Meet the Candidates for County Board Chairman

Four to contend in June 11 Democratic Primary to seek to replace retiring Sharon Bulova.

BY ANDREA WORKER
THE CONNECTION

As Chair of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors Sharon Bulova prepares to retire at the end of the year, four Democrats have come forward, looking to fill her spot as the county's top elected official. With multiple candidates, election rules call for a Primary Election to decide a winner who will go on to the November 5 ballot, when all of the Board member seats will be up for grabs.

Vying for the position are:

❖ Current Lee District Supervisor Jeff C. McKay, who has served on the Board since 2007.

❖ Ryan McElveen, At-Large Member, Fairfax County Public Schools Board since 2012.

❖ Tim Chapman, Reston-based real estate developer and businessmen

❖ Alicia Plerhoples, tenured law professor at Georgetown Law.

The Connection sent out identical questionnaires to all four, asking each to provide voters with some basic information about themselves, and then to explain why they are running, what they see as the top issues facing the county, and in what key ways they differ from their opponents.

Here are their responses:

Jeffrey C. McKay

Age: 43

Education: James Madison University (1996), Sorensen Institute for Political Leadership (1998)

Family: Wife, Crystal, children Leann and Aidan, retired racing greyhound Pascal.

Native of: Fairfax County
Moved to Your District: Lifelong Lee District resident

Prior and current professional, political and civic experiences, community involvement, etc.:

❖ Fairfax County Board of Supervisors – Lee District

❖ Chairman, Budget Committee, Board of Supervisors

❖ Chairman, Legislative Committee

❖ Co-Chair, Revitalization Committee

❖ Member, Successful Children and Youth Policy Team

❖ Member, Northern Virginia Regional Commission

❖ Member, Virginia Railway Express Board

❖ First VP, Virginia Assoc. of Counties Board of Directors

❖ Two-time former Chair, current Member, Northern Virginia Transportation Commission

❖ Coach, Woodlawn Little League, Pioneer Baseball League, Mount Vernon Sports Club

Q: Why are you running?

A: I am a lifelong Fairfax County resident, proudly born and raised along the Route One Corridor. From an early age, my grandmother instilled in me the importance of helping others, especially those less fortunate than ourselves. Those teachings, combined with my own experiences ... are the reasons why I ultimately sought public office.

I am running for Chairman this year to build on the successes we've had and to push us forward ... I'm proud of Fairfax County and the community we've built together. Now, more than ever, those values we've instilled and the work we've done are at risk. We need to fight for all residents and communities throughout our county.

Q: What are the top issues in your district and what solutions do you propose?

A:

❖ Creating a Fairfax County that works for all (One Fairfax)

❖ Investing in people by supporting the environment, affordable housing, transportation infrastructure, and education

❖ Creating jobs and economic opportunities in all areas of the county

Q: Key ways you differ from your opponents.

A: Having served on the Board of Supervisors for the past 11 years, I am the only candidate with Board experience and who has been a state, regional and countywide leader. I've balanced budgets and created countywide legislative agendas that have made us a progressive national leader in education, job growth, human services, and quality of life, while also ensuring we're protecting our environment and fighting for affordable housing.

I have the knowledge, experience, and relationships it takes to be a successful chairman, and I am excited for the opportunity before us.

The Democratic candidates for the Chair of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors, heading for the June 11 Primary election, debate at a live, televised event, hosted by the Fairfax Healthy Communities Coalition. Coalition member and event moderator Pastor Sarah Scherschligt is flanked by candidates Tim Chapman and Alicia Plerhoples on the left, and Jeff McKay, Lee District Supervisor, and Ryan McElveen, At-Large member of the FC Public Schools Board on the right.

Ryan McElveen

Age: 33

Education: Columbia University, Master of International Affairs in Human Rights (2011); Univ. of Virginia, B.A. Anthropology and East Asian Studies (2008); George C. Marshall High School (2004)

Family: Wife Xuan, daughter Sierra

Native of: Raised in the Vienna-Tysons area

Moved to Your District: Lifelong resident of Fairfax County

Prior and current professional, political and civic experiences, community involvement, etc.:

❖ At-large Member, Fairfax County School Board 2012-Present

❖ Assoc. Director, John L. Thornton China Center, the Brookings Institution, 2013 - Present

❖ International Operations and Policy, the Boeing Company

❖ Co-Chair, Revitalization Committee, FC Board of Supervisors.

❖ Communications, Clinton Foundation and Clinton Global Initiative

❖ Researcher, Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations, U.S. Senate

❖ Asst. Director, Univ. of Virginia Center in Shanghai, China

Q: Why are you running?

A: After spending the better part of my time on the School Board as witness to chronically underfunded school system budgets, I decided to run for Chairman when I realized that there was no one else in the race who would be as strong an advocate for our schools and children as I would be.

Since January, I have been saying that we are two Fairfaxes. The development patterns that have been promoted by past Boards of Supervisors have led to the stark divides between the "haves" and "have nots" in Fairfax County. ...

We need to turn our attention to the areas and populations that will benefit from neither Amazon and a growing tech sector nor higher property values. All of our residents need to have a voice. I will purposefully work to narrow that gap and provide more seats at the table, making sure that our diverse community is better represented by our leadership.

Q: What are the top issues in your district and what solutions do you propose?

A: The three most important issues and opportunities that Fairfax needs to address are in the areas of education, innovation and opportunity. *Education: We need to fully fund our schools and implement universal pre-Kindergarten so that our students enter school ready to succeed.

*Innovation: We need to connect all residents to the internet; create transportation networks that accommodate expanded public transit and electric and autonomous vehicles; and preserve green space while investing in a green infrastructure that pushes Fairfax toward a carbon-neutral future.

*Opportunity: We need to prepare our community members for the jobs of the future by creating apprenticeships and building innovation labs in schools; develop small-business incubators in vacant office space; and build affordable housing

Changing Political Landscape

Don't miss vote June 11 or before to have a say in the biggest political change in years.

On June 11, 2019 a revolution is scheduled. There will be no blood. Change, massive change, is inevitable, but its effects won't be fully in place for months.

Many of the powers that be in Fairfax County will step down at the end of the year, taking with them decades of historic understanding and institutional knowledge. EDITORIAL Voters will choose their replacements, for the most part, on June 11. It's a huge opportunity for voters in Virginia to enact the change they want to see.

First any Virginia voter can participate in the Democratic primary because voters in Virginia do not register by party.

Second almost every candidate is describing themselves as progressive. There are of course degrees of progressive. You'll have to tease out for yourself what matters to you. Is the county on the right track in the things that matter? If you think the county has done enough in affordable housing, is on the right path in terms of criminal justice reform and racial and economic equity, then voting for the few longtime incumbents might be right for you. If your vision of a progressive county is a bit beyond the status quo, then you have other choices.

Every Democratic primary voter in Fairfax County will choose candidates for two critical county wide positions, Chairman of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors and Fairfax County Commonwealth's Attorney.

Early voting has begun already, but the cut-off to register to vote is in less than a week, May 20. You have to register (at your current address) and actually vote to have a say in choices that could define the direction of the county for the foreseeable future. With four or five candidates vying for quite a few seats, a small number of votes could decide.

Don't miss out.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

'Honey Trap' of Campaign Contributions

To the Editor:

What is the contribution "tipping point" that changes an elected official's perspective towards favoring their donors over the needs of the community? When is that unconscious sense of gratitude for a gift turned on?

Developers have wielded considerable influence in Fairfax County politics for years. Fairfax County residents are currently dealing with long commutes, or expensive mass transit only accessible to those who live near to it. Residents are also exposed to polluted air, dangerous travel conditions for walkers and bikers, and unaffordable rent, all within the county. Why did we allow this to happen?

There were early warnings. In 2013, seven Fairfax Supervisors had to recuse themselves from a decision, because they had financial ties with the developers requesting the change. A major land-use decision was made with three votes instead of ten. Six districts (and the Chair's vote) were without representation in that decision. INOVA won the vote, but did Fairfax? With the upcoming election for so many open Board of Supervisor seats, it's time for Fairfax voters to step up and identify candidates that will work for us and not for developers.

We need to start by realizing who wants to be a supervisor in Fairfax. In many districts, developers themselves are running to be supervisors. Some of the candidates, according to VPAP.ORG, have more than 30 percent of their campaign funds coming from the "real estate/construction" category. A current district supervisor, who sat through this development rampage for more than 12 years, now wants to be Chair.

But not all candidates will fall into the campaign contribution "Honey Trap." A number of candidates have taken the pledge to not accept any money from developers – and those are the ones we should invest our trust with our vote.

I want my Supervisors to never have to recuse themselves when faced with a land-use decision. I want my Supervisors to commit to ensuring Fairfax supports all ranges of income and age in land-use plans - so those who want to grow old here can; those who want to live where they work can; those who want to move forward in life and have good opportunities, regardless of background or other social factors, can.

Just because a politician can take unlimited contributions from developers and special interests under Virginia law (unlike Maryland or DC), doesn't mean they should. Development should not be a "trickle down" economic policy in Fairfax. Let's elect leaders who will put the interests of Fairfax residents first.

Fairfax Primary—A Blue Wave

Interviewing the four impressive Democratic candidates for County Board Chairman.

BY JOHN LOVAAS
RESTON IMPACT PRODUCER/HOST

With five vacant seats, including our Hunter Mill Supervisor and Chairman of the Board, the 2019 elections promise big change in Fairfax County. Imagine 22 candidates (20 Dems, 2 Republicans) for just those 5 seats. My focus here will be on a Chairman's race where energy and vision would be welcome.

First, I need to clarify a matter of donations to Hunter Mill Supervisor candidate Walter Alcorn. After it was revealed that he took donations totaling $500 from the CEO and Strategist of the American Legislative Exchange Council (powerful lobby of the Koch brothers), he opted to return the funds, and did so on May 2, "To avoid confusion about where I stand." He also accepted funds from two developers, personal friends from college days. Walter has taken different positions on accepting developer cash. In candidate forums, he said he would "not take money from developers in the Hunter Mill District." In campaign emails, he said he would "not take contributions from developers". He assures me his two friends are not in Hunter Mill and that his policy going forward is: "[he] is not accepting contributions from developers with land use cases in the Hunter Mill District..." Three other Supervisor candidates — Laurie Dodd, Shyamali Hauth, and Parker Messick accept no developer contributions.

Turning to the Chairman's race. What a pleasure I've had interviewing the four impressive Democratic candidates: Tim Chapman, Ryan McElveen, Jeff McKay, and Alicia Plerhoples! All are progressive and have considerable strengths, with some differences in style and vision. Ryan McElveen, the young Yul Brynner look-alike, has served eight years on the School Board. He is popular among students, having led improvements in student mental health programs and food offerings, inter alia. He speaks Chinese and coordinates activities of the Brookings Institution in Beijing, China. He promises pre-K for all, a greater innovation focus in schools, and county policy to increase renewable energy use. Land-use is not an area of his emphasis, although it is a primary function of the BOS. McElveen is at least Supervisor material.

Jeff McKay is the 3-term Lee District Supervisor, Chair of the Board's Budget Committee, and the Party's heir apparent. McKay's 12 years' experience is a plus and a minus. For example, he supports expanding pre-K but the program has grown slowly in his tenure; and, the number of trailers at FC schools has increased. He claims credit for the "One Fairfax" policy of inclusivity, yet refused to sign the Fairfax for All Pledge. As Budget Chair, he succeeded in getting full funding for the School Board's request last year, for the first time in memory. I am troubled by large amounts of developer cash he routinely accepts — totaling over $80,000 in this race alone, including $50,000 from one developer via five corporate entities. The house he now occupies is on land sold to a developer/builder friend who bought it from the same developer who gave $50,000 this year. Not illegal as far as I know, but worrisome. Alicia Plerhoples is an amazing new prospect. A Georgetown law professor with degrees from Harvard and Yale, Alicia is also a mom and advises small businesses. Both Plerhoples and Tim Chapman share an experience, homelessness, while growing up, that helps shape who they are. She began 2019 by signing up to run for the Fairfax County School Board, but decided instead to make the leap to run for Chairman of the Board of Supervisors. Before I talked with her, I thought that impossible. After getting to know her, I'm thinking maybe I was wrong. She has the intellect, vision and determination to lead. Chairman or Congresswoman?

Last, but by no means least, is Tim Chapman, like Plerhoples, got a close, personal look at poverty while growing up. Unlike Plerhoples, he does not have eye-popping diplomas on his wall. His brain and determination led him to start his own businesses, developing and building affordable housing in the Metro region. He's also a manager par excellence. In fact, he was appointed to the Board of Directors of the Virginia Housing and Development Authority by Governor Terry McAuliffe, then elected Chairman of the Board by his fellow Directors. Mr. Chapman is the only one of the strong group of candidates who actually has been a Chairman of the Board of a multi-billion-dollar operation. U.S. Senator Tim Kaine says this about him: "Tim Chapman understands that integrity and compassion are the foundation of public service, and he's lived those values through his work to expand access to housing in Fairfax County."... I'm thinking Tim Chapman's leadership and integrity are what we need to get the ponderous machinery of Fairfax County moving again.

Bold and Swift Changes for Our Environment

BY KENNETH R. "KEN" PLUM
STATE DELEGATE (D-36)

Advocates on behalf of cleaning up our environment got further strong evidence of the need for "bold, swift action on behalf of our environment," a phrase used by many who have recently written letters to me. A 1,500-page report based on thousands of scientific studies by hundreds of international experts has concluded that "humans are transforming earth's natural landscapes so dramatically that as many as one million plants and animal species are now at risk of extinction posing a dire threat to ecosystems that people all over the world depend on for their survival."

The Intergovernmental Science-Policy Platform on Biodiversity and Ecosystem Services that produced the report for the United Nations found that "piecemeal efforts to protect individual species or to set up wildlife refuges will no longer be sufficient." Instead, they call for 'transformative changes' that include curbing wasteful consumption, slimming down agricultures and cracking down on illegal logging and fishing."

The writers of the assessment are hoping that policy makers will see the importance of nature to the health of people and local economies and will be able "to strike a more careful balance between economic development and conservation."

As Virginia advocates point out in their plea, "it will now be up to the 2020 Virginia General Assembly to stand up for our health and the environment, for clean energy, and to protect Virginians from the ravages of climate change of which we are already feeling the effects." The most recent session of the General Assembly demonstrated that the legislators in charge can make all the difference.

In a strictly partisan vote the Republican majority had language inserted in the budget that restricts the Commonwealth's ability to participate in the Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative (RGGI) that will be a critical avenue for reducing carbon emissions in the state and addressing the negative effects of climate change on the health and safety of the people.

While the language by the Republicans was not subject to a line item veto by the Governor because of past court decisions, the Governor nonetheless has pledged to move forward with new regulations much the same as would be part of RGGI to make significant reductions in carbon pollution from fossil fuel fired power plants.

The Governor has made it clear that the budget he prepares next year will delete the Republican language.

With the probable change of control of the House of Delegates and State Senate this year the language will not be carried forward in future budgets.

It is unfortunate that the actions of the Governor on this and other items in the budget have been sharply criticized because of a misunderstanding on the part of many that the Governor's line item veto power is not unlimited — supported by court decisions but still controversial. The good news is that the Governor has indicated in many other actions that he recognizes the need for bold and swift action to protect our environment. I look forward to working with him in greatly enhancing Virginia's protection of the environment.

Choosing Swimming Lessons

What can parents do if child is afraid of the water.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL

The start of summer just around the corner and for some, warm weather is synonymous with trips to a pool or beach. swimming lessons are one the minds of many parents. May is National Water Safety Month, an effort designed to prevent illness, injury and death as a result of contact with the water. Part of a parent's role in ensuring safety for their children is knowing the factors to consider when looking for swimming lessons.

"People are starting get out and enjoy the water," said Aleatha Ezra, of The World's Largest Swimming Lesson, an event on June 20 designed to raise awareness of the importance of knowing how to swim. "We want to emphasize the importance to learning to swim, finding lessons and taking them seriously."

When looking for lessons, parents should inquire about the training of those who will be in charge of teaching their children. "We require all of our swim instructors to pass a certified lifeguard course," said Tommy Hamilton, Regional Manager at Goldfish Swim School of Reston, Falls Church and Alexandria. "In addition to this course all of our instructors also go through at least 40 hours of hands on training on our proprietary curriculum."

In order for lessons to be effective, the student teacher ratio should be as low as possible, advises Hamilton. "We believe that this gives them suitable time in the water practicing their skills as well as enough rest in between each skill," he said. "The small class sizes also allow us to maintain a high standard for safety."

The swim school should assess a child's ability and have a curriculum with a clearly defined plan that allows a child to advance as they gain skills. "For example, we have a progressive curriculum. Our beginner swim classes start with basics like teaching kids to put their face in the water," said Jamel Wright, a swimming instructor for SafeSplash Swim School in Bethesda. "It moves through [phases] like stroke development and advances through competition level as the children are assessed and their swimming skills improve."

Parents should be allowed to observe their child's lessons, said Hamilton. "We love when parents get involved in the progress of their children," he said. "We believe this to be crucial to their growth. We keep our pool deck at a warm 90 degrees so we have large glass windows in our lobby so parents can be comfortable and watch the entire lesson."

Another factor to consider is whether or not there is a lifeguard on duty who can watch those in the water at all times. Water quality should be another concern. "Smell to make sure there are no strong chemical smells, which is not a sign of proper chlorination but rather contamination," said Shannon McKeon, Environmental Health Specialist. "Ask to see water quality reports that should be posted at every public pool."

There are times when a child has an extreme fear of water, but safety experts advise continuing the lessons with an instructor who is able to assist parents in helping a child overcome that fear.

"To cope with swimming fears, we should first relax with slow, deep, nose breathing," said Jerome Short, Ph.D. Licensed Clinical Psychologist and Associate Professor of Psychology at George Mason University. "We can close our eyes briefly and go to a quiet, comfortable place. After we are relaxed, we should watch others who enjoy swimming and imagine doing it ourselves successfully. Then move forward in small steps to shallow water, slowly submerge the body, and practice floating with someone close by to support you. Take a break if there is discomfort but try again soon to make more progress."

Read story books on children who were afraid to swim but were successful, advises Carol Barnaby, LCSW I. "Scared children are already tackling emotional burdens and don't need to see, hear, or feel their parents frustration, she said. "Take your child's fear seriously and acknowledge it. Let them know that you understand that they are scared. Start swim lessons out of the water so that there can be trust established this will make them feel safe and ready to learn."

Barnaby continued, "Let your child know that you believe in them and that you have confidence they will succeed at their goal. Praise all efforts and offer physical reassurance when they leave the water. Children who receive positive reinforcement will try harder even when they are scared. Give your child frequent reassurance that they are safe and help is there."

"We want to emphasis the importance to learning to swim, finding lessons and taking them seriously."

throughout our community.

Q: Key ways you differ from your opponents.

A: I am the only candidate in this race who has experience as an elected official representing all Fairfax residents and overseeing 53 percent of the county budget as a School Board member. I am also the only candidate who, through years of working in international business and think tank environments, has built global networks that can help our county become a model for international business development and investment. Perhaps most importantly, I am an outsider to the Board of Supervisors.

My roles as a FCPS graduate, a Fairfax parent, a School Board member, a global thinker and candidate for Chair have one thread: a dedication to the county that I love. I want to make sure everyone who calls this place home is able to give back to it as I have sought to do and achieve the American Dream.

Alicia Plerhoples

Q: Why are you running?

A: I am running to improve the quality of life for every Fairfax County resident. I see other municipalities passing us by, whether on environmental action, public transit, living wages, affordable housing, or educational investment.

Q: What are the top issues in your district and what solutions do you propose:

- ❖ To foster liveable, affordable communities where people who work here can afford to live here
- ❖ To develop a vibrant economy that creates quality jobs and restores a clean, sustainable environment that creates quality jobs and restores a clean, sustainable environment

- ❖ To ensure our high quality public schools meet the needs of students in every part of the county, no matter one's zip code.

Q: Key ways you differ from your opponents?

A: I am the only candidate committed to putting voters first by refusing to accept political contributions from real estate developers. That is a conflict of interest.

I am the only lawyer, experienced in bringing private sector, small business to the table.

Tim Chapman

Age:
Education: Emerson High School
Family: Wife, Julianna, 5 children
Native of: Maryland
Moved to Your District: 2005

Prior and current professional, political and civic experiences, community involvement, etc.:

Q: Why are you running?

A: I am running for Chair of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors because I want to extend the opportunities for success I've had to all of our Fairfax County neighbors. I love living in Fairfax County, but our community, like the bottom side of a pancake, is not perfect. We are one of the wealthiest counties in the United States, but deep-rooted inequality remains.

These inequalities are rooted in a closed political system that for decades has served only the wealthy and well-connected...stifling competition from outsiders and has relegated the Board of Supervisors to a land use and zoning review board. We can do better.

I want to give a voice to the working class families and underserved communities in Fairfax County, and to address problems that affect everyone. Together, we can create a more equitable prosperity in Fairfax County.

Q: Key ways you differ from your opponents?

A: ❖ Background in business, development and managing large enterprises

❖ I'm no stranger to hard work. My mother and I were homeless for a portion of my childhood. You don't go from youth homelessness to managing a $13 billion agency overnight. I have spent my life building things, solving problems, and serving my community.

❖ I have the real world experience that it will take to help Fairfax County move forward, and I am prepared to take my service to a new level as Chair of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors.

❖ I have spent my career building affordable housing...with the VHDA we made it possible for thousands of moderate income Virginians to buy a home. These experiences uniquely position me to lead Fairfax County towards a brighter future.

Volunteers make Mother's Day special.

BY MERCIA HOBSON
THE CONNECTION

Volunteers from the Barbera Foundation in Reston set out to make Mother's Day special for two sometimes forgotten groups of moms in the local area, mothers who have been victims of domestic violence and low-income seniors.

On Friday, May 10, in an initiative called "Flower Power." Kevin Barbera, founder of the non-profit Barbera Foundation along with staff from Shelter House Inc., picked up 100 bouquets and tons of gift cards valued at $3000 total for delivery to mothers and their families served by Shelter House Inc.

Shelter House is a community non-profit organization that provides crisis intervention support services and safe housing at undisclosed locations to victims of domestic violence and homeless families. "I appreciate this opportunity to come out and help for Mother's Day," said Johnathan

Johnson who drove the delivery van full of flowers. "Case managers will distribute the flowers and gift cards personally, so the moms are surprised and feel extra loved," said Barbera.

Barbera explained that the Foundation raised the $3,000 to purchase and deliver the 100 bouquets and gift cards by organizing various ticketed fundraising events in 2019, such as the Great Falls clean up effort, a yoga class and the next day's Mother's Day dinner preparation and delivery for seniors.

"We sell tickets ranging anywhere from $5-$30," Barbera said. He added that corporate donors also contribute, like McCabe World Travel, Inc. in McLean. "They donated about $1000 just yesterday," Barbera said. All proceeds supported the charitable initiative "Flower Power" according to Barbera.

On Saturday evening May 11, volunteers prepared and served an early Mother's Day dinner to people at a low-income senior community in Herndon.

Art As Work and Play

Reston artist chosen for all 27 Northern Virginia Fine Arts Festival so far; selected again.

By MERCIA HOBSON
THE CONNECTION

Professional jurors Nehemiah Dixon III, Lauren Hilyard and Laura Roulet with the assistance from Greater Reston Arts Center (GRACE) curatorial staff selected Reston artist, Dana Ann Scheurer as one of the more than 200 fine art professionals from across the county and Canada to sell her work at the upcoming 28th annual Northern Virginia Fine Arts Festival taking place May 17-19 in Reston Town Center.

What made Scheurer's selection in one of the country's "top five" outdoor art festivals unusual, is the number of times over the last quarter of a century that jurors and staff chose her for the high-end event. "This is Dana's 28th year participating in the Northern Virginia Fine Arts Festival," said Lily Siegel Executive Director and Curator, GreaterRestonArtsCenter.

"I am very proud and grateful to have been selected to participate in every Northern Virginia Fine Arts Festival since the inception of this highly regarded annual show," said Scheurer.

"The first Festival had only 25 artists (and) most did not use a tent," said Scheurer. "My young daughters were helping me with my booth, wearing pink festival shirts I designed and white pants. Two beautiful days until Sunday closing. The skies opened up, and the pink bled all over the white pants. Now, everyone uses a tent. It also gives a much more unified appearance."

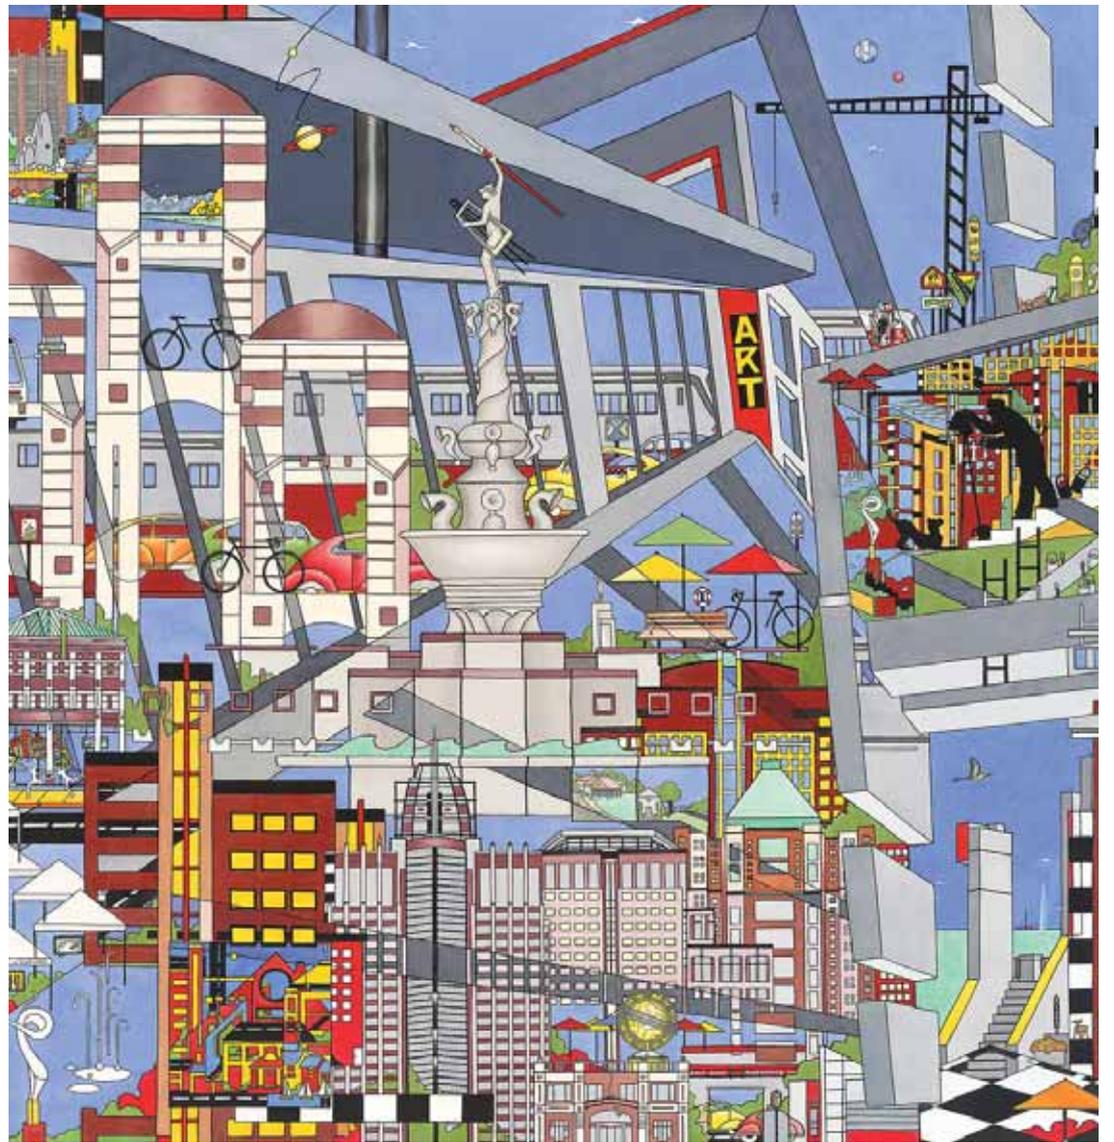

CHALLENGED if she could think of improvements to the high-end Festival, Scheurer said, "I am asked that very question every year, and I give the same answer. "Nothing, keep it great, and GRACE does. I cannot stress how well organized this event is. There is not a question that the gallery staff cannot answer. We are provided ample information on booth set up and arrival, parking, weather updates, departure. There is an artist lounge where we are provided amenities, (and) the Festival provides ... volunteer booth sitters, eager to step in to provide short breaks. In short, the Festival gets better every year, but then, I have been saying that for 28 years."

As for advice to new Festival artists,

"Streamline Silver Line" is an example of the whimsical and surreal watercolor artwork, rich in local architectural and geometric forms by Reston artist Dana Ann Scheurer.

Reston Artist Dana Ann Scheurer participates in an earlier Greater Reston Arts Center Northern Virginia Fine Arts Festival. The 2019 festival is in Reston Town Center, Friday, May 17- Sunday, May 19, 10 a.m.-5 p.m.

Scheurer said, "Come to the event knowing that you will be well taken care of and guided along the way to make this a wonderful experience."

To Scheurer, her art is both work and play. "I have taken great care and hard work developing my personal style, technique, use of imagery, precision use of color. These things have not just happened. Imagery is woven throughout to create a foundation and then inhabited with imagination and humor. I am definitely playing at work."

Scheurer said, "I find that Reston has an amazing spirit of life that is an ever-changing architectural landscape providing limitless opportunity for artistic subject matter... Founder Bob Simon was a great influence and provided amazing landscapes for inspiration."

One of Scheurer's most recent works is a piece called "Streamline Silver Line." She said that it is a painting that takes Reston from the beginnings at Lake Anne Village Center to present icons of Reston Town Center.

"I am fortunate to have been able to count installations in corporate offices, private collections, the Smithsonian Museum Shops but most importantly, to people who simply honor me by taking my work home where I hope they bring pleasure to them each time they see them," said Scheurer. According to Scheurer, visitors to the Festival can find her at Booth #236 with works ranging in price from $100- $4,000.

According to spokesperson Deb Fiscella, among the other 200 plus artists selected into the 2019 Festival are four local artists: Jill Banks, Fairfax, Painting, Booth 506; Chris Carskaddan, Great Falls, Wood, Booth 415; Jeff Spugnardi, Arlington, Woodwork, Booth 408; and Ernest Kibler, Arlington, Stained Glass, Booth 412.

FOR MORE INFORMATION about the Festival and volunteering, sponsoring and supporting the Adopt-an-Artist, call GRACE at 703-471-9242 or visit www.restonarts.org— click on "Festival." Reston Town Center, 11900 Market Street, Reston.

Fine Arts Festival Returns May 17-19

Greater Reston Arts Center (GRACE) has announced the 2019 Northern Virginia Fine Arts Festival, May 17-19, 2019. The festival brings more than 200 fine artists from across the nation presenting original works in 16 categories of fine art and fine craft to the outdoor environment of Reston Town Center.

Thanks to the continuing support of Reston Town Center, the Festival will include Festival Friday, May 17, allowing GRACE to bring this world-class experience to the community's workforce population; many Town Center merchants will offer Festival Friday deals for that day only. The Festival Party, sponsored by the M Group Architects and catered in-kind by Not Your Average Joe's with wine provided by Balducci's Food Lover's Market, will take place on Saturday, May 18, 7-10 p.m., and will serve as a platform to announce the 2019 artist Awards of Excellence. In addition, thanks to those critical sponsorships, the party will again be free this year to GRACE's sponsors, supporters, and all Festival artists. The Festival is also bringing thought-provoking performance art to the Reston Town Center. ON DISPLAY/RESTON, a movement installation by Heidi Latsky, will celebrate the beauty of differences. This immersive artwork is sponsored by GRACE's community partner, Reston Community Center, also a Festival Signature Community Sponsor with the Reston Town Center Association. The performance will take place during the Festival Party on May 18, 7 p.m., and at Reston Town Square Park on May 19, 11 a.m. and 2 p.m. All opportunities for volunteering (500 volunteers are needed), sponsoring, and other ways to get involved can be found on the GRACE website, www.restonarts.org.

Children's Entertainer Faces Charges of Child Pornography

A 58-year-old children's entertainer is facing charges of 10 counts of felony possession of child pornography, according to Fairfax County Police. On April 18 detectives from Major Crimes Bureau received information that Steven Rossi, of Reston, was in possession of child pornography. Detectives located numerous files containing illicit images. Rossi was arrested on April 30 and posted bail May 2. He is scheduled to appear in court June 11. Rossi's stage name is "Mr. Knick Knack" and has performed at numerous commercial outlets in the Northern Virginia area. Preliminarily, investigation does not indicate that Rossi had contact with any of the children in the images. However, detectives are encouraging anyone with information to come forward. If you believe your child or family member may have had contact with Rossi, please call Major Crimes Bureau at 703-246-7800.

New Trail Cycling To Host Party & Charity Rides

On Saturday, May 18, New Trail Cycling Studio will host its Ride for a Cause: 100 percent of the proceeds from the rides that day will go to local nonprofits. The indoor cycling and strength studio located in Lake Anne Plaza is celebrating being open for six months. Owner, Liz Kamp, said: "New Trail is about community and helping other people. Whether we're helping someone get healthy or we're helping a local organization, I want to make sure that New Trail is improving the lives of the people around us. Our coaches are excited about these rides, and they're going to be a blast. All levels are welcome so don't worry if you've never done indoor cycling."

There will be six 30-minute rides that morning. Each coach chose a different organization close to his or her heart that will benefit from the proceeds of that ride. Raffle tickets will also be available for purchase for the week leading up to the event to raise more funds for each organization. Riders can join for one or all rides. Bikes must be booked in advance. Fundraising credits can be purchased at www.newtrailcycling.com.

For information on sponsoring a ride, please contact Liz Kamp at liz@newtrailcycling.com.

The lineup is as follows: (Time, Coach, Organization)

7:30 a.m., Peter, Mid-Atlantic Off Road Enthusiasts

8:15 a.m., Susan, Alzheimer's Association National Capital Area

9 a.m., Jeff, Cornerstones

9:45 a.m., Michelle, Shelter House

10:30 a.m., Liz, CORE Foundation

11:15 a.m., Stewart, Healing House

The Weak Of

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

Concerning the three 'weaks' during which this arc will publish: last week's "The Weak Before," this week's "The Weak Of" and next week's "The Weak After," this week's "The Weak Of" when I actually lie down for my bi-monthly CT scan (and as it coincides occasionally, my semiannual brain MRI), is the easiest.

The worry of its occurrence is over, since I'm on site and "gowned up" waiting to hear my name called. And the worry of the results has not yet seeped in because the scanning process has barely begun and nothing will happen and/or be expected to be communicated in the next few days anyway.

Next week - when I know the results are somewhere and I've not received any feedback from my oncologist, within five days or so - is when I'll begin to stress for all the reasons with which you regular readers are familiar.

What this "The Weak Of" means to me is progress. And even though that 'progress' could mean disappointing news, it could also mean that my status is quo.

And as difficult as hearing that the CT scan showed growth and/or the brain MRI showed something more, at least we'd gain some knowledge that we didn't have previously, and that new knowledge will be crucial as new treatment options are considered.

However, it's not as if I feel I'm in the dark during the intervals between scans. Hardly. It's more that I'm in a situation where knowledge is a powerful tool and the more of it my doctors, particularly my oncologist, have about me, the better.

The only problem? The frequency of these recurring diagnostic scans means nearly every week, bi-weekly immunotherapy infusions notwithstanding, I'm in some kind of 'weak.'

As you all know, I can compartmentalize but, I'm afraid the compartments are starting to fill up. Ten-plus years of surviving cancer will do that.

The CT scan and MRI appointments, in and of themselves are not compartment-filling though. Having had over 50 of them by now, I'm unaffected. Moreover I drive the same route to the same facility and are tended to by the same technicians; my good luck charms, as I tell them.

They always greet me by name, smile and ask how I'm doing. I likewise reply in a positive way and thank them for the many good results I've had and encourage them to keep up the good work (I realize they have nothing to do with the actual results, good or bad, but I still like to prime the pump, so to speak).

And when the process is complete, I'll leave feeling more upbeat than when I arrived. A feeling which continues until the next week, 'the weak after.' That's when I'll feel the same kind of emotional jitters I experienced during 'the weak before.'

So, as I begin 'the weak of,' I begin it with hope and humor, my stock-in-trade. Hope for all the obvious reasons and humor because whatever happens, I'll likely make some joke about it and try to lighten the weight of it all with as light a touch as I can muster.

But for the time/'weak' being, I will enjoy the not-knowing the results and bask in the presumptive naivete. Because, if and when there is confirmation that my ship has sailed or that it's beginning to take on water, there might not be too much funny that I can say or do at that point to turn the tide.

Nevertheless, I'd like to think I'll be up to the challenge. One never knows. These three 'weaks' I can manage. We'll see about the next one.

Members past and present of the America Association of University Women (AAUW) Reston-Herndon Area Branch came together at the Wildfire Restaurant in Tysons Sunday, April 28 to recognize the branch's 50th Anniversary Celebration. Founded in 1969, the Reston-Herndon Branch is an Affiliate of the much larger and much older AAUW that has empowered women since 1881 as a national grassroots organization. AAUW works to advance equity for women and girls through advocacy, education, philanthropy and research.

Guests and members mingled before the luncheon and remarks by speaker, Sen. Jennifer Boylko, (D-33). They reminisced over the history and early years, 'the beginning,' of the Reston-Herndon Area chapter.

"I'm one of five women who met in October of '68 to see about forming a chapter," said Barbara Naef of Reston. "Many initial members were stay-at-home moms looking for an intellectual connection. You have to look at the context of the time. It was the late 60s, a different time for Reston, people were moving in. We were very interested in education and did programs to attract people and book sales to raise funds."

AAUW of Virginia Co-President Leslie Tourigny, member of the Alexandria and Virginia Beach branches spoke about mutual interests between all members of AAUW regardless of a chapter's location. "What brings us together is our common mission and focus, equality for women, that there is a level playing field. We have a focus on diversity and inclusion for all," said Tourigny.

Many women in the room like Marilyn Silvey of Reston said how as chapter members they took activism seriously. "We lobbied for civil rights, education, Title IX which is equal expenditures for female students in secondary schools and universities, and economic equity, closing the pay gap. We have been lobbying 40 years for the same issues," Silvey said referencing AAUW's Public Policies Priorities. Four decades ago, AAUW took a key step, which continues to be a significant vehicle impacting Congressional legislation concerning women rights. AAUW registered as a federal lobbyist, AAUW Capitol Hill Lobby Corps. Virginia AAUW branch members make up the majority of its members according to AAUW of Virginia.

At present, the Reston-Herndon Area branch's seven Lobby Corp members are the largest contingent from local branches. One of the corps first successes was a bill to provide divorced women with legal access to a portion of their former spouse's pensions; another was the passage of the Violence Against Women Reauthorization Act in 2013 according to AAUW Reston-Herndon branch documents.

Mary Zane of Oak Hill is the AAUW Reston-Herndon Public Policy Co-Chair with a particular interest in Lobby Corps. "We go every Thursday when Congress is in session and advocate for bills which elevate the status of women and will eventually close the pay gap. We also oppose legislation that is in opposition to our goals and mission," Zane said. As a registered federal lobbyist, Lobby Corps is the voice for AAUW members. It is telling Congress to ratify the Equal Right Amendment (ERA) now according to AAUW website.

"We continue to advocate with coalition partners for the passage of the Equal Right Amendment," said AAUW Reston-Herndon member, Stephanie Abbott. According to AAUW: "The ERA was first introduced in Congress in 1923, and was ratified by 35 of the necessary 38 states by 1977. However, Congress imposed a deadline to complete ratification by 1982... Congress must do its part to make women's constitutional equality a reality."

Dianne Mero shared a special recognition on the 50th Anniversary of the AAUW Reston-Herndon Branch by AAUW National, a Certificate of Honor. "We applaud your exceptional service and demonstrated commitment to advancing equity for women and girls," Mero read during the luncheon.

MARION STILLSON introduced speaker, Sen. Boylko. "She works for equal pay for equal work and thanks AAUW in particular for the drafting of legislation, research and testimony as support of the bills during committee hearings," said Stillson.

Boylko said AAUW worked on the issues that were most important to her, economic equality for everyone and empowerment of girls and women so they could be successful in life. "AAUW provides training, so women know how to speak up," she said. "Your voice matters. The things AAUW do matter. Fifty years educating people and letting them know. It's you who shows up... There is too much at stake."
