WEEK IN FAIRFAX

Mayoral Candidates Forum

In just a month, City of Fairfax residents will vote in a special election for their new mayor. Council members Michael DeMarco, David Meyer and Ellie Schmidt are vying for the job; and next week, all three will participate in an event to let voters know a bit more about them and their views on important issues facing the City.

The League of Women Voters of the Fairfax Area is sponsoring a Candidates Forum on Monday, Jan. 9, from 7 - 9 p.m. at the City of Fairfax Regional Library. This will give residents an opportunity to address their questions directly to all of the candidates at the same time.

Chain Bridge Road Detour Coming

As part of the ongoing Northfax project in the City of Fairfax, northbound Route 123/Chain Bridge Road will be closed between Fairfax Boulevard (Route 29/50) and Eaton Place beginning in mid-January.

Traffic on northbound Chain Bridge will be directed to turn right onto Fairfax Boulevard, then left on Eaton Place, before returning to Chain Bridge. Northbound Chain Bridge traffic will have access to I-66. This detour is scheduled to continue through late December 2017.

Southbound Chain Bridge will remain open. However, beginning in late July, a lane shift will be in place on southbound Chain Bridge Road between Orchard Street to Fairfax Boulevard. This shift is slated to continue through late December.

Signs are posted on Chain Bridge and Fairfax Boulevard announcing this detour.

The Northfax project will provide road improvements and pedestrian accommodations, plus eliminate roadway flooding, at the intersection of Route 123/Chain Bridge Road and Fairfax Boulevard. Construction will be completed in summer 2018. For more information, go to www.northfax.com or call 703-385-7810.

Multifamily homes and redevelopment.

Several development projects are either proposed or in the works in the City of Fairfax and its environs. Below are details about some of them:

The Enclave

IDI-RJL Development LLC is building a residential development called The Enclave at the Mantua Professional Center on Pickett Road. The site's zoned commercial planned development, so both office and condo uses may exist on it. There currently are some office buildings, the New School of Northern Virginia and 181 parking spaces. And The Enclave is joining them.

Planned are two, four-story buildings containing 80 condos. Sixteen of the units will be one-bedroom; 48, two-bedroom; and 16, three-bedroom. The indoor amenities will include a fitness center, community room, spacious lobbies and mail/package rooms. The 9,000 square feet of outdoor amenities will be a fire pit with seating, patio with seats and gas grills and two lawn areas for socializing. The condo buildings are being constructed on 3.8 wooded acres, off Silver King Court. The rest of the property will be preserved as open space for a village green for the residents, school and existing office community. A total of 128 parking spaces are planned, plus a bus shelter. There'll be internal access between The Enclave, the New School and the office complex. To manage stormwater runoff, water flow will be directed away from the Mantua community and the channel adjacent to Thaiss Park. The developer will also contribute $40,000 to public schools, $30,240 to parks and recreation, and $275,000 to affordable housing. This project's site-plan has already been approved, and the condos are now in pre-sales.

Mount Vineyard

ished the 110-unit, Oak Knolls apartment complex and will redevelop the property – to be called Mount Vineyard – with 102 brand-new condos and 30 townhouses. The site is 6 acres along Main and Oak streets in Fairfax. Planned are two, 32-unit condominium buildings with elevators; 38 stacked condo units and 30 townhomes, for 132 units total.

None will be rentals; they'll all be for sale. The four-story, 32-unit condo buildings will have red-brick, fiber-cement siding, metal railings, stacked siding and bay windows on the corners. And a red-brick, courtyard wall along Oak Street will offer privacy to the 22-foot townhome units.

The developer will underground all utilities on site and in the adjacent rights of way on Oak and Main streets, construct a bus shelter, donate money for improvements in nearby Pat Rodio Park and contribute $550,000 to the City of Fairfax toward affordable housing. It will also do streetscape improvements, provide a pedestrian connection to the park and reduce about 95 percent of Oak Knolls's currently unrestrained, surface water flow.

The homes will feature "green" building practices and other contemporary amenities, including rooftop terraces and garage parking.

Mount Vineyard is the site of the former home of Richard Ratcliffe, the city's original architect. The community's design will incorporate several of the mature oak trees on Oak Street, plus a commemorative marker honoring Ratcliffe and Mount Vineyard. Preliminary site work is already well underway and completion of construction is anticipated by early 2018.

Novus Fairfax Gateway

Novus Fairfax Gateway LLC plans to transform part of the Kamp Washington triangle between Fairfax Boulevard and Lee Highway into a modern, community-serving, mixed-use project.

Planned for the 8.33-acre site are 403 multifamily apartments – including 24 affordable dwelling units, 29,000 square feet of first-floor retail and commercial uses. There'll be a 4,000-square-foot office space for use by the nonprofit CASA (Court-Appointed Special Advocates), plus a 5,000-square-foot restaurant and 11,000 square feet of residential amenities.

The commercial space and three- and four-story buildings will front on Lee Highway and Fairfax Boulevard. Five-story buildings will be centrally located and a seven-story parking garage will feature a half-story on top for a pool.

There'll be a through street with a connection at the Bevan Drive signal at Fairfax Boulevard, plus a new, un-signalized entrance on Lee Highway.

The community's road network could correspond to the future redevelopment of the rest of the Kamp Washington triangle, while treating the section connecting Lee Highway to Fairfax Boulevard with several, traffic-calming elements to reduce cut-through traffic.

Also planned are trails connecting to adjacent properties, plus open space including a 5,600-square-foot contemplative space next to the Jermantown Cemetery. Novus will maintain this space as well as the cemetery. This project is currently in site-plan and building-permit review.

Paul VI Site Redevelopment

In 2020, Paul VI High School will move from its 18.5-acre home in the City of Fairfax to a much larger site in Loudoun County. With input from the community and City Council, developer IDI Group Cos. will redevelop this property along Fairfax Boulevard after the school leaves.

It plans to create a vibrant, mixed-use community with high-quality design and architecture. It will feature urban plazas, attractive streetscapes and open spaces, plus market-rate, affordable and senior housing. Paul VI's building was also the original site of Fairfax High, and IDI intends to respect and preserve the property's history. So far, the developer has presented two possible design concepts.

❖ Scheme A demolishes the existing building, but constructs a replica elsewhere on the site to commemorate it. This plan also proposes 242 apartments, 260 condos, 110 townhouses, 34 units of senior, affordable apartments and 20,000 square feet of commercial/community space on the first floor of the apartment building.

❖ Scheme B preserves and reuses the original portion (about 24,000 square feet) of the existing building where it is. It contains the same amount of senior housing and commercial/community space, but has 214 apartments, 219 condos and 108 townhouses.

Scheme A has denser development, with 646 total residential units; Scheme B has 575 total units. Both plans also include usable, open spaces and show the senior housing inside the school building.

Both proposals provide vehicular access to the site via an existing access point from Oak Street and several points along Fairfax Boulevard. No vehicular connections are proposed between the site and McLean, Cedar or Keith avenues. A service road would run the length of the Fairfax Boulevard frontage, and McLean Avenue would have a shared-use path.

In both proposals, the two multifamily buildings at the site's core would be four stories high at the street and five stories in the setback, but taper off toward the nearby neighborhoods. The townhouses, mainly located closer to McLean and Cedar avenues, would be three stories. And the preserved or rebuilt portion of the school would be two stories.

Residences at Government Center

With the goal of providing workforce housing in the local area, Fairfax County is building a 270-unit apartment complex in Fair Oaks. It's on county-owned land off Monument Drive, on the Government Center's perimeter, so it's named Residences at the Government Center.

Scheme B for Paul VI's redevelopment retains part of the original building.

On some 9 acres across from the Fairfax Corner shopping center, they'll offer a 5,800-square-foot amenity space including an outdoor pool, fenced playground, two courtyards and connections to walking trails. The apartments will be full of green and energy-saving features and will be available to people making up to 60 percent of the area median income (AMI).

In addition, at least 20 percent of the units are geared for households at or below 50 percent AMI. Paradigm Construction Co. is the general contractor and will build studio, plus one-, two- and three-bedroom apartments. And since they back up to a forest, they'll have serene and leafy views.

Because the developer was able to lease land from the county, and federal low-income, tax credits were obtained, this project is being done at no cost to the county.

By providing workforce housing, many young people, low-income families and those with long commutes to jobs in the county will be able to live here.

Police Auditor and Civilian Review Panel to Become Reality in 2017

Body cameras, mental health part of public safety focus.

BY TIM PETERSON
THE CONNECTION

This year will see two historic firsts for Fairfax County, its police department and citizens: the beginning work of an Office of Police Auditor and Civilian Review Panel. The auditor will review police use of force cases and internal investigations of those incidents, while the panel will review other citizen complaints of police misconduct and abuse of power.

Both bodies were recommendations from the Ad Hoc Police Practices Review Commission, a panel created by Board of Supervisors chairman Sharon Bulova largely in response to public frustration and anger over the lack of transparency and accountability after the 2013 shooting of unarmed Springfield man John Geer in the doorway of his home by then-Fairfax County Police officer Adam Torres.

A committee appointed by Bulova is reviewing six candidates who topped the applicants list.

For the civilian review panel, invitations to nominate members have been sent to dozens of community groups, including minority organizations, disability services, interfaith groups and others that were part of the Election Process Improvement Commission. Each supervisor may also make nominations. Public Safety Committee chair supervisor John Cook (R-Braddock) said the full board will review all the nominations in closed session Feb. 14.

Supervisor Pat Herrity (R-Springfield) fully supported the auditor position but has been critical of the need for a civilian review panel — he was the only supervisor to vote against its creation.

PHOTOS BY TIM PETERSON/THE CONNECTION

Randy Sayles (left) with Ad Hoc Police Practices Review Commission and subcommittee members John Lovaas, Phil Niedzielski-Eichner and George Becerra said he is very optimistic both the auditor's office and civilian review panel will be beneficial to the supervisors, police and citizens.

Looking ahead at 2017 though, Herrity said “my expectation and hope for both is they’re going to confirm our police department is doing a very good job.”

Randy Sayles of Oak Hill was a member of the Use of Force subcommittee of the Ad Hoc Commission. Sayles spent more than 35 years in law enforcement with the Denver Police Department and Drug Enforcement Administration. He said he is very optimistic both the auditor’s office and civilian review panel will be beneficial to the supervisors, police and citizens.

Sayles said from what he’s seen, “There’s a sense there can be real improvement and transparency, not just lip service.”

In choosing the members of the panel, Sayles said it’s crucial the supervisors go with people who won’t allow bias to corrupt the review process.

“It’s very important people picked deal with facts, demand facts and make decisions based on facts,” Sayles said, “and communicate those in a way that’s not divisive.”

“Try to get a diversity of people,” Sayles said. “But ultimately, pick people who are willing to be fair, no matter what. It can be a difficult thing to do.”

ANOTHER SIGNIFICANT AND CONTENTIOUS RECOMMENDATION from the Ad Hoc commission is the implementation of police officer-worn body cameras. Herrity said the supervisors are set to approve a new pilot program this month.

“They are absolutely important,” Herrity said. “This is something our police department supports, our citizens support. We should go ahead and get it done now.”

Herrity said the estimated cost for getting body cameras up and running on police in Fairfax County is $30 million. The pilot, he said, will last for several months. He’s asked that it include two different vendors and be done at stations in two magisterial districts.

SUPERVISOR COOK said another public safety priority is taking next steps with the Diversion First program, which is set up to prevent people with mental illness or developmental disabilities from going to jail for nonviolent offenses.

Coordinating more with the court system is an important issue, Cook said.

“We really need a sea change in how we think about mental illness,” said Cook, “to recognize it serves a public safety purpose as well to get people treatment. If you just throw them in jail, 80 percent of the time, something else happens, they’re going back in.”

The next meeting of the board’s Public Safety Committee is scheduled for Jan. 31 at 3 p.m. at the Fairfax County Government Center, 12000 Government Center Parkway in Fairfax.

Unsung Heroes of Police Reform

Personal involvement of Culosi, Beltrante key to success of police commission.

The call for reform and transparency in Fairfax County Police began long before the shooting death of John Geer in August 2013. Some members of the Fairfax County Police Practices Review Commission pressed for reform for nearly a decade before the formation of the commission. Their experience also should answer any question about whether reform was really needed.

Anita and Sal Culosi lost their son Dr. Salvatore “Sal” Culosi Jr. when he was killed by a Fairfax County Police officer Jan. 24, 2006 outside his Fair Oaks townhouse by a SWAT team member executing a search warrant. Police knew Culosi was unarmed and did not consider him dangerous. The shooting was ruled an accident and the officer faced no charges.

“My son would still be alive today,” Culosi said at the first meeting of the commission in March 2015, “but for 2006 Fairfax County policies to routinely use SWAT and aggressive procedures against citizens certified to be low risk.”

Culosi Sr. told members of the commission that David M. Rohrer told him that use of force policy changes had been made since his son’s shooting, but that Rohrer declined to give him copies of the changes or tell him exactly what changes were made. Rohrer, now deputy county executive for public safety was Fairfax County police chief when Culosi Jr. was killed.

As the commission began its work, Police Chief Edwin Roessler and Rohrer among others, embraced Sal Culosi Sr.’s involvement, and worked with him on many details of policy changes ranging from how SWAT teams are deployed to “ready gun position.” New policies were developed with his input, are available to the public and mark significant improvements.

NICHOLAS R. BELTRANTE, a retired D.C. homicide detective and Mount Vernon resident, founded Virginia Citizens Coalition for Police Accountability in 2010 in response to the shooting death of unarmed David A. Masters who was shot and killed by a Fairfax County Police officer on Richmond Highway and Fort Hunt Road on Nov. 13, 2009. Masters, a former U.S. Army Green Beret, struggled with mental health issues.

Beltrante decried the secrecy surrounding the Masters and Culosi cases among others, and began advocating for the formation of a civilian review panel.

He wrote to the Connection in 2012:

“During the years 2010-2011, the CCPA has directed a number of letters to Chief David M. Rohrer regarding these and other citizen allegations of police abuse, misconduct, and negligence. These letters have gone unanswered. As a result the CCPA began in January 2012 mailing letters of complaint to Fairfax County Board of Supervisors Chairman Sharon Bulova with the understanding they would be forwarded to Supervisor Gerald W. Hyland, the board’s Public Safety Committee chairman, for appropriate action. In recent weeks the CCPA has written to Supervisor Hyland in an effort to determine what action, if any, he had taken. To-date, we have not heard from Supervisor Hyland.

“The apparent lack of accountability by various entities of the Fairfax County Government regarding these serious issues has caused many citizens grave concern and some have expressed their frustration by indicating their belief this may constitute a case of malfeasance.”

Beltrante noted that no one, including the families of the deceased victims, had been able to obtain a police incident report despite the fact that the four cases were closed.

The establishment of a civilian review panel and an independent police auditor, both approved last year by the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, plus changes in policies about use of force, transparency and crisis intervention, among many others, are major accomplishments.

The Culosis and Beltrante began the call for such changes many years before the death of John Geer. Geer’s best friend, Jeff Stewart, also served on the Ad Hoc Commission. Stewart was present on the scene when his friend was shot dead. Stewart’s voice was also critical on the commission. The personal involvement of these families and individuals in the process, plus the new openness of leadership in the FCPD, made all the difference.

A Program That Changed My Life

My experience with High School Diplomats at Princeton.

BY CHRISTIAN SCHWIEN
WT WOODSON HIGH SCHOOL

Last summer, I participated in a program that changed my life. This program is called High School Diplomats. It is a ten-day cross-cultural exchange between 40 American and 40 Japanese students at Princeton. It is completely financed by the Japanese insurance company AIU and the Freeman Foundation. The program gives these students the opportunity to immerse into another culture and establish long-lasting relationships with other students from another country. The staff, all previous members of High School Diplomats, set up dances, activities, and talks for the students to participate in. High School Diplomats does an amazing job of breaking students out of their shell to talk about their worldview.

High School Diplomats pairs up every American student with a Japanese student to be their roommate. Roommates do everything together, including eating, walking, and all activities. This program almost forces you to become close with your roommate, in an awesome way. Most Japanese students speak very good English, so getting by the language barrier was easy for most roommate pairs. If not, then the roommates had to figure out another way of communication. My roommate, Shu, was an extremely caring student from the Chiba Prefecture near Tokyo, who really loved Taylor Swift. Shu and I shared a lot of laughs, experiences, talks, and feelings. Every day there has a theme, so Shu and I dressed up in a lot of amusing costumes together, too.

There is a homestay period, as well, where the Japanese students take a break from touring to come and stay at their roommate’s homes for three days before HSD takes place. Because many of the American students don’t live in the D.C. Metro area, their roommates stay with another family from HSD. My family hosted my roommate, Shu, and another boy from Japan, named Yuma. We took Shu and Yuma all around the D.C. area, to places including the US Naval Academy, Six Flags, the Mosaic District, Wegmans, and more. The Japanese students had already toured the District of Columbia, so we decided not to take our students there. Japan does not have giant grocery stores there, so we thought it was fun to take them to Wegmans. We also used this time to prepare for the High School Diplomat Program itself.

As I mentioned before, every day has a theme, and many of them are based off of American or Japanese holidays. These days

Memories of Summer at Princeton

include HSD spirit day, Bunka-No-Hi or Japanese Day of Culture, Independence Day, Rock Star Night, Day of Thanks (Thanksgiving), Halloween, HSD Olympics, and more. The American roommate brings a costume for themselves and their Japanese roommate, excluding the Japanese Day of Culture, which the Japanese student brings an outfit for the American student. Every day Shu and I dressed up in our costumes, which I have to say were pretty sweet. On Independence Day we each had a Naval Academy shirt on with American flag bandanas and socks on. We wore my dad's old Army uniforms for Halloween, and we went country western for Rock Star Night. On Japanese Day of Culture, Shu brought Jimbos for both of us to wear. One day consisted of free day and date night, where the students could explore the town of Princeton with their roommates, and were then paired up with a student of the opposite gender from the other country for date night! This was especially fun because the Japanese students do not have prom or homecoming, so you could see them experience something very new and exciting.

Every day had activities that went along with the costume. At the Japanese Festival we learned about traditional Japanese customs, including dancing, calligraphy, and martial arts. On Halloween we watched scary movies and the staff set up a haunted house. Theme day activities were not all we did every day though. We also had classes and presentations. Every student was paired up with four other students to create a presentation about government, education, regional characteristics, or social issues in their country. My group was assigned to present about government and we explained how our government and political system works. The most interesting thing about the presentations, though, was learning about Japanese life and worldview through their presentations. Many Americans view the Japanese people as very homogenous, but that could not be farther from the truth. Every student is unique and has their own worldview.

We had classes most weekdays, too. American teachers taught the Japanese students, while Japanese teachers taught the American students. I, not knowing any Japanese, was put into the beginner course. Every class is three hours long, with one half of the class consisting of learning the Japanese language, and one half consisting of learning about Japanese culture. The language classes are not hard at all, but they teach the students a basic understanding of Japanese language. The culture class is much more fun, though, because the teachers teach you one aspect of the others culture. I got to learn sushi making, origami, calligraphy, and participate in a traditional Japanese tea ceremony while at these classes.

The most important activity at HSD took place during a day called Paula Chow Diplomat talks. Every student, along with their roommate, was put into a group with other roommate pairs to talk about a specific issue. Last year, being the thirtieth anniversary of High School Diplomats, the issue was US-Japanese relations. They played a series of three videos, each debating a specific issue, and then had the students talk about the meaning of the issue after each video. The first video was about respecting cultural heritage, the second about whether weapons and war is sometimes necessary, and the third was the video of President Obama's speech at Hiroshima. It was very interesting and touching to see the students, both American and Japanese, talking about issues that affect the US and Japan. Hearing Japanese students speak openly about their views on nuclear warfare was especially touching.

Not only did my experience in High School Diplomats teach me about Japan and its culture and customs, but it also taught me about myself. HSD taught me to be more extroverted and talk to people that I don't know. It taught me that people from other countries and culture can be similar to me. It taught me to have an open mind when talking about issues. It taught me that others care about my worldview. It taught me that the Japanese people are not homogenous at all, and that each and every one of them has their own view on issues and problems that face the world today. HSD was the best ten days of my life, and I hope that more students chose to apply to this wonderful program next year.

On top of all of this, the program after HSD, called USHSD, takes twenty of the forty American students from the previous HSD year on an all expense paid trip to Japan. This includes a week and a half of touring around Japan, and a week and a half of cultural exchange. Next year, HSD is taking place from July 25 to Aug. 5, 2017. The deadline for the application is Jan. 8, 2017. For more information about the High School Diplomats program visit: <http://www.highschooldiplomats.com/america.php>.

Keeping Resolutions

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
THE CONNECTION

Every January for the last five years Faye Ripke has resolved to lose weight and lead a healthier lifestyle. However, the only thing she has to show for it, she says, is a trail of unused gym memberships and a wardrobe of clothes that have increased in size.

"Both of my parents died from heart attacks," says Ripke, 57 of Fairfax Station. "My doctor keeps telling me that I need to do more aerobic exercise to get my heart rate up every day and drop about 75 pounds."

Losing weight, getting organized, achieving physical fitness and improving one's finances are the most frequently made resolutions, often the guilt-induced responses to holiday indulgence. According to a study published last month in the Journal of Clinical Psychology, only eight percent of people who make New Year's resolutions keep them and achieve success.

"One reason that many people fail to achieve their goals is that they might not be ready to make the change, even if they would benefit from doing so," said Joel Bitman, a Bethesda-based psychotherapist. "Another reason is that people often set unrealistic goals or don't have a plan to achieve their goals."

Losing weight and getting in shape are two popular resolutions that people make at the beginning of a new year.

Actually wanting to make the change that the resolution would bring about is the first step followed by developing strategies to achieve it. "When you set a goal, say quitting smoking for example, ask yourself whether it's something that you really want to do or something that you think you should do," said Bitman. "If you're doing it because you think you should or because society is telling you that you should, but the reality is that you really enjoy smoking, it will be much harder, if not impossible, to quit."

While it is easy and often tempting to look at pictures of ultra thin models and resolve to transform one's body by the end of the year, setting unrealistic expectations can sabotage a set of goals, says Alicia Brand, a Falls Church personal trainer.

"Trying to lose 60 pounds in time for a beach vacation during spring break isn't going to happen," he said. "But losing 10 pounds by April is absolutely achievable for most people."

A key to that achievement is creating a set of concrete goals that are realistic, specific, measurable and include a timetable, says Bittman. "You actually have to make mindset changes and behavioral changes in order to successfully reach a goal, and changes in behaviors are often quite difficult," he said. "But if you are able to make small changes and reach small weekly, daily or even hourly goals, you're more likely to gain confidence to keep going. It's easy to become discouraged and give up."

"If you want to become more fit, but you haven't exercised in years, you might begin by committing to walking 30 minutes a day, three days a week," said Brand. "That is much more realistic than signing up for a gym membership and planning to spend an hour there every day until you've whittled your body down to a size two."

Failing to recognize small accomplishments and rewarding oneself for reaching milestones is one reason that Bittman believes many resolutions made in January fizzle into a pipedream by February. "If you commit to skipping morning coffee at your favorite coffee shop each day for a week, and saving the money that you would have spent, you can celebrate by allowing yourself to have a small latté on Sunday morning."

Avoiding high-risk environments that can sabotage even the best-laid plans is a suggestion that Brand gives to her clients. "It's like if you're an alcoholic you should stay out of bars," she said. "If you're trying to lose weight surround yourself with people who have healthy eating and fitness habits."

TUESDAY/JAN. 10

Hunter Mill Disaster Recovery Training "Form a Community Resiliency Group" 6:30 - 8:30 p.m. Heritage Fellowship Church, 2501 Fox Mill Road, Reston. In times of disaster, Fairfax County can't recover without community partners and especially the partnership of Fairfax County houses of worship. Hunter Mill District faith communities, nonprofits, homeowner associations, PTA's and other groups are invited to come together on the following two dates to receive important information and training:
Seminar - Tuesday, January 10, 2017
- Explore how local groups can form Community Resiliency Groups (CRG's) for their community's recovery after a disaster. The Hunter Mill District's faith communities will be an integral part of the CRG's, so please appoint several key members to represent your congregation.
Exercise - Thursday, February 9, 2017 - The Hunter Mill District community groups and houses of worship will meet again and practice how they will work together in response to a local disaster. This will be a facilitated Tabletop Exercise (TTX). Each will begin with a free dinner at 6:00 p.m., followed by the seminar at 6:30 p.m. Ample time will be given for Q&A and discussion during the evening sessions. Both evenings will end at 8:30 p.m. Please advise us of any ADA accommodations needed or food requirements when you register. Please direct questions to Renice Holman at 703-324-7608. Register online at: <https://huntermillresiliency.eventbrite.com>.

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 11

"Learn About the Consolidated Community Funding Pool" 1:30 - 3:30 p.m. The Jo Ann Rose Gallery Reston Community Center Lake Anne 1609-A Washington Plaza, Reston. Our January 2017 FCIA Network Meeting will focus on Consolidated Community Funding Pool (CCFP) priorities in preparation for the next CCFP funding cycle. FCIA Network Meeting attendees will dialogue about the types of services for which there is a continuing need, current service gaps, and emerging needs. The CCFP funds local nonprofit organizations to provide human services, affordable housing development and construction. Priority-setting is the first step of the next funding cycle. Once set, a request for proposal will be issued in the fall of 2017. Awards will be announced the following spring. Total funding in FY 2017 was 12.5 million dollars. Please note, this meeting WILL NOT take place at the Government Center.

'Murder on the Nile' on Fairfax Stage

New York's Aquila Theatre brings Agatha Christie's murder mystery to GMU Center for the Arts.

BY DAVID SIEGEL
THE CONNECTION

Known for its risk-taking, re-envisioning of classic theatre, New York's Aquila Theatre is doing things differently with its unique production of Agatha Christie's best-selling murder mystery, "Murder on the Nile."

"We want to give audiences something to talk about," said Peter Meineck, director, "Murder on the Nile" soon cruising into George Mason University Center for the Arts.

Agatha Christy is affectionately known as "The Queen of Crime." She is one of the best-selling authors of all time. Her "Murder on the Nile" (1948) follows a colorful, baffling cast of eccentric characters through plenty of suspense before all is known. The audience will follow the clues; who can be trusted? Who is telling the truth? Who is a suspect?

Aquila has added its own brand of theatrical touches as three actors will perform about two dozen distinct roles. The show has also been transported in time to London and a BBC radio studio in early 1940 as WWII was raging. It was then "a time of turmoil and stress" noted Meineck. He also said that "Murder on the Nile" will be performed as a radio-style drama during the London Blitz.

The production's scene is set this way: the

Where and When

Aquila Theatre presents Agatha Christie's "Murder on the Nile" at George Mason University, Center for the Arts, 4400 University Drive, Fairfax. Performance Sunday, Jan. 22, 2017 at 4 p.m. Tickets: $26, $37 and $44. Call 888-945-2468 or visit www.cfa.gmu.edu Note: There will be a pre-performance discussion 45 minutes before the show.

expected actors can't make it to the BBC studio to perform. Nazi bombs are falling over London. Transportation is iffy and people are taking shelter underground. What is to be done? Well the three available actors have to calmly carry-on. They will perform many quick-changes to play the slew of Christie's distinctive character. The characters range from newlyweds, to a spurned lover, protective family members, troubled passengers as well as the ship's assortment of wise-cracking crew.

Each of the characters has their own style of talking, walking and gesturing along with different costumes and even hats. "They will move about the stage bringing the audience the joy of live theater bringing each character to life," said Meineck.

The show's lighting and sound effects will be "very visual and visceral; something live and way more than just being in front of a screen or a video game." Added Meineck. "The cast puts its energy out there into the audience. It will be a great night of entertainment."

Book yourself onto a special Nile cruise at the Center for the Arts. Journey to find whodunnit. Helping to solve a mystery sounds like something completely different from the January cold.

Join Sleuths for the Mystery

'Solitary Confinement' bound for Workhouse Arts Center.

BY DAVID SIEGEL
THE CONNECTION

As the cold nights of January descend on the area, a rare production of the murder mystery "Solitary Confinement" by Rupert Holmes can perk-up local sleuths. This Rupert Holmes' whodunit will be produced by the Workhouse Arts Center.

Playwright Holmes is a two-time Mystery Writers of America award winner. He received Tony awards as an author, a composer and a lyricist for "The Mystery of Edwin Drood." Some may well remember Holmes for his big pop hit, "Escape (The Pina Colada Song)."

"Solitary Confinement" is a perfect example of the compelling in-house productions you'll find at the Workhouse Arts Center – exciting, intimate, and unique," said Tim Rizer, Workhouse Board Chairman. "It's also the world premiere of Rupert Holmes' own rewrite of the script, which will be thrilling even for those who may have seen the show previously."

Asked for details about "Solitary Confinement," Joseph Wallen, director Workhouse performing arts, said; "I have to be careful not to reveal too much, as the joy of discovery and surprise are important to the success of this production. In fact, we will ask every audience not to share the secrets that they experience after each performance," Wallen added.

The mystery of "Solitary Confinement" surrounds a ruthless, reclusive billionaire living in self-imposed solitary confinement in a fortress-like apartment. He never leaves his inner sanctum; no one is allowed in. He communicates only with something like a Skype-esque video system.

But, then, what he thinks is his perfect isolation is disturbed. With that disturbance

Where and When

"Solitary Confinement" at the Workhouse Arts Center, W-3 Theatre, 9518 Workhouse Way, Lorton. Performances: Jan. 13-Feb. 12, 2017. Friday & Saturdays at 8 p.m., Sundays at 2 p.m. Tickets: $20 (students/seniors) - $30 (general admission). Call 703-584-2900 or visit www.workhousearts.org comes plenty of twists, turns, thrills and surprises for patrons to witness, then try to figure out.

Northern Virginia actor Jason Krage has the lead role of Richard Jannings, the rich paranoid tycoon in "Solitary Confinement." Krage recently performed at the Workhouse's production of "The Rocky Horror Show."

"I fell in love with the script immediately," said Krage. "The play is unlike other mysteries I know. It is fascinating with many complex characters and unusual situations. With actors and characters with a wide range of ages and many connections to the world of modern technology, I expect 'Solitary Confinement' will appeal to many generations," noted Krage.

"Having Rupert Holmes' 'Solitary Confinement' represented at the Workhouse is terrific. It matches our goal of bringing unique, quality theatrical experiences to our community," said the Workhouse's Wallen.

Board Chair Rizer added, "The Workhouse couldn't be more excited to be producing such a great work."

Police Out To Catch Drunken Drivers

Grant funds new DWI Enforcement Squad.

BY FALLON FORBUSH
THE CONNECTION

A new squad of police officers has started patrolling the county and they have only one mission: to combat impaired driving.

The new Fairfax County Police Department DWI Enforcement Squad began working on Dec. 1 and are averaging several DWI arrests per night.

You'll know who they are by their cruisers, which are specifically marked with "DWI Enforcement Squad," said 2nd Lt. Dana Ferreira, who runs the squad.

The nine officers who were chosen for the squad have a prowess for catching those who drive while drunk. The officers averaged a total of 241 DWI arrests during the past seven years.

The squad will work from 7 p.m. to 5 a.m. in four-day rotations throughout the county eight patrol districts. As a team, the squad will be deployed each night to focus on two districts per shift.

"Our crime analysts will pull problem areas for us," Ferreira said.

The department has wanted to create the team of specialized patrollers for several years, but were unable to find the budget to do so until a federal grant was awarded.

THE SQUAD is operating under the Traffic Division of the department's Operations Support Bureau. However, the equipment and salaries have been paid for by a $984,785 grant from the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Expenditures that are not covered by the federal grant are the squad's vehicle maintenance and fuel.

"Every year, we have to reauthorize and reapply for the grant if we decide to continue with this program," says Ferreira.

The department has a desire to keep it going, according to Lt. Eli Cory, who is the assistant commander of the FCPD's Traffic Division.

"However we can continue it, we're going to pursue that, whether it's grant or other funds," says Cory.

Without the grant, the squad would be a large financial undertaking.

All the new positions in the new squad were filled by pulling existing officers out of their assigned communities where they patrolled the streets in the department's patrol bureaus or the bike team, according to Ferreira.

But the holes that the new positions left in the street will be filled by new officers, according to Lt. Eli Cory, who is the assistant commander of the FCPD's Traffic Division.

The desire for the squad came from a need in the community, says Cory.

Statistically speaking, DWIs have gone down in the county but the department has seen drug use increase.

Last year, there were 522 crashes caused by impaired driving in the county, according to Officer Megan Hawkins, a spokesperson for the department. There has been less this year, with 461 as of Dec. 13.

That's a 12 percent decrease.

"Although DWIs are down, we want to address the impaired driving while under the influence of drugs," Cory said.

"Whether it's marijuana, heroin, cocaine or anything that affects your ability to clearly operate a motor vehicle, it's something we need to address in the county," said Cory.

The squad will receive special training so they can handle drug-related incidents. Squad members will receive advanced training in DWI detection, drug recognition, and effective testimony to ensure successful prosecution.

"We chose officers for this assignment that not only are effective at enforcement, but also effective in prosecution and conviction," said Ferreira. "We're not only taking people off the street, but we're going to successfully convict them in court."

To ensure they stay that way, they will be regularly working with the Commonwealth's Attorney General's Office to receive trainings so that they are up-to-date on case law.

The team will be certified as Drug Recognition Experts through the Drug Evaluation and Classification Program. The training requirements for certification have been established by the International Association of Chiefs of Police and the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

"In Virginia, the number of DRE certified officers is in the single digits," said Ferreira. "Our entire team will eventually receive that certification when training comes out."

The DRE training is designed to help officers determine if an individual is under the influence of drugs other than alcohol, or the combined influence of alcohol and other drugs, or suffering from some injury or illness that produces similar signs to alcohol and drug impairment.

While prosecution is paramount to the squad, voluntary compliance is the best way to combat impaired driving.

"Our ultimate goal is not making arrests, but is actually reducing the number of crashes in the county," said Ferreira. "If we had a year where we didn't make a single DWI arrest and didn't have a single impairment accident, I'd call that a success."

ONE OF THE MOST VISIBLE things the department does to deter drivers from disobeying DWI laws is through sobriety checkpoints.

"If you look at statistics from other states that don't employ DWI checkpoints, you can see that their DWI crash rates and fatality rates are much higher than Virginia and other states that utilize DWI checkpoints," Cory said.

Primarily, the squad will be on the street looking for traffic safety issues, including DWIs, speeding, reckless driving and distracted driving.

"I'd far rather call a family member and tell them that their loved one has been arrested than tell them that they've been injured or killed in an accident," Ferreira said. "If it takes me bringing someone to jail and taking their freedom even only temporarily to get them off of the roads so they don't harm themselves or someone else, it's entirely worth it to me."

Women's Legislative Roundtable Previews Upcoming 2017 Legislative Session

The League of Women Voters of Virginia (LWVVA) sponsored the Pre-Session of the Women's Legislative Roundtable, (WLRT) on Wednesday, Dec. 7, 2016, at the State Capitol in Richmond. Presentations were made by 17 representatives of nonprofit organizations and from secretaries of Governor McAuliffe Cabinet. They gave short and informative speeches on their areas of expertise before an audience of about 130 people, including Leaguers and friends. This annual event provides an opportunity for attendees to learn about what other groups will be advocating for and what cabinet members expect will occur during the upcoming General Assembly (GA).

The subjects covered were as diverse as the state budget, women's rights, voting rights, election laws and voter protection, equality for lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender LGBT Virginians, issues of Latinos, redistricting, transparency, public safety, criminal justice reform, juvenile justice, domestic and sexual violence, mental illness, poverty, decriminalization of marijuana, civil forfeiture, police reform, and conservation of natural resources. The common thread in many of these speeches was the need for justice and fairness.

Ric Brown, the Secretary of Finance, said that a potential $1.5 billion budget shortfall is being expected due to lower-than-expected income and sales tax collections. To handle this shortfall, Gov. McAuliffe asked Executive Branch agencies to make budget cuts. These have included delaying grant payments and new positions, eliminating 26 current positions, canceling pay raises, trimming the state's payroll in other ways, and using the rainy day fund. Virginia is an income tax state so it is difficult to project income inflows. Medicaid Extension is not in the budget.

Secretary of Administration, Nancy Rodrigues, Secretary of the Commonwealth, Kelly Thomasson, and Secretary of Natural Resources Molly Joseph Ward all thanked the League for its nonpartisan efforts for voter rights. The Commissioner of Elections, Edgardo Cortes said a record number of Virginia voters registered online and voted. According to Co-President Lois Page, "We were awed once again by the compassion, determination and dedication of these civic activists, who want what is best for all Virginians."

What does the WLRT do?

This informational forum is where legislators and non-profit organizations' representatives talk about pending legislation and issues of concern. The LWVVA will moderate the WLRT forums, which start at 8:30 a.m. on Wednesdays, after the GA convenes on Jan. 11, 2017. The first WLRT meeting will be held in Richmond on Jan. 18, 2017. You are welcome to attend these meetings.

The League of Women Voters of the Fairfax Area is a nonpartisan political organization that encourages informed and active participation in government, works to increase understanding of major public policy issues.

FOOD

Indian BBQ comes to Mosaic District

Choolaah Indian BBQ has opened a new restaurant in Fairfax. The opening represents Choolaah's expansion in the Mid-Atlantic area and its growth as a destination for Indian cuisine in the American market.

Choolaah Indian BBQ is a fine-casual restaurant serving traditional Indian dishes that appeal to the contemporary palate. Choolaah brings a modern twist to a 5,000-year-old Indian cooking tradition — "tandoori" — delivering an innovative menu in an atmosphere where food is prepared before your eyes.

"Fairfax and the Greater DC area represent an important part of Choolaah's growth strategy, and we're excited about the brand's new presence in the Mid-Atlantic region," said Raji Sankar, Co-CEO of Choolaah. "Our commitment to premier ingredients, authenticity and accessibility has won over the taste buds of our Cleveland restaurant patrons, and we look forward to bringing those same values to Fairfax guests."

Choolaah's founders, Raji Sankar and Randhir Sethi, created the concept with the intent of transforming the Indian cuisine experience in the American market. They saw an opportunity to develop a menu of traditional Indian dishes that would appeal to the American palate, without compromising the authenticity of the cuisine.

After the duo made a name for themselves as owners and operators of multiple restaurants in Northeast Ohio and Pennsylvania, they sought to channel their passion for Indian cuisine and opened the first Choolaah restaurant in 2014. The brand's flagship location in Cleveland, Ohio, has laid the foundation for continued success in new markets through its enticing menu and vibrant atmosphere.

"Our four tandoor clay ovens — which are the communal centerpiece of our restaurants — lock in flavor as they grill your food at 700° to juicy perfection," said Sethi. "Using tandoor ovens in a fine-casual display setting like this is unique, so we're eager to let our signature cooking method wow Fairfax patrons."

Guests can find a range of delectable Indian dishes, including the classic chicken tikka masala, black lentil daal, lamb meatball wraps, samosa chaat, salads with choice of proteins like grilled salmon, naan breads and kulfi ice cream. The majority of dishes are available gluten free, and Choolaah offers vegetarian and vegan options in every major menu category. For younger eaters, Choolaah offers a naan pizza and other kid-friendly recipes. The restaurant also serves beer and wine by the glass, in addition to its Choolaah Chai, Mango Lassi, iced teas, lemonade and suite of soft drinks. Additionally, Choolaah's turnkey catering offerings for groups of six or more people are a crowd favorite.

Located in the Mosaic District, the restaurant will serve guests from 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Thursday and Sunday. On Friday and Saturday, Choolaah will be open from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. For more information about Choolaah or its Fairfax location, visit www.Choolaah.com.

Celtic Pasties: Baking Variations of the Pasty

BY ALEXANDRA GREELEY
THE CONNECTION

What a lucky find in a local farmers' market in Chantilly: Fairfax resident Nyall Meredith of Celtic Pasties, a one-man operation making and baking several variations of the pasty. What is that, you may wonder. If you have not sampled a pastry, you are in for a treat. (Note: A pasty is pronounced to rhyme with "fast-y.")

These filled and crimped-closed pastries, which resemble large fruit turnovers, are the traditional British Cornish hand pies, whose origins are unclear but whose popularity has now spread from Cornwall, England to Australia, Mexico, Jamaica, and the U.S. Tradition does attribute these savory treats to the Cornish coal miners who took their wrapped-up pasty along for lunch during the workday. But at least one historical site notes that pasties were described in the 1100s in the legends of King Arthur and a few centuries later in the ballads of Robin Hood.

Regardless of their true origins, because of modern tastes and inventive bakers, the pasty has emerged as one of today's go-to foods in some parts of the U.S. After all, what could be more convenient, succulent, and delicious than a hand-held pie filled with any one of several different flavored meats and vegetables?

Although traditionally made from cubed beef and potatoes, pasty makers today have opened up their imaginations and refrigerators to concoct delicious treats. Just ask Meredith, whose pasty options include Beef & Guinness, Cottage Pie Style, Chicken Curry, Chicken & Leeks, Colcannon (mashed potatoes and cabbage or kale) and Cheese & Onion pasties. For someone who spent most of his working life in an office, taking on this cooking profession may seem rather challenging.

"I wanted to do something else," said Meredith. "I had an idea for the pasty business, so I thought I'd give it a try. I have been doing this since 2011. I taught myself." As he added, in the UK, pasties are now more popular than ever in the last 20 years, making this business choice seem sound. But as Meredith has discovered, making pasties is very time-consuming, varying from recipe to recipe. "The cheese and onions are very simple," he said. "The filling is just cheese and chopped onions."

With his wife as helper who fills the pasty, Meredith said that he has learned ways to speed up the process, from the first days when he did all prep work by hand. "I now have a vegetable chopper, which saves me three or four hours a week," he said.

He's found that his most popular pasty is the cottage-pie style, which consists of ground beef, onion, carrots, mashed potatoes, tomatoes and cheddar cheese. The second most popular: the mango chicken.

"Practically everything I do is someone's favorite," he said. "The demand is now more diffuse."

As he tries to decide whether to open a storefront, Meredith is delighted that pasties have become so popular in the metro area. As he noted, the pasty store in Vienna and his business are the only sellers in the area, and before them, locals had no idea what a pasty was. How delicious we now can buy some.
