Oakton High School holds Fifty-first Commencement Exercises.

For the Oakton High School community, June 6 proved to be a special day. Surrounded by family, friends, teachers, administrators and distinguished guests at the school's Fifty-first Commencement Exercises, a reported 670 young adults sat in their burgundy caps and gowns at George Mason University EagleBank Arena ready to begin their next great adventure.

Before the Commencement Exercises started though, graduate candidate Gabriella Shapo — chosen to present the Student Address during the ceremony — shared what she considered the most important lesson she learned at Oakton High School and the theme of her Address: "Individual responsibility for the collective good," Shapo said.

Before remarks by guest speaker, Sandy Reynolds, graduate candidate David Park stepped to the podium and recognized two faculty members retiring at the end of the school year, David Foley and Fred Priester. "We appreciate you and wish you all the best," he said.

Next, Devin Martin announced that the Class of 2019 began a new tradition at Oakton High School, the Class Teacher Award. Martin explained that graduating class nominated one teacher who it believed made the most significant impact on them over the last four years. Before announcing the name, Martin read some of the many comments students submitted: "I have never met a teacher who wants to teach and see her students succeed as much as she does. ... She's a teacher you can come to for anything, and she will be completely honest. ... Simply put, she's the best." The winner of the Class of 2019 Teacher Award went to Kelly Butterfield.

PRINCIPAL Jamie S. Lane announced the recipient of the highest and most prestigious award bestowed upon a graduating senior, the 2019 Faculty Award given to a student who selflessly and generously contributed to the Oakton High School community throughout his or her tenure. Lane said, "She has grown from a shy, nervous freshman into an independent, thoughtful graduate... positive and uplifting to her classmates and teammates and pushes herself and others to achieve that which seems beyond reach. I am honored to present the 2019 Faculty Award to Carolyn Qu."

Kelsey Brooks introduced guest speaker, Sandy Reynolds, a longtime member of the Fairfax County Public Schools and Oakton High School community who, Brooks described, worked "tirelessly through her career to create and grow a culture of equality." In her remarks, Reynolds said, "My ultimate goal was to make Oakton High School the best in the county with the happiest and most productive students. Happy kids; happy classroom."

Graduate candidate Gabriella Shapo provided the student address. In it, she spoke about the overwhelming pride the Class of 2019 will have 20 years from now, when "we see the people from our high school, leaving a real, and lasting legacy." Shapo cautioned her classmates not to focus their energy on "making an impact, let's consider how we're making (it)." Shapo told the story of a man who tried to change the world and he couldn't, so he decided to change his country, then his community and finally his family, failing miserably at all. Instead, Shapo told the Class of 2019 that the man changed himself. He dedicated much of his time to personal development, to be kinder, to give for the sake of giving, to learn about the world around him and to laugh. She said that the man's family saw the difference and modeled his actions, as did individuals in the community, his country and the world. "Our collective ripple effect of friends, family, and Class of 2019 is nearly infinite. With that kind of power, it'll take a lot less than 20 years to see how we changed the world," Shapo said.

Oakton High School Singers presented the Senior Tribute to the graduating class and all who supported them on their journey. Tiffany Powell directed the Singers with Ester Rivera performing a solo.

Afterward, Jennifer Hogan, Director of Student Services, thanked all for joining to honor the Oakton High School Class of 2019 and addressed Principal Lane for the words all awaited. "I certify that the members of the Senior Class of 2019 have met the requirements established by the Commonwealth of Virginia and Fairfax County School Board. I declare them eligible for graduation from Oakton High School."

ONE BY ONE, the Class of 2019 lined up, and Lane presented diplomas to the 670 candidates. After the final candidate received her diploma Lane asked the Oakton High School Class of 2019 to stand. She announced, "By virtue of the authority vested in me as principal of Oakton High School...I hereby confirm that the Seniors of the Class of 2019, whose names have been presented to me are now graduates of Oakton High School. Congratulations."

Constitutional Amendment to End Gerrymandering — Not Quite

By JOHN LOVAAS
RESTON IMPACT PRODUCER/HOST

INDEPENDENT PROGRESSIVE

Virginia is on the verge of reforming its legislative redistricting process (for VA Senate, House of Delegates and US House of Representatives) following the national census every ten years. The antiquated process encourages rampant gerrymandering, i.e., deliberate manipulation of district lines to the advantage of the party in power and incumbents. Incumbents are protected; communities are carved up; elections are less competitive; partisan gridlock is the norm and compromise impossible. Legislators select their voters instead of vice versa. Thanks to the work of the non-profit One Virginia 2021 and other reform advocates, the Virginia General Assembly (Senate and House of Delegates) passed a bipartisan constitutional amendment in 2019 to reform the process for redistricting. If enacted, it could reduce abuses with a more transparent and balanced process. To be enacted, it must be passed again, by the newly elected legislature in 2020, and then be approved by Virginia voters in a statewide referendum in Nov. 2021. The amendment came out of a legislative conference. It was a compromise with provisions from several proposals. The amendment creates a redistricting commission composed of 8 legislators and 8 citizens (the first citizen involvement ever). Citizens will be bipartisan, with their final selection made by a panel of 5 retired circuit court judges from a large pool put forth by the legislature. To pass any new district maps, a supermajority of 6 legislators and 6 citizens is required. The Supreme Court of VA. will decide if they cannot agree. All commission meetings and records are open to the public. The legislature will vote to approve or not any new maps, but it cannot amend them.

One Virginia 2021 says categorically that although the amendment does not include all they proposed, "This will end partisan gerrymandering in Virginia." Del. Ken Plum sees it as a "great improvement," but acknowledges that it is "not perfect." Nevertheless, he says it "need[s] to get on the ballot for voter approval in time for the 2020...redistricting."

Others, like Reston's Bill Penniman, a public policy specialist, and myself believe there are serious shortcomings. For example, we think there is a distinct possibility that the legislature will largely still control the process. The legislators on the commission will have an interest in protecting their seats and, while dividing them up may reduce potential for abuses, the temptation for trading among them is a real possibility. Some partisan gerrymandering abuses may be tamped down, but stopping incumbent protection will be tougher to achieve.

The citizen commissioners will be at a disadvantage. Lacking technical support and time for meaningful deliberation may weaken their potential for fair drawing of districts. The citizen members will be on a tight time schedule to hold public hearings around the state and draw maps for 140 General Assembly districts and 11 congressional districts. This could result in citizen commissioners ending up voting on districts as proposed to them by the legislative contingent.

Fixing glitches in the operation of the commission will be limited to things that can be done without having to amend the constitutional amendment. For example, the legislature, if there is the will, can level the playing field for citizen commissioners by providing for technical support and providing tools for greater scrutiny and reporting to the public of what goes on in the commission.

Perhaps we critics overestimate the flaws. I hope so, because gerrymandering is a major tear in the fabric of our democratic form of government. In any case, we agree that the proposed amendment may lead to significant improvement in drawing fairer federal and state legislative districts, certainly enough to justify proceeding. I suggest you let your legislators know you want them to vote for the amendment in the 2020 session. Reform is difficult work, made more so when it depends on some who perceive it as not in their interest to succeed.

Special Session on Gun Violence

By KENNETH R. "KEN" PLUM
STATE DELEGATE (D-36)

COMMENTARY

Virginians are lovers of history, including this Virginian as regular readers of this column know. This year Virginia is celebrating 400 years since the first representative legislative body met at Jamestown. Virginia is the Mother of Presidents.

One bit of history that continues to loom large in Virginia's psyche these days with as little mention as possible from the state apologists is the prevalence of gun violence in the Commonwealth. Twelve years ago the campus of Virginia Tech was the scene of the largest mass murder of its time. While other mass murders have occurred since then, VA Tech through no direct fault of its own continues to hold the record for the most people killed on a college campus.

Virginia last week made history again. Virginia Beach was the scene of the biggest mass murder so far this year. A dubious distinction that we would least like to have. Virginia lost 1,028 people to gun violence in 2017, and as the Governor described it, that is almost three people a day; that is more deaths than those due to vehicle accidents.

For Governor Ralph Northam and for me and countless other Virginians, we long ago have had enough. As Governor Northam said in a press conference which I took part in last week: "No one should go to work, to school, or to church wondering if they will come home. But that is what our society has come to, because we fail to act on gun violence. I will be asking for votes and laws, not thoughts and prayers."

The laws he is seeking to get passed have been introduced in the General Assembly during its regular sessions without success. In a special session that will begin in the coming weeks, only bills intended to end gun violence will be considered. And the Governor requested that "members of the General Assembly engage in an open and transparent debate and that the bills brought before the legislature are put to a vote by the entire General Assembly."

Bills related to gun violence that have been introduced in the regular session including my bill to require universal background checks have been routinely referred by the Speaker of the House to the Militia, Police and Public Safety Committee where they are sent to a subcommittee of six members. The members of the subcommittee are appointed by the Speaker of the House, four of whom have perfect voting records of opposing any gun safety legislation. My background check bill and the approximate 15 other bills related to preventing gun violence were defeated on a predictable vote of 2 to 4 with limited discussion or debate. Yes, that's right. Four members who are buddies with the NRA get to make the decision of 140 elected members of the General Assembly.

"Four members who are buddies with the NRA get to make the decision of 140 elected members of the General Assembly."

It is time for Virginia to make history again by leading the nation in doing the right thing to end gun violence. Voters, please pay close attention to how your elected representatives vote.

Historic Vienna to Host Antiques & Collectibles Evaluations

Historic Vienna's Antiques & Collectibles Evaluations will be held on June 22, 2019, 11a.m.-4 p.m. at Freeman Store and Museum, 131 Church Street, NE, Vienna, with professional auction specialists from Oakridge Auction Gallery of Ashburn. Bring your antique or collectible item to be evaluated by an appraisal expert specializing in paintings, prints, drawings and ceramics (European, American, Chinese and Japanese), glass (European and American), items of vertu (i.e. sterling silver services, bowls, teapots, etc.), jewelry and watches, and books. Furniture can be evaluated via good quality photographs and specific dimensions. The cost for evaluation is $10 per item and $8 per item for Historic Vienna members, with a limit of two items per person. Call 703-938-5187 or email historicviennava@gmail.com.

When you make your reservation if you would like to bring an item requiring a different expertise Historic Vienna will see if an appropriate expert can be made available.

VIENNA POLICE HIGHLIGHTS

The following summary contains various incidents of general interest as well as vehicular crashes handled by the Town of Vienna, Virginia Police Department from May 31, 2019 – June 6, 2019.

INCIDENTS

Suspicious Event — Park Terrace Court, SE May 31, 12:10 a.m. Officers responded for a possible domestic assault in progress after a citizen reported a woman screaming for help. The officers located a woman who advised she and her boyfriend had a verbal dispute. The dispute escalated when he physically prevented her from leaving the room. The boyfriend had an injury to his wrist, and rescue personnel were summoned to treat him.

Both parties denied that they were assaulted and refused to pursue any charges. The boyfriend's wrist was bandaged, but he refused transport to a hospital.

Suspicious Event — 400 Block Onondio Circle, SW May 31, 12:45 a.m. A resident reported that an unknown person banged on his front door and window then fled the area in a vehicle. This incident has occurred multiple times in the past few weeks.

Forgery — Burke and Herbert Bank 302 Maple Avenue, West, May 31, 3:53 p.m. An employee reported a woman entered the bank and attempted to cash a fraudulent check. The woman left the area before officers arrived.

Open Door — My Eye Doctor 401 Maple Avenue, West, May 31, 8:09 p.m. Officers responding to a burglary alarm found an unlocked door. The officers searched the business and found nothing that appeared to have been disturbed.

Arrest – Domestic Assault — Cherry Street, SW May 31, 9:55 p.m. Officers responded to a domestic assault in progress. The resident's adult son began harassing his mom and younger brother. The harassment escalated when he began physically assaulting both of them, causing minor injuries.

Ofc. Murray arrested the 19-year-old man from Cherry Street, SW. He was transported to the Fairfax County Adult Detention Center where he was charged with two counts of Domestic Assault and held on a $3000 unsecured bond.

Stolen Vehicle Recovery — 100 Block Moore Avenue, SE June 1, 9:11 p.m. An officer located a vehicle that had been reported stolen in Prince William County, Virginia.

Trespassing — Aldeerah Restaurant 262 Cedar Lane, SE June 1, 9:38 p.m. An employee reported a customer was trying to leave without paying his bill. The employee advised that the man had done this before. A friend at the restaurant paid the customer's bill, and the customer was trespassing from returning to the restaurant.

Lost Property — 100 Block Church Street, NE Between June 2 at 12 p.m. and June 3 at 10 a.m. A citizen reported that he lost his wallet while walking on Church Street.

Arrest – Drunk In Public — Patrick Henry Library 101 Maple Avenue, East June 3, 10:57 p.m. An employee reported a man in the library who was acting loud and obnoxious and refused to leave. Upon Ofc. Nesbitt's interaction with the man he detected signs of impairment.

Ofc. Nesbitt arrested the 36-year-old man from Ray of Hope Lane in White Post, Virginia. He was transported to the Fairfax County Adult Detention Center where he was charged with Drunk in Public.

Telephone Case — 500 Block Mashie Drive, SE June 3, 1:55 p.m. A resident reported that she was receiving calls from a woman that she no longer wanted to associate with.

Assault — 100 Block Church Street, NW June 3 2:23 p.m. Officers responded to a crash between two vehicles. It was reported that one of the drivers was acting belligerent toward the other driver. Driver-2 approached the officer very agitated that his vehicle had just been struck. Driver-1 advised the officer that Driver-2 attempted to grab her by the arm and restrain her. Driver-1 retreated to her vehicle until police arrived on scene. Driver-1 was advised of the warrant process should she wish to pursue charges against the other driver.

Trespassing — 1200 Block Kelley Street, SW June 3, 2 p.m. An employee with a home builder reported a woman staying in one of their new houses. The same woman was located in the house a few weeks prior. While the officer was on scene, the woman returned to the house. She was advised by the employee that she was not permitted on the property and may be charged with trespass if she returned.

Property — Maple Avenue and the W&OD Trail, SE June 3, 8:22 p.m. A citizen found a credit card while walking on the bike trail.

Versatility of Abstract Art

Ideas for decorating with this adaptable art form.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
 THE CONNECTION

From adding a burst of boldly colored angular shapes to a sterile, white wall to using spheres in muted tones to create serenity in a bedroom, abstract art has the ability to set the tone or change the mood of a space. In spite of its versatility, melding it tastefully into a home's décor can be daunting. Local designers share their strategies for aesthetically appealing placement of this adaptable art form.

Abstract art can become the center of attention in a space, notes Pamela Harvey of Pamela Harvey Interiors of Herndon, Va. "One of my favorite ways to transform the look of a room is to add an over-sized piece of abstract art to create a dramatic focal point," she said. "My go-to frame is a simple floater frame to give the art a clean finished look."

Abstract art works well in pairs allowing the use of smaller scale pieces, advises Amanda Mertins of Patina Polished Living in Alexandria.

"Don't be afraid to hang abstract art in gallery style. Be mindful to use like frames and materials," she said. "The use of complementary colors to your space is a safe way to incorporate abstract art into your décor without allowing it to grab all the attention."

One of Mertins' favorite uses of abstract art is pairing it with what she describes as its decorative opposite: traditional décor. "Beautiful wood furniture, silver, crystal lighting and porcelain accessories are perfect as a backdrop for bold prints and abstract paintings," she said. "Mirrors are wonderful to use as abstract décor, but always pay attention to what will be reflected in the mirror."

Abstract art work is a versatile accessory and works well in modern as well as traditional room settings, suggests Harvey. "When choosing a piece I look for something that has some of the room's existing colors in it with an opportunity to introduce new colors into the space."

Harvey implemented this technique in the recent re-design of a client's living room. "We added a piece that had blue and white, but introduced a bold pink to create a dramatic focal point on the back wall."

Abstract art shouldn't be limited to neutral spaces, says Annie Elliott of Bossy Color, Interior Design by Annie Elliott. "If your walls are white and your furniture is gray, the effect will be pretty, but cold and museum-like, not homey," she said. "You should complement a painting's colors [and] the room should feel harmonious. If you put a red sofa under a red and blue painting, the effect may [appear similar too] a hotel lobby."

From a practical standpoint, Anne Walker of Anne Walker Design believes in mixing media to avoid creating a space that has an overly uniform aesthetic. "Oil paintings, both abstract and traditional, framed photography, sculpture, textiles, antique botanicals, framed mirrors, antique porcelain china – all of these art forms can co-exist happily in a single home," she said.

Versatility is one of the traits of abstract art that Mertins appreciates. "This style of art can be very bold and take charge of a room or be soft and fade into the background," she said. "If your room needs a focal point, then abstract art is the way to go."

"The use of black and white art will make a bold statement without adding color to a space," continued Mertins. "Monolithic art produces a solid look, splatter art is happy and upbeat while graceful line drawings impart a feeling romance and intrigue. Photographic art can be personal, bold and sometimes more affordable than painted pieces."

Works of art that one purchases spontaneously, such as during travels, is often both more meaningful and more likely to enhance a home's décor, says Walker. "When art is purchased for the entire home all at once, the result can often feel contrived," she said.

"Surround yourself with art, furnishings and objects that make you feel joyful, and consult a design professional if you need help editing or arranging your collection," continued Walker. "I've often helped clients sort through their existing art collections and place them in just the right spot," she said. "Moving a piece of art from the wrong location to the right location can not only transform a room, it can transform the work of art itself."

Rising Oakcrest Senior Wins Poetry Competition

Rising Oakcrest Senior Megan Meehan won first place in the Tenth Annual Gabriela Mistral Youth Poetry Competition with her poem "Guardian Angel." She also received an Honorable Mention for another work titled "Silent Ones Are Waiting."

The Annual Gabriela Mistral Youth Poetry Competition honors the memory of Chilean poet and Nobel laureate Gabriela Mistral. Students in the D.C. metropolitan area ages 11 to 19 submit poems in English, Spanish, Portuguese, or any combination of these languages. "Guardian Angel" came in first out of more than 300 entries and Megan's outstanding work was recognized at an official awards ceremony at the Embassy of Chile on June 5.

Megan is the founder and president of Oakcrest's Poetry Club. She recently self-published

Seahawks Win State Soccer Championships

Tight game for Madison High.

THE CONNECTION

The South Lakes High School soccer team made history last week, winning their first ever state title.

Brennan Kenny, a player on the opposing team, Madison High School, stated, "It was a great experience for me knowing that our team grew as a family made the experience even better. Reflecting on how far we have come — last year we lost in the second round of Regionals and this year finishing the season second in the state is unbelievable."

Saturday, June 8, marked the final game of the VHSL State Championships in Richmond. The finals pitted rivals Madison and South Lakes high schools against each other. Ultimately, the South Lakes Seahawks soared to victory, edging out the Madison Warhawks by one goal.

Advancing to the championship game is no small feat. Madison Soccer Coach, Randy Wood reflected,

"This team has been hard working and driven. They were dedicated to success and determined to finish strong. I am really proud of these guys."

Coaches saw determination throughout the game. The first half ended in a stalemate, neither team able to weave past the defenses of the opposing team to score a goal. It was only in the second half that South Lakes' sophomore Merrick Edgerton, #44 on the field, found an opening and headed a well-aimed throw-in by #15 Michael Bush squarely into the net.

Merrick scored the only goal of the game, leading the Seahawks to victory.

What A Week!

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

The least of it was my pre-immunotherapy lab work on Wednesday and then my actual immunotherapy infusion on Friday. The most of it was my navigating websites and trying to properly complete applications/enrollment forms for the Virginia Unemployment Commission and the Maryland Health Connection.

For a man (me) who fancies himself your go-to-guy for sports and chocolate, getting immersed in policies and procedures for government agencies providing unemployment benefits and health care – with our (my wife, Dina and I) respective lives somewhat dependent on the time-sensitive completion of said documents, was akin to sending yours truly out to sing the National Anthem at the next Nationals' game. It would be a disaster of titanic proportions (fortunately without the loss of life).

As it has been my entire life, I can't sing any more than I can now compute.

As I sit and write this week's column, having barely survived the excruciating ordeal of this past week – with only an in-office visit left to go on Monday – I now have next week to look forward to. And what garden path am I leading you down?

Another week of time-sensitive/computer-centric tasks, of course. Once again I will be sitting at my computer attempting to navigate through another government web site and this time a private sector website, as I try to sign up for Medicare effective Sept. 1, as well as the associated but independent supplemental medical insurance necessary to fill in the coverage gaps that I, as a former insurance broker, know exist.

Granted, with these two tasks I do have some time. I just hope I have the wherewithal.

This past week took a toll emotionally. And I'm not sure if I really want to climb that emotional mountain yet again.

This week's tasks are not any easier. Shooting fish in a barrel they're not. They're more like having to make the barrel and then catch the fish. Not easier said than impossibly done. For a man who knows his limitations, the week ahead will likely test those limitations.

But if not me, then who? Unfortunately, it has to be me. The other party with whom I share a long-standing arrangement has a skill set unsuited to and incompatible with, computers, and the kind of searching/deciphering/hunting and pecking on web sites required for completion of this week's tasks.

Moreover, if I enlist her support or insist on her participation, my present and future will not be enhanced by the experience. She may be a resource in many other respects, but in this respect, she's not.

And I can respect that. Give me a little credit, I've learned something in our 40 years together.

That being said – and understood, I think I'll take the weekend off from such endeavors and prepare myself for next week as I consider the challenges which lie ahead.

I'd like to think I've gained some confidence in the progress I made this past week. I've nearly completed both tasks, tasks which initially seemed almost insurmountable. However, if it were not for the amazingly patient, courteous and knowledgeable assistance I received from the call centers associated with these sites, I'd still be stumbling and stammering (literally) into oblivion.

But as of this past Friday, I've nearly reached the promised land. ("I can see Russia from my house.")

I can only imagine the satisfaction I'll feel next Friday when I anticipate I will have completed two more of these tedious tasks and secured yet another part of our financial and emotional future.

Four huge hurdles overcome, but still with a few more yet to go: probably applying for a reverse mortgage and possibly researching a kitchen renovation.

Wait a second. Don't I have lung cancer? Jeez, I almost forgot.

With all this other stuff going on, the cancer compartment stayed closed. Now it's open again. Damn, now I really have problems.

Madison High graduation ceremony was held at DAR Constitution Hall in Washington, D.C.

Learning and Having Fun

Madison graduates sent off with stories of second chances and do-overs.

BY CHAMBERLAIN ZULAUF
THE CONNECTION

The Graduation ceremony for James Madison High School senior class of 2019 took place on June 7. The senior class — more than 500 students graduating this year — received a standing ovation from friends and family in a packed DAR Constitution Hall. The ceremony opened with Madison's own Choir and Orchestra, which would both have dedicated performances later in the proceedings.

The first speaker of the night was Michelle Xu, a graduating Madison student. She spoke about growing up, having more responsibilities and “striving to be greater.” Through her speech Xu added onto those points by touching on the toxic mindset some students can experience through the competition of high school. As Xu stated, “learning became a competition rather than being fun.”

Xu continued her point with an anecdote about her star tennis performance over her three years at Madison. Xu recalls feeling anxious about there being better tennis players than her even though she was within the top 50 players in the state. However, the conclusion she eventually came to was that she was “lucky to be surrounded by so much talent.” The final piece of advice Xu had to offer was that school isn't just about success, it is also about learning.

The next speaker was Science Teacher Matthew Thomson. Thomson notes that he too is graduating in a way as he is soon to retire and this will have been his last year teaching at Madison. Thomson started by telling his own story of how he was confused with what he wanted to do with his life, like many high school graduates may be. He tried mul-

Thomson said that “life is about second chances and do-overs” and that if he hadn't tried so many things he would never be who he is today. In a moment of humor Thomson recognizes that he “has stood in many streams and caught very few fish.” To wrap up his speech Thomson quoted the poet E.E. Cummings, “It takes courage to grow up and be who you are”.

The final speaker of the night was Principal Gregory Hood, who was with some of the graduating class for six years rather than four as he was formerly the principal of Thoreau Middle School. Hood opened with a childhood anecdote of wanting both an Evil Knievel motorcycle toy and a G.I. Joe with “Kung-Fu Grip.” He chose the Motorcycle and only ended up regretting not having the G.I. Joe. The moral of the story was for graduates to not long for things they did not have and to be happy with what they do have.

Hood finished off his speech with a quote that encompasses his whole message, “If it's sunny, enjoy the sun and if it's rainy, look for the rainbow.”
