Mountain View High is a school full of heart, and it's openly on display at every graduation. Teachers, counselors and administrators go above and beyond for their students, and the students, themselves, have each other's backs.

The school's spring commencement was Tuesday, June 21, at Centreville High. And after Principal Gary Morris and the two student speakers shared their personal stories, there wasn't a dry eye in the room.

"June graduates, you've finally made it," said Morris. "Today we celebrate 20 years of seeing students to and through graduation, and it's an exciting milestone."

Two decades ago, he said, he decided to take his talents to Fairfax County "to work with the brightest and the best in the 10th-largest school district in the country. I was coming to establish my roots, and I was scared.

"But at Mountain View, I've become part of a family that put my journey to shame. Some of you made your journey when you were half my age, with no place to live and no employment. Some of you traveled 1,400 and 1,500 miles — and you did that all alone."

Morris said he's also witnessed their journeys in terms of "incredible growth — from saying, 'I can't' to 'I can,' to 'I did' to 'I will.' And these journeys eclipse any journeys measured only in distance. Physical abuse, substance abuse, health issues and deaths — some of you went through these things, but came out the other side. We're so proud of each and every one of you, and you should be, too."

Furthermore, he told them, "I owe you for the promises you've kept, the tears you've cried, the grit, determination and persistence you've shown and your willingness to come back [from adversity]. I know I'm standing here because of you. I know, if you can do it, I can do it. Hashtag 20, go Timber Wolves!"

Then graduating senior Joel Calix stepped to the podium to share the challenges he's overcome. When he was 14, he lived in Honduras with his parents, sister and two younger brothers. "School was four hours from my village, so my first struggle was leaving my family to attend it," he said.

"On May 25, 2009, my mom hugged me, said she loved me and told me to be careful," said Calix. "She later phoned and asked if I was OK. I said, 'Yes,' and she said she'd dreamed I was in a bad car accident. Two hours later, my dad called and said I had to come home because my mom had died. She'd had a heart attack and passed away."

At first, he said, "I asked, 'Why me?' My mom was really important to me. Then I left school because I had to get a job and help support my two little brothers. I went to the U.S. where my older brother lived, and I worked 10 hours a day in a restaurant. But I couldn't make as much money as my brother because I couldn't speak English."

So Calix came to Mountain View to continue his education. But tragedy still found him. "On Feb. 11, 2011, my sister called from Honduras and said my

Fairfax County experiences heroin overdoses every day, according to county officials. To help raise awareness, a second county-wide Heroin and Prescription Drug Abuse Town Hall was held June 14 at Centreville High School.

"I first got involved in this issue when there were a couple heroin-related deaths in my district two years ago," Springfield District Supervisor Pat Herrity said. "It was an underreported problem so the board approved a motion to set up a task force. This is a battle that, frankly, everyone in this country — across our very county, in our neighborhoods, is facing. We are seeing evidence of this epidemic daily in Fairfax County."

Herrity, along with Sully District Supervisor Kathy Smith and At-Large School Board member Jeanette Hough, hosted the informational forum which attracted an audience of 50 residents.

"The board gets alerted every time there is an incident, and let me tell you: it's a daily occurrence," Herrity said. "We are getting several emails a week, and a large percentage of users are between the ages of 18 and 35. Among the high school students affected, there are plenty of kids you wouldn't suspect."

The victims of heroin and other opioids don't fit a profile, so no one can be too confident that a loved isn't falling into an addiction that comes with these drugs.

Herrity added that a 4.0 GPA and a college application filled with lists of extracurricular activities and award-winning sports per

Westfield High School's commencement speaker, Ishwarya Sivakumar, selected in a school audition process, gave her 655 graduating classmates "one last ecology lesson" on Tuesday, June 21, in the EagleBank Arena at George Mason University.

Ishwarya explained that she sees the class of 2016 as an ecosystem – some students are "consumers," part of the social class; others are "producers," unique, innovative and eager to make their mark at Westfield; still others are "decomposers" because they do not receive the recognition they deserve.

On the topic of adversity, Ishwarya shared guidance from her father. When her family experienced hardships her father told her: "Knowledge is the characteristic that will make us unbreakable."

Knowledge and adaptability are products of inclusion and "not building walls," she reminded the class of 2016. "Many of us have already faced the harsh realities of life," Sivakumar said, she marveled at how far her "diverse and progressive" class had come.

The faculty presented Maya Anderson with the "Pride" award for exemplifying respect, personal responsibility, integrity, empathy and discipline.

Maya overcame medical obstacles which prevented her from coming to school in her sophomore year and, as a result, was able to graduate with her classmates. The faculty recognized her constant support of others and her refusal to pity herself. The faculty presented the "Leader of the Pack" award to Catherine Crossett for her exceptional leadership as a student activist. Catherine raised awareness for pediatric cancer at Westfield and created a fund for students to donate to the cause.

Before the students received their diplomas, Principal Dr. Anthony Copeland reminded the audience of the many accomplishments of the Westfield class of 2016: Two National Merit scholars, 20 first place winners at the Fairfax County Science Fair, $3 million in scholarships over four years, 11 Cappies nominations and one Cappies winner, state champions in football and boys basketball (among other sports), and 107 summa cum laude graduates – "Westfield honor scholars."

Copeland said he was confident that the class of 2016 is well prepared for the challenges that lie ahead.

Student speaker, Ishwarya Sivakumar, says Westfield gave her a solid foundation, forcing her to think on her feet. She says she looks forward to continuing her expansion in college next year. Sivakumar will study molecular cellular biology with a focus public health at Johns Hopkins University. She hopes to one day become a surgeon.

House Fire Displaces Four

Fairfax County Fire & Rescue Department units responded to the 14800 block of Cranoke Street for reports of a house on fire on June 21, at approximately 5:50 p.m. Firefighters were able to bring the fire under control and no responders or civilians were injured. The fire was caused by a lightning strike to the home. Two adults and two children have been displaced and Red Cross assistance was declined. Total property loss is estimated at $107,500.

Free Carseat Inspections

Certified technicians from the Sully District Police Station will perform free, child safety carseat inspections Thursday, July 7, from 5-8:30 p.m., at the station, 4900 Stonecroft Blvd. in Chantilly. No appointment is necessary. But residents should install the child safety seats themselves so technicians may properly inspect and adjust it, as needed.

Because of time constraints, only the first 35 vehicles arriving on each date will be inspected. That way, inspectors may have enough time to properly instruct the caregiver on the correct use of the child seat. Call 703-814-7000 to confirm dates and times.

Stringfellow Speed Limit Rising

In July, the speed limit on a two-mile stretch of Stringfellow Road from Route 50 to Fair Lakes Parkway will increase from 35 to 40 miles per hour.

Volunteer Drivers Are Needed

Fairfax County needs volunteers to drive older adults to medical appointments and wellness programs. For these and other volunteer opportunities, call 703-324-5406 or go to www.fairfaxcounty.gov/olderadults and click on Volunteer Solutions.

Former Police Officer Torres sentenced to 12 months for killing John Geer.

BY TIM PETERSON
CENTRE VIEW

For the first time in its three-quarters of a century in existence, a Fairfax County Police officer has been convicted and sentenced after an officer-involved shooting death.

After pleading guilty to felony involuntary manslaughter in the shooting death of Springfield resident John Geer, former Fairfax County Police Officer Adam Torres could be a free man within a matter of weeks.

Torres was set to go to trial April 18 for murdering Geer, shooting him in the chest with his service weapon in August 2013, when the defense and prosecution announced the surprise agreement.

Fairfax County Circuit Court Judge Robert J. Smith announced Friday June 24 he was ruling in concert with the sentence length set forth in the plea agreement: 12 months jail time.

Smith spoke to a crowded courtroom that he had "reached a solution that may not please everyone." But he said he hopes it brings "some measure of justice" to Geer's family, Harrington and their two daughters.

Following his release, Torres will serve a three-year probation period. Since his time already served counts toward the sentence, Commonwealth's Attorney Raymond F. Morrogh said Torres could be released within days or weeks. Typically in year-long sentences, Morrogh explained, inmates exhibiting good behavior can be released in as few as 10 months.

Torres' attorney John F. Carroll said that Torres has been a "model inmate" in his time in the prison. After the Geer shooting, he was placed on administrative leave before being fired many months later. Torres ran the intern program successfully, Carroll said, and exhibited "no indications of a continuing problem."

ANNE GEER, John's mother, spoke at Torres' sentencing hearing, the final witness in the case. Clad in a black suit, she walked past Torres and his attorneys, keeping her eyes fixed in front of her.

Anne Geer had already heard of the potential punishment for Torres at the plea hearing, and the confirmation of the 12-month jail sentence was upsetting to her.

Anne Geer cited the great length of time she and her family didn't know any details of her son's death, including the name of the officer who shot him. She said her John "was executed by a police officer" and that Judge Smith's sentence "completely negates the intent to kill."

"If I went out and shot and killed somebody," she said in interviews following the hearing, "I'd never see the light of day again."

The police and county released virtually no information about the case for 17 months. After the Geer family filed a $12 million wrongful death lawsuit that also called for the release of incident information, a court order forced release of details and the name of the officer who fired the fatal shot.

"It's Insulting to suggest for the crime of murder someone would only spend one year in jail," Anne Geer said. "John will spend forever in his grave. I ask: Where is the justice for John?"

Torres was among several officers who responded to Geer's residence after his longtime girlfriend and mother of his children Maura Harrington called the police.

Geer was upset over hearing that she was planning to move out. He was throwing her belongings out on to the lawn.

A 40-minute conversation took place between Torres, another officer and Geer, while Geer stood in the doorway of his home with hands resting above his head on the doorframe.

Torres claimed to have seen Geer drop his hands suddenly and reacted quickly and shot Geer. His version wasn't corroborated by the other officers with him on the scene.

Torres gave an apology at the plea hearing in April, but had no response or statement at sentencing.

In a brief interview following the proceedings on June 24, Torres' attorney Carroll was asked whether his client truly thought he had done anything wrong.

"He absolutely has remorse," Carroll said, adding Torres expressed that as part of the plea.

Carroll repeated that "many of the facts" of the case "are not in dispute" and that the agreed upon sentence was "a good resolution for everyone."

Commonwealth's Attorney Morrogh, also speaking after the sentencing, said he felt the 12 months was "appropriate," though not the ideal outcome. "It's a fact of life you can't please everyone."

Morrogh said he would've preferred to try the case, but acknowledged it's "very difficult to convict a police officer ... you can't second guess them."

By avoiding trial, the family also avoided the possibility of one of Geer's daughters being forced to testify.

THE FAMILY just wanted to see Torres punished, Morrogh said. "It's not a perfect punishment."

Fairfax County Board of Supervisors Chairman Sharon Bulova and Police Chief Edwin Roessler released individual statements in response to the ruling, mailed together.

"The death of John Geer was a tragic event and a painful chapter in Fairfax County history," Bulova's statement reads. "With today's sentencing, the justice system has done its part. Although Adam Torres' act cannot be undone, there are many things Fairfax County can do to ensure future tragedies such as this never happen again."

In his statement, Roessler said, "My thoughts and prayers remain with the Geer family, the friends and loved ones of Mr. John Geer, the community we proudly serve and the men and women of the Fairfax County Police Department. We support the judicial process and the Office of the Commonwealth's Attorney. The action of one former employee is not reflective of the honorable work performed by the members of our Department, sworn, civilian and volunteer."

dad was in a car accident and died," he said. "I was sad and alone, but I found the courage to be the man of my family."

He said school was difficult because he didn't speak the language, his classes were hard and everything was new to him. "But I felt I could count on the teachers as friends and family," he said. "Mountain View helped me reach my goals. Working until midnight after school was hard; but I knew, if I didn't continue with my education, my life would stay the same."

"Thanks to my teachers and counselors, I'm graduating today," Calix told his classmates. "The struggle develops your strength. Don't stop when you're tired; stop when you're done. God bless you all."

Speaking next was Dannia Contreras. Her whole life, she said, people told her there are good and bad mirrors reflecting her decisions and she should choose which ones are the best for her. But during her first two years of high school, she had a tough time doing that.

"I was making bad decisions that affected my schoolwork and my family," she said. "I skipped school and I lost my dad's trust. My grandmother was worried about me, but I didn't want any help. At school, they gave me a list of options and Mountain View was one of them. At first, I didn't want to come here, but I thought of my siblings and didn't want to be a bad mirror for them."

To her surprise, said Contreras, "This was the most accepting school I've ever been to and the teachers were like family. Here, I completed my work and became successful, and I reconnected with my aunts who've been like mothers to me and have shaped

Local Scouts Receive National Honor Medal

Last summer, Boy Scouts of America (BSA) Sully District Troop 577 sent several Scouts and adult leaders on a high adventure trip to Northern Tier, just outside Ely, Minn. During the trip, the Scouts were divided into patrols which would trek and canoe through the Boundary Waters Canoe Area Wilderness (USA), Moose Lake, and the Quetico Provincial Park (Canada) with the help of a guide from the Charles L. Sommers Canoe Base Camp. The Base Camp near Ely has been offering these BSA high adventure camps since 1941. Unfortunately, Patrol D ran into some difficulties during their adventure.

On June 30, 2015 — the fifth day of their back country expedition — Patrol D left its campsite in three Kevlar canoes for a day trip. Because of the high rainfall during previous weeks, the waterfalls they were going to go observe turned into waterfalls they would soon experience firsthand. The guide led them too close to the top of Upper Basswood Falls and the entire patrol inadvertently went over the falls in their canoes with their day trip gear. One Kevlar canoe split in two going over the falls. Another canoe was damaged beyond repair.

While the guide suffered the most severe injuries, two of the boys had to be rescued from the water and everyone involved sustained cuts, bruises and various degrees of hypothermia and shock. The Boy Scouts used their first aid skills to patch themselves up and to keep warm after having been in the cold waters. With only one canoe remaining, with only one managed to get back to their morning camp site to get the rest of their gear and first aid supplies. There was no way that nine of them could travel back to base camp with all their gear in one canoe, so the boys managed to contact the Northern Tier Base Camp and give their exact location so that they could be extracted. The rescue mission lasted most of the day.

Upon returning to Virginia, one of the boys' father's contacted the BSA National Court of Honor committee to tell them of the boys' actions during the rescue. Each Scout involved and all three of the parents who accompanied them had to write up a detailed account of what happened and then present their information to the committee. After an evaluation, the National Court of Honor awarded all five boys with national awards.

On Tuesday, June 21, nearly a year later, the following scouts of Patrol D were presented with the Honor Medal and the National Certificate of Merit for their actions during their Northern Tier trip last summer: James Conard, Noah Desmond, Garret Lopes, Albert Pan, and Chase Zimmermann. According to the BSA website, the Honor Medal is given to scouts who have demonstrated "un-

During Mountain View's spring commencement last week, three graduating seniors were honored with special awards from the faculty. They were recognized not just for their academic accomplishments, but also for their personal character.

CITIZENSHIP AWARD

Counselor Mike Todd presented the Citizenship Award to Jose Aleman. "At Mountain View, it's our goal that all students and staff be respectful and caring of one another," said Todd. "The Citizenship Award is given to those students who have helped to build a positive school community through their example and their work with others."

"In his time at Mountain View, Jose has demonstrated a unique combination of both determination and caring for others," he said. "When I first met Jose, he told me he would graduate this June, even though it looked mathematically impossible at the time. He came to school every day with a huge smile on his face and a strong work ethic."

Todd said Aleman's English teacher said the young man "set an example of positive attitude, help, friendliness and encouragement for all of the other students" in his class. And as Aleman's counselor, Todd said he was always in his office, not to talk about himself, but to support his friends and classmates by bringing them there to ask questions.

"Jose also personally brought several students to either enroll at Mountain View or to at least meet with a counselor [to obtain] more information," said Todd. "He is truly a great ambassador for our school. Jose will be working for the next year and plans on starting school at NVCC after that. I know he won't give up on his education."

PERSONAL ACHIEVEMENT AWARD

Joel Calix received the Personal Achievement Award from Math Department chair Richard Chinn. "Many students attending school at Mountain View wrestle with additional responsibilities of family, job and other adult commitments," he said. "[This] award recognizes those students who have succeeded academically and personally, despite great pressures and obstacles."

Chinn said Calix has already been through many obstacles in life that "would break most people's spirits and will. Rather than surrender, Joel used these experiences to strengthen and motivate himself to do what is best for him and his future." Although Calix came to a new country alone, was in an unfamiliar school and had to learn new things in a language he didn't speak, he never gave up.

"He created his own family by connecting with classmates and teachers, he worked hard to learn [English] and he kept pushing himself in all his classes to be successful," said Chinn. "He found the strength to break through these barriers while holding down a fulltime job and providing financial support to his family in Honduras."

"Joel is now ready to pursue a career in information technology," continued Chinn. "And he has the work ethic, positive attitude and perseverance to achieve whatever personal goals he sets his sights on. In one of his scholarship essays, Joel wrote, 'Nothing is impossible when your potential is bigger than your struggle.' We cannot wait to see where his potential takes him in the future."

FACULTY AWARD

Math teacher Jude Welling presented the Faculty Award to Ana Adair. Recipients have gained the faculty's respect and admiration by exemplifying the spirit of the school's motto, "Family, Love, Respect," while earning a 3.4 GPA or higher.

"Ana has spent her life as a caregiver for herself and for her parents," said Welling. "After her mother died when she was only a child, Ana helped run her home and [later] kept vigil by her father's side during his final days. And without her grandparents, who helped her transition to a new community, she wouldn't have ended up at Mountain View."

Here, said Welling, "We met a scrappy, spunky, artistic girl not afraid to show tough love to her classmates. She contributed not only to her own success, but to that of other students, whether by lending a tender shoulder or by barking, 'Get out of bed, I'm picking you up for school in 10 minutes.' Ana, you're kind, hard-working and dedicated to your dreams and will let nothing stand in your way." Welling said Adair will make an "excellent tattoo artist, not just because of your outstanding talent, but also because you understand you're making more than just art. You're helping your clients memorialize loved ones, mark turning points in their lives and permanently change what they see in the mirror. All that takes a heart of service and commitment." Saying the faculty realizes how much Adair had to overcome to reach graduation, Welling told her, "We're so proud of you and we're blessed that you're part of the Mountain View family."

Getting Home Safely on Independence Day

Independence Day is a national celebration, and for many, that celebration includes alcohol. The summer overall and July 4 in particular are times of greater risk for drinking and driving.

This is true for the young adults over 21 living with you, and unfortunately also for many teens who are under 21. More on that below.

For all revelers: Make a plan. Plan to celebrate with access to public transportation. Plan to have a designated driver. Plan to celebrate in a place safe and comfortable to spend the night.

But in case those plans go awry, here is an alternative safety net.

EDITORIAL On the night of Monday, July 4, the Washington Regional Alcohol Program will offer free taxi rides home (up to $30), beginning at 10 p.m. for six hours until 4 a.m. the morning of Tuesday, July 5. Participants must be at least 21. Call 1-800-200-TAXI.

On July 4, 2015, more than 230 people used WRAP's SoberRide service rather than possibly driving home impaired.

In summer, 44 percent of all U.S. traffic deaths are caused by alcohol-impaired drivers, according to statistics provided by WRAP. SoberRide is a way to help keep local roads safe from impaired drivers during this traditionally high-risk holiday.

On July 4, historically, more than 40 percent of traffic deaths in the U.S. are caused by drunk drivers; more than 20 percent of the drunk drivers involved in those deaths had blood alcohol concentrations of nearly twice the legal limit, said Kurt Erickson of WRAP.

SoberRide is only available for those over 21. For parents of young adults who may be living at home and parents of those under 21, this is time to talk. Ask about plans, ask specifically about getting home. Let your younger family members know that you would much rather pay for a cab or come get them yourself than run the risk of losing them.

This is a message important for the tail end of graduation season and good for the whole summer, which is the time of the highest risk for teen drivers.

Send Photos to Pet Connection

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Gross Misreading of the Second Amendment

To the Editor:

This is in response to U.S. Rep. Gerry Connolly's opinion piece titled "Stem Gun Violence Epidemic" (The Connection, June 22-28).

It frustrates me that so many anti-gun people, including U.S. Sen. Tim Kaine and, most recently, Representative Connolly in his editorial in the Connection, simply do not understand history. Specifically, they either ignore, are ignorant of, or simply don't grasp the truth behind the Founders' intent when they wrote the Second Amendment (2A). Mr. Connolly's observation that "certainly our Founding Fathers did not envision AR-15 semi-automatic rifles when they drafted the Second Amendment" demonstrates a profound lack of understanding of the intent of the 2A. That the Founders didn't have the AR-15 in mind when they wrote the 2A may be true, but it's also totally not relevant to what they did have in mind.

What Democrats and anti-rights [advocates] want is to ban all effective weapons in American hands. Without realizing it (maybe), they pursue and promote Marxist goals of making the public subservient to the government boot. That is the exact opposite of why the 2A is in the Constitution in the first place: it is there to balance federal power.

Ever since the so-called Gun Control Act of 1968, when officials could get all the machine guns they wanted, but you and I could only get single-shot rifles like the AR-15, we have been sub-armed. The balance of power flipped decisively to government. Ours fire only one shot at a time, and are all we have left. Antis think they're assault weapon machine guns, but they took those from us back in 1968.

Then they yell at the NRA for blocking "reasonable common sense bills." They are nothing of the sort. Banning the AR-15 — the finest defensive rifle made in America, the choice of police who are otherwise outgunned against exactly the same criminals common civilians face — would have no effect against jihadis.

If Americans are sub-armed, limited to bolt-action wood guns, or some other total infringement that leaves America in a completely unbalanced state, the shining light of freedom will have been extinguished. The jihadis will have won. With asymmetrical warfare underway, we should be teaching Americans how to shoot, and arming them better, not passing laws to infringe their gun rights.

The founders were not thinking of muskets and blunderbusses when they crafted the 2A. They said the right to bear "arms" shall not be infringed. "Arms" is a very broad term, deliberately used because they felt the citizenry necessarily must be on equal footing with the government when the need to resist tyranny arises. ... Stated simplistically, if the government has howitzers, so, too, should the citizenry have howitzers. ...

Additionally, the founders and framers idea of "well-regulated" had nothing to do with government restrictions on gun ownership (hence the very clear declaration, "Shall Not Be Infringed," at the end of the 2A) or the government's ability to monitor gun owners, but instead had to do with a militia of civilians being well-trained and self-sufficient. (Recall that George Mason stated, "I ask, sir, what is the militia? It is the whole people except for a few public officials.") The 2A's purpose is to protect a free State from government tyranny. The gross misreading that government is supposed to regulate the Second Amendment is like suggesting a burglar ought to have the security code to one's home alarm system. It's ridiculous. ...

Aside from the government, if a violent armed criminal threatens me, my family, and my home, it stands to reason that I should have at my disposal the same level of defensive means that he/she/they has/have at their disposal for offensive means. (Don't think of flintlock muskets!) Targets of violent criminals are entitled to be on equal arms footing if they are to survive. Now that's "common sense!"

Fighting Against Drug Abuse

formances do not rule out the possibility of drug use.

The town hall meeting featured speakers from the Drug Enforcement Administration, the Fairfax County Police Department, from the school system and from professional drug counselors who presented facts about the use of heroin in Fairfax County.

In his talk, Fairfax County Police Lieutenant James Cox said that during the previous weekend, there were more than four overdoses. Cox added he received a call about an overdose during the two-hour town hall meeting.

Herrity said that those who went to the town hall meeting came away with a message of hope. Among words of encouragement, the presenters let their audience know how to get help here in Northern Virginia.

"This was a meeting to make sure people know there is a problem across all populations of Fairfax County, and on top of that, the depth and breadth of the problem," Herrity said. "We also let everyone know where to get help, that there is hope, and to let people know what we in the county are doing about it."

Aside from specialists and county officials, there were also people at the town hall sharing their personal stories. Rona Powell, mother of a Centreville High School student who lost her life this past March to a prescription drug overdose, was also in attendance and addressed both the audience and the cameras from local Channels 5 and 7.

Despite her daughter's tragic death, Powell said she came away from the event — in the same place where her beloved daughter went to school every day just months before — with hope.

"I think this shows that there's hope for this community, for people throughout the country to be able to take hold of these addictions and these drugs and to give these kids education and support. Tonight, it felt like I wasn't alone," she said.

Powell added that since her daughter's loss, she is dedicated to preventing such lethal addictions from affecting other families. She wants to be an advocate for other parents in her position.

Herrity, who has served on the Board of Supervisors since 2009, said that, from what he's seen, the rise of opioid abuse has been on a steep rise for the last five years. These strong prescription painkillers are highly addictive. On the flip side, Herrity explained, they are commonly prescribed for minor surgeries and when the patient's pain subsides, the pills remain in medicine cabinets for other household members to find and try one — or more.

"It starts in the medicine cabinet," he said. "Someone in the family gets a prescription for pain pills like oxycodone. Then, another member tries a tablet. Then, their life quickly becomes 'chasing the dragon.' The street value of an oxycodone pill, for example, can be $80."

This is where the addiction can morph into a heroin dependency. A much cheaper drug, heroin can be snorted or injected, and produces similar side effects and sensations of the prescription drugs that began the addiction in the first place. A heroin addict in recovery for eight years also addressed the crowd, showing firsthand that recover from such a potent substance is possible.

Herrity said that while awareness is step one, he has already put motions before the board that will result in war on what seems to be such easy access to these lethal substances. "At the town hall, we discussed a motion before the board to get licensed drug counselors back in schools," Herrity said, explaining that such professionals were removed from the public school system roughly three years ago. "Of course seeing this initiative come to fruition will take time, but the motion to work on the idea was passed. The Community Services Board is seriously looking into making this happen right now."

Herrity has other ideas too, but he emphasized that it all comes down to first and foremost spreading the word. He said he wished that there had been more attendants at the Centreville High School meeting. "The biggest public feedback from parents that had children in recovery was that we need to get the word out," he said. "So many of these parents had no idea what their kids were going through. We are committed to ensure that we have the most educated possible community in order to prevent further tragedy. In addition to getting these counselors back in schools, we need to get these prescriptions out of medicine cabinets."

Planning Memorable, Meaningful Family Vacations

Tips for turning summer trips into a lifetime of memories.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
CENTRE VIEW

As summer gets underway, vacation-bound families are packing their bags and heading out of town. Vacations often fly by — months of planning and anticipating can be over in the blink of an eye. With a little advance planning and forethought, however, even a quick weekend trip or a visit to relatives can become meaningful and memorable.

To begin with, give all family members an opportunity to be part of the travel planning. “Let kids have some input into what the plan is,” said Linda Guly, professor of psychology at Marymount University in Arlington. “For instance, if you want to take them to the beach, let them choose something that they want to do at the beach, something that’s important to them. That creates a balance between each kid’s interests and the family’s interest.”

Allowing children to have a say in the plan sets the stage for a memorable vacation. “You can show them pictures in a guide book of age-appropriate activities that you would be willing to do as well,” said Karen Prince, LCSW, a Bethesda, Maryland-based psychotherapist. “It’s important to give kids

Indulging in some screen time on a family vacation is fine, said Guly, as long as there is a balance between screen time and family time, and screen limits are set before the vacation begins.

“Try to be positive about it instead of punitive,” she said.

“Negotiate screen time and make it reasonable. Always get the kids’ input to reduce family stress. You don’t want the family vacation to be dominated by these issues if you can negotiate them ahead of time.”

Don’t rule out allowing a child’s friends to join the family vacation. “I think what happens as kids get into adolescence they want to form an identity outside the immediate family,” said Guly. “Including a friend is a nice balance because the family unit gets respected and the family gets to know and spend time with the friend.”

From family group shots to picturesque scenery of mountain tops and oceans, documenting a trip with photographs will help preserve your favorite memories. This is made easier with the ubiquity of smart phones and tablets, and the entire family can participate.

“Encourage kids to take pictures of the event on their phone as opposed to just messing around with it,” said Guly. “Social media is very picture oriented. If kids have the job of taking the family pictures, that’s cool.”

“You can give [children] an inexpensive camera that you get for $10 at CVS,” said

Prince. “That way they can capture memories as they go.”

Discuss expectations and hopes for the vacation so each family member can clarify his or her own interests and hear other family members’ ideas, and the family can set realistic plans that keep everyone’s needs in mind. “I’d recommend a wish list and perhaps agree everyone gets to have at least one wish fulfilled,” said Amy L. Best, Ph.D., professor and chair of the Department of Sociology and Anthropology at George Mason University.

Make a plan for mediating conflicts that are likely to arise in even the most easy-going families. “It’s easy to get bogged down in small conflicts that can cast a dark shadow,” said Best. “Doing some anticipatory work is a good idea.”

At the end of each day, take stock of how the vacation is going and make adjustments along the way as necessary, said Prince. “That way you don’t have the whole vacation go by and find out that the kids didn’t enjoy it,” she said. “There is often the expectation that a vacation is going to be nirvana the entire time and it doesn’t happen that way. Things come up unexpectedly and you adjust.”

“Family vacations are an opportunity to teach kids how to be part of a team and how to cooperate,” said Prince.

“Be prepared for activities that you enjoy but they don’t,” said child psychologist Stacie Isenberg, Psy.D., “If you love viewing art but your kids don’t, bring drawing pads and books to keep them occupied while you admire the artwork for just a little longer. Create challenges and games for them during less exciting outings, such as ‘I Spy’ or scavenger hunts.”

It’s a good idea to create some family vacation rituals, advises Best. “If it’s a place you return to frequently, try some new things, but do the round of traditions,” she said. “This will strengthen kids’ attachments to the place and create lasting positive memories.”

Remember to schedule time for rest and food breaks. “Even the best travelers need some time to replenish themselves,” said Isenberg.

Continuing Education

Online classes offer flexible options.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
CENTRE VIEW

Interested in learning to landscape your yard using sustainable practices? Want to practice Spanish before traveling to South America? Didn’t take philosophy seriously in college, and want to take a refresher course? Looking to get an advanced degree or certification to secure a job promotion?

Opportunities for continuing and professional education abound for the intellectually curious.

One trend in continuing education that local educators say is on the rise is online learning. A study by the Babson Survey Research Group shows the number of students enrolled in distance learning courses increased each year for the past 13 years.

Driven by advancements in technology, the explosion of online learning is making education — once available only to those with extra time and funds — accessible to anyone with a tablet or laptop computer.

“Our online courses have increased at about 20 percent a year for about three years,” said Stephen Nodine, Ph.D., associate vice president for E-Learning and director of Distance Education at George Mason University.

One of the reasons for the rapid growth of online courses is the flexibility that they offer working adults. “Students are able to schedule a course that they couldn’t work into their daily schedule,” said Nodine. “People who are looking to advance in their career or change careers can earn a graduate certificate and have a new credential without having to come to campus.”

The demand for courses that enhance professional marketability is another factor behind the popularity of online continuing education. “One example of how this works is in the [information technology] field,” said Jennifer Lerner, associate vice president for e-Learning at Northern Virginia Community College. “One program that is in demand is cyber security if someone needs an additional certificate to prepare them for the new kinds of IT roles, like Cyber Security.”

The flexibility that online courses offer does not mean that they are less challenging than courses taught at a university, said

Online and professional education courses, such as this landscape design class offered at The George Washington University’s Arlington campus are growing in popularity.

Lerner.

“Students need to be really organized and really self-motivated,” said Lerner. “Online courses aren’t for those who take an out-of-sight-out-of-mind approach to learning. Students need to just be committed with online courses as they would for an on campus class. “They shouldn’t be the last thing on your priority list that you expect to fit in without a time commitment.”

Jennifer Webb, senior associate director of Graduate Enrollment for New Student Graduate Admissions at Marymount University, said that while traditional online programs are best suited for students who have strong time management skills and adequate technology literacy, “many programs now have support and format opportunities which offer additional structure and engagement, and are, therefore, well suited for all types of learners.”

The reasons that some students choose online courses vary, said Nodine. “There are some students who might be in Iowa and want to take a class that we offer and they can’t get to a university near them,” he said.

Universities strive to make their online classes accessible and relevant. For example, The University of Virginia’s School of Continuing and Professional Studies has academic centers in Falls Church. The George Washington University offers courses on campuses in Arlington, Alexandria and Ashburn, as well as more than 100 degree and certificate programs online.

“Online education remains an extremely high priority for both faculty and administration at GW,” said Geneva Henry, George Washington University’s dean of libraries and academic innovation. “Because of the success of our current online offerings, we will continue to grow our online courses as the demand from faculty and students is currently very high.”

Virginia Run Riptide

On a bright summer morning, the Virginia Run Riptide opened their 2016 summer swim season at the Dunn Loring Dolphin's pool in Vienna. The crowd was hoarse from yelling as the meet was tied through freestyle and backstroke, and while 67 personal bests were recorded by the Riptide swimmers, the Dolphins surfed the tide in breaststroke and fly going on to win the meet by 220 to 200.

Freestyle first places were earned by Charis Roundtree (8U G), Charles Beamon (9-10 B), Jason Cheifetz (11-12 B), Maddie Whitton (11-12 G), Anthony Arcomona (13-14 B) and Olympic trials bound Chloe Hicks (15-18 G). Second place point from Kevin O'Connor (8U B), Will Whitton (9-10 B), Nick McGrath (15-18 B) and third place points from Jack Jeffries (8U B), Neha Srinivasan (9-10 G), Emily Jon (11-12 G), Noah Schettini (13-14 B), Chelsea Nguyen (13-14 G), and Didi Pace (15-18 G) kept the meet tied at 45-45.

Backstroke events were exciting with six year old Nicholas Harris taking a first in the 8 and under boys. The 9-10 boys Davis Collinsworth, William Whitton and Charles Beamon, the 11-12 girls Alana Turflinger, Caitlin Kelliher and Izzy Cogan and the 15-18 girls Chloe Hicks, Sarah Boyle, and Chanel Cogan swept their events. Carson Coughlin (8U

G), Grace Ramey (9-10 G), Owen Thomas (11-12 B) and William Beamon (13-14 B) captured seconds, while Lauren Fitch (8U G), Natalie Orwat (9-10 G), Andrew Boyle (11-12 B), and Jack Liskey (13-14 B) secured third place.

Wins in the Breaststroke were hard to come by with Griffin Osterhout (9-10B), Alana Turflinger (11-12 G), Leo Want (15-18 B) and Mia Newkirk (15-18 G) winning their events. Jason Cheifetz (11-12 B), William Beamon (13-14 B), Patrick Kearney (15-18 B) swam for second and Jenna Van Buren (8U G), Jay Rennyson (9-10 B), Angela Thomson (9-10 G), Owen Thomas (11-12 B), Gabriella Borsato (11-12 B), Lack Liskey (13-14 B), Meghan Gary (13-14 B), and Meredith Matz (15-18 G) captured thirds.

First place swims in fly were captured by Charis Roundtree (8U G), Davis Collinsworth (9-10 B), Andrew Boyle (11-12 B), Maddie Whitton (11-12 G) and Anthony Arcomona (13-14 B). Nicholas Harris (8U B), Griffin Osterhout (9-10 B), and Mia Newkirk (15-18 G) swam to seconds while Valerie Tonn (11-12 G), Louis Borsato (13-14 B), Becca Mathews (13-14 G), Patrick Kearney (15-18 B), and Didi Pace (15-18 G) swam to thirds.

As the meet moved into the relays the Dolphins has accumulated a 20-point lead.

The ebb and flow of the relay portion of the meet was frantic as the Dolphins would win a relay and the Riptide would answer by winning the next race. Since each team won six relay events the score differential remained 20 and the Dolphins secured their victory when their 15-18 Boys 200 Meter Medley out touched the Riptide by a mere 0.08 of a second.

The coaching staff of the Riptide is led by returning head coach Matt Lear. Emma Savino, a Case Western University marketing and English major who swam in NVSL from the age of 6, is the new assistant head coach.

Senior coaches are Geoffrey Eisenhart, Brook Guidash, Chloe Hicks, and Patrick Kearney and junior coaches Abby Borsato, Chanel Cogan, Luke Emanuel, Nick McGrath, Nia Newkirk, Didi Pace, Lauren Stovall and Leo Wang are back and ready to help the Riptide team of 211 young swimmers improve their skills.

The Riptide is especially proud of their senior coach Chloe Hicks who will be competing at the US Olympic Swimming Trials in Omaha on July 1. A special Riptide Rio Olympic Pep Rally Friday night will mark Chloe's participation and honor her accomplishments.

June 27, 2016

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

Not that this date, in and of itself, is particularly remarkable, but it is yet another monthly anniversary/reminder of the original February 27, 2009 date when I initially met with my oncologist who delivered the devastating news with which all of you regular readers are well-acquainted: stage IV, non-small cell lung cancer (NSCLC); inoperable, incurable, with a "13-month to two-year" prognosis. Yet here I sit and write still another "cancer column," as I call them, seven years and four months later. And who's to say – or know for that matter, if I am getting closer to the end or further from the beginning. As often as I take note of these anniversaries, as much as possible anyway, I try not to focus/obsess on my underlying reality, because living with cancer is bad enough; believing all the bad news associated with that reality is even worse.

My strategy, to the extent one would characterize what I do as a strategy, is to compartmentalize, not stress over things I can't control, live as "normal" – for me, anyway – a life as possible (no bucket list for me), embrace humor and positivity whenever/whenver, follow doctor's orders/be a "compliant" patient (do what I'm told, take the prescribed medications, show up for regular lab work, infusions, diagnostic scans and especially for all face-to-face appointments with my oncologist) and simultaneously remain open to non-Western anti-cancer alternatives – of which there are many; all the while attempting to jump-start/strengthen my body's own natural fighters: my immune system. (This is what Immunotherapy is all about.)

I can still remember my brother Richard's sentiment concerning my diagnosis/prognosis/treatment: try to stay alive until the next new protocol comes along/gets approved. And so I have. Science and medicine is hardly arithmetic. It's not static. It's dynamic. There are changes, revelations, discoveries, all the time. A prognosis which was certainly relevant at the time it was given can't possibly allow for/anticipate the inevitable progress to be gained from research, clinical trials, miscellaneous studies and patient success stories that filter through the medical pipeline. What's true and reasonable today is not necessarily as meaningful tomorrow. I have lived looking forward, never backward, embracing that hoped-for reality. It doesn't matter – to me, what's already happened. What matters to me is the future and the changes/new ideas (genetic testing and DNA profiling as an example) ever present. As Steve Miller wrote and sang in the title track from his 1969 "Brave New World" release: "We're driving fast from a dream of the past to the brave new world where nothing will last that comes from the past." I've loved this song for over 45 years. Now I know why.

So I look forward to tomorrow. I don't look back to yesterday. Nor do I believe science and medicine is looking backward, either. It's all about what happens next. And as I acknowledge June 27, 2016, I likewise prepare to acknowledge July 27, 2016 and beyond. Life is short enough on its own. It doesn't need any help from us. And I'm certainly not about to make any of these matters worse. Just because it started off bad doesn't mean it has to end up bad.

Sully Station II Piranhas

The Sully Station II Piranhas welcomed the start of summer on June 25 with a Swim Wars theme. Swimmers showed up in rebel alliance gear ready for battle against the Frogs of Forest Hollow. Control of the Division 10 galaxy came down to the last relay, and despite some gutsy swims, the Piranhas fell to the dark side, 213-205.

The 13-14 boys and 15-18 girls were standouts across the board, with both age groups capturing all individual events as well as team relays. Double event winners Anthony Kang (freestyle and backstroke) and Colin Brown (breaststroke and butterfly) led the way for the boys. Their teammates completed a sweep in fly with Carson Saint Germain and Jacob Susko, and Brantley Cervarich also turned in two strong second place finishes.

Caitlin Campbell secured two wins for the girls in back and fly. She was joined in victory by teammates Karenn Hall in freestyle (30.84) and Georgia Stamper in breaststroke (38.77). Representing the 11-12 age group, Collin West (free and back) and Caroline Li (back and fly) turned in impressive performances with double victories. They cheered on teammates Angela Cai, Madison Stalford, Dorothy Cervarich, and Gabriel Quitugua who all swam with heart and added points to the Piranha board.

Newcomer Simon Campbell made a splash in his first SS2 meet with a victory in freestyle (38.51), joining AJ Sexton (20.98) as winners in that event. Individual victories were also added by Michael Jiang (36.61) and Hayley Norris (51.75) in breaststroke and Emerson Saint Germain (23.64) and Kellen Campbell (30.43) in butterfly.

Outstanding swims were turned in by point scorers Jason Li, Harmon Saint Germain, Mark McLendon, Caden Seng, Zacchaeus Post, Elijah Post, Nick Jiang, Max Morris, Brody Campbell, Ella Ammons, Hannah Kang, Delaney Kennedy, Kelly Elson, Liliana Glancy, Ehma Stalford, Isabella Ibrahim, and Cecilia Alquinta.

SS2 travels to Holmes Run for their next A meet on July 2.

Sully Station SSTs

The weather on Saturday, June 25 was warm and sunny, which was topped off with a win of 222 to 198 by the Sully Station SSTs against Villa Aquatic.

The 8-under freestylers set the tone of the meet with first places by Luke Campet and Katherine McArthur. The team continued winning first place with Tyler Whitacre, James Kruk, Leah Mozeleski, and Collin Fiala taking over the freestyle section. In backstroke Sully continued getting better with 8-under Harrison Brooks, Zayaan Mallik, Pena Marisela, and Charlotte McGonigle all getting new personal records. Matthew Zhang of the 13-14s not only received a personal best, but also a first place in his backstroke event. In the 15-18 boys backstroke, Collin Fiala and Dominic Huffman received 1st and 2nd place respectively. Sully Station SSTs also received a sweep of 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place in the 8 and under girls breaststroke. Eleven-year-old Jakob Huse swam up with the 13-14s, receiving a Personal Best in the event. The SSTs ended breaststroke strong with a 1st place in 15-18 boys by Matthew McPherson. In butterfly, the SSTs started off with Charlotte and Corianne McGonigle dropping 6 seconds each.

Going into relays, tensions began rising as both teams fought for the 5 points rewarded with each relay. It was a race for the points, with the SSTs winning 8-under boys, and Villa Aquatic winning girls. After Villa Aquatic won both 9-10 boys and girls, the SSTs won the 11-12 relays bringing it back to the previous point difference. The meet finished with Sully Station winning 13-14 boys and girls, and 15-18 boys.
