in the NBA. Dr. Robert Wineland, "Dr. Bob," was a WW II veteran and survivor of the Battle of the Bulge. He was a beloved local doctor for more than 60 years. And Ferdinand Day was the first African American to be elected to chair a public school board in the state of Virginia.

We are lucky to have cartoonist Steve Artley to skewer and edify many issues, including his first place cartoon that suggests Alexandria could solve parking and housing problems by placing both on barges in the Potomac River.

Jean Card, Renee Ruggles and Laurence Foong have collaborated over several years on the Insider's Guide to the Parks, which won awards in Mount Vernon and Vienna/Oakton, capping several awards for informational graphics.

Our Newcomers and Community Guide to Arlington was described as "Informative, well written, with good use of graphics." Winners included Steven Mauren, Eden Brown, Vernon Miles, Shirley Ruhe, Laurence Foong.

Sarai Johnson, Hope Nelson, Shirley Ruhe, and Steve Hibbard won second place for entertainment pages in the Alexandria Gazette Packet, weekly coverage of arts, entertainment, food and things to do in Alexandria.

Reporting on elections, the environment, health and fitness, and organizations that are designed to help others also garnered awards.

Kenny Lourie won for his ongoing column writing about living with cancer. Lourie both lives and writes with humor and perspective. The judge said, "Though filled with heavy subject matter, the author hooks readers by using his first-person perspective, humor and emotion to describe the events of his life. These columns grab your attention from the first paragraph."

Abigail Constantino's photo that shows the great aunt of Natasha McKenna at a protest of McKenna's death in custody, won second place for general news photo. Eudora Paul's sign displays McKenna's last words: "You promised you would not kill me."

Tim Peterson's coverage of McKenna's death won second place in In Depth/Investigative. Peterson garnered the most awards of any Connection staff member, winning seven.

Mary Kimm's editorials on lack of police transparency and local government accountability won second place for editorial writing.

Kemal Kurspahic's opinion pages in the Herndon Connection won third place.

Jeanne Theismann, whose profile includes that she "dreams of one day writing headlines for the New York Post," won second place for headline writing in the Alexandria Gazette Packet. Headlines: Some Like It Haute, - story about the 10-year anniversary of a boutique warehouse sale; Soul Providers, a story about volunteers recognized for service to seniors; Something to Wine About, - on the opening of a new wine cellar; Luck Be a Lady, - on the opening of a new bath apothecary called Ladybug; To the Rescue, about - a nonprofit started by firefighters to collect toys for underprivileged children.

Police find Springfield Man Dead after Responding to Domestic Violence Call

A 67-year-old Springfield man is dead after Fairfax County Police spent two hours outside a residence in the 7000 block of Leewood Forest Drive trying to make contact with him.

Police initially responded to a domestic violence call for service from the man's spouse around 10:24 a.m. on Sunday, April 10.

The woman told police her husband was upset and had been pointing a handgun at her and threatening her. When she left the house, uninjured, she said she thought she heard gunshots.

Police officers set up a perimeter around the residence, blocked a segment of adjoining Backlick Road and advised area residents to stay in their homes.

After police obtained a warrant for the man for brandishing a firearm, they tried for two hours to make contact with him. When he didn't respond, Special Operations Division officers used an expandable tool to better see into the residence, at which point they saw him lying dead on the floor.

While the medical examiner's office will make an official determination of the man's cause of death, a police spokesman said based on what officers learned at the scene, they think the man shot himself.

Modular Homes Come of Age Cost-controls and customizable interiors spur interest.

BY JOHN BYRD

What's behind the growing popularity of modular homes? Recent research shows that a house comprised of architecturally-specific, pre-constructed modules can be assembled on a homeowner's lot for 10-15 percent less than of the cost of a comparably-sized "stick-built" house. A house that would normally cost $500,000, therefore, can be designed and constructed in the $425,000 range.

Moreover, a modular home — one that's been designed as appreciably finished components produced under factory conditions — is a solid piece of work. To assure units can be shipped and installed safely, framing material is substantially reinforced. Also, since the process generates less waste — it can be an eco-friendly choice.

Modular homeowners Marcelo Dobrauchi and Rita Tersio, husband and wife, are eager to show people what's possible and to share their journey.

What you'll see from the curb is a lovely, seemingly-traditional Colonial-style home that's actually composed of pre-constructed modular units.

The components were assembled in Pennsylvania, loaded on six flatbed trucks and delivered to their new half-acre destination in less than a day. Modules were then assembled on the site in two days.

The follow-up consisted mainly of interior finish work tasks like installing the Brailizan etuve flooring or the glass facing cabinets in the master bathroom, kitchen and butler's pantry.

Tersio and Dobrauchi moved in with their two children this past November and soon began entertaining friends.

For the couple, who operate Terranova Construction K&B, the move has inaugurated a new phase in their professional development. As a rule, they had concentrated on remodeling solutions in conventionally constructed "stick-built" homes. But in 2003 on a business trip in Pennsylvania they witnessed a pre-constructed housing component being whisked through the air on a crane and decided to investigate.

"In an instant we saw how much more solidly constructed a modular home is than a house built by traditional methods," Tersio said. "We decided to familiarize ourselves with the current practices. Basically, we wanted to know how effectively a home coming out of this process could be customized."

One decision led to another and last year the couple purchased the Vienna lot, which soon became the site of the 4,200-square-foot, two-level structure they had shepherded from rough sketches to the finely detailed residence they now occupy.

"We wanted to comparison-shop two building methods," Tersio said. "As remodelers, we often see clients agonizing over price differences in upgrade choices. So we asked ourselves: suppose the home-

The island provides a food prep sink and shelves for cookbooks. In total, the kitchen is 320 square feet. There's a butler's pantry through the door that segues to a formal dining room.

Marcelo Dobrauchi notes that, while a modular home costs 15 percent less than a "stick-built" alternative, its customization and finishwork potentials are comparable.

owner has already saved a substantial upgrade voucher since the house itself costs less to construct? Since our specialty is interior design, we thought this alternative process was worth exploring."

Certainly this concern for presentation is evident in their new home where the couple opted for formal finishwork detailing and personal-use spaces throughout.

There is a 140-square-foot master bathroom with custom-cabinetry and fine mosaic tiling; a 200-square-foot formal dining room that incorporates wainscoting and embossed paneling; a spacious in-law suite; and a family room designed for puzzles and board games. There is a second floor art studio and above all, a suite of rear rooms that revolves around a gourmet kitchen.

"We thought a lot about break-through kitchen design trends," Tersio said. "There's been a movement toward transitional-style: open, well-integrated spaces with effective work triangles that use formal design elements to define key activity zones."

To put their new kitchen to the test, the couple sponsored a cooking class last January led by Luca Tinti, a Tuscan chef who is also engaged to Tersio's sister.

"We wanted to welcome Luca to the family," Tersio said. "But were also responding to people who wanted to see just how customized a kitchen designed from a modular construction process can be."

At the end of the day, Luca's satisfaction that his requirements had been met spoke volumes.

"This space was obviously designed for serious cooking," Tinti said. "For instance, there are sources of water in all the right places ... pot-filler behind the gas range, the sink on the food prep island and the bow-shaped farm sink."

"There's a professional caliber gas range. Several ovens. Pull-out spice racks. It's not just an exceptionally well-organized plan; it also provides work stations for a whole range of steps necessary for sophisticated cooking." The 4-foot-by-12-foot food prep island, for instance, is positioned to support work triangles formed by perpendicular counter surfaces on either side of an archway which segues to the butler's pantry and formal dining room beyond. The island also doubles as a three-stool dining counter.

It's a plan that allows one dish to marinate — while another is being sauteed on the gas range, and a third is in the warming oven.

As a chef, Luca particularly appreciated finding all the necessary cooking implements at his fingertips.

"I could swivel in one direction and find cooking utensils, specially-sized pots and pans, and mixing bowls in custom-designed drawers" he said. "In the pantry, there's a special cubby for the pasta-maker. There's even a case for cookbooks built into the island."

None of this praise is a surprise to Dobrauchi, who is a seasoned kitchen designer. Still, the ease with which he could execute the kitchen's finishwork was a pleasant departure from the realities of the stick-built process.

"My experience in designing this house may be somewhat like that of a playwright who is so close to every detail of his work that he's completely forgotten about the audience until opening night. Suddenly people are excited about effects they are seeing for the first time, and all I can say is 'Yes, that's the reaction I intended to inspire.'" That said, Marcelo is equally enthused about the home's master bathroom, formal dining room and the old-world elegance of the spacious family room.

"The modular home design process can remove a lot of drudgery because you have the option to work with pre-existing templates," Dobrauchi said. "On the other hand, there's nothing you can't adapt to your requirements, and this allows the homeowner to concentrate on interior design, which is the arena where they really get to express themselves."

Christina Pier as Senta and Wayne Tigges as “The Dutchman” in Virginia Opera’s “The Flying Dutchman.”

Power and Romance

Virginia Opera’s “The Flying Dutchman” coming to the Center for the Arts.

BY DAVID SIEGEL
THE CONNECTION

Its rumbling, intense music, shiver-inducing dark forces and ultimate story of redemption by love have enthralled audiences since its premiere nearly 175 years ago. Its title and ghostly matters are immediately recognized. It is “The Flying Dutchman,” composer Richard Wagner’s enduring tale of a sea captain sentenced to sail the turbulent seas with a doomed ship for all eternity. That is unless he finds a woman prepared to risk her own life to save him from a curse.

Famous for its tempestuous overture that brings the storm tossed seas to life, Wagner’s “The Flying Dutchman” closes the Virginia Opera’s performance season at the George Mason University Center for the Arts.

The production is directed by Sara Widzer, under the guidance of Francesca Zambello, artistic director, Washington National Opera. Zambello originally created the production. Virginia Opera’s Principal Conductor, Adam Turner, will lead the Richmond Symphony Orchestra in the opulent driven score.

Bass-baritone Wayne Tigges (The Dutchman) and soprano Christina Pier (Senta) both indicated patrons will be treated to an exhilarating evening of powerful music, rich voices, abundant lively dramatic staging in an earthy

Where and When

Virginia Opera presents Richard Wagner’s “The Flying Dutchman” at George Mason University/Center for the Arts, 4400 University Drive, Fairfax. Performances: Saturday, April 23, 2016 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, April 24, at 2 p.m. Tickets: $48, $80 and $98. Call 888-945-2468 or visit www.cfa.gmu.edu. Note: There will be a free 30-minute pre-performance discussion with Dr. Glenn Winters (Doc Opera) 45 minutes before the curtain.

production. The scenic design which includes a sailing ship with plenty of riggings and rope will add character and vitality to the trance of “The Flying Dutchman.”

“The Flying Dutchman’ is a great fable that allows the imagination to soar. It is far from stuffy opera.” said Tigges. He spoke of its music as one contemporary audiences can hear as “a hard-rock beat and power ballads. It is just so visceral.” He described his “Dutchman” character as having a punk-rock edge “with great vitality and sensuality along costumes with an almost hard-metal/steam-punk visual appearance.”

Pier described “The Flying Dutchman” as an opera with something for everyone, even if someone is new to opera. “It is accessible and will resonate.” She described her character Senta as “fearless. She is a woman finding herself; beginning to know who she is.” Unexpectedly caught between the man she is expected to marry and a mythical man she falls in love with, making her final choice of a suitor, “she is not giving up herself, but is validating the truth of who she is as she knows it.”

Virginia Opera’s “The Flying Dutchman” examines in a stirring manner, can loyalty and love save a cursed sea captain from a harsh fate. See for yourself; the stuff of legends.

Djonkam Earns Fairfax South MVP at Nova Challenge

West Springfield senior produces double-double in all-star game.

BY JON ROETMAN
THE CONNECTION

At 6 feet 9, West Springfield senior Lewis Djonkam does most of his damage in the paint.

During the dmvstream.com Nova Challenge, an event featuring some of the top senior basketball players in Northern Virginia competing in two all-star games, a 3-point shootout and a dunk contest, Djonkam showed fans the diversity of his talents.

Djonkam did “big man” things: he swatted shots, scored points in the paint and posted a double-digit rebound total. But he also showed off his shooting touch, knocking down multiple perimeter attempts, including a 3-pointer.

At the end of the day, Djonkam produced a double-double, threw down a dunk, earned team MVP honors and had a blast while doing it.

Playing for the Fairfax South All-Stars, Djonkam scored 19 points and grabbed 13 rebounds during a 110-107 loss to the Prince William All-Stars on April 10 at Marshall High School.

DJONKAM, who is still weighing his college options, finished with four assists, two blocks and two steals and was named Fairfax South MVP.

“It was great,” Djonkam said. “Every kid on the court I love. I grew up with half the kids on the court. ... [It was my] last time playing with the kids. It was great. I loved it.”

Djonkam shot 6-for-12 from the floor, and made one of his two 3-point attempts.

“I’ve been working on that a lot,” Djonkam said about shooting 3-pointers. “When I came out today, I was like, ‘I’m going to show them what I worked on.’”

Wakefield’s Deng Nhial and T.C. Williams’ Jordan Jones each had 16 points for Fairfax South, and T.C. Williams’ Tavaris James finished with 14.

Spencer Askew, Djonkam’s teammate at West Springfield, scored 11 points and had three assists.

Woodson guards Matt Ayoub and Seamus Maloney each scored six points. Robinson’s Avi Silberman and Hayfield’s Romaine Oakley each had two points.

Later in the day, the Fairfax North All-Stars defeated the Loudoun County All-Stars 108-101.

Langley senior Nate Shafer scored 10 points, grabbed 10 rebounds and blocked seven shots for the Fairfax North All-Stars.

All-star games are known for run-and-gun offense, but Shafer, the 2016 6A North region Defensive Player of the Year, made life difficult for Loudoun County players who tried to score in the paint.

Robinson’s Avi Silberman competed in the Nova Challenge on April 10 at Marshall High School.

“I can still apply some tactics that we use [during structured basketball] to an all-star game,” Shafer said. “I typically find a guy that can’t shoot as well so I can camp in the paint and that gives me more blocks and more contested shots and more rebounds, so that sort of pads my stats in an all-star game like this, which is fun.”

Shafer, who will play at Swarthmore College, said he enjoyed making defensive plays in an offensive environment. During one possession, Shafer swatted multiple Loudoun County shots.

“Those kinds of plays get the gym on their feet,” he said, “so I like to do that.”

Blake Francis, a member of the state champion Westfield Bulldogs, earned MVP honors for Fairfax North, finishing with 23 points, six rebounds and five assists. He knocked down a 3-pointer at the halftime buzzer, cutting the Fairfax North deficit to 64-50. Fairfax North outscored Loudoun County 58-37 in the second half.

Francis, who shot 8-for-17 from the floor and 5-for-12 from 3-point range, is still weighing his college options.

CENTREVILLE’S William Unterkofler scored 12 points and grabbed four rebounds. He also won the dunk contest, earning a perfect score of 30 on his final attempt, when he jumped, brought the ball between his legs and threw it down with his right hand.

Unterkofler will attend Virginia Tech but doesn’t plan to play basketball. He said he could first dunk a basketball in the ninth grade.

“It was pretty cool,” said the 6-foot-5 Unterkofler. “I’ve wanted to be in a dunk contest for a long time because I practice dunking all the time and I never get to show it, so it’s really exciting to get to come out and do it.”

Fairfax High’s Alex McNaughton, who will play at Salisbury, scored 17 points for Fairfax North and shot 6-for-9 from the floor, including 3-for-4 from behind the arc. Fellow Rebel Manny Miller had six points and seven rebounds.

Lake Braddock Softball Improves to 8-0

Senior pitcher Abby Thibodeau and the Lake Braddock softball team defeated South County 4-1 on Tuesday to remain undefeated. The Bruins improved to 8-0, including 5-0 in Conference 7, and have outscored their opponents 113-4. Lake Braddock will host West Springfield at 6:30 p.m. on Friday, April 15.
