Amazon 'Lockers' Come to Springfield Town Center

Springfield Town Center is one of 15 mall locations across the east coast now offering Amazon's "Locker" service as a quicker alternative to home delivery of items.

After an Amazon shopper adds a locker location to their list of addresses, they can select it at check out as a delivery option. The purchase is then shipped to the locker and an email is sent to the customer once it arrives.

The shopper then has three business days to pick up their order from the self-service locker.

"To team up with Amazon to offer a first-of-its-kind, multi-location Amazon Locker installation at some of our malls across the east coast is a great milestone in our ongoing commitment to innovation and optimizing the shopper experience for customers – both in-store and online," Joseph Coradino, CEO of Springfield Town Center's owner Pennsylvania Real Estate Investment Trust, said in a statement.

"We fully embrace the growing intersection of physical and digital retail," Coradino continued, "and through this program, are expanding our shopper base to welcome new consumers to our properties to rediscover the contemporary retail experience."

Temperature dips between massive two-day event.

With more than just a few degrees Fahrenheit separating Sept. 10 and 11, the two days of the annual Burke Centre Festival, the massive community event once again signaled the end of summer and beginning of fall in more ways than one.

"It always seems to kick off fall," said former Burke resident Jim Miller, who was demonstrating traditional Okinawan Karate from a Burke Centre Conservancy class.

"I like the community aspect of it — so many different cultures enjoying themselves," Miller said.

Miller's booth was just one of more than a dozen outreach booths at the festival, that included local politicians, churches and temples, and Fairfax County government and services.

There were also around a dozen each of food vendors and sponsor booths, and about 100 crafters.

Nancy Ruano of Burke said she likes that families have a chance to "see police officers and firefighters as a more friendly aspect" at their vendor booths.

The Burke Veterans of Foreign Wars, local Boy Scouts troop members and politicians supervisor John Cook (R-Braddock), Del. Eileen Filler-Corn (D-41) and Rep. Gerry Connolly participated in a patriotic opening ceremony for the festival, which fell on the weekend of September 11.

The festival was organized by the Burke Centre Conservancy. For more information, visit www.burkecentreweb.com or call 703-978-2928.

Eric Gardner of Springfield and John B. Wren of Fairfax set up booth at Burke Centre Festival.

BY MARTI MOORE
THE CONNECTION

Springfield author Eric Gardner has learned writing his book is easy. So is getting it published.

Selling it is the hard part.

He wrote a 500-page novel called “God’s Will” in 2008. It was printed through an independent publisher that didn’t give its author a publicity machine with a whirlwind book tour across the country.

Gardner, 40, promoted his first opus online at Wattpad, which he calls the literary version of music-sharing website Napster — an online service that revolutionized the way songs were sold after it met resistance more than 15 years ago from the music industry over copyright issues.

Through Wattpad, Gardner said he garnered 1.7 million reads in 15 months since the release of “God’s Will.” Because the action of his novel takes place around the world, he has captured an audience from Canada, Ghana, Australia and China.

The retired U.S. Army captain started writing in 2006, when his wife, Gretchen — also an Army officer — was deployed to Afghanistan for 15 months.

“I needed something to do at night,” Gardner said. “One page turned into two, two into three,” he added. It was a cathartic activity for the veteran-turned-stay-at-home-dad of two young daughters.

His contemporary fiction was re-released last month as a series of novels about good versus evil through a different publisher he found online through Amazon.

GARDNER sold “Defiance” — a 177-page paperback that sells for $8.99 online at www.amazon.com and $2.99 in the Kindle e-book edition — from a booth he rented with a fellow author John B. Wren, 72, of Fairfax on Sept. 10 and 11 at the Burke Centre Festival.

He also promoted his next book, “Awakening,” due out Oct. 15 for the same price. It is followed by “Sacrifice” Nov. 15 and “Gathering” next spring.

“I literally have 780,000 words written for this series and it’s still going,” Gardner claims. Each of his “XIII Legion Series Books,” he says, contains about 50,000 words.

Although his target market is men aged 18-34 years, Gardner was surprised to learn his true readership is middle-aged women.

He credits four strong female characters in his novels: two protagonists and two antagonists. As the father of two daughters, Gardner wants his fiction to contain solid female role models.

His books are “about mankind’s role in heaven and hell.” The stories, he admits, are somewhat macabre and terrifying.

It’s no surprise this highly-decorated infantry officer who has jumped out of planes found literary inspiration while serving his country in Afghanistan in 2005 and ‘06. Prior to that, Gardner said he was sent to West Africa for the ousting of Liberian warlord, President Charles Taylor, who was found guilty by an international tribunal years later for war crimes and crimes against humanity.

Gardner says his characters persevere through the constant beat down of life. His main character, Gabriel, is asked to raise an army for God and stand shoulder-to-shoulder with angels to stop the fall of heaven.

“And gets the snot beaten out of him on every page,” Gardner points out “but he keeps going and going.”

“This is unapologetically honest,” in which Gardner describes his characters as really gritty and easily relatable to everyone who struggles with the question “why am I here.”

Wren and Gardner have known each other five years through the Northern Virginia Writer’s Club, which meets at area libraries the last Saturday of each month.

WREN, a semi-retired mechanical engineer, has published four books since 2011, when he penned a contemporary psychological thriller about a serial killer in “To Probe a Beating Heart.”

Sept. 16 marks the release of “an Trodai Laoghaire” at Amazon.com. It is the second in a trilogy of historic tales set in Ireland between 893 and 1042. This 110-page novella is available in paperback for $12.95 and $3.95 on Kindle.

Wren says his interest in Ireland stems from his mother, who was born in a lighthouse in Ireland’s County Cork. The year 2014 marked the millennial anniversary of the Battle of Clontarf and inspired Wren’s trilogy about a family of medieval Irish warriors beginning with “an Trodai Scolai.”

The series, no doubt, required a “wee bit of research,” Gardner chimed. Wren says he takes pride in presenting an accurate account of historical fact while weaving his fictional characters in and out.

His next book, due out by November, is 300 pages long.

“You’re stepping up your game,” Gardner quipped about his peer’s upcoming book “an Trodai Conall,” which will sell for $14.95 paperback and $4.95 e-book.

Both Gardner and Wren get their books published through an online independent print-on-demand service called CreateSpace — a division of Amazon.com.

“I take care of all the editing and all the artwork,” Wren explains, before sending the manuscript.

Although they don’t enjoy the benefit of a publicity dream team, CreateSpace offers marketing advice for a fee and pays their authors as their books sell on Amazon and other retail outlets.

Gardner and Wren watch the profits trickle into their account.

The payoff hasn’t justified the hard work yet.

“We’re not gettin’ rich,” Wren admits. It’s the process of writing he truly enjoys.

The Northern Virginia Senior Olympics (NVSO) opened Sept. 10 with an afternoon splash at Yorktown Aquatic Center. Opening ceremonies for the 12-day event ending Sept. 21 were held at 9 a.m. at Thomas Jefferson Community Center followed by a variety of track and rowing events in the morning. Later in the day eight men and women seniors, including national medalists and new swimmers, participated in the diving event in their age categories. Jim Mackenzie, chair of this year's event, said 918 seniors have signed up this year, breaking last year's record of 820.

History: Protests Required to Advance Justice

Local story: Protest, arrests, brutal treatment, torture of advocates for vote for women.

Democracy without our Bill of Rights could amount to mob rule. The Bill of Rights, a visionary document made up of the first 10 amendments to the U.S. Constitution, is reprinted on our website; it's under 500 words; it takes just a few minutes to read.

In the United States, the Constitution and the Bill of Rights offer many protections of freedom and equality. But actually extending that protection and freedom to all has often required individual action and sacrifice, protest, demonstration and nonviolent civil disobedience.

That doesn't make every demonstration and every protest virtuous, but even when protest is not to our tastes, we should appreciate that we live in a country where the right to do so is protected.

Even something as basic as the right of women to vote only came about because of persistent, unpopular protests organized by a militant group, individual action, sacrifice and courage in the face of brutality and repression from existing authority.

The story of how women got the vote, that is to say how half the population of the United States escaped being disenfranchised, is a local story, and so appropriate to tell in the Connection.

EDITORIAL

Alice Paul, "one of the most notorious women in America, was the chairman of the National Woman's Party, a small and militant suffrage offshoot of the mainstream National American Woman Suffrage Association," wrote Catherine J. Lanctot, professor of law at Villanova, in "The Suffrage Pickets and Freedom of Speech During World War I."

In January 1917, Paul, Lucy Burns and other activists organized a relentless public protest outside the White House over President Woodrow Wilson's refusal to support the vote for women.

"By the fall of 1917, more than a hundred women had been arrested and imprisoned on charges of obstructing traffic and unlawful assembly, ostensibly because they attracted large and often hostile crowds to witness their demonstrations. ... Suffrage pickets found themselves at the center of increasingly violent confrontations with angry crowds and hostile law enforcement authorities. ...

"The judge assigned to their cases seemed perplexed by their stubbornness, patiently lecturing the women on world conditions, and explaining: 'We are at war, and you should not bother the President,' before sending them to serve their sentence at the Occoquan Workhouse in Lorton, Virginia. This strategy backfired badly in mid-July, 1917, with a firestorm of controversy over the incarceration of several socially prominent women and the intervention of liberal lawyers who previously had been allied with Wilson. ...

"Wealthy women serving time in a workhouse brought extensive media attention."

In fact, protest by women of privilege made a critical difference.

Conditions in the workhouse were brutal and filthy; women were beaten and tortured by force feeding during hunger strikes.

The 19th Amendment was ratified on Aug. 26, 1920: "The right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

Edith Mayo, curator emeritus of political and women's history at the Smithsonian's National Museum of American History, put the history in context at a recent event: "I think one of the things we're trying to get across is one has to be vigilant about voting rights. The voter suppression of recent years has concerned a lot of Americans. It took such guts and determination for all these groups except for white men to get the right to vote that any slipping backward and trying to suppress the right to vote is a grave concern."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Suicide Prevention: Everyone's Business

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Suicide Prevention Alliance of Northern Virginia (SPAN), I thank you for the Connection's compassionate and informative editorial printed in observance of Suicide Prevention Week, titled Take One Action to Prevent Suicide.

Suicidal thoughts can affect anyone regardless of age, gender or background; it is the third leading cause of death among young people in the Commonwealth of Virginia, as well as across the United States. According to the Substance Abuse and Mental Health Services Administration (SAMHSA), there is one suicide in the U.S. every 13 minutes; nearly 40,000 people per year die by suicide in the U.S. In Fairfax County, an annual youth survey found that local youth in 10th and 12th grades are at significantly higher risk for depression and suicide ideation than their peers in other parts of the state.

Launched with grant funding from the Virginia Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Services and in kind contributions from local governments, mental and behavioral health partners from across the region launched SPAN, serving as a new regional resource for information, events and activities relating to suicide awareness and prevention.

The goal of SPAN is to provide an array of resources and support to increase help-seeking, reduce stigma, and prevent suicide. Through sharing information and efforts with stakeholders across the region, creating opportunities to reach out and provide training, awareness campaigns, promoting health and wellness programs to prevent suicide, SPAN members hope to come together to make a meaningful difference.

Stigma around suicide is a major impediment and while we are making progress in building a firm foundation for suicide prevention, there's still so much more we need to do. Coming together around the concept of suicide prevention is easy but implementing regional efforts and collaboration is challenging. We need to remind our community that suicide prevention is everyone's business every day.

Be involved. Be engaged. All of us can have a key role in saving lives. Please learn more about SPAN at <http://www.suicidepreventionnva.org/>.

Election Concern: Hate Mongering

To the Editor:

I wanted to write to say how extraordinary the upcoming election is going to be. This is the first time in twenty years that I have been forced to do more than just vote. I am a conservative from Alabama that cast my first vote for Bob Dole and supported Bush through the 2000s. I broke ranks to vote for Obama because of McCain hawkishness, I was just out of the Marine Corps and had seen enough wars. I supported Romney in the following election, but was not distraught by Obama's reelection. Now is a different time.

My concern is not partisan disagreements, but the fundamental values of our country. I am conservative and not a Hillary fan, but I must admit that she is the safest and most conservative nominee. Even if it would mean a more conservative court and lower taxes for my family, it is not worth the risk of death, war, and economic collapse that a Trump candidacy would allow. My biggest concern is the hate mongering and race baiting. Being from Alabama, I have a masters in understanding race baiting and coded language. It is always a distraction for some failed policy or difficult problem. Trump is laying out a traditional argument that life would be better if these brown folks would go away. Rational people know that those people are taxpayers, employers, and citizens. I see arguments that Trump is a modern day Dixiecrat, but that is insulting to Dixiecrats, they were far more inclusive. This year is the know nothing party revival. I am frustrated that the Republicans have somehow found the one Republican that could possibly be more disliked than Hillary.

John W. Smith treks through a maze of sleek chairs and stately sofas in a large, sunlit showroom tucked in an industrial warehouse center in Fairfax. He pauses at dining chair, upholstered in beige linen and framed with espresso hardwood.

"Feel how smooth that is," he said, running his fingers along the wooden edge of the seat. "If you're at a sitting at the table for three, there's no sharp edge against the back of your calves."

Dubbed the "three-hour dinner party" chair, the Etesian is part of the Willem Smith Furnitureworks collection. Pieces ranging from the brown, leather San Luis, a streamlined version of a traditional wing chair, to the Francisco Metro Swivel, a petite recliner, to the Canapé sofa, fill the showroom.

"The comfort of the pieces sells them, but it doesn't look like big, over-stuffed furniture," said interior designer Lowell Wade of Interior Motives in Alexandria.

Like many furniture makers, Smith strives to marry style and comfort. He's taken that commitment to a new level, however, creating and patenting his own seating mechanism to ensure comfort. Named piErgonom, it's a device that attaches the seat back to the seat cushion, preventing slippage and offering back support. Beauty and style matter to Smith, but in his liberal view of aesthetics, beauty springs from not only the physical appeal, but also the way a piece feels and functions.

"Comfort is the final element that determines whether the chair or sofa is a success," said Smith, a Great Falls father of four teenage daughters. "We sweat all of the details and are completely consumed by making all of our seating more comfortable."

Smith says that he is committed to minimizing his company's impact on the environment. His practices include using non-endangered hardwoods. All of the springs incorporated into the cushions of his seats are made from recycled steel. Most of the furniture and fabrics used are made in the United States. Buyers can choose from a range of textiles and finishes, including leathers and fabrics, which are displayed

Smith credits a talented team of what he calls "style leaders" with the aesthetics of his goods. "I have no illusions that I'm Yves St. Laurent and I wouldn't pretend to have an affinity for style," he said. "There is a difference between design and style. Design is the engineering, construction, materials and performance, and that's my focus."

Before hitting the market, for example, each piece undergoes a careful inspection by Smith and his business partner John "JB" Behrens.

"We know all of our pieces intimately," said Behrens. "The designs essentially come out of a collaborative process. We think about furniture logically and practically and we obsess over comfort."

"We focus a lot on scale and proportion and how that relates to a furniture buying decision," he continued. "When we have a chair, for example, John and I look at it together, think about what works, what doesn't, what things bother us, how can we figure out a solution to turn problems into positives."

A combination of versatility and comfort drew Potomac, Md.-based interior designer Anne Walker of Anne Walker Design to Willem Smith furniture during a recent home redesign. "All of their pieces are incredibly beautiful. They combine this very clever combination of Old World and classic style with innovation," said Walker. "The greatest strength is the comfort of their pieces. They take painstaking details. You can tell the first time you sit on one of their products that they are extremely comfortable."

Smith's wife, Mary, helps with marketing and other tasks. "The clear differentiator for the furniture is the attention to comfort and functionality," she said. "There is a lot of furniture out there that may look good, but isn't functional. A lot of the public doesn't realize it. That's the fun of the marketing piece: educating others about this great solution for people. Like before there was Starbucks people didn't realize they were drinking bad coffee all the time."

This attention to detail attracts clients ranging from furniture-seeking homeowners to interior designers on a mission to create a showplace.

"Their furniture has a bespoke quality and an incomparable level of comfort," said Joseph Van Goethem of Joseph Van Goethem Interior Design in McLean. "I believe Willem Smith is the epitome of authenticity and timelessness." Even better, he added, "when I first took a client to Willem Smith, there was no smothering my client, no sales pitch. When your furniture is that good, there's no need to sell it."

They may not hover, but they are there to help. One woman shopper first visited the Willem Smith showroom earlier this year after renovating her kitchen. She chose a dining table, dining chairs and bar stools to complete the space. "JB and John ... helped me pick style, scale, color and design that enhanced my space and really pulled it together beautifully. ... I really wanted the space to come together, flow, and serve as a welcoming, bright and calm social space."

Locally, Peet's Coffee & Tea selected Willem Smith's Rio Java chair for the lounge area of its coffee shops.

Sunroom Project Brings Light, Awards

Family entertainment suite, larger breakfast area, private second level decking among stand-out custom features.

To Sanjay and Deepika Sardana, who have occupied a Colonial style-home in Vienna for 14 years, the great achievement of their new sunroom addition is how well it meets their requirements regarding views, available light and interior design.

The project also garnered a Contractor of the Year (COTY) award from the National Association of Remodeling Industry (NARI) for Michael Nash Kitchen and Homes earlier this year.

"I'm not surprised at the award," Sanja said. "It's a very innovative plan".

With its 676-square-foot hexagonal-shaped sunroom, extensive decking, ground-level patio, and upper deck off the master bedroom, the indoor-outdoor design accommodates a broad array of family needs.

"We started with a pretty long wish list," Sanja said. "Our house backs up into a lovely wooded setting, so wanted to take advantage of the views. But we also wanted a better floorplan for a growing family. We could see how new square footage might address these problems, but didn't know what was feasible."

As it happened, a chance encounter with Michael Nash chairman and founder Sonny Nazemian unleashed a creative process which soon resulted in several design innovations.

❖ The new square footage would accommodate a family dining and entertainment area circumscribed by a running course of seven foot windows with transoms; the spacious hexagonal footprint permits a significant increase in available light; the design is also positioned to capture several "focal points" in the surrounding parkland.

❖ The existing rear elevation kitchen window is transformed into a counter and pass-through within easy reach of the family's everyday dining area.

❖ A Trex-surfaced decking system accommodates exits from old family room and the new sunroom. Eye-catching designs on the 22x19-foot surface are elaborated in contrasting beige and redwood slats installed in alternating diagonal and parallel lines.

❖ A flared, three-way staircase connects the deck to a ground-level balcony off the master bedroom was also critical to owner requirements. Custom-designed benches and planters are used on both levels to define traffic and gathering zones.

Meanwhile, the new sunroom's interior design explores colors and Wood patterned tile flooring provides an earthy offset to white trimmed divided- light windows that draw the eye to distant focal points. By extension, the bronze-hued leaf-shaped ceiling fans are both a complementary color accent and an appropriate design motif.

Overall, it's a comfortably open space from which to enjoy nature's panorama of ever-changing seasons.

"It's even better than we imagined," Sanjay Sardana said. "It completes the house. From the sunroom, we can enjoy the setting regardless of outside temperatures."

Del. Filler-Corn and the Beck Family Participate in NASCAR Event

When Delegate Eileen Filler-Corn (D-41) goes to Richmond, it's usually for the General Assembly Session or various meetings of commissions or committees that she serves on throughout the year. On Friday, Sept. 9, she had the opportunity to make the roughly 100-mile trek down for a different reason: NASCAR. In fact, the 41st District of the House of Delegates was well represented at the Virginia 529 College Savings 250, with Burke residents Catherine and Natalie Beck serving as grand marshals for the race and Filler-Corn serving as its honorary starter.

Catherine and her late husband Steven were the leading voices behind the federal Achieving a Better Life Experience (ABLE) Act, which creates tax-free savings accounts for individuals with disabilities. They worked tirelessly for 8 years to pass this bill at the federal level for their daughter Natalie who has Down syndrome. Stephen passed away unexpectedly after the federal bill was signed into law, and it has since been renamed the Stephen E. Beck Achieving a Better Life Experience (ABLE) Act. Filler-Corn, for her part, worked together with the Becks, the LaGanke family and the National Down Syndrome Society to introduce and pass the Virginia ABLE Act in 2015—entrusting these accounts with Virginia 529, which is best known for being Virginia's pre-eminent college savings program. The following year, this group also worked together to ensure these new ABLE Accounts would be exempt from any means testing at the state level this past year. As Virginia 529 was the chief sponsor of the race on Friday, they honored Filler-Corn, the Becks as well as the LaGankes for their advocacy.

Before the race started Filler-Corn and the Becks went on stage in front of the race track to greet all of the drivers participating in the race that night. Following the pre-race festivities and recognitions, the Becks and LaGankes remained on the race track while Filler-Corn ascended the tower where she'd be waving the starting green flag. The Becks, as grand marshals then said, "Start your engines", and then they as well as the LaGankes hopped into pace cars and began their own trek around the track. After several pace car led laps, Filler-Corn waved the green flag to begin the race.

"Truly an incredible experience!" said Filler-Corn after the start of the race, "It's been a privilege to work so closely with Virginia 529 over the past few years. I so appreciate the opportunity to be included in the night's festivities."

Virginia's ABLE Accounts, known as ABLE-Now, will be available for Virginians with disabilities later this year. Those who are interested in finding out more about ABLE accounts can visit <https://www.able-now.com>.

Lake Braddock Running Back Signs for University of Virginia

On Friday, Sept. 9, 2016, Lake Braddock Senior running back Lamont Atkins, of Burke, signed his grant-in-aid scholarship package to play football for the University of Virginia. The grant-in-aid signature guarantees the future Cavalier a full-cost athletic scholarship at the university.

Lamont currently ranks as the 14th All-Purpose running back in the nation by 247sports.com and is the #2 running back in the state of Virginia according to ESPN.com. Coached by James Poythress, he led the Bruins football team to the third round of playoffs ending the season with 1,142 rushing yards and 213 receiving yards.

Atkins, who verbally committed to the Cavaliers on April 23, 2016, also received scholarship offers from Northwestern, Vanderbilt, Syracuse, Illinois, Boston College, Marshall, Toledo, Old Dominion, Navy, Kent State, Harvard, Yale and Dartmouth. He will enroll and begin taking classes at the University in January 2017 and is eligible for football practice in the Spring.

AREA ROUNDUPS

Burke Church to Host a Community Block Party

A community block party will be hosted by Burke Presbyterian Church on Sunday, Sept. 18, from 12:15 to 3 p.m. when it conducts a "Food Truck Ruckus: Make Some Noise About World Hunger." Both sweet and savory food trucks will be on the church grounds at the corner of Burke Centre Parkway and Oak Leather Drive for folks to purchase yummy treats of their choice. There also will be play tables for young children, as well as corn hole and other games for adults and children of all ages. Plus there will be a free photo booth to capture memories and the Delaney Hall Band will be playing your favorite tunes, so stop by to sing along or just enjoy the jam of their unique blend of original music and faithful classic rock. Then plan to join in packing 10,000 meals for those in need overseas through Stop Hunger Now from 1:30 to 3 p.m. Those attending are asked to bring blankets or lawn chairs to sit on and a canned food item or dry goods item to help stock the food pantry for ECHO in Springfield to combat hunger in our neighborhood. Check out the church's Facebook page for the most current information about this event and mission opportunities to help the hungry in our world.

Meals Tax: Vote 'No'

To the Editor:

I'm writing this letter to encourage the people of Springfield and Fairfax County to vote NO on the meals tax referendum on the Nov. 8 ballot. There are numerous reasons to vote NO, but first among them is that a meals tax is the most regressive form of taxation our government can impose. It taxes food without discrimination to your ability to enjoy a simple meal out with your family.

Second, Chairman Sharon Bulova of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors reasoned in her September "Bulova Byline" that a meals tax is "a source of revenue most towns and cities within or adjacent to us already have." What she did not mention is that lower meal prices in Fairfax County is an attraction for people to spend their earnings in the County, thereby increasing the overall revenue base. Just because others are doing it does not make it right or proper. Finally, our citizens need to understand what politicians won't tell them: no business, including restaurants, pay taxes; they simply collect taxes from the consumers to pass to the government. Let's tackle this problem from the other direction by cutting wasteful services we no longer need or desire so more of us can enjoy more frequent nights out on the town.

Matt Rising
Springfield

Meals Tax: Vote 'Yes'

To the Editor:

I am writing to encourage a "Yes" vote on the Fairfax County Meals Tax. A few pennies on the dollar will:

- ❖ Retain the quality of our schools
- ❖ Support other services like parks, libraries, fire and police
- ❖ Relieve the burden on our property taxes
- ❖ Increase property values

We relocated to Fairfax County almost a decade ago. We used only two criteria to narrow down our home search in the region. The first was convenience to our jobs, and the second was the quality of the schools.

People buy houses in Fairfax County because of our great schools.

There's considerable research from various universities and NGOs documenting the fact that school quality has a significant impact on property values. All of the neighboring counties in our region have a meals tax. Fairfax teachers are paid less, and Fairfax County Public Schools have larger class sizes than these other counties. If we fail to pass the tax, our schools are likely to lose most music, art, and sports programs, along with many AP classes.

My children's best teachers are leaving the county, and more are likely to do so, if we can't shore up our schools. There is extensive documentation of all of this information at YesMealsTax.org. I strongly urge your support of this critical initiative. Please visit the website to engage with the campaign as I have done. They welcome your questions, and need your donations and support.
