Black History Month: A Look at African American Art

Promoting and preserving a part of history.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL

Despite his predilection for visual arts, Allen Carter, an African American boy growing up in pre-civil rights era Arlington, might not have been granted entrance into some the nation's museums due to segregation. Still, he persisted, and years later he became a lauded artist, distinguished teacher and mentor to underprivileged children. And in February — African American History Month — his work is being shown in an exhibit, "Big Al Carter: A Retrospective," at the Fred Schnider Gallery of Art. While his work is part of the permanent collections of both the Smithsonian Institution and the Corcoran Gallery of Art, this is the first exhibit of Carter's work in the Washington, D.C area since his death in 2008.

"Big Al's family has given us an incredible gift by sharing his art, allowing us to continue to reflect on his life, his art and his message for future generations," said Marty Schnider, president of Fred Schnider Investment Group and founder of Fred Schnider Gallery of Art.

As a painter, printmaker, sculptor and muralist, Carter, also known as "Big Al" drew inspiration from his life experiences, art history and everyday life. He believed that his life's purpose was to use art to heal. "Art is my emotion. Art is my memories. Art is my life. I create the essence," he once said.

"He paints poor people, he paints people who are fishing or people who are having dinner at the table ... his work is very vast," said Carter's daughter, Cecilia Carter.

Carter's exhibit is particularly noteworthy to some African-American art historians who point to a recent study showing that just 2.4 percent of all acquisitions and gifts and 7.6 percent of all exhibitions at 30 prominent American museums have been of work by African American artists. The recent Andrew W. Mellon Foundation Art Museum Staff Demographic Survey of 181 art museums in North America found that African Americans are greatly under-represented in mainstream art museums as directors, curators, conservators and educators. Those who study African American art say that solving this dilemma requires a year-round approach.

"We can't just focus on it during Black History Month," said African American art historian Crystal Johnson, Ph.D. "These two statistics go to hand-in-hand and prove what we already know. We need more African American students to explore their artistic talents and we need more students to take chance on a non-mainstream career and pursue jobs in museum administration. In order to make any changes, we need to have a seat at the table."

One such aspiring decision maker is recent a George Mason University graduate who landed a position as the co-curator of an exhibit at Howard University. "I'd worked with an exhibition, but I've never had the chance to curate before. I was excited and nervous," said Kourtney Riles of the exhibit called, "An Examination of Feminist(s) Subjectivity in Modern and Contemporary African American Art."

Art plays a vital, but often overlooked role in African American history, not just during Black History Month, but all year long, advises Angela Black, who has taught art history. "Art is a way of preserving our history," she said. "It tells our story and we need more professionally trained artists who can do that."

Carter's exhibit, which features rarely seen artwork from his daughters' private collection, runs through March 3 at the Fred Schnider Gallery of Art, 888 N. Quincy Street, Arlington. Several pieces will be available for sale.

"The exhibit and his work reflect everything that he's been through, what he's seen, and what other people have been through and seen," said Big Al's daughter Flora O. Stone, Carter's daughter.

Great Falls and McLean Volunteer Firefighter Homer Johns retires after 52 years of service.

BY ANDREA WORKER
THE CONNECTION

There's no shortage of volunteers ready and willing to step up and add their words of acclamation about their friend, their colleague, their mentor, their leader, Homer Johns – not a surprise when considering that volunteerism has been the cornerstone of Johns' life and many of those around him.

Johns played all those roles – usually concurrently – over the course of his 52 years as a volunteer firefighter and emergency medical technician (EMT) for both the Great Falls and the McLean Volunteer Fire and Rescue services.

Now, at 87-years of age, Johns, who has still been heading six days a week into Great Falls Station 12 - the state-of-the-art building he helped bring into existence back in 2012 - to handle a variety of administrative, training, and fundraising duties, is finally ready to hang up that helmet.

"Well, sort of ready," he acknowledges. "There's a lot of my history here, and a lot of good people that I will miss."

Johns is retiring, selling up his Great Falls home and moving to Staunton to be closer to his son and grandchildren, and many of his fellow volunteers, as well as "career" personnel are wondering just how they will get along without him.

"He's part of the building. I have never known this place without him," said Amanda Liston, who's been a Station 12 volunteer since 2001 and "inherited" the position of station "historian," collecting articles and photos about the history of the fire and rescue service in Great Falls. Many of those articles and photos feature Johns, who first began serving the community in 1971 when he moved there from the Pimmit Hills area of McLean, while continuing his service in McLean and while working his "day job" as a career employee with the CIA.

"He's one of the bricks in this building," agreed Justin Green. Green is a Great Falls resident who also works as a Loudoun County firefighter and has been volunteering at Station 12 for 23 years. "Homer has just always been here and always been an important part of what goes on here and getting things done."

Johns has firefighting in the family background, with an uncle who worked the job in Baltimore.

"I used to visit him at the station with my cousin," said Johns, but as interesting as his uncle's activities were to the young Homer, it wasn't until he was already working for the CIA that Johns really got hooked on the "hook and ladder" life.

A fellow carpooler from the CIA was a volunteer firefighter for the McLean service and kept his radio scanner live as they travelled to and from work. Listening to the action, and being cajoled by the workmate to consider joining the volunteer ranks, Johns finally did just that in 1967.

TEN YEARS LATER he became the Chief of the McLean Volunteer gang, while – you guessed it! - still working full time for the government and having already moved from McLean to Great Falls and started his volunteer work in his new community.

Over the course of those 52 years serving both "houses," Johns has held every position imaginable, including chief (once simultaneously as chief for both communities), president, assistant chief, treasurer, secretary, trainer, and more – and he's seen a lot of changes to the service and helped usher in more than a few.

The first full Chief to become an EMT when the program was initiated, Johns says he has always been focused on the life-saving "rescue" aspect of the work. He drove the very first ambulance vehicle in Fairfax County with the McLean squad.

"I probably shouldn't tell that story," he said, since he recalls being so "mesmerized" by the mobile first responder conveyance that it wasn't until he arrived at that inaugural call-out that he was told by those already on scene that he had rolled up without his headlights on.

"The emergency lights were so bright, I never even noticed!"

The man of the hour, Homer Johns, volunteer firefighter and emergency medical technician retiring after 52 years of service in McLean and Great Falls, is flanked by Fairfax County Supervisor John Foust (D-Dranesville) and Fairfax County Fire and Rescue Dept. chief John Butler at his retirement bash.

Johns also had a hand in the acquisition of the Fire Safety Trailer and Hazard House for the McLean VFD, now used throughout the community to teach children about household fires and how to plan a fire escape route.

"A little different than the on-the-job training that we got as the actually fire and rescue team," Johns notes.

"I don't think I was ever so scared as on those first few learn-it-as-you-go experiences."

Back in his early days on the volunteer job, trainees were mostly taught by setting

Assisted Living Proposal Revised

Developers present revised plan for assisted living facility to Great Falls residents.

BY ANDREA WORKER
THE CONNECTION

On Tuesday, Feb. 12, the Great Falls Citizens Association (GFCA) hosted a meeting for area residents to review the revised plans for an assisted living community that developers hope to see approved in the coming months.

The meeting was kicked off by comments from GFCA president Bill Canis and Fairfax County Supervisor John Foust (D-Dranesville). Foust expressed support for the project, saying he was pleased “we are at the point of taking this to a Planning Commission Hearing” later this month.

A lot of the pre-construction work is already behind them, but Herman Diebler, principal of developer Verity Commercial told the gathering that their application was still pending and there was plenty of time yet for modifications as requested by the County or after further consultation with Great Falls residents and the design consultants.

Even the the 2.8-acre parcel, located off Walker Road near the intersection of Colvin Run, is not in their control at this time, still owned by long-time Great Falls residents, the Foley family of W. M. Foley Construction Corporation. The property is mostly zoned for commercial use, and the Foleys had already prepared designs for a retail project on the site.

OVER THE LAST 14 MONTHS, Diebler, and a team of architects, civil engineers, land use attorneys, landscaping experts, as well as CEO Rick Irwin of partner company IntegraCare that would operate the facility, have been meeting with Great Falls citizens and various organizations “to make sure we fit in, address the needs and concerns of the community, and to learn about the area before making even the first move.”

Verity Commercial is based in Reston, and Diebler said that he and the company were “neighbors of Great Falls” and sensitive to “doing things the right way” to maintain its character and protect the look, feel, and environment of the area.

“Ultimately, the outcome will be my responsibility,” he stated.

“We’ve been talking – and listening – to everyone involved or interested in, or potentially affected by” the proposed 62-unit “Residences at Colvin Run” complex that would have separate sections for assisted living and memory care residents.

As Bill Canis averred, Verity and group have met not only with the owners of residential property that would border the facility, but also with the GFCA, the Great Falls Historical Society, the Garden Club, the Great Falls Senior Center, and neighboring businesses, “and continue to do so.”

William “Buzz” Drury with Architecture Incorporated of Reston explained the differences between the previous plans and the modified version. In this new iteration, The Residences at Colvin Run would now include more green spaces. Additional “green screening” was now possible between the complex and its neighbors.

The entry portico was moved to allow better access for emergency vehicles and better parking facilities. The main entrance was realigned to face the entrance to the retail center across Walker Road for safety purposes.

Stormwater treatment changes were also made, moving to an underground system, versus a dry pond method above ground that posed numerous challenges and may have affected the neighboring residential property. This adjustment also protected more of the large trees on the property – a change that met with comments of approval from several attending residents.

In the revised plan, sidewalks would be extended to improve pedestrian access along Walker Road to the retail businesses and restaurants like Mookies BBQ.

There were a few comments and suggestions from attendees, mostly about landscaping, lighting and hopes that more could be done to improve general safety at the intersection of Walker and Colvin Run Roads, but no opposition was expressed concerning the proposed development.

DIEBLER AND PARTNERS have high hopes for a start on the project in the near future.

“Great Falls has a population of 17,834. There are more than 6,000 citizens over 55 – 34.8 percent of the people in the area – and the 65+ population has grown by 5.7 percent since 2017,” Diebler quoted. Even with the addition of the 88-unit Brightview Assisted Living in 2014, “there is still a real need for more great places for seniors to call home in Great Falls.”

This offer is subject to change at any time, without notice. This offer is available only to Platinum Savings customers in the following states: CT, DC, DE, FL, GA, MD, NJ, NY, SC and VA. In order to earn the Special Interest Rate of 2.08% (Special Rate), you must deposit $25,000 in new money (from sources outside of Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., or its affiliates) to the enrolled savings account and maintain a minimum daily account balance of $25,000 throughout the term of this offer. The corresponding Annual Percentage Yield (APY) for this offer is 2.10%. The Special Rate will be applied to the enrolled savings account for a period of 12 months, starting on the date the account is enrolled in the offer. However, for any day during that 12 month period that the daily account balance is less than the $25,000 minimum, the Special Rate will not apply and the interest rate will revert to the standard interest rate applicable to your Platinum Savings account. As of 12/10/2018, the standard interest rate and APY for a Platinum Savings account in CT, DC, DE, FL, GA, MD, NJ, NY, SC and VA with an account balance of $0.01 to $99,999.99 is 0.03% (0.03% APY) and with an account balance of $100,000 and above is 0.05% (0.05% APY). Each tier shown reflects the current minimum daily collected balance required to obtain the applicable APY. Interest is compounded daily and paid monthly. The amount of interest earned is based on the daily collected balances in the account. Upon the expiration of the 12 month promotional period, standard interest rates apply. Minimum to open a Platinum Savings account is $25. A monthly service fee of $12 applies in any month the account falls below a $3,500 minimum daily balance. Fees may reduce earnings. Interest rates are variable and subject to change without notice. Wells Fargo may limit the amount you deposit to a Platinum Savings account to an aggregate of $1 million. Offer not available to Private Banking, Wealth, Business Banking or Wholesale customers. 2. Annual Percentage Yield (APY) is effective for accounts opened between 01/21/2019 and 03/22/2019. The 11-month New Dollar CD special requires a minimum of $25,000 brought to Wells Fargo from sources outside of Wells Fargo Bank, N.A., or its affiliates to earn the advertised APY. Public Funds and Wholesale accounts are not eligible for this offer. APY assumes interest remains on deposit until maturity. Interest is compounded daily. Payment of interest on CDs is based on term: For terms less than 12 months (365 days), interest may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually, or at maturity (the end of the term). For terms of 12 months or more, interest may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually, or annually. A fee for early withdrawal will be imposed and could reduce earnings on this account. Special Rates are applicable to the initial term of the CD only. At maturity, the Special Rate CD will automatically renew for a term of 6 months, at the interest rate and APY in effect for CDs on renewal date not subject to a Special Rate, unless the Bank has notified you otherwise. Due to the new money requirement, accounts may only be opened at your local branch. Wells Fargo reserves the right to modify or discontinue the offer at any time without notice. Offer cannot be combined with any other consumer deposit offer. Minimum new money deposit requirement of at least $25,000 is for this offer only and cannot be transferred to another account to qualify for any other consumer deposit offer. If you wish to take advantage of another consumer deposit offer requiring a minimum new money deposit, you will be required to do so with another new money deposit as stated in the offer requirements and qualifications. Offer cannot be reproduced, purchased, sold, transferred, or traded. 3. The Portfolio by Wells Fargo program has a $30 monthly service fee, which can be avoided when you have one of the following qualifying balances: $25,000 or more in qualifying linked bank deposit accounts (checking, savings, CDs, FDIC-insured IRA) or $50,000 or more in any combination of qualifying linked banking, brokerage (available through Wells Fargo Advisors, LLC) and credit balances (including 10% of mortgage balances, certain mortgages not eligible). If the Portfolio by Wells Fargo relationship is terminated, the bonus interest rate on all eligible savings accounts, and discounts or fee waivers on other products and services, will discontinue and revert to the Bank's then-current applicable rate or fee. For bonus interest rates on time accounts, this change will occur upon renewal. If the Portfolio by Wells Fargo relationship is terminated, the remaining unlinked Wells Fargo Portfolio Checking or Wells Fargo Prime Checking account will be converted to another checking product or closed.

A Historic Session

BY KENNETH R. "KEN" PLUM
STATE DELEGATE (D-36)

As you read this column the Virginia General Assembly will be nearing its adjournment sine die for the 400th year of its existence, having first met in the church on Jamestowne Island in 1619. During this commemorative year there will be many opportu-come of the Civil War and women the twentieth century before they became part of the electorate. While the right to vote has begrudgingly expanded over time there continues to be a resistance to making it easier to vote. In the current session there were proposals to allow people to vote early or vote absentee without an excuse and to make election day a holiday for the convenience of voters, but it does not appear that any will become law. Establishing a fair way to draw legislative boundaries has been hotly debated, but the decision to establish an independent redistricting commission will await the closing hours of the session.

Slaves were brought to the colony of Virginia in 1619 to work the tobacco fields that were the mainstay of the colony's economy. They had none of the rights that Englishmen claimed and beginning in the 1640s were subjected to "slave codes" that defined them as property to be bought and sold with no access to learning to read and write or to move about freely. After the Civil War these restrictive laws became the Jim Crow laws that continued to limit the rights of black people who were kept in line by the Ku Klux Klan and by public lynchings. White supremacy reigned with black-face entertainment intended to degrade black people through crude humor. Happenings during this legislative session showed how little we have progressed on issues of human rights and respect, but there is hope. The reminder to the Governor of his racist past will make him an even more enlightened person who if he continues can provide important leadership to dismantling racism in the state. The incredible people of color who were elected to the House of Delegates in the last election bring strong voices to the need for greater equity and justice in the Commonwealth. Some limited reforms that will help establish equity and remove racism in the criminal justice system are on their way to passage.

Women first came to the Virginia colony in 1619. While rights of women have expanded slowly over the centuries, having Virginia ratify the Equal Rights Amendment is still in doubt. May the lessons of this historic legislative session move us forward in future years.

McLean Team on a Mission to Help

BY MICHAEL TIMOTHY GOCKE
DDS, CEO

On Jan. 26, 2019 a team from team Virginia Oral, Facial & Implant Surgery of McLean flew from Dulles Airport to Punta Cana, Dominican Republic.

The excitement from the team was palpable, yet this being the team's first medical mission trip there was a little fear of the unknown. We were greeted by our contacts from the mission and oriented on how the week would flow. As the next morning arrived, so began the journey. The team drove to La Romana to deliver oral and maxillofacial surgical care to those in need. World Mission Partners (<http://www.worldmissionpartners.org>), a non-profit

501 (C)-3, coordinated the logistics of our mission trip. In La Romana, we treated both children and adults of Dominican and Haitian background. The current state of the infrastructure and quality of life in Haiti is still dire. After the earthquake which devastated Haiti in 2010 followed by a tsunami, many people fled to neighboring Dominican Republic to seek refuge. Many Haitians are living in the Bateyes (small villages) and work in the sugarcane fields. There are several hundred Bateyes in La Romana and these Haitian residents have not had any medical or dental care since they have arrived. A majority of the treatments and patients, during our trip, were performed at The Good Samaritan Hospital. (<http://www.laromana.org>)

In order to provide the medical attention needed for the Haitians in the Bateyes, we traveled to them in a medical RV that was outfitted with 2 treatment rooms. The Bateyes do not have running water so this was mandatory in order to provide care. We also knew the residents there lack the funds and ability to travel. We were able to treat many adults, most of whom have been living in pain for months by performing extractions under local anesthetic.

Approximately 50 children were also provided prophylactic care with a caries preventing varnish by our team. In the dental clinic and the operating room, at the Good Samaritan Hospital, we performed dental and facial

Langley High Orchestra to Present Pyramis

Pyramid Concert features orchestral sounds of Hungary

BY ANANYA AMIRTHALINGAM
SENIOR AT LANGLEY HIGH

Set for Tuesday, Feb. 26, Langley High School Orchestra's annual pyramid concert is an event showcasing Langley's and Cooper Middle School's orchestras. This year the concert will also be the venue for the Langley Orchestra Society's Silent Auction.

The Silent Auction is just one of many pre-concert festivities. During the reception, concertgoers can also enjoy Hungarian sweets from a free dessert bar and musical performances. Seniors Lauren Cain and Alex Tran will perform a piano duet. Junior Cao Linh Pham will perform Franz Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2, rumored to be one of the most difficult piano pieces. Even Langley's and Cooper's respective conductors (Dr. McCormick and Ms. Leung), and Langley's Mr. Willett and Dr. Lee will be showcasing their musical talent.

At 7 p.m., the bidding will cease and the Hungarian showcase will start. Inspired by Langley Orchestra's spring trip to Budapest, Pyramis (the Hungarian word for Pyramid) is sure to wow its audience with spirited and familiar tunes.

Langley's Concert Orchestra will begin the event with their rendition of Johannes Brahms' Hungarian Dance No. 5, and will be followed by Cooper's Concert Orchestra.

After a brief intermission and the last call for bids, Langley's Symphonic Orchestra will ascend the stage to perform Hector Berlioz's lively Rakoczi March.

Silent Auction

Starting at 6 p.m., concertgoers will have an hour to place bids on a variety of items, all donated by local businesses. These items range from gift cards to restaurants like Teas'n You Fusion Tea House and Listrani's, to an SAT course from Georgetown Learning Center, and even four tickets to a National Philharmonic Orchestra Concert. Thank you to all the donors: Amoo's Restaurant, Chipotle, Honeygrow, Lebanese Taverna, Listrani's, Lost Dog Café, Lei'd Poke, McLean Family Restaurant, Moby Dick's Kebabs, Roll Play Vietnamese Grill, Teas'n You Fusion Tea House, J. Gilberts, Urban Plates, Rocco's Italian Restaurant, Corner Bakery, Pulcinella, The Old Brogue, Class-y cookies, Rainbow Con"egg"tion, Parcel Plus, Georgetown Learning Center, Eclips Salon, Yon Chung Photography, The Artisans, Best Buy, National Philharmonic Orchestra, Washington Bach Consort, and the Boston Red Sox. All proceeds raised from the auction will be used by the Langley Orchestra Society for instrument repairs and purchases, orchestral coaches, and concert programs.

Cooper's Symphonic Orchestra will follow with their version of Liszt's Hungarian Rhapsody No. 2. Finally, Langley's Philharmonic Orchestra will bring the night to a close aptly serenading the audience with Erno Dohnanyi's melodic Serenade Op. 10.

Music aside, orchestra students and families look forward to this pyramid concert. Several high school musicians have remarked that playing in the pyramid concert made the transition from Cooper to Langley much easier. The concert also provides incoming parents and students with the opportunity to see all that a future

Preserving Great Falls History

Jacque Olin chosen
2019 Tibbetts Award
winner by Great Falls Historical Society.

BY ANDREA WORKER
THE CONNECTION

Family and friends gathered on Feb. 12 to honor Jacque Olin, this year's recipient of the Great Falls Historical Society's (GFHS) Jean Tibbetts Award. Named after the late Jean Tibbetts, a former president of the nonprofit organization dedicated to preserving the history of the area, the distinction is awarded annually to an individual who exhibits "outstanding contributions to the research, articulation, dissemination and preservation of life along the Potomac River corridor from McLean to west of Dranesville and south through Herndon."

Olin more than fits the criteria.

While serving as president of the GFHS from May 2000 to May 2002, she presented programs about the action and impact of the Civil War in Great Falls, and others, including the history of horses in the area and of the Potomac River Watershed.

Olin also formed a "Committee for Inventories of Great Falls Historical Sites," combining photos where possible, and historical writings. Great Falls Day, Old Schoolhouse Day, and The Grange and Community Days have all been on Olin's agenda as a resident of Great Falls since 1971, after living 8 years in neighboring McLean.

The Society also cites Olin's leadership as having been instrumental in securing a county curatorship for the Turner Farm House, a historic property in Great Falls that is currently being restored and will now be maintained with the care deserving of such an important piece of the area's historic landscape.

History and preservation are not foreign to Olin, who moved to the region in 1963 to take up a full-time position with the Smithsonian Institute, along with her husband, Charles. Olin's background is in Chemistry. She pioneered a method of archaeological analysis of items in the Smithsonian collection, founding the department of Archaeometry. She has authored numerous articles on this scientific methodology. Her love of the sciences continues today, as a Board member of the Analemma Society, the astronomy club founded by Charles that collaborated with the Fairfax County Park Authority to build the roll-top Observa-

Jan Schar, president of the Great Falls Historical Society, displays the framed certificate that was presented to winner Olin along with a monetary stipend. tory at the Turner Farm. The Analemma group offers night-sky viewing and educational programming.

The Tibbetts Award was presented to Olin, accompanied by her husband Charles and son, David, by GFHS's Karen Washburn after a dinner at The Old Brogue in Great Falls. Jan Schar, president of the society, gave the welcoming and closing remarks. Along with a certificate to commemorate her selection, Olin will receive a $200 stipend and her name will be etched on the plaque honoring Tibbetts Award winners for display in the Great Falls Library.

Olin continues to be committed to her belief that the Great Falls Historical Society must fulfill its role as educator, collector, and conservator of the fascinating heritage of Great Falls.

Homer Johns Retires

fire to old homes donated for the purpose, or just “suing up and going out with a partner to teach you the ropes at an actual fire. Things have changed a lot since then.” Nowadays, career and operational volunteer firefighters and emergency medical personnel are both trained to the same high standards at the Fire and Rescue Academy on West Ox Road, dedicated in 1995.

For the last several years, Johns has abandoned the truck-driving and rescue action for equally important work at the station houses of number 12 in Great Falls and Tower 401 in McLean.

Capt. Mike Allen who commands Station 12 praises Johns as a “linchpin” in the operation of the service, the liaison between the volunteers and the career personnel, “willing to do whatever it takes for both to operate efficiently and in collaboration.”

Allen, who laughs that “I was born the year that Johns started volunteering,” joined a virtual battalion of colleagues, firefighting hierarchy and public officials who gathered at the River Bend Country Club on Feb. 13 to honor Johns and “give him the best, much-deserved send-off toward his next adventure.”

THE RECEPTION AND DINNER was organized by Leslie Smith, another volunteer at Station 12, and one of the trio of volunteers that Johns calls his “three musketeers.”

Smith and fellow volunteers Kerin Hamel and Sarah McMichael have grown close to Johns, even though they are among some of the newest recruits.

“He took us under his wing from day one,” said Hamel. “He always takes the time to talk, help you through anything,” added McMichael. “He really cares and it shows.”

From his perspective, John says the “three musketeers” are worth every minute he has spent working with them, since they are so obviously serious and committed to the work. “They are really just my family now.”

“I just don’t know what we will do without him,” said Smith, who worked tirelessly to pull off his retirement bash. “I don’t know what I will do without him, quite frankly.”

At the party, in addition to accolades from Fairfax County Fire and Rescue Department chief John Butler, Supervisor John Foust (D-Dranesville), Capt. Allen, Great Falls VFD Capt. Doug Wessell, and Great Falls VFD president Frank Smith, letters from Senators Time Kaine and Mark Warner were read, thanking the retiree for his service and presenting him with an American flag that had been flown over the U.S. Capitol Building in his honor.

U.S. Senator Jennifer Wexton sent a representative to the event and State Sen. Barbara Favola and Del. Kathleen Murphy also sent letters of congratulations and thanks, and a flag flown for him over the Virginia Legislature.

Supervisor Foust also used the occasion to announce the selection of Johns as the Dranesville Community Volunteer of the Year, and to present a certificate of proclamation from the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors declaring Feb. 13, 2019 officially as “Homer Johns Day.”

PHOTOS BY ANDREA WORKER/THE CONNECTION

The tables at Homer Johns’ retirement event at the River Bend Country Club in Great Falls were decorated with photos of the 52-year volunteer veteran and some festive fun items, courtesy of fellow volunteer and party organizer Lesli Smith.

On the job in 1976, volunteer fire and rescue worker Homer Johns works the scene of a tanker and car collision from a bridge overlooking 1-495 near Tysons Corner.

Over his long volunteer career with the county, Johns has received numerous awards and recognitions for his service, but these many tokens of appreciation on the occasion of his retirement seemed to leave the usually talkative gentleman almost speechless at times during the event.

In the end, Homer Johns, the man who gave so much to so many in two communities of the county over more than half a century, could only thank those thanking him for the opportunity to serve and make a difference, and for the chance to have made so many friendships and memories throughout the years.

Those friends insist that Johns return to visit as often as possible and if he “doesn’t volunteer to do so” according to Capt. Allen, the Shenandoah Valley area might soon see a Great Falls Fire and Rescue vehicle arriving in their neighborhood to escort Homer Johns “back home.”

Mission Report

surgeries of varying kinds and our assistants also provided dental cleanings for most of these patients as well.

In the variety of surgical patients Dr. Gocke met and treated, there are two that we would like to share as an example of what was encountered. Dr. Gocke met, examined and diagnosed an 18 year old Haitian female with an ankylosed TMJ (jaw bone fused to the skull). She has not been able to open her mouth since birth and is deformed because of it. The basic function of eating is not possible for her except for a small space between her teeth in which she consumes only liquids and pureed food. She is underweight and has been teased by the other kids her age because of this condition all her life. The main hospital in Santo Domingo declined care to her because of the complexity of her condition. Dr Gocke will be flying back as soon as possible with the proper treatment planning and equipment (which will be significant) to replace her joint with a prosthesis, perform jaw surgery to restore function to the jaw and to make her face more symmetric and harmonious. He may have to remove a rib in order to create a jaw for her as well. She also has an infected tooth which cannot be accessed because she cannot open her mouth which can be a life threatening condition for her. This patient's condition deeply affected the entire team. Dr. Gocke has decided to do what he can with his expertise to help her in any way he can to improve the quality of life for this young lady.

In another case, a young Dominican man, with pain for 6 months, presented with a tumor of his jaw. In the hospital operating room, under general anesthesia, Dr. Gocke resected the tumor.

The patient had to lose 8 teeth and a large amount of bone, as part of the resection. This tumor was approximately the size of a ping pong ball. Once he has healed and the cancer has remained clear, Dr. Gocke will return to reconstruct his jaw with bone grafting from his hip.

Eventually, he will be replacing his teeth with dental implants and hoping to give him a second chance at a normal healthy life.

This trip was a great success and we would like to thank all of our supporters. As you can imagine, this trip was a true journey. We feel humbled and grateful to have the opportunity to serve our fellow mankind. Ours souls feel nourished and full of gratitude. We are particularly grateful to our family members who supported us on this venture. This would not have been possible without them. We would also like to thank our surgical supply vendors who donated many disposable supplies. We thank our Virginia patients who donated clothes, toys, hats and sandals. Lastly, we are especially grateful to our friends and family members who made cash donations. Everyone involved was a part of changing a person's life for the better!

May we all continue to strive to make our communities and world a better place.

Thank you all for being a part of this and making an impact on this life changing care.

Enough About Cancer

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

At least that was my intention when I sat down to write this column. I was planning on highlighting a couple of my pet peeves: One was about people who back into parking spaces, an all-too common practice (which does not make perfect) that irks me no end and often inconveniences me while idling in my car waiting for the driver to crane his neck and coordinate his mirrors while backing into a head-first space, all while blocking my passage.

The second peeve also involves cars, but this action has potentially far more dangerous consequences: Drivers who, while motoring along, completely ignore my car's blinkers/indicator lights - WHEN THEY'RE FLASHING.

I was taught that when driving a vehicle and needing to turn/switch lanes, I was to indicate that to other drivers by using my blinkers, look into my mirrors and then move right or left accordingly. Moreover, when I observed those same lights flashing in other vehicles, I was to respect their intentions and give them a wide berth. I was not to speed up and interfere with their indications. Unfortunately, the exact opposite often happens.

Though I am still respectful when drivers flash their blinkers, it often happens that when many of my driving brethren see those lights, they react much the same way as a bull does when he sees red: they SPEED UP, and in their vehicle's acceleration, they put me and my passengers at risk. If it has happened once - which it has - it has happened a thousand times.

Unfortunately, neither of these car-related "misbehaviors" has been able to block out one of my key cancer anniversaries: Feb. 20, 2009, and as such, I will now be returning to the scene of the semi crime. And though I am not Billy Shears 20 years after the band taught me how to play, I am a lung cancer survivor who 10 years ago on Feb. 20 learned that I had cancer. That was the day when my primary care physician called me at work, about noon-ish on a Thursday to discuss the results of my previous week's surgical biopsy.

After declining the offer to come to his office, I encouraged him to just tell me - which he did: the growth was malignant. Dumbfounded, I asked for further details, which he politely deferred to an oncologist (a specialty with which I was totally unfamiliar), with whom, while we spoke on the phone, my primary care physician scheduled a Team Lourie appointment for the following Thursday.

This officially ended the diagnostic process which had been going on since I showed up at the Emergency Room on Jan. 1, 2009 complaining of pain in my right side, an inability to take a deep breath and difficulty bending over.

With an inconclusive X-Ray to not corroborate, an otherwise healthy patient with no family history of anything relevant - especially cancer, the doctor was perplexed. Fifty days later I learned I had cancer. And so I remember that day/date, a day which will go down in infamy, so to speak - in my family anyway.

The intervening days, as I have written about recently, were spent investigating the cause of my original symptoms. Eventually all test results led to one conclusion: non-small cell lung cancer, stage IV.

Meaning metastatic and inoperable, meaning "terminal." It was Feb. 20 when I learned my fate. (The following Thursday, Feb. 27, is another anniversary; that's when we met my oncologist for the first time and learned that my life would never be the same, or last nearly as long.)

But yet here I am, alive and reasonably well, writing about nonsense, mostly, instead of cancer, for this week, anyway. Good therapy for sure, and a nice change of pace.
