A Display of Sophistication and Maturity

Hayfield Secondary School presents musical "Rent."

BY VANESSA RIVERA
OAKTON HIGH SCHOOL

A year in the life of friends may be measured in daylights, sunsets, and cups of coffee, but the talent and dedication seen in Hayfield Secondary School's production of "Rent" was immeasurable.

Based on Giacomo Puccini's opera "La Boheme," "Rent" is a rock musical with book, music, and lyrics by Jonathan Larson. Premiering in 1996 in the New York Theatre Workshop, "Rent" went on to Broadway in the same year. After 5,123 performances over the span of 12 years, "Rent" closed in 2008.

The story starts on Christmas Eve with Mark Cohen, a struggling filmmaker, as he documents life on Avenue B with his roommate, Roger Davis. Mark, dealing with a recent breakup, and Roger, coming to terms with his recently diagnosed HIV, face eviction. As the two seek meaning in life, they struggle, alongside their friends, with emotion, devotion, and causing a commotion.

Roger, played by Jackson Miller, and Mimi played by Trish Hoang, lit a spark in their duet "Light My Candle." Jackson Miller, a standout actor, ensured every song was a "one song glory" with his vocal expertise. Mark (Corbin Farrell) and Joanne (Hallie Strelesky) maintained a spiteful yet good-natured chemistry, evident during "Tango: Maureen." As the two bonded over the unfaithful Maureen, they tangoed cleanly. Shannon Flack reached for the stars, and then jumped over the moon, in her role as Maureen. She brought an irreplaceable energy as she pouted playfully or protested dramatically.

A true light of the cast, Max von Kolnitz, played the lovable and bright character of Angel. Max executed high energy twirls, impressive vocals, and poise to bring the drag queen role to life. The rela

‘A Disaster for Northern Virginia’

Connolly holds roundtable on congressional tax plan.

BY ANDREA WORKER

U.S. Rep. Gerry Connolly (D-11) says that he and his Democratic colleagues are more than willing to work in a bipartisan effort on meaningful tax form. “As a leader of the New Democrat Coalition, a group of pro-business Democrats, I have written on several occasions to Speaker Paul Ryan and Ways and Means Chairman Kevin Brady asking them to partner with us ... to simplify the tax code, create revenue ... and provide middle class tax relief.”

Speaking at a roundtable gathering that the congressman hosted at the offices of the Northern Virginia Association of Realtors (NVAR) on Monday, Nov. 13, to discuss the consequences of the GOP tax plans, Connolly says those overtures have been rejected.

“Congress had a real opportunity to pursue neutral tax reform that would lower corporate tax rates and benefit the middle class,” Connolly expressed “deep disappointment” at the House and Senate bills being proposed, categorizing both as “shameful, corporate giveaways” that will have unprecedented and far-reaching negative effects on Northern Virginia, the Commonwealth of Virginia, and the nation.

Connolly reported that by using “dynamic scoring” — a method of analysis that includes the potential feedback effect certain tax cuts can have, and that he said Republicans often advocate “because it provides more generous deficit projections for tax cuts” — the proposals actually increase the country’s deficit to $1.5 trillion over 10 years, “and somebody has to pay that bill.”

An assessment of the tax plans by Congress’ nonpartisan Joint Taxation Committee released on Monday, Nov. 20, seems to support the congressman’s concerns. The committee’s analysis projects that some 13.8 million moderate-income American households would actually see a tax increase as a result of the Senate plan by 2019. Households earning less than $200,000 per year would face increases of $100 to $500. The tax liability rises even more for earners between $75,000 and $200,000. According to the analysis, tax increases would be felt by 21.4 million households by the year 2025.

Connolly likened the plans to previously failed “trickle-down” attempts at tax reform and economic stimulus.

“1981, 2001, 2003. The Reagan and Bush tax cuts. So disastrous that they had to enact tax increases in 1982, 1983, 1984, 1987 and 1990” to raise the needed funds. “Then in the early 2000s, President George W.

U.S. Rep. Gerry Connolly (D-11) meets with local leaders to discuss the consequences of the proposed Senate and House GOP Tax Reform Bills. Connolly admitted from the start that he wasn’t there to “sing their praises.”

Bob Adamson, chairman of the board of the Northern Virginia Association of Realtors, views the proposed legislation as “unfair to homeowners,” and that they will have a negative “ripple effect” on the local economy and residents of the community.

Bush took the record surpluses of the Clinton era and created record deficits.” Connolly added that the trickle-down theory is based on “the hope and the prayer that such tax cuts will someday pay for themselves,” but that history has already proven “that assumption to be false.”

TO DISCUSS THE IMPACT of the proposed legislation on the Northern Virginia region, Connolly convened a group of local business leaders, economists and financial experts, as well as participants representing social service providers, persons with long-term medical and care needs, economists, parents of students with significant student debt, and seniors.

Connolly set the stage for the discussion with a few more facts and figures, although he cautioned that “we still haven’t seen the whole of either proposed legislation.”

* The plans either repeal or limit several tax breaks that are crucial to Northern Virginians, including medical and dental expense deductions, premiums for long-term care insurance, in-home and nursing home care, and mortgage interest deductions.

* The state and local income tax (SALT) deductions would be limited or even repealed. In Connolly’s 11th District, 50 percent of tax filers claim the SALT deduction, with 75 percent of the claimants being in middle income tax brackets. The number of SALT claimants throughout Fairfax County is as high as 280,000 households.

* The plans call for the repeal of Estate Tax, which only applies to about the wealthiest 5,000 decedents each year, while cutting adoption tax credits and credits for small businesses that invest in accessibility improvements for persons with disabilities.

* According to the Tax Policy Center, after-tax income for the top 1 percent of earners would rise by about 2.6 percent by 2027, while those at the bottom 80 percent would see after-tax increase of between 0.0 percent and 0.6 percent.

After Connolly’s remarks, Bob Adamson, chairman of the board of the Northern Virginia Association of Realtors, was the first of the gathering to offer comments.

Representing some 12,000 Realtors in the region, Adamson stated that the NVAR “wants to be part of the solution,” but finds the proposed legislation to be “unfair to homeowners,” disproportionately placing the burden of “filling in the financial gaps” directly on them.

NVAR Chair-elect Lorraine Arora agreed, adding that “real estate bolsters the economy” with so many related jobs and services, and that any plan that suppresses home buying will cause a “ripple effect of harm.”

The Realtors at the table also worried that the proposed tax reform will actually lower existing house values. NVAR CEO Ryan Conrad said that in the NoVa region, that decrease could be as much as $30,000 lost in home equity.

ADDITIONALLY, THE REALTORS foresee a decrease in housing stock that is already an issue, and even see Fairfax County’s successes toward ending and preventing homelessness, slip into reverse, as developers are less able than ever to profitably build affordable housing.

Continuing the “ripple effect” theme, JoAnne Carter, managing director of PFM Financial Advisors, LLC, said that the proposals threaten the means by which municipalities, nonprofits and other businesses fund their services and investments in improvements and expansion.

“Eliminating Private Activity Bonds and causing cuts to ‘advance refinancing,’” said Carter is severely hampering the ability to finance the basics, like “schools, roads, hospitals, transportation, airports, sea ports, all of it.” That in turn “increases the burden on the counties,” said Adamson, while potentially depleting their main source of revenue. For municipalities like Fairfax County, that are, in essence, only able to raise funds through property taxation, the choices are dauntingly few. Either raise those taxes significantly, or reduce expenditure on infrastructure and public and social services.

“And if we damage our AAA Bond rating,” added Carter, “it costs more for these municipalities and service providers to borrow.” According to Carter, Fairfax County could save between $3-12 million when re-financing with a Triple A Bond rating. “Losing that could mean that public structures just don’t get built.”

Nancy Mercer, a licensed clinical social worker and the former executive director of the ARC of Northern Virginia, and Ridge Multop, an economist, former AARP Congressional Affairs and former House Budget Committee staffer, both discussed the impact the proposed tax bills could have on seniors, those with long-term care and/or medical issues, and those most in need and most vulnerable in the community.

Multop “put a face” on the discussion, speaking about an economist friend. “He’s 85 years old, on a fixed income, in assisted living. He looked at how these bills would impact him based on his 2016 tax filing and said it would raise his taxes by more than $3,000. How do people like him cope with that?”

Eliminating tax deductions for medical expenses and long-term care would be harmful to seniors, Multop said, possibly forcing more into custodial care and placing an additional burden on municipalities and nonprofits. “We are cutting our social safety network, one strand at a time,” said

Shop Locally, Give Locally

Every day is for shopping small and shopping locally.

An effort to support locally owned businesses has resulted in the recognition of Small Business Saturday, the Saturday after Thanksgiving. This year that is Nov. 25. Black Friday, the day after Thanksgiving, is promoted as a day of national zeal for shopping. Presumably the next day shoppers can focus on local shopping.

EDITORIAL There is a joy to shopping in local stores at the holidays, to walking along a sidewalk with the streets decked out for the holidays, to being greeted by someone likely to be the owner of the store, to finding gifts that are not mass-produced.

We all benefit when local stores thrive, when local business districts beckon.

Locally owned retail shops, services, restaurants depend on vibrant local communities to thrive. Most small, locally owned businesses invest in community, helping to transform our towns and communities with a sense of place.

Supporting small businesses, locally owned businesses, has to be more than a one-day affair. And in this area, there doesn't have to be anything small about shopping locally.

But still, local families will shop and exchange gifts during the next month, spending tens of millions of dollars in a variety of places.

One way to be sure holiday shopping comes with some holiday spirit is to do a portion of your shopping in some of the area's locally owned stores. There is special holiday ambiance available by shopping in the heart of a town that is decked out for the season. Small retail shops are part of defining any community. Their livelihood depends on the livability and quality of the neighborhoods around them. A small business owner pays attention to every detail in his or her business in a way that no chain can.

The small business owner is often the leader for fundraising for local charities, for fire and rescue service, for local schools and in organizing holiday events.

Local shoppers should be sure to save some shopping time and dollars for local stores. Spend some time shopping in your own community, and also plan an excursion to a nearby town to check out the holiday spirit there.

Short Deadline for Children's Edition

During the last week of each year, this newspaper devotes its pages to the creativity of local students and children. The results are always remarkable. It is a keepsake edition for many families. Even readers without children of that age spend time admiring and chuckling over the issue. The annual Children's Connection (including Children's Gazette, Children's Almanac and Children's Centre View) is a tradition of well over a decade.

We publish artwork, poetry, essays, creative writing, opinion pieces, short stories, photography, photos of sculpture or other creative efforts.

We ask that all submissions be digital so they can be sent via email, dropbox or google drive or delivered on CD or flash drive. Writing should be submitted in rich text format (.rtf). Artwork should be photographed or scanned and provided in jpeg format.

We welcome contributions from public and private schools, individuals and homeschoolers. To be published, we must have first and last name of the student. Please include the student's age and/or grade, school attended and town of residence, plus the name of the school, name of teacher and town of school location. Provide submissions by Friday, Dec. 1.

Email submissions for the Children's Edition to the following editors:

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Focus on Community Policing, Positive Outreach

To the Editor:

In response to: www.connectionnewspapers.com/news/2017/nov/08/commentary-independent-progressive-doublespeak-imm/

Fairfax County police officers do not conduct immigration enforcement sweeps or stop individuals solely to inquire about immigration status. Fairfax County police officers follow General Order 601 and cannot arrest someone unless there is reasonable suspicion that a crime was committed or is being committed.

Operation and policy decisions regarding the Fairfax County Adult Detention Center fall under the authority of the Sheriff, an elected constitutional officer, independent of the Board of Supervisors. Per Code of Virginia 19.2-83.2, when individuals are arrested and booked into the Fairfax County Adult Detention Center, their computerized fingerprints are automatically transmitted to the Virginia State Police's Automated Fingerprint Identification System (AFIS), regardless of their immigration status. The Virginia State Police forwards the information to other state and federal databases per their guidelines. From there, it is up to ICE to determine who is a priority for deportation. Before 2016, ICE operated under the Priority Enforcement Program and focused its efforts on deporting undocumented immigrants with serious criminal records. Under the Trump Administration, the Priority Enforcement Program no longer exists, and any immigrant who is in the country illegally may be selected by ICE for deportation.

If ICE places an arrest warrant and an order to detain on an inmate in the Fairfax County Adult Detention Center, the Sheriff's Office will hold that inmate for up to 48 hours (not counting weekends and holidays) past his or her scheduled release date. If ICE does not take custody of the inmate within that time frame, the inmate will be released.

The Board of Supervisors, the Police Department, the Sheriff's Office and all Fairfax County government agencies comply with state and federal laws, and immigration is a federal matter. Any changes regarding deportations or the focus and direction of ICE must come from the federal level. On the local level, we continue to focus on community policing through positive outreach and building trust with the residents we serve. All residents of Fairfax County should know that Fairfax County police officers are here to protect and serve any and all community members, regardless of citizenship. No person should be afraid to call the police out of fear of deportation — our police officers are not in that business.

Board of Supervisors

COMMENTARY

Election Day Earthquake Brings Possible Policy Shifts

BY SCOTT SUROVELL
STATE SENATOR (D-36)

Election Day was an electoral earthquake in Virginia politics. Fourteen seats in the House of Delegates switched from Republican to Democratic members — the largest switch since 1899. Two have not yet been certified due to irregularities and three are heading to recounts. We do not know if any party will control the House and probably will not know until late in the day on the first day of session after the dust has settled.

While the new situation in the House of Delegates will create some uncertainty over the next 50 days, it will create some opportunities in Virginia public policy, but not a wholesale change of direction. The Senate of Virginia is still controlled by the Republican Party and most major committees have significant partisan majorities.

Notwithstanding, I am hopeful that in the short-term, we might see some changes in three areas: Medicaid Expansion, Criminal Justice Reform, and Nonpartisan Redistricting.

MEDICAID EXPANSION

First, Virginia has foregone billions of dollars over the last several years due to our failure to expand Medicaid. In addition to billions of dollars, we have 30,000 new jobs per year and approximately $200 million per year in savings to Virginia taxpayers.

Today, nearly 36,000 residents of the 36th District receive their healthcare from Medicaid, including 24,000 children. This means there are likely over 20,000 adults right here within minutes of your home who would receive healthcare if Virginia had taken action.

The new margins in the House of Delegates make movement much more likely, but not without some changes in our existing program. In 1985, Medicaid consumed 6 percent of Virginia's General Fund Budget — today, that number has grown to 23 percent and that is before the coming tsunami of baby boomer retirement home admissions. We need to bend the Medicaid cost curve, but I am hopeful that we are nearing the end of irrationally refusing federal help to get healthcare to hundreds of thousands of needy Virginians.

CRIMINAL JUSTICE REFORM

Second, Virginia's residents and jails continue to be burdened by an overly punitive criminal justice system which over felonizes conduct and clings on to antiquated trial practices. Virginia's $200 threshold between misdemeanors and felonies is the lowest in the United States of America and has not been adjusted since 1981. I will introduce legislation to raise this to $500 and remain the lowest in the United States for the ninth time. Similar legislation has passed the Senate and died in the House five times. Hopefully, no longer.

Also, accused persons in Virginia have extremely limited discovery rights in criminal trials. Legislation to bring Virginia's criminal discovery rules up to modern standards has also passed the Senate and died in the House. This year should be different.

NON-PARTISAN REDISTRICTING

Third, the close margins in the Senate and House of Delegates may finally make it possible to move nonpartisan redistricting legislation through the General Assembly. Computer enabled partisan redistricting lies at the root of many political problems in our country. Non-partisan redistricting constitutional amendments have passed the State Senate twice, but normally die in committee in the House. I am hopeful that the new situation in Richmond will move the discussion forward.

I am putting together the 36th District legislative agenda over the next month. Please send me your legislative ideas and feedback on structuring our $100 billion budget over the next two years.

It is an honor to serve as your state senator. Please contact me at scott@scottsurowell.org if you have any thoughts.

tionship of Angel (von Kolnitz) and Tom Collins (Marek Brown) proved captivating and caring. No matter where the scene's focus was, Angel and Collins held hands and shared loving glances. After Angel's tragic passing in Act Two, Marek Brown notably used visual expressions to transition from calm to heartbroken.

Beautifully professional, the set immaculately encompassed New York "at the end of the millennium." A telephone booth, a harvest moon, and old rock and roll posters adorned the set's levels and scaffolding. Stacked televisions played clips of the friends laughing together, bringing a creative touch to the show. Overall, space was greatly used, and complemented by lighting. When Angel flounced on stage, Christmas lights glittered to match his energy. In addition, blackouts and crisp lights helped introduce memorable moments, such as the dazzling snowfall during "Christmas Bells."

Perhaps most impressive of Hayfield's production of "Rent" was the sophistication and maturity each cast member displayed, which can often be a challenge for the themes portrayed in the script. The entire ensemble came together and connected, building an honest and genuine show, indisputably throughout the knockout number "Seasons of Love."

The musical "Rent" sends the message to remember love, and you'll have no trouble remembering Hayfield Secondary School's production.

"The Fairfax is like a cruise ship."

—Colonel Philip (Phil) J. Saulnier, USA, Retired and Judith (Judy) Saulnier, Residents at The Fairfax for 3.5 Years

"There are many reasons that we moved to The Fairfax. The beautiful and spacious grounds, the activities, medical care, not having to cook anymore... The Fairfax is like a cruise ship—you have everything available to you. Most important was the true financial value of the LifeCare program as well as the potential tax advantages available to us. It was the smartest lifestyle and financial decision we ever made."

Ring in the Holidays with 'Peekaboo! A Nativity Play'

Fairfax's Hub Theatre brings cheerful musical for Christmas season.

By DAVID SIEGEL
THE CONNECTION

Local playwright Anne M. McCaw has created her own cheerful, musical vision for the Christmas season. It is a contemporary retelling of the Biblical Nativity story titled "Peekaboo! A Nativity Play." The play is having its world premiere at the Hub Theatre

"Peekaboo! A Nativity Play" is hilarious and also honest and heartfelt," said Hub artistic director Helen Murray. "The Hub is producing the show because it is everything Hub is about – hope, love, family, music, comedy and magical moments.

"I want people to feel closer to each other when they walk away from Peekaboo!. I want them to hold their families and friends close, to celebrate the season, and to be filled with hope," added Murray, who is also directing "Peekaboo! A Nativity Play."

With its focus on how to protect a newborn the whole world has been pinning its hopes on, "Peekaboo! A Nativity Play" follows the Bible quite closely in its modernized comic tale with music under the direction of Jonatan Feuer. A diverse ensemble will portray Mary, Joseph, the Angel Gabriel, Herod and the Wise Men.

Hub veteran Katie Jeffries Zelonka plays Mary. "The opportunity to retell the Christmas story in a way that is fresh, funny, but still carrying a powerful message of hope is very appealing to me.

"Mary is a determined, resourceful, funny, hopeful girl with your typical teenaged flair for the dramatic and a bit of a temper," added Zelonka.

Katie Jeffries Zelonka as Mary and Anderson Wells as Gabriel in "Peekaboo! A Nativity Play."

"At the core of it all, she has a big heart and loves completely, which is the driving force behind most of her actions."

"We know the story and the characters of the Nativity. Or do we?" asked Jacob Yeh, who portrays Herod. "Have we really ever stepped into the shoes of Mary, Joseph, or Gabriel? What about the drummer boy? How would they tell or even sing the story of what happened?"

When asked about the Herod character, Yeh described him as "a loud, despot, boorish, vain, misogynistic man who sends his goonish sons to do the dirty work in his desperate attempt to hold on to power."

"Peekaboo! A Nativity Play" is for those especially interested in "a new perspective on the Nativity story without compromising the beauty of the story of Christmas," said Murray. "It will kindle the sense of hope and wonder of Christmas." And jolliness is included.

Santa's Schedule

Santa will be at the Town Center full time for the next few weeks. For the last week of November, here is Santa's schedule:

- ❖ Thursday, Nov. 23, 6 a.m.-midnight
- ❖ Friday, Nov. 24, 6 a.m.-10 p.m.
- ❖ Saturday, Nov. 25, 8 a.m.-10 p.m.
- ❖ Sunday, Nov. 26, 10 a.m.-8 p.m.
- ❖ Monday, Nov. 27, 10 a.m.-9:30 p.m.
- ❖ Tuesday, Nov. 28, 10 a.m.-9:30 p.m.
- ❖ Wednesday, Nov. 29, 10 a.m.-9:30 p.m.
- ❖ Thursday, Nov. 30, 10 a.m.-9:30 p.m.

Up on Santa's lap, the pressure is on and sometimes no words come out, but Santa knows somehow. That's what happened with Liam Dallavale, 2, of Springfield who is a fan of trains, and his mother Amanda looked on it as another type of accomplishment. "He didn't cry," she said.

That was the scene at Springfield Town Center on Saturday, Nov. 18 when their Santa, a veteran of 13 years as a Santa, and three years at the Town Center, took to his chair. In a matter of minutes, the line wrapped around the center plaza, while country musicians Sandra Lee and Rebecca Magnuson manned guitars on stage. "It's our official opening for the holidays," said Kimberly Baldy, the town center marketing coordinator. There will be events all through the month until Christmas, such as the PREIT Perks event next weekend with free valet and free gift wrapping for members.

Liam Dallavale, 2, of Springfield, braved it out on Santa's lap with parents Amanda and Joe looking on.

It's a little bit country from Sandra Lee and Rebecca Magnuson, singer-songwriters from Nashville.

Roundtable

Mercer.

Multop donned his economist's hat once more to also note that so far he had heard no mention from the GOP plan makers of the debt service on the increasing deficit. "That's another $200 billion in interest costs that I don't hear them having accounted for." Multop's concern is that Medicaid, Medicare and Social Security benefits will become the targets to shore up the financial levee in the wake of these tax cuts and the domino effect of their implementation.

Another personalized example of the the proposed reforms was offered by attendee Edythe Kelleher. The executive director of Southeast Fairfax Development Corporation, Kelleher could have spoken about impacts to development in that region, but instead, told how cuts to student loan interest deductions and a proposal to tax teacher's assistant stipends would affect her graduate-school son.

"He works, he goes to school, he lives frugally. We provided him with a cheap car." Kelleher says that if a tax on the modest teacher's assistant stipend is adopted, "that's $6,000 more each year, and he doesn't know where that money will come from."

Connolly responded to this story by saying the need to educate for competitiveness in the world's marketplace is greater than ever. The congressman said that making getting an education even more difficult means "some will have to leave school. That's hardly 'making America great again.'"

As the session came to a close, NVAR CEO Conrad asked Connolly, "What's your advice? What do we do next?"

In addition to the rally call to NVAR membership and AARP members, Connolly replied, "Run, don't walk and immediately express your concerns to your representatives" at every level of government, and "tell everyone you know. This plan does not reflect our values and priorities. We can and should do better than this."

SCHOOL NOTES

Send notes to the Connection at south@connectionnewspapers.com or call 703-778-9416. Deadline is Friday. Dated announcements should be submitted at least two weeks prior to the event.

Welcome to the Club

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

"Some club," as my late mother would likely scoff. And the club to which I refer is, to spin an old Groucho Marx joke: a club you'd rather not join especially if they'd have you as a member. This is of course, the cancer club, a club whose membership continues to grow despite worldwide efforts to the contrary. According to Medscape.com, one in two men and one in three women will be affected by cancer in their lifetime. Hardly a statistic to be ignored. And so, even though I had a rather uneventful/healthy upbringing and further on into adulthood, in late middle age, 54 and five months, Feb. 27, 2009, I was impacted and rudely awakened with a non-small cell lung cancer, stage IV diagnosis – out of the blue, and given a "13 month to two-year" prognosis to boot. As a life long non-smoker with no immediate family history of cancer, whose parents both lived well into their 80s, I was more inclined to worry about the Boston Red Sox pitching depth than I was about cancer.

But cancer, for the past nearly nine years has been my life and amazingly, so far anyway, not the cause of my premature death (what death isn't 'premature?'). And what brightens my day and lifts my spirits more than anything else (other than a Red Sox World Series Championship) is when I meet a newly-diagnosed lung cancer patient who exhibits the can/will do positive-type attitude necessary to endure the inevitable ups and downs to follow. To be selfish, it empowers me and strengthens my own resolve to live life to the fullest (it's not as simple as saying it) and damn the torpedoes.

Within the last few months, I have met, over the phone, two such individuals. The first man, Lee, I met before he even had his first infusion. The second man, Mark, a bit more experienced, I met a year and a half after his first infusion. Each man was engaging, outgoing, confident, enthusiastic and quite frankly, happy to make my acquaintance. You see, after being given a less-than-desirable prognosis, it's helpful to meet someone who, despite having received a similar diagnosis, has nevertheless managed to live almost nine years post diagnosis. (If he can do it, I can do it kind of feeling.)

As for me, the nearly nine-year survivor, meeting cancer patients who are at the beginning of their respective cancer journeys, helps me to reconnect with my roots, so to speak, and share and share alike some memorable experiences, both cancer-related and not. In a way, we get to live vicariously through one another which for me reinforces how lucky I've been to survive for as long as I have.

And not that I need reminding, but it's easy to take for granted one's good fortune and forget – occasionally, the seriousness of my situation and the cloud that hangs over my head. The sword of Damocles has got nothing on me, literally or figuratively. Living with cancer is akin to nothing really. The chance that you'll survive beyond your prognosis, maybe even have your tumors shrink, or see your scans show "no evidence of disease," creates a kind of tease that cause your emotions to run the gamut. The possibility of living after being told you're dying – and vice versa, perhaps more than once, over your abbreviated – or not, life expectancy, is simply too much to handle/absorb sometimes. It's a roller coaster for sure, but one that rarely comes to a complete stop and never allows you to get off. Moreover, it's not multiple rides, it's one long, endless ride with no guarantees about what happens next – or where it even happens.

Meeting people who are ready, willing and able to confront their cancer future is just as important and stimulating as meeting someone like me who hasn't succumbed to this terrible disease. It's a win-win situation. Particularly significant when at date of diagnosis, it appeared to be a lose-lose. I'm proud to be a member of the cancer club, especially so when I meet people like Lee and Mark.
