Let the Jury Decide

BY ANDREA WORKER
THE CONNECTION

Commonwealth's Attorney Raymond (Ray) F. Morrogh is the chief law enforcement officer for Fairfax County, serving a population of more than a million residents in the County, the City of Fairfax, and the Towns of Herndon and Vienna. He left private practice in 1983 to join the Fairfax County criminal justice system as a prosecutor, then became an Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney, then Chief Deputy before being elected to the top slot in 2007. He was re-elected to another four-year term in 2011, and again in 2015, when he ran unopposed.

This year, Morrogh is facing a challenger in Steve Descano – one who is determined to unseat him and vocal in his criticism of an incumbent and an office that he says "lacks transparency and accountability" and that has become distanced from the people that they serve.

Incumbent Morrogh and challenger Descano make their cases to serve as Fairfax County Commonwealth Attorney.

The two men have squared off on several occasions to make their cases before the "jury" of Fairfax County voters.

The Connection invited both to respond to an identical questionnaire.

Note: Morrogh did not respond despite repeated requests, so information has been summarized from his campaign website. www.RayMorrogh.com.

Name: Steve Descano

Age: 38

Education: Bachelor of Science, United States Military Academy (West Point, NY) 1998 - 2002; Juris Doctor, Temple University – Beasley School of Law (Philadelphia, PA) 2006 - 2010

Family: Ryanne, wife of 16 years, daughter Charlotte, 7 years old

Native of: Philadelphia, Pa.

Moved to Fairfax County: 2010

Professional Experience:

❖ COO/General Counsel, Paragon Autism Services, 2016 - present

❖ Federal Prosecutor (Trial Attorney), US Dept. of Justice, 2010 - 2016

❖ Aviation Officer, US Army, 2002 - 2004

Civic/Community involvement:

❖ Member, Fairfax County Democratic Committee, 2015 - present

❖ Member, Fairfax County Police Civilian Review Panel, 2017 - 2018

❖ Board of Directors member, NARAL Pro-Choice Virginia, 2016 - 2018

❖ Member, Fairfax County NAACP Criminal Justice Committee, 2016 - 2018

Why are you running?

"I am running for Commonwealth's Attorney to create a modern criminal justice system so that no one, no matter how powerful, is above the law. I'll work to ensure that systemic discrimination based on race, wealth, status, and zip code is in the past. I'll take a holistic approach to justice that builds up our communities. Reforming our system means that we will break the cycle of decreased opportunity, increased poverty, and increased crime that is the story of far too many of our neighbors."

Top 3 issues in your district and what solutions do you propose?

"Transparency and accountability" – Currently there is no publicly available data or measures for holding the elected Commonwealth's Attorney accountable during times of crisis. I will invite an outside organizations that will, for no cost to the taxpayer, generate demographic, socioeconomic and geographic data to compare outcomes of cases. This will help identify sources of systemic discrimination. To improve accountability, I will hold regular in-person and electronic town halls to inform constituents about policies and progress towards goals set by the data collected.

Cash Bail – Currently in Fairfax County, 45.9 percent who are eligible for pretrial release have cash bail as a stipulation. These are people deemed not dangerous to themselves or others, but must sit in jail because they cannot pay a system that unfairly penalizes poor people simply for being poor and increases recidivism.

Treatment, not incarceration – People who are addicted to drugs are ill and need our help we need to help them overcome their addiction and come out the other side without the type of criminal record that limits their opportunities in the future. To do this, I will overhaul our diversion programs which currently only address the first part of the equation.

I have written a 20-page plan for reform called "Progressive Justice" that goes further into depth about specific policies and procedures I will implement while in office. (The Plan is available on the candidate's website at www.stevedescano.com)"

Key ways you differ from your opponent(s)?

"There are many differences, but I will offer two here.

First, I am committed to ending a two-tiered system of justice that disproportionately affects people based on race, wealth, and zip code. My opponent signed on in 2016 to the Republican lawsuit to stop then-Gov. Terry McAuliffe from restoring voting rights of nearly 200,000 people who had finished their sentences. He has since altered his reason, but earlier he noted that he did not want 'those people' on his juries.

Second, I have been a leader on criminal justice system reform as a member of the Fairfax County NAACP's Criminal Justice and Legal Redress Committees, and as a member of the county Police Civilian Review Panel. On the other hand, my opponent, in 2014, as the Executive Director of the conservative National District Attorneys Association testified against the Obama Administration's plan to reduce mandatory minimum sentences and curtail the War on Drugs."

Help the Class of 2019 Celebrate Graduation Safely

BY SUPERVISOR
JOHN C. COOK
BRADDOCK DISTRICT

The last month of Senior year in high school is an exciting time for students and their families. Our children are moving on to a new stage in life after four years of hard work and intensive studies. When one considers the caliber of our schools, graduation is an even more impressive milestone. Amidst these great achievements, I urge parents to talk to their teens about the dangers of alcohol and to prohibit teens drinking in their own homes.

The Fairfax County Police Department will arrest parents who knowingly host teen parties with alcohol.

This may seem harsh to some, but this is a public safety issue. Teens are not yet ready to make good choices about alcohol. When adults serve it to them they send the wrong message and encourage the wrong choices.

It is no secret that teen drinking is wrought with dangerous consequences. Since teens who drink are more likely to binge drink, they are also more likely to make poor choices, such as drunk driving. In fact, the National Highway Traffic and Safety Administration (NHTSA) reports that every year hundreds of young people get behind the wheel intoxicated and cause deadly accidents: 648 people aged 16-20 were involved in a fatal accident with a BAC higher than .08 in 2017. Furthermore, teen drinking can also lead to sexual assaults and other crimes.

I cannot remember one year without hearing of a tragic local teen death caused by drunk driving. It is up to us as parents to do everything we can to encourage smart choices and safe celebration. That starts with clearly setting the boundary with your children that no alcohol will be served at any parties your family is hosting.

This is a community wide problem and will require community support. If you suspect there is underage drinking happening in your neighborhood, you can call the West Springfield Police Station at 703-644-7377 (or your District station).

Graduation season should be a time of merry making, reveling, and kudos for all the hard work our children have done. It should not include jail cells, ambulances, or coffins. Please join me in promoting a safe environment in our community by keeping alcohol out of teen parties.

Mental Health Awareness Month

BY KENNETH
R. "KEN" PLUM
STATE DELEGATE (D-36)

Before we tear off the remaining couple of pages on the May calendar, I want to address the important recognition of May as Mental Health Awareness Month. While Virginia is credited with having the first mental health hospital, or asylum as they were called in the eighteenth century, the Commonwealth has had difficulty in recent times coming to grips with the enormity of the need and the provision of funds to respond to those needs. In fact Virginia is ranked 40th in the nation in mental health care according to the results of a national study of the issue. It took a state senator's mentally ill son attacking his father with a knife to shock the state to greater action. That father now chairs the Joint Subcommittee on Mental Health Services in the 21st Century, or the Deeds Commission, that includes Senator Janet Howell as a member and has made critically important recommendations on which the state has made significant progress. A special thanks goes to the The Commonwealth Institute (thecommonwealthinstitute.org) for documenting recent progress and remaining opportunities in behavioral health in a recent edition of The Half Sheet. The Institute which is a nonprofit organization focusing mostly on human service needs used the term "behavioral health" to be more comprehensive than "mental health" to include mental health services and supports such as substance abuse treatment. The Institute recognized accomplishments this past year to include a 21 percent increase in Medicaid reimbursement to encourage more licensed mental health professionals to accept Medicaid thus increasing access to services for people with low income. Additional funding for emergency opioid kits will expand the access to and availability of Naloxone which is used to reverse the effects of an opioid overdose. The General Assembly also passed and the Governor signed my bill to expand the health care providers authorized to dispense Naloxone to make it more readily available.

Increased funding was provided to increase staffing at state mental health facilities that are struggling to keep up with demand. Funding was also approved to replace the aging mental health facility Central State Hospital. In addition, monies have been made available for transportation of persons needing mental health hospitalization from having to be transported by law enforcement.

The Department of Behavioral Health and Developmental Services indicates that there is a need for 5,000 permanent housing units for those who need supportive housing in the state. This year's funding along with an increase last year will provide 1,300 units of supportive housing. Obviously, there is a severe need to do more in this area with a price tag of about $47 million.

Challenges remain to be addressed in providing greater access to programs and services for those who live in rural areas and to those who have experienced the trauma of having been exposed to the immigration and refugee system. A task force is looking at ways to increase the number of mental health professionals in the state.

Our awareness of mental health needs cannot end with the month of May. More needs to be done!

Health Insurance Tax: An Attack on Seniors?

To the Editor:

Regarding The Connection's recent article on health disparities in Virginia (March 25, 2019, "Report Shows Geographic Disparities in Health in Virginia,") I want to highlight another threat to care in our region: the Health Insurance Tax.

As a senior who depends on Medicare Advantage for affordable health care to help manage debilitating chronic migraines and back pain, I am appalled by the lack of congressional action on the Health Insurance Tax (HIT).

Medicare Advantage coverage has helped me get my life and my health back, but the HIT is nothing short of an attack on seniors. It would raise annual costs for more than 22 million Medicare Advantage beneficiaries by as much as $241 per person annually, imposing a huge burden for those living on fixed incomes. Seniors on Social Security often live on significantly less than the mean income in Appalachia.

Key legislation before Congress (H.R. 1398 and S. 172) would stop the HIT and protect seniors, but Senators Kaine and Warner and Congressman Connolly have refused to sign on as co-sponsors. It seems like Congress has forgotten we are here.

If Congress allows a tax on my healthcare premiums, I won't be able to afford coverage. If costs go up, I'm out of the game. Senior health isn't a game – and the HIT is a multi-billion-dollar tax on health insurance premiums that will go into effect in 2020 unless Congress acts soon.

It's time for congressional action to stop the HIT and protect our care.

Carol Frysinger

During the current school year, Weekend Food for Kids will deliver 18,000 bags of nonperishable food items to students at risk of hunger to take home on weekends when school meals are not available. The New Clothing for Kids initiative provides essential clothing items, and personal grooming products to improve the well-being of students, and layettes to help new mothers in need. Literacy for Kids delivers individualized tutoring to first graders and supplies books to support summer school reading programs, in addition to providing books to allow individual students to build their home libraries. Hugs Pillows distributes hand-made pillows to comfort children undergoing treatment at a local clinic.

Key sponsors of the charity luncheon were recognized for their support: Quadrant, Inc., Panda Stonewall, Bob's Discount Furniture Charitable Foundation, Marines Plumbing, and Spine Care of Manassas Chiropractic Center. A special thank-you was extended to principals and other representatives from the schools served.

For the ninth year, Auctioneer Daniel Sanders, with Four Sales Ltd., donated his services to help raise funds during the live auction and special appeal segment of the program. Two luxury South African Photo Safari packages were just some of the items available for bid this year.

Robinson's iLASA Goes 'International'

Daniela Tortoza, Andrea Ponce, Gabriela Argueta, Emely Paz, Mohamed Helal, and Santiago Guerrero are seniors at Robinson Secondary School. They have connected over the challenges they overcame as first generation immigrant students, as well as their desire to find success in high school and to eventually attend college.

They are officers and members of iLASA (Latin American Student Association International). This club originated as LASA; however, it has grown so much with students from around the globe, from different walks of life, that it has become truly international.

Ruth Azimi, Parent Liaison and Michelle Hanus, ESOL chair and teacher, are the sponsors of iLASA. They celebrate the diversity at the school with an annual International show, where students showcase their culture through dancing, singing, fashion, and other talents.

This year, for the first time, iLASA presented four $500 scholarships to its members. In addition, iLASA has partnered with HLA (Hispanic Leadership Alliance) to award an active member of iLASA with a $1,000 scholarship. Conversemos, a Robinson Hispanic parent group, also granted an iLASA member a $500 scholarship, for a total of six scholarships awarded to deserving students.

This fall, Daniela Tortoza will be attending George Washington University; Andrea Ponce and Emely Paz will be attending George Mason University; Gabriela Argueta will be attending Virginia Commonwealth University; Mohamed Helal will be attending West Virginia University; and Santiago Guerrero will be attending Northern Virginia Community College.

Paz stated, "iLasa to me is a place where I feel accepted and can find diversity. This [iLASA] scholarship will make difference toward my education by helping pay for college fees, such as books and other student loans. I'm so grateful that iLASA has such amazing sponsors that are always there for any kind of support, and encouraging us to do better each day."

Argueta said, "For me iLASA means a community of diverse students. I'm very grateful for the scholarship. iLASA sponsors are inspiring. The way they do everything they can to help students and believe in them. I hope to find someone like that on campus. The international show was like a big celebration of everyone's cultures, all the clothes traditional and modern and talents were amazing. I was really glad I could represent my country especially since it's my last year at Robinson."

Del. Filler-Corn Awarded for Legislative Excellence

On Wednesday, May 22, Del. Eileen Filler-Corn (D-41) was honored by George Mason University's Antonin Scalia Law School with the Dean's Medal for Legislative Excellence at their 22nd Annual Judicial and Legislative Reception. Since 1998, the Judicial and Legislative Reception (JLR), seeks to honor and recognize those who serve the people of Northern Virginia, whether as a legislator, judge or attorney. Many GMU alumni, attorneys, judges as well as a few elected officials attended the evening event.

Del. Filler-Corn speaking

In her remarks Filler-Corn recounted the impact of a colleague of the school's namesake had on her own career, saying, "As I sat down to write my remarks for this award, I reflected quite a bit on women who came before me when it came to the study of law. One that immediately came to mind was a longtime friend, colleague and "opera buddy" of the namesake of this law school. Of course, I am talking about Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg." Filler-Corn went on to quote the Justice, saying, "Ginsburg once said, 'Fight for the things you care about, but do it in a way that will lead others to join you.' Though Ginsburg only said that just a few years ago, the way she has lived that truth is reflected through her entire career. Her career inspired countless young women and men who went into law or government after her—myself included."

Filler-Corn, who holds a JD herself from nearby American Delegates Vivian Watts, Eileen Filler-Corn and Rip Sullivan.

University, concluded her speech by remarking how it is this same quote that influences her approach to governing. "It is coming together and finding common ground that truly allows us to get things done. I believe we can solve so many problems in our world if we focus on where we can agree before we focus on where we disagree."

Burke Farmers Market Creates Community

Both customers and vendors enjoy communication and familiarity.

BY ABBY SACKS
THE CONNECTION

In the Burke Farmers Market, people old and young, in groups and solo, explore the booths of more than thirty vendors to find fruits and vegetables, meats and fish, vegan and gluten-free foods and even dog treats.

Many vendors have held a booth at the market for many years, some even for more than two decades. Still, a handful of sellers are new to the space. Whether veteran or new, repeat customers have formed relationships with the vendors by visiting as often as every week.

"We have a large rapport with people we're familiar with," said Jerrica Golden of Glascock's Produce. Glascock's Produce has built a large customer base in the 26 years of being at the farmers market. A few weeks ago, when the company truck broke down, and they were not able to set up shop in the market, their customers noticed. Golden said she still gets asked about their absence that week.

This sentiment of customer loyalty holds true with the newer vendors as well. Though Chase Your Tail Bakery, a bakery that makes treats exclusively for dogs and cats, has only been present at the market for two years, they see many of the same people who visit regularly. "As soon as they approach the table, I know what they want," said Deb Matthews about customers she sees often.

Joyce Burnett of Loice's Mae's Kitchen has also been at the Burke market for two years. She said she "enjoys very much so" selling her vegetable and fruit smoothies here because of the friendly and welcoming community the space provides. She also said she feels a sense of "camaraderie with customers."

The customers who frequent the Burke

Farmers Market also enjoy the experience because of the neighborly environment. David Smith, the market manager, called it a "community experience" where "people see each other."

Another way the farmers market welcomes people is by offering a variety of products that cater to many different dietary restrictions and preferences. Loice Mae's Kitchen offers diabetic-friendly versions of all the flavors of their smoothies and some in keto-friendly versions, too. Julia O'Donnell, who walked to the market with her daughter and granddaughter, appreciated the diversity of choices available. "I love it," she said. "There's such a variety of things." Even Chase Your Tail Bakery has a special creation made for gluten-free pets.

The inclusive and positive nature of the Burke Farmers Market draws in vendors and customers alike. Smith especially appreciates the community found at the market. A place people gather together in such a way is "hard to find in today's world," he said.

The Burke Farmers Market is open Saturdays from 8 a.m. to noon between April 13 and Dec. 21.

Healthy Job Market, International Travel Difficulties Impact Local Pools

Memorial Day pool openings delayed; swimming plans come up dry in some spots.

BY MIKE SALMON
THE CONNECTION

Area teens are choosing other job options this summer besides the lifeguard stand and the lifeguards from overseas that have come over with the J-1 Summer Work Travel Program in previous years have hit a travel roadblock leaving some pools in Fairfax County scrambling for help.

At Newberry Station in Newington, the pool was ready but the day before it was to open, an email came out from the property management group about the delayed opening.

"I unfortunately have to share that because of staffing challenges with our contracted pool company, by no fault of theirs in particular, we will be unable to open the pool until further notice," wrote Birgit Burton, the Community Association Manager.

"The delays have been caused by the J-1 Summer Work Travel Program which directly affects the foreign summer staffing for Newberry Station," Burton wrote.

In Reston, it was the local job seekers who have not been interested in a lifeguard job so the hours were adjusted. Of the 15 swimming locations in Reston, their hours and closings were shifted around for the Memorial Day weekend, and an undisclosed time period after.

"Due to a shortage of lifeguards we must revise our pool schedule to ensure the safety of all swimmers. We apologize for the inconvenience and schedule change," their announcement read. In Reston, they are holding lifeguard job fairs now to fill the positions, said communications rep Mike Leone. "We are being creative to attract area teens and college students, but many are opting for jobs in other fields," he said.

The Pool and Hot Tub Alliance is working with government officials to lessen the impact, and has formed a J-1 Coalition to work "with members of the U.S. House and Senate to discuss the potential unintended consequences of regulator changes to the J-1 Summer Work Travel Program," their information stated.

"More U.S. teen and college students are opting for summer education or the opportunity to gain professional experience through internships," said PHTA's Director of Government Affairs, Jennifer Hatfield. "The roadblocks that are limiting the number of J-1 visas being issued are placing unprecedented burdens on pool and spa industry companies and limiting their ability to service their customers," she said.

At Springfield Golf and Country Club, their lifeguard positions have seen a steady flow of applicants

PHOTOS BY MIKE SALMON/THE CONNECTION

In Newington, there was a parking spot reserved for the lifeguards but it remains empty due to a travel hiccup.

Newberry Station's pool management company Continental Pools relied on overseas help such as Martin Stefanov and Victoria Tshacheva shown here at the Newington pool a few years ago.

because their pool operations manager Sheri Landfair has built a loyal network and develops her staff along a progressive growth plan. They have seen the impact of the job market in other areas at the club. "With unemployment being the lowest since 1969, staffing for food and beverage has been especially challenging this past year for nearly all country clubs in our region, including Springfield Golf & Country Club," Dawn Siebenhaar, the SGCC membership director.

In Kingstowne, their staffing is full and there weren't any issues with finding enough applicants.

According to a Department of State website, the program allows "College and University students enrolled full time and pursuing studies at post-secondary accredited academic institutions located outside the United States come to the United States to share their culture and ideas with people of the United States through temporary work and travel opportunities."

The Weak That Was

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

All's well that ends well.

The fortnight or so from you-know-where has finally ended and I am here to write that my warranty has been extended for another two months. The CT scan showed no tumor growth or movement. The "promise" of immunotherapy so far is keeping its 'promise' - keeping the tumors stable.

Throughout my extremely fortunate cancer experience, I have felt reasonably well and manifested few symptoms/side effects; at least the kind of symptoms/side effects: shortness of breath, coughing, expectorating blood, mind-numbing neuropathy and headaches, among others, about which my oncologist regularly inquires.

Generally speaking then, my health status has always been about the tale of the tape - to invoke a boxing reference - meaning the diagnostic scans: brain MRI, CT scan of the neck/lower abdomen, PET scan and the initial X-Ray which started the whole adventure, to determine my fitness for duty, so to speak.

It is not until my oncologist shares/summarizes the radiologist's findings - and occasionally shows us the actual computer images themselves, that yours truly/Team Lourie knows where we stand.

And, where we stand typically is where we are sitting, in a cramped exam room, face to face with the man who holds my life in the palm of his hand - or more specifically, in the words that he chooses and the gesture/body language he exhibits. It's not exactly "Bath Fitter," but "the reveal" is imminent.

It never gets easy, but it does get easier to endure this kind of potentially life-altering/life-ending moment. Though the familiarity of it hasn't dulled the pain, it has enabled us to balance the pros and cons, up and downs and all-arounds, as we anticipate the words we are about to hear.

During most of these post-scan visits, we've exhaled in relief, but we have had our share of disappointment.

On one occasion, back in late July 2013, I was hospitalized for a week when my lungs accumulated 4.5 liters of fluid, among more significant internal problems (lung collapsing).

Externally, I was unable to speak more than a few words before needing to regroup. As a matter of humorous fact, when my long-time oncology nurse, Ron, saw me that infusion day, he thought I "was a goner," since my oxygen level was so low.

Within a few hours, I was a 'goner' in an ambulance to Holy Cross Hospital in Silver Spring, Md. where I was eventually admitted. Two days later, a thoracic surgeon operated, and a day or two after that, my lung amazingly reinflated.

As a result, in my head and in my gut, (though I'm no Jethro Gibbs from NCIS), when I show up for my infusions and for my post-scan appointments, there's always a part of me that thinks I might not be spending that evening in my own bed.

When you're a cancer patient/survivor, and this kind of whisking off not to Buffalo but instead to the local hospital affiliated with your HMO has happened once, it's only a matter of time (it's impossible not to believe it's inevitable when you've been staged a IV) before it will happen again. I'm not being negative, I'm just saying.

As we sit and wait at home for my oncologist to email us the scan results, or whether we sit and wait in the on-site exam room, I wouldn't say our respective lives pass before us, but I will certainly admit to the total unpleasantness of it.

That being said, we're the lucky ones. There are nearly 160,000 lung cancer patients who succumb to this terrible disease every year who aren't nearly so lucky.

So when I hear the words "stable" from my oncologist, I am humbled as much as I am relieved, that I have lived to fight another eight weeks until my next scan is scheduled and my next fortnight is fought.

And that's how I live my life: in increments. Increments which I'm grateful to have. It may not be ideal, but it's a living, and it sure beats a dying.
