Helping Children Fighting for their Lives

Centreville High's Wildcats vs. Cancer club holds fundraiser.

By BONNIE HOBBS

It's almost time for the second annual Festival to Fight Cancer. Put on by Centreville High's Wildcats vs. Cancer club, it's set for Saturday, May 5, and will be a neon, nighttime, glow run. Both the 1-mile fun run/walk and 2-mile race will be held on Centreville's track at 6001 Union Mill Road in Clifton.

The fun includes a dance party on the infield, DIY glow face-painting, a selfie station with props, vendors, raffle-prize drawings, plus a free pizza dinner and beverages. Participants will also receive commemorative T-shirts, and prizes will be awarded for the best glowing costumes.

There's free parking by the stadium, and the event will be held, rain or shine. Runner check-in starts at 7 p.m., followed by the dance party at 7:45 p.m. The 1-mile run/walk kicks off at 8 p.m.; after that will be the raffle drawing and 2-mile race. Registration is $20; sign up at <https://runsignup.com/Race/VA/Clifton/FestivaltoFightCancer>.

Centreville High senior Valerie Nguyen founded the Wildcats vs. Cancer club at her school in October 2015 while her younger sister, Cecilia, was battling the disease.

Nguyen had attended a camp for the siblings of cancer patients and was determined to help other families going through the same thing.

That first school year, the club attracted 42 members and did activities and fundraisers to help children fighting cancer. It now has 100 members, 75 active, and continues to make a difference in people's lives.

"We've been really involved with the community," said Nguyen. "In January, we held a hat drive for pediatric cancer patients at Inova Fairfax Hospital and donated about 100 hats. We also volunteered at the holiday parties that DC Candelighters puts on for these children and their siblings."

Lately, though, the club members have been focusing on the upcoming race. Unlike the previous race, this one will be held in May, not June, and will be a nighttime affair, instead of daytime. "The weather's warming up, so it should be an ideal event,"

International Showcase in Centreville

Talent and exotic food on display during CIF's 8th annual cultural celebration.

The 8th annual Centreville International Showcase was held Saturday, April 21, at the Korean Central Presbyterian Church in Centreville. This cultural celebration sponsored by the Centreville Immigration Forum (CIF) included an international talent show, a silent auction and 50/50 raffle, as well as exotic cuisine from a variety of local restaurants. The evening highlighted the cultural heritage of Centreville residents from such countries as Guatemala, Ireland, India, Ghana, Peru and Korea.

There will be guided tours of four elegant homes in Clifton. Tour a farm house built in 1900 with furniture and antiques specific to Virginia. In another home, see how bold colors and true Williamsburg style combine to create a fun family atmosphere. A third home balances natural elements and 18th century proportion. Finally, don't miss the Georgian hilltop manor with Virginia-made furniture, original artwork, and active artist's studio. Free guided tours are offered for two historic churches: Clifton Baptist Church (1910) and Clifton Primitive Baptist Church (1871). Visit Silent Auction, Trinkets and Treasures, and wreath sale at the Clifton Presbyterian Church.

Tour tickets may be purchased in advance at local shops, online at www.cliftoncwc.org, and at the Clifton Presbyterian Church the day of the tour. The four homes on the tour include:

The Gaffney Home

The Gaffneys' Virginia Colonial Style home sits on an elevated property in Balmoral of Clifton. Laurie and Peter fell in love with Williamsburg, Va. early in their marriage while visiting Kingsmill on the James for a golf trip. The Gaffneys then designed their Balmoral home in keeping with Carter's Grove, a historic home in Williamsburg. Laurie was also inspired by a home in her own collectible Department 6 ♦ CENTRE VIEW ♦ APRIL 25 - MAY 1, 2018

56 Christmas Village.

Upon your entering the home, Laurie's love of Colonial Williamsburg is evident. Richly saturated paint colors and French reproduction Thibault wallpapers adorn the walls. Carefully selected Williamsburg tiles create the fireplace surround in the elegant living room. The large open family room is the heart of the home and a tasteful blend of Colonial Williamsburg and modern day family life. Laurie has a home-based baking business, Clifton Cupcakes. The generous kitchen with double ovens and ample counter space is home to many tasty creations. A restful seating area with a fireplace off of the kitchen is the perfect spot for a cup of afternoon coffee and a good book. This area provides access to an outside patio with hot tub, dining area, and an outdoor fireplace and seating group.

The fully finished basement houses a custom bar, air hockey, pool table, media area, music room, guest room, and Peter's software business. Always the house where the kids like to go, this space is perfect for family fun and action-packed entertaining.

You can reach the second level by either a front foyer staircase or a back staircase from the kitchen. The master suite is adorned with a dramatic Drexel Heritage bed, chaise lounge and crystal lamps. An open walkway takes you to the adjoining boys' bedrooms and a girl's room with a private bath.

Attention to detail, bold use of color, and a true Williamsburg style make this an elegant family home.

The Healy Home

The Healys designed and built this impressive Balmoral home in 1997. Tom Healy is a builder and you will appreciate his mastery of classical eighteenth century proportion and detail in the timeless facade. Inside, he and his wife Mary Beth chose architectural ornamentation from the same period, such as large cased openings, Corinthian pilasters, Palladian windows, a broad staircase and warm hardwood floors—walnut on the main floor and cherry upstairs.

This is a home built with family gatherings and entertaining in mind. A recent renovation created one open space incorporating the kitchen, casual dining and family room. Here the furnishings are on a large scale, including a farmhouse trestle table with ladder back chairs, the family room with coffered ceiling, stone fireplace and rich leather seating fit for a crowd. The new kitchen will make you swoon. It is as beautiful as it is functional. Soft cream cabinets, a stone accent wall, deluxe appliances, bell jar pendant lights, and a raised fireplace all surround the star of the show which is a huge island topped by a dramatically patterned slab of granite and inset with a hammered copper sink. Nearby, Tom's study is replete with references to his favorite pastimes, most of which have to do with football, skiing and fishing. Pocket doors lead directly to the most inviting home gym, surrounded by three walls of windows overlooking the backyard. Even the couchiest of potatoes would be hard pressed to resist a quick workout here.

Another great family hangout is the lower level which was just renovated this year. There is something for every generation to enjoy with a pool table, air hockey, media room, a portable sauna and a spectacular 1,200 bottle wine room.

On your way out, stop by the pool which is beautifully landscaped for privacy. It includes a stone patio with fire pit, hot tub, built in grill and a charming furnished pool house. This is just one more spot for the Healys to gather for special times with their family and friends.

The Jackson Home

The Jacksons' classic Georgian manor commands a hilltop position in Glencairn surrounded by stately trees and sweeping lawns. A gracious foyer sets the stage for the rest of the house with its curved staircase, marble floors, exquisite Regency style Maitland-Smith furnishings, and a huge American Rococo giltwood pier mirror made in Philadelphia in 1860 and still housing its original mercury glass. The adjacent cherry paneled library is Scott's domain, surrounded by sentimental references to his family's heritage as Texas cowboys. It's all here—longhorns, found animal skulls, ancestral photos, and a large Frederic Remington reproduction sculpture. The Jacksons also own "Senterfitt Farms" in Madison, Virginia, purveyors of excellent beef to all of us who shop at Wegmans.

Themes echo as you continue through the dining room and beyond. Look for palace Oriental rugs, elegant Maitland-Smith furniture, other wooden pieces crafted by E.A. Clore Sons, their neighbors in Madison, and Blair's whimsical collections—hands, teapots, miniature chairs. She also displays cherished heirlooms such as a delicate dress from her infancy, her mother's cut glass collection in the dining room display cabinet and perfume bottles on her dressing table, a large soup ladle from Lady Bird Johnson, and a magnificent silver tea service which was an engagement gift to her grandparents. All of these riches notwithstanding, the unique treasures of this home are on the walls and come from Blair's own hand. She is a master photographer and quintessential artist. She is the president of the Metropolitan Washington Colored Pencil Society. For most of us, this is the first time we will see this medium extensively exhibited in all of its meticulous and vibrant artistry. Her works adorn each room in abundance, along with pieces by her similarly talented friends. Works by her sister-in-law, Kay Jackson, are in a different style and just as distinctive — oils on wood panels with gold, palladium, and silver leaf. To get a glimpse into the mind and method of an artist, don't miss Blair's studio, housing a large drafting table, thousands of colored pencils and other supplies, and "idea boards" to inspire her work.

The Mulrooney Home

The Mulrooney Home is located a half mile outside of the historic Clifton. In the 19th century this property sat on 140 acres. This house was burned during the Civil War and rebuilt afterwards. The house burned again in 1900 due to a kitchen fire. The 1900 house is a two over two Virginia farm house – two rooms on the first floor and two bedrooms above them. The many handmade bricks found on the property from an earlier structure are used to edge the south facing old well garden.

You feel you are walking into a special place from the past when you walk to the front door up the front brick walkway under the two old silver maples. You enter the home's main parlor which has a wood burning fireplace, the original 1901 heart pine floors and staircase banister. A beautiful antique walnut drop front desk is located to the right of the fireplace. Antique fashion advertising prints for ladies' wear from 1899 to 1901 decorate the wall over the couch. A primitive bench sits outside the small coat closet under the stairs.

An addition with a kitchen, bath, and master bedroom was added in between 1920 and 1950. A large addition for a family room, master bedroom and mudroom was built in 1991. The kitchen was renovated in 2005. Additional upgrades and remodels were done to all the baths in 2014. Attention to detail and traditional design has kept these modern upgrades true to the period of the original home.

The old laundry room in the back now houses two old pieces from the great grandson of Robert E. Lee. This room exits to a charming side porch with a new slate floor. More pieces from the Robert E. Lee family can be found in the family room, a primitive trunk and a painted green chest. Jackie's black and white family photos, an antique tobacco knife from Richmond, 1935 radio, and miniature oil lamps also adorn the family room. The dining room is furnished with her grandmother's Kittinger set with its handmade needlepoint on the chair seats. It also houses her collection of antique teacups, crystal and paperweights. Colorful handmade Persian rugs can be found throughout the home.

The second story with its original banister and railing also boasts heart pine floors. Jackie restored the trim on the 1850s walnut Lincoln bed in the south guest bedroom. An 1850s "butter print" chest and Victorian frames complement this period room. Four antique German exotic bird prints hang in the upper hallway.

The new master bedroom and master bath have cathedral ceilings. The original master bedroom is now the master bedroom sitting room. A small French inlaid antique side table in the master bedroom is very similar to the one in the opening of the PBS series Downton Abbey. An early American antique dresser from a West Virginia estate sits opposite the bed. The gardens underwent a renaissance from 2005 to 2014 to install deer-resistant foundation plantings including box woods, lamb's ear, English laurels, Goshiki false hollies and spireas to name a few. An abundance of birds including a golden eagle have been spotted. A renovated four-stall barn circa 1940 with tack room and wash room sits at the end of the driveway. Jackie's herb garden is located behind the barn. A regulation size dressage ring is situated on the southeast side of the property. The Mulrooneys do not have horses but use the five acres to rescue and rehabilitate German Shepherds. Additionally, they have set aside 3 acres as a butterfly sanctuary. The milkweed and butterfly bushes bring twelve different species of butterflies in summer.

CAMPS & SCHOOLS Affording Summer Camp

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL

One of the great pleasures of summer is going to camp. From kayaking and rock climbing to horseback riding and sailing, camp is a place where lifelong memories are created. A recent study by the non-profit, global policy think tank RAND Corporation shows that voluntary summer programs like camp have a significant, positive impact on low-income students during a time when they fall behind their wealthier peers both academically and socially.

Katie Crump, a case manager at Interfaith Works, a non-profit organization dedicated to helping the poor and underserved, says that the luxury of summer camp often eludes those who need it most.

"The opportunity of attending a real summer camp is a big thing for them. Unfortunately, this experience can be unattainable due to the high cost and finding transportation among other things," said Crump. "Attending summer camp affords kids a special and important experience that's all their own. It allows kids to be kids, something that is particularly vital for low-income children who are often forced to deal with the burdens of adulthood at a young age."

Despite the cost of summer camp, keeping children engaged during the stretch of time between June and August when school is not in session is a critical part of their development, says Jerome Short, Ph.D., associate professor of psychology at George Mason University.

"Summer camps give opportunities for children to develop social, emotional, cognitive, and behavioral skills," he said. "Some research shows that higher [socioeconomic status] children increase academic and behavioral skills over the summer and lower [socioeconomic status] children lose skills over the summer. Research shows that lower [socioeconomic status] children benefit from learning social and behavioral skills in different settings with new peers and challenges to apply their skills."

Even with limited resources, summer camps can still be accessible, says Tom Rosenberg, president and CEO of the American Camp Association (ACA). "There is a camp for every budget," he said "[Most] ACA-accredited camps provide some form of scholarship assistance. Reach out to the camp directly to ask about specific financial aid and scholarship options."

The RAND study also showed that even though low-income students can lose up to two months of math and reading skills over the summer, high-quality summer programs can bridge that gap. Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) camps are an example of programs that can be effective, but possibly unaffordable for some families.

Wolftrap and Colvin Run elementary schools in Fairfax County will be the site of a non-profit STEM camp called Camp Invention. Organized by the National Inventors Hall of Fame (NIHF), the hands-on program is designed for children in kindergarten through sixth grade. Through activities like building robots and designing gadgets, campers get a sense of what it's like to be a physicist or engineer.

"The program has sponsors that provide funding that's used to help underrepresented kids attend the camps," said Ken Torisky, spokesman for National Inventors Hall of Fame. "The money is distributed to students by the school district."

Options for financial assistance for summer camp run the gamut from discounts for dependents of those serving in the military to camp funding offered by churches, synagogues, and civic organizations. "I would suggest to parents that they look into their child being sponsored by a local business to attend a camp or look into payment plan options at a camp that they are interested in attending," advised Stacie Gottlieb, director, Bullis Summer and Extended Day

Programs in Potomac, Md.

While Bullis does not offer financial assistance for summer camp, Gottlieb says that there are discounts for early registration and registering for multiple weeks of camp.

Parents should check to see if a camp participates in U.S. government assistance programs, particularly those with income eligibility requirements, like Title XX, advises Rosenberg. While it might be too late for this summer, he encourages parents to explore Dependent Care Flexible Spending Accounts and a Child and Dependent Care tax credit through the FSA Feds website: <https://www.fsafeds.com/>.

"I generally think lower income children benefit when they have access to the same opportunities as upper-income children and also gain cultural skills and knowledge important to upward mobility when they have opportunity to interact with upper-income kids," said Amy L. Best, Ph.D., professor and chair, Department of Sociology and Anthropology at George Mason University. "I also think upper-income kids gain mightily when they have genuine interactions with kids from other class backgrounds. Because empathy, cross cultural understanding, and an ability to work in diverse groups are skills that this new century demands, having opportunities to hone those skills are of value for all involved."

Making Prom Dreams Come True

Fairfax County Public School (FCPS) marketing students from Centreville High School and the Fair Oaks Classroom on the Mall program opened the annual Fair Oaks Prom Dress Shop earlier this month. The dress shop, which has been in business for 12 years, has helped hundreds of financially challenged students attend prom in style each spring.

Donations of stylish, high-quality, dry-cleaned prom dresses and select accessories can either be dropped off in the main office of Centreville High School between the hours of 7:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. or at the shop in Fair Oaks Mall during the shop hours listed below.

Centreville High School Fashion Marketing students started collecting donated dresses in 2006 as a way to combine their interests in fashion with community service. They came to the conclusion that students would not feel comfortable "shopping" for a dress at school. They decided to set up the shop in another location to give students a more authentic shopping experience, which led them to partner with the Fair Oaks Classroom on the Mall program.

The Fair Oaks Prom Dress Shop is located on the lower level of Fair Oaks Mall behind the barricade between the Sleep Number store and Helzberg Diamonds. Students from any area high school — not just FCPS — who are in need of a prom dress and do not have the funds to purchase one can come and choose from hundreds of donated dresses and accessories. They must show a valid student ID, or other form of school identification, in order to anonymously select a free dress during the following store hours: Friday, May 4, 4 to 7 p.m.; Saturday, May 5, 2 to 5 p.m.; Sunday, May 6, 1 to 4 p.m.; Friday, May 25 4 to 7 p.m.; Saturday, May 26, 2 to 5 p.m.; and Sunday, May 27, 1 to 4 p.m.

said Nguyen. “We have a deejay for the dance party on the turf field, the raffle will be held throughout the evening and a pizza dinner from Domino’s is included in the registration price.”

Raffle items include gift cards to several restaurants, including Dickey’s Barbecue Pit and P.F. Chang’s, and to hair salons including Mara Hair Studio. Peterson’s Ice Cream Depot in Clifton is donating a pass for free ice cream for the season, and movie tickets and other entertainment opportunities will be raffled off, as well.

This year, all event proceeds will go to Team Mathias (<https://www.teammathias.org/>). Nguyen hopes 150 people will sign up to participate; her goal is to raise more than $10,000 for this charity. For more information, contact the race director at wildcatsvscancer@gmail.com.

“We chose Team Mathias because he passed away at the age of 13 due to osteosarcoma [cancer of the bone] – the same type of cancer my sister had,” said Nguyen. “Cecilia was also 13 when she died, so we’re doing this festival in her memory, too. By holding this event, we hope to illuminate Cecilia’s spirit. She may be physically gone, but her bright soul lives within each of us through our actions in honor of her.”

But there’s another reason, as well, and it’s important, too, said Nguyen. “Not only will this make people more aware of childhood cancer, but they’ll realize that this can happen to anyone,” she said. “And for us able-bodied people, it’s our obligation and responsibility to stand up for children and families who are busy fighting for their lives.”

You Mean Tomorrow Tuesday?

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

Not that deadlines don't happen in the newspaper business; of course they do, every Tuesday for us weeklies. But when combined with my usual post-chemotherapy malaise, it is a bit more challenging. More so when the deadline is tightened up due to the nature of hitting and occasionally missing in-house communications, which is also not unreasonable given the multiple demands multi tasking imposes.

Compounding this task even more is that until I'm back to semi post-chemo normal, in the interim, I am not eating too much, not sleeping well, have low energy (related to the previous two deficiencies), my hands are shaky, my balance is off and I'm having some difficulty focusing. It's a good thing I'm sitting at a desk while attempting to write this column because operating any heavy machinery would definitely be out of the question. What I need to do is mind my own business.

Business which at the moment involves fending off my buff-colored male cat, Chino, as he angles to sit on my writing pad as I move him from left to right – and then right to left since he won't take “Chino, move!” for a directive. But if I know anything, other than what to expect post chemo, I also know what to expect from Chino – or any of the other cats we manage: independence, as any fellow cat owner knows. Unlike a “true and loyal dog,” a cat, generally speaking, is not inclined to respond to your commands, well, too many of them, anyway. Nor are they likely to respond to any physical discipline and/or pushing/pulling/redirection. Invariably, if you push, they pull. If you pull, they push.

How Chino knows I'm not feeling well and on an unanticipated and abbreviated deadline, I'll never know. But rather than leave me to it, he'll interfere every way possible: nuzzling, nudging, leaning, rubbing, meowing, moving about and plopping down when all else fails. If you love cats as we do, this is their charm. If you don't love them and their antics, I can see how this kind of behavior can be very frustrating.

I mean, with all this activity, it's difficult to think about what I'm supposed to be doing when I'm so busy preventing things from getting done. I imagine Chino thinks he's doing me a favor, being so affectionate and so in the way. Maybe he thinks he's contributing to the creative process by sitting in the middle of my writing pad? In a way, maybe he is. He's forcing me to concentrate. Moreover, he's forcing me to focus on this most immediate task which, at the moment, has me fending him off with my left wrist while I'm scribbling prose with my right hand. Oddly enough, it might be working as I'm three-quarters finished with this column which 30 minutes ago was a weekend task until it became a today/Tuesday task.

Now if I didn't have a CT scan and lower abdomen MRI scheduled for Wednesday, I'd have a bit more time to sort out the details of writing this column. Unfortunately, post-chemo, mid-newspaper deadline and pre-scan is a triple threat which sometimes can impose its will. A ‘will’ which I take personally so I will persevere and complete this column with one final paragraph now that Chino has left my desk and likely ended up on some unoccupied couch to sleep; he's had a big day.

All kidding aside, if there's one behavior I need more than any other during these deadline triple threats, it's companionship. Because of Chino and our other four cats: Andrew, Sloane, Biscuit and Twinkle, I am never alone and always have someone to talk to who, occasionally talks back. Not that we understand one another, but it's giving and getting, and it's loving and affecting – me and my cancer; and everything in between.

STOP SCAMS

Join us for a free fraud fighting event

Every day, hundreds of local residents lose their hard-earned money to a variety of fraud schemes. In fact, every 2 seconds, a con artist steals someone's identity!

To strike back against scammers, AARP Virginia and Fairfax County Government's Silver Shield Task Force are bringing together top experts and law enforcement officials to present at a free informational Scam Jam.

The presenters will discuss scams targeting Virginians, such as fake solicitor schemes, bogus investment deals, lottery scams, email fraud, a grandparent ruse and the latest identity theft shams.
