A Year in Review: 2017 in Dranesville

Supervisor reflects on major developments this year.

BY SUPERVISOR JOHN FOUST
(D-Dranesville)

The Board of Supervisors faced challenges to adopt a budget for FY 2018 that provided adequate funding for essential services including education, public safety and human services while controlling the tax burden on homeowners. After a number of public meetings and hearings, the Board adopted a budget that kept the tax rate the same as in FY 2017 but increased the amount of money transferred to the public school system. Nearly 53 percent of the County's General Fund or $2.17 billion is going to our excellent schools.

DIVERSION FIRST

The Board budgeted just under $2 million and 18 new positions to support the second year of the County's successful Diversion First initiative. The Diversion First program offers alternatives to incarceration for people with mental illness or developmental disabilities who come into contact with the criminal justice system for low-level offenses. The goal is to intercede whenever possible to provide assessment, treatment or needed supports. People needing diversion may also have a substance use disorder, which often co-occurs with mental illness. Diversion First is designed to prevent repeat encounters with the criminal justice system, improve public safety, promote a healthier community, and is a more cost-effective and efficient use of public funding.

ECONOMIC SUCCESS IN THE COUNTY

In the challenging and changing economic climate and changing demographics of this century, Fairfax County cannot rest on its previous achievements. The Board's vision is a community where businesses, residents and employees of a variety of ages, abilities and experiences want to live, work, play, learn and thrive. To foster that vision, the Board adopted The Strategic Plan to Facilitate the Economic Success of Fairfax County in 2015.

The plan, prepared by the 50-member, board-appointed Economic Advisory Commission, of which I serve as chairman, contained an economic roadmap of over 90 recommendations to help the County expand and diversify the economy. While the Plan includes some policies and action steps already in place, it also offered many new ideas and actions. Since the adoption of the plan, County staff has used it as a framework and guide for implementing the Board's adopted initiatives and policy directives.

An update on the plan delivered to the Board in the fall of 2017 lists several accomplishments that relate directly to the Plan's goals such as: the creation of the Economic Development Success Fund that allows the County to make strategic investments in opportunities that stimulate economic growth; the approval of an application by Capital One to add a performing arts center, parks and a Wegmans grocery store in Tysons; the opening of the seventh craft brewery in the County; and the development by County staff of an interactive tool that provides transportation options and resources specific to an address for older adults and individuals with disabilities.

ONE FAIRFAX

In November, the Board of Supervisors and the School Board adopted a social and racial equity policy that commits the County and schools to consider equity when making decisions or developing/delivering programs or services. One Fairfax offers a "lens" for the County and schools to look intentionally, comprehensively and systematically at barriers that may be creating gaps in opportunity.

The One Fairfax policy identifies 17 areas of focus to promote equity including community and economic development, housing, education, environment, and transportation. The commitment to the One Fairfax policy not only is the right thing to do — but it also recognizes that equity is an economic imperative to help every resident thrive.

POLICE CIVILIAN REVIEW PANEL

Early in 2017, the Board of Supervisors established the Police Civilian Review Panel. This was a major step to further promote transparency and openness in community policing. The Civilian Review Panel has the authority to request and review completed Police Department internal administrative investigations regarding a civilian complaint against an officer.

The panel holds public meetings to review police administrative investigations and walk through with members of the community how the investigation was conducted, including findings of fact, evidence collected and witness statements. The Civilian Review Panel was one key recommendation of the Ad Hoc Police Commission, which delivered 202 recommendations to the Board of Supervisors in November 2015.

Tysons Corner ice skating attracts people from all over the area.

Saturday Dec. 16, the ice skating rink at Tysons Corner Center in the outdoor bridge area by Lord and Taylor and Shake Shack was buzzing with ice-skaters of all ages and skill levels. This is the fifth year that the rink has been in operation at Tysons Corner, adding a holiday feel to the shopping mall.

Amir Sefat, manager on duty Saturday, and George Mason University senior enjoys working at the ice skating rink because he plays hockey.

"It beats being inside and working in the mall all holiday season," said Sefat. "This ice skating rink is unique because it's a frozen outdoor pond on a bridge in a plaza. There's a lot more that goes into it than meets the eye," said Sefat.

According to Sefat, the rink took a few months to set up because of cooling pipes under the ice which help to keep the rink frozen even during warmer weather. The rink was finished and opened to skaters on Nov. 27 this year.

Skaters struggle for balance at the ice skating rink at Tysons Corner Center on Saturday, Dec. 16.

"Ice skating is different from the regular ground, you have freedom and it feels like you are flying," said Sefat. "The reception has been outstanding this year. We have had a lot of people, grandparents and kids as well. We even had to get special tiny size shoes for little ones," said Sefat.

The ice skating rink also boasts a Barrel and Bushel restaurant which serves food and a full bar for relaxing before or after ice skating.

Skate hosts in red jackets also patrol the ice helping those who have slipped and fallen. "I make sure all of their shoes are tied and if they've fallen that they're alright," said Alejandro Catacora, 16, sophomore at Albert Einstein High School.

Rennie Zhang and Michelle Li of Tysons Corner, were enjoying the ice skating rink between shopping at the mall.

"It's my first time and it's interesting so far. It's not as scary as I thought and a lot of fun and I'm really enjoying it!" said Li.

Emerald Mathis, 17, homeschooled from Reston, was also working as a skate host Saturday. Between polishing the glass on the edge of the rink, he commented on what it's like to work at an ice skating rink during the holiday season.

"I wanted to work here last year," said Mathis. "As a skate host, people are going to fall, but it's about making sure that they get up OK!" he said.

Jeff Funderburg, of Sterling, who works in information technology, and Heather Munsey of Roanoke, who works in insurance, were enjoying the ice skating rink at Tysons Corner Center on Saturday, Dec. 16.

TYSONS-PIMMIT REGIONAL LIBRARY RENOVATED

As of October, residents were treated to a beautifully renovated Tysons-Pimmit Regional Library. The extensive renovation was funded by the 2012 bond referendum. It included new exterior and interior design features, upgrades to building systems, energy efficiency improvements (the project is registered with the certification goal of LEED silver) and upgrades to power and technology options, including more public access computers and wireless networking. The library had been operating in temporary space since 2016.

STORMWATER IMPROVEMENTS IN FRANKLIN PARK, CHESTERBROOK

Infill developments can put additional strain on existing drainage and stormwater infrastructure. For a number of years, my office has been working with County staff to address these issues and 2017 marked the completion of the Franklin Park and Chesterbrook Neighborhood Stormwater Improvement Project, which provided for the restoration of approximately 3,000 linear feet of green infrastructure type stormwater improvements. The primary goals of this project were to retrofit the site to provide improved water quality, to reduce localized flooding, and to improve stormwater flow.

TRANSPORTATION AND PEDESTRIAN IMPROVEMENTS

❖ Route 7 Widening – Full Funding and Board of Supervisors Endorsement

One of my major priorities for many years has been the expansion of Route 7 west from Tysons. In June, the Board of Supervisors endorsed VDOT's design plans for widening 6.9 miles of Route 7 from four to six lanes between Jarrett Valley Drive and Reston Avenue. The project will include intersection improvements and shared use paths on both sides of the road. When completed, this project will significantly reduce the congestion on one of our most traveled highways. Contract award is expected in early 2018.

❖ Pedestrian Improvement Projects —

Two pedestrian improvement projects were completed in Dranesville this year, and many more are in design or construction. In June, a project to install a signalized pedestrian crosswalk at the intersection of Leesburg Pike and Colvin Run Road was completed. In McLean, a project to improve and upgrade the pedestrian facilities to current Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) standards at the intersection of Old Dominion Drive, Linway Terrace, and Birch Road was completed in August. Pedestrian accessibility is a major priority for me; these projects are great steps toward that goal.

Construction on the Jones Branch Connector, which will provide an important new link to Route 123 over the Beltway for commuters and visitors to Tysons, began earlier this year. The half-mile project includes new roadway from the interchange of the I-495 Express Lanes and Jones Branch Drive to Scotts Crossing Road in addition to other improvements. Fairfax County led design and development for the project, while VDOT is administering the construction. By providing an alternate route across the Beltway and linking the Tysons East and Central areas, the Jones Branch Connector is expected to relieve traffic along Route 123, at the I-495 interchange, and other intersections.

OPINION

Merry Christmas

Whether you believe the Christmas story literally or in spirit, you know it is the story of joy, hope and love, with the promise of redemption.

The pages of the Connection Newspapers (including the Alexandria Gazette Packet, the Mount Vernon Gazette, the Potomac Almanac and the Centre View) have been full of holiday spirit beginning before Thanksgiving. Group and individual efforts to help the needy, holiday parades, Santa arriving by boat, Santa arriving by horse-drawn carriage, Santa arriving at the Malls, tree lightings, Menorah lightings, stories of giving, secular celebrations, religious celebrations. Shopping locally. Giving locally.

Christmas is about the birth of Jesus Christ. Whether you believe the Christmas story literally or in spirit, you know it is the story of joy, hope and love, with the promise of redemption.

It is also about embracing the teachings of Jesus: to love thy neighbor as thyself; to help the needy; to feed the hungry and clothe the poor; to care for those who are sick; to invite and welcome strangers; to treat others as you would have them treat you.

Matthew 7:12:

“So in everything, do to others what you would have them do to you, for this sums up the Law and the Prophets.”

Matthew 25:35-40:

“For I was hungry and you gave me something to eat, I was thirsty and you gave me something to drink, I was a stranger and you invited me in, I needed clothes and you clothed me, I was sick and you looked after me, I was in prison and you came to visit me.”

“Then the righteous will answer him, ‘Lord, when did we see you hungry and feed you, or thirsty and give you something to drink? When did we see you a stranger and invite you in, or needing clothes and clothe you? When did we see you sick or in prison and go to visit you?’

“Truly I tell you, whatever you did for one of the least of these brothers and sisters of mine, you did for me.”

SO LET US SHARE the verse relating the birth of Jesus from the Bible, Luke 2: 4-19:

“And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judaea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem; (because he was of the house and lineage of David:) To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child. And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered. And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

“And there were in the same country, shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the “Truly I tell you, whatever you did for one of the least of these brothers and sisters of mine, you did for me.”

Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

“For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

“And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

“And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us. And they came with haste, and found Mary, and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger. And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child. And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds.”

Taking Exception on Tax Reform

To the Editor:

(Regarding 'Federal Tax Reform. Bad for Fairfax,' Connection, Dec. 13, 2017)

Interesting article! However, I must take exception with the conclusion as presented by our local representatives. Capping the state and local write-offs will help to ensure that the local property taxes will slow their continued increases above a reasonable deduction against your federal income tax.

Maybe, just maybe once the local deductions are capped at 10K our local elected officials will stop or slow their tax and spend policies. Once the tax paying property owners find that their outrageous property taxes are not deductible they just might start questioning the out of control spending by our local Fairfax county representatives and maybe think of electing different representatives.

One can only hope that this tax bill passes and a capped of 10K is placed on local deductions. It is really time to bite the bullet and focus on spending.

The Other Side of Gun Ownership

To the Editor:

Reporting part of the story (Letters, "Armed as for a war zone," Connection, Dec. 13) can be more misleading than reporting none. Here's what some don't want you to know: If you're not involved with drugs or gangs, the probability that you'll be the victim of violent crime in the U.S. drops to the same levels as those in Western European nations with the most restrictive gun regulations in the world. Attributing differences in homicide rates to gun ownership rates, without a hint of empirical support, is deceptive and irresponsible.

Also, overall homicide rates in

Parking Comes in Various Forms for Holiday Shoppers

Focusing on convenience and security.

BY MIKE SALMON
THE CONNECTION

Parking at the shopping mall can be challenging at any time of the year, but during the holiday season, it takes time and a certain amount of work to find a good spot. There are lots of cars, new rules and entrances, so forgetting where the car is happens more than once.

At Tysons, there are 11,500 parking spaces, divided between a few multi-level parking garages and open air lots. The valet parking specialist at the valet lot right outside Nordstroms can't keep tabs on everyone, so he focuses on the clients that pay the $10 Holiday Parking special to use his lot. "They keep asking me, they don't know where they parked," he said.

Diane Peratt came in from Leesburg and didn't balk at the $10 special. "I'm very short on time," she said, as she looked around at the big roped off area that was empty on a Wednesday afternoon. "I'm glad they have this option, this number of spots is a bit much," she added.

Over at Springfield Town Center, the number of shoppers waxes and wanes during the week, but the weekends are big, said Hayden Basse, a college student that operates the valet stand at Springfield. On one evening shift in early December, he parked 75 cars in either the 15 spots up front or the auxiliary lot that is off along Loisdale Road. "You get a lot of families, especially in colder weather," Basse said.

Joshua and Jessica Ball are new to the area, but have been to Springfield Town Center a few times. "It's a nightmare on Fridays and Saturdays," Joshua Ball said. Parking on the weekends craziness is no secret, but Basse is happy to help out, saying: "Our job is to provide convenient parking to the mall and restaurants," he said. Basse gets the shopper's cell phone number upon arrival, enters it in his iPad and when the customers are ready, a signal is sent and Basse retrieves their car. "Makes it super quick," he said.

Valet spots are $6 at the Springfield Town Center and $7 at Tysons Corner, but in the Nordstroms lot, the $10 Holiday Parking Special includes money-saving coupons.

Nordstrom employee Christina Curtis never has a problem even in the holiday season. "There's plenty of spaces, eventually you do find a parking space," she said, but has seen the shoppers that can't find their car at the end of the day. "A lot of people get confused with the exits, they don't know where they parked," she said.

The Tysons security office is always helping find cars. "We do that a lot," said Security Officer Rivas.

close around the holidays, there are a number of specialty spots for restaurant patrons, electric vehicles, pregnant women, military veterans and big spenders. What's an average Joe to do in situations like this? Go to the back of the lot, hope for a spot, and take the hike back to the shopping center, keeping an eye out for drivers who aren't being attentive.

Becca Willcox, the Tysons events and communications manager, noted that there are a certain number of spaces dedicated to electric and hybrid vehicles, valet parking and 20 VIP spots for their top 50 money spenders. On the weekends in December, there are "parking directors," maintaining order around the lots and for the specialty spots, the Tysons security "patrols them to make sure they're [specialty spots] being used correctly," Willcox said.

Parking lot safety is another concern around the holidays. The Fairfax County Police Department has a Christmas Anti-Theft Team, known as the CATT, "watching for people breaking in cars and taking merchandise," said officer Bob Otten.

According to the police, "over the 2016 holiday season, our teams collectively recovered over $315,000 in stolen property and seized assets." In addition, there are police officers in the lots keeping the peace and making sure cars are not blocking the fire lanes or illegally parking in the disabled parking spaces, noted with the blue signs. "We ask them to move along," he said. It's a $50 ticket if they don't, said Otten.

Finding Peace and Joy

Relieving stress and finding meaning in the holiday season.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL

When artist Kathryn Coneway is feeling overwhelmed by the stress of the holiday season, she heads outside to find peace and calm in nature.

"I get easily overwhelmed by the crowded parking lots and busy stores," she said. "When I'm feeling overwhelmed, I'll go to Huntley Meadows Park and walk around. The beauty of nature restores me. You're with other people when you're there, but there's still solitude."

From those who are dashing to finish holiday shopping and those who are financially strapped to those grieving a loss or dreading dealing with strained familial relationships, the stretch of time between Thanksgiving and Christmas is often hectic and emotionally charged. Recharging and infusing the holidays with joy and peace might mean redefining the holiday season.

"Research shows increased happiness after thinking of three good things that happened to you today and what caused them," said Jerome Short, Ph.D., associate professor of psychology at George Mason University. "Also, people report improved mood from doing five kind acts in a day, expressing gratitude, pursuing important goals, and playing sports."

An evening of music and quiet creativity is one method that Elizabeth Rees, associate rector at Saint Aidan's Episcopal Church in Alexandria uses to recharge during the holiday season. The event called "Healing Arts" is held at the Center for Spiritual Deepening at St. Aidan's. "Sometimes for me, meditative art helps me to get into a different space," she said. "And with instrumental cello and guitar music in the background, it [is] beautiful."

"Moments of quiet and rest and being able to be present in the moment help me to get through the frenzy."

— Elizabeth Rees, Associate Rector, Saint Aidan's Episcopal Church

Visual imagery is another technique Rees employs. "I went to a... prayer-yoga-dance gathering this week, and [the instructor] had us physically pretend to pick up things that we want to let go of or that are weighing us down to place on an imaginary fire," she said. "I loved the imagery: my burdens and distractions going up in smoke along with my prayers rising to God to make space in me for something new."

Coneway uses the season's natural surrounding to inspire her art, which is another way in which she finds joy and relaxation. "The gift of this time of day is the display of light and colors of early morning and evening," she said. "I encourage families to gather around the table and [create] art together. Whether its parents addressing Christmas cards while children are drawing or making a collage out of wrapping paper or tissue paper, I encourage families to work on something together."

Serving others and expressing gratitude are research-driven techniques for finding happiness says Dr. Lois T. Stover, Ed.D., dean, School of Education and Human Services at Marymount University.

"Make holiday cards and send them out. It's fun to drop a word of kindness anonymously to someone in the neighborhood and then tell that person to pass along the idea, leaving words of kindness or gratitude themselves for someone else," she said. "Create an 'I am thankful for...' wall and cover it with sticky notes that complete the sentence as new thoughts come to mind each time you pass by."

There's plenty of holiday joy that comes without a price tag, suggests Stover. "Drive through various neighborhoods just after dark and exclaim 'Oooh - aah' over homes or other buildings that have particularly fun or beautiful displays of lights," said Stover. "Listen to holiday music in a variety of genres and make play lists of favorites. Sing along loudly. It's hard to feel down while belting out anything from 'Frosty the Snowman' to 'Joy to the World.'"

For those looking to maintain the religious meaning of the season, Rees suggests daily devotions sent electronically. "I've found some wonderful daily prayers that arrive each day by email. Just a minute or two of focus on what is deep and joyful and holy help center me for the day," she said. "For me, Ignatian prayer has been speaking to me lately, imagining myself into the stories of scripture. Moments of quiet and rest and being able to be present in the moment help me to get through the frenzy."

the U.S. are 12 times closer than the specific gun homicide rate given in Mr. Nelson's letter. In other words, British criminals substitute knives or clubs for guns to kill their victims — cold comfort there.

Housebreaking is far more common in Britain than in the U.S. Could this be due to the deterrent effect of widespread gun ownership? Surveys of violent felons reveal that they are far more fearful of facing an armed resident than the highly unlikely chance that a cop will appear during the crime.

"Suit Yourself, Biscuit"

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

Talk about a superfluous statement. I was asleep in bed and awoke to find one of our five cats, Biscuit, the oldest at 11+, lying sphinx-like on the front right of our bed. Though it was dark, I could see in his yellow eyes that he was awake.

Wanting to feel a cat against my body, I said, "Biscuit, come here. Come lie against my chest." No response so I repeated the request. This time with a bit more conviction: "Biscuit, come here. I want to feel you next to me." Again, no response. In fact, no reaction whatsoever. So I muttered, without thinking even: "OKAY, Biscuit, suit yourself."

And then I laughed. Of course he's going to suit himself. That's what cats do. I should be grateful he didn't jump off the bed. After all, he was minding his own business.

And that business is the entire philosophy of the feline species captured in two words. If any of you has ever owned a cat and been sensitive to and appreciative of their differences with the canine population, cats don't really come when you call them. Nor do they respond to a million other things you ask of them. If you understand and embrace that behavior, you'll likely begin to see this non-responsiveness as part of their charm.

However, when they do come when you call them, or when they climb uninvited onto your chest while lying in bed or snuggle with you on the couch; oh, how special you feel. And if you don't feel put upon or tolerated and can instead savor the uniqueness of their knead (and do everything you can to encourage its repetition), then you can indeed find pleasure and purpose in that moment, rare though it may be — or maybe not.

Accepting the parameters of the relationship with your cat, and managing your expectations, will go a long way toward understanding what your cat is able to give you. And what cats can give you is companionship and love — on their terms of course. The mere fact that Biscuit is lying on the bed should be enough to make me happy. Expecting that he would rise due to my beck and call, at night, especially while he's cat-napping is unreasonable on my part. Biscuit is not being difficult in the least. He is simply adhering to a non-responsive-type behavior that generations of cats — and generations of cat owners, should be accustomed to, not questioned or even curious about.

As an extraordinarily experienced cat owner (almost 40 years), I should have known better. Yet I couldn't resist the temptation/control the urge to give Biscuit (a cat) the chance to change the course of presumptive cat history and come to me when I asked. The problem is, once in a blue moon — or was that a red moon (it certainly appeared to be above the fold on the front page of The Washington Post the other day), cats will break with historical convention and respond/react/reply in kind with both word and deed. They'll come, they'll snuggle, they'll talk, they'll nuzzle, they might even lick. In fact, they'll do everything they can to endear themselves to you.

But it doesn't happen often or rather it doesn't happen consistently. Yet it remains the goal of every committed (or rather should be) cat owner to make every attempt to induce their cats to succumb to their cat-seducing charms. Like right now, Twinkle, our white, five-and-half-years-old domestic medium hair, is doing everything she can to get my attention. She's walking back and forth across my note pad (as I'm trying to write; I'm busy), she's rubbing her head against my face and using the top of my pen as some sort of head scratcher, she's lying on her left side with as many as four paws outstretched across my left arm as I use it to block her advance and she's talking non-stop.

She's being such a pain, but you have to love them. If you can't appreciate their untimely intrusions and instead expect some kind of predictable dog-like obedience, you need more than "The Cat Whisperer," you need "The Cat Screamer," because it's NOT HAPPENING.
