Anti-Semitic Graffiti Painted At Jewish Community Center

The Jewish Community Center of Northern Virginia (JCCNV) was the target on Tuesday, April 11, of anti-Semitic graffiti. Swastikas and derogatory language were painted on the exterior of the building, marquee, and fence surrounding the playground. The JCC called Fairfax County police and the FBI immediately, and law enforcement is investigating. Police have confirmed that the crime took place overnight while the building was closed. A local powerwash company was called to remove the graffiti Tuesday.

In responding to the heinous act, JCCNV Executive Director Jeff Dannick said, "During Passover, when the Jewish community around the world is celebrating a time of freedom for our people as well as those who are affected by hate today, a crime like this heightens the reason that organizations like our own exist to bring communities together through messages and actions of peace, acceptance and inclusion. We are disheartened and deeply disturbed by the anti-Semitism our campus has experienced today. We will not be deterred from our mission of being an open and welcoming place for people of all backgrounds as we continue our operations as normal.

"We are grateful to the local and federal law enforcement officials who are working to identify and bring to justice the person or persons who committed this crime. As always, our community's safety will be our priority as we remain committed to fulfilling our daily mission as a community center."

The JCCNV plans to continue its current security measures and asks the community to remain alert and vigilant.

Combating Domestic and Sexual Violence

County launches 'Make the Call' campaign.

BY ANDREA WORKER
THE CONNECTION

"Everyone in this room knows someone who is the victim of domestic violence, whether you know it, or not," said Braddock District Supervisor John Cook. "That's how widespread this problem is." Cook, who is the chair of the Board of Supervisors Public Safety Committee, and recently appointed chair of the Domestic Violence Prevention Council, was speaking at a reception at the Fairfax County Government Center to launch the "Make the Call Campaign."

The year-long initiative was designed by county staff and domestic violence prevention partners to encourage victims, offenders and bystanders to call the county's 24-hour Domestic and Sexual Abuse Hotline at 703-360-7273.

Cook was joined by speakers from several county agencies, as well as his board colleagues Supervisor Cathy Hudgins (D-Hunter Mill) and Chair Sharon Bulova. Law enforcement was represented by Fairfax County Sheriff Stacey Kincaid and Deputy Chief of Patrol Erin Schaible of the county police department.

The launch date of the campaign was chosen to coincide with the Board of Supervisors' designation of April as the month for Sexual Assault Awareness and Child Abuse Prevention.

Cook is not concerned that the messages might get mixed by putting the two issues together in one month, because he sees them as often interconnected, and frequently stemming from the same root causes. The departments represented at the launch often work together on individual cases and cross paths almost daily in the performance of their duties. Several of them, like SafeSpot, the child advocacy nonprofit that provides a family-friendly, centralized location for the investigation of child abuse and assistance in coordinating services, and CASA, the court appointed special advocates program for abused, neglected and abandoned children and youth as they maneuver through the court system, have formed working collaborations to best serve their clients needs and provide the most coordinated of services.

Hotline operators receive about 240 calls per month. From those calls, about 64 per month seek family abuse protective orders and 13 families are placed in domestic violence shelters. There are about 160 domestic violence related arrests made each month in Fairfax County, and as law enforcement knows, and Cook noted, domestic violence is the leading cause of homicide in the jurisdiction.

"If you are the victim, make the call," said Cook. "If you think you know someone who is being abused, make the call." The hotline is staffed 24-hours a day and "they are the experts," Cook added. "They will know how to help, what to do. Make the call. Maybe you can help save someone's life."

Uncertainty Amid Growth

BY TIM PETERSON
THE CONNECTION

As recovery from the Recession continues, there is still uncertainty around federal spending, and President Donald Trump's proposed budget. Rising interest rates, the northern Virginia housing market and employment patterns in the region were among the presentations at the April 6 Economic Outlook summit hosted by the Mount Vernon-Lee Chamber of Commerce and Southeast Fairfax Development Corporation.

Business and community leaders filled the banquet space on the side of the Belle Haven Country Club for the morning meeting, which was guest-moderated by Rebecca Cooper, senior writer for the Washington Business Journal.

Cooper opened citing a number of trends she said are "good news for retail space." She said she's seeing an increase in specialized fitness, such as indoor play spaces and swim schools, as well as more temporary uses like pop-up shops.

When a space hosts something like a popular weekend maker-market, Cooper said "suddenly," that retail area "is the place to be."

Cooper also noted the rise in food businesses mixed into shopping centers. Retailers should be pleased, she said, because eateries increase customers' 'time on premise.'

Reserve Bank of Richmond broke down the modest, yet continued growth in real domestic GDP since 2009 — the average has been 2.1 percent.

One of the biggest drivers, she said, has been Personal Consumption Expenditure.

Productivity and workforce growth are also factors in the moderate growth; Dr. Battle Macheras said Virginia's employment is comparable to the U.S., and both are expected to slow in the next few decades.

Additional speakers included Dr. Terry Clower, with the GMU Center for Regional Analysis; Robert A. Stalzer, Deputy Fairfax County Executive; Dr. Frank Nothaft, Chief Economist with CoreLogic and formerly with Fannie Mae; and Dr. Gerald Gordon, Fairfax County Economic Development Authority.

Dr. Clower agreed that job growth should continue, albeit moderately, with rebalancing in the contract sector of jobs from Sequestration, a theory he said was "bounce-back equilibrium."

Among the 15 largest job markets in the country, he said, Washington D.C. ranks in the middle in job change from February 2016 to 2017. That's just behind Miami and ahead of Detroit. First in growth over that period was Atlanta, followed by Dallas and Seattle.

Stalzer gave an overview of Fairfax County's $7.59 billion budget. The FY2018 budget was the subject of three days of public hearings the week of the April 6 summit.

The county's tax rate would remain steady, Stalzer said.

Dr. Nothaft, speaking on the housing market, said prices are up in 2017 — five percent in the U.S. and just three to four percent in Fairfax County — as are rents. Mortgage rates are still historically low, he said, but are also increasing.

A 30-year fixed-rate, Dr. Nothaft presented, is forecast to reach 4.6 percent by December this year.

Immigration Enforcement Is Feds' Responsibility

Clarifying county's stance on immigration sparks sharp exchange among supervisors.

BY ANDREA WORKER
THE CONNECTION

The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors usually presents a fairly united front at the open-to-the-public general board meetings. The supervisors may ask for clarification from staff on a particular item under consideration or express a less than enthusiastic response to a motion, but more often than not, "Approved Unanimously," or "the motion carries without exception" are the words that are entered into the record.

At the meeting on April 4, with a packed agenda and 47 speakers registered to provide testimony on the Advertised FY 2018 Budget, it was the chairman's resolution on "Diversity and Inclusion" in the county that sparked some polite but pointed debate on the dais.

For Chairman Sharon Bulova, the resolution was something that the residents of the county needed to hear from their leadership.

"Fairfax County is a welcoming and accepting community ... we are a safe, diverse and caring community, and if that harmony is threatened, I believe we have a duty to speak out and clearly articulate our values," the chairman stated before reading her proposed resolution.

BULOVA was alluding, in part, to an incident in February, when agents of the U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) detained a group of homeless men as they were leaving a church-run hypothermia shelter in Alexandria. This action, and a surge in ICE raids and sweeps, has caused a wave of fear in the immigrant community, an outpouring of concern from social service providers and law enforcement personnel, and anger from social justice organizations like the members of Herndon-Reston Indivisible who attended the meeting, waiting to hear the county's official line.

"Whereas, Fairfax County Police successfully engage in community policing, which requires the trust of residents who are not afraid to call law enforcement if their safety is at risk, or to report information that may help solve a crime," reads one segment in the resolution, acknowledging fear and the anxiety that has accompanied the see-saw of Trump administration proposed travel bans, the rise in hate crimes, threats against ethnic groups and religions, and incidents of vandalism, particularly at Jewish cemeteries and Muslim mosques.

Supervisor Pat Herrity (R-Springfield) didn't disagree with the sentiments of inclusion that framed the resolution, but he said it seems like "a statement done for political reasons." In Herrity's view, the resolution fails to address the "real issues in front of us," citing the impact on the public school system, other services, and the recent increase in gang violence.

Supervisor Jeff McKay (D-Lee District) was quick to respond, saying that he resented the attitude that blame for gang violence should be directed only at the immigrant community, insisting that the resolution was the "antithesis of a political statement ... it's our moral imperative ... to tell our community where Fairfax County stands."

McKay later added that if this resolution was indeed political, then it represents a political stance he was proud to be associated with.

The waters around the resolution were further muddled when Supervisor Cathy Hudgins (D-Hunter Mill) suggested the resolution should be more specific and asked that language be included to clearly oppose any immigrant registry. This request opened another round of exchange among several of the supervisors. Bulova did not see the value in having the county engage in a series of "what if" scenarios and develop hypothetical responses. At one point, Hudgins made the remark that she felt she was "being placated" by the response to her request, one which she sees as showing the real leadership qualities of the county.

Supervisor Dan Storck (D-Mount Vernon) finally summed up the resolution as being a "place to start ... a great foundation," painting the motion as more of a "high-concept" statement than a procedural piece, or a response to deeper issues being raised by other supervisors.

The motion did carry, but not before Supervisor John Cook (R-Braddock District) made it clear and for the record that the resolution was not declaring the county a so-called "sanctuary jurisdiction." "It does not say that, and people shouldn't think that it does."

Nevertheless, the Herndon-Indivisible supporters and others in the crowd applauded the outcome that does make clear that Fairfax County police are "not asked to assume the responsibilities of federal immigration officials ... it is the responsibility of our officers to ensure the safety of Fairfax County residents through community policing rather than through immigration enforcement."

UNANIMOUS APPROVAL was afforded several other matters before the board, including two proclamations offered by Cook; one declaring April as Sexual Assault Awareness Month, and another adding Child Abuse Prevention as a focus for the month. There was also no dissension on the proclamation marking April 24 as Holocaust Remembrance Day in Fairfax County. Holocaust survivor Michele Margosis accepted the document from Bulova.

Later in the session, the board voted to approve a "Sewer Ordinance Amendment" which will raise rates for water consumption by 7 cents per 1,000 gallons, raise the quarterly Base Charges, and other related fees, while reducing the daily flow per unit from 300 gallons to 280 gallons per day. The rate increases were applauded by speaker Reba Elliott, who is the executive director of Faith Alliance for Climate Solutions.

Elliott thinks more funds are needed to keep water supplies safe in the area. "Go storm water treatment!" Elliott called out as she left the speaker's podium.

"Thank you," replied Bulova. "I honestly think that's a first for us."

Fairfax County Board of Supervisors general and committee meetings are streamed live via the county's website, and can be found after the event in the video archive. Agenda items and materials are also available on the site. See www.fairfaxcounty.gov.

Your Award Winning Papers

Richmond Times-Dispatch (daily) and the Mount Vernon Gazette/Local Media Connection (non-daily), win the VPA's highest awards.

Virginia Press Association's highest award, the VPA Award for Journalistic Integrity and Community Service, went to Local Media Connection/Mount Vernon Gazette for coverage and editorials throughout 2016 relating to police reform in Fairfax County.

The Richmond Times-Dispatch won in the daily category for its series about the death of a mentally ill prisoner, Janycheal Mitchell, in a Portsmouth Jail.

The judges noted, "The Mount Vernon Gazette covered the complex issue of police reform from February through December 2016, sparked by the shooting of an unarmed man by a Fairfax County police officer. ... The Gazette focused community attention on the case, particularly on the efforts of citizens and representatives of law enforcement agencies working together on reforming police practice. This led to the creation and implementation of a Civilian Review Panel to provide oversight of police policy, procedures and activities. ... The approach of the Gazette in this matter provides a good illustration of the positive role a community newspaper can play when it takes an activist approach to issues of importance to its readers." Editor Mary Kimm and reporter Tim Peterson accepted the award.

Virginia Press Association honored its 2016 award winners on Saturday, April 8, 2017 in Richmond at its annual dinner. The Connection papers, including the Alexandria Gazette Packet, garnered more than 35 awards in many categories, including investigative reporting, education coverage, headline writing, photography, column writing, sports writing, obituaries, environmental writing, food writing, graphics, and more.

OPINION

County Ready for Next Phase of Diversion First

BY SUPERVISOR JOHN C. COOK
(R-BRADDOCK DISTRICT)

COMMENTARY

Fairfax County continues to make substantial progress on a program called “Diversion First.”

This program provides treatment instead of incarceration for people with mental health issues or developmental disabilities who come into contact with law enforcement for low-level offenses. With Diversion First, an officer can identify a suspect as needing supportive services, and can bring him or her to the Community Services Board (CSB) instead of making an arrest. Instead of making an arrest, officers bringing low-level offenders to the CSB saves the County money, time, and resources. Last year, 375 people were diverted from arrest into treatment- which represents a huge accomplishment. This is not the only opportunity for diversion, however. The County is now pursuing the next phase of the Diversion First program, with a focus on making diversions after this initial contact with law enforcement.

Imagine you or I were arrested for a low-level crime, such as trespassing or disorderly conduct, on a Saturday night. We may be held until Monday or Tuesday. We could then probably post a bond for a few hundred dollars and be released. People with mental illness or developmental disabilities, however, often have troubled employment histories, and do not have that money. They are often detained for months awaiting trial.

During this time, the County is paying approximately $200 per day to hold them, all while their mental state is deteriorating. By their next hearing date, these individuals have often spent as much or more time in jail awaiting their day in court than if they had been found guilty of the original charges, resulting in a release based on “time served.” They leave in a worse condition than when they entered. Eighty percent of the time, they will repeat their criminal behavior.

Diversion First breaks this cycle. It provides judges with a treatment alternative at the bonding hearing, when the judge can offer “supervised release” instead of bail. Supervised release requires mandatory treatment, with supervision by a trained probation officer. The person gets treatment and can recover. Then they can be released from criminal charges later if treatment is successful.

Studies show this treatment alternative can reduce the reoccurrence of criminal activity to as low as 20 percent. That means a 60 percent reduction in crime (from 80 percent to 20) from this population. Literally hundreds of crimes can be prevented each year. With jail costing around $200 per day, and treatment only a few thousand dollars per year, over time the County will save significant funds.

This program is a win-win. Treatment improves lives. Crime will be reduced. Taxpayers will save long-term money. We must continue the progress of Diversion First by implementing these new avenues for diversion. This will allow the County to direct resources more efficiently, allow the Police to save time, and help people with disabilities improve their lives.

Past Time for Pension Reform in Fairfax County

BY PAT HERRITY
SUPERVISOR (R-SPRINGFIELD)

COMMENTARY

Most of our residents are in complete disbelief when they learn that Fairfax County offers, and continues to offer, a pre-social security supplement benefit — also known as the second pension. County employees that started working for Fairfax County right out of college can retire from the County as early as age 55. In addition to their regular pension benefits, which are more generous than surrounding jurisdictions, County employees get a second pension benefit that provides the employee a County-paid benefit equal to social security payments until they reach social security age. Unlike actual social security payments, which saw no increase last year, the County’s second pension recipients received a guaranteed 3 percent increase. Serious pension reform in Fairfax County is past due and it starts with elimination of the second pension benefit for new employees.

Here are just some of the reasons I believe we need to eliminate the pre-social security supplement for new general county and school employees:

❖ This benefit does not help recruit or retain employees. Compensation plans should be designed to recruit and retain employees — this benefit does neither. The benefit is not valued as much as salary by the employees we are trying to recruit. Because the benefit is not paid unless you retire, it encourages employees to retire earlier.

❖ Fairfax County is the only county in Virginia to offer this benefit.

❖ It is an expensive benefit that adds 6 percent to the cost of every payroll dollar. This benefit cost the County $30M and the school system $75M in FY 2016.

❖ The cost of providing this benefit continues to grow and is unsustainable. As people live longer, the cost of providing this benefit continues to grow and continues to crowd out important County and school programs.

❖ The cost of this benefit is unpre- dictable. Because this is a defined benefit, poor market returns can significantly increase the cost of the benefit.

While pension reform starts with eliminating the pre-social security supplement, we must also address the County’s retirement plan and the school system’s supplemental pension plan (ERFC). This includes changing the retirement age, eliminating the County’s DROP program (allows for retirement payments prior to retirement), reducing the high costs of administering the benefit plans, and investigating the conversion to a hybrid plan like the rest of the counties in Virginia have done. We need to keep our promises to our current employees, but must move our compensation programs into the 21st century for new employees.

Our hard working County employees continue to ask for salary increases to get them to market averages and some of our teachers’ salaries are below market averages. Unfortunately, too many of our compensation dollars are going to pension benefits which competes with the ability to fund employee and teacher raises and attract high quality candidates for openings. The cost of benefits for county and school employees range from 60 percent to 80 percent on top of each payroll dollar, compared to 25 to 35 percent for most private companies. Growing pension liabilities also compete for funds with the high quality services that our residents expect.

I have been working to address the County’s overly generous and unsustainable pension costs since 2010. I spoke about the County and school pension issues repeatedly during the meals tax debate as a prime example of where the County needs to get spending prioritized and under control. Largely as a result of the meals tax discussions, several of the County’s civic associations and community groups have joined me in the call to reform the County’s pension benefit programs.

The goal of these reforms cannot just be to make our pension benefits sustainable and affordable, but to change our total compensation packages so that we can do a better job of attracting, retaining and rewarding a quality workforce. Despite a delay in discussing our pension costs, it appears that the Board is finally prepared to look at pension reform. My hope is that we will implement comprehensive and meaningful reforms.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

We’ll Miss Our Neighbor Dave Albo

To the Editor:

It felt like a punch in the gut when news of Del. Dave Albo’s retirement popped up on my phone. As a long time Republican activist and community volunteer, I have gotten to know Dave over the years, and his style of common sense policies, and straight talk are what stand out. In the age of heavily voted policy positions and press releases, Dave was a breath of fresh air. He shoots from the hip, adds in a little humor, and gets his point across to even the most disagreeable. I recall him telling a town hall crowd that if policies can’t be explained to a fifth grader, they’re probably not worth enacting.

Dave is not just a great Delegate when he is in Richmond, he is a great Delegate the other 11 months of the year too. His constituent services are unparalleled. He is always out in the community attending meetings, sponsoring events, and listening to what his constituents tell him. No matter who is speaking to him, Dave listens and cares. He is the embodiment of his campaign slogan “Our Neighbor.” As the saying goes, all good things must come to an end. We will be sad to see Dave return to life as a private citizen, but he does so after having made the community a better place. Fairfax County and Northern Virginia will surely miss our neighbor, Dave Albo.

There will be several full-sized kitchen and bathroom designs on view, vignettes featuring cabinets, vanities, flooring and lighting, even a full-sized outdoor courtyard which spotlights break-through materials and styles being applied to roofing and siding.

"Our goal is to make it easy for attendees to find answers to an array of home improvement questions in a single day," said David Foster, who has operated Foster Remodeling Solution for over 34 years. "We encourage attendees to come prepared with questions, drawings and photos, and to bring interested friends and neighbors. All of the offerings are free and open to the public."

Easter Table Design Ideas

Local tastemakers offer spring table setting and centerpiece ideas.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL

The arrival of spring offers fresh inspiration for table setting and home décor, say local designers. “What’s really beautiful about spring is that there is such natural beauty outside,” said Amanda Mertins, co-owner of Patina Polished Living in Old Town Alexandria. “Everything comes to life in spring. It’s all so fresh, you don’t have to do anything too contrived because decorations present themselves naturally with lovely daffodils and hyacinths. Pastel colored eggs are also part of the scene. You can combine the natural elements with the givens like eggs and bunnies.”

“Trim a few branches from a flowering bush or tree,” said Courtney Thomas of The Picket Fence in Burke, Virginia. “If you have tulips or daffodils, harvest some and make your own bouquet or place single stems in bud vases.”

“You can’t beat the amazing color display that’s going on outside right now,” added Anne M. Walker of Anne Walker Design in Potomac, Maryland.

“The deep magenta blossoms of the Redbud trees combined with the chartreuse color of the budding tree leaves and new grasses makes my heart skip a beat. Bring these vibrant greens and purples into your house any way you can: fresh flowers, throw pillows, candles. A little touch of coral is welcome now and is a wonderful harbinger of the warmer days ahead.”

For a simple Easter centerpiece start with a tray, advises Thomas. “Cover the bottom with Easter grass or faux moss,” she said. “Place a potted plant or bouquet in the center with decorative Easter eggs nestled in the grass around it. Add a bunny or two and you have a cohesive centerpiece that is easy to move if necessary.”

Small accent pieces can have a big impact on table settings. “Make the table more festive by having place cards at each setting,” said Kelley Proxmire, principal at Kelley Proxmire, Inc. “Make each setting a little bit more special by putting individual small flower arrangements, or perhaps an Easter candy at each place.

To create a sophisticated display, Walker advises forgoing traditional pastel colors and Easter eggs in lieu of vintage white décor. “[Home accessory stores] will all have decorating treasures, and they should be at deeply discounted prices this week,” she said.

Mertins creates an “Easter tree” decorated with hand-blown, hand-painted eggs. “They’re from Austria and they’re really like works of art,” she said. “You can hang these eggs from budding branches like those in a Forsythia [shrub] with green leaves and buds.”

Ready for Easter at Springfield Town Center

As she attached the grass green pipe cleaner to her two-dimensional wicker Easter basket, Taylor Morgan of Franconia lamented that it wouldn't be able to hold "real Easter eggs." Morgan and her mother Sabrina had just come from having a photo taken with the very Easter Bunny itself, who she said she asked — Santa-style — for a Hatchimal, one of last Christmas' hottest toys.

They sat at one of dozens of tables set up for crafts and coloring, as part of a multidimensional (secular) pre-Easter event hosted on April 12 at Springfield Town Center. The mall's marketing director Kimberly Baldy said they had more than 500 people registered in advance, and that was just counting email addresses of parents, not including children.

In addition to the furry photos and crafts, the event tied in an Alice in Wonderland tea party theme as well as face painting. Tea — non-caffeinated, Baldy specified — for the party was supplied by Teavana.

The Mad Hatter, Queen of Hearts and Alice herself roamed and mingled in the grand hall area of Springfield Town Center, while the March Hare was otherwise occupied.

Lisa Connors, a spokesperson for the county, left, interviewed Cornerstones CEO Kerrie Wilson, right, on Facebook Live on Wednesday, April 5, outside the Embry Rucker Shelter in Reston.

Lisa Connors interviewed OPEH Director Dean Klein on Facebook Live on Wednesday, April 5, outside the Embry Rucker Shelter in Reston.

Report: Homeless Population Down 47 Percent

Budget woes threaten progress as the number of homeless people drops below 1,000 for the first time in Fairfax County.

BY FALLON FORBUSH
THE CONNECTION

The number of homeless people on the streets of Fairfax County reached a record low this year. The Fairfax County Office to Prevent and End Homelessness counted 964 homeless people in the Fairfax County and Falls Church area on the night of Jan. 25 during its 2017 Homeless Point In Time Count. It is the first time that fewer than 1,000 people were reported homeless during the nine years the county has been collecting the data for the report.

The count covers people who are literally homeless – those who are in shelters, in time-limited transitional housing programs, or unsheltered and living on the street or in vehicles. Of those counted this year, 474 were people in families, including 286 children, and 490 people were single individuals, including 155 older adults ages 55 and over.

The first count in 2008 reported 1,835 homeless people, which means the homeless population during the count has decreased by 47 percent.

The results were announced on Wednesday, April 5, outside the Embry Rucker Shelter in Reston by OPEH Director Dean Klein and Kerrie Wilson, CEO of Cornerstones, a nonprofit organization that serves people in need of food, shelter, affordable housing, childcare and other human services.

THE PROGRESS in reducing homelessness in the county was attributed to helping those in need find affordable housing in the area.

“The cost of living here puts housing out of reach for so many people,” Wilson said.

“That is essentially the real problem we have here.”

The Office to Prevent and End Homelessness and its partner organizations take a “housing first” approach to helping those in need. This method first offers permanent, affordable housing as quickly as possible for individuals and families experiencing homelessness. Then, supportive services and connections to community-based resources are provided in order to keep people in their housing and avoid returning to homelessness.

“The goal of reducing homelessness has two dispositions,” said a man who was staying at the Embry Rucker Shelter. He requested to remain anonymous. “If you’re a homeowner and don’t like homeless people in your midst, that’s one end of the spectrum,” he said. “The other is a nurturing and caring disposition where people don’t want the homeless to suffer. We’re not all working towards the same goal.”

This philosophy of helping the homeless become self-sufficient is embraced at the Embry Rucker Shelter, which is operated by Cornerstones.

“Nobody should be raised in a homeless shelter,” Wilson said.

But her organization would rather keep clients in the shelter longer until they can find a housing arrangement that works in order to keep them from slipping back into homelessness.

Her organization, Cornerstones, often relies on shared housing where it matches homeless individuals to be roommates and sets them up with landlords who offer affordable housing arrangements.

These opportunities are few and far in between and will become more challenging in the years to come for its homeless individuals.

“The cost of living here puts housing out of reach for so many people.”

— Kerrie Wilson, Cornerstones

This is because the county has relied on housing resources for its homeless single population in the past from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, according to Klein. But this resource is at risk.

The Trump administration plans to significantly reduce HUD’s funding from $46.9 billion in 2017 to $40.7 billion in 2018, a 13.2 percent cut, according to the U.S. Office of Management and Budget.

“We need more housing,” Klein said. “We recognize that federal housing reductions are looming. We are very concerned about what that may mean and the impact that could have on the progress that we’ve made in the community.”

Klein’s office will also take a hit locally.

The Office to Prevent and End Homelessness is set to lose $200,000 in funding next year in order to balance the county’s fiscal year 2018 budget.

THE DECREASE in OPEH’s advertised fiscal year 2018 budget will prevent it from using motels as a last resort housing options for families with children who are experiencing homelessness when shelters are full or when individuals have medical needs that make a shelter facility inappropriate, according to the county’s advertised budget plan.

“It would really eliminate some of the flexibility needed for our system and providers,” Klein said. “Often times, our shelters are full. With that, we need other flexibility to make sure people and families aren’t living on the streets.”

Still, Klein remains hopeful despite the challenges ahead.

“We saw a significant decrease in the number of homeless families ... we see that our single population continues to be a huge challenge to not only help them to secure employment but also to help them to get housing,” Klein says.

May 22 Community Forum on Policing

The Fairfax County Ad Hoc Police Practices Review Commission, which recommended the creation of an independent police auditor and civilian review panel, also encouraged the Board of Supervisors to set dates for community forums to revisit other commission recommendations and review how far along they are.

The first such forum has been scheduled for May 22 this year, according to an April 4 board matter presented by supervisor John Cook (R-Braddock), chair of the board’s public safety committee.

A second forum will be scheduled closer to the fall, to take place in the Mount Vernon area of Fairfax County, Cook said.

The forum will take place in the Fairfax

County Government Center board auditorium, beginning at 7:30 p.m. The Government Center is located at 12000 Government Center Parkway in Fairfax.

More information about the Ad Hoc Commission, including final reports from the subcommittees and full commission, is available online at www.fairfaxcounty.gov/policecommission.
