Railroad in Burke Past and Present

Memories of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad on exhibit at Fairfax Station Railroad Museum.

BY STEVE HIBBARD
THE CONNECTION

A few dozen people attended the Fairfax Station Railroad Museum’s special exhibit called “Memories of the Orange and Alexandria Railroad” on Sunday, Sept. 23. With 17 poster displays, it also featured original artifacts from the railroad — coupling equipment, a drawbar spring, track pieces, an old brake shoe — as it explored the construction, operation, and legacy of the founding railroad of Burke and Fairfax Station, which was completed in 1854.

According to Brian Slawski, Vice President, Burke Historical Society: “Burke got its name because of the railroad. Basically, Silas Burke became a member of the Board of Directors for the Orange and Alexandria Railroad when it was being planned. He realized he wanted the railroad to come through his back yard so he could ship his produce from his farm into the market in Alexandria. He persuaded his neighbors to give up some of their land to do the same, so they convinced the planners of the railroad to route it through what it became known afterwards as Burke Station, in his honor.”

He continued: “The railroad became the lifeblood of the community after that and passenger services were offered as well so people would benefit through the early 20th century — and now with Amtrak and the VRE using basically the same tracks, people from Burke are benefitting from that still.”

Michael Chinworth, Vice President of the Fairfax Station Railroad Museum, added: “What we’re trying to do today in cooperation with the Burke Historical Society is have an exhibit that tells visitors about what still remains and the changes that railroad brought to the area. What kind of evidence there is of the old railroad and what it means for historic preservation.”

Chinworth said the existence of the railroad connected parts of Northern Virginia with one another, adding: “So, it certainly didn’t hurt the emergence of Burke as a center for the county, as a more important location, as a town, as a city. The promoters of the railroad were looking to enhance their economic development. Alexandria was the terminus and Orange County was the Southern end.”

He said that Alexandria was an industrial area — a major seaport and everything west and south was agriculture. “So, the promoters of the railroad wanted to have a way for their goods and products to get out to the port so they could be sent to more distant markets and bring in benefits of the industrialized society to them. So, that was the intent (County Commissioner) Silas Burke had on his mind in promoting the station,” he said.

The station figured heavily during the American Civil War. It was the site of a massive evacuation effort during the Battle of Second Manassas (Bull Run) in 1862. The future founder of the American Red Cross, Clara Barton, tended to the wounded at St. Mary’s Church nearby and the depot.

He said the exhibit was a one-time deal;

Northern Virginia Senior Olympics (NVSO) opened its eleven days of competitive events on Saturday, Sept. 15 with opening ceremonies at 9 a.m. followed by track, rowing and diving events. Six diving competitors faced off at Washington and Lee Aquatics Center in Arlington.

Duane Clayton-Cox, a resident of Burke, competed in the opening day diving events at the NVSO. He says he used to do a double twist and flip "but not anymore." Today he will perform an inward dive straight position. He won a blue ribbon in the men's 65-69-year category with a total score of 201.15.

This year 857 participants signed up for NVSO with Doris Woodring the oldest competitor at 108 in Mexican train dominoes.

The events are being held at 29 community and senior centers, parks and schools around Northern Virginia from Fairfax Senior Center, Walter Reed Community Center in Arlington, Occoquan Regional Park in Lorton, Lake Braddock Secondary School in Burke and Lincolnia Senior Center in Alexandria.

Participants are required to be 50 years of age or older as of Dec. 31, 2018 and reside in the Cities of Fairfax, Alexandria or Falls Church or the counties of Arlington, Fairfax, Fauquier, Loudoun or Prince William.

Walk To Prevent Suicide

11th Annual Fairfax Out of the Darkness Walk

Each year nearly 45,000 Americans die by suicide. On Saturday, Sept. 29, more than 1,500 people from throughout Fairfax County and Fairfax City are expected to come together for the 11th Annual Fairfax Out of the Darkness Community Walk to help raise awareness and funds that allow the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention to invest in new research, create educational programs, advocate for public policy and support survivors of suicide loss.

"Suicide is the 10th leading cause of death in the United States and a leading cause of death of first responders," notes Braddock District Supervisor John Cook, who is sponsoring a team for the walk. "For too long, stigma has prevented the efforts needed to push back on suicidal thoughts and tendencies. I am thrilled that a broad team of county leaders is joining me as we fight back against the stigma of suicide and spread the message that we are here to help, not judge."

The Fairfax Out of the Darkness Walk is one of more than 400 community walks taking place this year around the country. They are expected to unite more than 250,000 walkers and raise millions for suicide prevention efforts. The 2017 Fairfax Out of the Darkness Community Walk included more than 1,100 participants and raised over $142,000.

Registration/check-in begins at 9 a.m. at the Veteran's Amphitheatre in the City of Fairfax, 10485 Armstrong St., Fairfax. The walk begins at 11 a.m.

Karrie Boswell, who retired from the Fairfax County Fire and Rescue Department in 2015 and organizes the Fairfax event, says the cause is one close to her heart as a former first responder. "More firefighters and police officers die annually by suicide than in the line of duty. It's an epidemic among first responders," Boswell says.

Park Authority to Hold Public Hearing on Proposed Property Exchange

The Fairfax County Park Authority will hold a public hearing on Wednesday, October 24, 2018 to receive public comment on a proposed exchange of property in the Mason District.

The Park Authority proposes to exchange approximately 1,000 square feet of currently disturbed property in Holmes Run Stream Valley Park, that is identified on the Fairfax County Real Property Identification Map as Tax Map No. 61-4((34))C, for approximately 1,000 square feet of undisturbed property that is owned by Bruce E. and Patricia Kasold. In addition, Bruce E. and Patricia Kasold will grant a conservation easement, approximately 2,000 square feet in size, to the Park Authority for undisturbed natural open space. The property of Bruce E. and Patricia Kasold, 5914 Skyline Heights Court, Alexandria, Virginia, is identified on the Fairfax County Real Property Identification Map as Tax Map No. 61-4((34))72. With the exchange, the Park Authority will add approximately 0.07 acres of open space to the county's park system.

Park Policy 209, Disposal of Land or Facilities, requires a public hearing be held prior to the Park Authority's decision to dispose of land or facilities. The public hearing will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Park Authority Board Room of the Herrity Building, at 12055 Government Center Parkway, Fairfax, Virginia. Those interested in this exchange are urged to attend the public hearing or send a representative to the hearing to present their views.

If you would like more information, please visit our website at <https://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/parks/sites/parks/files/assets/documents/board/archives/2018/091218-cow-pkg.pdf>. To speak, please call Judy Pedersen, Public Information Officer, at 703-324-8662, or send an email to parkmail@fairfaxcounty.gov. For persons with hearing impairments, sign language interpreter services are available upon request. Please call 703-324-3988 TTY at least ten days prior to the meeting.

Written comments from the public on the exchange of the Holmes Run Stream Valley Park property will be received by the Fairfax County Park Authority for a period of 30 days, closing on October 23, 2018. Written comments should be directed to Cindy McNeal of the Planning & Development Division, Fairfax County Park Authority, 12055 Government Center Parkway, Suite 406, Fairfax, Virginia 22035. Email comments should be sent to: parkmail@fairfaxcounty.gov.

How We Can Bring Criminal Fine Reform to Fairfax County

BY SUPERVISOR JOHN C. COOK
(R-BRADDOCK)

Almost one million Virginians have had their licenses suspended due to unpaid court fines and other charges.

Criminal justice reform is about making sure that the criminal justice system achieves its goals and works equally for everyone. One issue being examined is whether assessing traffic and court fines and costs, regardless of ability to pay, and then punishing those who do not pay, is achieving any desired goal. Court fines and fees can be assessed for criminal or traffic offenses, such as speeding or parking violations. When someone receives a ticket or is ordered to pay a fine for an infraction, they also have to pay court and processing fees. This system is in place to deter people from committing these crimes, and also as a way to reimburse the cost of expenses associated with processing the cases and pay back to society for the cost of any damage caused by their actions.

For some, paying fines is not a problem. For others who are struggling to get by, it may be difficult or impossible to pay. The penalties for failing to pay fines and fees end up having a much greater impact on those in poverty than the rest of the population. If someone cannot pay their fine or traffic ticket, penalties for non-payment increase the amounts they could not pay in the first place. Overdue fines often go to collection agencies and the mountain of debt grows even higher, since a 17 percent collection fee can be added on to the existing balance.

Compounding the issue is that if someone fails to pay their fines, the state can take their driver's license away. The Legal Aid Justice Center found in January that almost one million (974,349) Virginians had their licenses suspended due to unpaid fines and other charges. Two-thirds of that group (638,003) had their licenses suspended solely because of unpaid fines. When the courts suspend driver's licenses for unpaid fines, those individuals are not able to legally drive to work. Many people choose to drive illegally on their suspended licenses so they do not lose their income. If they are caught, then even more legal fees are added to their debt and some have to serve jail time. This vicious cycle makes it impossible for the courts to ever collect their fines and for those who owe to meet their obligations. It also means that people are pushed out of jobs and potentially into applying for government benefits.

Fortunately, in Fairfax County there are several programs to help individuals avoid these escalating penalties. Defendants can enter into a monthly payment plan with a down payment due at the time of their conviction. If a monthly payment is missed, then the defendant will go into default, which could result in additional fines and/or jail time. Another option is to defer the entire payment until a later date. Defendants may also be eligible for the Fines Option Program, which allows defendants to perform community service in lieu of paying fines and fees. Those who sign up for this option go to the Magistrate's office on a Saturday morning, sign in, and take a bus to the George Mason University campus to perform tasks such as picking up litter, landscaping, or painting. Work hours are credited at the rate of $15 an hour toward payment of fines.

While we have some remarkable programs to assist those who cannot afford to pay off their fines, many people still fall through the cracks. We need to implement a new system to help determine a person's ability to pay before they go to trial. The judge and clerk's office need the ability to set fines that can actually be paid. We need further opportunities for the alternative of assigning community service with more flexible schedules for those who cannot make the Saturday morning sessions.

Fine reform cannot truly take place without significant changes by the General Assembly. However, the County can help in the process by assisting the courts in bolstering their programs and making them more effective. We defeat the purpose of fines if we cause people to lose their jobs and the ability to support their families. Alternatives are important to a more just system.

snowmageddon to recent and regular torrential rains.

These impacts are important to us in the Mount Vernon District, and Virginia in general, for many reasons. Here are a few:

- ❖ While 29 percent of Virginia land is coastal, 60 percent of population lives on coast.

- ❖ A recent study showed more than 9,000 Virginia homes are at risk of tidal flooding by 2045 due to sea level rise.

- ❖ Low lying areas, like New Alexandria and Belle View, will increasingly be at risk of flooding just from high tides and onshore winds.

- ❖ Extreme heat is the leading weather-related cause of death in the United States and it puts strain on our energy grid.

- ❖ Heavy downpours in our area have increased 30 percent over the last 50 years.

- ❖ Experts have determined that a category 3 hurricane through our area would submerge the Belle Haven Marina through Belle Haven Shopping Center with three-plus feet of standing water.

While the County has taken steps to be good environmental stewards, like signing the Cool Counties Climate Stabilization Declaration, adopting a Countywide Energy Policy, Environmental Vision and Operational Energy Strategy, it is not proportional to the challenge we face. I did not support the recently adopted Operational Energy Strategy because the plan

COMMENTARY

Celebrating with Understanding

BY KENNETH R. "KEN" PLUM
STATE DELEGATE (D-36)

Next year will be the quadricentennial — four hundred years — of important events happening in Virginia in 1619. Those events are not the rah-rah kind of happenings that are too often recognized with simple merriment. They are not examined for what we can learn from whence we came to understand how we got to where we are. The English established their first permanent colony in what became America in 1607; they did not “discover” America. There were an estimated 50,000 residents on the North American continent when the English bumped into the continent on their way to the riches of the Far East. The Spanish had visited the mid-Atlantic region decades before the English arrived but did not stick around for they found no gold or fountain of youth.

The indigenous people living in what the English named Virginia had a form of government in a confederation under the Great Chief Powhatan, an agricultural system, environmental protection, and a religion based on the natural spirits. They resented the people showing up in great ships and booming guns and taking land on which their forbearers had lived for as many as 15,000 years. There should be no surprise that the indigenous people begrudged these illegal immigrants coming and taking their land and responded with what some people called savagery.

Joining the new settlers at the community they called Jamestowne in 1619 were an essential component of keeping a community thriving into the future — women.

Just in time for the 2019 celebration, the Women’s Commission has construction underway for a monument celebrating the contributions of women in making Virginia thrive. Not a bit too soon!

Women were invited to join the men at Jamestowne to help start a new life in a new world.

Not invited to join the white men and women were the enslaved Africans who were dropped off at Jamestowne without their consent and with an indentured servant agreement that could never be paid off. The enslaved Africans in 1619 were the first that would be brought to the colony to work in the tobacco fields and to do the hard labors without any of the benefits a new start in life was supposed to bring.

The relationship between the white and black populations in Virginia were to dominate so much of the history of the state to the senseless killings of the Civil War and the complexities of race relations today.

In 1619 representatives of the plantations in the colony of Virginia met together in the mud-dab constructed church in Jamestowne to form a local government, much like a homeowner’s association, because the real power of governance continued to reside in London. That meeting is celebrated as the first meeting of representative government tracing its beginning in 1619 through the Revolutionary War, with a slight deviation of the Civil War, to today.

Please keep up with the celebrations for next year by visiting the website of <https://www.americanrevolution2019.com/> or watch for announcements of events in my electronic newsletter, Virginia E-News, available by free subscription (sign up at kenplum.com). In our celebrations, let’s continue to critically examine where we are in light of where we have been.

A Bucket List for Fall

Activities that will add spice to the season.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL

When the leaves turn colors and the air is crisp, Caitlin Upton gathers her family and pulls out a whiteboard and a marker. She's careful to jot down all of the ideas, shouted in rapid-fire fashion from her three children.

"We always create a fall bucket list of things that we want to do as a family," said Upton, who is a mother of three children ranging in age from two to seven. "This year, the kids want to go on a hayride and pick pumpkins. It's not too original, but they love it and get really excited about it. It gives us something to look forward to during the week when we're so busy."

Creating a fall bucket list — a compilation of experiences or achievements that one wants to accomplish — is an important way to create lasting family traditions and memories, while enjoying all that the season has to offer. From hayrides to pumpkin-carving, fall ushers in enough family-friendly activities to create an overflowing list of activities that make the most of the season's bounty.

"The start of a new season is a perfect time to create bucket list, and during fall there are so many fun things to do," said Upton, a marriage and family therapist in Burke. "So often, people have ideas of things that they want to do either with their kids, their friends or just personal things, but never get around to them. It's important to write them down and commit to doing them. I write our list on a white board in our kitchen, but I keep it short and attainable so we don't get overwhelmed. Carving out quality time to spend with family is important."

Foraging for vibrantly color fallen leaves in shades of orange and yellow is at the top of Bella Middleton's bucket list. Middleton, who is an art instructor in Bethesda, gathers her two preschool-age children and collects leaves with the goal of turning nature into art. "Sometimes we do something as simple as taking branches with leaves that have turned orange and put them in vases that we display around the house. I mix pumpkins with leaves to create a centerpiece for the dining room table."

Making wreaths and collages is another project that Middleton does with her family. "This is really one of the most inexpensive and fun projects that you can do," she said. "My kids and I go to a park and gather fallen leaves. Then I get some construction paper and glue sticks or spray mount and let my kids attached the leaves to the paper in any way they want, then I display their works of art around the house. It's a great way to welcome the season."

Turning leaves into candle holders is another project that Middleton and her family enjoy. "You take leaves and glue them to the inside of mason jars and let them dry. You can attach the leaves with a craft glue called Modge Podge, which dries clear. Tie a pretty ribbon around the mouth of the jar and you have a beautiful decorative piece for fall."

Spending a day enjoying a scenic drive to Shenandoah, passing through the so-called Apple

Trail, is must-do task for Arlington mother Camilla Kendrick and her family.

"It's a beautiful drive down. We stop and pick apples and then we come home and make apple doughnuts," said Kendrick, who works as a private chef. "They're messy, so the kids think they're fun to make. I also make apple cider doughnuts for some of my clients."

Taking a local fall foliage drive with her four children is something that Lauren Bickle puts on her bucket list each fall. "It's certainly not as breathtaking as the foliage in some place like New England, but this area has a lot to offer," she said. "There's Great Falls of course, and then Mount Vernon and Arlington National Cemetery have some great colors. If you're up for a longer drive, Harper's Ferry in Maryland is fantastic for a fall day trip."

Apple Doughnut Recipe

Ingredients

2 cups flour
1/4 cup sugar
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 egg
3 tablespoons buttermilk
1/3 cup whole milk
5 Granny Smith apples, cored and sliced vertically into three pieces to create doughnut shapes.
2 cups olive oil for frying
1/2 cup powdered sugar, for coating

Directions: Stir together flour, sugar, baking powder, cinnamon, nutmeg, and salt to create the batter. Gradually stir-in buttermilk, whole milk and egg. Coat each apple ring with batter. Heat the oil in a deep frying pan. Place the doughnut rings in the pan and fry on each side for three minutes or until golden brown. Drain doughnuts on a paper towel and allow to cool. Sprinkle with powdered sugar.

Climate Forum Highlights Sharp Differences

Faith Alliance for Climate Solutions hosts public forum featuring Kaine and Stewart.

BY ANDREA WORKER
THE CONNECTION

Billed as a public forum to focus on the effects of climate change on Virginia and what actions Virginians can take to combat the situation, the Virginia Climate Crisis Forum played out more like a debate between the two candidates seeking to represent the Commonwealth in the United States Senate in the Nov. 6 elections. The contrast was clear, even though Democratic incumbent Tim Kaine and his Republican challenger, Corey Stewart, the chairman of the Prince William County Board of Supervisors, were never on stage at the same time.

The packed house in the auditorium on Sept. 18 at James Madison High School in Vienna, didn't seem to mind. Faith Alliance for Climate Solutions organized the event.

"We need to know where these two stand and what they plan to do about climate and environmental issues," was the opinion of two retirees who braved the traffic from Springfield to attend the event.

There was a three-person panel of experts bringing the perspectives of health, national security and local government to the discussion.

Samantha Ahdoot, MD, is a pediatrician and co-founder of Virginia Clinicians for Climate Action. Ahdoot shared statistics and personal experience about the effects of pollution, hotter summers, and worsening allergy seasons on her young patients, and on the elderly and more vulnerable.

"A bold vision for de-carbonization will ensure a healthy future for Virginia's children with clean air and a stable climate," said Ahdoot.

Major General Rick Devereaux, USAF (Ret.) opened a few eyes on how climate change effects national security and the preparedness of the American military to cope with those threats.

"Climate change threatens our national security in a number of ways," said Devereaux, noting that extreme changes in climate lead to economic and cultural instabilities. "More risk of conflict, more refugees fleeing environments growing more and more inhospitable." Devereaux sees that one effect as rocking an already shaky world stage, and "placing humanitarian demands on our overtaxed military forces."

Devereaux applauded the military's move toward biofuels and away from gasoline, saying that one of the most dangerous missions for military personnel is the movement of highly flammable fuels in combat zones.

Rising sea levels are direct, physical threats to military installations, Devereaux said. "There's some 1,700 [military installations] on coast lines, and many have already been subject to flooding" even without the influence of major storms like Hurricane Florence.

The Virginia Climate Crisis Forum drew a packed house in the auditorium of James Madison High School in Vienna.

PHOTOS BY ANDREA WORKER/THE CONNECTION

After finishing his section of the event, U.S. Sen. Tim Kaine stepped backstage and took a few questions, including one from Oakton High School Junior Wendy Gao, who attended the forum as a reporter for her school newspaper.

The third panel member, Fairfax County Supervisor Dan Storck (D-Mount Vernon) addressed the issues from a local government level. The area that Storck represents "contains many waterways and various industrial sites that combine to create unique risks and challenges," and has also been subject to flooding and other environmental damage.

Storck emphasized the need to "take immediate action" to protect "People, Places, and Property."

THE PANELISTS posed questions to the two senatorial candidates from their individual perspectives and areas of knowledge and concern, led by moderator Rev. Dr. Jean Wright, a co-founder of Faith Alliance for Climate Solutions.

Kaine wasted no time differentiating himself from his opponent and from the Trump Administration.

"Before we talk about solutions," said Kaine, "we have to all accept that man-made climate change is real," not the "hoax" that Kaine reminded the audience was the President's often-stated opinion on the issue. "Both [Trump and Stewart] have used that word."

Kaine supports the science of climate change and says that overall, so does Congress. He relates that he sees the effects of climate change every day.

"This is not a tomorrow issue in Virginia. It's an issue for today."

Stewart began his remarks by saying to the climate-conscious audience that "perhaps we won't agree on much, but all I am asking for is an open mind, and I will have an open mind, as well."

Stewart readily admits that the climate has changed significantly in recent years, but he does not see that as being primarily "caused by man," and that he does not believe "man can change that." His assertion brought shouts and boos from the crowd, and had moderator Wright calling for civility and respect.

The contrasts between the two men continued as they answered the questions of the moderator and the panelists.

On the subject of constructing additional pipelines in Virginia, Kaine thought that the process to permit such construction was flawed and needed to be addressed at the Federal level.

"I'm not saying I would never be in favor of a new pipeline," Kaine said, but that the question first needed to be asked if a pipeline was truly needed, and then to proceed with an investigatory process to assess impact and to allow for "real citizen input," rather than token outreach.

Reliance on green energy solutions would "increase the costs of power, cost jobs" and make the country less secure, while having little impact on the negatives associated with climate change, Stewart said.

Stewart's answers throughout the forum strongly defended the coal industry. Expressing his agreement with the President's decision to pull out of the Paris Climate Accord, Stewart said that shutting down the coal industry or imposing "burdensome" environmental regulations on businesses would just move the problem to countries like China and India where there would be less-regulation and more harmful effects.

"Again," he said, "losing jobs at home and not solving anything."

Major General Devereaux responded that by leaving the Paris Accord "what we ceded is moral leadership. It diminishes our moral authority and national security." If there are problems with the pact – which Devereaux acknowledged there are several – then it was the role of leaders to stay at the table and work the problem, rather than be "absent."

KAINE said that he supports eliminating tax credits and subsidies for carbon energy producers and other industries.

"It's time for us to stop picking the winners and losers," he said, and invest that money more wisely. Kaine disagrees with Stewart that "green solutions" would cause devastating job losses, citing studies and examples where more, better-paying and more sustainable employment is associated with green energy industries, technology and research.

The Faith Alliance for Climate Solutions was founded in 2013 and has grown to represent more than 70 congregations in Northern Virginia. Visit www.faithforclimate.org for more information.

'E-Day' on the Horizon

County readies for Nov. 6 elections.

BY ANDREA WORKER
THE CONNECTION

On Tuesday, Nov. 6, voters will go to the polls to choose a United States Senator, representatives for Congress, Town officials in Herndon, and vote on several referendums.

The Fairfax County Electoral Board held a Media Briefing session on Sept. 17 to provide important information regarding the election process and voting in Fairfax County. With "E-Day" on the horizon, they want to help voters avoid any confusions or pitfalls that could cause unnecessary inconvenience or even the denial of their vote.

In-person absentee voting for the midterm elections began on Friday, Sept. 21, at the Fairfax County Government Center at 12000 Government Center Parkway in Fairfax and the first mailing of absentee ballots is scheduled to go out on the same date. The Office of Elections is ready, even as they continue preparations for actual election day action.

"Thank goodness we just got the ballots in," said Electoral Board Secretary Kate Hanley. "They came from New Bern, North Carolina!" a town particularly devastated by Hurricane Florence.

Election officials want to be sure that voters are ready to exercise their right to vote.

To that end, a voter information notice including a sample ballot, precinct locations and other pertinent information is being mailed to both active and inactive registered voters - but that won't do you much good if you haven't yet registered to vote.

Hanley reminds that the deadline to register to vote is Oct. 15. To be eligible to register, you must be a citizen of the United States, a resident of Virginia, and at least 18 years of age by the next general election. Voters will need to provide a valid photo ID to vote in person.

New registrants can obtain the voter application form from a myriad of places, including the Elections Office in Government Center, DMV offices, and public libraries. The registration application must then be mailed as instructed to the Office of Elections. Registrants can also apply online at www.vote.elections.virginia.gov. The County reports that 95 percent of voter registrations are now done electronically.

VOTING can be done in person on Election Day, by in-person absentee voting or via a mail-in absentee ballot. There are 20 valid reasons accepted to vote absentee in Virginia and several different time ranges that apply, depending on a person's circumstances. All of these requirements are clearly outlined on the www.elections.virginia.gov website. If voters determine they meet the absentee voting criteria, the application for the absentee ballot can be downloaded from the site and there is even a video on the site showing how to fill out the application.

"It's important to realize that the ballot itself is still mailed to you," noted Electoral Board Chairman Stephen Hunt. "Some people just keep hitting the 'Apply' button, waiting for the ballot to download. It doesn't work that way."

Hunt wants voters to plan for that and give themselves ample time to receive the absentee ballot, complete it, and send it back. As of Sept. 17, the County reports having received almost 8,000 mail-in ballot applications. The deadline to apply for a mail-in absentee voting ballot is Oct. 30 at 5 p.m., but that doesn't leave much time for your ballot to be received by Election Day. Mailed-in absentee ballots are counted on election night in the Central Absentee Precinct.

Regardless of how you plan to cast your vote, the first port of call should be that www.vote.elections.virginia.gov website to check your voter status and to update your information if need be.

Hunt said that there have been instances where address changes or other incorrect information have caused problems for the voter. "Check everything in advance."

In addition to the Government Center location, registered voters can vote in-person absentee before Election Day at 9 other satellite locations: The Lorton Library; The Providence Community Center; the Governmental Centers of: Franconia, Mason, McLean, Mount Vernon, North County (Reston), Sully, West Springfield

County Readies for Elections

The Government Center Offices will be closed on Oct. 8 for Columbus Day. All locations are closed on Sundays and the hours for each are posted on the County website at www.fairfaxcounty.gov/elections/absentee.

Other than the deadlines, voting requirements, and where to find the necessary information, the Electoral Board members had a few other cautionary notes and reminders.

Some of those reminders were aimed at college students, possibly living away from home on Election Day.

Using George Mason University as an example, Hunt and Hanley said that even though there is a voting poll on campus, students cannot vote there if they are registered elsewhere in the Commonwealth.

"Several hundred denials have resulted from voters attempting to vote at a precinct different from where they are registered," said Hunt. The chances of being able to race from the wrong polling place to the correct one in time are fairly slim. Mail-in ballots can be sent to any address, but in-person voting must take place where the voter is registered – still another good reason to check your information on the Virginia voter's website.

Also, said Fairfax County Information Officer Lisa Connors, "remind students to bring stamps!" Lack of access to stamps or a post office was reported as a problem when the County held a college intern brainstorming session this summer.

Hunt also took time to assure residents that while there have been incidents of missassigned voters, every effort is made to avoid those mistakes, including close collaboration with the Department of Motor Vehicles, the County departments involved in geographic information systems, and "a lot of manual checking and double-checking." Hunt said that even one voter denied their voting rights because of clerical error "is one too many."

THE BALLOTS are printed with instructions and information in Spanish, Korean and Vietnamese. There are also translators on phone "standby" that can assist voters at the polls.

Also on hand at the meeting was Travis Potter, Acting IT Manager, and a handout was available on "Voting System Security." The Electoral Board assures voters that the County's voting systems have been "rigorously tested...and certified by the U.S. Assistance Commission and Virginia Department of Elections." No part of the certified system is connected to the internet – no modems, no Wi-Fi capabilities to allow hacking. Elections results are never transmitted but instead, are called into the office.

It's also important to note that election night results are not considered "official" until County election officers review the machine tapes for every ballot scanner and compare that information with the results reported.

Before the briefing concluded, Secretary Hanley updated the media on the Board's position to move the June primaries to the third Tuesday in the month. The Board officially adopted this position in July, and sent a letter of recommendation to the Board of Supervisors, the Fairfax County School Board, and the members of the Fairfax Delegation to the General Assembly in August.

Hanley said, "165 of the County's 243 precincts are located in schools." Numerous reasons, not the least being the call for increased security at schools in recent times, have convinced the Electoral Board that for the June primaries, it is in the best interests of students and voters to move the date to when most schools have already finished the academic year.

"I think the recommendation is gaining traction," reported Hanley.

There's a lot of information involved in the act of casting your vote. The Elections Office of Fairfax County is there to help on the web, by email at voting@fairfaxcounty.gov, in person, or by calling their offices at 703-222-0776.

as presented does not go far enough to ensure the County's role as a regional leader or to advance cost savings, real climate change initiatives or resiliency planning. I strongly believe the County needs to move forward quickly to adopt a Community Climate Action Plan and a Resiliency Plan. As a County, we can do far more, and adopting more aggressive goals will result in significant cost savings and a faster return on our investment for both our environment and our budget.

Woe I'll Never Be

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

Not on hold with the Oncology department today. Not elbowing Twinkle or Biscuit off my writing tablet as I sit and write this week's column. And not going hungry from the previous Friday's infusion (a week plus has passed so the worst side effect of the treatment has passed).

In general, aside from waiting for my upcoming CT scan on Sept. 26, I am glad that soon I can get on with my life.

You'll note I didn't say fate. That word has too negative a connotation. And my nature, as you regular readers know, is as a positive/glass half full kind of person. So, as I approach this next milestone, I view it not so much as a millstone but more so as just another rock that hopefully leaves me not in a very hard place.

The pre-existing cancer diagnosis is already hard enough. But after living with it for so long and enduring as many rounds of chemotherapy, side effects, lab work, diagnostic scans, 24-hour urine collection and all the associated anxiety surrounding a "terminal" diagnosis as I have, one, at least this one, has learned to live with the miscellaneous demands.

It's not to imply that doing so is easy, but not doing so is so much more difficult. To that end, which ultimately won't be my end, assimilating the good, bad and the incredibly worrisome into some sort of mental spreadsheet seems the only logical pursuit.

Either you learn to take it in stride or you'll die not trying.

And since dying, so far as we know anyhow, is so much less appealing than living, I'm striving to balance my equilibrium and never get too high or too low no matter the news. (Yes. I'm a Libra so balance is very much a part of my process.)

That's not to say that there aren't incredible pressures and challenges that us cancer patients have to manage, it's more that to say that laughing in the face of death is not a sign of weakness but more so a sign of enlightened strength.

Part of that strength is respecting the process with which cancer patients are all too familiar and moreover, and most importantly, understanding and respecting what we don't have control over. There's an element of letting go which enhances one's quality of life and minimizes obstacles as well.

Doing what you can and not fretting about what you can't, in addition to keeping an open mind, combines to smooth out the rough edges and to focus on the path ahead. The 'path ahead' being the goal.

I remember that exact philosophy being expressed by my oncologist at the original Team Lourie meeting back in late February 2009. When it was suggested that my mother's smoking of Chesterfield King cigarettes in my youth or my dalliances in college in the '70s might be relevant/have had an impact on my lung cancer diagnosis, my oncologist would have none of it.

Retrieving fragments of history and/or assigning blame for less-than-ideal behavior was irrelevant to him. His concern was not the past, it was the present/future. We were to be looking/planning ahead and treating forward.

And so here I sit, very much having been treated forward.

At present, I am my oncologist's prize cow, a stage IV, non-small cell lung cancer survivor, alive and reasonably well nine years and nearly seven months into an initial "13 month to two year" prognosis. After hearing that grim prognosis, I never would have imagined that in August 2018, I'd still be alive.

But here I am. Not a victim of my own circumstances.
