STAYING SAFE TOGETHER

May 18 is Bike to Work Day.
Here are some safety tips to remember.

Sharrows indicate a shared lane for bicycles and cars. Slow down and watch for bicyclists. Motorists may cross the double yellow line to pass when it is safe to do so.

Bike lanes give bicycles their own space, making it safer to pass. Do not drive or park in a bike lane.

When turning right in a car, merge into the dashed bike lane and turn at the curb. Do not merge across solid bike lane.

Sheehy Subaru of Springfield Raises $47,000 to Benefit Inova Children's Hospital

Sheehy Subaru of Springfield recently presented the Inova Children's Hospital with a $47,000 donation raised as part of the 2017 Subaru Share the Love campaign.

The Share the Love event ran from Nov. 16, 2017 through Jan. 2, 2018, and allowed Subaru retailers, such as Sheehy Subaru of Springfield, the opportunity to select charities operating in their community to be included in a list of organizations that new owners can select from to receive a $250 donation from Subaru of America, Inc. For a second year in a row, there was no cap on the total donation from Subaru to its Share the Love charitable partners.

Sheehy Subaru of Springfield donated an additional $50 per vehicle for the charity as part of the overall donation.

Inova Children's Hospital is an award-winning, full-service children's hospital devoted to the healthcare of infants, children and adolescents in the Northern Virginia area.

Two Die in Springfield Single-vehicle Crash

Virginia State Police Trooper W.C. Sheehan is investigating a single-vehicle crash in Springfield. The crash occurred at 12:16 a.m. Friday, May 4, on the exit ramp from westbound I-495 to Eisenhower Avenue.

Trooper Sheehan was on routine patrol when he came upon an overturned 2013 Nissan Sentra. The trooper's investigation determined that the Nissan had been traveling at a high rate of speed when it took the exit ramp. The vehicle ran off the side of the road, struck the Jersey wall and overturned.

Both the driver, Leon M. Johnson, 22, of Alexandria, and passenger, Alysha J. Battle, 20, of Alexandria, died at the scene.

The crash remains under investigation.

Lorton Man Dies in I-395 Crash

At 2:23 p.m., Tuesday, May 8, Virginia State Police responded to the scene of a crash in the southbound lanes of I-395, just north of I-495.

According to police report, an Infiniti sedan was traveling south on I-395 when its driver experienced a medical emergency. The Infiniti struck a southbound 2015 GMC Sierra pickup truck, ran off the road, struck the Jersey wall and then struck a southbound 2004 Chevrolet truck.

A passing citizen began administering CPR on the driver of the Infiniti, Kevin L. Brooks, 44, of Lorton. Despite the immediate, life-saving efforts of the citizen and Fairfax County Fire & EMS, Brooks died at Fairfax Inova Hospital.

None of the other drivers was injured in the crash.

Much unity, some dissention as community discusses the issue.

The Connection

U. S. Rep. Gerald E. Connolly's Town Hall meeting at the Providence Community Center on Tuesday evening, May 1, represented a departure from most public forums.

To begin with, the format wasn't the traditional politician updating his constituents, responding to their questions and feedback, then making the rounds and shaking hands. Instead, the congressman shared the speaker's table with four high school students who he credited with "bringing us together this evening for a community discussion on gun safety."

Since the shooting at Marjory Stoneman Douglas High School in Parkland, Fla. on Feb. 14 that left 17 dead and more wounded, students across the nation have organized rallies, school walkouts and marches. They have been demanding gun regulations, other changes in law enforcement and communications, and more resources for mental health awareness and treatment. Groups have formed under banners such as "Enough is Enough," "March for Our Lives," and "Never Again."

"We are more than an interest club. We will push for action," said panelist Michael McCabe, a sophomore at Robinson Secondary School in Fairfax.

In recent weeks, McCabe and many other young activists started contacting their elected officials, asking to be heard. Connolly's office received its fair share of those communications.

"This is really their Town Hall," Connolly said in his opening remarks, adding that he sees real momentum coming from the student movement. "I think it is with their voices, their passion, that we will finally get something done."

Three of the four panelists belong to the group Students Demand Action (SDA) at their respective schools, and the fourth is the president of Youth Initiative for National Action. They were there to pursue "common sense gun legislation."

Ella Wogaman represented the West Springfield High School chapter of Students Demand Action. She is also the social media correspondent for the regional SDA chapter.

"A few months ago, we had a handful of members. I think we just hit 400," Wogaman said. The West Springfield senior says that she and many others are focusing efforts on voter registration and getting people, especially first-time voters to the polls, as the way to "really find our voice and get our issues addressed."

Langston Carter, a home-schooled senior from Woodbridge who has attended public schools, spoke from the viewpoint of students of color.

Carter cited studies that show people of color, particularly young African-American males, are significantly more likely to be the victims of gun violence. The mission of Carter's organization is to "encourage the next generation to take action against bigotry and other issues ... to work with political leaders to make a difference."

Ryan Carney highlighted some of the actions that the members of his SDA chapter are taking.

"We've been getting together, organizing phone banks, writing letters, getting the word out wherever we can," said the James Madison High School junior.

It's also no secret where Connolly stands on the issue of gun safety — right alongside them. An active member of the Gun Violence Prevention Task Force, he says he's proud of the "F" grade he earns each year from the National Rifle Association (NRA), whose headquarters are located in his congressional district. Aside from attending vigils on the NRA's doorstep, recently for Parkland, and annually on the anniversary of the Sandy Hook Elementary School massacre, Connolly attributes his status with the organization to the numerous gun safety laws he has proposed or supported over the years. He also took aim at his "friends across

The Fairfax Council of PTAs, represented by president Beth Tudon, offered assistance and resources to promote voter registration in schools.

Donna Widawski, a former Secret Service agent from Fairfax, supports the efforts of the congressman and the students, but reminded them to "think bigger picture" about school and public safety.

Zachary Schonfeld asked the panelists how they handle negative backlash — something the South Lakes High School senior faced after speaking at an event. "One word," responded U.S. Rep. Gerry Connolly. "Fortitude."

"We are more than an interest club. We will push for action."

cies of persons prohibited from boarding commercial aircraft for travel within, into, or out of U.S. airspace, primarily for suspected terrorist association.]

For Connolly and others, the basics are simple, "no-brainer" pieces of legislation to ban assault weapons, enact universal background checks and close the "gun show loophole."

The current drafts are H.R. 5087 to ban assault weapons, H.R. 4240 to establish universal background checks, and H.R. 1612 to close the gun show loophole.

the aisle" for their unwillingness to go against the NRA and "even discuss sensible safety measures to protect all of our citizens."

"WE'RE NOT talking about taking everyone's guns away," Connolly said, "but I am sick of a 'moment of silence' in Congress after each of these horrific events and no action. More than 150,000 people have lost their lives to gun violence since Newtown and yet in all that time Congress has not taken a single vote to enact [basic gun control measures] ... We couldn't even get a vote to keep guns out of the hands of people who are on the "No Fly List." [A list created by several federal government agen-

(CDC) had been barred from studying the effects of gun violence, Connolly responded that the latest government funding bill did clarify that the CDC was, in fact, empowered to do such research, but that the funds to do so were not approved.

WHEN AUDIENCE members got their turn at the microphone, most offered encouragement and congratulations to the student activists.

Although it seemed that the panel and the audience were closely aligned in their views, there were those in the audience with a differing opinion.

New Ronald McDonald Family Room Opens at Inova Children's Hospital

On Monday, April 30, volunteers and families joined representatives from Ronald McDonald House Charities® of Greater Washington, D.C. and Inova Children's Hospital to celebrate the grand opening of a new Ronald McDonald Family Room on the Hematology/Oncology floor.

Ronald McDonald Family Rooms are quiet, welcoming places of respite for parents and caregivers that provide such amenities as coffee, snacks, computer stations, and comfortable seating, in addition to being the hub for the Hospitality a la Carte that brings care and comfort to the bedside of patients on the floor.

The new Ronald McDonald Family Room was made possible by a donation from Syed and Sadia Anderabi, who were in attendance with their family. The Anderabis manage four McDonald's in the State of Maryland and cite Ronald McDonald House Charities of Greater Washington, D.C. as their passion.

Opinion

Vote, Vote, Vote

Anyone who was closely watching last November's election in got a demonstration about what difference one vote can make. Control of the Virginia General Assembly came down to a single race that was deemed to be tied, and was decided by a random drawing. Republicans won.

Vote. It's so important to vote. Your vote could actually be the deciding vote.

Your best shot at ensuring you can vote is to vote early.

Editorial How To Vote

Every year is election year in Virginia; mechanics and details of voting require attention to detail. For the primary, you will ask for a Democratic or Republican ballot.

If you want to be sure you get to vote, voting early if you qualify is a good choice. Early voting, called absentee voting in person in Virginia, is already underway for the primary.

There are many valid reasons to vote absentee in Virginia, including working and commuting to and from home for 11 or more hours between 6 a.m. and 7 p.m. on Election Day. Check the Virginia Department of Elections list to see if you are eligible: elections.virginia.gov/casting-a-ballot/absentee-voting/index.html

There are two ways to vote absentee, in-person and by mail. To do either, you should first check your voter registration status to make sure it is up-to-date. Then you will need to apply for an absentee ballot. If you vote absentee in-person you will fill out the application when you arrive at the location.

Voting absentee by mail? You can now apply for an absentee ballot online with the state's new Citizen Portal. You will need your Social Security Number and information on your Virginia Driver's License to complete the application. Information is also provided on how to apply if you do not have a driver's license.

Making Summer Camp Affordable

To the Editor:

I read with interest Marilyn Campbell's recent article on the difficulty of affording summer camp. As the director of Traveling Players Ensemble, a summer theatre camp, I've been acutely aware of the issues families face in paying for camp for years. I've seen the enormous difference that summer enrichment programs can make in a kid's life. That's why I

Virginia Voter ID

Virginia has voter identification requirements; plan to bring photo identification with you to vote, whether that is absentee or on Primary Election Day.

Among accepted ID: valid Virginia Driver's License or Identification Card; valid Virginia DMV issued Veteran's ID card; valid U.S. Passport; other government-issued photo identification cards issued by the U.S. Government, the Commonwealth of Virginia, or a political subdivision of the Commonwealth; Tribal enrollment or other tribal ID issued by one of 11 tribes recognized by the Commonwealth of Virginia; valid college or university student photo identification card from an institution of higher education located in Virginia; valid student ID issued by a public school or private school in Virginia displaying a photo; employee identification card containing a photograph of the voter and issued by an employer of the voter in the ordinary course of the employer's business.

Any registered voter who does not have one of the required forms of identification can apply for a free Virginia Voter Photo Identification from any general registrar's office in the Commonwealth. Voters applying for the Virginia Voter Photo ID complete the Virginia Voter Photo Identification Card Application, have their picture taken, and sign the digital signature pad. Once the application is processed, the card will be mailed directly to the voter. A voter who does not bring an acceptable photo ID to the polls will be offered a provisional ballot.

Provisional Ballot Process for Voters Who Arrive Without Identification

If you arrive at your polling place on Election Day without an acceptable form of photo identification, don't panic or give up.

You will be given the opportunity to vote a provisional ballot. After completing the provisional ballot, the individual voting will be given written instructions from the election officials on how to submit a copy of his/her identification so that his/her vote can be counted.

A voter will have until noon on the Friday following the election to deliver a copy of the identification to the local electoral board or to appear in person to apply for a Virginia Voter Photo ID Card. Voters may submit a copy of their ID via fax, email, in-person submission, or through USPS or commercial delivery service. Please note that the copy of the ID must be delivered by noon on Friday.

Also by noon on Friday following the election, the voter may appear in-person in the office of the general registrar, in the locality in which the provisional ballot was cast, and apply for a Virginia Voter Photo ID Card. At the completion of the application process, the voter may request a Temporary Identification Document. This document may be provided to the electoral board to meet the identification requirement.

A Look Into the Land of Witches and Giants

West Springfield High School's production of 'Into the Woods.'

By Emma Rood
Herndon High School

Come have your "Moments in the Woods" with West Springfield High School's sparkling cast of Sondheim's classic musical "Into the Woods." Lapine and Sondheim's "Into the Woods" has been enchanting audiences since the 1987 Broadway premiere, which won three Tony awards, and has continued its legacy through revivals, tours, and high school performances such as this around the country. The stories seen in the show are based off of the Grimms Brothers' fairy tales, such as Rapunzel, Jack and the Beanstalk, Cinderella, Little Red Riding Hood, etc. Though Disney may have took the road to the happy ending with their adaptations of some of these stories, Lapine and Sondheim put their own twist on the characters' fates as their seeming separate stories become intertwined. "Into the Woods" teaches audiences the tough lesson that they should be careful what they wish for, and understand the consequences that arise when they get that wish. Even though they give the audience a lot to swallow with that recurring theme, the iconic Broadway duo breathe a playful air into the characters and makes it a delightful experience for theatregoers.

Stephen Perkins and Eila Nash were playful and realistic as the Baker and Baker's Wife; two difficult roles, as they move the story along while handling Sondheim's infamously difficult lyrics and entrancing the audience. Both Perkins and Nash were consistently engaging (Nash in her number "Moments in the Woods" is a great example) and had such a natural dynamic with each other. Another dynamic duo were the two princes, played by Brooks Todd and Brenden Blackwell, who characters to travel across. The set was an incredible use of the stage; it was simple enough not to cause distraction from the actors, but big enough to provide a sense of fantasy. With the help of gorgeous lighting and a pit orchestra that successfully tackled the behemoth that is the "Into the Woods" score, the tech crew and musicians transported the audience directly into the land of witches and giants.

were engaged in a hilarious rivalry but also were able to show the brotherly love underneath it all. Brandon LaBarge stole the audience's hearts as the sweet ("and occasionally vague") Jack, along with his equally as loveable cow Milky White (Madeline Howard). The pair's charisma lit up the stage and touched all of those in the audience.

One of the factors that helped the production be as whimsical as it was, was the set design. Giant books with the fairy tales on them turned into set pieces with a simple 90 degree turn, leaves dropped from the ceiling as the setting changed, and pages of storybooks became ramps for the

Free Storytelling Show for Anniversary Celebration

Better Said Than Done celebrates seven years of storytelling.

In celebration of its seventh anniversary, Better Said Than Done is hosting a free storytelling show on Saturday, May 19, 7 p.m., downstairs at The Auld Shebeen, 3971 Chain Bridge Road, Fairfax. Doors open at 6 p.m. Full bar and dinner menus are available and seating is first come, first served.

The stories are intended for an adult audience.

Seven years ago, Better Said Than Done brought the art of storytelling to Northern Virginia, producing monthly shows featuring performers from Northern Virginia and the D.C. area (along with some not-so-local), taking the stage to tell true, personal stories – ranging from poignant to silly, and sometimes unbelievable, but always entertaining. On May 19, Better Said Than Done is showing its gratitude to the Northern Virginia community for being a growing and supportive audience over the past seven years the only way it knows how – with a storytelling show. The free show will feature stories of adventure, love, suspense, and more. Better Said Than Done stories are always true, personal and intended for an adult audience.

Join host and Better Said Than Done founder Jessica Robinson and storytellers Nick Baskerville, Noa Baum, Geraldine Buckley, Mike Kane, Len Kruger, David Supley Foxworth, and Cyndi Wish.

Ready for Summer

Time to dust-off and spruce up patios for a season of al fresco entertaining.

By Marilyn Campbell

When designing the patio of her McLean home, interior design professor Jean Freeman of Marymount University, relied on the natural surroundings to create a backdrop for her outdoor oasis.

"I have an area in the backyard that has small stones and lounge furniture," she said. "Our backyard is next to Pimmit Run Trail and has lots of trees, some of which I planted. Also, I planted several holly trees so that the area would attract more birds and sometimes the bird chirping gets quite loud and wonderful."

Gentle breezes and mild temperatures are some of the pleasures of spring that beckon many outdoors for parties and family dinners, but turning a winter-worn patio into a space for entertaining can feel daunting. Breathing new life into a landscape dulled by snow and frost or creating an entirely new outdoor space might be easier than it appears.

When considering a patio furniture purchase, avoid the battle against Mother Nature by selecting pieces that can stand up to the elements. "The number one rule in furnishing your patio is to purchase quality furniture," said Anne Walker of Anne Walker Design LLC. "There are a lot of outdoor furnishings that look alike, but they are not all the same. Dedon, based in Germany and Janus et Cie, based in California, make excellent outdoor furnishings that will stand the test of time ... [and] will not fade, warp or degrade even if left outdoors in the elements for years."

Less expensive look-alikes will fall apart after just a few years or months of exposure to the elements, continued Walker. "I can't stress it enough: invest in high-quality outdoor furnishings or you will just be throwing your money away. Buy the best you can afford, and work little by little if need be to complete your outdoor space. You won't be sorry."

When choosing fabrics for that furniture, Todd Martz, co-owner of Home on Cameron in Old Town Alexandria, says, "Accessories like pillows and draperies as well as chairs, sofas and rugs are all available in low maintenance fabrics."

Selecting smaller, easy-to-move pieces of furniture over large sectionals will produce a design plan with versatility. "You'll be happy to have the flexibility to move things around when you entertain or when the sun shifts and you want to get into or away from the direct sun," said Walker.

One design technique that Anne Walker has incorporated into the design of her own patio is choosing smaller, moveable pieces of furniture — like these Dedon Barcelona lounge chairs — over large sectionals to allow for a versatile design plan.

Incorporating potted plants into the landscape design offers versatility. "Mix several sized plants ... very large as well as different types of plants in smaller planters," added Kelley Proxmire of Kelley Proxmire, Inc. "Vary the textures as well as the color of green leaves such as ferns, palms and flowering plants."

Use planters to create architectural features like walls and borders. "The plants will add beautiful visual interest, and the planters are moveable, allowing flexibility in use and design," said Walker.

For those who want to build a stone patio, go for variety, but establish a solid base to avoid costly repairs later. "Combinations of flagstone and brick are elegant and more interesting than use of only one type of materials," said Walker. "Make sure you have a professional set your patio in concrete. It's much less expensive to set the stone in stone dust, but within a year or less the stones will begin to shift and weeds will grow through the gaps."

Lighting matters, says Proxmire, and she suggest that when designing or even sprucing up patio, "Use different sources of light [such as] inside-outdoor lamps, different sizes of lanterns, candlesticks with glass hurricanes," she said. "The candles with batteries are great for using outside because the wind isn't an issue."

Now that summer is on the horizon, Walker has a plan for getting her patio guest-ready. "I will power wash with my personal home power washer, plant a few flowers and boom! Ready to entertain," she said. "We love to entertain on our patio. It's our favorite space."

Kelley Proxmire suggests using plants and planters in a variety of sizes — such as these blue and white ceramic pots to create a light and airy patio space.

Todd Martz of Home on Cameron designed this patio and says that exterior spaces can be treated like an indoor room by using bright, fresh fabrics designed specifically for outdoors.

Beloved Numbers, Beautiful Voices

Celebrating 60 years, Fairfax Symphony presents its season grand finale.

By David Siegel
 The Connection

The Fairfax Symphony Orchestra (FSO) presents the final concert of its 60th season. The performance will rejoice with acclaimed works by renowned composers and voices to match. Featuring music and song, the FSO intends to provide patrons with an evening filled with soaring melodies, tender duets, and favorite music of broad appeal.

"This special occasion marks an important milestone in our 60-year partnership with our Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, Fairfax County Public Schools, our corporate partners and donors, and the entire community," said Jim McKeever, Fairfax Symphony Board Chair. "Together, we affirm our commitment to musical excellence, innovative music education programs, and a high quality of life for our residents, employees, and visitors."

Musical selections to be played include Verdi's "La Traviata," Puccini's "Tosca," Bizet's "Carmen," and Bernstein's "Candide" and "West Side Story" among others.

When asked about the special evening, Christopher Zimmerman, FSO Conductor said, "This is our culminating concert of the season. It celebrates our 60th and Fairfax County's 275th founding anniversary. And, added to that, we are providing a tribute to the great American musician Leonard Bernstein. Musically speaking, we at the FSO wanted to have and share a fun affair with our patrons full of soloists, choruses, and virtuosos music for orchestra alone."

Featured with the Fairfax Symphony Orchestra will be internationally renowned tenor Carl Tanner from Falls Church, and soprano Danielle Talamantes. They will be joined by more than 100 voices of the Fairfax Choral Society and Music & Arts Chorus.

"The FSO prides itself on collaborating with tremendous soloists—both young and seasoned alike; as well as other music institutions, and even other art forms," added Zimmerman. "It will be an evening of raw energy; beautiful, uplifting and powerful music; and tunes that everyone knows and loves."

South County Pitcher Martin Shuts Down Lake Braddock

Freshman allows one hit, strikes out 12 during 3-1 victory.

By Jon Roetman
The Connection

South County softball coach Gary Dillow recognizes freshman Cara Martin as a cool customer in the pitcher's circle.

But despite being poised beyond her years, the Stallion southpaw experienced nerves during her first meeting with rival Lake Braddock, when South County traveled to Burke on April 20 and came out on the losing end of a 3-1 score.

Eighteen days later, Martin got another shot at Lake Braddock and this time, No. 14 mowed through the Bruins with the skill and focus of a veteran hurler.

With the top seed in the Patriot District tournament on the line, Martin allowed just one hit and struck out 12 while the Stallions defeated the Bruins 3-1 on Tuesday at South County High School.

Martin retired 16 of the final 17 batters she faced, a stretch of dominance interrupted only by a Bruin reaching base via South County error.

THE VICTORY earned the Stallions a regular-season split with the Bruins and home field advantage throughout the district tournament.

"I was concerned — they beat us the first time we played them, 3-1 — and with as many young kids as I've got, it was very important for us to win tonight for them to know that they can [beat Lake Braddock]," Dillow said. "I would certainly expect to see them again a week from Friday in our district finals."

When asked about some of the differences between Tuesday's contest and her April start against Lake Braddock, Martin, one of four freshmen on the South County roster, acknowledged her initial meeting with the Bruins was nerve-wracking.

"I felt a lot more pressure the first time because it was the first game I've ever played against Lake Braddock [and] there's always that rivalry that's going on," Martin said. "It's such an enclosed space (at Lake Braddock's field) — the dugouts aren't as big and the bleachers are like right there, so it all felt like it was pressing in on me. I tried to keep a level head, I tried to keep doing what I needed to do, but it was a little harder to keep your head [straight]."

While things went much smoother for Martin during most of Tuesday's contest, she did have to pitch out of trouble early.

Ellie Mataya led off the game with a double, Lake Braddock's only hit, and the Bruins had runners at first and third with one out but failed to score in the opening frame.

In the second inning, Lake Braddock had batters reach via hit by pitch, base on balls and intentional walk, but Martin limited the Bruins to one unearned run, which scored on a throwing error.

After a fly out to center field ended the top of the second inning, no Lake Braddock batter managed to hit the ball out of the infield against Martin for the remainder of the game.

Dillow said Martin carries herself like her older sister, Rebecca, a four-year starter for South County who was in the pitcher's circle when the Stallions captured the 2014 6A state championship.

"She doesn't get rattled," Dillow said. "She's just like her sister. Her sister was the same way: you can't tell by looking at her whether we're up five or down five. It's just really impressive."

Martin struck out six in a row during the third and fourth innings.

"She was on today," South County catcher Emma Yates said. "We trust her in the circle."

Along with catching Martin's gem, Yates, who will play at Virginia Tech, also played a key offensive role. The junior led off the bottom of the fourth inning with a single and moved into scoring position when Kyndal Harrison followed with a sacrifice bunt. With two outs, Yates scored the tying run from second base on a Lake Braddock fielding error despite the ball staying in the infield.

"[Yates is], in my opinion, one of the best catchers I've ever seen, defensively," Dillow said. "She's a lead-off [hitter and] she certainly doesn't run like a catcher."

In the bottom of the fifth, South County scored the go-ahead run on a wild pitch and Yates plated an insurance run with a sacrifice fly.

THE PATRIOT DISTRICT TOURNAMENT quarterfinals are scheduled for Friday, May 11, the semifinals are set for May 15 and the championship game will be held May 18.

Walkers of all different faiths take part in the Fairfax Interfaith Friendship Walk on Sunday, May 6, 2018, which began at Fairfax United Methodist Church in the City of Fairfax.

Interfaith Friendship Walk Held in Fairfax

About 100 people visit eight different communities of faith in the City of Fairfax.

By Steve Hibbard
The Connection

More than 100 people took part in the 3.3-mile Fairfax Interfaith Friendship Walk 2018 on Sunday, May 6, 2018, in the City of Fairfax. The mission of the second-annual walk was to help bring faith communities together to appreciate each other and feel part of the same whole despite their differences.

According to Henry Brinton, Pastor of Fairfax Presbyterian Church: "Last year, a group of clergy, both Christian and Muslim, were meeting together building relationships and we were so concerned about the divisiveness and polarization in our society today that we thought it would be a great idea to get members of our congregations together to walk through the City of Fairfax as a very visible sign of friendship between people of different faiths."

He continued: "We will be walking between eight different communities of faith within the City of Fairfax with representatives of 10 different communities of faith, including a Jewish congregation. We could not walk to each and every house of worship because of the distance involved. But we will have Muslim, Jewish and Christian participants in this Friendship Walk. The goal is to build friendships between neighbors here in the City of Fairfax, people of different faiths and nationalities because we believe that those personal relationships are really the secret to overcoming the divisions in society today."

THE GROUP started at the Fairfax United Methodist Church and visited Christian Science Church, Daniels Run Peace Church, Ezher Mosque, Metropolitan Community Church of Northern Virginia, Truro Anglican Church, Fairfax Presbyterian Church, Fairfax Baptist Church, and ended with the Christ Lutheran Church. At each stop, the group spent five minutes learning about that faith tradition.

"I think the reason why I'm here today is to affirm the diversity of our city and the importance of faith communities to contribute to our civic well-being," said David Meyer, Mayor of the City of Fairfax. "Local governments cannot meet all the needs of everyone, and churches, synagogues, mosques play a critical role in community building. They have programs for youth, for seniors, for people in all walks of life and they are essential for us to be a successful vibrant community. This Interfaith Walk is an affirmation that everybody's traditions and commitment to the community is important and that we have a shared vision for the well-being of all our citizens."

Rashid Telbisoglu, Program Director at Rumi Forum, added: "We thought that it would be a good idea to foster good relationships with different parts of the community for a better and peaceful Fairfax. We thought maybe we could organize an interfaith walk. And our idea of interfaith is basically engagement. We're not trying to create one religion or anything. But we want to create a friendship environment so it's actually Fairfax Interfaith Friendship Walk, so we want people to learn about each other's faiths and organizations and so that we know our neighbors in the community. That's how we are thinking of achieving a peaceful community."

FAIRFAX RESIDENT Earl Zimmerman, Pastor of Daniels Run Peace Church, added: "We used to have a little plaque in our church lawn called, 'No matter where you're from, we're glad you're a neighbor.' I think this walk just demonstrates that. We're from different faith traditions and we're walking through our city and enjoying each other's company and having a good time. And it just expresses our wanting to work together to be that kind of community that welcomes everybody."

Paul Collinson-Streng, Pastor of Christ Evangelical Lutheran Church in Fairfax, added: "We are just very excited to be here for the second year because it gives us an opportunity to demonstrate friendship with our brothers and sisters from other faith traditions. It's a great time to talk with each other; get to know each other along the road and learn a little bit about each other's faith traditions so it's a great afternoon for sharing."

Herndon resident Jan Ramp of the Christian Science Church of Fairfax added: "Our hope is to embrace the community for one, and to educate other churches as to our faith traditions. And so, we're just looking forward to being with our other church neighbors and all the neighbors here in Fairfax."

Summer Entertainment Series Set to Begin

Summer concerts are an American tradition. In the not-so-distant past, towns and villages across the nation boasted town bands and bandstands in the village square or the park at the center of town. Music was a catalyst, drawing young and old alike to come together as a community. Outdoors, concerts marked a time to relax, share a picnic supper and catch up with friends and neighbors.

The Fairfax County Park Authority has adopted this summer staple to orchestrate a renewed sense of community in Fairfax County. The line-up for the Park Authority includes a wide array of performances from classical to bluegrass and everything in between as well as children's performances, music and dance from around the world, and drive-in movies.

New this year is the Springfield Nights concert series, held on Wednesday evenings at Burke Lake Park.

2018 Summer Entertainment Series offers:

- ❖ Arts in the Parks children's entertainment series
 - ❖ Braddock Nights
 - ❖ Evenings on the Ellipse at the Government Center
 - ❖ Lee District Nights
 - ❖ Hunter Mill Melodies
 - ❖ Mount Vernon Nights
 - ❖ Music at Arrowbrook Centre Park in Dranesville
 - ❖ Nottoway Nights in the Providence District
 - ❖ Spotlight by Starlight in the Mason District
 - ❖ Springfield Nights
 - ❖ Starlight Cinema Drive-in movies in Sully District enjoyed these free performances over the years. We hope to see you this summer. Some series offer wine tasting and sales and food trucks. For details on each series go to <https://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/parks/performances>.

Most performances are held outdoors and are canceled in the case of inclement weather. Evenings on the Ellipse are held rain or shine. In the event of rain, the performances are moved inside to the Fairfax County Government Center Forum. You may call 703-324-7469 one hour prior to the start of the show for updates.

The free performances and movies are possible thanks to a strong partnership between government, volunteers, business sponsors, individual donors and the Fairfax County Park Foundation.

Fairfax City Manager Bob Sisson Announces Retirement

After serving the City of Fairfax for more than 27 years, City Manager Bob Sisson announced his retirement at a special City Council meeting. Sisson's tenure with the city makes him one of the region's longest-serving local government administrators. His retirement will be effective July 1, 2018.

In a statement given to the City Council, Sisson expressed his appreciation to the elected leadership of the city and to his fellow employees. Sisson said, "I'm pleased that I leave the city in good shape financially and operationally with such a bright future ahead."

The city has consistently been ranked in the top 10 places to live in the country, and recognition for the city's livability, safety and services has grown steadily during Sisson's time as city manager. Mayor David Meyer commented following Sisson's announcement that the city had made significant progress during the city manager's tenure. "Bob Sisson has led the city staff through nearly three decades of great change for the City of Fairfax. We've been incredibly fortunate to have Bob as our city manager, and we're very appreciative for his leadership and commitment on behalf of all our citizens."

Mayor Meyer announced that the Mayor and City Council would immediately begin a process to select a new city manager with the aid of an executive search consultant.

A new city manager is expected to be in place during the fall.

News Town Hall

One local resident, describing herself as a supporter of the Second Amendment, challenged Connolly on his views regarding the “hardening” of schools.

“I’m not completely sure what you mean by that,” answered Connolly, but he firmly rejected the proposal to arm teachers as a defense against gun violence in the classroom. “Can you imagine that scenario?” Connolly believes that it would be “madness” to put teachers in that position, even with training. “Was that a gunshot? Should I shoot? Who should I shoot? Teachers have a difficult enough role, a major responsibility just to do the job they have.”

Langston Carter and Michael McCabe backed Connolly’s position, noting that the “hardening of schools” approach to protection can often have a negative impact on students of color.

THINGS TURNED A LITTLE HEATED when the woman got back in line for a second turn at the microphone to “explain just what assault weapons are.” Rumblyings from the audience during her comments caused the speaker to angrily assert that “there’s all this talk of a conversation, but you don’t want to hear an opposite view.”

Zachary Schonfeld, a senior at Reston’s South Lakes High School, recounted the often hateful and vulgar negative backlash he faced, particularly on social media, after speaking at an event. “How do you handle that?” he asked the panel. Connolly’s response — “One word. Fortitude. Keep going. Our opponents are counting on you to quit, to give up. Know that you are making a difference.”

Other audience members offered suggestions for improving school safety. Some, like former Secret Service agent Donna Widawski, urged the congressman and the students to keep an eye on the bigger picture. “Sensible gun legislation is critical, but there is more to the story, more to be examined and addressed to prevent all types of violence in schools and in the community at large.”

Fairfax County Council of PTAs president Beth Tudon applauded the students’ efforts to promote voter registration, offering assistance from her organization and partners like the League of Women Voters.

According to the FCCPTA, fewer than 20 percent of the county’s students were registered to vote during the 2016-2017 school year. This year, the numbers registered have almost tripled, but “It’s time to make a push,” she said. The deadline to register for the June 2018 primaries is May 21.

Still Haven't Seen the Light

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

Wow!. I just saved “Up to $504  “ (not including the two asterisks), and all I did was buy a six pack of LED light bulbs. So it says on the package anyway.

Maybe I should buy another six-pack and save even more money? There are only two problems (just two?) with this plan. First, I don’t see a rebate-type form to complete and return and; in lieu there of, neither is there a guarantee, considering my health situation, that I’ll even live long enough (“Lasts 13+ Years”) to realize the benefit/savings of not spending additional money on light bulbs. (Are they even called light bulbs any more? I don’t see it printed on the package anywhere.)

And while I’ll definitely enjoy not spending money on light bulbs – or whatever they’re called, I won’t enjoy wondering if I’ve now spent money on light bulbs that I don’t actually need and/or likely will never even use. I mean, I have previously – because as a country/consumer we’ve had no other choice, given that the incandescent light bulb ship has sailed – bought replacement light bulbs. I don’t remember however, if the bulbs were LED, Halogen, Incandescent, CFL, Fluorescent or who knows what? Literally. Certainly not me.

My only light-bulb-related talent is screwing them into the fixture as I’ve written about previously. (Do you remember I called myself “Taurus Bulba”?) In fact, I may very well have already installed light bulbs that are going to last for years so it’s possible there isn’t even a need to allocate dollars and sense to bulb inventory – or even to write this column.

I suppose that if I’m serious and/or inclined to shine a light on this problem, I need to get organized, either on my computer or in pen in a notebook (Sort of like how my wife’s Italian grandfather, Cesare, did regarding Christmas cards. He had years of notebooks with names listed with boxes alongside, checked or not, for cards sent and/or received) to identify which lights/fixtures have which kind of light bulbs so I’ll know whether it’s likely I’ll actually need to spend money on replacement light bulbs.

If the light bulbs really are going to “Last 13+ years,” (as is also printed on the package) then I might not need to buy them any more, for awhile, anyway. As a result, light bulbs will no longer be a regular purchase like toilet paper, paper towels, laundry detergent, etc. Instead, they will become an irregular purchase like batteries, sponges and the like.

Now, if I really can stop this unnecessary light-bulb-redundancy, I should have a few extra dollars that I can allocate elsewhere on real necessities – like candy, cookies and ice cream.

Having sorted out the light bulb task ahead of me; in addition to saving money, I will have saved time as well. And who wouldn’t want to save time and money? Everybody. However, saving it in this excruciatingly boring/mundane manner has limited appeal, I would guess.

But, we’re not just saving pennies here; potentially, according to the light bulb’s packaging, we are apparently saving hundreds of dollars, and hundreds are worth saving.

Unfortunately, the dollars saved are not exactly in-pocket. They’re more dollars which won’t be spent out-of-pocket. Not as direct as a rebate, but more like an indirect benefit such as money saved from the installation of energy-efficient windows or placing insulation in your attic.

Either way, it’s money not in somebody else’s pocket. I just wish the manufacturers could figure out a way to pay me today, especially since I paid them yesterday.
