THE CONNECTION

The 2018 Regular Session of the Virginia General Assembly convenes on Wednesday, Jan. 10. Before the state senators and delegates head off for Richmond, many of the Fairfax County contingent met with constituents in a Saturday, Dec. 6, public hearing at the County Government Center.

More than 100 registered speakers and their supporters braved single-digit temperatures for the opportunity to tell their elected representatives just what they hoped to see included in the upcoming legislative agendas.

Fairfax County Board of Supervisors Chairman Sharon Bulova welcomed the delegation, and then began the hearing as “Speaker # 1,” representing the interests of the entire county.

Funding for the educational needs of the county was first on Bulova’s ask list — a theme that was often repeated during the marathon five hour-plus hearing. She followed that request with an appeal for funding for WMATA, citing that reliable and safe public transportation is critical to the economic health of the region.

THE GROUP “More Recess for Virginians” came out in full, green t-shirted force, asking the delegation to support legislation that would include recess as part of the “instructional hours” in elementary schools. Recess supporter Theresa Sheipe from Fairfax asked the legislators to provide the School Board more flexibility to better serve the children, and Shannon Hamilton, Ph.D., a neuroscientist from Alexandria, added “Science is on the side of recess. We hope you are, too.”

Other topics included concerns for the environment and climate change impact, with many arguing for renewable energy sources, and several opposing what they consider the “influence of Dominion Energy” on Virginia policies. The Faith Alliance for Climate Solutions, 350 Fairfax, and The Climate Reality Project put forth speakers representing their organizations, among the dozen or so individuals who also spoke on the issue.

Social services advocates were also well represented. Speakers from the Fairfax-Falls Church Community Services Board, The ARC of Northern Virginia, Fairfax County Community Action Advisory Board, Northern Virginia Family Services, and Social Action Linking Together, along with numerous individuals, like Jeanne Lavelle with the Virginia Association for the Deaf, urged the delegation to consider the needs of the community’s less fortunate and the more vulnerable.

Several of the social service organizations also supported the expansion of Medicaid in the Commonwealth, as did speakers from the county government employees union, SEIU Virginia 512. State Sen. Dick Saslaw (D-35) responded to the “expansionists” that they wouldn’t find many dissenters on that topic among the legislators on the dais.

Advocates for stronger gun safety laws, bipartisan redistricting and voter protection, the decriminalization of marijuana, banning solitary confinement in prisons, funding of judgeships, immigrant support, and providing more powers to the civilian police force review panel and auditor all had their turn

State Sen. Chap Petersen (D-34) meets with Bill Barfield, second vice president, Legislative Committee co-chair for the Fairfax County Federation of Citizens Associations. Barfield, a mathematician who lives in Fairfax, and Tim Thompson, the Federation’s president, presented their representatives with a list of 11 legislative issues for consideration.

In past years, citizens had more opportunity to talk with their representatives after the hearing, but the length of this year’s event saw several of the legislators called to other duties before the close, and even the majority of the citizen activists did not make it to the moment when Saslaw called “time.”

A HANDFUL of the delegation did linger, including state Sen. Chap Peterson (D-34), state Sen. Barbara Favola (D-31), and Del. Jennifer Boysko (D-86).

Petersen took a few moments to chat with his constituent Bill Barfield, who had testified and presented the legislative issues put forth by the Fairfax County Federation of Citizens Association.

Boysko will be sponsoring the Dignity Act this session, and supporting in-state tuition legislation, as part of her agenda.

Favola provided information on her 2018

State Sen. Barbara Favola (D-31) admits she has her work cut out for her in the 2018 Regular Session of the Virginia Legislature. She’s tackling Paid Family Leave, Gun Safety, Domestic Violence Prevention, Medicaid Expansion, K-12 education reforms and improvements, and Equal Taxing Authority for Counties, to name a few.

Legislative Agenda.

High on the list is working to get counties the same taxing authority as cities. “Counties are providing the same services as cities, and the discrepancy in taxing authority is really unfair,” she said.

Paid Family Leave, Gun Safety, K-12 Education reforms and enhancements are also in her sights. Favola admits that some of her proposed legislation requires taking some “big steps,” but that on many of the issues, “many small steps have already been taken, so there’s reason to be optimistic.”

Pulling Legal Status from Local Salvadorans

Bad for communities, bad for the economy, bad for the families, and no upside.

It's going to hurt right here in Northern Virginia.

As this administration continues its persecution against immigrants, it will move to end protected status for more than 200,000 Salvadorans, tens of thousands of whom live among us as neighbors, coworkers, friends, business owners, homeowners.

These neighbors, Salvadorans who came here in the wake of terrible natural disaster and political unrest, have been living and working here legally since 2001 at least. Temporary Protected Status was given to approximately 217,000 Salvadoran immigrants living in the United States at the time of the disasters.

Their families have added almost as many U.S.-born children. They are intertwined with naturalized citizens and other legal residents from their country, with the withdrawal of protected status affecting a community far larger than the TPS recipients. These communities are concentrated, intensifying the overall impact, and more live here in the D.C. suburbs than anywhere else.

On average, Salvadoran TPS recipients have been in the U.S. for 21 years; one-third have mortgages. These are people who have had legal work permits, who suddenly will not be able to work legally here. Their mortgages, and the mortgages of people who depend on them, will be at risk. Removing the ability of recipients to work legally will increase the risk of foreclosure, with negative economic impact across communities.

Salvadorans with protected status pay sales and property taxes. The communities they live in will be damaged. Their children will be more at risk. Our economy will be damaged.

THE SALVADORAN IMMIGRANT population is most concentrated in the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area, where 165,000 El Salvador-born residents make up 2.9 percent of the population.

Salvadorans in the United States sent $3.6 billion home to El Salvador in 2012, 16.5 percent of that country's GDP.

Virginia has nearly 45,000 El Salvadoran TPS residents, almost all in Northern Virginia, and concentrated in particular neighborhoods. Arlington has identified just four census tracts with more than 1,000 Salvadoran residents each (two with more than 1,400). In 2015, the most common birthplace for the foreign-born residents of Virginia was El Salvador, accounting for 96,515 Virginia residents. Fairfax County in 2010 was home to 43,566 Salvadorans.

Analysis shows that when Salvadoran, Honduran, and Haitian workers with TPS are removed from the labor force, the United States will lose $45.2 billion in gross domestic product (GDP) over the next decade, according to Immigrant Legal Resource Center. When TPS holders lose their work authorization, it will result in a $6.9 billion reduction to Social Security and Medicare contributions over a decade, as calculated by the ILRC.

All of that shows why this will damage communities and the economy. It says nothing about the harm to families. But the harm is great.

Comstock's Report: Highlights of 2017

BY BARBARA COMSTOCK
U.S. REPRESENTATIVE (R-IO)

Happy New Year! 2017 was a busy year and I wanted to provide highlights on a wide range of issues we addressed. My staff and I have met with thousands of constituents, local elected officials, businesses and advocacy groups and have had hundreds of meetings throughout our District with constituents to find critical solutions to problems that affect us all. Some of our highlights:

Tax Relief for Working Families and Businesses

In December, Congress passed the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act a pro-growth, pro-jobs, pro-family tax relief package that featured doubling the child tax credit to $2,000 that I advocated for, as well as lowering personal and business tax rates so hardworking families and businesses will have a healthier economy. With this historic tax cut and the 14 regulatory reform bills that were signed into law this year, we have helped unleash strong economic growth, and we are now heading into the third consecutive quarter of above 3 percent growth. The regulatory reform bills are estimated to save $3.7 billion. You can read more about the details of the tax cuts on my website at Comstock.House.Gov.

Strengthening Our Defense and National Security

Congress passed the National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA) for FY 2018 in December. The NDAA provides much-needed funding for our troops to carry out their missions, including a 2.4 percent pay increase for our troops; $28 billion to address readiness concerns; and $8 billion in funding for cyber operations; and support for PTSD. The NDAA also continues, via my amendment, to provide support for STARBASE, a STEM education program that serves 10th District students.

Leading in the Battle Against Sexual Harassment

The House of Representatives passed my bipartisan resolution to combat sexual harassment in Congress that mandates educating everyone, from Members to the interns, on preventing sexual harassment in Congress and having zero tolerance. I am also working on legislation that will fundamentally reform the outdated 1995 Congressional Accountability Act so it protects victims, brings disclosure to the process, and stops taxpayer money from being used for sexual harassment claims. I have also co-sponsored legislation that requires disclosure of any members who made sexual harassment settlements in the past.

Supporting Our Firefighters and First Responders

In December, Congress passed my legislation that ensures our nation's firefighters and paramedics will have the tools and training they need to fight and prevent fires. Loudoun County Fire and Rescue Department Chief Keith Brower praised the legislation, "These programs greatly assist localities in the areas of firefighter safety, fire and life safety education and improved resourcing for tactical fire operations...This bill is tremendous for career and volunteer firefighters alike." The President signed this bill into law last week.

Cracking Down on MS-13

The House of Representatives passed my bipartisan legislation, the Criminal Alien Gang Member Removal Act, which will provide additional tools to our law enforcement to combat MS-13. This legislation identifies gang membership and participation in gangs as grounds for inadmissibility and removability from the country. My legislation for additional funding to regional task forces like the Northern Virginia Regional Gang Task Force also advanced through the Judiciary Committee and should soon be voted on the House floor.

COMMENTARY

Not Smart, Not Right, and Not Fair

BY DON BEYER
U.S. REPRESENTATIVE (D-8)

On the day the House passed the Republican tax bill, I took to the Floor to oppose the bill.

My colleagues from both parties who opposed this bill did a thorough job illustrating the compelling reasons to oppose it: the regressive nature of the tax cuts, which will mostly flow to the very wealthy, the attacks on the Affordable Care Act which will lead to 13 million more uninsured Americans, the trillions of dollars it will add to the national debt.

I share this opinion, but also had another perspective to offer.

I worked for four decades to build a successful small business in Northern Virginia. So I'll be honest with you: this bill cuts my taxes.

I still voted against it.

I voted no in part for my constituents, who overwhelmingly opposed this immoral bill, but I also voted no for my employees.

The people we've employed over the years are the business. I've always tried to treat the women and men who work for me well and pay a living wage. It's rewarding to see them get married, start families, and chase their dreams.

My employees simply will not benefit from this bill

the way that I do.

They will get small cuts that expire, and many will eventually see tax increases. They'll get a tiny child tax credit, much smaller than the one millionaires get. The cuts for businesses, raising the estate tax threshold to protect families that worth $11 million, and other benefits billionaires will remain after the meager cuts for the middle class expire. Eighty-three percent will go to the wealthiest 1 percent of the country by 2027.

Their kids will be stuck with the tab for the trillions of dollars this bill will add to the national debt, debt which itself may be used to attack Social Security and Medicare soon.

As a member of the Joint Economic Committee I also know that U.S. companies are sitting on $17 trillion in capital. Yet, for some reason, Republicans claim against all evidence and advice from economists that giving these same companies more is going to spur magical levels of growth that will somehow trickle down to working people.

We all want a healthy, vibrant economy, but we'd do better by focusing on workforce development, human capital, building skills, and repairing infrastructure.

Unfortunately, Republicans rejected that path in favor of pursuing tax cuts for people like me at the expense of the middle class.

It isn't smart, it isn't right, and it isn't fair.

LETTER

Urging Congress to Protect EPA Funding

To the Editor:

President Trump and some in Congress propose to slash the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) budget and weaken some of the agency's tools that keep our air, water and natural resources clean and healthy.

When Congress disables EPA and cuts funding, Congress is undermining efforts that help clean up our local waterways. For example, thanks to strong clean water standards, the Potomac River's health is improving, submerged aquatic vegetation is returning and some fish population trends are encouraging. Many species of waterfowl winter on the river and bald eagle numbers are climbing. Audubon has recognized a section of the Potomac River southeast of Washington, D.C., as an Important Bird Area because of the many species of waterfowl that winter on the river and the high and increasing numbers of Bald Eagles, and we appreciate EPA's work in cleaning up the river.

EPA has helped improve Northern Virginia water quality with Chesapeake Bay Small Watershed Grants. Some examples:

❖ The Northern Virginia Regional Commission received a $164,637 grant to stabilize and protect approximately 800 feet of eroding shoreline along the Potomac River in Leesylvania State Park with a living shoreline. The project also restored .64 acres of riparian buffer and tidal marsh.

❖ Arlington County received an $80,000 grant to expand incentives for private property owners to install innovative stormwater practices on their property to impede runoff.

❖ Longfellow Middle School in Falls Church used a $20,000 grant to install a rainwater harvest system and rain gardens at the school.

The Audubon Society of Northern Virginia calls on the Virginia Congressional delegation to protect EPA funding for cleaning up our local waterways. We've made too much progress to slide backward now.

REAL ESTATE

McLean, Great Falls Market: Strong in 2017

BY KAREN BRISCOE

The number of real estate transactions in McLean and Great Falls closed out the year in 2017 11 percent greater than in 2016. In comparison to the 2007 market just one decade ago, the number is up almost 30 percent. The last peak year for Northern Virginia real estate was 2007. All price segments performed better or remained steady in 2017 compared to 2016 and the benchmark year of 2007. This is good news as we look towards the 2018 spring season.

The most significant increases in number of sales not surprisingly occurred in the lower price brackets. Homes priced under $1.25 million for the zip codes 22101, 22102 and 22066 comprised the majority of the gains. The under $750,000 is predominately condos, townhomes, smaller single-family homes or lot/land where the existing home is torn down and a new home is constructed. The lower brackets, which represent 72 percent of the market, comprises three price ranges: under $750,000; $750,000 to $1 million and $1 million to $1.25 million.

The move-up buyer in McLean and Great Falls includes the next three price brackets which are: $1.25 million to $2 million; $2 million to $3 million and $3 million plus. The market improved the most for luxury properties over $3 million.

Home Sellers in the area experienced in many cases the "best of times" market conditions in 2017. As we move into the new year, there are strong indications that homes priced well and in good condition will sell for solid prices. Should demand continue to remain strong relative to supply, some market segments may experience price appreciation.

Purchasing in an up-market cycle frequently proves advantageous over time and gives area Home Buyers the confidence to make a move. In many cases there is an opportunity for the great arbitrage of selling well in the lower price points and buying up well in the upper brackets.

Though Northern Virginia is presently in wintertime, the spring market is just around the corner. Start now to beat the rush!

Briscoe, alongside her partner Lizzy Conroy and team, works with sellers, buyers, investors and builders in all price ranges. www.HBCGroupKW.com, 703-734-0192, Homes@HBCGroupKW.com.

Urgent Call for Blood and Platelet Donations

This January, National Blood Donor Month, the American Red Cross has an urgent need for blood and platelet donors of all blood types to make an appointment to give now and help address a winter blood donation shortage.

Severe winter weather has had a tremendous impact on blood donations already this year, with more than 150 blood drives forced to cancel causing over 5,500 blood and platelet donations to go uncollected. This is in addition to seasonal illnesses, such as the flu, and hectic holiday schedules collectively contributing to more than 28,000 fewer donations than what was needed in November and December.

How to help

Eligible donors can find a blood or platelet donation opportunity and schedule an appointment to donate by using the free Blood Donor App, visiting redcrossblood.org or calling 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767). 2018 Color of the Year: Ultra Violet

Mixed reactions from local tastemakers who offer design ideas.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL

It's a moment that interior designers anticipate all year: the announcement of the Pantone Color of the Year. Ultra Violet is the selection for 2018, and local designers are giving it a mixed reception.

"Interiors have gone so neutral, I look forward to suggesting... Ultra Violet, a color [that] can bridge warm and cool gray neutrals," said Moira Denson, interior designer and assistant professor of Interior Design at Marymount University.

"There's nothing subtle about Ultra Violet. It's one-dimensional and difficult to decorate with, except in very small doses," said interior designer Annie Elliott of Annie Elliott Interiors and Bossy Color. "I find the color loud. 'Look at me!' It screams."

The selection by Pantone, the self-described global authority on color, is intended to be a harbinger of the hue that will be on trend in the coming year. The organization's color gurus spend about nine months observing trends in industries ranging from film and entertainment to art and fashion.

This year's pick can add a burst of vibrancy to a home's interior in impermanent ways, advises interior designer Cathleen Gruver of Gruver Cooley. "Some quick easy ways to use the color are adding throw pillows, which are relatively inexpensive and easy to trade out," she said. "Accent plates on a dining table are an option for those who may not want to commit in their home."

"Use this color in extremely small doses," added Elliott. "If you really love this color, I suggest using it as part of a larger pattern. Don't buy a solid purple pillow; choose a pretty floral that has some Ultra Violet in it."

For those with less trepidation about Ultra Violet, interior designer Sarah Glenn of Braswell Design + Build in Alexandria, said, "The powder room is a great place to incorporate deep colors in interesting ways. Install a graphic violet wallpaper behind a bright white pedestal sink, or paint the ceiling a high gloss violet to reflect the decorative lighting in the room."

Dark and dramatic cabinetry, which Glenn says is trending this year, offers another use for the Pantone pick. "Go bold and incorporate a deep violet island or base cabinets into a new kitchen," she said. "Incorporate a violet glass mosaic tile on your shower floor or as an accent stripe around tub walls. I especially love violet glass paired with the grey and taupe tones of wooden white marble tile."

Some designers describe Ultra Violet as commanding, particularly when used inside a home. "This shade of purple is a powerful color and one that I would use as an accent," said interior designer Marika Meyer of Marika Meyer Interiors. "A little bit will go a long way. It is also a great color to pair with other colors, it is a very friendly complementary color."

"Good pairings include green and purple, a classic combination, but I've always liked red with purple," added Elliott. "Ultra Violet is a vivid color, so make sure you use equally strong colors with it so it doesn't dominate a palette."

Pair it with gold and yellow tones, suggests Denson, who is also an artist. "I paint skies all the time," she said. "It's what watercolorists do. To me, shades of the ultra-violet are the most pleasing sky. It works super well with what we traditionally think of skies: blue toned. It sets a mood that allows all my landscapes to feel grounded."

In announcing the selection, Laurie Pressman, vice president of the Pantone Color Institute described Ultra Violet as, "a blue-based purple that takes our awareness and potential to a higher level. Ultra Violet communicates originality, ingenuity and visionary thinking that points us toward the future."

Heading to Oxford

BY COLIN STOECKER
THE CONNECTION

For one Great Falls resident the holidays were much busier than usual. Spencer Hedges, 27, was recently admitted to study at Oxford University in England.

"A lot of people who want to go think it's Harry-Potter. I wanted to be challenged. I told them in my essay that I wanted to be up until 3 a.m. working on my thesis in the library," said Hedges.

Hedges chose to study outside of the United States for college because he felt that he would be doubly challenged by the rigorous education system at Oxford as well as the challenges of living abroad.

"This is my first time living outside of the U.S. for this length of time," said Hedges.

At Oxford he plans on studying psychology and one day plans on becoming a psychologist or psychiatrist.

"I've always been a people person, I enjoy interacting and analyzing," said Hedges. One of his favorite books is Steven Covey's, "The 7 Habits of Highly Effective People."

The European education system is a difference that Hedges is going to have to get used to, and another challenge that he is excited about.

Hedges' mother, Kathleen Hedges is also excited for her son's recent success.

"I admire Spencer for all the effort he has put into his education and for the faith he has in himself and his abilities. It's hard to put into words how proud and happy I am for him and my hopes that this experience will open even more doors into his future. I am so fortunate that he is my son," she said.

Hedges is curious about education in England, and is also interested in European history.

"Adapting to the culture is something I'm excited about because it will be so different," said Hedges.

"Seeing how the education system is different will be another. There is more one-on-one teaching," he said.

Hedges graduated from Langley High School with an excellent GPA, and also attended Cooper Middle School and Great Falls Elementary.

Addressing Our Transportation Needs

I serve on the Transportation Committee and we are working on an overall Transportation and Infrastructure package to advance support for our roads, bridges, and infrastructure. This enhances our economic development as well as eases congestion and improves our quality of life.

In early December, I introduced the METRO Accountability and Reform Act, the largest legislative reform package introduced since Metro's inception. The legislation has the backing of over 30 business groups including the Northern Virginia Chamber of Commerce, the Greater McLean Chamber of Commerce, and more. The Washington Post Editorial Board said of the legislation. "Barbara Comstock offers a realistic lifeline for Metro".

In early December, Department of the Interior Secretary Ryan Zinke heeded our call for action and announced $227 million for the full rehabilitation of Arlington Memorial Bridge. The bridge carries 68,000 vehicles daily — many 10th District constituents among them — and this funding prevents the bridge from closing by 2020 and causing major traffic disruptions.

Leading On STEM Education

Congress passed my bipartisan legislation the INSPIRE Women Act which was one of the first bills that President Trump signed into law. The legislation provides more resources at NASA to young women who aspire to careers as scientists, engineers, astronauts, mathematicians, and other STEM careers.

The House of Representatives also passed my bipartisan legislation, the Research and Education Effectiveness and Transparency Act which provides better information on how to make taxpayer-funded investments in STEM and Research and Development more effective, transparent and fair.

Addressing Hate Crimes

In April, I introduced House Resolution 257, which condemns ethnic, religious, and racial hate crimes. The Senate companion Resolution already passed unanimously. The resolution cites trends in violent incidents targeting Jewish, Muslim, African-American, Hindu, and Sikh communities. The resolution calls on federal law enforcement, working with state and local officials, to investigate all credible reports of these occurrences in the United States, hold perpetrators accountable, and bring them to justice. Voting the Party Line

To the Editor:

The Republican Party celebrated the New Year with the recent passage of their so-called "tax reform" bill. While some of us may enjoy modest and temporary tax cuts, the bill is a gift to our nation's plutocracy whose tax cuts are substantial and permanent. All this will come at the cost of an exploding federal deficit. The fiscal rectitude preached by the Republicans during the Obama years was pushed aside when it came time to do the bidding of the moneyed interests they are beholden to.

The bill was hurriedly written in a slapdash manner, with no serious analysis of economic impacts, and rushed through the legislative process in part to avoid public scrutiny. It complicates the tax code and will no doubt bring a host of unintended consequences. One foreseeable consequence is new opportunities for tax cheaters, who will be further emboldened by the fruit of long-term Republican efforts to diminish IRS enforcement powers.

Sadly, District 10's Representative Barbara Comstock voted for this bill. The excuses she offers to justify her vote show once again that she is just reliably voting the party line regardless of the interests of her constituents or our nation. The people of District 10 can only hope that 2018 will bring them better representation in Congress.

resolution has strong bipartisan support of cosponsors ranging from Congressman David Brat to Congressman Don Beyer.

Continuing the Fight Against the Opioid and Heroin Epidemic

This summer, I hosted two opioid roundtables in the District to address our continuing challenges on opioids, heroin and addiction which has now been declared a National Health Emergency by the President. The roundtables brought together local, state, and federal stakeholders to discuss the current state of the opioid epidemic in the region and we are introducing additional legislation to enhance our efforts.

Working With and For Our Veterans

In November, my office, announced that a "Vet Center Community Access Center" will be opening in Leesburg to serve Veterans as well as active duty military personnel and their families in both Loudoun and eastern Fairfax. This spring, I was honored to be named "National Legislator of the Year" by the Virginia Council of the Military Officers Association of America. For a full list of the 66 veterans bills that we have worked on this past year, see Comstock.House.Gov/VetsBills.

Working To Combat Human Trafficking

As a member of the Human Trafficking Caucus, and having passed and worked on major human trafficking initiatives since my time as a Delegate, I continue to work with my colleagues to promote legislation to provide more tools and funding to law enforcement to crack down on the heinous crime of human trafficking. In 2017, the House passed six bills including the No Human Trafficking on Our Roads Act, legislation I cosponsored that disqualifies someone from operating a commercial motor vehicle for life for a human trafficking crime. We are also working to stop human trafficking activities online.

Litter Box Humor

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

We have five indoor cats: Biscuit, Chino, Twinkle, Sloan and Andrew, ranging in ages from 11+ years to 5+ years. We live in a two-story converted log cabin with approximately 1,750 square feet, closets not included. Closets in which you're bound to find cats, especially in the winter.

A few moths back, we contracted to have our two full bathrooms, one on each floor, renovated. Given that our house is over 250 years old, not likely a normal renovation. So far the renovation has taken months, as we were told, and as such, we wanted to employ some kind of strategy where we weren't constantly worrying about cats coming and going, sneaking outside, disappearing, and getting in the way of the workman and/or possibly suffering some kind of injury in the process. (Particularly true of Andrew and Biscuit who, uncharacteristic of many cats, are not the least bit put off by unknown people wandering about the house.)

And sure enough, after dinner on the first night FOLLOWING DEMOLITION, Andrew and his sister, Sloane, managed to break through some protective plastic surrounding the door blocking entrance to the upstairs bathroom where they managed to get into the house through an internal wall which had been torn down to the studs. It was their faint meowing which led to their discovery - in the downstairs attic above the kitchen. Their subsequent rescue confirmed that we would need to be extra vigilant to prevent further ado.

To secure the perimeter, we decided to segregate the cats on one side of the house on the first floor: including the kitchen, dining room and my office, with two sets of doors connecting to the living room and to the hall leading past the downstairs bathroom. This disconnect works perfectly because it prevents any escape and it enables the workman to walk in and out of the front door to ply their trade without needing any access to either of the three rooms where the cats are confined.

The cats food and water remains in its usual place in the kitchen. However there is one item (two actually) which has required a major move. You recall I said our cats are 'indoor,' right? And we're confining them to three rooms, right? Have I mentioned their litter boxes yet? Well, I am now.

Not a Herculean task by any means because once cats are shown their litter box's new location, they figure it out. But now their litter boxes which had previously been out of sight and sort of out of mind - one on each floor, have now been placed in two of the three rooms where they've been living most days and they are now most definitely in sight and on my mind.

One box was placed in the dining room where we rarely go at present since it's somewhat cluttered due to the renovation, and the other box was placed in my home office - which box seems to get the most use. (We sort of figured that the kitchen was out of the question.)

My office is approximately eight feet wide by 20 feet long, a space which separates the dining room from the outside wall. The litter box is on the floor at the far end of the room, not at all under foot, but neither out of sight nor out of smell. Where I sit, I am a well-positioned observer of the cats visits to their litter box.

As a consequence of this segregation - designed to secure their safety, and for the subsequent relocation of their litter boxes, in effect, I am now sharing a bathroom with five indoor cats.

All day long I am witness to their litter box proclivities; their arrival and departure, the sights, sounds and smells; their individual tendencies and habits, and of course, their comparative interest in visiting me on my desk before and/or after the paperwork is finished.

Soon we'll have to decide whether to return the boxes to their original location, and risk disrupting yet another new routine. Perhaps we'll leave well enough alone. After all, as any devoted cat owner knows: it's not about us, it's about them.
