[We like it] because it's huge, so there's always something available to play on, it's good for all ages. We went to Claude Moore farm, that was fun, we did one of their clean-up days with a Girl Scout Troop. We do lots at the McLean Community Center, but we've never been to one of their shows. Wheels-to-Africa and Bands for Bikes Concert

Event at Old Firehouse Teen Center in McLean sends bikes to Africa.

A Wheels-to-Africa bike collection and Bands for Bikes rock concert was held for the third year on Saturday, Aug. 20 in conjunction with the Old Firehouse Teen Center's Annual Block Party in McLean. It was the brain-child of Jack Lichtenstein, 16, of McLean, who worked with Winston Duncan, 21, of Arlington. For three weeks, Jack organized the four bands and got about 20 volunteers together; and Winston has been doing the bike collection for 10 years. Over the years, he's collected 6,000 bikes that were transported to Africa. On this day, they raised about $200 and collected more than 25 bikes that will be shipped to either Tanzania or Nigeria.

"It's helping a lot of African children with transportation to get medicine and various essentials," said Jack Lichtenstein, a junior at Langley High School. "And I figured I'd use my music background to help the cause." He contacted a variety of bands but said it was difficult rounding up people since the musicians were on vacation during the summer.

"The biggest thing for me is to see all these young people out today helping others and empowering people less fortunate than themselves, and to get their community involved while having a little bit of fun as well," said Winston Duncan, who is a senior international relations major at Bard College.

"The best part of the Wheels to Africa program is seeing the young people in the community organize the event," said Dixie Duncan, mother of Winston. "Jack is learning about community action; he organized this himself, and Wheels to Africa has developed many young leaders, and that to me is exciting. What I love about this project is it gives young leaders an opportunity to learn about their communities and what they need to do to become active — they learn how tough it is to do community action."

Jack's mother Angela Lichtenstein added: "Jack recruited the four bands to play; he coordinated all of the gear, courtesy of Bach to Rock Music School in U.S. Rep. Barbara Comstock [R-10] promotes Young Women Leadership.

The energy and excitement coming from nearly 300 young women packed into the McLean Community Center is palpable – and very loud.

Although most of the girls are not old enough to vote, they are clearly excited to meet Congresswoman Barbara Comstock (R-10).

Comstock, a freshman Republican lawmaker who is currently in the midst of running a reelection campaign to retain her seat in the 10th district, founded the “10th Congressional District Young Women Leadership Program,” in 2013. The program, which runs throughout the summer, gives middle and high school students throughout Northern Virginia the opportunity to meet and interact with women who hold leadership roles in government, business, medicine, media relations, and other professions.

Today’s program focused on women who are “First Responders,” and included Fairfax County Sheriff Stacey Kincaid, the first woman to hold the position of sheriff in Virginia.

Gabby Sutton, 17, a rising senior at Langley High School in McLean, is standing in line with dozens of other participants to meet the woman she calls her “inspiration and mentor.”

“She (Congresswoman Comstock) was actually the inspiration to start my non-profit – Things that Matter. You would not believe how many really influential women I’ve met this summer through this program,” Sutton said, “Having all these local connections has been incredibly valuable in starting my non-profit,” Sutton said.

AS PROOF, Sutton pulls out dozens of business cards from some of Northern Virginia’s most influential women, including Sheila Johnson, co-founder of BET and the first African-American woman to attain a net worth of more than one billion dollars.

“I can’t believe I got the chance to meet her,” Sutton said. “I called her office, and I actually talked to her, and she is going to speak at an event for my non-profit...it’s pretty amazing,” Sutton said.

She added that the program has given her a better understanding of leadership. “The women leaders we’ve met are fearless...To me, leadership means three words: Yes, I Can!”

Empowering young women to believe they can lead is exactly the message

Congresswoman Barbara Comstock [R-10] has a photo op with the young women and panelists who participated in the Aug. 17 session at the McLean Community Center, and included, sitting, from left, Fairfax County Police Lt. Kristi Bartlett; Cynthia McAlister, Chief of the Purcellville Police Department; Comstock; Fairfax County Sheriff Stacey Kincaid, and Katie Buist, a firefighter with Fairfax County.

Cynthia McAlister, Chief of the Purcellville Police Department, speaks to several Fairfax County students before the start of the Tenth Congressional District Young Women Leadership Program, a program founded and hosted Republican Congresswoman Barbara Comstock [R-10].

Comstock [R-10] wants to impart.

As one of just 104 women members of the 535 members who make up the current U.S. Congress, Comstock is aware that not enough women hold senior leadership positions – whether it’s in politics, business, law or medicine or the military. She wants to help shift that landscape through her leadership program.

“I want to provide young women the opportunity to take advantage of all the resources available to them,” Comstock said.

Comstock said she was inspired to establish Young Women’s Leadership Program in January 2013 after reading Sheryl Sandberg’s popular book “Lean In: Women, Work, and the Will to Lead.”

In her book, Sandberg, the chief operating officer of Facebook, advises women to seek mentors in the workplace and be more assertive with respect to their careers.

Since Comstock launched her leadership program, more than 600 young women throughout McLean, Great Falls, Vienna and Loudoun County have participated, meeting professional women such as Donna Brazile, CNN political commentator and Democratic strategist; Erin Egan, chief privacy officer for Facebook, and Bobbie Kilberg, President and CEO of the Northern Virginia Technology Council.

The participants – middle and high school students – have had the opportunity to attend sessions on Capitol Hill, and meet and interact with women who hold leadership roles in government, business, medicine, media relations, and other professions.

Rachel Nelson, 16, a Fairfax Station resident and rising junior at Robinson High School, attended the program with her mom, Christine.

“She has given these girls an absolutely incredible opportunity,” Christine Nelson said. “Every time Rachel comes from one of these programs, she is so inspired and optimistic that it makes me want to attend.”

After the nearly two-hour “First Responder” event last Wednesday, Comstock stayed behind to personally greet any young woman who wanted to meet and get a photo taken with congresswoman Comstock.

COMSTOCK said a common theme she hears from women leaders who participate in the program is “don’t wait for someone to ask you to the prom, so to speak, jump in. Don’t wait for someone to ask you to apply for something you want. Just go for it.”

Comstock said she was lucky to grow up surrounded by strong women.

“I think of my grandfather, who had four girls. He was a real feminist,” she said, smiling. “I remember him telling us ‘Don’t let any man keep you down. You can do anything if you work hard enough.’ He lived through the Depression, and was a very proud man. He was never able to go to college, but he was the smartest man I knew.”

The program was “incredible and unforgettable” said Danielle Hayden, a junior at Potomac Falls High School in Sterling. “This program reassured me that there is opportunity everywhere you go in many fields, whether it is government service, running a small business or working for a government agency like NASA.”

“I would emphatically encourage young women across the district to take part in this...” Sutton said. “Not only do you learn networking, communication and skills needed in the professional world, you are simultaneously being nurtured and inspired to find your own calling and pave your own path in life.”

“I am really happy to hear that,” Comstock said, patting Sutton on the shoulder before posing with her for photos.

Women's Equality Day Is 96 Years Young

BY PEGGY KNIGHT

PRESIDENT, LEAGUE OF WOMEN VOTERS OF THE
FAIRFAX AREA

On Aug. 26, 2016, our nation celebrates the Women's Equality Day for the 96th time. In only four years, we will be celebrating the centennial of this historic day recognizing the ratification of the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which gave women the right to vote and to full citizenship for the very first time.

During this seven decade struggle, many fearless men and women suffered jail time, public disgrace, and physical assaults by the police and spectators at demonstrations. However, it was only in 1971 that Congress, by resolution, designated this day as "Women's Equality Day." This designation recognized the many sacrifices made by these women and men to achieve this ratification.

On Feb. 14, 1920, six months before ratification of the 19th amendment, The League of Women Voters, was founded by Carrie Chapman Catt, president of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, during the association's convention. Ms. Catt was a women's rights activist and a suffragist, who stated that the vote was the "emblem of equality" for all citizens, men and women.

This year, the League of Women Voters of the Fairfax Area LWVFA celebrates the selection of the country's first female nominee for President from a major party. While the League never endorses candidates or political parties, it recognizes this historical achievement for women.

The League encourages active participation by citizens. It conducts studies of important policy issues, has monthly meetings during which members discuss these issues, and uses education and advocacy to influence public policy, at the local level, in the interest of the public. It conducts candidate forums so that citizens can ask candidates questions, candidates can answer those questions and also interact directly with the public. LWVFA also registers voters and provides them with unbiased information about the voting process, issues of interest, and elections.

#MindsMatter: Lifesaving Conversations Every Day

BY WENDY GRADISON

CEO, PRS, INC.

COMMENTARY

It's 3 p.m. School's out. Like clockwork, alerts start ringing, letting our crisis workers know that young people are out of class, and they need to talk.

"Hi, I don't know who to talk to. I don't know what to do." Every day PRS, a local nonprofit helping those with mental health issues and facing life crises, gets texts like these through our CrisisText Connect textline.

Our trained volunteers respond and engage in life-saving conversations with teens and others who are facing life crises, steering them to help and safety. Having dialogues and making it easier to discuss problems before crisis occurs is key to preventing suicides. After all, suicide is the 10th leading cause of death nationwide and second leading cause for people aged 15-24, so the individual and societal toll of suicide is real.

In preparation for National Suicide Prevention Week NSPW which starts Sept. 5, PRS has teamed up with Connection Newspapers to host the second annual #MindsMatter Social Media Campaign. Visit prsinc.org/mindsmatter. We designed the campaign to encourage the community to pledge to do something that raises awareness about suicide prevention.

Our #MindsMatter campaign uses social media as a catalyst for conversation and action to prevent suicide. Our campaign deputizes the community, providing ways to "pledge" to spread the word, change minds and save lives. This is an especially important way to reach younger people with a message of hope.

The #MindsMatter pledge outlines activities that people can do to make a difference and spread awareness before, during and after the week. Anyone can take the pledge by visiting www.prsinc.org/mindsmatter or the Connection Newspaper's social media pages. Examples of activities people can pledge to do include:

- Following PRS Facebook and Twitter pages
- Submitting a selfie showing support of National Suicide Prevention Week

- Participating in the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention's walk on Sept. 24, or the National Alliance on Mental Illness walk on Sept. 24

- Taking a stress test
- Sharing the campaign with family and friends
- Setting a personal goal to improve mental health

- Reading and sharing stories about individuals who have survived a suicide attempt and/or helping individuals cope with thoughts of suicide

- Signing up for a suicide prevention workshop

Each year, more than 42,000 Americans die by suicide. Despite this statistic, for every death, 278 people manage to move past thoughts of suicide and survive. By participating in the #MindsMatter campaign, you can play a role making it okay to discuss suicide and mental health issues openly. Take the pledge. It may just save a life.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Back to School: Keeping our Kids Safe on the Way to the Classroom

To the Editor:

It's that time of year again: back to school! As much as it pains all of us, it's time to make the drive back home from our favorite vacation spots and head to the store for new school clothes and a fresh batch of school supplies. In September, we will see more children in the roadway, either walking or biking to school and enjoying the last of the warm weather.

As motorists, we have a responsibility to take extra caution when we see children on the side of the road or crossing at a crosswalk. As many of us know, children's actions can be unpredictable, so take extra care when driving in the proximity of children or when passing through a school zone.

Be sure to remember that yielding the right of way to pedestrians at a crosswalk is not just the right thing to do, it's the law. The Fairfax County Police Department will monitor school zones to educate both parents and children about staying safe as they travel to and from school. Fairfax County is a busy area, but please keep in mind that the safety of our children and others is more important than a motorist arriving more quickly to his or her destination.

When you observe a school bus dropping off or picking up children, double check that the stop sign is not extended before passing. It is very difficult to see children as they get on and off the school bus, so pay extra care and respect the rules of the road. Being involved in an accident with a child or a pedestrian is a risk you cannot afford to take.

We appreciate our community for taking the time to help maintain a safe environment for our children. Together, we can ensure that our students thrive in an environment that is fun, safe, and constructive.

Science of Baking Sweets

Middle Eastern Food Festival offers food, food, food.

BY ALEXANDRA GREELEY
THE CONNECTION

Labor Day weekend brings summer to an end, and is a major time to enjoy some relaxation and fun before fall's chill. And for locals—especially those who love food—the major event of the weekend is the Middle Eastern Food Festival at McLean's Holy Transfiguration Melkite Greek Catholic Church. Often rated as the Number 1 family event, this two-day festival is now celebrating its 23rd year of bringing various cultures together for fun and food.

Besides getting a peek at the inspiring church artwork, a chance to hear the Byzantine liturgy and share the parish's community spirit, people also come to eat, because the parish offers food, food, food. What's on the menu, folks may ask, and the answer is lengthy: falafel, kabobs, spinach-and-meat pies, roast lamb, kibbeh, hummus, loobyeh, mujaddara (lentils with rice), and a stunning array of pastries, about 12,000 pieces in all.

For many foodies, sweets rule, and the displayed choices include 40 different cookies and types of baklava. "In the Middle East," said Samira Bailey, the parishioner in charge of overseeing the in-house baking, "we flavor our pastries orange blossom water and rose water, but most Americans prefer cinnamon or vanilla." She added that many of the festival pastries resemble what the bakers learned growing up, but with some tweaks with what they have learned to like in the United States.

So overseeing the baking and packaging of pastries for this festival is something of a challenge, but one that Bailey meets with great aplomb. "I learned about traditional baking," said Lebanese native Bailey, "by watching the older ladies as I grew up. These were my mother and my grandmother who were making sweets for Easter, Theophany, Christmas, and other festivals." She then started baking for the festival because only the older generations were working in the kitchen. And as she has found out, assembling all the goodies takes weeks of prep time.

Holy Transfiguration Melkite Greek Catholic Church is located at 8501 Lewinsville Rd., McLean. 703-734-9566. The Middle Eastern Food Festival is held Saturday, Sept. 3, 11 a.m. – 11 p.m.;

Bailey noted that her crew of 20-odd ladies, and sometimes, some gents, start towards the end of May, work twice a week in June, for two Saturdays in July, and in August several full days of baking, assembling, freezing, and packaging the sweets. "We have it down to a science," she said, noting that one of the ladies, Mary Baroody, must clarify about 180 pounds of butter. "Costco has the best deal on butter," she said, "and especially the nuts. We always look for the best ingredients we can find."

For festival goers, locating the sweets tables is simple, as they are staged in the parish hall with lots of volunteers helping visitors select, pay for, and pack up their pick. "Almost all sells out," said Bailey. "But we always remember to keep some for the Little Sisters of the Poor. Anything else left over is saved for upcoming parish functions." And as the group works to raise donations for the parish and for charities, Bailey noted that one of the best results is this: "We are like a family," she said. "We build friendships."

The Weak That Just Was

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

One of my cancer-patient survivorship goals has been to, whenever possible, not look the part, act the part or live the part. This past week, the eating challenges I endured and the emotional and psychological havoc it wrecked upon me stopped me from "not" doing any of the three: I looked, acted and lived the part. And aside from the unpleasantness (some of which was detailed in last week's column), looking, feeling and being the way I was, were such negative reinforcers that it has further prevented me from regaining my equilibrium, both emotionally and physically.

Not that I'm ever unaware of my circumstances or not mindful of my mortality/abbreviated life expectancy, but the less obvious it is, and the less impact the treatment has on me, the more I am able to live like I'm not dying. However, when symptoms manifest themselves and compromise some of my activities of daily living, the more difficult it is for me to delude myself into thinking that my stage IV, non-small cell lung cancer is chronic/treatable rather than "incurable/treatable," as my oncologist quite clearly characterized it seven and a half years ago.

Believe me, the last thing I need are reminders. The first thing I need are pretenders (which is really just another word for hope). And though I have absolutely nothing to complain about 90 months into a "13-month to two-year prognosis," my reality is, every day is precious and days lost to side effects are days I can't afford to lose. Moreover, when you consider the lack of control I experienced over this last week and the associated feelings of helplessness—along with the fear that this not eating was morphing from temporary to permanent, you have a recipe for emotional disaster. And "emotional disaster" does not help yours truly or any other cancer/seriously ill patient fend off the demons and level the playing field. In fact, it tips it in the complete wrong direction. And tipping it in the wrong direction is all it's cracked up to be.

So much of what I am going through is psychological. I am constantly telling myself (not aloud but in print, I would admit) to persevere, not overreact, balance the bad with the good, forget your prognosis, forget your "terminal" diagnosis, forget the extremely discouraging mortality statistics, believe all the non-Western stuff I'm doing is helping, don't slack, don't abuse the privilege of life I've been given and finally, be grateful for every day.

Still, five days of not eating seemed to compromise my emotional wherewithal. It's as if I didn't have the mental capacity necessary to talk myself out of the dark hole I had fallen into. It was a struggle to be sure and one I've experienced many times before, but for some reason, and this is the scary part, this post-chemo week was the worst. Now moving forward, my next chemotherapy infusion is not for four weeks as we've extended the interval to five weeks (from four), alternating my future intervals to four weeks, five weeks, four weeks, etc., through my next quarterly scan in mid October. If the results of that next scan continue to be encouraging, I'll be an extremely happy man. But as I am well aware, there are no guarantees in cancer and success is measured scan to scan. In the interim though, I have to coexist with my reality. It's not ideal, but "ideal" left the building in February, 2009.

 OUR CONGRESSWOMAN

BARBARA COMSTOCK

GETTING RESULTS FOR US

For 35 years, Barbara Comstock has lived, worked, raised a family, started a business and served as both Delegate and Congresswoman in the 10th District. Whether it was her work as a senior Justice Department official, a small businesswoman, a Mom at home, a senior aide and counsel in Congress, a Member of the House of Delegates or now as our Congresswoman, Barbara knows the challenges facing the 10th District because she has lived them with us and fought for us to get results on our priorities.

- › Advance breakthroughs in 21st century cures for chronic disease such as cancer, Alzheimer's and diabetes.
- › A 5 year Transportation Bill, signed into law, which will help relieve traffic congestion, provide more transportation funds, and make Metro safer and more accountable.
- › A $600 billion tax relief package, signed into law, for families, small businesses and our technology and defense businesses.
- › Increased defense and cyber funding to protect us from terrorism.
- › Human Trafficking legislation, signed into law, that cracks down on this growing crime and protects women and children.
- › Started two Heroin Task Forces to battle the heroin scourge in our communities and advancing legislation to increase education, treatment and prevention.
- › Started the "10th Congressional District Young Women Leadership Program" for junior high and high school young women.

"As your Congresswoman, I will continue to work tirelessly to strengthen our national security and protect us from terrorism; advance breakthroughs in 21st century cures for chronic diseases such as cancer, Alzheimer's and diabetes; promote a 21st century economy with more opportunity and higher wage jobs; provide transportation funding and solutions; and fight the growing problem of human trafficking and heroin abuse in our community."

NEWCOMERS & COMMUNITY GUIDE

Welcome to Fairfax County

BY SHARON BULOVA
CHAIRMAN, FAIRFAX COUNTY BOARD OF
SUPERVISORS

Welcome to Fairfax County, one of the greatest places in the nation to live, work, play and raise a family. Fairfax County is home to a thriving business community, vibrant entertainment and shopping destinations, a world class university, beautiful parks, and a diverse population of engaged residents. Whether you are a long-time resident or are new to the county, I hope you'll take some time to visit some of our most popular spots to enjoy what Fairfax County has to offer.

Tysons Corner and Fair Oaks Malls, Reston Town Center, Fairfax Corner, Springfield Town Center and the Mosaic District are great places to shop, eat and spend time with friends. For cultural destinations, George Washington's Mount Vernon Estate and Wolf Trap National Park for the Performing Arts are two of my favorites. And for enjoying the arts along with community gatherings like Springfest and Brewfest, the Workhouse Arts Center in Lorton is a must. For fresh air and exercise, I recommend our extensive network of trails, parks and RECenters.

While there are a lot of fun things to do in Fairfax County, our community is notorious for our "work hard, play hard" ethic. Time Magazine has described us as the epicenter of the Washington region's job boom and one of the great economic success stories of our time. Fairfax County is home to eight Fortune 500 company headquarters, more than 8,400 technology firms, and over 116.2 million square feet of office space.

Fairfax County has one of the best public school systems nationwide with a graduation rate topping 90 percent. Our school system is the 10th largest in the country with nearly 187,000 students and 196 schools and centers. After high school graduation, George Mason University and Northern Virginia Community College are located just down the road for affordable higher education opportunities in many different subject fields. Our business-friendly economy ensures career opportunities for both our older and younger residents.

On the local government level, the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors is constantly hard at work to ensure quality public services for our residents. Our 10-member Board of Supervisors strives to maintain positive community engagement, while strategically planning for the future with land use and infrastructure decisions.

Some recent accomplishments include updating many of our police policies, establishing a Diversion First program for people with mental illness who become involved with law enforcement, and successfully extending Metrorail to Tysons and Reston, with Phase 2 of the Silver Line currently under construction all the way to Dulles Airport and into Loudoun County.

Fairfax County offers opportunity and quality services for residents of all ages. People from all over the globe have made Fairfax County their home, enriching our community with their diverse cultures and entrepreneurship. Please visit www.fairfaxcounty.gov or www.fxva.com to learn more about what Fairfax County has to offer you and your family.

As chairman of the Board of Supervisors, I am elected at-large by Fairfax County residents. My office is here to serve you. If you have any questions or concerns, please email me at chairman@fairfaxcounty.gov or give my office a call at 703-324-2321. I hope you will sign up to receive my monthly Bulova Byline newsletter that will keep you up-to-date on what is happening in your community! Welcome to your new home.

County Schools: Teaching for 21st Century

What's new at Fairfax County Public Schools.

BY DR. KAREN K. GARZA
SUPERINTENDENT, FAIRFAX COUNTY
PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Welcome to the 2016-17 school year in Fairfax County Public Schools.

With each new school year, we have the wonderful opportunity to build upon our previous successes and continue to improve our work with our students.

We are continuing to look to our Portrait of a Graduate and our strategic plan in shaping our future work. Our most pressing challenge is making this vision a reality for every child in our system. How do we refine what we do to ensure that all of our students graduate well-prepared for this rapidly changing world? We acknowledge that this is a daunting challenge, but there is no school system in the United States more well-prepared and well-equipped to effectively respond to these important issues.

The goals of education can no longer simply be to provide the basic literacy skills for the majority of the students, while reserving the teaching of skills for higher order 21st century thinking for a select few. As we learn more about the skills our students will need for success in this changing world, we recognize the need to innovate — to consider new and different ways to design instructional practices to support the development of these essential skills.

We are also working to define contemporary teaching and learning practices while better integrating technology. For example, through a pilot program we are calling FCPSOn — this year we begin evaluating how digital resources can best scaffold that model — and how we provide teachers and students with the tools and policies needed to facilitate the use of that technology.

One change you will see this school year is a new central website and a new FCPS logo. Our new website will better serve everyone — it is mobile responsive, features more modern design — and search will work. As we modernized our website, we also believed it was time to reimagine the FCPS logo. While the previous logo has served us well for 40 years, we heard from many that it was time to transform our logo to one reflective of who we are now and who we aspire to be in the years to come.

Our new logo includes a tie to our legacy, while representing our role as a catalyst — sparking curiosity, learning and excellence for our students, employees and community.

I wish all students, teachers, parents and the entire FCPS community a very successful and fulfilling school year in FCPS where all are engaged, inspired, and thrive.

'Insider's Tip' to New Businesses

Fairfax County Economic Development Authority helps in starting or expanding business in the county.

BY GERALD L. GORDON
PRESIDENT AND CEO, FAIRFAX COUNTY
ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY

If you are new to Fairfax County, welcome to one of the world's most interesting places to live and work. If you are new to the county and are interested in being part of our dynamic business community, here is an "insider's tip" that you will want to know: The Fairfax County Economic Development Authority (FCEDA), works with everyone who wants to start or expand a business in the county.

For aspiring entrepreneurs, we host "Entrepreneurship 101: Starting a Business in Fairfax County" workshops almost every month. Some 4,000 people have attended one of these workshops since 2003 and you will find a wealth of local, state and federal resources to help you map out starting a business here. If you need office space, the FCEDA helps businesses find the office space they need so they can grow in the county.

We have a complete database of office space options in every part of the county, and we can help you navigate that process so you become an established part of the business community.

Why do we do this? The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors charged the FCEDA with building a business community — help companies create jobs and fill office space — to build the commercial tax base. This generates revenue that the Board of Supervisors uses to fund the full range of high-quality public services for which Fairfax County is well-known. Building the commercial tax base means that residents don't have to pick up all the costs of providing those services.

The FCEDA has been working for more than 50 years with entrepreneurs and owners of businesses of every size to enlarge the commercial tax base and make the Fairfax County economy one of the strongest anywhere. Visit www.fairfaxcountypedata.org to see how the Economic Development Authority can help you.

Trees, Tysons and the McLean Community Center

Issues dominating McLean agenda.

BY KEN MOORE
THE CONNECTION

McLean Citizens Association has advocated for McLean and its residents for over 100 years.

MCA members and committees study issues important to McLean, ranging from land use, planning and zoning, transportation issues and environmental concerns to long range planning, Tysons, public safety, schools and more.

Seven committee chairs, or co-chairs, spoke of the importance and impact of each committee at a General Membership meeting in the spring.

"The role that the Budget and Taxation committee plays, as dollars and cents people, is to really ask two questions: Is the county spending the correct amount of money on these... and is the county doing it efficiently, is it cost effective. Are we getting value for the money we are spending," Budget and Taxation Committee chair Dale Stein said.

Another question, said Stein, is "Where does the money come from, for God's sake?"

This spring, MCA passed a resolution to urge the county to diversify its revenue source. The Board of Supervisors voted to put a county meals tax on the ballot; voters will vote yes or no on the four percent tax on Nov. 8.

THE TYSONS LIAISON Committee, chaired by Rob Jackson, focuses on $3.2 billion surrounding 19 major rezonings in Tysons that will be implemented in the next 15 to 20 years.

McLean Citizens Association not only focuses on McLean. It also focuses on any issue outside of McLean that could impact McLean and its residents.

"We speak up as necessary," said Mark Zetts, who heads the Planning and Zoning Committee that addresses all rezonings and land-use issues in McLean.

"The new Comprehensive Plan for Tysons was approved in 2010," Zetts said, "and the Tysons Liaison Committee submitted voluminous comments on this plan."

With proffers now in question under new state law, developers have proffered two new fire stations, a new library, community center and six athletic fields, Zetts said. "The thing that has not been proffered yet is a new police station. The [Tysons] comp plan calls for it in Tysons by 2025.

KEN MOORE/THE CONNECTION

McLean Citizens Association president Jeff Barnett honors nine-year-old Lemon Road Elementary student Shray Gupta for designing MCA's new website, www.mcleancitizens.org. McLean Citizens Association has advocated for McLean and its residents for more than 100 years.

"We want a police presence," he said.

That's an issue Patrick Smaldore and MCA's Public Safety Committee focus on.

Tysons is in the same police district as McLean, said Smaldore. "If the majority of calls for service are going in that direction the question is what happens back in this direction? We're very concerned about this," Smaldore said.

Both committees advocate for a police station with visible store-front presence in Tysons for the police department.

"The biggest thing we can do is advocacy," Smaldore said.

THE EDUCATION AND YOUTH Committee holds an annual conversation with Fairfax County Public Schools Superintendent Dr. Karen Garza each year.

For 19 years, the committee has recognized local students for outstanding character; eight McLean students were recognized at McLean Day this year.

The committee teams up with the Budget and Taxation Committee because there is so much overlap, the Committee's vice-chair Elizabeth Baird said.

"We are currently about to launch a request to ask for more information from Fairfax County Public Schools so that we understand the basis for different salaries, for differing average salaries of teachers, across the different schools within FCPS. Our focus here is ensuring that McLean students and McLean teachers get their fair share of resources," Baird said.

Wallace Sansone of Franklin Park, Margaret Malone of Turkey Run Road and Neil Ende of Chesterbrook Woods were able to voice frustration over diminishing tree canopy in McLean due to infill development.

Class size in FCPS schools in McLean is an issue that MCA tracks vigilantly.

THE ENVIRONMENT, PARKS and RECREATION Committee highlighted its progress at the Third Annual Tree Forum, held on April 20. MCA, Supervisor John Foust, the county's Urban Forest Tree Division and McLean Trees Foundation co-sponsored the forum. This year, the Northern Virginia Building Industry Association participated as well.

MCA has monitored the Dead Run Stream Restoration project for a number of years. Foust convened a stream team bringing "together people from county, MCA and local residents to discuss and finetune the project," Committee co-chairman Paul Kohlenberger said. The collaboration has reduced tree loss by more than 30 percent from 2013 to the current plan, according to Kohlenberger.

Committee co-chairman Jim Phelps and the Transportation Committee focus on issues ranging from Metro, Route 7 widening and repairs on the GW Parkway to Route 123 issues and aircraft noise.

See www.mcleancitizens.org.

Planning to Oppose Special Exceptions?

The 40 residents who attended the McLean Citizens Association meeting on July 8 applauded when the board voted unanimously to oppose Sunrise's proposed assisted living facility.

"In 15 years, I've never seen so much opposition in any case," said Mark Zetts, chairman of MCA's Planning and Zoning Committee. "We've been inundated with emails."

"Few issues have driven neighborhood anger like the proposed location of the 90-bed Sunrise Assisted Living facility at the corner of Kirby and Westmoreland roads in McLean. After studying the proposal for almost two years, MCA voted to oppose the multiple zoning adjustments that Sunrise needs to build on this lot," MCA president Jeff Barnett said.

Sunrise Development Inc. seeks a Medical Care Facility Special Exception permit to construct and operate an assisted living facility at 1988 Kirby Road, at the intersection of Kirby and Westmoreland Street.

Homeowners associations, including L'Ambiance of McLean, Mayfair of McLean, Autumn Chase and Foxhall Road along with civic associations El Nido, Marlborough-Nantucket and Franklin Area Civic Association all oppose the application, according to MCA draft documents.

The facility would have a maximum of 73 units and 90 beds, according to MCA documents, in a 40,309-square-foot building. Approximately 90 employees would work at the facility, although a maximum of 25 employees would be on the site at any time, according to the documents.

Sunrise's corporate headquarters are in McLean, and the company operates more than 300 Sunrise Senior Living communities in the U.S., Canada and United Kingdom, according to its website.

The Planning Commission has a public hearing currently scheduled for September 28.

Places to See, Things to Do in Dranesville District

Supervisor recommends parks, historical features and community events in the Dranesville District.

BY JOHN W. FOUST, SUPERVISOR
(D-DRANESVILLE DISTRICT)

Some of the Supervisor John Foust's favorite parks, historical places and community events in Dranesville District:

Clemyjontri Park: Since opening in 2006, more than 200,000 visitors have enjoyed this unique playground where children of all abilities can play side-by-side. Equipment allows children who have physical, sensory or developmental disabilities to have a parallel playground experience of fun and exploration. The park also includes a carousel and picnic pavilion. (6317 Georgetown Pike, McLean)

McLean Residents Share Their Favorite Places: What We Want Newcomers to See

— MELANIE PINCUS

Jennifer Biggs Hushon, Physician, with son Colin Hushon, 12 years in McLean

"We like Rocco's, we like McLean Family Restaurant. Clemyjontri is a fun park, we like to go there. [We like it] because it's huge, so there's always something available to play on, it's good for all ages. We went to Claude Moore farm, that was fun, we did one of their clean-up days with a Girl Scout Troop. We do lots at the McLean Community Center, but we've never been to one of their shows. [We also like doing] hikes along Pimmit Run because we can bring our dog."

Sallie Kasto, Retired U.S. federal government employee, lived in McLean 46 years

"I particularly find my church home to be a good place to develop close relationships and have a real sense of community, and that's Immanuel Presbyterian Church in McLean, which is the little white church right next to the CIA. I've been a member there for like 25 years or so. [I'd also recommend] McLean Family Restaurant, by far, that's a great go to, and then...I think Alden Theater events are good, and J. Gilbert's, the steakhouse."

Zoë Chandra, student, 9 years in McLean

"When my family comes into town probably the first place I'd take them is to Pulcinella, the Italian restaurant. My family goes there all the time, I think it's just a really fun place to get together with friends. It's casual, and all the food I've tried there is really good, so that's just one of my favorite places. [I also go to] Dal Grano, I feel like it's a fun part of McLean because I don't think they have those types of restaurant in other places — it's like Chipotle, but with pasta....If I have friends in town, I usually go to Great Falls Park and go hiking because I think it's really pretty."

Conner Tone, student, 10 years in McLean

Conner's mom, Pamela Strauss: "We'll say the library. We love McLean Central Park [and] the schools. We just like to be outside and enjoy the weather, but we come to the library pretty regularly."

Bara Milon, Writer, 25 years in McLean

"Definitely J. Gilbert's, I feel like it's our second dining room. It just feels like home. We've been going for years and years since they opened. [I also like] McLean Family Restaurant for breakfast."

Lynn Stein, Pharmacist, with son Dean, 7 years in McLean

"The museums [in D.C.] are what we do most often because it's free and...there are so many choices, you can't even choose. [We also like] Old Town, the Waterfront. It depends on what's in town that weekend. There's a ton of stuff in this area, like almost too many things to choose from."

Rahul Mani, Student, 14 years in McLean

"We like to go to Great Falls [Park], [especially] the water falls. We usually take relatives there [and we go on] hikes, we like looking over the waterfalls."

Isabel Cooper, Student, 17 years in McLean

"Some places in McLean that I would want my out of town guests to see would be...for restaurants, there's this sushi place that my family and I have always gone to, [Tama Sushi], it's changed ownership a couple of times, it's changed names. That's a restaurant in McLean we always go to, and it's really good, I like it a lot. It's fun because I remember I went there for my birthday in like the fourth grade and we still go there. Another restaurant I like, it's kind of new, is Dal Grano...I first heard about it from my marketing teacher...their whole shtick is they have homemade pasta, so it's really just any type of pasta you could want, and then sauce or something, so you get to choose, it's really fun...Another place I'd want to bring guests to, this would be more for people with families, but I live right behind the McLean Little League...it's fun with kids or with family just to see the baseball games and they have a snack bar so I feel like that's just a fun place to go for a summer evening kind of thing."

Katie Hoskins, Student, 12 years in McLean

"We go a lot to Great Falls Park, I think it's more just something to do outdoors that's family friendly, and you can bring the dog and stuff like that. Mostly stuff outdoors, we might go to Maggiano's or an Italian restaurant, stuff like that because it's family friendly."

A two-bay cinder block fire station was built in 1923 facing Chain Bridge Road.

Storm's General Store and Post Office opened beside the tracks of the Great Falls & Old Dominion Railroad in 1910.

Origins of McLean, Virginia

BY CAROLE HERRICK

A village that became known as McLean is simply a community that sporadically developed around a trolley stop. It can trace its beginning to 1902 when John R. McLean and Senator Stephen Elkins of West Virginia obtained a charter to operate an electrified railroad, that was named the Great Falls & Old Dominion Railroad. This was simply a business venture to promote the scenic beauty of the Great Falls of the Potomac. The line of the fourteen mile trolley ran between Rosslyn and Great Falls Park, linking with Washington D.C. via the old Aqueduct Bridge. Its rails were laid through forests, farmland, and fruit orchards, bypassing the existing villages of Lewinsville and Langley. The trolley began operating July 3, 1906 with a trial run to Great Falls Park, but its first scheduled passenger trip was the following day, July 4, 1906.

ONE OF THE STOPS was at Chain Bridge Road which has been a major transportation artery through Fairfax County since colonial times. At first, the stop was called Ingleside after a subdivision that was beginning to develop along Elm and Poplar streets, which is now Beverly Road. However, a hub of activity quickly began to form at that location and by 1910 residents began calling the Ingleside stop "McLean" in honor of one of the trolley's founders, who was also the publisher of the Washington Post and Cincinnati Enquirer newspapers, and so, the next stop down the line to the west became known as Ingleside. In June of that same year Henry Alonzo Storm took over the operations of a general store that was located at Chain Bridge Road between the tracks and Elm Street, which included the McLean Post Office. In 1911 the Chesterbrook, Lewinsville, and Langley Post Offices were abolished and the latter two were folded into the existing McLean Post Office. There was no depot. People either purchased their tickets at Storm's Store or from a conductor on the train. The day that Storm opened his general store is considered the beginning of McLean. There was no celebration. The "town" was not founded and it was never incorporated. There is no record that John McLean ever set foot on turf at the McLean stop.

The Great Falls & Old Dominion Railroad had a tremendous impact upon the Northern Virginia countryside because it provided easier transportation to and from the District of Columbia. Farmers found it less difficult to get their crops and dairy products to market. Many businessmen discovered the art of commuting and sought permanent or summer homes for their families in the countryside. Little settlements, such as Franklin Park and El Nido, developed at stops along the route, but the area surrounding the McLean stop underwent the most change: it was important for residents, organizations, and business to locate near that location.

For instance, St. John's Episcopal Church, built in 1877 along Georgetown Pike east of Langley Fork, was mounted on casters and hauled across fields to a site on Chain Bridge Road, not far from the McLean stop. The Franklin Sherman School, the county's first consolidated public school, opened in 1914 with 29 students, facing what was later named Corner Lane. Initial meetings began in 1916 concerning what would ultimately become the McLean Volunteer Fire Department. The MVFD incorporated in 1923 as Station No. 1 in Fairfax County and a two-bay station was built that same year on Chain Bridge Road a block south of the stop. Members of Sharon Lodge 327 built the Sharon Masonic Temple at Emerson Avenue and Chain Bridge Road in 1921 and the congregation of McLean Baptist Church erected its first church in 1923 on Emerson Avenue adjacent to the lodge.

The demise of the hamlets of Lewinsville and Langley began with the arrival of the Great Falls & Old Dominion Railroad and subsequent closing of their post offices. The tracks did not connect with either village, but instead ran between them. It was natural that development would take place around the stop at Chain Bridge Road and an amorphous village-like settlement began to develop in a hodge-podge fashion, spreading out from there. The growth was slow, but a spirited community developed that centered around Storm's Store, the Franklin Sherman School, and the McLean Volunteer Fire Department. Soon there was a civic association, library, and several churches. Little thought was given to a nondescript intersection just down the road at Chain Bridge Road and Leesburg Pike called Tysons Crossroads. By the early 1930s, ridership on the trolley began to decline with the rise of the automobile. The railroad was forced into receivership and abandoned the route on June 8, 1934. Its tracks were removed. The roadbed was turned into Old Dominion Drive.

It was after World War II, when many who came to Washington, D. C. to support the War effort decided to stay, that McLean's rural lifestyle started to change. Combined with the CIA locating at Langley in 1961, a steady increase in population began and McLean found itself in the midst of phenomenal growth. There was no plan. McLean never became a separate town or city. It lost any opportunity to incorporate, when, in 1968 Fairfax County adopted an urban county form of government, and so McLean remained a community.

TODAY the windmills, farms, and orchards are gone. Notable dairy farms such as Maplewood, Sharon, Storm, Ballantrae, Spring Hill, and Kenilworth have been replaced with subdivisions and homes on a grand scale. A "sleeping giant" awoke at the nondescript intersection that few gave much attention to, and suddenly McLean found itself overshadowed by Tysons Corner. Yet, the community spirit and rural flavor of the area has remained. However, one has to wonder about the future of McLean, with the urbanization and continual expansion of Tysons Corner, and opening of the Washington Metro's new Silver Line. Will the village of McLean go the way of Lewinsville or Langley? Hopefully this will not be the case and the community will not lose its identity, or get "gobbled up" in the enthusiasm of progress.

Greater Transparency in Policing

Fairfax County Police embrace change, sanctity of life for all.

BY COLONEL EDWIN C. ROESSLER JR.
CHIEF OF POLICE

Dear Community Members:
The Fairfax County Police Department was established on July 1, 1940 and today we have an authorized strength of 1,406 sworn law enforcement officers. Our greatly engaged community exceeds 1.1 million residents which continues to assist us in preventing and fighting crime, increasing the culture of safety to preserve the sanctity of life for all, and to keep pace with rapid urbanization.

Your Police Department proactively undertook an independent review of its use of force training, and related policies and procedures conducted by the Police Executive Research Forum. A further review generating additional change recommendations has been conducted by the County's Ad Hoc Police Practices Review Commission. The core theme of change is adopting the philosophy of the sanctity of life in all we do. As I have discussed in multiple public forums to include the Public Safety Committee of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, your police department embraces reengineering the law enforcement profession and we are proud to be national leaders truly engaged with creating change with an engaged community.

The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors has endorsed our reengineering of the policies governing the use of force which value the sanctity of human life. The Police Department has adopted policies and practices which utilize the Critical Decision Making Model to ensure that all actions are proportionate, lawful, accountable, necessary, and ethical. Your Police Department has mandated annual in-service training on use of force critical decision-making because the essential knowledge and skills are considered "perishable," therefore rendering training on an annual basis a necessity.

The final report issued by the Ad Hoc Commission included recommendations made by its Independent Oversight and Investigations Subcommittee. These recommendations, the subject of current deliberation by the Public Safety Committee of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, propose the creation of a Police Auditor position and establishment of a Civilian Review Panel. The Police Department welcomes immediate implementation of both as they maximize accountability through transparency, and will lead to higher levels of public trust and confidence in the Police Department.

The Police Department is committed to enhancing its transparency at all levels and we have established policies and procedures in coordination with the Board of Supervisors to achieve maximum communication with the communities we serve. Throughout the remainder of 2016 and into 2017 we will continue to reengineer our profession in many operational and administrative areas to achieve effective change while increasing community engagement.

In 2014 the Police Department began a self-assessment process to align its policies and procedures to comply with 484 national standards established by the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies (CALEA). The required on-site assessment was conducted by assessors from outside Virginia in early 2016, and CALEA accredited status was awarded on July 30, 2016.

The Police Department, along with the Community Services Board, other public safety agencies, and mental health advocates partnered to implement the Diversion First program which provides a viable jail diversion alternative for those in mental health crisis. Our police officers receive Crisis Intervention Team (CIT) training to prepare them to recognize when persons are experiencing a mental health crisis and how best to de-escalate such initial encounters. Our CIT-trained officers now have the Merrifield Crisis Response Center, as well as two Mobile Crisis Units, enabling them to offer persons in crisis the mental health services they may require.

Welcome to Fairfax County and we encourage you to engage with your Police Department as we all continue to make our County a great place to live, work, play, and grow old. To learn more about the Fairfax County Police Department, please visit <http://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/police/>

Welcoming Business Community

Northern Virginia Chamber of Commerce welcomes newcomers to the area.

BY JIM CORCORAN
PRESIDENT AND CEO, NORTHERN VIRGINIA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

I am pleased to welcome you to Northern Virginia on behalf of the Northern Virginia Chamber of Commerce (Northern Virginia Chamber) and the regional business community.

The Northern Virginia Chamber is The Voice of Business in Northern Virginia, representing nearly 700 member companies which in total employ more than 500,000 members of our regional community.

While our direct actions are targeted towards our business members, we always have this wonderful community in mind. Our strong economy provides a base on which families may flourish.

Northern Virginia is one of our country's greatest success stories, and without a thriving business community, we would not have the flourishing retail centers, competitive real estate, or world-class education system that our region proudly boasts. Because of this, Northern Virginia attracts the nation's leading businesses, including nine Fortune 500 headquarters and 125 Inc.

5000 companies.

Our business community is not only successful in keeping our economy healthy, but also in working to better our community and quality of life. Between 2014 and 2016 the Chamber made more than $60,000 in direct cash donations to nonprofits through the collective power of our members and distributed more than $60,000 in scholarships to family members of our first responders. It is exciting to see companies step up and support the many worthy causes across our region.

The Northern Virginia Chamber advocates for issues that impact businesses, workers, and residents alike, specifically transportation improvements. We are the leading advocate for innovative solutions our region's connectivity challenges.

The Northern Virginia Chamber was and continues to be a supporter of Metro expansion via the Silver Line and safety improvements system wide. The Chamber was also a long-time supporter of the I-495 HOT Lanes and I-95 Express Lanes. Whether you use these or not, their availability has reduced congestion. Both projects were funded through unique public-private partnerships, bringing together government and business to solve regional transportation issues. We are excited to watch the same public-private solutions be applied to I-66 in the coming years. We were proud to advocate for these improvements in Richmond, and we stand ready to end the gridlock and unlock I-66 in our growing region.

And grow we shall. There is much to look forward to in Northern Virginia. We continue to attract and develop emerging industries, particularly cybersecurity, bioscience, and hospitality. Businesses and academia that have been strongholds in the area are expanding and innovating in their own industries. For example, the new Inova Center for Personalized Health will explore human genomics and George Mason University's Center for Innovation and Entrepreneurship provides students and alumni experiential learning opportunities to create value in the business world.

While Northern Virginia's economy has grown over the past few decades as compared to other major metropolitan regions, we have trailed over the last five years due to cutbacks in federal spending. In order to regain our region's standing as a leading economy, we must see the private, academic, nonprofit, and government sectors innovate. Our future growth lies in our ability to cooperate as a region.

If you haven't yet, I encourage you to visit www.novachamber.org to learn more about what we're doing to build up the business community and better our region.

I look forward to working with you to ensure Northern Virginia remains a great place to live with support from an exceptional business community.

How to Vote

Every year is election year in Virginia; mechanics and details of voting require attention to detail.

FAIRFAX COUNTY: While the Presidential election will take top billing, every seat in the U.S. Congress is on the ballot, with one hotly contested race in Northern Virginia. In Fairfax County, voters will decide whether to enact a four percent meals tax, a topic voters will hear a lot more about in coming weeks. The Town of Herndon will have its first November election, moving from May in past elections, with the office of Mayor and six Town Council seats on the ballot. Fairfax County voters will decide on three bond questions, including $120 million in transportation bonds for Metro; $107 million in bonds for parks; and $85 million for building and renovating senior and community centers, and homeless shelters. Ballot Question, Meals Tax
<http://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/mealstax/>
Fairfax County voters will vote yes or no on establishing a 4 percent meals tax. The Connection will publish stories and letters in coming weeks on both sides of this issue.

QUESTION: State law authorizes counties, cities, and towns to levy a tax on prepared food and beverages, commonly called a "meals tax," subject to certain restrictions. Most counties, including Fairfax County, may levy a meals tax only if the voters approve the tax by referendum. The question presented in this referendum asks Fairfax County voters whether the Board of Supervisors should be authorized to levy a meals tax, at a rate not to exceed four percent of the amount charged for the taxable food and beverages. 70 percent of the net revenues would be dedicated to Fairfax County Public Schools; 30 percent of the net revenues would be dedicated to County services, capital improvements and property tax relief. Currently, nearly 65 percent of Fairfax County's General Fund budget relies upon real estate taxes. State law limits what the county can tax and how it may otherwise raise revenue. A meals tax would give the County a new source of revenue, which would help diversify the County's revenue base. At the maximum four percent tax rate, a meals tax would generate an estimated $99 million per year, with a significant percentage paid by non-county residents. A number of area jurisdictions already impose a meals tax, including Arlington County, the cities of Alexandria, Falls Church, and Fairfax, and the towns of Herndon and Vienna.

Comstock Faces Challenge from Bennett in Congressional Race

Voter turnout, presidential politics and 'Trump Effect' considered key factors in once solidly red district.

BY VICTORIA ROSS
THE CONNECTION

In Virginia's 10th Congressional District, freshman lawmaker Barbara Comstock remains confident that she will win her first re-election bid. Her Democratic challenger, LuAnn Bennett, a real estate executive seeking her first elective office, is hoping the sprawling district's changing demographics, together with a strong voter turnout driven by a presidential contest, will give her the chance to turn the seat blue.

LuAnn Bennett (D)

THE 10TH DISTRICT has leaned Republican, but by a narrow margin, according to the Virginia Public Access Project. In 2012, Barack Obama (D) and Mitt Romney (R) split the vote 50-50. In the 2014 race for U.S. Senate, this district voted 52 percent for Ed Gillespie (R) and 46 percent for incumbent Mark Warner (D), contributing to Warner's surprisingly tight bid for reelection. Ken Cuccinelli (R) edged Terry McAuliffe (D) by one percentage point in the 10th District, 48 to 47 percent, in the 2013 race for Governor. During a business meet-and-greet Friday at Breaux Vineyards in Purcellville, Comstock announced that she earned the endorsement of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, and touted her record of supporting tax cuts for businesses. Earlier in the week, Comstock moderated an all-woman panel of area "first responders" at the McLean Community Center as part of her Young Women in Leadership Program. After the nearly two-hour event last Wednesday, Comstock stayed behind to personally greet any young woman who wanted to meet and get a photo taken with the congresswoman. "The race is going great," Comstock said. "But I'm feeling energized. ... This is the fun part." Bennett said she's ready to unseat the incumbent. Bennett launched her campaign last December with a web video in which she recalled moving to Fairfax County 35 years ago with her husband Rick and buying a home in Great Falls, where they started a small real estate business and raised a family "and built a tion season, both parties are speculating how Republican Donald Trump's presidential candidacy will impact down-ticket congressional races. TAKING A PAGE from the national Democratic playbook, Bennett's campaign has been relentless in demanding that Comstock either disavow Trump and his positions, or acknowledge that she stands with him. When Trump criticized the Gold Star Muslim parents Khizr and Ghazala Kahn, parents of a soldier killed in Afghanistan, who spoke against Trump at the Democratic National Convention, Bennett immediately praised the family, said Trump is "hostile to our Muslim community" and called for her GOP opponent, Barbara Comstock, to "withdraw" her support from Trump. Comstock also praised the Khans. She has said publicly that "Donald Trump needs to earn the votes of me and many others." While Comstock has not endorsed Trump, she also has not joined the Republicans who have declared they will not vote for Trump. At times, Comstock has issued pointed news releases that counter Trump's rant-of-the-day without naming Trump. But Bennett has said that "avoiding mentioning Trump's name" is not enough for constituents. Democrats might not have to worry about Virginia, at least at the presidential level. Larry Sabato, the director of the University of Virginia Center for Politics, declared Virginia is no longer a battleground state. "Virginia is off the table," Sabato said in the release. Virginia, once a near-certain win for Republican candidates, is now trending more towards Democrats, he predicted. "These normally swing states are not swinging at all in 2016. They are solidly Democratic," said Sabato. What remains unknown is what influence that trend at the presidential level may have on the 10th district Congressional race.

Virginia Voter ID

Virginia has a stringent voter identification requirement, plan to bring photo identification with you to vote, whether that is absentee or on Election Day.

Among accepted ID: valid Virginia Driver's License or Identification Card; valid Virginia DMV issued Veteran's ID card; valid

U.S. Passport; valid college or university student photo identification card from an institution of higher education located in Virginia; valid student ID issued by a public school or private school in Virginia displaying a photo; employee identification card containing a photograph of the voter and issued by an employer of the voter in the ordinary course of the employer's business.

Any registered voter who does not have one of the required forms of identification can apply for a free Virginia Voter Photo Identification from any general registrar's office. Voters applying for the Virginia Voter Photo ID complete the Virginia Voter Photo Identification Card Application, have their picture taken, and sign the digital signature pad. Once the application is processed, the card will be mailed directly to the voter.

If you arrive at your polling place on Election Day without an acceptable form of photo identification, don't panic or give up. You will be given the opportunity to vote a provisional ballot. After completing the provisional ballot, the individual voting will be given written instructions from the election officials on how to submit a copy of his/her identification so that his/her vote can be counted.

A voter will have until noon on the Friday following the election to deliver a copy of the identification to the local electoral board or to appear in person to apply for a Virginia Voter Photo ID Card.

Also by noon on Friday following the election, the voter may appear in-person in the office of the general registrar, in the locality in which the provisional ballot was cast, and apply for a Virginia Voter Photo ID Card. At the completion of the application process, the voter may request a Temporary Identification Document. This document may be provided to the electoral board to suffice the identification requirement.

Constitutional Amendments

Two proposed Virginia Constitutional Amendments will also be on the ballot:

Ballot Question 1: Should Article I of the Constitution of Virginia be amended to prohibit any agreement or combination between an employer and a labor union or labor organization whereby (i) nonmembers of the union or organization are denied the right to work for the employer, (ii) membership to the union or organization is made a condition of employment or continuation of employment by such employer, or (iii) the union or organization acquires an employment monopoly in any such enterprise?

Ballot Question 2: Shall the Constitution of Virginia be amended to allow the General Assembly to provide an option to the localities to exempt from taxation the real property of the surviving spouse of any law-enforcement officer, firefighter, search and rescue personnel, or emergency medical services personnel who was killed in the line of duty, where the surviving spouse occupies the real property as his or her principal place of residence and has not remarried?

Saving Trees While Building Houses

"Trees rely on us. They need a community of caretakers and advocates, and that's what we are," said Joyce Harris of the McLean Trees Foundation.

Almost all future development in McLean will consist of infill development and redevelopment, which threatens many mature trees. When an older house on a lot with older trees is demolished to make way for a significantly larger house, many trees can come down in the process. Careful planning and expertise is required to preserve the trees which benefit the broader neighborhoods and the environment.

The McLean Citizens Association co-sponsored the third annual Tree Forum in April at the McLean Community Center.

In addition to McLean Tree Foundation's discussion of the importance and significance of trees to McLean and other communities, this year's forum featured a panel discussion involving citizens associations and developers.

Supervisor John Foust thanked the developers, which included Greg Ruff of the Northern Virginia Building Industry Association and Louis Genuario Jr., president of Wakefield Homes, for coming to the forum.

"To get the industry to come talk with us and work with us is a big deal," Foust said. "They recognize the importance of trees to us."

Neil Ende voiced the frustration of McLean residents who feel helpless watching their neighborhoods that are named after forests and trees torn down to make way for larger houses.

"It is changing the fundamental aspect of the neighborhoods, house by house by house," Ende said.

MCC Expansion

McLean Community Center will be renovated and expanded. The process is tentatively scheduled to start in the spring.

"We're getting every nickel and dime out of the $8 million. I just can't wait," George Sachs, the community center's executive director, said. "We're really getting the maximum that we can for this site. That's what we wanted to do and we've accomplished that."

"Walking into the front lobby, it's going to be a more active looking place. You're going to see the activity right there," he said.

The $8-million renovation is going to be "dynamic," said Dennis Findley, chair of the community center's Capital Facilities Committee.

Construction is tentatively scheduled to begin around March 2017. The grand opening of the entire center is scheduled for the fall of 2018.

The Center's administration will look for space in the surrounding community to hold some events and programs while the center is being renovated.

The Kensington keeps couples together, even when care needs differ

What happens when one half of a couple needs care but the other does not? Or when one half of a couple needs assisted living support and the other needs memory care?

Our solution is simple: We welcome both of them to make our home their home—TOGETHER.

Maybe our couples have raised families, or served their country, or built skyscrapers. Maybe they've taught music, or traded stocks, or ministered to their congregations. From our perspective—whether they're homemakers or bankers, chefs or veterans—our couples are our heroes! They've made a life together, side by side. And we'll do everything in our power to keep it that way.

At The Kensington, we've developed a care model built around families and for families. We offer support that meets the needs unique to each individual, even when they're half of a couple.

We introduce new social, wellness and enrichment opportunities regularly, but we also go out of our way to preserve the familiarity of comfortable routines and favorite pastimes they shared together as one.

Please call us at 703-992-9868 to learn more about our lifestyle options for couples. Or, visit our Information Center at 1212 West Broad Street, on weekdays and Saturday from 9am-6pm and Sunday by appointment.

Who Runs McLean?

McLean Citizens Association continues to celebrate a century of citizen activism.

McLean Citizens Association

The McLean Citizens Association (MCA) has served since 1914 as an unofficial town council for the residents of the McLean area which has no governmental structure of its own. MCA provides a forum in which all McLean residents can discuss ways to resolve community problems and countywide issues affecting the area. Committees include planning and zoning, environment, parks and recreation, education and youth, budget and taxation, transportation, public safety liaison, Tysons liaison and membership. The website includes links to important McLean information and organizations.

Meetings are most always held at the McLean Community Center, at 1234 Ingleside Ave. See below. <http://mcleancitizens.org/>

www.mcleancenter.org

The mission of the McLean Community Center is to provide a sense of community by undertaking programs, assisting community organizations and furnishing facilities for civic, cultural, educational, recreational and social activities apportioned fairly to all residents of Small District 1, Dranesville.

The McLean Community Center was built and is funded by residents of Greater McLean through a real estate tax surcharge, the result of a 1970 bond referendum (Small District 1A-Dranesville). An eleven-member Governing Board, elected by citizens of the district and appointed by the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, oversees the Center's budget and operation. McLean Community Center offers activities for adults and children, including classes, lectures, study tours, camps, art exhibits and theater. The Center also sponsors major community activities such as McLean Day at Lewinsville Park in May and the 4th of July Fireworks in McLean.

Center facilities include the 386-seat Alden Theatre, the McLean Project for the Arts galleries, the Susan B. DuVal Art Studio, meeting and conference rooms, a rehearsal studio and a classroom/commercial kitchen.

Note: The community center is tentatively scheduled to be renovated and expanded starting in spring 2017. The $8 million project will add a 1,008-square-foot meeting room adjacent to the current Community Hall and as well as build a 2,983-square-foot structure, with multipurpose room, kitchenette, restrooms and storage space, just south of the center's Susan B. DuVal Art Studio.

The project also entails enclosing and adding a roof to the center's courtyard area, which will feature a 1,255-square-foot sculpture garden that will be exposed to the sky. Other additions include a 661-square-foot boardroom and a 703-square-foot lounge.

Upton Hill Regional Park offers visitors a wooded oasis in the heart of the most densely populated area of Northern Virginia. A large outdoor water-park complex is a sparkling attraction in this wooded, urban park, which straddles the boundary line between Arlington and Fairfax counties. The deluxe miniature golf course boasts one of the longest mini golf holes in the world; the batting cages include nine baseball and softball cages. The park is open every day for hiking, picnicking, playing on the playground and enjoying the outdoors. Located within Upton Hill Regional Park, Ocean Dunes is loaded with fun features for adults and children.
