More Public Input Sought on Parkway Studies

Fairfax County and Franconia-Springfield Parkways study moves to next phase.

BY ANDREA WORKER
THE CONNECTION

It's time for the public to weigh in again on improvements to the Fairfax County and Franconia-Springfield parkways.

Last fall, Fairfax County Department of Transportation (FCDOT) took their show on the road for three public outreach meetings, seeking input from residents as they conduct the "Alternatives Analysis and Long Term Planning Study" of the two major thoroughfares.

The study aims to review the deficiencies along the 31-mile corridor that starts at Route 7 (Leesburg Pike) in the north and runs to Route 1 (Richmond Highway) in the south and includes 17 interchanges and 83 intersections. Ultimately studies will lead to recommendations to improve the often-congested roadways in the near-term, and as far into the future as 2040.

Some improvements are already underway, as FCDOT representatives told attendees at the 2018 meetings.

Resulting from an "Existing Conditions" study conducted by the Virginia Department of Transportation (VDOT) in 2017, 49 of more than 350 road improvement recommendations have already been implemented, are underway, or are funded, as state and county work together on the project. Many actions are possible without changes to the county's Comprehensive Plan, but others require amendments to the Plan and passage by the Board of Supervisors.

"Public input is critical in making such changes and in considering improvements from all angles," FCDOT Planner Thomas Burke said at the fall outreach sessions.

During the October meetings, and for 45 days after, residents were given the opportunity to provide their own suggestions on how best to improve travel conditions on the parkways. FCDOT solicited the public's ideas via a number of on-line, interactive exercises and comment forums.

Expecting participation by 3,000-to-4,000 county residents, FCDOT instead received 15,150 responses through the survey, another 108 responses via emails and the website comment form, and another 71 comments came through on FCDOT's Facebook page.

THE BIGGEST TAKE-AWAY from the survey – overwhelming opposition from imposing tolls on either road – already made headlines, and Burke assures that the message was received.

Supervisor Pat Herry (Springfield) welcomes residents to the Fairfax County Department of Transportation's public outreach session to discuss improvement to the Fairfax County and Franconia-Springfield Parkways.

"There is no plan that includes tolls on either the Fairfax County or Franconia-Springfield Parkways."

After presenting an update on the study and the analysis of the public's response at a Board of Supervisors Transportation Committee meeting in February, Burke and his FCDOT colleagues held the first session in the second round of public engagement at the Willow Springs Elementary School in Fairfax on March 27 with opening remarks by Supervisor Pat Herry.

Updated "story" boards were displayed around the school's cafeteria, reflecting a few changes made based on the feedback already received and on requests from Supervisors John Cook (Braddock) and Pat Herry (Springfield) that FCDOT take a more regional outlook, rather than micro-focusing on the roadways.

Burke used graphs and charts to illustrate analysis of the public's preferences.

Several general themes emerged, which Burke discussed, before summarizing the public's responses by surveyed roadway segments.

After taking toll lanes out of the equation, general support was shown for widening the parkways, although there was concern expressed about homes and businesses that might be lost in the process. There was significant approval for the addition of interchanges to replace signalized intersections.

HOV-3+ lanes were not much appreciated by the respondents, although there was more interest in HOV-2+ lanes. High Occupancy Vehicle lanes drew some criticism from residents who worried that their addition would divert solo-driver parkway traffic onto neighborhood roads.

Burke responded that in the first place, the parkways would always include "general purpose" lanes and not be converted to strictly HOV, even during peak times. He also assured that test models would be vigorously employed before any recommendations became final.

"But, I think it's clear that an HOV lane is necessary for successful enhanced transit," he added.

Enhanced transit was a winner in the public's opinion, with many residents asking for more high-capacity options. Several attendees championed transit, saying the plans should go further than just adding express buses. Suggestions included bus routes that intersected – allowing parkway commuters to change to buses travelling east or to Metro stations. One audience member even recommended light rail transportation to run in the center of the parkways.

PUBLIC OPINION HIGHLIGHTS by segment:

Route 7 to Franklin Farm Road

❖ Interest in connecting the gaps in McLearen Road

❖ Concern regarding congestion at intersections, interest in interchanges, particularly at the Dulles Toll Road and south (i.e. FC Pkwy. at Sunrise Valley)

Franklin Farm to Route 123 – this section includes the VDOT projects widening projects ❖ Strong support for widening and addition of over or under pass at intersections like Pope's Head Road.

Route 123 – Rolling Road– split with Franconia-Springfield Parkway

❖ Concerns at Huntsman and Lee Chapel

❖ Congestion at intersections

❖ Concern for tree preservation and environmental impacts, particularly near Burke Lake and South Run parks

FCDOT had boards displayed around the meeting hall like this one, illustrating a possible HOV "feeder" to provide better access and exit from proposed HOV lanes on the parkways.

Fairfax County parkway from parkway split to Richmond Highway

❖ General approval for the Comprehensive Plan as is with interest in improved signage for ramps

Franconia-Springfield Parkway from split to Beulah

❖ General satisfaction with the current plan to widen to 8 lanes

Two more general meetings are scheduled, but FCDOT hopes for the same level of participation in the new online survey, launching on March 27 at www.fairfaxcounty.gov/transportation/study/fairfax-county-parkway.

A Baseline Improvements Map is available on the department's website. The Baseline is assumed to be in place, but FCDOT wants the public to provide feedback on five strategies to build on the baseline assumptions. The strategies are:

1. Expanded Bike and Pedestrian Facilities
2. Capacity improvements – intersections/interchanges
3. Capacity improvements – widening without HOV
4. HOV Feeder
5. HOV-2+

The strategies are further explained on the website.

Residents can choose whether to provide input for the entire length of both the Fairfax County and Franconia-Springfield Parkways, or for specific segments. A forum for general comments and other suggestions is also available in the survey.

The survey will be open until May 6. Burke will come back to the public with the new results in late summer of 2019, anticipating recommendations and prioritization by early 2020 and Board consideration later in that year.

Historic Burke family grave has been target of vandals over the years.

Members of the Marshall family, Burke Historical Society and student history group broke out the weed trimmers and shovels to beautify and preserve the Marshall Cemetery in the older part of Burke on Saturday morning, sharing local history in the process.

Mike Young, a Marshall descendent, brought a sabre from the Civil War that was passed down through from Marshall descendants. As the story goes, the sabre was found on the body of a Civil War soldier that was wounded and crawled under the porch of the original Marshall house that stood on a spot not too far from the cemetery.

“The initials on the footstone match this,” Young, pointing to an engraving on the sabre sheath, said. The footstone he’s referring to once was part of the Marshall Cemetery.

Daycare Employee Arrested for Aggravated Sexual Battery

A 38-year-old daycare employee is facing charges for the sexual exploitation of two juveniles. FCPD Chief Edwin C. Roessler Jr updated the community on the investigation. "The arrest we are about to brief you on is one that is horrific to the safety of our youth in our community. My prayers will continue to be given to the victims and their families as a predator has traumatically harmed their lives" said Chief Roessler.

On March 28, the police report they were contacted along with Child Protective Services after a child disclosed that they had been inappropriately touched by Rolly Hammond, of Burke. This investigation led to an additional juvenile being identified as a victim who had been abused for several years by Hammond, according to police.

Hammond was hired as a daycare teacher with the Department of Family Services School Age Child Care (SACC) program in 2008 and worked at West Springfield Elementary School from 2008 until March 2019 and at Ravensworth Elementary School from 2007-2008. Hammond also participated in the following spring and winter break programs:

etry marking the soldier's grave that was once in the cemetery. "The house used to be right here," Young said, pointing to an area just east of the graveyard. The soldier was from New York so he was thought to a Yankee, and his body was eventually re-interred in New York.

The original Marshall house was built in 1850, and Glen Curtis, a descendant of the Marshall's was born near the house location. "I was born over there where the old house used to be," he said. He remembered too the soldier's grave. "There was a Union Civil War soldier buried in this corner," he said.

John Marshall, 1821-1892, and Mary J. Davis Marshall, 1826-1887, are some of the original Burke founders and John Marshall was the postmaster of Burke Station from 1852-1854. They are both buried in the cemetery on either side of the obelisk. There is a sign on the surrounding fence explaining the Marshall story.

Across the road where the original post office was, Curtis noted another Civil War moment. "This is where Jeb Stuart sent the telegram to the Yankees to complain about the quality of the mules captured," he said.

The historic chatter was just a sidebar to the work accomplished at the graveyard where all the underbrush was cleared and the site was neaten up. The actual gravestone was not touched though, they were leaving that for more professional hands. Three different "gravestone guardians" have been hired to remove the graffiti with limited success. It's not just as easy as splashing on some paint remover though. The stone is made of marble so it is not as durable as other gravestone materials.

The berm to the railroad line that came through Burke stands just outside the fence. Written on it were messages such as "Hell Girl," a peace sign, "Joe," "LS RIP," and "They will live forever." Lipsy pointed across the yard. "There was a marijuana leaf over there, that was taken off," she said. Defacing a gravestone is not legal and the graffiti artists could face charges.

The clean up crew consisted of several members of the Burke Historical Society, family descendants and a group of students from Lake Braddock who were part of the Historic Honor Society. Students included Amy Smith, 17; Nathalie Vadnais, 17; Areebah Johia, 16; Hana Rehmon, 16; and Emily Key, 17. "This is our first project," said Key.

There are daffodils sprouting up all over the area and those probably were planted by a gardener from another time. This perennial plant grows from bulbs. "These flowers have been coming up for years, who knows how long," Curtis said.

BY KENNETH R. "KEN" PLUM
STATE DELEGATE (D-36)

The House of Delegates and the State Senate are in session today (April 3) for the annual reconvened session as required by the constitution. Often referred to as the veto session, part of its business is to consider bills vetoed or with amendments proposed by the Governor. During the regular odd-numbered short session that adjourned on Feb. 24 after 46 days, there were 3,128 bills and resolutions considered. Setting aside resolutions that do not have the force of law of bills, there were 883 bills that passed the legislature all of which must have the signature of the Governor in order to become law. The Governor's veto can be overturned by a vote of two-thirds of the members of both houses.

The governor in Virginia has the unique ability among executive officials to propose amendments to bills that previously passed but then must be approved by the General Assembly in the reconvened session with the amendments proposed. This ability for the governor to make corrections or to change the provisions of a bill gives the governor important legislative powers and enhances the importance of the reconvened session that typically lasts for a single day but can go up to three days.

Among the bills on the docket for this reconvened session is a bill that had passed both houses of the legislature but died at the last moment of the regular session. The dispute was over legal language to prohibit the use of cell phones that are not hands-free. The bill will be back before the legislature thanks to an amendment by the Governor, and it is likely to finally pass.

I expect to support the Governor in his vetoes of bills. One bill that he vetoed would limit his authority to involve Virginia in the Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative, a cap-and-trade program among Northeastern and Mid-Atlantic states that mandates emission reduction in the power sector. Virginia's involvement in this program is among the most important steps the state can take in reducing greenhouse gases and tackling climate change.

Governor Northam has also vetoed a bill that I had opposed during the regular session that would force law enforcement agencies to use precious resources to perform functions of federal immigration law that are part of the current immigration hysteria. He also vetoed a bill that would have limited the ability of local governments in making decisions about their local employment and pay consideration.

Included among the bills that passed are bills that passed in identical form but were only introduced in one house. Some advocates and legislators believe that there is more certainty that a bill will finally pass if it moves through the legislature on two separate tracks. The governor signs both identical bills to keep from choosing among competing bill sponsors. No one that I know has taken the time to count these bills, but I believe that more than half fall into this category. I question that approach—it seems like unnecessary duplication in an already complex system.

Free Online Renter Education Course Offered

When Gov. Ralph Northam signed Executive Order 25 last fall at the Virginia Governor's Housing Conference, he prioritized policy solutions to address a number of important housing issues, including reducing eviction rates.

To that end, Virginia Housing Development Authority (VHDA) has recently made available a free online renter education course titled "How to be a Successful Renter," which covers the rights and responsibilities of renting.

"For many people, renting a home is a better option than buying one," said VHDA Executive Director Susan Dewey. "This online course can be very helpful to renters because it covers important issues, including the pros and cons of renting, completing the application, the importance of good credit, managing debt, and creating a personal spending and savings plan. So if renting works best for you, this course is a great way of doing it right and being successful at it."

The online education course is designed to equip renters with the knowledge necessary to be responsible tenants and to avoid the eviction process. It is divided into nine sections, with an assessment at the end of each that learners must pass to earn a certificate. The nine sections are:

- ❖ Are You Financially Ready to Rent?
- ❖ The Ins & Outs of Credit
- ❖ How to Find the Right Place
- ❖ Handling the Application Process
- ❖ Understanding the Lease Agreement
- ❖ Getting Back Your Security Deposit
- ❖ Life as a Renter: Rights & Responsibilities
- ❖ Housekeeping, Maintenance & Repairs
- ❖ The Right Way to Terminate the Lease

"One of the benefits of this course is its flexibility," added Dewey. "For example, those taking the course can choose to complete only those sections that interest them, and they can take the course on their schedule because it's available online and is mobile compatible. In addition, the course is free and open to anyone who would like to learn more about renting."

Visit www.vhda.com/renters to learn more about the free course or to begin taking it. It is currently available in English, and will be offered in Spanish in the near future.

Career Change After 50

Strategies for job hunting after retirement.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
 THE CONNECTION

Ever since she was in high school, Yashika Mailey has wanted to be a nurse. She put that dream on hold however, when she started a family at the age of 17. Now that she's 55 and her three children are adults, she's finally working to turn that dream into a reality.

"I'm a full time student and I'm working full-time in medical billing," she said. "I'm starting by becoming an LPN (licensed practical nurse) first and then we'll see what happens."

Whether changing careers to fulfill a dream, re-entering the workforce out of financial necessity or getting a job to stay socially connected, many Americans of retirement age still want to be employed. In fact, a recent Harris survey of workers in the U.S. between the ages of 54 to 72 showed that almost a quarter said that they plan to work in retirement.

"Obviously a career change or a job search after 50 will require a different approach that it would if you were just out of college," said Hope Navolio, a career coach and former human resources executive in Alexandria. "It's not hopeless in the way that some people might think, but there are factors that you have to consider."

Age bias is a fear that Navolio hears often, but she advises clients to use age to their advantage. "The thought of competing for a job with people who are young enough to be their grandchildren can be intimidating for some older workers," she said. "But I think people can view their age as an asset and present themselves that way. There's a level of maturity and insight that only comes with age. Many employees are looking for someone who's stable, dependable and who won't get involved in petty office squabbling or office politics."

"One of the first things that I would say is to make sure you're web and tech savvy," said Bethesda headhunter Mara Rappaport. "That might mean that you have to take a few classes, but you need to be able to use social media to your advantage. I would think anyone looking for a job today needs to have a LinkedIn page and cultivate a professional network, even if the jobs you're looking for aren't considered professional in the traditional sense. You could even start a blog and write about things that interest you or that are related to the type of job that interests you. For example, if you want to be a fitness coach, blog about current fitness trends."

Modernizing one's appearance is another suggestion that Rappaport offers to those who are concerned about being too old to get a particular job. "It might sound shallow, but getting a makeover can breathe a breath of youthful air into your appearance and make a world of difference in a potential employers' first impression of you," she said.

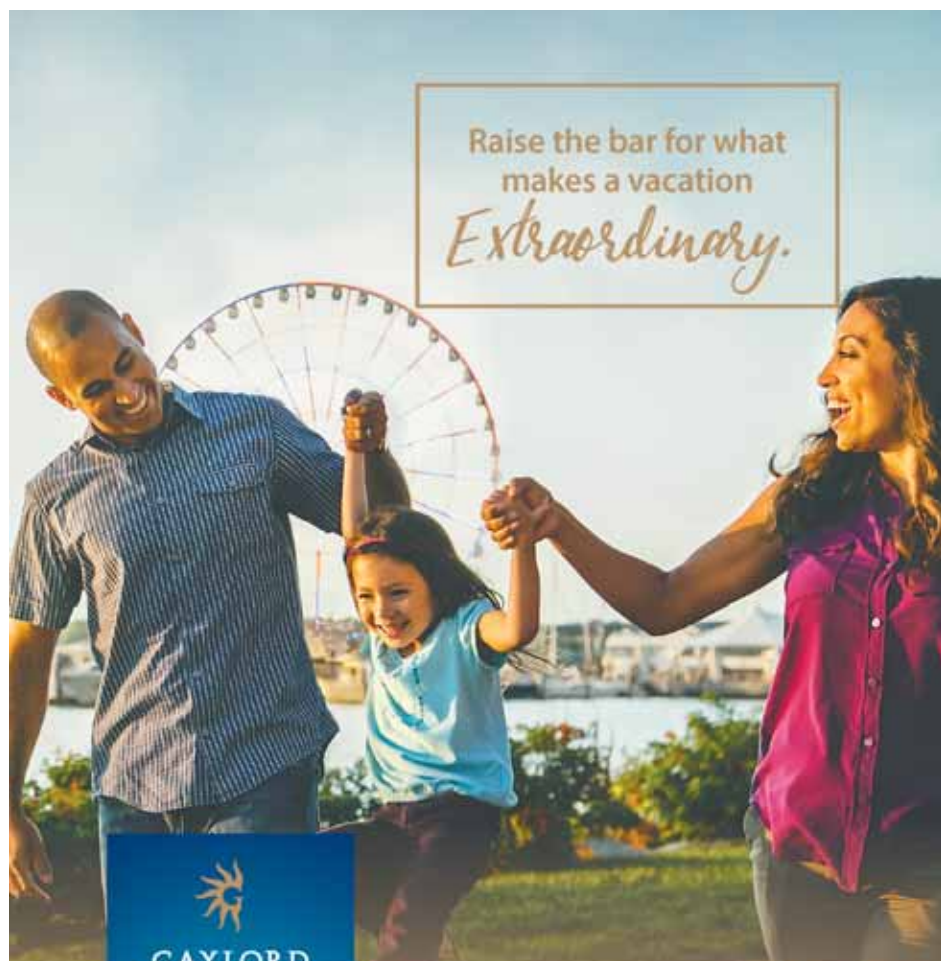

Not limiting oneself of traditional options when contemplating a career change can increase the chances of finding meaningful work, says Navolio. "If there's something that you enjoy doing as a hobby, consider making a career out of it. If you've always practiced yoga, train to become a yoga teacher. If you love being around young children, a job at a preschool might interest you."

Ronald Potts, a former attorney with a knack for numbers and one of Navolio's client's, began working as a seasonal tax preparer in January. After becoming bored and isolated in retirement, he decided to look for a job, but he wanted one that required fewer hours and offered more flexibility than he had in his law career. "When I retired, I didn't really have a plan for how I was going to fill my time and I got bored within a few weeks," he said. "I thought about all of the things I could do and I've always been good with math. Now I just do straightforward tax returns, so the work is still somewhat challenging, but don't have the long days and all the pressure that I had when I was at my firm."

— Hope Navolio.

Greenspring Opens New Continuing Care Building

Retirement community expands to meet the growing demand for specialized senior care.

Greenspring, a continuing care retirement community, developed and managed by Erickson Living in Fairfax County, on March 22 opened Dogwood Commons, the new four-story, 77,500 square-foot assisted living and memory care addition to its continuing care neighborhood. The first Dogwood Commons residents moved into the building on Feb. 5, 2019.

"Dogwood Commons is an important and much-anticipated addition to Greenspring's continuum of care," said Executive Director Chandra Kumar. The facility addition helps to meet the growing demand for specialized senior care in our region, she said.

Speakers at the event included Kumar, Donna Epps, Continuing Care Administrator; Del. Vivian Watts; Roy O'Connor, Greenspring Board Member; Jackson Bain, Greenspring Board Chair; Betty Christman, President of the Greenspring Resident Council; Peggy Trotter, Garden Ridge Resident; Jeff McKay, Fairfax County Supervisor; and Alex Robbins, Office of Congressman Gerry Connolly.

More than 200 attended the celebration, including residents, family members, employees, health care providers, elected officials and community partners.

Betty Christman, President of the Greenspring Resident Council; Jeff McKay, Fairfax County Supervisor; Alex Robbins, Office of Congressman Gerry Connolly (back); Donna Epps, Continuing Care Administrator; Peggy Trotter, Garden Ridge Resident; Jackson Bain, Greenspring Board Chair; Vivian Watts, Virginia House of Delegates; Chandra Kumar, Executive Director; and Roy O'Connor, Greenspring Board Member gather to celebrate the opening of Dogwood Commons, Greenspring's new continuing care building, which provides an array of person-centered services to help residents achieve optimal health outcomes.

The new building is part of Greenspring's multi-phase, multi-year plan to expand and renovate its existing assisted living, memory care and skilled nursing care residences, along with amenity spaces. Dogwood Commons provides 53 assisted living apartment homes and 26 memory care suites. The new apartment homes range in size from studios to one-bedroom floor plans. Living spaces include a full, private bath and a kitchenette. Some apartment homes will feature private, screened porches.

The new memory care residences have been designed to meet the specialized needs of residents by providing a stimulating, nurturing and amenity-rich environment. The Dogwood Commons Suites feature private bedrooms and full baths. Common areas available for use by all Greenspring residents include multi-purpose, activity, meeting and programming spaces, living rooms, a billiards and games lounge, a library and a card game room, as well as a theater.

When the multi-year project is complete, Greenspring's continuing care neighborhood will have a total of 176 assisted living apartment homes, 59 memory care residences and 62 skilled nursing residences.

Historic Garden Tour Comes to McLean

History buffs and garden enthusiasts will delight in in the mix of historic, traditional and contemporary.

The Garden Club of Fairfax will host this year's House & Garden Tour, part of the 86th Historic Garden Week in Virginia. McLean is the site for this year's tour hosted by The Garden Club of Fairfax.

Visitors to the McLean Tour will explore five picturesque gardens and four private homes spanning four centuries. History buffs and garden enthusiasts will delight in in the mix of historic, traditional and contemporary properties.

The McLean tour on Tuesday, April 30, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. showcases exciting gardens, creative flower arrangements, and unusual private homes, each with intriguing stories behind them.

The tour includes a mix of historic, traditional and contemporary homes ranging from a home built in the 1750s with ties to the Revolution and used as a hospital during the Civil War, to a contemporary Japanese-influenced home built on a hillside with terraced gardens, a pool and patio that are perfect for entertaining.

BIENVENUE, CHURCHILL ROAD, McLean. Previously called "Benvenue," the name of this 18th century Colonial home was reportedly changed when General Charles de Gaulle visited and said that the correct spelling was "Bienvenue."

Built in 1754 using sandstone from a nearby quarry. Furnishings and decorative art throughout the home combine historic, contemporary and whimsical pieces collected by the homeowner from travels and local and international sources. Union troops occupied the property during the Civil War when the house served as a field hospital. Bullets and a cannonball were found in the walls, while medicine bottles, surgical instruments and horseshoes were discovered under the carriage house floor during renovation. A massive sycamore tree next to the house is believed to be the oldest and largest in Fairfax County. Dr. Karen L. Kierce, owner.

Bienvenue on Churchill Road in McLean was built in 1754 using sandstone from a nearby quarry. A new wing was added in 1929 to include indoor water.

OLD LANGLEY ORDINARY 1101 Chain Bridge Road, McLean. Built shortly before the Civil War, this Federal Farmhouse style building served as headquarters for Union Gen. George McCall. After the war it became an ordinary, a tavern or meeting-house. Located just a few miles from the Potomac River crossing at Chain Bridge, it was an important stopping-place for travelers and for farmers transporting livestock and wagons to merchants across the river in Georgetown. The homeowner's extensive collection of traditional Americana is displayed throughout. Wraparound porch with outdoor living space includes a kitchen and double-sided outdoor fireplace. The original carriage house is now a guest-house with American flags, painted by the homeowner, displayed on an exterior wall. Garden beds surrounding the home feature indigenous Virginia plantings with roses, sedum, hydrangea and 900 tulips.

OLD CHESTERBROOK ROAD, McLean. Built on a hillside, the long, clean horizontal lines of natural stone, wood and glass in this contemporary home reflect Japanese influence. In addition to subtle indirect lighting throughout the home, a paper chandelier by artist Oh Mei Ma is suspended from a soaring ceiling above the dining area and the sitting room has a red Italian Murano glass chandelier. The focal point at the top of the hill is a children's playhouse complete with Dutch doors, kitchen and skylight. Additional points of interest are a Japanese gate (Torii) built by the homeowner's parents, a standing stone Buddha and a stone birdbath in the shape of a bird in flight.

WOODLEY MILL ROAD, McLean. Built in 2000, this Italianate villa with yellow stucco has a traditional orange clay barrel-tile roof. The front features European scultured gardens with boxwood parterres, three arched doorways, balconies and veranda. Two fountains greet guests as they enter the front property. The home's gallery-like foyer features marble floors, a 20-foot ceiling and walls displaying large scale paintings, Belgian tapestries and a metallic finish bas-relief. From the pavilion, a wide Tennessee buff flagstone path lined on both sides with carefully maintained topiaries in Tuscan style pots leads to a large bronze fountain. Extensive hardscaping with mature evergreens, roses, hydrangeas, crepe myrtles and other plantings creates multiple garden rooms surrounding the home.

DAVISWOOD DRIVE, McLean. (Garden only) More than 40 mature 'Green Giant' arborvitae provide the background, shading and privacy for this garden oasis. This formal garden features multiple garden rooms showcasing crepe myrtles, hostas, hollies, boxwood, hydrangeas, rhododendrons and ninebarks with water features, statuary, travertine walkways and a hidden putting green. The garden's centerpiece is the saltwater swimming pool.

WEEK IN BURKE

Apparent Drowning at Lake Braddock Investigated

Detectives from Major Crimes Bureau are investigating after the body of 28-year-old Nghia Trinh, of Burke, was recovered from Lake Braddock on March 30 afternoon. The officers responded with the Fairfax County Fire and Rescue Department just after 5 p.m. to the 9400 block of Goshen Lane in Burke for a man missing in Lake Braddock. Trinh's dog got loose while walking on a path next to the lake, and witnesses saw him go into the water to retrieve it. While doing so, Trinh went underwater and did not surface. Officers and personnel from Fire and Rescue immediately began a search of the lake. Approximately 40 minutes later, firefighters found Trinh in the water and he was pronounced dead at the scene. The Office of the Chief Medical Examiner will determine exact cause and manner of death. Trinh's dog was safely recovered from the lake.

'Music in the Life of Eisenhower' on Local Stage

Musical commemoration of upcoming 75th anniversary of D-Day by Virginia Chamber Orchestra and special guest performers.

BY DAVID SIEGEL
THE CONNECTION

Next up for Northern Virginia's Virginia Chamber Orchestra is a major concert to commemorate D-Day, actions that helped begin the end of WWII in Europe some 75 years ago. Under the baton of music director David Grandis, the Virginia Chamber Orchestra, along with the U.S. Air Force Airmen of Note and the Alexandria Choral Society Pro Coro Singers will perform "Music in the Life of Eisenhower."

Special guest narrator and host, WETA's Robert Aubry Davis will provide insights about Eisenhower's musical favorites and will share what they reveal about the Supreme Commander of the Allied Expeditionary Forces in Europe during World War II and later President of the United States.

"The approaching 75th Anniversary of D-Day inspired the VCO to present 'Music in the Life of Eisenhower.' It will follow Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln in our Music of the Presidents series concerts and will become the sixth educational video overall," said Doug Lovejoy, Virginia Chamber Orchestra.

"Music in the time of Eisenhower" will include selections composed by Irving Berlin such as "God Bless America," Glenn Miller's "Moonlight Serenade" as well as personal favorites and music performed at White House events hosted by President Eisenhower and his wife Mamie Eisenhower such as selections from "Oklahoma," and Mendelssohn's "Fantasia on Greensleeves."

The Airmen of Note is the premier jazz ensemble of the United States Air Force. Stationed at Joint Base Anacostia-Bolling in Washington, D.C., the group was created in 1950 to continue the tradition of Major Glenn Miller's Army Air Forces dance band. The current band consists of 18 active duty Airmen musicians including one vocalist.

Pro Coro is a select group of singers drawn from the Alexandria Choral Society. Both organizations are conducted by Brian Isaac. The Society aspires to enhance the cultural life of the city of Alexandria and surrounding communities by presenting diverse and engaging musical programs at the highest artistic level.

Of note to patrons, the special Virginia Chamber Orchestra concert, "Music in the time of Eisenhower" will be presented free of charge on a first come, first served basis.

The Story of Ravensworth

Historian John Browne speaks to Burke Historical Society.

BY STEVE HIBBARD
THE CONNECTION

Last Sunday, March 31, the Burke Historical Society hosted historian John Browne at the Pohick Regional Library where he spoke to about 50 guests about his new book, The Story of Ravensworth — from the period of 1685 to the Civil War.

“It fascinated me that my home was inside a vast Colonial Plantation and I wondered how 24,000 acres dissolved down to one quarter of an acre ... so I decided I wanted to know more about it. How did it dissolve all the way down to that? It seemed to be a fascinating question and I started digging into it,” said Browne, who grew up on a dairy farm in New York, served in the U.S. Navy, and worked for 30 years with the Department of the Navy.

He was inspired by the work of Beth Mitchell, who mapped every land grant that had been done in Fairfax County — all 390 square miles. “I started looking and pulling the thread and one bit after another, I got pulled down the drain, as my wife would say,” he said.

Browne, who is now retired, started researching Ravensworth in 2008, and set up a private website, which went public in 2013. After about 24,000 visitors, he decided he wanted something more permanent. He expected the book to be a quick and easy job but it took him about a year to recreate new maps and fit them onto letter-sized pages.

THE RAVENSWORTH STORY goes like this: Before 1685, a land grant of 5 million acres was created by King Charles II of England in the Northern Neck between the Chesapeake Bay and the Potomac and Rappahannock Rivers. Lord Fairfax inherited it all, and in 1685, William Fitzhugh bought 24,112 acres referred to as Ravensworth.

It was the largest Colonial land grant that would stretch across 37.7 square miles — from present-day Fairfax to Annandale to Burke to Newington and Springfield. It is one-tenth of the land mass of Fairfax County and half the size of Washington, D.C. It includes the present-day ZIP Code 22015 with Burke in a part of it.

By the 1850s, a circle of three miles was considered Burke, which would extend to the Beltway to Little River Turnpike and south to the Fairfax County Parkway. Silas Burke was manager and overseer of Ravensworth.

The property’s saga evolved over many generations, through Colonial settlement, early government,

Local History Revisited in Burke

tobacco plantations, slavery, Civil war, economic expansion, the rise and decline of family farms, and suburban development.

William Fitzhugh died in 1701 and he divided the land between his sons — William Junior and Henry (Captain). So, to organize the maps, Browne developed a decimal system to identify parcels of land, with each division adding a new decimal number; i.e., 1.2.2 then 1.2.3, etc. So, Parcel 1.1 was divided into seven pieces for five of the youngest Fitzhugh sons.

Through the years, there were three noted manor houses on the property: Oak Hill, Ossian Hall and Ravensworth Mansion. As the north half divided into more and more smaller pieces, the south stayed largely intact and carried the Ravensworth name into the 20th century, said Browne.

In the South, a 10,000-acre estate was given to Anna Maria Fitzhugh in 1830. She died in 1874 and she had sold smaller parcels of about 1,000 acres; Mary Custis and Robert E. Lee's children inherited 8,000 acres. In 1799, the owners of Ravensworth owned 196 slaves; and the people who leased the land owned slaves.

Browne stated: "A lot of land was leased and leaseholders and tenants did a lot of the work. They contracted with the owner; the family was granted temporary titles. Leases were specified in deeds in the County court. Most leases were granted before the 1800s. There were also tenants who stayed on the land for many years and did not have right to vote."

Part of the lease provisions were that lease holders had to pay with pounds of tobacco and the promise to plant good fruit trees on the land. The North half of Ravensworth had 30 leaseholders and tenants by 1760.

TO ILLUSTRATE: John Hollis, who married Esther Canterbury, owned land bordering Ravensworth on the west side. In 1758, they leased 205 acres in parcel 1.1. So, that year their annual payment was 1,108 net pounds of tobacco, and in addition to farming tobacco, they operated a hotel.

Another tidbit: Mary Caroline Goldsborough, who was adopted by Anna Maria and William Henry Fitzhugh, lived at Ravensworth and had 1,300 acres of land bequeathed to her. In 1849, she granted the Orange and Alexandria Railroad permission to build the new railroad through her Ravensworth property. In 1850, Mary was living in Easton, Md., and sold her Ravensworth holdings in four pieces.

Today, the Ravensworth mansion no longer exists as it burned down in 1926, and Ossian Hall met the same fate in 1959 when firefighters used the building for practice in putting out fires.

Debi Deloose, board member of the Burke Historical Society, added: "We seem to forget when we live in an area that's urbanized that it's got a long history. And it's exciting to learn about the history. And so today, by having John Browne here to talk about Ravensworth, which isn't just that street over in Annandale, we learned about who owned the land, who lived on the land, what was here before we were here. For many of us, it's really a fun exploration and an interesting piece of history."

Browne also worked with Sharon Bulova on the "A Look Back at Braddock Project" as the mapping committee chair. Copies of his book can be found on the website: www.braddockheritage.org.

It's Not As If My Life Depends On It

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

Being totally honest with my oncologist, that is. I mean, it's not as if being diagnosed with non small cell lung cancer, stage IV isn't a "terminal" disease.

Oh wait, it is.

As my oncologist said to me at the initial Team Lourie meeting: "I can treat you, but I can't cure you."

Huh? Followed fairly soon after by the equally distressing prognosis: "13 months to two years." Wait. WHAT!? (As Curly Howard of The Three Stooges said years ago while looking into a mirror: "I'm too young to die, too handsome, well, too young anyway.")

That prognosis – as you regular readers know – is old news, as I recently passed my 10-year anniversary; my oncologist's "third miracle," as he characterizes me. And as life goes on, so too do the studies and research and clinical trials.

As much progress as has been realized, still there are few guarantees for lung cancer patients. Although there are many more of us living beyond the years our respective oncologists initially gave us (our wildest dreams, I often say).

Living as a cancer patient/survivor, especially one still undergoing treatment, requires regular sit-downs with one's oncologist to discuss and/or assess lab work, results from diagnostic scans and side effects – or as I refer to them: "straight-on effects." At these sit-downs, the oncologist will sit down behind his computer and review my past and inquire about the present, typing away as I respond.

The questions are all too familiar.

My answers, maybe familiar as well. Because if they're not, they may catch the attention of the doctor. And if they do catch his attention, he likely will probe further into their occurrence; their frequency, their location, their pain, their intensity, etc. And in so doing, he may learn things that could possibly alter/maybe even stop your treatment.

The doctor may become so worried about the symptoms you're describing, he may focus on the symptom, not the cause. And that's my fear in being honest: he may stop the treatment. I realize it might be counter-intuitive, but cancer scares the hell out of me. As a direct consequence, dishonesty sometimes becomes one's best policy.

Granted, being dishonest, or rather not totally forthcoming, with the person entrusted in extending your life, doesn't exactly win one the patient-of-the-year award. But when that same one is diagnosed with a "terminal" disease at age 54 and a half, there's a certain amount of clear thinking that quickly dissipates.

And if that same one is "ambulanced" to the hospital (in August 2013) for a week long stay in SICU (surgical intensive care), the fear of God is officially invoked which further clouds your judgment.

If you live long enough, your judgment improves but so too does your chance of dying. As I find myself saying: "I just can't keep on living with this thing, can I? I mean, I was diagnosed with a 'terminal' disease. They don't call it 'terminal' for nothing." But here I am, 10 years, post diagnosis, and living the dream, so to speak.

So how do I answer the doctor's questions when doing so honestly might lead to a gruesome outcome: hospitalization, and then, well, you know.

Let me be clear then about my answers. Maybe I'm not so certain about the "straight-on" effects? Maybe, they're not that bad and continuing the treatment will moderate the effects somehow while continuing to keep the cancer in its current place – without growing or moving?

I don't mean to understate my condition, but neither do I want to overrate it. Perhaps this mental anguish I'm describing makes no sense. But that's what cancer seems to do.

Nevertheless, I realize being honest with one's doctors is kind of important. Still, I may be too afraid of the consequences to be so inclined.

Kenny Lourie is an Advertising Representative for The Potomac Almanac & The Connection Newspapers.
