McLean neighborhoods celebrate 2018 National Night Out.

Nine neighborhoods across the McLean Police District registered to officially join in the area's celebration of the 2018 National Night Out (NNO) on Tuesday, Aug. 7. The activities and events that took place in each locale were as different and diverse as the neighborhoods themselves, but they were all united by the fun that neighbors enjoyed, and by the visits they received from their local law enforcement personnel and first responders.

Dubbed "a party with an important purpose" by National Night Out founder Matt Peskins, the gatherings in McLean achieved both purposes that the NNO targets – for police and public safety personnel to engage on a social level with the communities they serve, and for neighbors to get together to solidify old relationships, make new ones, and just have fun.

Peskins, founder of the National Association of Town Watch, introduced the first NNO in 1984, seeing the get-togethers as the natural next step for the association that was founded to support and bring resources to the citizens and public service persons who were joining forces to promote crime prevention and public safety, street by street.

In 1984, about 2.5 million neighbors, representing some 400 communities in 23 states participated in the first event. Last year, about 16,000 communities sent 38 million people out into their streets to meet and greet each other and local police, firefighters, and paramedics.

"It's just great," said Vinson Hall Retirement Community COO Mike Hendee. "Taking the time to just get together and to have the opportunity to thank our local public safety personnel."

Quite a few officers and first responders from the McLean Police District showed up to mingle with the crowd at Vinson Hall and enjoy the culinary offerings. Before they could hit the chow line, however, they were welcomed and given a hearty round of applause by the attendees.

VINSON HALL hosted a cookout under a temporary pavilion set up on their property, inviting not only the McLean District Police and other public safety heroes, but also residents from the surrounding neighborhoods and members of nearby religious communities. From the size of the crowd gathered under the tent and piling plates with American cookout fare, it's a safe bet to say that at least a few of those neighbors accepted the invitation.

"This is an important part of our place in the community," said CEO Libby Bush, who was enjoying her first NNO event at Vinson Hall.

Vinson Hall residents Midge and Chris Holmes have experienced the NNO evening at their complex before, but this year Midge volunteered to demonstrate her newfound creative talents as a face painter. "I am taking the art class here and really liking it, but I am not sure I am up to this task yet," she laughed, although her husband Chris didn't seem to mind sporting the evidence of her efforts.

While some communities like Vinson Hall have been participating in the NNO for years, others, like Timberly, off of Old Dominion Drive, made 2018 the start of their new National Night Out tradition, thanks in large part to neighborhood newcomer and event organizer Leslie Mason.

There were plenty of high spirits and sparkling spirits at the Timberly gathering – and the firefighters from Fairfax County Fire and Rescue McLean Tower 401 took a few of the residents to even greater heights by giving them a birds-eye view of their neighborhood from the platform of the extended fire truck ladder!

Neighbors Terry Grimm and Cathy Scott were among those who donned the "my gosh these are heavy" helmets and got belted in and attached to safety rings for the climb of some 75 feet into the air thanks to Fire and Rescue Technician Wismer and Master Tech Spinner.

While no kids were allowed to make the dizzying trip for safety reasons, the youngsters didn't seem disappointed to take a run around the fire truck and a crawl through the cabin – in between holding up their handmade sign thanking the public safety personnel and refreshing stops at the sweets table and races across their neighbors' lawns.

"Hopefully, this is just the start of even more neighborhood gatherings," said Mason.

"Yes, we need to make the time to bring people together like this," agreed long-time Timberly resident Mildred Williamson, "and I am happy to see the police in the neighborhood."

Even though dusk was approaching by the time they had their equipment packed up and ready to roll out, the Tower 401 team didn't end their community engagement shift at Timberly. Next stop for the fearless firefighters and rescue personnel was the NNO party at Pimmit Barn on Cherri Drive in the Pimmit Hills neighborhood where more than 150 locals, and Fairfax County Dranesville District Supervisor John Foust were on hand to welcome them.

This event was organized by the Friends of Pimmit Barn, a group dedicated to preserving the historic site and structure. Friends of Pimmit Barn president Connie Cordovilla manned a table front and center with information about the group's efforts to restore the barn to its 1937 glory.

"It's a hidden treasure," said Cordovilla. "Most people, even those who live in this area, don't know it exists and now they are getting the chance to see what a gem we have right here in our own backyard."

Of course there was plenty of food and beverages available at the Pimmit Barn ver-

Back to School Safety Tips

BY SUPERVISOR
JOHN C. COOK
BRADDOCK DISTRICT

The sleepy days of summer are coming to an end. In a few weeks children will don their backpacks and step into yellow buses when the Fairfax County Public Schools start on Aug. 28. Back to School season is a hectic time for many Fairfax families.

COMMENTARY This increase in activity means we all must take extra precautions to keep our children and neighbors safe, especially on the road.

Our entire community should be aware during the morning and afternoon school commutes. This time of day will bring a flurry of buses, carpools, cyclists and pedestrians all across the county. Morning commutes will be more crowded as more than 1,700 school buses get back on the road. Drivers should leave a few minutes earlier to allow for more time in their commute.

School buses carry thousands of children to school and back every morning and afternoon. Please respect their important role in our community. When a school bus is stopped with red flashing lights, all cars must stop unless they are in another lane divided by a median. So if you are traveling in a two lane roadway that has no median, all cars going both directions have to stop when the bus is loading or unloading. The same goes for a two lane roadway with a center turn lane and a four lane roadway without a median separation. The only time you can continue driving when a bus is stopped is if you are driving on the other side of the median.

It is important to also keep in mind that many children will be walking to school and to neighborhood bus stops. Make sure to yield to children crossing the streets, especially near schools. Look out for crossing guards and follow their instructions. Keep your car off the cross walk when stopped. Be prepared to stop for children who may make unexpected movements into roadways. And finally, follow the school zone speed limits when the signs are flashing. Most school zones have a 25 mph speed limit, but they may vary.

Parents, please remind your children about street, pedestrian, and bus safety.

Try to get to the bus stop early so no one gets hurt while rushing to catch the bus. If you are crossing a roadway, make sure that cars are stopped in both directions before crossing. Teach them to use designated crosswalks if they are available and only approach the bus once it has come to a full stop. If you have young drivers in the family, take time to review the rules about school zones and school buses.

Every Fairfax County child has the right to an education. We all must work together to protect that right by making sure students travel safely to and from school. Please help us keep Fairfax County students safe this year.

Back to School

BY KENNETH R. "KEN" PLUM
STATE DELEGATE (D-36)

Last week I had the opportunity to visit one of my grandsons' schools, and I was genuinely impressed. Parents were invited to come by last week to meet the teachers because his school started on Aug. 15. It was one of the friendliest environments I have experienced — smiles everywhere, genuinely warm greetings for all, and an obvious feeling of caring for all children and parents and grandparents coming into the school. My grandson was clearly eager to get back to school and to see his teachers. He has some special needs that require additional understanding and assistance, and he is clearly getting it in his school setting.

The teachers and administrators wore the school's special tee shirt and were giving high-fives all around.

As one who taught in the classroom for several years, many old memories came back to me. I remember the need to always be "on" in the school day for students who needed help or attention. In most careers we can coast on a bad day and make up for it later; not so with teaching. You are always the center of attention and must be appropriately responsive to student needs whenever they occur. Students can learn as much about life from your body language and attitude as they can from the subject you are teaching them.

While teachers are assigned a grade level or a subject area, ultimately teachers are teaching children more than just content. I am convinced my son who teaches students in automotive technology is teaching as much about attitude, work habits, developing confidence and being a good citizen as he is about an automobile.

Our daughter who teaches multiply challenged children at the elementary level is demonstrating for parents, the school, and the community the inherent value and potential for every student regardless of the challenges they might face. My wife who was a preschool teacher and director demonstrated how important it is that young children get off to a good start and is now teaching other teachers to do the same.

Increasingly school divisions are getting an exception to the "Kings Dominion Law" requiring that schools begin after Labor Day. Fairfax County Public Schools is one district now starting before Labor Day.

I have always opposed the current law and have voted to repeal it many times.

A bill carried over from the past session for further consideration would leave the decision of the starting date for schools up to the local school division based on the unique circumstances of the community.

The legislature can do much more to support education of our children than dabble in the starting date for schools. Pay for Virginia teachers lags below the national average by about $4,000. Clearly teachers do not stay in the profession for the money, but they should not have to suffer with low pay because they chose to educate our children. At least in the community we can express appreciation and offer our thank you to our teachers for the important work they do!

Democracy Threatened

To the Editor:

I remain very concerned about the Supreme Court Nomination, particularly in light of the recently released recording of Representative Nunes revealing the RNC's strategy with regard to ending the Mueller investigation. The American people deserve to know [what] the nominee to the Supreme Court, the highest court in the land, [said] under oath to the Senate in order to get his last judgeship. Additionally, [the administration of] our current president is under investigation for conspiracy with a foreign government to throw an election. Every day we discover new facts, many of them on tape, which further erode our faith that "checks and balances" are currently in place to prevent the complete destruction of our democracy. Allowing Mr. Trump to the

$182 Million Sought for Public Safety

Voters to decide bond referendum to fund improvements to fire stations, criminal justice academy, and courthouse.

BY KEN MOORE
THE CONNECTION

The county will ask voters to approve $182 million to renovate, expand and replace fire and police department and Circuit Court facilities on Election Day, Nov. 6.

Fairfax County Board of Supervisors authorized the $182 million public safety bond referendum at its July 31 and June 19 meetings.

$73 million would be earmarked for improvements to four fire stations — Mount Vernon ($16 million), Fairview ($16 million), Gunston ($13 million), and Seven Corners ($13 million) — that are all 37 years or older.

The county fire stations require the replacement of major building subsystems, such as HVAC and electrical systems. And facility improvements would expand equipment bays to provide adequate space for apparatus and space for staffing requirements, as well as to enhance bunk-rooms and locker facilities for male and female personnel, according to county documents. There were few if any female fire and rescue personnel 37 years ago.

An additional $15 million would be used to improve one of the eight volunteer station that is more than 40 years old.

“Staff is currently reviewing the various capital needs of these eight volunteer stations and would return to the board with the follow-on recommendation for station specific capital improvements,” according to county documents. “In addition, the bond includes temporary fire stations to maintain operations during construction.”

THE POLICE DEPARTMENT would receive $59 million: $18 million to renovate and expand the Mason District Station which was built in 1975; $18 million to renovate and upgrade its Criminal Justice Academy used to train 2,300 officers, deputies, and police and sheriff’s recruits from the county police and sheriff offices as well as the towns of Herndon and Vienna; and $18 million to renovate, expand or replace the Police Evidence Storage Building used to store evidence for court cases.

The Mason District Station, built in 1975, does not have adequate office, storage, workout, or interview spaces to support operations, according to county documents, and needs upgraded building systems and infrastructure improvements.

The Police Evidence Storage Building also houses the warrant desk and the victim services section.

“Adequate climate controlled storage is needed to properly store this property in an organized manner. Strict accountability and oversight are also necessary to meet accreditation standards,” according to county documents. Currently, “the second and third floors are not able to adequately support high density storage, which limits storage above the first floor of the building.”

THE ADULT DETENTION Center needs $45 million of improvements to three wings of the detention center, including plumbing, electrical, HVAC, elevator and fire protection systems as well as security and camera equipment. $5 million would be used to improve the Jennings Judicial Center.

“The original Jennings Building was completed in the early 1980s and the courtrooms have been in constant use by the public since that time. To keep them operational and enhance their efficiency, these courtrooms require improved lighting, ductwork realignment, ADA upgrades, carpeting, wall and

BOND REFERENDUM VERBATIM

Shall Fairfax County, Virginia, contract a debt, borrow money, and issue bonds in the maximum aggregate principal amount of $182,000,000 to provide funds, in addition to funds from public safety facilities bonds previously authorized, to finance, including reimbursement to the County for temporary financing for, the costs of public safety facilities, including the construction, reconstruction, enlargement, renovation and equipment of civil and criminal justice facilities, police training and operational facilities and stations, fire and rescue training facilities and stations, including fire and rescue stations owned by volunteer organizations, and the acquisition of necessary land?

ceiling replacement/repairs, refinishing of the gallery benches, renovation of the jury rooms and technology upgrades,” according to county documents.

BY LAW, the money from the bonds may only be used for the purpose stated in the ballot question.

“While the project lists for the public safety bonds represent the current proposals regarding what projects to fund, the ballot question is phrased more generally, to allow the board flexibility as to precisely which projects to fund with the bond proceeds,” according to county documents.

The Office of Public Affairs traditionally prepares and distributes an informational pamphlet that is mailed to all county households to help inform the public about the referendum. The pamphlet will be translated into the most widely spoken non-English languages in the county, including Korean, Spanish, and Vietnamese.

Voters will be asked to vote “yes” or “no” on the public safety bond question. If ultimately approved, the county plans to sell $182 million in general obligation bonds to make the renovations and improvements.

Cutting fresh produce into bite-sized pieces can make school lunches appealing to children, advises Terri Carr of Terri's Table.

Lunches That Make the Grade

Ideas for packing healthy foods that children won't want to trade.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL

For many children, one of the exciting back-to-school rituals is selecting a new lunchbox. For parents, that means choosing midday fare to pack in those lunch-pails. While fresh ideas for healthy and satisfying meals may flow freely at the beginning of the school year, as the weeks pass, it can become easy to slip into a lunchtime rut of daily turkey sandwiches. Local nutritionists and culinary instructors offer ideas designed to serve up lunchbox love all year long.

"Making healthy lunches is just about parents educating themselves on the healthy food options that are available and then teaching their kids to make healthy food choices," said Mary Murray of Reston-based Teri Cochrane, Beyond Nutrition. "With my own kids, I just kept bad food choices out of the house so they didn't have those options."

Trade junk food favorites like potato chips for healthy alternatives like plantain chips, advises Murray. "Plantain chips are actually very good and they're also good for you and still have the crunch. If kids were to bring some extra to share with their friends, more kids will see that they're actually delicious."

"Protein and vegetables are remarkably important, but underrepresented," said Sara Ducey, professor, Nutrition and Food at Montgomery College. "A lot of carbs or snacks, stuff like chips, end up in children's lunchboxes because they have a social value for kids who feel like they're open to being judged."

There is a social component to lunchbox fare that should not be overlooked, continues Ducey. "Lunches should be exciting and appealing, especially when children are feeling like they might be judged," she said. "Cutting fruit into larger pieces for example, keeps them from turning brown as quickly. A Granny Smith apples for example is less likely to turn brown than a Red Delicious apple."

Packing a lunchbox with foods that are hearty and nutrient-dense is a key to maintaining a feeling of satiety throughout the day, advises Ducey. "You want your kids to have a stable blood sugar," she said. "Beans are good for protein and keeping their blood sugar stable. Try things like white bean hummus, chili and stews and soups that are made with beans."

Involving children in the process of selecting and preparing the items that go into their lunch boxes is a key to increasing the chances that those healthy items will actually be consumed, advises Terri Carr of Terri's Table, a cooking school in Potomac, Md. "Children love to cook and the desire for cooking classes in this area is tremendous. Carr offers classes on cooking with children.

"Many kids will eat fresh baby carrots, celery and cucumber, which are also hydrating," added Carr. "Crunchy dried fruit like blueberry, apples and mangos can go in their lunchboxes instead of chips and they're usually a hit."

Replacing fruit juice with natural fruit water by soaking fresh fruit in water to add a burst of flavor without added sugar is another option offered by Cochrane's firm. Stevia or monkfruit can also be added to sweeten the taste without increasing the sugar content.

"When it comes to beverages, children should only have whole milk and water in their lunchboxes," said Ducey. "Whole milk keeps the child fuller longer. Skim milk actually spikes sugar and they're full at first, but hungry soon after. And a hungry kid doesn't learn as well."

As important as the food that goes into a child's lunchbox are the containers that hold each dish, suggests Ducey. "Invest in good quality stainless steel containers and utensils rather than plastic," she said. "Plastic can transmit chemicals into your food, so stainless steel is a good alternative."

Great Theater Brought Into the Great Outdoors

Traveling Players Ensemble performs Three Classical Comedies.

When Jeanne Harrison founded the Traveling Players Ensemble 16 years ago, she wanted to find a way to teach kids what it means to be in an ensemble. She wanted to emphasize togetherness and teach the importance of the journey of putting on a show.

"I found that actors needed the experience of caring as much about the process as they did the product," Harrison said. "I thought, 'What's the best way to teach ensemble? You take kids backpacking.' In backpacking, you remember that the journey is as important as the destination."

The Traveling Players Ensemble provides summer camps to children in third grade through 12th grade with a focus on bringing theater into the outdoors. Though it is a day camp, the young actors spend one night a week camping outside, complete with s'mores.

Friday, this summer's second session of campers performed three plays in a showcase of their work at The Madeira School. The Middle School Ensemble performed Molière's "The Bourgeois Gentleman," the High School Ensemble performed William Shakespeare's "Love's Labor's Lost" and the high school Commedia Troupe performed an original version of "Sleeping Beauty."

These three ensembles had worked for four weeks to put on these productions. Through this time, the actors developed a strong sense of togetherness.

"It's a really fun community to be part of," said Commedia Troupe member Soven Bhagat of Marshall High School. "You feel supported here. There's a like-mindedness to it, but you're with very different people that you get to learn a lot about."

After their performance Friday, the Commedia Troupe left on a nine-day tour, performing around Virginia. Prior to Friday's show, the High School Ensemble spent two nights on Skyline Drive and performed in Luray.

For the young actors, these performances are memorable and valuable. McLean resident Maddy Wakefield, 13, participated in this summer's first session of camp, playing the role of Madame Jourdain in "The Bourgeois Gentleman."

"One of my favorite memories was when I put on our show this year," Wakefield said. "It was really fun because the show went super well, and it was really funny."

The middle school ensembles from each camp session will have the opportunity to perform their show again: They have been invited to perform "The Bourgeois Gentleman" at the Reston Multicultural Festival on Sept. 22. Harrison said she will invite both casts and give a role to everyone who can go. The Traveling Players, she said, will be the only organization at the festival representing a culture that they are not from – the play represents France, but the cast is not French.

Though the play has themes of wealth and class, it is nevertheless a lighthearted comedy with singing and slapstick humor. That is one of the things Harrison enjoys about the Traveling Players Ensemble.

"I love what we get to work on. We get to tell some of the world's most complicated stories, and we put them in the mouths of teenagers," Harrison said. "And they do it. They do it well."

Tysons/Old Meadow Road Bicycle/Pedestrian Improvements

In vicinity of Route 123 and I-495
(Capital Beltway)

Fairfax County

Environmental Document Available for Review

The Virginia Department of Transportation will construct a shared-use path from near Tysons One Place and Fashion Boulevard to Route 123 and Old Meadow Road via a new bicycle and pedestrian bridge over I-495 (Capital Beltway) in Tysons. This project aims to improve access and safety to pedestrian accommodations. It would be consistent with improving access to other transportation modes in the study corridor as identified in the Purpose and Need of the Final Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) for the Capital Beltway HOT Lanes. The bicycle and pedestrian bridge was not considered at the time of the Final EIS (2006), Record of Decision (2006), or subsequent re-evaluations (2007 and 2008).

In compliance with the provisions of 23 CFR 771.130(c), an Environmental Studies Memo (ESM) was prepared to assess the impacts of changes in the project and determine the significance of any new potential impacts since the approved environmental document in 2006. Pursuant to the National Historic Preservation Act, Section 106 and 36 CFR 800, information concerning the potential effects of the proposed improvements on properties is also included in the ESM. The ESM is now available for public review and comment at the project website (www.virginiadot.org/projects) or during business hours at VDOT's Northern Virginia District Office at 4975 Alliance Drive in Fairfax. Please call ahead at 703-259-3345 or TTY/TDD 711 to ensure appropriate personnel are available to answer your questions.

Submit your written comments about the ESM to Mr. Steve Varner, Environmental Specialist, at the address above by September 4, 2018. You may also e-mail comments to Steven.Varner@VDOT.virginia.gov. Please reference "Tysons/Old Meadow Road Bicycle/Pedestrian Improvements" in the subject line.

VDOT ensures nondiscrimination and equal employment in all programs and activities in accordance with Title VI and Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. If you need special assistance for persons with disabilities or limited English proficiency, contact Abi Lerner, P.E., Project Manager at 703-259-3345.

sion of National Night Out, including a collection of cakes baked by residents and by students from Marshall High School as much-coveted prizes for an old-fashioned cake walk.

THE LAWN in front of the Barn was the setting for lots of interaction between the gathered neighbors and the Tower 401 gang and other members of the public safety community. Yes, there were more tours through the command center cabin of the fire truck, although the tight quarters and more densely populated location made any high-flying ladder demonstration a no-go. But the kids seemed happy to hang with their blue-uniformed heroes, as well as a surprise visitor – the Chick-fil-A giant red cow!

At times at the McLean events it was hard to tell who was having the most fun – the neighbors or their visiting law enforcement and first responder guests, but maybe that means the National Night Out mission to bring citizens and public safety personnel together as a community was being accomplished, one neighborhood at a time.

Other NNO gatherings took place around the district, including at Tysons Glen,

WEEK IN MCLEAN

Second Victim Dies in McLean Homicide

The juvenile taken to the hospital after Sunday, Aug. 5 fatal shooting died early morning Aug. 11 — according to FCPD Media Relations Bureau. Additional charges are anticipated for Veronica Youngblood as the investigation continues.

Youngblood, of McLean, was facing a murder charge after a shooting in the 1500 block of Lincoln Circle I Aug. 5 around 10:15 p.m. When officers arrived, they discovered two juvenile victims in an apartment. One victim was taken to the hospital in life-threatening condition. The second victim was pronounced dead at the scene.

The suspect, 33-year-old Veronica Youngblood, was found in Loudoun County after an acquaintance called police when Youngblood knocked on their front door. With the assistance of Loudoun County Sheriff’s Office, Youngblood was taken into custody without incident. Multiple press reports indicate that she is the mother of the two murdered children.

She was taken to the Fairfax County Adult Detention Center, where she is being held without bond. A firearm, believed to be involved, was recovered when Youngblood was arrested. Detectives are continuing their investigation into the events leading up to the shooting. The Office of the Chief Medical Examiner will be conducting an autopsy.

Per Virginia Code 19.2-11.2, police are prohibited from providing information about juvenile victims unless parental consent is provided. This law went into effect on July 1 of last year. It prohibits Virginia law enforcement agencies from directly or indirectly identifying deceased juvenile victims of a crime.

Nonprofits Initiate 5k Home Run for the Homeless

Combined effort to raise funds.

BY SHIRLEY RUHE
THE CONNECTION

Three non-profit organizations have banded together to sponsor the first Home Run for the Homeless 5k run on Saturday, Sept. 15. Community Lodgings, Home-stretch and Bridges to Independence are all organizations which provide housing, employment, youth education and outreach and child care to parents and children as they move toward self sufficiency in the City of Alexandria, and Arlington and Fairfax counties.

Mark Riley, volunteer coordinator of the event, says this is rare if not unprecedented, that nonprofits come together in this kind of effort.

In an area known for its wealth, the 2018 Point in Time survey identified 1,434 individuals as homeless in Northern Virginia. "The Home Run is a great opportunity for people to support not just one, but three organizations working to help Northern Virginia families overcome homelessness," according to Sam Kelly, chief executive officer, Bridges to Independence.

Lynn Thomas, executive director of Community Lodgings, said, "The primary goal of the race is to inform community members about homelessness and encourage them to become involved."

Riley said, "It would be nice to net, say, ten grand but this isn't about the money; it's about the visibility for the good work of these organizations." Riley said their goal is to get 250 participants, the maximum allowed. "But it is difficult to go to 250 the first year from scratch."

Riley says the race is scheduled to begin at 9 a.m. at Bluemoont Park shelter on Manchester Street in Arlington. It will follow the W&OD trail almost to Falls Church and end back at Bluemoont Park.

Riley says he has organized other races such as the Thanksgiving Day Turkey Trot. His role for this race is to be the coordinator go-to guy. He says this race involves getting three permits: for the trail, the shelter and the overall special events permit. "You have to make sure it is on the county calendar."

"Then you get your people lined up" — the host beneficiaries and leadership group and the sponsors. "I help with the parking, the food and the music. It sets a mood." Two other essential pieces are the race management company to help time the race and provide the cones and barrels and other necessary equipment. And, of course, the T-shirts for people and this year "really nifty medals. The children love the medals more."

Riley says County Board member John Vihstadt probably inspired the impetus for this event. "Two years ago he contacted me to find out about Home-stretch because they were doing a fundraiser for their childcare." One thing led to another and these three groups got together.

Register for the race at <https://goo.gl/GtrFqe>. Registration fees are $40 for 18-years and older and $25 for 6-17 years. Online registration ends Sept. 13 unless it has already sold out. Packet pick up will be Friday, Sept. 14 at Christ Church in Arlington from 5-7p.m. And on Saturday before the race starting at 7 a.m.

Is Riley running the 5k? "Those days are over, but I did sign up."

Progressing, But So Am I

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

"Slow progression" does not mean we are now progressing slowly. Quite the opposite in fact. During this past Monday's "Phoning It In" appointment when the three semi-amigos – me, my wife Dina, and my oncologist – discussed/assessed my most recent CT scan results, a decision was made to fight potential cancer fire with treatment fire.

In effect, we are doubling down, decreasing my present every-seven-week infusion schedule back down to every three weeks and likewise reducing my three-month CT scan interval to two months. All of which changes my "manageable" life to one more cancer centric. Not all appealing but as the South Korean woman driving the white Cadillac told "Hawkeye" in a long-ago M*A*S*H episode: "That's where the water is."

And so we are returning to the scene of the crime (three week intervals) so to speak, and hoping we can nip this tumor growth in the bud thereby enabling yours truly to live longer and hopefully prosper (and live long enough as well to see the new Star Trek series with Patrick Stewart returning as Jean Luc Picard).

I don't want to be totally naive and presume that since the same medication has worked for five years, there's no reason to think, with a little tweaking, it can't continue to work for another five years. However, my oncologist did say he's had patients where a similar approach worked to slow/stop the growth (after an unspecified period of stability like me) so to quote my late father: "The idea has merit."

Ergo, the honeymoon is over. Now the hard part begins, again. One week not feeling well, two weeks feeling pretty well. Then waiting for scan results as if my life depended on it (duh!).

It's nothing my family and I haven't experienced off and on going on nine and half years since my diagnosis/prognosis. Still, after the last five years of relative calm (since I was hospitalized and began the "miracle" drug alimta), life has been normal-ish with infusion intervals widening and scan results indicating some initial shrinkage ("like a frightened turtle"), followed by nearly five years of "stable" CT scans.

But so what else is new in the cancer-patient world? (That's a rhetorical question.)

Cancer returning with or without a vengeance to patients who perhaps had expected otherwise. Cancer is not exactly a disease you forget you had or one that you presume you'll never see or worry about again. Nothing could be further from the truth. The truth being: you are scarred for life – sort of. You become a life-long member of the biggest club in the world. A club, as Groucho Marx might joke, you'd rather not join, especially if they'd have you as a member.

"Cancer Sucks" as a meme is the most insincere form of flattery – for a reason: people die. Cancer leaves a wake and in its path devastation and destruction. Its swath cuts across generations, cultures, demographics, ethnic backgrounds and gender identifications.

If there's any fear we share collectively it is a diagnosis of cancer. Living with it and trying not to die from it has been the bane of my existence – and millions more, many of whom have already succumbed to its ravages. Continuing research into the cause and effect has given me years my oncologist told me I probably didn't have. ("13 months to two years" was my original prognosis.)

How lucky am I. (Not a rhetorical question.)

Now I face another hurdle. Or rather, more of the same hurdle I've managed to jump over for nine-plus years. Whether the 10 percent-ish tumor growth is the real deal or merely just a blip on the cancer radar, only time and treatment will tell. This is the uncertainty all of us cancer patients endure. It's not ideal, but ideal left the building on Feb. 27, 2009.
