Naked Truth About Strip Searches at Traffic Stops

Northern Virginia Democrat advocates for strip searches to combat opioid crisis.

BY MICHAEL LEE POPE
THE CONNECTION

Police officers across Virginia would be able to strip search drivers at traffic stops under a bill proposed from Del. Patrick Hope (D-47). Hope says he introduced the bill as a reaction to the opioid crisis after being approached by sheriffs across the commonwealth who are concerned inmates might smuggle drugs into jails. Hope says sheriffs did not ask for strip searches at traffic stops, although he adds the two issues are linked in the code.

"The existing statute allows for strip searches for weapons at traffic stops and going into jail, and that's there for a reason — because you don't want to put someone in your squad car who might have a weapon," said Hope. "And so the question is whether opioids today are lethal enough where you need that same protection at a traffic stop where you are going to put somebody in your car."

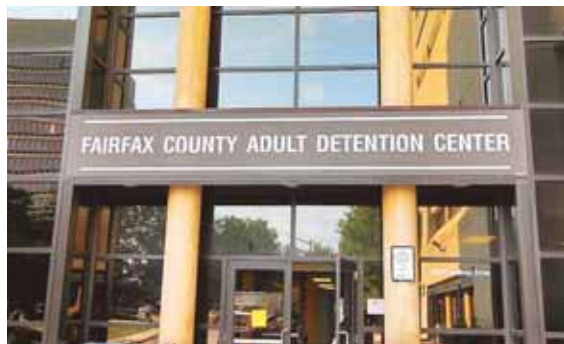

Advocates for civil liberties are concerned that strip searches would be based on nothing more than an arresting officer's "reasonable cause to believe" that a suspect has drugs. They worry that suspicion may often be based on nothing more than a hunch. And although courts have upheld the ability of sheriff's deputies to conduct strip searches at jails, they say allowing strip searches at minor traffic infractions would violate the dignity of the accused — a burden that would disproportionately fall on minorities.

"This proposal will fall more heavily on people of color because of disparate policing," said Claire Gastanaga, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Virginia. "Keep in mind that people who are black are eight times more likely to be arrested for possession of marijuana in Arlington than white people, even though usage rates for both populations are the same, about 13 percent."

RECENT YEARS have seen the opioid crisis spiral out of control in Virginia. The number of fentanyl-related overdose deaths increased by more than 30 percent last year, according to a recent report from the Virginia Department of Health. Fentanyl is an opioid pain medication that's 100 times more potent than heroin. It's often used to treat pain after major surgeries, and it's frequently traded on the black market. A dose the size of a grain of sand can be lethal, creating a potential problem at jails.

"Google the words 'jail' and 'overdose,' and you'll come up with a number of hits of people who are sneaking in drugs like fentanyl and heroin and other opioid type drugs and people are overdosing on it," said Hope. "It's a very serious concern of the jails and the sheriffs asked me to carry the bill."

A Google search of "jail overdose" comes up with 8.7 million hits with horror stories from across the country. Four inmates overdosed in two days last year in Ohio. Two inmates were found dead last year after overdosing in a D.C. jail. In Miami, prosecutors are considering murder charges after two inmates were found dead after opioid overdoses. None of the stories seem to be from Virginia, though, which worries critics of the bill.

"My concern is that I'm not sure how common that is — how frequently that happens — that drugs are being smuggled in," said Cindy Cunningham, founder of a progressive group known as VA Plan. "A lot of people are concerned about police in general and I think at this point this is sort of encouraging civil rights violations."

Requests for data on opioid smuggling into the Arlington jail and the Alexandria jail received no response at press time. And spokesman for the Fairfax County Sheriff said no data existed to prove opioid smuggling was a problem.

"There are no numbers that show that smuggled opioids are a problem at the Fairfax County Adult Detention Center," wrote Jamel Perkins, public information officer for the Fairfax County Sheriff's Office in a response to written questions.

Hope acknowledges that his bill may end up changing significantly as it makes its way through the legislative sausage-making factory in Richmond, a process that starts this week with a subcommittee hearing followed by a hearing in the full committee. And then, if he's lucky, a vote on the House floor. Considering the heart of his bill allows for strip searches at jails rather than traffic stops, he says, that part may end up being stripped out before it's considered by member of the House of Delegates.

"If law enforcement feels like that's not necessary, we'll take it out," said Hope.

Promoting Safe Bicycling

Cycling advocacy group hosts county law enforcement reps at monthly meeting.

BY ANDREA WORKER
THE CONNECTION

At its first monthly meeting of the New Year, the Fairfax Alliance for Better Bicycling (FABB) got right to work, inviting two Fairfax County Traffic Safety Police Officers to attend and expand the dialogue between law enforcement and cyclists in the county.

FABB member Charlie Bobbish introduced Officers PFC Sheila Ayers, and PFC Christina Gaizick and began the conversation by asking them to comment on the "state of traffic safety" in Fairfax County.

Safety of all county residents is a priority, according to Ayers, be they drivers, cyclists or pedestrians, but the officer added that she and her colleague were particularly pleased to be invited to the FABB meeting to gain a better understanding of the concerns of the pedal-powered citizenry and to have an opportunity to discuss safe cycling practices and education.

According to Ayers, statistics show a decrease in cycling-related incidents, with only one fatality recently reported in 2015. Early figures for 2017 indicate 72 reportable bicycle incidents, although the fact that there are no clearly defined categories for bicycle accidents in the statewide reporting system TREDs (Traffic Records Electronic Data System) and that "reportable" incidents must meet a $1,500 damage or a reportable injury threshold in order to be included in the TREDs data, left some attendees somewhat in doubt as to the accuracy or usefulness of the information.

Jeff Anderson, president of FABB, Steve Ward, the organization's secretary, and board member Bruce Wright all indicated that advocating for more specific reporting tools might be on the FABB work menu in the future.

SEVERAL QUESTIONS were posed to the officers regarding how to stay safe as a cyclist on the road, and what to do when witnessing or experiencing in

What's Wrong with This Picture?

Male, 60 percent; female 40 percent;
less than 2 percent poor; less than 2 percent
African American; less than 2 percent Latino.

If these are the demographics to something, you know it needs to be fixed, no matter what "it" is. Especially something paid for with public dollars.

Male, 60 percent; female 40 percent.
Less than 2 percent poor.
Less than 2 percent African American.
Less than 2 percent Latino.

These are the demographics of this year's freshman class at our Governor's school, Thomas Jefferson High School for Science and Technology, known as TJ.

We also know that there are geographic disparities (some middle schools have many more students admitted than others; some have none).

State Sen. Scott Surovell represents a part of the county that tends to be under represented at Thomas Jefferson, and he is kicking off what no doubt will be a lively discussion by introducing SB787, Governor's Schools; enrollment, which would use both economics and geography to change the admissions dynamics at Jefferson.

Summary:

"Requires any academic school Governor's School that has a focus on math, science, and technology and that has an overall enrollment of over 1,000 students to accept for enrollment (i) a sufficient number of students eligible to receive free or reduced price meals such that the total of such students is at least 50 percent of the weighted average of the participating divisions' percentage of such students in the previous school year and (ii) at least five students but no more than 15 students from each middle school in each school division eligible to matriculate students to such Governor's school who have completed at least two full years at such middle school."

The school divisions currently participating in TJHSST are: Arlington County, Fairfax County (includes City of Fairfax), Falls Church City, Loudoun County, Prince William County.

We've said this before, because these demographics have been trending in this direction for more than a decade.

Fairfax County Public Schools has a single elite magnet school, Thomas Jefferson, and TJ is frequently referred to as the top high school in the country. Dramatic disparity in the makeup of admissions at TJ is an indicator of disparity in early identification of students as gifted and talented, of access to advanced classes and enrichment, and in the basic education that the Fairfax County Public school system offers to all of its students.

School leadership can't continue to act like there are things they can't do anything about. Surovell deserves credit for giving an incentive to get started.

Our American Story

To the Editor:

One hundred years ago, my grandparents left eastern Europe to take a chance in making it in America. They were poor, spoke no English, had little formal education and were probably not seen as particularly desirable immigrants.

They worked hard and started small businesses, a laundry and a candy store. Their sons fought in WWII and then they, our parents, got mostly blue-collar jobs. They, in turn worked hard, made sure we studied hard and we all got college educations.

Now, three and four (and beginning five!) generations into our American Story, we are teachers, social workers, engineers, counselors, and business people, working to improve our country and our communities.

Our family story has been repeated millions of times over. It may be your story, too.

All because America saw the value of allowing a large, diverse influx of people who were willing to work hard for the American Dream. The value of continuing that diversity is as true today as it was 100 years ago.

Progress on Transportation Safety

BY SCOTT SUROVELL
STATE SENATOR (D-36)

The General Assembly acted on several of my bills last week, the first full week of the session.

Two of my bills passed this week. First, my bill to expand the types of abuse proceedings in which children can testify by video connection passed unanimously. Also, the Senate passed my legislation raising Virginia's threshold between misdemeanors and felonies to $500 after it was combined with other members' bills. Virginia's felony threshold is the lowest in the United States, has not changed since 1980, wastes taxpayer dollars and unnecessarily turns many into felons. Only two senators voted against the bill and it now heads to the House of Delegates.

Two more of my bills are headed to the full Senate for a vote this week. One bill requires all sex education programs to include the dangers of "sexting." Second, on a 9 to 4 vote, the Senate Transportation Committee approved my legislation that prohibits people from operating a motor vehicle with a phone in the driver's hand. Similar legislation has failed to pass out of committee the last four years, so I am hoping that the unprecedented increase in traffic deaths is finally causing legislators to take note. Distracted driving is a massive and growing problem.

The last two sessions, I have carried legislation requested by The Education Fund to Stop Gun Violence that would require background checks on all firearm purchases. Unfortunately, the bill was defeated on a party-line vote along with a dozen other firearm violence prevention bills. I am pleased that Sen. Adam Ebbin's legislation prohibiting bump stock purchases was reported out of committee.

This session, I introduced 61 bills and over 50 are still in committee so it will be a busy week. Senate committees will soon consider my bill modernizing Virginia's assisted conception laws to account for same-sex couples, a bill to clarify authority to withhold spousal support from paychecks and another to establish consequences to government officials who violate the Freedom of Information Act.

Importantly, my bipartisan legislation to provide temporary driving permits to individuals who cannot establish immigration status but who pay Virginia taxes will be heard on Wednesday. Numerous studies have found that the 15 states that have adopted this policy have fewer accidents and hit and run cases and have increased tax revenue. My bill to close loopholes abused by car title and payday lenders is also up for a hearing on Monday.

I have also reintroduced my legislation to prohibit schools from using online textbooks without providing children with computers. I have also introduced separate legislation to prohibit systems like Fairfax County Public Schools from charging "tuition" or fees to low income students for online classes — FCPS currently charges up to $350 per class for classes like "online PE" or financial literacy to children receiving free and reduced meals and do not even provide them with computers. Public education should be equally accessible to all and free — especially if your parents do not have resources.

On Saturday, nearly 100 people attended our Mount Vernon town hall meeting and another 50 each in Lee District and Woodbridge.

Please complete my constituent survey at www.scottsurovell.org/survey and you can always provide me feedback at scott@scottsurovell.org.

It is an honor to serve as your state senator.

Andrews Federal's Jim Hayes, President and CEO; Omaha George; Enola Thaboun; and Ryan Fitzpatrick, were on hand to receive the Corporate Citizen Award.

Andrews FCU Receives Corporate Citizen Award

Andrews Federal Credit Union recently received the Greater Springfield Chamber of Commerce 2017 Corporate Citizen Award. The Award is given to a company demonstrating strong involvement to better the quality of life in the Greater Springfield area.

Andrews Federal has local branches in the region at Springfield Town Center and Old Keene Mill Shopping Center. The staff members at each branch are active in the local community; volunteering at local Chamber events, schools and community activities whenever possible.

Below is a list of a few of those initiatives the Credit Union participated in, in 2017:

- ❖ Assembled meal packages with the Rotary Club of West Springfield to benefit the underprivileged students of Fairfax County;

- ❖ Provided a branch tour and information on the basics of savings to the Girl Scout Troop 249;

- ❖ Packed meals on MLK Day to support the Stop Hunger Now organization;

- ❖ Sponsored the Cardboard Regatta at Lake Accotink Park;

- ❖ Supported the 2017 Annual Credit Union for Kids Bowling Tournament to benefit the Children's Miracle Network

- ❖ Donated school supplies to the students of Franconia Elementary;

- ❖ Volunteered to lay wreaths at the Arlington Cemetery and pack items to benefit homeless veterans in the D.C., Md. and Va. area;

- ❖ Provided free gas, free groceries and free lunches as a random act of kindness;

- ❖ Conducted food and outerwear clothing drive to benefit ECHO and Koinonia;

- ❖ Distributed free packaged lunches to the underprivileged children of Fairfax County as a part of the Summer Lunch Bunch program.

"We exist as a credit union in Springfield to benefit those in the local community," said Jim Hayes, Andrews Federal President and CEO. "Our staff takes pride in volunteering as often as possible. This award symbolizes our commitment to serving the community beyond the four walls of the credit union."

BY STEVE HIBBARD
THE CONNECTION

In business since 1982, the Good Shepherd Players is presenting its 36th show, "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat," at Church of the Good Shepherd on Braddock Road in Burke.

"It's a musical interpretation of the story of Joseph and his Coat of his Many Colors from the book of Genesis. It's written by Andrew Lloyd Weber and Tim Rice who wrote 'Evita' and 'Jesus Christ Superstar,'" said Director Nancy Lavallee.

In rehearsals for four months, Lavallee said they're doing a modern take on the show, with no spoken dialogue, which is all sung through music and has modern-day rockers, preppies and hippies in costumes. "It's a collection of 20th-century dance styles; we have calypso, tango and a '60s-style twist," she said. "It's very high energy. It keeps moving. It's all music and high-energy dance."

She said the cast of 30 people ages 8-80 are from Good Shepherd and other local Episcopal and Catholic churches and synagogues "that come together in fellowship to use our gifts to put on a show for the Fairfax County community."

THE CHALLENGE is that for some people it's their first show, and for others, they're at a professional level, she said. "To knit people together into an ensemble is always a director's challenge. We have people of varying levels of experience but they all came together very well," she said.

Charlotte Vincent, who is the treasurer of the Production Board and costume manager, said the shows, which are a vital ministry of the parish, are about creativity in the community. "It gives us a chance to build community in the parish. There's a community of people who come to the show every year; it's great, inexpensive family theater."

Joseph's brothers and wives rehearse a scene from Church of the Good Shepherd's production of "Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat."

Howard Lincoln, the Technical Director of the Board who did his first show with "Oklahoma" in 1997, said it's a family-friendly show. "It's a Broadway show at discount prices because we have the lights, the orchestra, the sound. It's always impressive."

He added, "Within the last 10 years, we have blossomed out to the community. We've opened up the productions to anyone in the community and we have people from other churches, other faiths. So, it's become the community theater we've envisioned it to be."

Music Director Mitch Bassman, who is also the music director of the choir at Adat Reyim in Springfield and the principal clarinetist in the Annandale Symphony Orchestra, said they are using a 15-piece orchestra. "The music is fascinating in this show because there's so many different styles. We have a French ballad, '50s rock and roll, a Western song, and Elvis Presley makes an appearance. There's even jazz. The orchestra has to be very flexible to play all of these styles of music," he said. His wife Margie plays the viola in the pit.

Phil Selz, who is also a member of Adat Reyim, plays the role of Naphtali and the baker. "As Naphtali, I'm one of the brothers who plot against Joseph and then try to make up with him at the end. As the baker, I'm one of the prisoners in jail with Joseph and he interprets my dream to let me know that I'm going to get killed. In fact, I'm the only character in the entire play that dies," he said.

He said, "They were looking for a Tenor 1 and I'm a Tenor 2, so I'm singing a little higher. It's been like coming to a theater company. Really, it's a theater company and we've had a great time." He said five people from Adat Reyim are in the show.

Greg LaNave, who belongs to Church of the Nativity in Burke, plays the role of Gad, one of the brothers and one of Potiphar's servants. "I'm one of the brothers who plots against Joseph. There's a solo that I get called 'Those Canaan Days,' and it is in the style of a French Café song. So, I get to sing with a French accent and we get to do a French tango as part of the piece, which is a lot of fun."

He added, "I love this show because it's driven by the ensemble. Really, it's the ensemble that drives the whole thing. That's a challenge because you have to have so many people."

GOOD SHEPHERD was open to having people who are not part of the community here as a way of reaching out in an ecumenical sense, LaNave said, "They have a clear spiritual component to the experience as well, always sharing prayer concerns and praying together before rehearsals."

Lisa Anne Bailey of Manassas, who plays the role of the narrator, said she sings throughout the entire show. "The challenge for me personally is it's a very rangy score, with alto soprano all over the map. And remembering all of the words – It's probably the most wordy role in the show," she said.

She's directed, choreographed, produced, and performed with the Reston Community Players and the Arlington Players, and will be directing "Jesus Christ Superstar" at the Little Theatre of Alexandria in the summer. "I go wherever the show is right for me," she said.

"Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat," at Church of the Good Shepherd runs Jan. 26, and Feb. 1, 2, and 3 at 7:30 p.m.; and Jan. 27 and Feb. 4 at 2 p.m. Tickets are $15/adults; $10/students. Tickets available online at www.goodshepherdplayers.com/. The venue is the Grand Hall of Church of the Good Shepherd, 9350 Braddock Road, Burke.

Artists Bring Art into Schools

The Arts Council of Fairfax County has placed three Fairfax artists at middle schools in Fairfax County as a part of the Artist Residency Program. The artists are connecting visual art and theatre with language arts, social studies, technology, music and physical education study areas to offer students engaging, unique and innovative learning experiences.

❖ Photographer, writer and editor Glenn Cook will engage Holmes Middle School art students in "The Resilience Project." His residency will connect visual and digital art with language arts, social studies and technology.

❖ 1st Stage Artistic Director Alex Levy will involve Lake Braddock Secondary School speech and drama students in a residency titled "Discovering your story: Solo-Performance Workshop." His residency will connect theatre with language arts.

❖ Stage combat teacher and actor Brad Waller will work with Glasgow Middle School English students for his residency, "The Art of the Sword." His residency will connect theatre with movement and physical education, visual art and music.

Levy's residency program will challenge students to discover the power of their individual voice and lives by discovering and telling their story. Using a series of active exercises and a variety of theatrical styles, students will identify, create and perform a solo performance based on their personal stories. Participation in this workshop will enable students to recognize the power of their own voices, gain empathy through active listening and collaboration, and develop their dramatic performance skills

"Solo performance requires artistic creativity but also helps a young person recognize the value of their place in the world and the power of their own voice," said Alex Levy about the importance of his residency program.

The Arts Council, in collaboration with Fairfax County Public Schools (FCPS), launched the Artist

Residency Program in 2014. The program is designed to create opportunities for professional artists to share their expertise through arts education programming that supplements the FCPS curriculum. Students are engaged in cross-curricular learning through the arts, enhancing their skills in creativity, critical thinking, communication, and collaboration. To date, 12 Fairfax County artists have been trained and placed in FCPS middle schools through the Artist Residency Program.

"We are excited to bring the professional talents of Glenn Cook, Alex Levy and Brad Waller to Fairfax County middle schools," said Linda S. Sullivan, President & CEO of the Arts Council of Fairfax County. "The artists, with guidance from our FCPS arts educator and curriculum specialist, have designed highly engaging workshops that provide new opportunities for students to express themselves artistically while utilizing 21st century skills of communication, collaboration, creativity, and critical thinking."

To learn more about the program or to host a teaching artist for your middle school, visit artsfairfax.org/resources/opportunities/artist-residency-program.

Burke Songwriter Named Finalist in Bethesda Contest

Skyler Foley of Burke (folk/acoustic) has been selected as a finalist for the fourth annual Bernard/Ebb Songwriting Awards, produced by the Bethesda Arts & Entertainment District. The event will feature a live concert performed by the competition's finalists on Friday, March 2 at 7:30 p.m. at Bethesda Blues & Jazz Supper Club, 7719 Wisconsin Ave., in downtown Bethesda. Tickets will be $15 and $20 and available at www.bethesda.org.

Six songwriters have been chosen as finalists and one will win the $10,000 grand prize and 25 hours of complimentary recording studio time at Innovation Station Music.

Foley has been named a finalist in a Young Songwriter category (applicants who are under 18 years of age) who will also perform live and compete for $2,500.

The winners will be announced at the close of the show.

"We are thrilled to celebrate the fourth annual Bernard/Ebb Songwriting Awards with a concert that will once again showcase phenomenal regional songwriters," said Bethesda resident and Awards' founder, Cathy Bernard. "The Greater Washington, D.C. area is a vibrant and culturally diverse community to which music and art are essential. I am proud to produce this competition that highlights inspiring artists and that culminates with a fun night of live music in Bethesda for all to enjoy."

To honor her late uncle, Fred Ebb, who was a renowned American songwriter, Cathy Bernard founded the competition in 2015. Ebb is known for Broadway hits such as "Cabaret" and "Chicago" and for iconic songs, including "New York, New York."

Remaining tickets will be sold at the door. Bethesda Blues & Jazz Supper Club will feature a dinner menu. Audience members can arrive beginning at 5:30 p.m. to enjoy dinner and drinks at the theater before the 7:30 p.m. concert. Food and drink is not included in the ticket price.

The finalists were selected from a competitive pool of more than 200 entries from songwriters across Maryland, D.C. and Virginia. The Grand Prize Jury will attend the concert on Friday, March 2 to select the award winners.

Visit www.bethesda.org or call 301-215-6660 for more information.

teraction with aggressive drivers.

Although the answers did not provide the cyclists with many solutions, Ayers and Gaizick both stressed that the first thing to do was “get out of the way and be safe.” Even when the incident is not deemed “reportable,” the officers still encouraged the riders to “be the best witness you can be and call it in.” Calling in and providing as much detail about the alleged offender is still helpful, and could cause the police to issue a “look out” for the vehicle.

In addition to the presentation and conversation with Ayers and Gaizick, a report by Sally Smallwood, Safe Routes to School coordinator for Fairfax County Public Schools was on the agenda. Smallwood brought the members up to speed on educational events scheduled for Fairfax County schools, a significant donation that would allow for a number of shareable bicycles to be purchased for several elementary and middle schools, and preparation for this year’s “Bike to School Day” scheduled for May 18.

Smallwood also wanted to spread the word that nominations for Outstanding Crossing Guard of the Year for 2017 were still wanted, with the deadline being Jan. 26 for the Feb. 14 announcement of the honorees on Crossing Guard Appreciation Day. Anyone can nominate a crossing guard by going to the Virginia Department of Transportation website at www.virginiadot.org and searching Safe Routes to School.

FAAB encourages all cycling enthusiasts of all levels of ability and cycling usage to join their organization to stay informed, to be better educated on cycling safety, and to participate in social rides and other FABB activities. FABB is on the web at www.fabb-bikes.org and has a Facebook page, as well. Its next meeting is Feb. 21 at 7:30 p.m. at the Patrick Henry Public Library in Vienna.

Lost in Space

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

Not a reference to the iconic television series of my youth, but there was “danger,” Ken Lourie, and it wasn’t caused by Dr. Zachary Smith nor by “robot,” (Robbie) either. And it wasn’t a conspiracy. It was simply a confluence of absenteeism by my health care providers. Both my oncologist and internal medicine doctor were absent with leave and yours truly was caught in the crossfire, so to speak. Let me provide some context to help you appreciate my dilemma.

I have chemotherapy every six weeks. Accordingly, I have lab work the Wednesday before the Friday to check for anomalies – anomalies which over the years have occasionally delayed my infusion by up to two weeks waiting for my body to settle. In the early days of treatment, my white blood cell count was crucial; too low and no treatment; too high, it was never too high. No treatment and the cancer was left unchecked. An incredibly stressful occurrence when your treatment is stopped. Whether or not a week or two delay ultimately mattered in checking the cancer, it certainly mattered – emotionally, to the patient. You feel adrift, sort of, which is exactly how I felt during the first two weeks of January.

Typically, what my current lab work presents is my creatinine level and the associated glomerular filtration rate, measuring kidney function/efficiency. After nearly nine years of infused toxicity, I have suffered some collateral damage to a major organ. My oncologist and internal medicine doctor are incredibly sensitive and concerned about this damage. Per these results, every medical decision made concerning me; from prescriptions approved to “normal” internal medicine stuff to whether I get “contrast” when I have my scans and MRIs to what chemotherapy drug I infuse and how frequently its infused, is decided with my kidneys in mind. Nothing happens medically until my kidneys sign off on it, if you know what I mean?

As it happened, my creatinine level for my Jan. 12 infusion was higher than usual. When this measure occurs, I know to call the Infusion Center and ask the head nurse if I should come in for treatment. She will contact my oncologist and with his direction, will advise me what to do, except for this week. My oncologist was away and though another oncologist – whom I’ve never met – was covering, I’m not really sure she knows enough about my situation. Specifically that I’m a bit of a special case, per my oncologist’s own characterization of me, and I’ve never gone seven weeks, let alone eight weeks without treatment. Delaying my infusion would break a multi-year precedent. In fact, around the holidays when I asked my oncologist if I could extend my infusion interval from six to seven weeks (to accommodate life), he emphatically said “No.” Moreover (to complicate a covering physician’s decision), my oncologist has also told me that if I were a new patient with creatinine levels as chronically high as mine, he wouldn’t/couldn’t treat me until those levels reduced.

So not only was I in the middle of an unprecedented one to possibly two-week delay in my infusion, but I also needed an oncologist – who I don’t know and who doesn’t know me – to decide/make an exception/maybe risk her medical license (if something were to happen to me), to authorize treatment for a patient whose creatinine levels fall outside of protocol, and me not having either of my two primary-care physicians available for consultation. And other than the default emails advising that both were out of town, I had nowhere to go and no one to turn to.

Heck, I might as well have been on another planet, given the limited choices I had.
