VIENNA POLICE HIGHLIGHTS

The following summary contains various incidents of general interest as well as vehicular crashes handled by the Town of Vienna Police Department from July 28-Aug. 3, 2017.

INCIDENTS

Fraud - Navy Federal Credit Union 820 Follin Lane, SE Between May 3, 9 a.m. and May 5, 5 p.m. A citizen reported that someone had cashed two fraudulent checks from her checking account.

Fraud - 300 Block Glyndon Street, NE June 23, 4 p.m. A citizen reported that someone made an unauthorized charge on his debit card.

Suspicious Event - Patrick Henry Library, 101 Maple Ave. East, July 25, 6 p.m. A citizen reported that an unknown man touched her leg.

Arrest - Drunk in Public, 1500 Block Maple Avenue West, July 28, 1 a.m. Officer Reedy was dispatched to a report of a possible drunk subject who would not pay his cab fare. After talking with the cab driver, Officer Reedy attempted to speak with the subject that appeared to be unconscious in the back seat of the cab. Officer Reedy was not able to wake up the subject and requested an ambulance. Rescue personnel were eventually able to wake up the subject. The subject refused to go to the hospital. The subject was extremely intoxicated and unable to care for himself. The subject was arrested and transported to the Fairfax County Adult Detention Center where arrest warrants for Drunk in Public and possession of a fictitious driver's license were issued and served.

Civil Case - 1000 Block Tapawingo Road, SW, July 28, 10:01 a.m. A landscaper reported that a resident was refusing to let him finish a landscaping job.

Domestic Dispute - 600 Hillcrest Drive, SW July 28, 11:28 a.m. A resident reported a verbal argument with her son.

Suspicious Person - Glyndon Park, 300 Glyndon Street, NE July 28, 11:39 a.m. Officers responded to the park for a complaint of an individual sleeping under a canopy. Officers recognized the subject from prior encounters and had personal knowledge that the subject had been advised of the Town of Vienna ordinance that prohibits sleeping in the park. The subject was arrested and transported to the Fairfax County Adult Detention Center where an arrest warrant for violating the ordinance was issued and served.

Arrest - Drunk in Public, 100 Block Patrick Street SE, July 28, 9:19 a.m. Officer Borja was dispatched to a report of a possible drunk subject sleeping in a stairwell. After interviewing the subject Officer Borja determined that the subject was extremely intoxicated and unable to care for himself. The subject was arrested and transported to the Fairfax County Adult Detention Center where an arrest warrant for Drunk in Public was issued and served.

Fraud - 500 Block Brentwood Court, NW July 29, 10:51 a.m. A citizen reported an attempted scam by a subject using a fraudulent check.

Grand Larceny - Palm Beach Tan, 105 Center St., NW July 29 between 5:10 p.m. and 5:16 p.m. An employee reported that two male subjects entered the store. One of the subjects distracted an employee while the second subject stole some items from the purse of another employee.

Police Service - Glyndon Plaza Shopping Center, 227 Maple Ave. East, July 29, 12:07 p.m. A citizen reported that the fuel tank of his vehicle was damaged by a dislodged sewer grate and fuel was spilling out onto the road. The fire department responded to the scene and contained the fuel spill.

Vehicle Tampering - 200 Block

Battle Street, SW Between July 29 11 p.m. and July 30 6:30 a.m. A citizen reported that someone entered his unlocked vehicles. The subject or subjects rummaged through the vehicles sometime during the night and stole some loose change.

Grand Larceny - 100 Block Battle Street, SW Between July 29 10 p.m. and July 30 3:28 a.m. A citizen reported that someone entered her unlocked vehicle sometime during the night, took her wallet and made several charges on her credit cards. This case is being investigated.

Animal Case - 100 Block Kingsley Road, SW July 30 4:13 p.m. A citizen found a dog wandering around. The responding officer was unable to locate the owner of the dog. The officer transported the dog to the Fairfax County Animal Shelter.

Suspicious Event - 200 Block Ross Drive, SW July 30, 6:53 p.m. A citizen reported that someone wrote a message on the frame of the rear sliding door of his home.

Petit Larceny - McDonald's 544 Maple Ave. West July 31, 5 a.m. An employee reported that a subject broke into the coin change machine and stole some money.

Narcotics Violation - Vienna Woods Swim Club, 950 Desale St. SW, Aug. 1, 12:25 a.m. Officer Reedy observed a suspicious vehicle in the parking lot of the tennis courts area. Officer Reedy encountered a subject that attempted to flee the area on foot after Officer Reedy attempted to get his attention. Officer Reedy was able to apprehend the subject who was in possession of marijuana. Officer Reedy arrested the 18-year-old man from Nutley Street NW in Vienna. He was transported to the Fairfax County Adult Detention Center where he was charged with Possession of Marijuana, Obstruction of Justice and Fleeing from a Law Enforcement Officer. Three arrest warrants were issued and served.

Narcotics Violation - Maple Avenue East / Glyndon Street, NE, Aug. 1, 10:21 p.m. Officer Reedy observed a suspicious person standing on the roadway. While speaking with the subject Officer Reedy learned that the subject was inhaling noxious chemicals. Officer Reedy was advised by dispatch that the subject was wanted. Later while searching the subject incident to arrest marijuana was also discovered on his person. Officer Reedy arrested the 25-year-old man from Ellenwood Drive in Fairfax. He was transported to the Fairfax County Adult Detention Center where the outstanding warrant was served and he was charged with Possession of Marijuana and inhaling noxious chemicals. Two additional arrest warrants were issued and served.

Found Property - 400 Block Course Street, NE Aug. 2, 4:42 p.m. During a routine traffic stop Sgt. Sheeran recovered a driver's license and a debit card that did not belong to the driver of the vehicle.

Suspicious Event - Cedar Lane SE / Desale Street S Aug. 3, 9:20 a.m. A woman reported that while she was walking on the sidewalk an unknown man started to drive alongside her and asked her to get into his vehicle.

Fraud - 1100 Block Moorefield Hill Court, SW Aug. 2, 9 a.m. A resident reported that someone was able to open a credit card using his personal information and transfer funds between his bank accounts.

Low-Turnout High-Stakes Special Election for School Board

Countywide at-large seat to be determined by Aug. 29 special election; early voting is underway.

BY MICHAEL LEE POPE
THE CONNECTION

Could there be a worse time to hold a special election? August is a time when people do anything they can to get out of the region, which transforms into a swampy sauna in late summer. Nevertheless, election officials are preparing for an Aug. 29 special election to fill the at-large seat vacated by School Board member Jeanette Hough in May. If Hough had waited just a few more days to resign, voters would have been able to vote in the general election this November. But the timing of Hough's resignation will prompt a late summer special election, a phenomenon experts say helps Republicans.

"Oftentimes a lower turnout election is going to feature a wealthier and whiter electorate," said Geoff Skelley at the University of Virginia Center for Politics. "But if the political energy of the moment is particularly high, which I would say it is right now, it could potentially go a different way."

Fairfax County School Board members serve in non-partisan seats. But Democrats and Republicans endorse their preferred candidates, and Hough had been endorsed by Republicans. Traditionally, Democrats have a harder time with special elections because the electorate tends to be more conservative than the general population. So the timing is good for Republicans, although not necessarily perfect.

"The disparity would be even more pronounced early in August," said Stephen Farnsworth at the University of Mary Washington. "By late August, people tend to be done with their vacations. If you have students going off to college, for example, you are likely dealing with that by late August, if not mid-August."

No Democrat has ever won a summertime special election in Fairfax County, which means this special election is the Republicans to lose. Two candidates who have not been endorsed by either party will also be on the ballot.

CHRIS GRISAFE, 37, is a native of Lake Havasu City, Ariz. He was raised in California, and he's lived in Northern Virginia for 12 years. He currently lives in the Penderbrook neighborhood of the Providence District. He does not have any children in the school system, but he has served on Superintendent's Business Advisory Committee, the Bonds Committee and the Adult Education Advisory Committee. He has a bachelor's degree in political science and philosophy from Loyola Marymount University and a master's degree in business administration from Virginia Tech. Professionally, he is a national security specialist. In 2011, he waged an unsuccessful campaign for the Providence District seat on the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors. He is the candidate endorsed by the Republican Party.

"I think we can be better served than we have been," said Grisafe. "It's important for us to understand how we are impacting student achievement and to prioritize investments for the classroom. I don't think we can gain that insight unless we are doing independent program evaluations."

On the issue of the budget, Grisafe would like to make government more accessible, increasing the amount of information that's available to the public while making it easy to get and understand. He said that would go a long way to help members of the Board of Supervisors understand the management of resources at Fairfax County Public Schools. It could also help School Board members when they need to make a case for increasing funding.

"The biggest critique I've heard from the county supervisors is that there's not transparency in the schools budget," he said. "For example, if you go to the annual report it shows variances on the board documents. But if you really want to understand position numbers, you have to drill down five or six clicks into a different part of the website."

On the issue of class size, Grisafe was dismissive of the idea that the average class size was a metric that means all that much. On the campaign trail, he recently met the parent of a 4th-grade student at Chesterbrook Elementary School whose student was in a class with 33 students.

"The county has a policy for elementary schools not to exceed 29 students," he said. "And there are a number of schools that are exceeding that and basically violating the policy which isn't being enforced."

On the issue of trailers, he said he doesn't know enough to have a position.

"I guess I would want to understand the impact trailers have on the quality of education," he said. "I don't think that trailers are ideal. I haven't studied the trade offs here for trailers."

On transgender bathrooms, he does not support the Obama-era policy of requiring schools to allow students to use the restrooms of the gender they identify with. Rather, he said, the potential conflicts should be handled on a case-by-case basis.

"I think the way the schools are handling the situation now where it's on a case-by-case basis with the schools is what it needs to be for right now until we answer some broader questions of what follow-on policies flow from that," he said. "I personally would like to see more unisex bathrooms."

On the issue of J.E.B. Stuart High School's controversial name, he said he doesn't have a position one way or the other on the name.

Sandra Allen, Independent

Chris Grisafe, endorsed by Republicans

Karen Keys-Gamarra, endorsed by Democrats

Michael Owens, Independent

But he does have a position on the way the school system handled the issue, which he described as a "quintessential example" of a process that should never be repeated because it's been so divisive.

"If you're going to make a moral case of J.E.B. Stuart, then we need to make that same moral case for the rest of the schools," he said. "Do we now, because George Washington had slaves, remove any monuments to him? I don't know. I would want to know how is this helping the community and bringing us together."

KAREN KEYS-GAMARRA, 57, is a native of St. Louis. She has lived in Fairfax County since 1990, first in Huntington and later in the Sully District. She is the parent of three boys who graduated from James Madison High School in Vienna. She has a bachelor's degree in English and communications from Tulane and a law degree from Washington University School of Law. Professionally, she is an attorney who volunteers as a court-appointed special advocate and a guardian ad litem. She ran an unsuccessful campaign for School Board in 2015, and she's currently a member of the Fairfax County Planning Commission. She is the candidate endorsed by the Democratic Party.

"I initially started advocating educational issues with my own children, and then it carried over into my work," said Keys-Gamarra. "It just stuck out to me how critical educational issues are to the success of kids."

On the issue of the budget, Keys-Gamarra said the relationship between the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors and the Fairfax County School Board needs improvement. She said her experience on the Planning Commission gives her an insight into the inner workings of Fairfax County, especially in the Sully District which she represents.

"I really don't see the Board of Supervisors as an enemy, and I think that sometimes — at least to the public — it appears that may be the view," she said. "I don't think that's a healthy approach, and so I think that with my background I may be able to bridge the gap and bring a little more conciliation to the table."

On teacher salaries, Keys-Gamarra said she hears from teachers all the time about how difficult it is to live in Fairfax County earning the kind of money that comes with teaching in the public school system. She said Fairfax County needs salaries that are comparable to rival jurisdictions.

"I'm hesitating to give you a yes or a no because I don't want the impression to be given that ... we have to walk in and blow up the budget because this has to happen," she said. "It all has to be balanced against one another but that would certainly be a concern for me."

On the issue of trailers, she's particularly concerned about young children being educated in trailers that don't have bathrooms. On the campaign trail, she's been hearing from parents who are concerned that their children have to wait long periods of time before they can go to a main building to use the facilities. Keys-Gamarra points out that Fairfax County has a shortage of land, which means that schools can't always get the larger size trailers.

"It may be a reality of the resources that we have had and how we've been making decisions," she said. "Some teachers and some students may actually like having that kind of privacy that may have a bathroom in there and air conditioning."

On the issue of class size, Keys-Gamarra said the average class size for Fairfax County elementary school — 22.4 students — is not necessarily a problem. On the campaign trail she's not hearing parents complain about a class size of 22 students. But she is hearing parents complain about class size of 28 or 29 students in a classroom. She said she would like to see the county do something about it, although she's doesn't have a specific proposal.

"I can't throw out a number," she said. "There are certainly concerns regarding class size, and I have those concerns as well."

On transgender bathrooms, she would not commit to agreeing with the Obama-era policy of requiring schools to allow all students to use the bathroom of the gender they identify with. Keys-Gamarra said she agrees with the current policy of handling issues as they arise on a case-by-case basis instead of having a countywide policy.

"I'm not stepping in that," she said when asked about her position. "I really hate to think of children and families being used as a political football."

On the issue of the controversial name of J.E.B. Stuart High School, she said she admires the students who are raising the is

OPINION

An Open Letter to Readers and More

Buy an ad in our annual Newcomers and Community Guide.

Last year, when I wrote an editorial similar to this one, there was some controversy about it inside the Connection. But many community organizations, civic organizations, businesses and elected officials responded positively, and it made a difference.

I have a special favor to ask, once again: Buy an ad in our Newcomers and Community Guide.

To put on my publisher's hat (not my editor's hat) for a minute, if you have a marketing budget, and you value coverage of local newspapers (not just ours), why wouldn't you spend a portion of that budget (any portion) supporting that platform?

Show your support for our organization which continues to be here to support the forces of good in our communities.

Our annual Newcomers and Community Guide is a pullout section that will appear in the the Aug. 23, 2017 edition of all 15 Connection Newspapers, published by Local Media Connection. Deadline is Aug. 16.

We are creating a quality special issue, and we need your help. Whether you invest in a small ad in a single paper (super affordable), or a full page in all 15 of our papers (super value), we appreciate your help this month.

For the same reasons that organizations, businesses and campaigns know they want local newspaper coverage, newspaper advertising is an effective way to reach voters, residents, clients. The Connection reaches more than 200,000 readers, in print and online, including remarkable demographics. Our readers include local and national decision makers in the public and private sector.

According to an independent study cited by the National Newspaper Association: 86 percent of voters who cast ballots in the election four years ago read newspapers in print or online; 79 percent of voters ages 18 to 34 read newspapers in print or online; 91 percent of voters who contribute to campaigns read newspapers in print or online.

The deadline for the Newcomers and Community Guide is Aug. 16. Digital enhancements and support are available. For more information, email sales@connectionnewspapers.com or call 703-778-9431.

Share Tips about Community

We need help from our readers with ideas for our annual Newcomers and Community Guide.

We're hoping to share special places, activities, events, organizations and volunteer opportunities. What should someone new to your neighborhood know about? Events that should not be missed? Organizations that do a great job? Places to volunteer? A great place to see the sunset? We'd love to have your photos to go along with your suggestions.

We will publish a selection of local tips along with a plethora of information useful to newcomers and long-time residents alike, including our award-winning Guide to the Parks, information on how to vote and more.

See last year's community guides by going to www.connectionnewspapers.com/PDFs/ and scrolling down to Newcomers.

Local Impact of Immigration

"Lifeblood of our astounding economic success story."

BY GERRY CONNOLLY
U.S. REPRESENTATIVE (D-11)

White House Advisor Stephen Miller took pains last week to point out that Emma Lazarus' sonnet, "The New Colossus," was not affixed to the Statue of Liberty when she was unveiled in 1886. He, of course, was right in fact but wrong in spirit.

The famed "Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses" lines were added 20 years later, but have come to represent the American ideal that we are a nation of immigrants, enthusiastically welcoming those from any background who want to come here, work hard, and play by the rules. Here in Fairfax County, we not only embrace that ideal, we recognize it as the lifeblood of our astounding economic success story.

President Trump and the senators pushing the RAISE Act, a bill to severely restrict legal immigration into the United States, would have you believe a dramatic increase in immigrants leads to economic decline and lower wages, not to mention higher crime rates and a host of other social ills. If anyone from the White House made the 15-mile trip to Fairfax County, they would learn the opposite is true.

In 1970 less than 4 percent of Fairfax's population was foreign born. Today that number is 30.7 percent, more than double the rate in the country at large. But that dramatic increase in immigration did not lead to the kind of dystopia the President envisions. Instead, since 1970, Fairfax County has become an economic colossus that drives our state's economy and is envied across the globe. Household income is among the highest in the nation, crime rates remain at historic lows, and our community hums with the kind of economic dynamism that drives innovation and long-term productivity growth.

How did we get here? Undoubtedly we've capitalized on our proximity to, and our partnership with, the federal government. But the facts are quite clear that the dramatic increase in foreign-born immigration has accelerated our economic success. Immigrants in Fairfax are primarily working age, more likely to start a business, less likely to commit crimes, and contribute to economic growth in both high-skilled and low-skilled fields, creating technology firms worth billions and caring for the elderly as home care workers. Immigrants have revitalized many of our older neighborhoods, adding $7,383 to the value of each and every home in our county, according to the Partnership for a New American Economy. The results speak for themselves. Foreign-born immigrants have fueled our success.

But Fairfax is not alone. Small towns, rural communities, and large cities across the country have capitalized on the economic vitality and opportunities created when immigrants show up and get to work. Welcoming "the homeless, the tempest-tost" is the moral thing to do, but right here in President Trump's own backyard we've proven that's the smart thing to do.

Blood Donations Urgently Needed

The American Red Cross urges blood donors to give in the final weeks of summer to help overcome a chronic summer blood shortage.

In August, regular donors may delay giving as final summer vacations are planned and back-to-school activities ramp up. To fully meet the needs of hospital patients in the coming days and weeks, donations are urgently needed from new and current donors. Those who donated blood earlier this summer may be eligible to donate again. Blood can be safely donated every 56 days, and Power Red cells can be donated every 112 days.

As a special thank you, those who come out to give blood or platelets with the Red Cross now through Aug. 31 will be emailed a $5 Target eGiftCard.

Appointments can be scheduled by downloading the free Red Cross Blood Donor App, visiting redcrossblood.org or calling 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767). To help reduce wait times, donors are encouraged to make appointments and complete the RapidPass online health history questionnaire at redcrossblood.org/RapidPass.

Upcoming blood donation opportunities Aug. 15-31

❖ Reston, Friday, Aug. 18, 8 a.m.-1:30 p.m. at U.S. Geological Survey, 12201 Sunrise Valley Drive.

❖ McLean, Thursday, Aug. 31, 1-5 p.m. at the Federal Highway Administration, 6300 Georgetown Pike.

Setting a Summer Table

Warm weather design ideas.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL

From a backyard barbeque to a simple brunch, there's still plenty of time to celebrate warm weather with table designs that embody summer's trends.

"We're still in summer and the weather is going to be warm for quite some time," said Amanda Mertins, president of Patina Polished Living in Alexandria. "An indoor or outdoor tablescape style depends on the occasion. Birthdays, holidays [and] retirements, all evoke a different feeling."

"Go out into your garden and use flowers [or] greens on your table," said Mertins. "Simple summer dinner party tables look great with lots of candles in votive holders, mason jars and glass lanterns. Remember to hang some of them in the trees for romance."

Incorporate a personal touch into each place setting, advises Hope Hassell, Case Design/Remodeling. "It will make each guest feel truly welcomed and you will look like the perfect hostess. It's as simple as printing off some photos from your phone or just adding place cards."

"Keep it casual by presenting family-style dishes down the center of the table," added

Sea-themed serveware in blue help create an elegant tone for summer entertaining.

Kimberly Asner, designer at Country Casual Teak. "Mix in mood-setting candle lighting and colorful, fresh-cut flowers in multiples for the most impact ... keep arrangements below eye level for easy conversation."

For alfresco dining, practicality is key, says Courtney Thomas of The Picket Fence in Burke. Dinnerware needs to be both durable and aesthetically appealing. "Bamboo dishes ... are perfect for outdoor dining,"

she said. "They won't break if dropped and are a great alternative to melamine."

Summer offers an abundance of options for using color, says Hassell. "Not only do you have so many options of in-season flowers, but you also have the nature around you to provide the backdrop."

The color blue establishes the type of serene atmosphere that Molly Pritchard of Arlington-based interior design firm, Design

Lines likes to create at her summer parties. "Especially light blue because everything about it represents summer," said Pritchard. "It's cool and clean and neutral, especially when paired with white or cream. It creates a seaside feel which is very summery."

IN ADDITION TO COLOR, motifs can set the stage for summer dining. Designers at JT interiors in Potomac suggest using white dinnerware, emblazoned with a lemon, to turn an everyday meal into a summer soirée. The tableware can be accented with an array of accessories including platters, coasters, bowls and tea towels. "It creates a very summery look, and it's white and clean. Lemons and water are summery, like lemonade."

Summer table décor need not be expensive, says Hassell. "Simplicity can be stunning," she said. "The thoughtful placement of a sprig of rosemary can add just enough without having to go overboard."

Originality is a quality that Mertins encourages. "Think outside the box," she said. "Having a brunch? Use a vintage quilt as the tablecloth. Hosting a baby shower? Use silver rattles as decor and baby silver cups for the flowers. The effort you put into your party table will go a long way to the overall success of the party."

Vienna Enjoys Concerts on the Green

BY COLIN STOECKER
THE CONNECTION

Friday nights in quiet Vienna are loud around sunset with the sound of Concerts on the Green. The music on the green at 144 Maple Ave. E. is a mixture of rock, blues, funk, dixie, and choral music.

This past Friday, attendees gathered to listen to the US Navy Sea Chanters. Starting in May, Friday's concert was the 12th on the green so far this summer. The U.S. Navy Sea Chanters are the United States Navy's official chorus. It wasn't until 1980 that women were able to sing in their ranks.

"This is the perfect way to highlight the local artists of Vienna," said Ashley Davies, 27, a Vienna resident and Parks and Recreation Department of Vienna staff. Davies is in her fifth year of working for Vienna Parks and Recreation.

Previous performers have included: U.S. Navy Commodores, jazz; Vienna Idol; Chump Change, classic rock; Hickory Grove, bluegrass; Shenandoah Run, americana; The Richard Walton Group; Nitehawks

Swing Band; Harlen Simple; and the Wayne Tympanick Quartet, jazz.

"It's very impressive. This is my first time hearing this Navy Band," said Rocky Mehta, 50, who works in technology and is a Vienna resident. "It's a nice way to spend the evening, as we live close by," said Mala Mehta, 50, a physician and Vienna resident.

Diane Howard, 65, who was at the concert with her family, commented on the U.S. Navy Sea Chanters' playing style. "I love their music and the Irish style. I'm Scottish but close enough!"

She has been coming to the concerts for about five years. "There's lovely weather and great music!" she said.

The Concerts on the Green in Vienna have been going on for about five years — rain permitting. The band choices are made by a committee including the Town Council of Vienna and the Parks and Recreation department.

"Attendance has been steady over the last five years," said Davies. "If there's rain we try to reschedule with the artists, but we've only had to reschedule once so far this summer and only if it's dangerous."

Vienna residents, Rocky Mehta, who works in technology, and Mala Mehta, a physician, listen to a performance by the U.S. Navy Sea Chanters Friday in Vienna for a concert on the green.

Early Voting Underway in Special Election for School Board

sue. She agrees that the name should probably change, but she doesn't want to use the school system's limited resources to make it happen.

"I think the thing that probably sticks out to me is that he denounced his citizenship as a United States citizen," she said. "I am on record as supporting the name change. I am not on record as saying that we need to take Fairfax County's funds to pay for that."

SANDRA ALLEN, 48, is a native of Bolivia. She's lived in the United States more than 40 years, immigrating as a child. She came to Fairfax County about 35 years ago, and currently lives in Vienna. She has two boys who attend James Madison High School, a rising 10th grade student and a rising 11th grade student. She has a bachelor's degree in business administration from Marymount University. She worked in budgeting and finance at the Department of Defense before leaving the workplace to become a stay-at-home mother.

"I'm concerned that there's not a voice present for the minority students," said Allen. "There's not a single person in any sort of leadership roles within the school system, ... and I've seen that a lot of the decisions that are being made without the input of the moms — the minority moms."

On the issue of the school budget, she said she would like to see better management of the finances. She acknowledges that she has not studied the budget in depth, but she said schools should focus on appropriating money to students rather than security. Budget documents show Fairfax County spends about $5 million a year on 55 school resource officers. Allen said that's money that could be spent elsewhere.

"I think we should stop making the schools an extension of juvenile detention centers where there's police presence during cafeteria time," said Allen. "We can re-appropriate that."

On teacher pay, Allen describes the $71,000 average pay of Fairfax teachers is "doable." She said she would like to speak to more teachers before offering a definitive opinion, but she adds that teachers could be rewarded with salary increases based on performance. She said she would like to look at the benefit packages to see if some young professionals might be able to trade some of their benefits for higher pay.

"A lot of the young teachers don't need those excessive packages or excessive benefits," she said. "And they probably would do much better having higher pay, so doing a cafeteria plan could be an option."

On the issue of trailers, Allen said trailers have provided a good education for children across the county. But, she said, parents should be able to force school officials to find classroom assignments inside a brick-and-mortar building for their children.

"I don't have any issues with trailers," said Allen. "But if a parent does choose to and sees that that's not to the benefit of her or his student," schools should be required to accommodate that.

On the issue of class size, Allen said the average elementary school class size in Fairfax of 22.4 students is not a problem, although she adds that she's willing to hear from teachers if they feel that number should be lower.

"I think that number is probably about right," she said. "I support the teachers' perspective on this, and if they feel students are not getting attention we may need to change that number."

On the issue of transgender bathrooms, Allen disagrees with the directive from former President Barack Obama that students should be able to use the bathroom of the gender they identify with. Instead, she said, schools should engage in a capital campaign to build new restrooms across the county.

"We need to provide the privacy that is necessary for the child, and I think that schools should create that environment of privacy by providing a third option — a neutral bathroom," said Allen, who said she understands how much money would be involved in making that happen. "Schools work with private institutions for funding. When there is a will to change something, there is a way to find a solution."

On the issue of J.E.B. Stuart High School's controversial name, Allen agrees with the students to are pressing to have the name changed. But when asked how she would finance the change, she said she would not support spending money on it.

"I support it. I didn't say it would be something that would be doable," she said. "We have to pick and choose what our priorities are."

MICHAEL OWENS, 43, is a native of Baltimore. She's lived in Fairfax County more than 20 years, first in McLean and later in Falls Church. She has a bachelor's degree in history from Johns Hopkins University and a bachelor's degree in English from Towson University. She also has a master's degree in English from the University of Virginia and a master's degree in education from Marymount University. Professionally, she is a usability and accessibility expert working on web-based applications for the consulting firm known as Design for Context in Washington, D.C. She is a former Fairfax County teacher who currently has one daughter in the school system who is a rising fifth grader at Belvedere Elementary School. She is the president of the parent teacher association there.

"I'm concerned because we have limited resources now, and we are going to have even more limited resources in the future," she said. "We need to make really important decisions, and we need to do so prudently."

On the issue of the budget, Owens said the school system is unlikely to get increased funding from the Board of Supervisors. So she would like to see a more efficient use of existing resources. For example, she said, the school system spends too much money on athletic programs like football that could be funded with outside money.

"I would like the athletic teams to actually raise money for the other programs within the school," said Owens. "The athletic teams could support the after-school chess club. Let's see the kids helping each other."

On teacher pay, Owens said she would like to see higher salaries — 10-to-20 percent higher. She understands the financial difficulties facing teachers because she was a single mother whose only income was the paycheck she got from Fairfax County Public Schools. In fact, she said, it was that economic pressure that caused her to leave the teaching and become a consultant.

"I left teaching not because I didn't enjoy the students or the parents or even the administrators. I left teaching because I couldn't afford to teach and live here. And that's pretty sad," she said. "I think it's really important that the people who are teaching your children and interacting with your children every day live in your community."

On the issue of trailers being used as classrooms, Owens said Fairfax County has too many students in portable classrooms. But she also said that there was little the School Board could realistically about it.

"I don't think anybody likes trailers," she said. "But that might not be something that we can do anything about, at least in the short term."

On the issue of class size, she said all parents would like to see a smaller student-to-teacher ratio. When asked about it, she circled back around to the question about trailers to make a point about her priorities if elected.

"I'd rather see us have more trailers and smaller classes than fewer trailers but more kids in each class," said Owens.

On the issue of transgender bathrooms, Owens is the only candidate in who supports former President Barack Obama's directive ordering schools to allow students to use the bathroom of the gender they identify with rather than the gender they were born with.

"The kid that feels comfortable going into the girls room to use the facilities, they need the right to do that," said Owens. "The kid who's going to the bathroom to cause trouble no matter what bathroom they're going into, that's a whole different issue."

On the issue of J.E.B. Stuart High School name, she understands those who want to change the name. But she was quick to add that the cost would be half a million dollars, and she said it's not appropriate for the school system to spend that kind of money when there are other budget priorities.

"This is not an emergency, and it's not a moral imperative," she said. "I understand if a student doesn't want to wear his name across their chest. But I don't want to pay to change it."

In-Person, TV Debates Scheduled Ahead of November Elections

The League of Women Voters of the Fairfax Area (LWVFA) will hold both in-person and televised forums for the public and the press to learn about the candidates who are running for election to the Virginia House of Delegates. "The purpose of these forums is to educate voters about the candidates and where they stand on the issues, by hearing them answer questions from the public, so voters can make informed choices at the ballot box in November," said Wendy Fox-Grage, LWVFA co-president.

There will be four in-person forums and three televised forums. The League invited all certified candidates campaigning for office in their respective districts. At the in-person forums, question-and-answer sessions will be followed by an opportunity for informal conversations with individual candidates.

The public and press are encouraged to attend these in-person forums:

Coincidental Or Not

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

One of our older/oldest cats, Biscuit, born late September 2006 and his oldest human parent, yours truly, born late September 1954, are both having teeth issues. In fact, the exact same teeth issues: the 1st molar and the 2nd bicuspid in the "upper right quadrant" are causing us problems and have to be extracted.

Biscuit's teeth extraction will be done by our regular veterinarian. Mine will be done not by my regular dentist but by a specialist, an oral surgeon. Unfortunately, the two practices are not related so there's no chance of a "BOGO." Nor is there any chance that the two procedures will be about the same cost. My teeth extraction will be double at a minimum, perhaps even quadruple, if I'm lucky. (I made inquiries.) Accordingly, Biscuit's extraction will occur/has occurred first.

What's of interest to me is the coincidence that Biscuit and I need the same teeth extracted at the same time. Which when you consider that Biscuit and I are approximately the same age, is not really a surprise. It's really more of a fact of life/aging - for both of us. Perhaps there are other behaviors and/or physical/mental indicators in Biscuits day-to-day activities which might clue me in to my own aging process. After all, we are living similar lives.

So far, Biscuit's post-teeth-extraction recovery has been uneventful. He's been spry and energetic. He's been on the kitchen counter, various window sills, the dining room table, the ironing board and all the other furniture; he's knocked over the wicker trash basket in our bedroom three times and he's been eating like a dog. In short, he's "back baby."

He almost appears to be smiling - except when we attempt to give him his post-procedure pills. As per usual, during the day he's sleeping on the back of the couch and at night he's curled up in the laundry basket; and he's still the first cat - of five, an hour early, I might add, for breakfast and dinner, to place his order/meow his presence. He's as ready to eat as ever. He hasn't missed a beat or a step. If I had to summarize/characterize his actions now, I'd say he has a real joie de vivre, "an exuberant enjoyment of life." So what am I waiting for? Godot?

As for my procedure, I've been told it takes 30 minutes or so. Local anesthesia is used (unlike Biscuit who was totally sedated/anesthetized). Moreover, the post-surgical pain is not terrible and the chance of infection is minor. And though I'll have a space in my gums where my teeth used to be, no longer will I be anticipating the pain and discomfort that cracking or splitting either of these two teeth would cause. The only pain I'll likely have is the pain of payment. (See 7/26/17 column entitled "Taking Care of Business" for associated details.)

I guess my curiosity/concern is whether I trust anything I've observed from Biscuit's dental experience - considering we're the same age. Is what's good for the cat also good for the human - all things being equal, sort of? Is Biscuit's return to normalcy so quickly and so easily - and so vigorously, a lesson to be learned? If seeing is believing and I do see extremely well for someone nearing his 63rd birthday, then Biscuit's 'experience' and the comparison between his pre- and post-extraction behavior should be an inspiration to us all, especially those of us of similar age with one and the same, two actually, teeth which need to be extracted.

I mean, the procedure I've been putting off is not exactly brain surgery, it's oral surgery. I'm not admitted to a hospital. It's outpatient. I'm in and then out. Same day service, just like the restaurant where my wife, Dina works. I don't even need someone to drive me home (unlike Biscuit. I had to drive him home.) And now that Biscuit is home, safe and sound, I suppose it's time for me to buck up and schedule my appointment. After all, it has nothing to do with cancer and everything to do with quality of life. I'd say that's a win-win.

Vienna Youth Players Present 'Hair'

BY COLIN STOECKER
THE CONNECTION

Friday, Aug. 4, was opening night of the 1960s Broadway musical, "Hair" by the Vienna Youth Players at Vienna Baptist Church. It was directed by Babs Dyer, vocal coach and piano instructor, and director of the Vienna Youth Players.

"Hair" premiered Off-Broadway at Joseph Papp's Public Theatre on Oct. 17, 1967 and ran for six weeks. After the Off-Broadway run, "Hair" played at The Cheetah nightclub where it ran for 45 performances.

The Vienna Youth Players was formed in 1993, sponsored by the Vienna Department of Parks and Recreation. They have an annual summer musical production and this year, director Dyer chose "Hair."

"I watched our high schoolers become very personally involved with the super-charged political climate. As a child of the '60s, this struck me as a recurring theme... we had sit ins... they have occupy," said Dyer.

Past shows have included "Jesus Christ Superstar," "Into the Woods," "Runaways," and "The Sound of Music." Rehearsals begin in early June and produce a five-performance run the first two weeks in August to sold-out audiences.

Neil Going, 18, a freshman at the College of William and Mary this fall and Vienna resident, helped produce the musical. "This is my eighth show with the Vienna Youth Players. Last year we did Jesus Christ Superstar. We have been rehearsing since June for six weeks. Community theatre lasts for about two months over the summer," he said.

Vienna Youth Players is made up of graduated seniors and high schoolers. This summer there are 27 players in the Vienna Youth Players from Oakton, Fairfax, Vienna, Annandale and surrounding communities. "It's a great way to build and engage our community," said Going.

Jack Herrin, 19, student director and stage manager, a student at the Cap 21 Conservatory and an Oakton resident, was also excited about the production. "I have the kind of job where you mingle with people and set up," he said. "I used to perform and now that I'm in college I came back this year to help," said Herrin.

"The musical encourages youth to be active in politics, there's themes of love that are relevant today!" said Caroline Orejuela, 18, who plays the female lead of Sheila. She is attending the University of the Arts in Philadelphia, Pa. in the fall.

Upcoming show dates are Aug. 11, and 12 at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $14 per person and can be purchased from Parks and Recreation's offices at 262 Cedar Lane or by calling 703-255-6360.
