Dominion Energy donates air conditioning units to public housing.

BY DAN BRENDEL
GAZETTE PACKET

In the fittingly nasty heat last Thursday, Aug. 16, Dominion Energy donated 156 window air conditioning units to the Alexandria Redevelopment and Housing Authority (ARHA).

ARHA administers federal housing programs, including public housing and "Section 8" vouchers, locally. While some of its properties have central air conditioning, Samuel Madden and Andrew Adkins in Old Town don't. Until Dominion's donation, Madden and Adkins tenants have been left to purchase their own air conditioning units.

Older people "remember when air conditioning was thought of as a luxury," said Bill Murray, a Dominion executive. "What we've come to find, actually, is that it is just as dangerous to lack cooling as it is to lack heating. That's still something that public policy is catching up to."

"Children, the elderly, and people with chronic conditions are usually the first to suffer from the heat. Heat exhaustion, cramps, or — in extreme cases — heat stroke can result from prolonged exposure to these temperatures," according to the Alexandria Health Department.

The donated air conditioning units, plus funding to operate them, come through Dominion's EnergyShare program. EnergyShare, which has expanded since its establishment in 1982, provides bill assistance and energy upgrades to low-income persons, seniors, persons with disabilities, and veterans. Dominion distributes these benefits through partnerships with public agencies and nonprofits — for example, Alexandria's Department of Community and Human Services, Rebuilding Together, and the Salvation Army. Starting in FY 2019, which began July 1, Dominion committed $13 million per year for 10 years, as required by Virginia's Grid Transformation and Security Act, a new law.

EnergyShare funding comes from voluntary sources, including shareholders' after-tax profits, meaning "they can't write it off," said state Sen. Dick Saslaw (D-35), who represents Alexandria's westernmost part. Customers can also tack donations onto their monthly bills.

"I just want to thank Dominion and ARHA for their consideration of residents. It's good for residents to be able to be in cool units, especially some

Help Plan Future Of Public Housing

ARHA seeks public comment.

BY DAN BRENDEL
GAZETTE PACKET

The Alexandria Redevelopment and Housing Authority (ARHA) is seeking public comment on its HUD-required FY 2019 Annual Agency Plan, before adopting the document next month.

The plan includes major planning initiatives, as well as activities and progress in a variety of areas and the use of resources during FY 2018.

The draft reaffirms ARHA's intention to modernize or redevelop 492 housing units — over 40 percent of its total inventory — on seven properties. These properties include Ramsey Homes (already underway); the Ladrey high-rise (housing for seniors and persons with disabilities); Andrew Adkins; Samuel Madden Homes; Hopkins-Tancil Courts; ARHA's old administration building; and Cameron Valley. All but the last are located in Old Town.

Additionally, ARHA would dispose of 43 units located within two larger condo communities — Park Place and Saxony Square. In each Hermitage Hosts Kaine Residents use community meeting to question senator.

BY JEANNE THEISMANN
GAZETTE PACKET

The Hermitage Northern Virginia hosted U.S. Sen. Tim Kaine Aug. 15 at a community meeting at tended by the facility's residents and neighborhood citizens.

"This was a very informative meeting," said 92-year-old Stanley Turkel, a World War II Army Air Corps veteran. "And his comments about the Pledge of Allegiance and the oath he takes as senator to the Constitution meant a lot to me as a veteran."

Kaine had talked about the history of the Pledge of Allegiance and noted that as a member of Congress his oath is to uphold the Constitution of the United States, not to support any particular president or political party.

"As a senator, I take an oath to 'support and defend the Constitution of the United States against all enemies, foreign and domestic,'" said Kaine in quoting a part of the formal oath of office all members of Congress take when elected. "That's very powerful and I take that oath seriously."

For nearly two hours, attendees asked questions ranging from the upcoming Supreme Court confirmation hearings for Judge Brett Kavanaugh to Russian hacking and diplomatic relations between the U.S. and North Korea.

The subject of Medicare was brought up when Kaine was asked why the health insurance program does not cover hearing aids.

"I don't know why hearing aids are not covered," Kaine replied. "Technology continues to improve and costs come down. It's an obvious omission in a really important program."

Virginia's Real ID guidelines, the national opioid crisis and services for veterans were also part of the discussion.

"I learned a lot today," said Cindy Courville, who was in the audience. "This was an important meeting for all of us to attend."

A Morning of Food, Flowers, Crafts, and Music

The Old Town Farmers Market was in full swing Saturday, Aug. 11, as it has been each summer and fall for the past over 250 years. Located at 301 King St., visitors will find traditional and unusual vendors offering a range of options including: Wood and clay crafters, farmers selling an abundance of fruit and vegetables, pasta sellers, pork and beef sellers, specialty ham seller, flower mart sellers, farm fresh egg sellers, mushroom seller, plant sellers, fruit and veggie canned preservatives, bakery specialists, Amish farmer selling eggs, milk, butter, and painters and photographers, custom clothiers, and entertaining street musicians.

The market is open each Saturday morning until noon.

Pursuing Holiness through Education

Exploring a religious high school's role in Alexandria.

BY DAN BRENDEL
GAZETTE PACKET

Below is the seventh in an ongoing series of conversations with local religious leaders about religion in the public square. It's edited for space, style, and flow.

Dr. Thomas Curry serves as the Head of School at Bishop Ireton Catholic High School. After growing up in Catholic schools, as an adult he's spent much of his career in Catholic education. Ireton is one of eight religious schools in Alexandria, according to the Virginia Council for Private Education. It's one of five private schools in Alexandria serving grades 9-12, in addition to T. C. Williams, the city's public high school.

Catholic teaching speaks of "penetrat[ing] of all spheres of human society" and "sanctif[ying] ... the world from within as a leaven." Though religions, not least Catholicism, also have various alternative institutions — especially schools, media. Could you comment on this tension?

For 55 years, you've got students who've come from mainly Alexandria to Bishop Ireton, and then gone off and really changed the world. ... Being a coed school, and being a place where religion can be discussed freely, and where faith can be practiced freely, we think is a preparation for the real world. Because the Church has never been out of the world, the Church has always been in the world. Christ, if we speak from the perspective of faith, is the incarnation of God in the world. So we have always been an incarnated Church. ... And the school's the same. We are an extension of the Church's mission to proclaim the gospel, and that's through education."

"You've spoken most about the role of faith in the education of the actual students Would you sit down with the principals, or whoever your counterparts would be, in public schools periodically and discuss the state of youth in the city? Or do teachers cross-pollinate in that way?"

"We have service as part of our curriculum. ... Senior centers, preschools, some other places. So [students are] out in the field, if you will, doing direct service to those in need. We'll also do fundraisers here. We have a sister school in Haiti that we support. We have service trips to Camden, New Jersey, which is a city devastated with poverty and drugs and crime. ... We also do something called Work Camp, where kids go away for a full week ... to build projects in rural areas. Internationally, we're a global school with Catholic Relief Services [an aid organization]. ... We collect money and we teach our kids about what service means globally. ...

"When it comes to safety and security, our director of operations has been to several conversations with his counterparts at St.

Dr. Thomas Curry, Head of School, Bishop Ireton Catholic High School.

Stephen's, Episcopal and T. C.

"With teachers, I've seen the arts programs connect. Two years ago, [our students] had an opportunity to play at the Kennedy Center. We had choirs from I think five different public schools come and join the students from BI.

"Last year we did a 'hackathon' [a computer programming competition]. ... I think we drew from like 45 schools. Kids from all sorts of public schools came in.

"One thing that we'd like to do is to connect our students — and this also gets to your question about leaven — to local businesses; to the National Science Foundation; our parents are involved in government and military and the private sector and the Church; and nonprofits, we're in the nonprofit capital of the world here; how many associations are here in Alexandria, and how many of their parents are sitting on those boards? So getting a kind of small institute within the school — I'm not sure what that looks like, exactly — that connects students to those various areas, while they're students. And having those leaders ... come and talk to our kids.

"We are a Catholic school within the Salesian tradition, which goes back to St. Francis de Sales. He was one of the first saints to build a lay spirituality. He saw holiness in the way that mothers raise their children, in the way that the shopkeepers treated their customers, and he built on that. It's in and through your profession, or your vocation, that God is calling you to holiness. That's how we see our education here. Circle-the-wagons Catholicism, it doesn't make sense to me. I mean, you're always in the world. To escape, I think, is the opposite of Catholic."

Bishop Ireton says: "The presence of students from other faiths provides a wonderful diversity to the school." At the same time, "non-Catholic students are expected to participate in the religious formation and education programs" and "must participate in liturgies." Does this ever present a challenge, despite voluntary enrollment? What other religions are present?

"We have a full array of Protestant denominations, Jewish teachers, five or six Muslim students. I think [non-Catholic students] welcome [attendance at Mass]. It's kind of neat, as a school, to be totally there, everyone: 'this is Bishop Ireton, all of us in the flesh.' And that includes everybody.

"I don't think it's a tension. In fact, one of my former students at another school I taught at was Orthodox Jewish, and was probably my best theology student. Part of it was because he asked a lot of questions. We had a great relationship. His parents invited me over to a Seder for Passover and I got to read some of the prayer. I've taught world religions myself. My area actually was in Mahayana Buddhism and Catholicism, and those kinds of conversations. So the Dalai Lama commenting on the four Gospels, I find that fascinating. And Catholic theologians commenting on the writings for the Buddhist tradition.

"We don't make [non-Catholic students] say the certain Catholic prayers, we don't make them sign themselves. That would be inappropriate and disrespectful, absolutely. It's only been positive, because the students

LIVING LEGENDS

Responding to, and Learning from, Crises

Marion Moon gives back to the community.

BY MIKE LANE

“You learn a lot about people by the way they get through crises.” Marion Moon remembers hearing that advice from her father when she was a young woman.

Having lived in Alexandria since 1951, she attended what was then George Washington High School.

Moon married and divorced young. Her marriage blessed her with two sons: Rick and Craig. She faced the challenges of single-motherhood while successfully pursuing a trailblazing professional career that allowed her to provide for her family.

In the 1970s, Moon began 15-years of volunteer work for Northern Virginia Offender Aid and Restoration (OAR) mentoring detainees. She was elected president of the Northern Virginia OAR where she pioneered creation of family support groups.

In the early 1980s, Moon became the first woman leasing manager for Chrysler. She called on the transportation manager at Washington National Airport to inquire if they ran their own taxi service. After demonstrating how the airport's best option was to lease 100 taxis from her, Moon became Chrysler's top leasing manager nationwide, earning her an incentive trip to see the Washington Redskins beat the Miami Dolphins in Super Bowl XVII. But all trip awardees were required to share a room and Moon was the only woman who earned the award. She decided to take Rick and Craig on the trip, pay for all their expenses herself, and share her room with them. Mini-crisis solved!

A decade later, Moon founded Convention and Tradeshow Freight Specialists (CTFS, né Convention Freight Services) with her son Rick. This was another industry where women were not prominent players. Today, CTFS is a nationally recognized leader among its peers. This successful business venture provides the resources for her wide-ranging philanthropic activities.

To what does she attribute CTFS' success? “We encounter a myriad of challenges with an immediate deadline for resolution. I find that I am much better at solving a problem if I have five minutes than if I have five days.”

As CTFS grew, the business acquired a large warehouse, half of it often unused. When the Alexandria Police Department (APD) inquired about terms to use the available space for training their Special Operations Team as well as their K-9 Unit, Moon donated the space. Soon first responders from surrounding localities as well as the federal government had complimentary access to the building to meet their critical training needs.

It was the untimely deaths of her sons that became Moon's most difficult and poignant crises. She learned a lot about herself responding to these events.

Craig passed away unexpectedly in 2009. When Craig was in elementary school, a recruiter visited from Virginia's Fork Union Military Academy (FUMA). He excitedly said he wanted to attend high school there. Moon first thought, “What have I done wrong that he wants to go away to high school?” The answer was nothing and the next year Craig enrolled as cadet at FUMA. “They took a boy and turned him into a man before my very eyes,” she remembers.

Craig completed his service in the United States Air Force and was a FUMA Director-elect when he died. The board asked her to serve in his stead. She enthusiastically accepted. “I get involved in places where I have confidence in their leadership — where they are making a difference,” she said.

Moon also established a FUMA scholarship in her son's name. Since the Major Craig Moon Access Scholarship was created, 100 cadets have benefited from her generosity. “It is a wonderful way to celebrate serves as an inspiration to others.

For information, to volunteer, become a sponsor or nominate a future Legend, visit www.AlexandriaLegends.org or contact AlexandriaLegends@outlook.com his memory,” she notes. As of this writing, 14 FUMA cadets from Alexandria are receiving assistance.

Tragically, in 2013 her son Rick died, also unexpectedly. Although it was not easier, Moon already knew the path to acceptance. Relying deeply on her faith, she determined to honor the memory of both sons with a continual “joyous celebration” of their lives.

As a seemingly forever member of the Alexandria Sportsman's Club (ASC), Moon was elected the first female board member in the 1980s. She established a scholarship in Rick's memory at ASC to help Alexandria's student athletes. In 2017 she raised and donated more than $20,000 to benefit ASC's award recipients. In 2017, Moon was recognized as Alexandria's Sportsman of the Year, the highest honor of that organization. Moon also heavily supports the Alexandria Seaport Foundation, an organization that provides leadership and shipbuilding skills training for troubled youth who might otherwise wind up on the streets unskilled and directionless.

Moon has served on the board of the United Community Ministries (UCM) and provided trucks to collect donations to the UCM back porch collection facility.

Moon has been a presenting sponsor and donor to the EOD (explosive ordnance disposal) Warrior Foundation which provides financial assistance and support to active-duty and veteran EOD warriors as well as to families of the wounded, injured, ill or fallen. These specialists' medical conditions are often among the most severe as a result of their work with explosives.

First Baptist Church of Alexandria has been Moon's worship home since childhood. As a woman of deep faith, she takes personal reward in volunteering and generously supporting its ministries. Not surprisingly, she was a leader in the church's grief-counseling ministry.

She has also donated generously and served on the board of the John Leland Center for Theological Studies, an evangelical seminary that prepares both men and women to become Christian leaders in ministry. The Old Dominion Boat Club (ODBC) has long been an important institution in Alexandria. Moon serves on the board of the ODBC and is the outside liaison to many charitable events that ODBC hosts.

She also is immersed in fundraising events for such other charitable groups as the Hiring our Heroes Corporate Fellowship Program and is a designated Companion of the Legion de Lafayette of the National Guard Foundation recognizing the highest-level donors to the foundation.

She is a generous contributor to the Mount Olive Ministries (MOM) of Mississippi, an organization that provides educational excellence to underprivileged students in a poverty-stricken locale whose only other option is a failed public school. Her support allows MOM to continue to educate all students regardless of race, creed or color. MOM students typically perform at a level two-grades above the alternative. Why does she do it? “Because I can,” she once told the Alexandria Gazette. She takes great joy in helping others achieve and reach new heights. “I haven't missed a single dime of all the money I have been able to contribute. It is personally rewarding to honor my sons' memories. I just thank God I have been able to do so.”

Personally, she likes to bowl and fish. She aspires to learn both fly-fishing and bocce ball. At the end of the day, you might catch her drinking a glass of her favorite pinot grigio. It is a well-deserved reward for all she has done.

OPINION

Successful Strategy

To the Editor:

The other night, I was driving eastbound on Prince Street, and approached the usual logjam at its Route 1 South intersection, which has been one of my longstanding concerns (and aggravations).

However, I was most gladdened to see a uniformed police officer directing traffic, ensuring that everyone obeyed the laws, to include not interfering with the traffic flow by trying to squeeze in line before there is room. I recommended this type of traffic intervention when I ran for City Council back in 2000. It was specifically aimed at the Prince Street-Route 1 South juncture during peak traffic hours, since Route 1 is a major north-south thoroughfare, and it is strategically important to keep traffic flowing.

Under the sponsorship of former council member David Speck, the City Council adopted the initiative, and it worked! However, after about a year it was discontinued for reasons unknown. Many kudos to Police Chief Mike Brown for bringing this initiative back.

Immigrant Concerns

To the Editor:

We appreciated Sheriff Dana Lawhorne’s explanatory op-ed [“Sheriff’s Office and Due Process”] in the Aug. 2-8 Alexandria Gazette Packet.

We continue to question the practice of holding detainees in the Alexandria jail beyond their legal custody period in order to transfer them to ICE. Although the Sheriff has clarified that it rarely takes the full 48 hours (his original agreement) — and more often takes 16 hours (his modified agreement) — why should we hold them at all beyond their legal custody period, especially in the absence of a judicial warrant?

If they have posted bail, or if they have completed their sentences, they should be released. Moreover, we are concerned about detainees in pre-trial, who have not yet gone through the judicial process — should they also summarily be turned over to ICE for deportation? We believe that every individual should be treated justly and accorded due process before the law, regardless of their immigration status.

Further, the request from ICE to the ASO may be deemed “lawful,” but what is currently “lawful” under the Trump administration’s immigration policy is inhumane, as we’ve seen all too clearly. The recent ICE raids in D.C. and Richmond add to the public’s fears. Indeed, another troubling result of our continued agreement with ICE is the immigrant community’s heightened concerns about reporting genuine threats to public safety — whatever they may be — due to fear of ICE involvement. While we are sure this is not the Sheriff’s intent, it is important for him to realize that this reluctance to report crime is a widely documented byproduct of collaboration with ICE. We believe that if any of our neighbors refrain from reporting serious crime, our entire community will be less safe.

The ASO’s Statement on Immigration Concerns states an aim of “striking a balance between protecting the public and doing no harm.”

Unfortunately it misses the mark when people seeking a better life, asylum, and refuge are being harmed by federal policies. We want to make sure that the ASO is not facilitating policies that undermine the wellbeing and freedom of individuals and families in Alexandria. To that end, we urge the ASO to remove ICE from its contract with the U.S. Marshals Office, and thus terminate the practice of holding detainees beyond their legal custody period. We request that Sheriff Lawhorne set a higher bar by requiring a warrant from ICE that is signed by a judge.

Finally, we also would like to respectfully ask the Sheriff to initiate a public conversation with the larger Alexandria community about ways to protect our immigrant population. We must work collaboratively to help them stay together as families and feel safe in our city.

Private, Not Public Solutions

To the Editor:

We all need a plan. Intuitively, we know the more complex the task; the more likely the goal will be attained with a roadmap. Alexandria’s transportation plan, adopted in 2008, is a splendid example of a complex task that needs updating. From what was revealed in the Gazette’s August 9 article, the update is starting out on the right track by wondering how to make the money-losing city-owned transit company, Dash, so convenient that it will actually get people out of their cars and into Dash buses.

Here’s my suggestion: Close down Dash. Its ridership is so anemic that it would be better to give the few who use it taxi vouchers, or maybe electric bikes. If bikes, then at least the bike lanes might see some use.

Let’s face it: our city bureaucrats are not trained to operate a business; they have no skin in the game, so to speak. What they’re using is your money to operate a business; it’s not their money at risk. And the results show it: except for rush hours, big buses rolling along during the day with so few riders that Dash will never pay for itself.

Ditto for the city’s bike sharing program. This is the venture that commandeered locations throughout Alexandria with no heads-up to neighborhoods that a bike rack would be taking up some of their precious street space.

If that condescending conduct wasn’t enough, then at least savor this: the city bike program is, like Dash, is a money-loser, and for the same reason: our local government — like all governments big and small worldwide — don’t use money efficiently; that is, by ensuring revenues exceed expenses. If their businesses need more money; then they don’t become more efficient; they raise taxes

All right, in lieu of Dash, maybe taxi vouchers and electric bikes aren’t practical. Either would require more bureaucrats to doll out the goodies; that is, the bikes and vouchers. What bikes? How many vouchers? Too messy. But here’s a solution that will work: Let the private sector solve the problem of getting people to where they want to go. Lots of benefits when the public sector lets the tax-paying private sector make money by providing services. One of them is more tax revenue for a city that Winning artists from the 2017 Young at Art Exhibition's Welcoming Reception.

'Young at Art' Exhibition Returns 32nd Annual Juried Art Show for artists 55-plus.

BY MARYANNE BEATTY
DIRECTOR, OUTREACH
SENIOR SERVICES OF ALEXANDRIA

The Young at Art Exhibition will celebrate its 32nd anniversary this September at the Durant Arts Center in Alexandria. Senior Services of Alexandria (SSA) and the Goodwin House Foundation are co-sponsoring again this annual event that showcases art of the many talented senior artists from the Washington Metropolitan area.

To be considered for this year's exhibition, artists 55 and older can submit their art, along with a completed application and entry fee of $20, on Monday, Sept. 10 from 10 a.m. to noon to the Durant Arts Center, 1605 Cameron St. in Old Town Alexandria. The $20 entry fee covers up to three pieces of art. The "Call for Art" includes a variety of art types, including oil, acrylic and watercolor painting, ceramics, sculpture, digital composition, pastels, stained glass and mixed media.

Rula Jones Brock will serve as this year's juror. She has been working in the visual arts for over 15 years, curating, exhibiting, and teaching at various notable institutions, including the Brooklyn Children's Museum and the Corcoran College of Art + Design. She holds a B.A. from Marymount College in New York.

Art selected for the exhibition must remain on exhibit until the close of the show on Nov. 8, 2018. Works of art not chosen for the exhibition must be picked up on Tuesday, Sept. 11, 2018 from the Durant Center.

A "Meet the Artists" reception and presentation of awards will take place on Thursday, Sept. 13 from 5:30-7:30 p.m. at the Durant Arts Center. Cash prizes will be awarded to the top three pieces of art.

If anyone is interested in being a sponsor for this year's exhibition, please contact Christopher Bryant, development director or Marcia Saumweber, director of program operations with the Goodwin House Foundation at 703-824-1200.

For more information about the exhibition and the application process visit seniorservicesalex.org or call Senior Services at 703-836-4414, ext. 110 or the Goodwin House Foundation at 703-824-1200.

never has enough.

Maybe several small bus companies will emerge with small, propane powered buses; or small electric powered ones. Who knows? But as long as the city regards transportation as a service it must provide, an updated transportation plan will be a waste of time, money and the trees felled to make paper on which it publishes its vision.

If a plan absolutely must be produced, then it should be lased focused on how to limit the number of automobiles that can be registered in Alexandria. If it's expensive enough, then more people will find less costly ways to get to where they want to go. Some might even walk.

Political Atmosphere

To the Editor:

"There's no silence. If anything, I'm giving them a bigger voice," Trump said. "Many people don't even know who (Brennan) is, and now he has a bigger voice. And that's OK with me, because I like taking on voices like that. I've never respected him."

This man has the gall to pick on American heroes, women, handicapped, the press, minorities, immigrants, U.S. allies, and I'm sure

I missed a few groups ... and of course his own extended staff, the Intel community in general, judges, the court system, and now he's found a way to bully a new group that has some clout.

When are lawmakers on the right side of the aisle going to wake up and realize Trump is tearing apart our government's ideals, traditions, and quite possibly our national security, all because he can't handle anyone disagreeing with him. What petty childish temper tweets!

By the way, Virginia Dems, I will miss the supportive political atmosphere here when I move back to Florida this fall.

Enjoying Summer Recreation

The City of Alexandria, Department of Recreation provided a variety of specialty, enrichment and traditional camps throughout the summer, from as young as 3 years old to 17 years old.

Participants were engaged in fun activities such as arts and crafts, cooperative games, STEM, cooking, performing arts, Lego Mania, sports camps, and swimming at the neighborhood pools to name a few. Participants also had the opportunity to go on weekly excursions around the region, such as Six Flags, Universoul Circus, Smithsonian museums and the Medieval Times.

The Department of Recreation strives to provide opportunities for children to meet new friends, and create summer camp experiences that will last a lifetime. If interested in an afterschool program for the school year, call 703-746-5414 or register online at www.alexandriava.gov/recreation.

OBITUARY

Samira M. Hadeed

Born in Ramallah, Palestine on Jan. 24, 1939. She died peacefully in her sleep on Aug. 17, 2018, at her home of 50 years in Alexandria.

A loving mother and homemaker, Samira was a remarkable cook and enjoyed entertaining, dancing and preparing meals for her family and friends, most especially over the holidays.

While never using a cookbook or reading recipes, her classic middle eastern food dishes were famous among her party guests, church community and all who knew her. After raising her children, she spent her later years generously sharing her knowledge of the foods she loved while working as a hobby at the Mediterranean Bakery.

Samira is survived by the love of her life for 60 years, Michael Hadeed; her children, Michael Hadeed Jr., Mary Hadeed Zaboli, and Joseph Hadeed; her two daughters-in-law, Marcella Hadeed and Valerie Hadeed; 12 grandchildren, John Hadeed, Michael Hadeed III, Teresa Hadeed Ragno, Joan Hadeed, Catherine Hadeed, Thomas Hadeed, Samantha Zaboli, Alexander Zaboli, Adam Zaboli, Sarah Zaboli, Michael Frix and Samira L. Hadeed; her two great-grandchildren, Samir Minda and Elizabeth Hadeed, and several siblings. Samira was predeceased by her son-in-law, Shawn Zaboli. Samira's unconditional love and support for her family and others in her life was exhibited daily in her humble and kindhearted manner.

Samira's family invite all to her viewing at Everly Wheatley Funeral Home, 1500 W. Braddock Road, Alexandria, Tuesday Aug. 21, from 2-4 p.m., and from 6-8 p.m.

A funeral service celebrating her life will be held on Wednesday, Aug. 22, 2018, at 11 a.m. at Holy Transfiguration Greek Melkite Catholic Church, 8501 Lewinsville Road, McLean, followed by a Meal of Mercy at the Church Hall.

In lieu of flowers the family requests donations be made to United Palestinian Appeal, upaconnect.org.

Irish Festival To Honor Pat Troy

Reagan made a surprise visit to Troy's Ireland's Own Restaurant on St. Patrick's Day in 1988.

Until Ireland's Own closed in 2014, the table Reagan occupied that day held a prominent place inside the restaurant. On Saturday, Aug. 25, that table, along with other storied memorabilia from Ireland's Own and Pat Troy's personal collections, will be sold during the Alexandria Irish Festival.

"That is a very special table," said Bernadette Troy, Pat Troy's widow. "Reagan's visit was a complete surprise and it is a part of history. Now that the restaurant is closed it needs to be somewhere it can be seen and appreciated."

Bernadette Troy will also be donating several items that belonged to her husband, including the tweed jacket he wore when he first arrived in the U.S. from Ireland.

"Pat always kept that jacket as a souvenir," said Bernadette Troy. "We'll also be offering the kilt and sporran he used to wear and some of the pins he had collected since first opening the restaurant more than 30 years ago."

The Alexandria Irish Festival will take place Aug. 25 from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. at Waterfront Park. Entertainment will include Irish dancers and pipe bands and craft and food vendors will also be on hand.

Festival proceeds, including from the sale and auction items, will go to support the 2019 St. Patrick's Day Parade. In 1980, Troy co-founded The Ballyshaners for the purpose of organizing a Saint Patrick's Day Parade in Old Town. The all-volunteer, nonprofit organization's goal is to promote and preserve Irish Heritage.

"This year's festival will be dedicated to Pat," said Bernadette Troy. "What a nice way to honor him." See www.ballyshaners.org.

Dominion Donates A/C Units of the units that were outdated and haven't been redeveloped yet," said Kevin Harris, president of the ARHA Resident Association. "I think most of the residents have purchased their own [air conditioning] anyway, especially at this point." But some residents he spoke to "were excited, because some of theirs are outdated, and it's always good to get a new [air conditioning] unit that's functional."

"Public servants have a responsibility to ensure that city residents can live in safety and comfort, especially during dangerously hot summer months," said Councilman Willie Bailey. "My family got their start in this city, right here [in public housing]. My parents knew that affordable and safe housing was important to the wellbeing and health of the family. Without adequate housing, families have trouble managing their daily lives. ARHA paved the way and helped us with life skills that allowed us to be independent. Back in those days, it took a village to raise a child, and I'm so happy to see that village is still up and running with Dominion Energy [doing] their part. ... This shows you how important public-private partnerships are to the city." For more information, visit www.dominionenergy.com/community/energy-assistance/energyshare.

case, "the high condominium fees have made this project financially unfeasible." ARHA will instead "accommodate the current occupants with vouchers," which tenants can use to help pay for qualifying private rentals.

Specifics remain forthcoming. Last month, in conjunction with terminating underway plans to redevelop Adkins with CRC, a private developer, ARHA announced that it would reevaluate its real estate portfolio and redevelopment sequencing.

The draft identifies a total of $40.7 million available during ARHA's FY 2018. Most comes from the federal government, including $4.5 million in operating funds for public housing and $23.7 million for "Section 8" vouchers.

Adjusting for inflation, the former figure represents a 13 percent increase over the amount reported in last year's Annual Agency Plan, but a 23 percent decrease compared to FY 2012. The latter figure is flat compared to last year and a 3 percent increase over FY 2012.

ARHA's year-on-year increase in operating funds may not amount to much of a windfall, given the larger context of federal cuts to public housing. Between 2000 and 2016, adjusting for inflation, "funding for repairs [nationwide] has fallen 53 percent," from about $4 billion to under $2 billion, according to the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities, a research organization. Over that period "funding for operation has met need only three times."

Find ARHA's draft plan at www.arha.us/news. Public hearings will take place from 5:30-6:30 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 27 at Ladrey (300 Wythe St.) and on Wednesday, Aug. 29 at ARHA's administration building (401 Wythe St.). Submit written comments to elacy@arha.us by Thursday, Sept. 6. Residents can comment in person at the Sept. 24 ARHA Board of Commissioners meeting, before the board takes official action.

4 Restaurants Offer a Football Feast

BY HOPE NELSON

There's just a touch of autumnal crispness to the air now, which can mean only one thing: Football is coming, and it's coming fast. And with those matchups come parties with enough food to feed an army. Here are some restaurants that can help your main course along with a quick phone call or a push of a button.

Faccia Luna, 823 S. Washington St.

The venerable Italian eatery on Old Town's Washington Street can be easily overlooked for its pizza-takeout capabilities, but doing so would be a mistake. Faccia Luna has a baker's dozen pizzas to peruse and select; come in any night of the week to pick them up and you'll see you're not the only one with the carry-out idea. For a party-pleaser, the formaggio – a sauce-and-cheese selection – doesn't disappoint. Or branch out a bit and go with the Florentine, teeming with spinach and ricotta cheese, or the namesake Faccia Luna, with sausage, roasted red pepper and mushroom. Having a big gathering? Order them all and watch the slices disappear.

Galae Thai, 215 Swamp Fox Road

Who says football parties are limited to pizza and wings? Strike out in a different direction with an online order from Galae Thai. Situated adjacent to the AMC Hoffman movie theater, the Asian restaurant offers more than just its namesake Thai; it also whips up a multitude of sushi dishes and bento boxes. For a small gathering, have guests order their preference, ranging from such signature dishes as pineapple fried rice to massaman curry with chicken. Or, for a larger group, pick a smorgasbord of options that can easily be divided – a variety of fried rice, pad Thai noodles, spring rolls or panang, red and green curries with a choice of protein.

Hard Times Café, 1404 King St.

What's a fall football party without some chili and wings? Hard Times has you covered with its U-Cater menu. A bridge between the standard carryout options and a full-on catering job, the U-Cater offers up all the chili-slinger's best dishes in party-sized quantities without the hassle of a proper catering gig. A $25 half-gallon of chili will serve eight; $48.99 will get you a gallon that serves 16. Fifty wings will set you back $50, and don't skimp on the sides, such as spaghetti noodles, diced onions, jalapenos and more. Leave your slow cooker in the cabinet and dial up Hard Times for easy service.

Taqueria Poblano, 2400-B Mount Vernon Ave.

Why not set up a taco bar for your guests, complete with chips, salsa, guacamole and more? Taqueria Poblano's catering menu is un-intimidating and straight to the point, offering diners a wide array of Mexican favorites. For the biggest bang for the buck, you could do worse than the taqueria's crispy or soft taco platter, offering 25 or 50 tacos with a filling of your choice. Thirsty? Taqueria Poblano also offers its margarita mix in party-sized amounts. Get a carton of rice or beans on the side and you'll have a fiesta for the ages.

Sharing Random Acts of Kindness

The City of Alexandria, Department of Recreation, Parks and Cultural Activities, Nannie J. Lee Recreation Center along with other city Recreation Centers participated in Camp Kindness the week of July 23.

Campers throughout the city were able to show compassion towards others as well as engage in games and activities that help build a sense of community as well as empathy, generosity and kindness towards others. Campers are standing up for a kinder world and showing each other that kindness is all around Alexandria. In conjunction with Camp Kindness, Spirit Week was also celebrated where campers were able to dress up and show their spirit. From Pajama Day, to Super Heroes, to Sports Jersey Day, each day was filled with pure joy, fun and enthusiasm from the campers. Each spirit day had a special theme that showcased how character counts and sharing is caring. For more information about opportunities and program offerings, contact the Nannie J. Lee Recreation Center at 703-746-5535.

Spicer at Book Launch

Sean Spicer, former press secretary to President Trump, was in Alexandria Aug. 17 to speak about his new best seller, "The Briefing: Politics, the Press, and the President." Introduced by Sean Lenahan, Alexandria Republican City (ARCC) Committee chairman and event sponsor, Spicer addressed a standing-room-only gathering.

Spicer spoke of his ongoing book tour and how much he appreciated being here "at home" in Alexandria and the support given to him by local Republicans. He spoke about what it was like to be on stage at the White House and face a hostile press 24/7. He described the pressures the President encounters as well.

Spicer said writing the book was a cathartic experience — it gave him an opportunity to reflect on the larger picture. His challenge was to write a book that would explain what happened and stand the test of time — be a book he and fellow Republicans felt proud of in 10 years.

NEWS BRIEFS

City Attorney Banks Resigns

Alexandria City Attorney James L. Banks will step down effective Sept. 7, to become General Counsel of the Society for Human Resources Management (SHRM). SHRM, a human resources membership organization, has 300,000 members in over 165 countries.

Banks has served as city attorney

Obituary

Joan Bradley Ogren, (formerly Joan Bradley Cohen), died peacefully surrounded by family in Aldie, Virginia at the age of eighty-five. She was pre-deceased by her husband, John Patrick ("Pat") Ogren, Captain, US Navy (Ret). Joan will be interred at Arlington National Cemetery with Pat at 10 am on September 11, 2018.

Joan is survived by her three children, Teresa Cohen Kelley, (Lance) of Round Hill, VA, Mark Cohen, (Stasha) of Darien CT, and Douglas Cohen of Reston, VA. Joan is also survived by her sister, Margaret "Peggy" Williams, her brother, William Bradley. Joan remained close to her former husband, and dear friend, Harvey B. Cohen (Marina) of McLean, VA. Joan was adored by her seven grandchildren, Katherine Lamb (Justin), Alexandra Spooner (Capt. Steven Spooner, USMC), Danielle Gatling, Jonathan Gatling, Joseph Cohen, Jake Cohen, Zachary Cohen, and her first great grandchild, Lydia Spooner. Joan was happiest spending time with children and grandchildren at the backyard pool in Alexandria, and during the many summers spent in Rehoboth Beach, DE.

Joan loved to travel and lived a life of courage and many adventures. The daughter of John and Esther (Fitzpatrick) Bradley, Joan was born on March 24, 1933 in [Milford], MA, the oldest of five siblings. Her excellent academics drove her to an early high school graduation and enrollment at Emmanuel College in Boston at the young age of sixteen. Graduating at only twenty years old, Joan left for her next great adventure, moving to Washington D.C. to start work at the National Security Agency (NSA) in 1954 as a cryptologist.

In the mid 1950's, Washington was in the height of the cold war, and Joan was thrust into her demanding work as a code-breaker with NSA, translating - and decoding - foreign messages for the "good guys". During these years, Joan commuted to work with other NSA staffers, including a young Pat Ogren, who typically saved the front seat for Joan.

In 1960, Joan Bradley married attorney Harvey B. Cohen, moved to Alexandria, VA, and dedicated herself to raising three children, boosting the Young Republicans, and spending free time antiquing and gardening. By the mid 1970's, Joan was on her own again, and chaired the Alexandria Bicentennial Committee in 1975-76. After a stint managing the Hermes department at Garfinckel's in Washington, she opened her own boutique in Alexandria, VA, the Great Gatsby, a vintage and specialty clothing shop.

In January 1989, some 30 years after commuting together to NSA, Pat walked back into Joan's life. They had dinner together, eventually married, and moved to Foxfire Village, NC, where they spent many happy and wonderful years together. Joan returned to Virginia after Pat's passing to spend more time with her family.

Joan will be remembered as an elegant woman, who would light up the room with her smile, grace, and blue eyes. She will be greatly missed, but often remembered, by her children, grandchildren, family and friends.

When Did This Happen?

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

I remember conversations regularly occurring between me and some other person, presumably older (if heard over the phone) or in person if my sight and senses didn't deceive me, where the question was asked to me: "You're probably too young to remember?" concerning any number of subjects. Now, I'm asking the identical question, and I don't think my sight or senses are deceiving me, though they are refracted, so to speak.

Somehow, I'd like to believe that despite the obvious passage of time, I am, to quote Bob Dylan from his song "My Back Pages," included on his "Another Side of Bob Dylan" album released in 1964: "Ah, but I was so much older then, I'm younger than that now."

I wish.

I may be wiser and full of perspective, but despite flowery lyrics, I am older – just check the calendar. Father time waits for no man – or woman. As years pass, the pages turn and you simply aren't the person you used to be (or thought you were).

Benjamin Button may have gotten younger (aged in reverse, having been born an old man), but for the rest of us, we may feel that "youth," as they say, "is wasted on the young." Nevertheless, none of us is getting any younger.

Moreover, to quote Charles Franklin: "No one gets out of this life alive." (Although, I swear I remember my late mother attributing that quote to the legendary screen actress, Bette Davis.)

Life goes on is the short version, and through that passage of time, at some point, apparently you're addressed respectively as "Mister" and "Sir," and doors are opened/held, seats are offered and accommodations made. And when I have those random conversations with strangers – to pass that time or even with people with whom you have a familiarity, more and more of those people are younger than I am and I find myself asking/presuming if they know what past event, historical fact, popular culture reference or sports memory, etc., I am even referring to. And as often as not, they don't.

What's odd – or lost on me because I'm loathe to admit it, is that the former "question-ee" – yours truly – has become the current questioner – again yours truly. As is becoming abundant clear, where I was once ascending, I am now descending.

This has nothing to do with my last few cancer columns. It has to do with my birth year: 1954. Meaning, as the birthday card jokes on the front cover "I wouldn't say you were old this year" to the inside-of-the-card slam: "Hell, you were old last year."

It just seems/feels that this juxtaposition of the "space-time continuum" ("Star Trek: Voyager") time/age relative to others has happened in a blink (nanosecond) and that blink is a tell. And no matter what I do to counter that impression, I can't stop it. It seems that tell has become a tell all.

And since I'm telling all, dealing with one's own mortality for as long as I have been: Feb. 27, 2009, the official date of my non-small cell lung cancer diagnosis, has certainly had its share of wear and tear, emotionally and physically.

For me – or for any of you regular readers to think that this unexpected journey has not been fraught with before, during and after side effects – and main effects, up and down and all around, is unrealistic at best and delusional at worst. And since I'm rarely delusional except when it comes to the Boston Red Sox, it must be unrealistic.

But maybe being unrealistic is what has taken me nine years and nearly six months past my original diagnosis. If that's the reason, I see no reason to change now, age notwithstanding, or sitting, however the case may be.

stay here all four years and they graduate happy to have had an Ireton education.

"Personally I was always in Catholic schools, but I have to think that certain Jewish schools have Christian students that go there. ... My nephew knows many Jewish hymns right now, because he's at a Jewish day school ..., but his parents are Catholic and he's Catholic."

Bishop Ireton says it "challenges students to recognize and respect the multicultural diversity within our global society." What are some specific ways this challenging occurs?

"[Students'] families come from all over the globe. You look out and it looks like America, it's who we are. And it's very welcomed. I lived in Asia, I lived in Japan for a year, so having conversations with people who have traveled and lived in those areas that I've been to is fascinating. My wife is from South Korea, so having conversations with our Korean students, seeing their parents and being able to say hello in Korean is kind of neat.

"You also have our language program. We offer Italian, which is not something you see at every school. We had Russian. Obviously we have French, Spanish, German, and Latin. Having Mandarin is going to be very interesting for us, it's going to be the first time.

"We host here a diocesan-wide choir night, and so there are choirs from the Catholic Church here in Old Town, St. Joseph, a historically black Catholic Church. You have the Korean Catholic Church, St. Paul Chung, in Chantilly.

"We have [students from] Eastern churches also, so Coptic, Ethiopian."

Bishop Ireton says it "fosters Christian ethics." Could you define "ethics" more specifically?

"One simple definition would be the application of virtue. [Traditionally the Catholic Church teaches seven virtues: faith, hope, charity (love of God and neighbor), prudence, justice, fortitude, temperance.] Our mission is to form the whole child, so not to differentiate among the virtues, they're all strengths.

"The definition of a Catholic ethic is not [merely], 'Do good, avoid evil,' or to be a 'nice person.' ... We're all for academic excellence. There are certain students who succeed very well. There are others who don't succeed at that level. We're not going to just leave them behind, so we coach them up. That could be in the classroom, it could be on the [sports] field. ... We have [an] advisory program [that pairs students with faculty], to make sure that one adult in the building is keeping an eye on each of our students for all four years, watching them develop, seeing some of the struggles they go through, being there as someone who is a resource."

NEWCOMERS & COMMUNITY GUIDE

About the Gazette Packet

As your local, weekly newspaper, the Gazette Packet's mission is to deliver the local news you need, to help make sense of what is happening in your community, to advocate for community good, to provide a forum for dialogue on local concerns, and to record achievements, milestones and events in the community and people's lives.

Here in our Newcomers and Community Guide, we report on the character of your community, information on nonprofits and business organizations, plus tips and tidbits from the community.

We invite newcomers and longtime residents alike to let us know how we're doing and let us know what is going on in your part of the community. If you have questions or ideas, send us an email.

We invite you to send letters to the editor or to send an email with feedback about our coverage.

We want to know if someone in your family or your community published a book, started a business, became an Eagle Scout, raised money for a good cause, accomplished some feat like running a marathon, supporting a cause or having art included in an art show. We publish photos and notes about personal milestones and community events, including births, engagements, weddings, anniversaries, awards and obituaries.

We are also interested in events at your church, mosque, synagogue, community center, pool, school, club, etc. Email us a note about the event, being sure to include when and where the photo was taken and the names of all the people who are in a photo.

We also publish notes about news and events from local businesses. Notes about openings, new employees and anniversaries are welcome. It is especially important to us to let people know about events ahead of time in our calendar of events. We appreciate getting notice at least two weeks ahead of the event, and we encourage photos.

Gazette Packet, our flagship paper, is one of the oldest continuously publishing papers in the country, beginning publication in 1784. It is one of 15 papers published by the independent, locally owned Local Media Connection LLC, serving the suburbs of Metropolitan Washington in Northern Virginia and Potomac, Md.

Home, Sweet Home

Alexandria: From the waterfront to the West End.

BY JEANNE THEISMANN
GAZETTE PACKET

Welcome to Alexandria, known as the hometown of such notables as George Washington and Robert E. Lee. The city was also home to Jim Morrison, Mama Cass Elliot, Willard Scott and House of Cards creator Beau Willimon.

Dig a little deeper and you'll learn that U.S. President Gerald Ford was a longtime resident, that Miss World 2013, Megan Young, is an Alexandria native and that U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers lived here after he was released from a Soviet prison in 1962.

No longer the sleepy Southern city portrayed in the Disney film "Remember the Titans," Alexandria's cobblestone streets and lively waterfront attracts more than three million visitors every year.

At 15.4 square miles and with a population of just over 150,000, Alexandria hosts nationally recognized events such as the Scottish Walk and Del Ray's Art on the Avenue. But off the beaten paths of King Street and Mount Vernon Avenue are attractions such as the Tomb of the Unknown Revolutionary War Soldier and the National Inventors Hall of Fame.

"This is a very special place," said astronaut Buzz Aldrin of the National Inventors Hall of Fame when he attended an event there. "No other place celebrates the history and innovation of our nation."

honors the 67 Alexandrians who lost their lives in the Vietnam War.

In the West End are the Fort Ward Museum and Historic Site and the Winkler Botanic Reserve, a tranquil nature sanctuary tucked in the shadows of the BRAC center and Interstate 395.

One of the city's most obvious landmarks is also one of its best kept secrets. Located on 36 acres overlooking Old Town, the George Washington National Masonic Memorial was built in the 1920s as a memorial and museum highlighting the contributions of Freemasons to the United States. The structure also serves as a research center, library, community center and performing arts center and offers one of the best panoramic views of the city.

Tucked away on a side street in Old Town is the less obvious "Spite House." At just 7-feet wide, it is one of the tiniest historic homes in the nation. Built in 1830, the private residence was constructed by John Hollensbury using the existing brick walls of the adjacent homes to prevent horse-drawn wagon traffic from using the alleyway.

In 1830, John Hollensbury constructed what is now known as "the Spite House" — a 7 feet wide, 325-square-foot two-story home that used the existing brick walls of the adjacent homes to prevent horse-drawn wagon traffic from using the alleyway.

A 52-foot wide and 11-foot tall history mural is the focal point of the new National Science Foundation Headquarters building in Alexandria. It provides a visual history of the NSF and depicts seven decades of scientific discovery and innovation.

King Street in Old Town and Mount Vernon Avenue in Del Ray serve as the shopping and dining hubs of the city. Both are lined with locally owned boutiques and restaurants. The free King Street Trolley runs from the "river to the rails," bringing riders from the waterfront to the King Street Metro station seven days a week.

The many arts and entertainment offerings in town include the Birchmere, MetroStage and The Little Theatre of Alexandria. The Alexandria Symphony Orchestra, which performs at the Rachel M. Schlesinger Concert Hall and Arts Center on the campus of Northern Virginia Community College, is considered one of the finest in the nation.

If you're looking to perform yourself, a variety of classes are available for children and adults at LTA's home on Wolfe Street, where Dermot Mulroney and Academy Award winner Marcia Gay Harden honed their craft. The Alexandria Singers, a pops chorus, also holds open auditions for new members.

It doesn't take long for even a newcomer to realize that Alexandria is a city that loves its festivals and parades, starting with the largest George Washington birthday celebration in the country and ending the year with First Night Alexandria, a day-long celebration that culminates with a fireworks finale over the Potomac River.

There are no shortage of accolades for Alexandria, from being named a Top Holiday Town by USA Today to being recognized as having the best downtown of any small to mid-size city in the nation by Livability.com. So spend a few years or stay for a lifetime — there really is no place like Alexandria to call home.

The Captain Rocky Versace Plaza and Vietnam Veterans Memorial honors the service and sacrifice of the 67 men from Alexandria who either died in Vietnam and the surrounding area or remain missing in action. The plaza is located in front of the Mount Vernon Recreation Center in Del Ray.

The Alexandria Singers, a pops chorus, will hold open auditions for new members on Sept. 11 and 18.

NEWCOMERS & COMMUNITY GUIDE

A Mayoral Welcome An abiding sense of community.

BY ALLISON SILBERBERG
MAYOR OF ALEXANDRIA

As we enter the final days of summer, I would like to extend a heartfelt welcome to all those who are newcomers to our beloved, historic city! Alexandria is a stunning city in every season, but especially with the fall foliage that will be here soon.

Founded in 1749, Alexandria is authentic and charming. With a number of historic districts throughout our city, we are a city of great and diverse neighborhoods. Old Town Alexandria is recognized as a national treasure with its restored homes and buildings of the 1700s and 1800s, gas lampposts, brick sidewalks, cobblestone streets, and historic markers. You can visit historic sites such as Gadsby's Tavern Museum, where important figures such as George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, George Mason, and the Marquis de Lafayette ate, drank, and at great risk, planned the creation of our nation. Historic preservation is a core value here, and it is one of the major reasons over three million people visit Alexandria each year.

Alexandria is also an arts destination that includes our Alexandria Symphony Orchestra, MetroStage's award-winning theater, the Art League, and numerous art galleries. One of my favorite places to visit with family and friends is the internationally known Torpedo Factory Art Center.

A vibrant city of 150,000 residents, Alexandria still retains its small-town feel. You can find fresh produce and goods at our many Farmers' Markets. Old Town's Market Square is home to the oldest continuous Farmers' Market in the country. And don't miss our well-known, unique shops throughout our city. From Old Town to Del Ray and the West End, Alexandria is a city for foodies, known for some of the best culinary talent in the region.

We have beautiful parks plus biking and walking trails. Some of my favorite places to go for a walk or to meet friends are Founders Park, Oronoco Bay Park, Fort Ward Park, and Brenman Park. Many of our parks have recently been improved with the help of community support, including donations and volunteerism. We also have a community-wide goal of "greening up" our city and dramatically increasing our tree canopy. I encourage everyone to join fellow Alexandrians in this team effort to plant trees. During the past two years, together we have nearly tripled the number of trees planted per year.

Alexandria is a city of kindness and compassion. The City Council and I signed a Statement of Inclusiveness reaffirming our strong commitment to diversity and declaring our city to be a hate-free zone. This is a core value of our city. There is no place for intolerance here.

Alexandria has a phenomenal nonprofit sector. If you would like to volunteer, we have plenty of opportunities for you. We are a can-do city. Our citizens are known for seeing an issue and rolling up their sleeves to create change. Check out Volunteer Alexandria for information about volunteer opportunities.

Here are fun highlights for the coming months. On Sept. 22, TWIG will host its 77th Annual Historic Alexandria Homes Tour. On Oct. 6, Del Ray will host its Art on the Avenue. Be sure not to miss the Del Ray Halloween Parade. On Dec. 1, the Campagna Center's Scottish Christmas Walk Parade celebrates our Scottish heritage. There is our ever-popular First Night Alexandria on New Year's Eve. In 2019, we will enjoy our George Washington Birthday Parade, the Ballyshanners' St. Patrick's Day Parade, and Alexandria's annual birthday celebration. These annual traditions create the glue that gives our city an abiding sense of community.

At City Hall, we are working hard for all our residents. I ask you to help us make our great city even greater by sharing your ideas with us. Please don't hesitate to speak out about issues. You may also consider joining one of our boards or commissions. Civic engagement is critically important. One Saturday a month, the City Council holds a monthly public hearing, and at the beginning of the meeting, residents may speak for three minutes about any concern or suggestion. I welcome your input and host a monthly coffee called "Mayor on Your Corner," where all are encouraged to come share thoughts and concerns. I am deeply honored to serve as your Mayor.

Please let me know if I may ever be of any help. Together, we are making Alexandria even stronger. Welcome!

A Welcome to All New ACPS Families

BY DR. GREGORY C.
HUTCHINGS, JR.
SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

Hello and welcome to all of our new students and new families! And of course, welcome back to all of our returning students and their families, too.

It's been just over two months since I returned to Alexandria as your Superintendent of Schools and I have to say, it is so good to be back home. Alexandria is such a great place to live and work and our community is especially diverse, vibrant and welcoming. We want to make sure that every one of you feels that great sense of community when you walk through the front doors of our schools. We are working hard to get our schools ready so all of our students feel comfortable, welcome and ready to learn on day one.

At ACPS, we stand for every student succeeding. We have students from 118 different countries who speak 120 different languages and this diversity is truly a gift. There is no other school division where students can experience such a rich global environment as the one we have in the city of Alexandria. Our students in ACPS graduate being able to fully engage in and contribute to our dynamic world. Time and time again, our students come back and tell us they were better prepared for their college experience or their work environment, thanks to their ACPS experiences, and best of all they actively want to give back to our community as a result.

This year, we will be welcoming around 15,700 students and while that growth is a cause for celebration, we also need to make sure we are preparing for it in the future. This fall, we will be looking to create a new vision for high school programming that matches the future workforce needs of Alexandria, the DC metro area, the United States and beyond.

Some of you have already heard that we recently launched the Governor's Health Science Academy at T.C. Williams High School in collaboration with The George Washington University. This is the first public-private educational partnership of its kind in Virginia. Students who graduate from the Health Sciences Academy have the opportunity to earn up to 22 college credits and get automatic acceptance to The George Washington University. We hope to create more partnerships like this in the future and expand our high school offerings as well as opportunities still further.

As part of my 100-Day Entry Plan, I will be meeting with a wide range of school, community and business leaders whose expertise and knowledge of the community will afford ACPS an opportunity to ensure every student succeeds upon graduation of ACPS. I, too, have two children who attend ACPS and understand the importance of a high quality educational experience. Just like you, my wife and I get one shot to raise our children and it is imperative that our schools provide an engaging learning environment that allows all students to thrive academically. Furthermore, we must prepare students to be able to think critically and make wise decisions to afford a productive life. Together, I know that we can meet our students where they are and provide the support needed to help them achieve success regardless of their life circumstances.

Staying connected is one of the most important things we can do to strengthen our sense of schools as the heart of our community. Your engagement, feedback and input will set ACPS on the trajectory to attain our ACPS 2020 goals over the next two years and beyond. Please sign up to receive our weekly school news via ACPS Express at www.acps.k12.va.us/news, or connect with us in English, Spanish, Arabic, Amharic on Facebook, or Spanish and English on Twitter.

We know this is going to be an awesome school year. You can make this the best year ever for your child by staying connected to your child's school. Volunteer, join your PTA and attend community meetings. There is real power in being involved and we are so grateful that you've given us the honor of serving our ACPS families each day.

Welcome to Alexandria. Whether you are returning to our community or are a newcomer, we are excited to have you as our neighbor.

As you get to know Alexandria, you'll find our community is rich with parks and cultural opportunities, has some of the best dining and nightlife in the region, offers a connection to many elements of American history and features diverse cultures and neighborhoods.

Alexandrians are known for their generosity. We care about the health and wellbeing of fellow residents and there is a vibrant network of community organizations working hard to ensure that Alexandria is a vibrant place for all.

This family owned business is the best! Coming from a stressed out newly engaged bride-to-be, they went out of their way to accommodate my ring redesign requests, in a timely manner. Then we bought my wedding band there. I now take all my jewelry to King's to have it repaired, appraised and love the beautiful and unique jewelry that they carry. Making Cents for Charity

Dining out or volunteering, opportunities abound to help community.

Holy Cow, Del Ray's Gourmet Burger Joint, marked a milestone Aug. 21: the donation of more than 400,000 quarters, or $100,000, to local charities through ACT for Alexandria. Since the restaurant opened in 2012, it has donated $.25 for each burger sold to more than 250 charities as selected by the patron.

"People spend more time trying to decide which charity to donate to than they do which burger to order," joked co-owner Donna Anderson. "To save time you can check out the list of charities online at HolyCowDelRay.com before ordering."

Dining out at Holy Cow is one small way to give back to the community. From national organizations like Rotary and Lions Clubs to local nonprofits like Senior Services of Alexandria, there are seemingly endless opportunities to volunteer your time and talents.

"Volunteer Alexandria is a connector of people and groups interested in getting involved in our community and organizations who are in need of volunteers to help them fulfill their mission," said Marion Brunken, executive director of Volunteer Alexandria. "Often, people don't know where to start so we will help anyone who wants to volunteer."

Volunteer Alexandria will help connect individuals six years or older with a non-profit organization or city agency that needs assistance and suits their interests.

"It's really easy to be matched," Brunken said. "Just visit VolunteerAlexandria.org, enter a keyword, zip code, or age, and the system populates a list of current opportunities. Or just call us 703-836-2176. We also help businesses find ways to make a difference in the community."

Other volunteer opportunities include Senior Services of Alexandria, which uses volunteers for Meals on Wheels deliveries as well as the Friendly Visitor Program and Groceries to Go service. Carpenter's Shelter, the city's homeless shelter, uses volunteers for administrative tasks and meal services.

The American Legion provides support and services for veterans from World War II through the War on Terror. Members also volunteer in numerous community activities, including Rebuilding Together Alexandria, which works year round to repair and rehabilitate homes free of cost for those in need, including the elderly, persons with disabilities, military veterans and families with children. Since 1948, the Alexandria Sportsman's Club has been providing scholarships to high school athletes through fundraising events and monthly meetings that feature speakers such as NFL Hall of Famer Darrell Green.

Alexandria's sense of community and service are considered by many to be the city's greatest attraction. "Any level of volunteering will make a difference," Brunken added.

ALEXANDRIA SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA

The Washington, D.C. metro region boasts some of the finest culture institutions and performing arts groups in the country. Although you may be tempted to cross the river for a night out, you may not know a shining gem is right in your neighborhood.

Celebrating its 75th anniversary season this year, the Alexandria Symphony Orchestra draws from the wealth of musical talent throughout the region; many ASO musicians are principals with other professional orchestras. This fall the ASO will welcome top soloists to the stage along with the new maestro, James Ross, who assumed the baton as music director earlier this month.

In the spring of 2018, the ASO completed a two-year international search, hiring Ross as its fifth music director. Ross was selected among 170 applicants and participated in the 2017-2018 season as a finalist, conducting and programming his performances. ASO audiences, musicians and trustees rated the candidates following each concert, and this valuable feedback influenced the final selection.

The ASO presents eight main series concerts (four pairs of week-end performances) from September to April. Saturday evening performances are held at the Rachel

M. Schlesinger Concert Hall and Arts Center (NVCC – Alexandria campus), and Sunday matinees are held at the iconic George Washington Masonic Memorial. Both venues are metro-accessible and offer free parking. Attendees of all ages are welcome; youth tickets (18 and under) are $5, and student tickets (with ID) are $10.

In addition to its orchestral series, the ASO underwrites ASO Sympatico, an El Sistema-inspired music education program at John Adams Elementary School (Alexandria City Public Schools), launching its fifth school year this fall with six ensembles serving 130-plus students.

Each July, the ASO performs a free outdoor public concert at the Alexandria Birthday Celebration in Oronoco Bay Park (Alexandria waterfront), complete with fireworks and live cannons. Many ASO concerts and events throughout the year include an educational component.

In total, the ASO reaches more than 40,000 people annually through performances, music education programs and community outreach.

The ASO is supported by the community through ticket sales, individual gifts, corporate sponsorships and grants.

In April 2018, the ASO launched a three-year 75th Anniversary Campaign to initiate new projects, expand community outreach and support the events surrounding the anniversary.

To contribute to the 75th Anniversary Campaign or to purchase tickets, call 703-548-0885 or visit www.alexsym.org.

NEWCOMERS & COMMUNITY GUIDE

ACT for Alexandria: Join in by Giving Back

One of the best ways to get to know our community is by getting involved and participating in the civic life of our city. There is a volunteer opportunity for everyone – from delivering meals to homebound seniors with Senior Services of Alexandria, to helping homeless families get back on their feet at Carpenter’s Shelter, to lending your voice with the Alexandria Harmonizers! Not sure where to begin? Volunteer Alexandria can help you find the perfect volunteer opportunity that aligns with your interests, skills and schedule.

Another way to give back is by focusing your charitable giving in Alexandria. Chances are there’s a nonprofit organization in our community that aligns with your passion. There are many effective, highly respected nonprofits in Alexandria that address a variety of needs and causes. ACT for Alexandria is Alexandria’s community foundation and we are here to help you connect to nonprofits, learn about important issues facing our community and provide guidance on how you can be more effective in your giving.

Community foundations are entities dedicated to improving the quality of life of the local community. We were established to provide a centralized source of support to nonprofit organizations and to help the city, schools, businesses and other organizations partner in new ways. We were also set up to make charitable giving in Alexandria easy. ACT offers donor advised funds — one of the fastest growing charitable giving vehicles in the country. Donor advised funds are like a charitable bank account where you control when and how much you give to the nonprofits you care about. Best of all you get a tax deduction when you put money in a donor advised fund and then you can decide when to make a donation to a nonprofit of your choice, now or later.

Finally, you’ll want to keep Spring2ACTion, Alexandria’s Giving Day on your radar. Sponsored by ACT, Spring2ACTion takes place every April and is an exciting way to join thousands of your neighbors in supporting more than 150 nonprofit organizations. In 2018, together we raised $1.8M. With your involvement in 2019, I know we will raise even more!

Make giving back — either as a volunteer, donor, or both! — part of your plan to become an active member of the Alexandria community. Visit www.actforalexandria.org or call us at 703-739-7778 to learn more.

Scrutiny through Agenda: Alexandria

Founded in 1998 to provide a forum of in-depth and unbiased discussion of city issues, Agenda: Alexandria celebrated its 20th anniversary in 2018. This nonprofit was founded to provide a forum of in-depth and unbiased discussion of city issues.

“Our current board of directors is excited to build in the 20-year history of this organization by looking at issues without taking sides,” said Michael Lee Pope, chairman.

Open to all, the program, preceded by an optional dinner, is held at The Hermitage Auditorium, 5000 Fairbanks Ave., Alexandria, and other venues around the city. The 2018-2019 season dates and topics have just been announced:

- ❖ Sept. 24: Affordable Housing: Affordable for Whom?
- ❖ Oct. 22: Return of the Electeds: Perspectives,

Lessons and Legends

- ❖ Nov. 26: Loan Sharks or Lenders of Last Resort?
- ❖ Jan. 28, 2019: Bullying and Lockdowns: Perspectives on School Security
- ❖ Feb. 25, 2019: Whither Landmark: What Happens After Wonder Woman?
- ❖ March 25, 2019: Del Ray: The Forgotten Town of Potomac
- ❖ April 22, 2019: Eco-City Report Card: Is Alexandria Cleaning Up Its Act?
- ❖ May 20, 2019: Broken Promises? Neighborhood Transitions and Transparency

For more about Agenda: Alexandria, visit www.Agenda:Alexandria.com or email ExecutiveDirector@AgendaAlexandria.com for early information on membership, sponsorship and advertising opportunities.

Offering Services for Seniors

Senior Services of Alexandria (SSA) is a nonprofit organization that has as its mission, “to foster independence and self-sufficiency, enabling seniors within the City of Alexandria to age with dignity.”

SSA operates the Meals on Wheels delivery program and DOT transportation reservations for the city, presents educational programs through various events, a speaker series and a monthly cable television production, “Senior Living in Alexandria.” It oversees the Senior Ambassador Program where volunteers spread the word about programs and services available to seniors to their respective communities.

SSA and the Animal Welfare League of Alexandria operate the Animeals on Wheels program, providing food for pets of low-income seniors. SSA’s Friendly Visitor Program matches volunteers with seniors for weekly visits, enhancing connections to the community. SSA also operates a Groceries to Go Program for seniors who have difficulty shopping. If you are a senior in need of services or would like to join the effort to enhance the lives of seniors, contact SSA at www.seniorservicesalex.org or call 703-836-4414.

Alexandria's 15 square miles. These mostly represent Christianity, especially Protestant or independent denominations. While Catholics comprise the single largest denomination by adherents, according to the Association of Religion Data Archives (ARDA), they gather in only four parishes. The city has two long-established Jewish congregations, plus a smattering representing denominations that ARDA classifies as "other," such as Latter Day Saints (Mormons), Jehovah's Witnesses, and Baha'is.

CAREGIVER CONNECT

A Monthly Gathering for Caregivers at The Kensington

At The Kensington, we understand that caregiving for someone with dementia is a demanding responsibility. We also believe it is one you should not undertake alone. That's why we strive to preserve your well-being by helping you stay positive, manage fatigue and make the most of moments as your loved one's memory changes.

Join us each month to share time connecting with other caregivers and discussing common challenges. Guest facilitators offer information, advice and support in a welcoming, private setting.

Dr. Aleksandra (Anya) Parpura, an expert in aging and dementia, leads our Caregiver Connect program and brings to us vast knowledge, helpful tips and a kind heart.

A City of Faith

By other characteristics, Alexandria's congregations vary widely. They include several cultural and ethnic forms — for example, historically African American, Spanish speaking, and Ethiopian. They range from large “mega churches” to much smaller “store-front” type churches. Some were established a century or more ago, while others are newer. Worship styles range from more “traditional” to more contemporary or expressive, as in Pentecostal congregations.

Nearly half of the city's congregations participate in ALIVE! (Alexandrians Involved Ecumenically!), a nonprofit that provides various assistances, such as food and financial, and runs a childhood development center.

The information presented here is adapted from a list obtained earlier this year from Infogroup's ReferenceUSA database. Email gazette@connectionnewspapers.com with suggested corrections or additions.

NEWCOMERS & COMMUNITY GUIDE

Getting Down to Business Navigating the ABCs of Alexandria.

BY JEANNE THEISMANN
GAZETTE PACKET

Living in the shadow of the nation's capital, acronyms such as DoD, NSA and DHS are a part of the daily vernacular. Alexandria has its own set of acronyms, from AEDP to WEBA, which represents organizations and various business associations that span every corner of the city.

Some, like the Chamber of Commerce, have been around for over a century, while others, like the Capitol Post, represent the needs of the city's shifting demographic.

"Capitol Post offers military veterans and spouses in the Washington, D.C. region personalized guidance through mentoring, business counseling and access to key resources, programs, mentors, and co-working space," said Capitol Post executive director and West Point graduate Emily McMahan. "Our mission is to establish and cultivate the top community for veterans to start a business, grow a business, explore a new career and get involved locally."

The Capitol Post is located at 625 N. Washington St., Suite 425. 703-652-5377 or www.thecapitolpost.com.

Visit Alexandria

Visit Alexandria is the city's tourism marketing agency and attracts visitors to the city through sales and marketing programs. The Visitor's Center is located at 221 King St. with administrative offices at 625 N. Washington St., Suite 400. VisitAlexandriaVA.com

Alexandria Economic Development Partnership - AEDP

Founded in 1992, the Alexandria Economic Development Partnership promotes commercial spaces and economic opportunities in the City of Alexandria as the city's primary engine for economic development. AEDP serves as the leading resource for economic data, customized reports, development maps, real estate insights and information on tax and financial incentives for businesses and commercial real estate professionals. 625 N. Washington St., suite 400. 703-739-3820 or www.AlexEcon.org

Alexandria Chamber of Commerce

Alexandria is home to one of the largest chambers in the Greater Washington region, with 850 professional business members and partners employing more than 49,000 people region-wide. Founded in 1906, it serves as the voice of the business community in the City of Alexandria through aggressive lobbying efforts at the local, state and federal levels. 2834 Duke St. 703-549-1000 or www.alexchamber.com

The Del Ray Business Association - DRBA

The Del Ray Business Association is run by volunteers who are themselves business owners. Started almost 45 years ago, DRBA now has over 200 members and sponsors several events in the Del Ray community each year. www.visitdelray.com.

Old Town Business and Professional Association - OTBPA

Open to businesses of any type, OTBPA is the result of a merger of two organizations - Old Town Business (OTB) and King Street Metro Enterprise Team (KSMET). OTBPA's most visible project is the annual Alexandria Retail Coupon Book. www.otbpa.com

Alexandria Small Business Development Center - SBDC

The Alexandria Small Business Development Center is Alexandria's economic development program that focuses on small businesses, which comprise the largest segment of Alexandria's economy. SBDC offers individual and confidential assistance without cost to City of Alexandria businesses and Alexandria residents with businesses elsewhere. 625 N. Washington St., Suite 400. 703-778-1291 or www.alexandriasbdc.org

West End Business Association - WEBA

The West End Business Association is comprised of West End Businesses and those that do business on the West End of Alexandria. WEBA provides members with networking opportunities, education and growth opportunities and representation before the City and economic development officials on matters important to the West End of Alexandria. www.alexandriaweba.com

Eisenhower Partnership

The Eisenhower Partnership is a group of commercial and residential property owners and occupiers along the Eisenhower Avenue Valley corridor. The Valley is anchored in the East by the Patent and Trademark Campus and in the West by the Victory Center development/Van Dorn Metro Station. www.eisenhowerpartnership.org

Carlyle Council - CCC

The Carlyle Council oversees the open spaces, parks and community amenities in Carlyle. CCC serves as the business and community development organization for Carlyle and advocates on behalf of Carlyle stakeholders on matters impacting the community. www.thecarlylecommunity.com

Old Town North Community Partnership - OTNCP

The Old Town North Community Partnership seeks to encourage the blend of residential and businesses uses in Old Town North, and make improvements in the area's quality of life through a partnership of residents and businesses working together on common goals. The community includes North of Oronoco Street to Alexandria's northern boundary. www.oldtownnorth.org
