Small Voter Turnout Heralds Big Changes

McKay's 'Experience Counts' tagline resonates, as does the call for criminal justice reform in the Commonwealth's Attorney race.

By Andrea Worker The Gazette

n an election night that will deliver major change to Fairfax County, voter turn out was just 10.2 percent of the county's more than 700,000 active registered voters.

It was not a general election, nor was it an election during a Presidential election year — events that generally bring the largest number of voters to the polling booths — but a higher turnout was expected given the unprecedented number of seats up for grabs on the Board of Supervisors, including the chairman's position. Some of these races hadn't experienced a primary in decades.

IN THE UNOFFICIAL RESULTS posted by the Virginia Department of Elections, Jeff McKay, the current Lee District representative on the Board of Supervisors, beat out his three opponents — Ryan McElveen, At-Large Fairfax County Public Schools Board member, Georgetown law professor Alicia Plerhoples, and developer Timothy Chapman, for the chairman's spot, taking 42.48 percent of the vote. Plerhoples was his closest rival with 31.34 percent and was the obvious favorite in several precincts, particularly in the Reston, Herndon and Vienna areas, with Chapman a distant fourth at 9.80 percent, despite outspending the McKay by more than $350,000. Both Plerhoples nor McElveen campaigned with far less money. The Virginia Public Access Project (vpap.org) reports $87,327 spent by McElveen; $147,791 spent by Plerhoples; $503,169 by McKay; and $853,399 by Chapman.

McKay promoted his 11 years of experience on the board — and the relationships he has built over those years — during his primary campaign. Previous experience did not win the day for all of the candidates, but seemed to weigh in his favor with the Fairfax County electorate.

McKay will face Republican Joseph Galdo in the general election on Nov. 5, but supporters at his election Watch Party at Kilroy's Sports Bar and Restaurant in Springfield — including U.S. Rep. Gerry Connolly (D-11) and current Chair Sharon Bulova — were more than ready to declare McKay the chair-elect.

"Things aren't perfect," acknowledged McKay supporter Henry Dent of Springfield at the McKay Watch Party, but the retired federal contractor said McKay won his vote because he has seen "progress in the right direction on the real issues ... like affordable housing and pay raises for teachers and first responders and working on the traffic problems." Like McKay, Dent doesn't think that now is the time to "take a chance on people without any experience."

McKay's progression toward the chairmanship of the board leaves his current Lee District seat vacant. Four Democratic hopefuls contended: Planning Commissioner James Migliaccio; attorney Kelly Hebron; lawyer and nonprofit Melwood chief of staff Larysa Kautz all fell to Rodney Lusk, the Fairfax County Economic Development Authority national marketing director. Lusk won with 46.21 percent of the votes. With no Republican or Independent candidates having filed for the seat, the primary win will send Lusk directly to the board in the new year.

James Walkinshaw, the former chief of staff to Connolly, won his race for the Braddock District Supervisor to replace Supervisor John Cook, who announced that he would not be seeking re-election. Walkinshaw defeated Irma Corado 67.22 percent to 32.78 percent, but unlike Lusk, Walkinshaw will be back on the campaign trail in just a few weeks as he will face two opponents in November — Republican Jason Remer and Independent Carey Campbell who is running for the position for the fifth time.

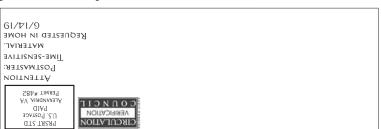

"I will take a few minutes to catch my breath and say 'hello' to my wife again, then it's back at it," said Walkinshaw at the Kilroy's event where he celebrated his victory along with McKay. "I can't take anything for granted. I have to get out there and keep listening and offering my message."

The impending retirement of long-time Supervisor Catherine Hudgins brought out five candidates seeking to replace her in representing the residents of the Hunter Mill District, a contest which featured some unusual elements.

Walter Alcorn, who has served on the Fairfax County Planning Commission for 16 years, took first place in that race, with 47.17 percent of the votes. Reston resident, long-time activist and child advocate attorney Laurie Dodd was the runner up with 24.94 percent. Shyamali Hauth, Maggie Parker and Parker Messick ran third, fourth and fifth, respectively.

THE HUNTER MILL RACE made election headlines on a number of occasions. For starters, there was the wide disparity in cam he future is what's ahead for the graduates of West Potomac High School, and it was suggested more than once that they take advantage of opportunities, deal with setbacks and go for the brass ring in life.

These suggestions and more rang through the Eagle Bank Arena on the afternoon of June 6, and the 535 members of the graduating class threw their mortarboards in the air and headed out as high school graduates. Some are headed to college, others to the military or jobs, remembering their former life at West Potomac with smiles.

"We are not the same people that entered West Potomac four years ago," said Jacqueline Amacker, the senior class president. "We've got this, congratulations Class of 2019," she said.

Class speakers James Schroeder and Manuela Danso-Fordjour reiterated that feeling. "Explore what the world has to offer," said Schroeder. "You made it, not everyone does, but you did," added Danso-Fordjour.

The stage was full of school dignitaries, and a few elected officials such as Supervisor Dan Storck (D-Mount Vernon), state Sen. Scott Surrovel (D-36), and Del. Paul Krizek (D-44). The teacher of the year award went to history teacher Robert Kerr for his work addressing intolerance, and the student of the year went to Mary Ellen Bell.

"Right now in this moment, I'm the proudest principal in Fairfax County," said Principal Tanganyika Millard. "Once a wolverine, always a wolverine. Be strong and never give up."

The band rolled into the graduation favorite "Pomp and Circumstance," diplomas were handed out, the caps became airborne, and people gathered in the parking lot.

Mack Brown's son Savveon Pena went into the Reserve Officers Training Corp as a student, and it helped him out. "Very good education, my son, he's come a long way," Brown said.

Sofia Parkins was there to see her sister Isabel who specialized in architecture through the academy. "Helps them dive more into it," Sofia Parkins said of the academy classes.

Affordable Housing Projects Partially Funded in Mount Vernon Residences at North Hill and The Arden move forward.

ears ago, there was a trailer park, a Shakey's Pizza and the Brooks Motor Lodge along Richmond Highway across from Lockheed Boulevard. One by one, those businesses closed and the 22-acre trailer park area sat vacant for several years. Now it's the planned site of the Residences at North Hill, a mixed-use development that will receive partial funding from an $11 million in Affordable and Special Needs Housing loan allocation from the Commonwealth of Virginia.

North Hill is one of three Fairfax County projects that will receive funding and one of two projects in the Mount Vernon District. Plans for the 279-unit project are described by the county as a "mixed income affordable and market rate housing community comprised of multi-family rental apartments and for-sale townhouses." The other project is The Arden which will be closer to the Huntington Metro Station. Additional county funds, and funding from several other sources, will create more than 400 housing units for workforce, senior and low-income resi-the North Hill development.

"Affordable housing is and must continue to be a top county priority. As the Richmond Highway Corridor develops, Embark comes to fruition and Amazon HQ2 arrives, we know we need to continue creating and preserving affordable housing for all. If you live or work in our community, you should have the opportunity to continue to live here," said Supervisor Dan Storck (D-Mount Vernon).

According to information released by Gov. Ralph Northam (D), the North Hill property will receive two portions of the funding totaling $2,300,000 and the Arden Building will receive $700,000. Other projects in Northern Virginia that are receiving money from this funding source is the new Lake Anne House in Reston and the American Legion Uniting to Serve project in Arlington. Both of those projects will receive $700,000 each.

The $11 million is from Federal Funding, Virginia Housing Trust Fund, and Permanent Supportive Housing sources. All the Fairfax County projects were allocated out of the Virginia Housing Trust Fund portion. Affordable and Special Needs Housing (ASNH) loans are awarded through a competitive process, the Governor's office said. The Virginia Housing Trust Fund is a key source of financing for these affordable housing initiatives to support moderate- and low-income families. The governor and the General Assembly doubled the Virginia Housing Trust Fund in this recently completed budget cycle, providing an additional $5.5 million and bolstering the state's commitment to increase affordable housing for low- and very-low-income persons.

"My administration is working hard to find innovative ways to reduce homelessness, expand access to quality affordable housing, and address evictions in Virginia," said Northam in a release. "The Affordable Special Needs Housing program provides Virginia the necessary resources to transform our housing stock and help create vibrant, thriving communities for all Virginians, in every part of the Commonwealth."

The Embark Housing Advisory Group looked into affordable housing units in the Mount Vernon District in December 2018 and found that there were approximately 3,958 housing units in the Mount Vernon District that are affordable to households earning up to 60 percent of the area median income.

OPINION The Future Is in Good Hands

By Paul Krizek State Delegate (D-44)

ast week, I had the honor and pleasure to attend both Mount Vernon and West Potomac High Schools' graduation ceremonies. What moving experiences! I can say this unequivocally: the future is in good hands if those graduates have anything to say about it. And, you know that they will! What terrific young people we have in our community! The students were very excited to be graduating and yet main-COMMENTARY tained a respectful decorum and wonderful professional demeanor. It was the parents and grandparents that yelled the loudest, cheering most robustly as their children received their honors and diplomas. The ceremonies included music by the talented school bands and choirs and both professional guest speakers and equally inspirational student speeches. The newly minted West Potomac and Mount Vernon high school graduates will be attending well over 100 different institutions of higher learning come this Fall. Many others are joining the military, serving our nation proudly. The pride on the faces of faculty and teachers alike during the ceremonies was unmistakable, and they deserve our thanks for successfully educating and guiding our children.

The words from Rod Stewart's song "Forever Young" came to mind: "And when you finally fly away we hoped we served you well. But whatever road you choose, we're right behind you win or lose."

These graduates, including my daughter and niece from West Potomac High School, are ready to take hold of their futures. Yet, in four years, many of them may have large student loans to pay that will make it difficult to pursue their family and career dreams. That is why this year I am proud to say that during the 2019 General Assembly session, the Appropriations Committee on which I sit approved funding in the budget to provide for the first public college tuition freeze in nearly two decades.

The General Assembly then allocated over $57.5 million in the state budget to public colleges who promise to hold tuition steady. The tuition freeze will go into effect for the 2019-2020 school year for in-8 & Mount Vernon Gazette & June 13-19, 2019

Reflecting on Importance of Family

By Dan Storck Mount Vernon District Supervisor

ach year for the past 15 years, I have attended 5-10 graduation ceremonies. Sure, some of these are for friends and families, but most are as a representative of our community in recognition of this important rite of passage. Graduconnection between gen-

erations, symbolically passing the torch to the next and inspiring both young and old, alike. One speaker I heard this year reminded me that our paths in life are seldom a straight line and it is those zigzags in life that sometimes help us stop and think, refocus our goals and renew our determination to reach our full potential!

As I celebrate my first Father's Day as a new grandfather I think of the circle of life, the varied experiences of our family and of the many life stories yet to come. I had forgotten the intensity of feelings, concern, and very frequent, joyful sharing that a first born creates in new parents' lives. It has been a wonderful reminder of my own early moments as a new parent. We all know parents are a critical part of childhood development and growth. It does not matter whether those parents are biological, foster or adoptive. Did you know there is a constant need for more foster parents in the county? Have you ever considered becoming a foster parent?

When children enter foster care, their worlds are often turned upside-down through no fault of their own. To lessen the trauma, it's especially important to keep siblings together, and to find foster homes that are close to their friends, schools, and activities so they can maintain as much normalcy as possible.

In Performance

On June 2, before a packed auditorium at West Potomac High School, more than 300 young dancers from Tiny Dancers' Alexandria Studio entertained the audience of family and friends with two performances of "Beauty & the Beast." From "Be Our Guest" to "Great Balls of Fire" to "Something Then," the dancers performed custom choreographed numbers from the musical classic. Tiny Dancers, located in Old Town, offers a specialized program of ballet, tap and hip-hop for children ages 2-12. The company also has studios in Fairfax City and Mosaic. "Champion of Young Performers Award" presented to Burtons Grill & Bar.

etropolitan School of the Arts (MSA) Academy of Alexandria hosted its annual fundraising campaign celebration raising $163,379, doubling the amount raised in 2018. The campaign concludes at the end of the school year. The monies will fund MSA operating costs and tuition support.

Basic Training Graduate

U.S. Air Force Airman 1st Class Nicholas J. Patterson graduated from basic military training at Joint Base San Antonio-Lackland, San Antonio, Texas. The airman completed an eight-week program that included training in military discipline and studies, Air Force core values, physical fitness, and basic warfare principles and skills.

Airmen who complete basic training also earn four credits toward an associate in applied science degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Patterson is the son of Deborah and Michael T. Patterson of Alexandria.

He is a 2012 graduate of West Potomac High School, Alexandria. He earned an associate degree in 2015 from Northern Virginia Community College, Annandale.

Small Voter Turnout Heralds Big Changes

paign dollars spent. Winner Alcorn shows a total of $75,926 in campaign dollars expended, while fourth place Maggie Parker spent $246,368, according to the Virginia Public Access Project.

Bulova and others raised First Amendment concerns when Parker displayed large signs at the Wiehle-Reston Metro station while her opponents were barred from campaigning there. Parker works for Comstock Companies developers, the company that built the station with Fairfax County in a public-private partnership. The question of access remains to be resolved.

The Hunter Mill contest also included the youngest candidate in any of the Board of Supervisors races in Parker Messick who is just a few years beyond his college graduation.

PROVIDENCE was another district that saw five Democrats on the Primary ballot to replace Supervisor Linda Smyth who, like Hudgins and Bulova, announced that she will retire at the end of the year. In the unofficial results, FCPS School Board member Dalia Palchik's 39.79 percent of the votes tops Planning Commissioner Phil Niedzielski-Eichner's 23.40 percent; court officer Erika Yalowitz's 13.97 percent; former Vienna Town Council member Edythe Kelleher's 12.73 percent; and consultant Linh Hoang's 10.12 percent for the seat.

Next up, Palchik will face Republican Paul Bolon in November.

Dranesville Supervisor John Foust and Mount Vernon Supervisor Dan Storck appear to be unopposed in November. In the Springfield District, Republican Pat Herrity will face Democrat Linda Sperling; in the Sully District, current Supervisor Kathy Smith will see Republican Srilekha Palle on the ballot; and Democrat Penny Gross will be challenged by Republican Gary Aiken.

PERHAPS THE BIGGEST SURPRISE to some was the defeat of longtime Commonwealth's Attorney Ray Morrogh.

Challenger Steve Descano, a former federal challenger M. Sharafat Hussain for Senate candidate, Karen Elena Torrent, received prosecutor pressed a progressive agenda for criminal justice reform, winning with 51.04 percent of the vote.

Morrogh has served for 35 years and has held the top prosecutorial spot in Fairfax County and Fairfax City since 2007, prosecuting a number of high-profile cases.

Descano is a West Point graduate who spent 6 years as a federal prosecutor in the Obama Administration, first as a Special Assistant to the U.S. Attorney for the Eastern District of Virginia and then as a trial attorney in the Criminal Tax Division and the Consumer Protection Branch. He served on the inaugural Fairfax County civilian panel providing oversight to the Fairfax County Police.

The two men met at public forums several times during the campaign. Morrogh often described his opponent as "unqualified."

Descano said Morrogh lacked a vision of where reforms — particularly to combat systemic racism and bias — need to occur.

Former Gov. Terry McAuliffe endorsed Descano, as well as the reform minded challenger in Arlington, Parisa Dehghani-Tafti, who defeated incumbent Theo Stamos there because the two incumbents signed on to a Republican effort to block restoration of voting rights of former felons who had completed their sentences. Both Descano and Dehghani-Tafti received large donations from the same Political Action Committee, giving them a financial advantage.

With no other declared candidates to be faced in November, Descano will be the new Commonwealth's Attorney.

The number of races and candidates and the contentious nature of some of the campaigning for Board of Supervisor positions and for Commonwealth's Attorney may have stolen the election limelight there were also primaries for several members of the General Assembly. Incumbent Barbara Favola handily defeated Nicole Merline to retain her position as the nominee for Virginia State Senator for the 31st District.

Jennifer Boysko did the same with her

District 33.

Sen. Dick Saslaw (D-35), the Senate minority leader, had a tougher time of it. In the first challenge he has faced in decades, Saslaw held off human rights lawyer Yasmine Taeb by only 362 votes. Taeb is the first Muslim woman to be elected to the Democratic National Committee. A third hose who enjoy boating and appreciate the navigational aids and other resources that make America's waters safe can give much of the credit to the U.S. Coast Guard and to its unpaid, volunteer Auxiliary, whose 80th anniversary is this month.

Coast Guard Marks 80th Anniversary Of its Volunteer Auxiliary

The Coast Guard Auxiliary was established by Congress on June 23, 1939 to help address an increase in boating accidents as the United States emerged from the Great Depression and more Americans could afford boats.

During WW II Auxiliarists were authorized to serve as temporary Coast Guard reservists. Like the Auxiliarist on lookout in the black and white photo (inset in photo at right), they helped secure America's waters. Today, the Auxiliary's 26,000 volunteers provide nearly four million hours of service annually in all 50 States, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, American Samoa and Guam, offering Boating Safety classes, free Vessel Safety Checks and Safety Patrols.

Modern day Auxiliarists do not have law enforcement or military responsibilities, but do provide radio watch standers at Coast Guard stations and assist with search and rescue when called upon by the Coast Guard. Like their active duty and reserve Coast Guard counterparts, auxiliarists are "Semper Paratus" (always ready) — and always looking for volunteers. Contact Flotilla 25-08's Vice Flotilla Commander Ted Caliga at johnbielli@gmail.com, to learn how to join.

Family

Currently, there are more than 200 kids in foster care in Fairfax County. The Department of Family Services' Foster Care and Adoption program offers temporary foster homes for these children and services to help their families. Right now, the greatest need is for foster families willing and able to take in sibling groups, unaccompanied minors, teens and medically fragile children. There is also a need for families who speak Spanish.

Stories abound from the foster families in our community:

"Finding my forever family has made such a big impact in my life! We enjoy being together, supporting each other, and making lots of new memories. I strongly encourage anyone considering fostering or adopting to do it — you can make all the difference in the life of a kid like me." — Mikalah

"As a first-time single parent, I was nervous about raising a teenager, but everything fell into place the minute I met her, and it's been an exceptional experience ever since!"— Lesley

"I have learned that adoption is not for the faint of heart. Some days I am aggravated. Some days I am exasperated. Some days I am heartbroken. Some days I ask, 'what have I gotten myself into?' But every day I know that this is among the greatest things I have ever done. In some situations you are literally saving a child's life. But in every situation you are offering a child the opportunity to see all the possibilities this world has to offer." — Leslie

These video stories are also powerful testimony to the successes of foster care: https:// www.fairfaxcounty.gov/ familyservices/children-youth/ foster-care-adoption/videos

So as you ponder parenting this Father's Day weekend and if you have room in your life for more, I hope you will consider the important role you could play in a young person's life as a foster parent. To learn more about becoming a foster parent and the resources available, come to a monthly information meeting or call 703-324-7639 or TTY 703-222-9452. Versatility of Abstract Art

Ideas for decorating with this adaptable art form.

By Marilyn Campbell The Connection

rom adding a burst of boldly colored angular shapes to a sterile, white wall to using spheres in muted tones to create serenity in a bedroom, abstract art has the ability to set the tone or change the mood of a space. In spite of its versatility, melding it tastefully into a home's décor can be daunting. Local designers share their strategies for aesthetically appealing placement of this adaptable art form.

Abstract art can become the center of attention in a space, notes Pamela Harvey of Pamela Harvey Interiors of Herndon, Va. "One of my favorite ways to transform the look of a room is to add an over-sized piece of abstract art to create a dramatic focal point," she said. "My go-to frame is a simple floater frame to give the art a clean finished look."

Abstract art works well in pairs allowing the use of smaller scale pieces, advises Amanda Mertins of Patina Polished Living in Alexandria.

"Don't be afraid to hang abstract art in gallery style. Be mindful to use like frames and materials," she said. "The use of complementary colors to your space is a safe way to incorporate abstract art into your décor without allowing it to grab all the attention."

One of Mertins' favorite uses of abstract art is pairing it with what she describes as its decorative opposite: traditional décor. "Beautiful wood furniture, silver, crystal lighting and porcelain accessories are perfect as a backdrop for bold prints and abstract paintings," she said. "Mirrors are wonderful to use as abstract décor, but always pay attention to what will be reflected in the mirror."

Abstract art work is a versatile accessory and works well in modern as well as traditional room settings, suggests Harvey. "When choosing a piece I look for something that has some of the room's existing colors in it with an opportunity to introduce new colors into the space."

Harvey implemented this technique in the recent form the work of art itself."

re-design of a client's living room. "We added a piece that had blue and white, but introduced a bold pink to create a dramatic focal point on the back wall."

Abstract art shouldn't be limited to neutral spaces, says Annie Elliott of Bossy Color, Interior Design by Annie Elliott. "If your walls are white and your furniture is gray, the effect will be pretty, but cold and museum-like, not homey," she said. "You should complement a painting's colors [and] the room should feel harmonious. If you put a red sofa under a red and blue painting, the effect may [appear similar too] a hotel lobby."

From a practical standpoint, Anne Walker of Anne Walker Design believes in mixing media to avoid creating a space that has an overly uniform aesthetic. "Oil paintings, both abstract and traditional, framed photography, sculpture, textiles, antique botanicals, framed mirrors, antique porcelain china – all of these art forms can co-exist happily in a single home," she said.

Versatility is one of the traits of abstract art that Mertins appreciates. "This style of art can be very bold and take charge of a room or be soft and fade into the background," she said. "If your room needs a focal point, then abstract art is the way to go."

"The use of black and white art will make a bold statement without adding color to a space," continued Mertins. "Monolithic art produces a solid look, splatter art is happy and upbeat while graceful line drawings impart a feeling romance and intrigue. Photographic art can be personal, bold and sometimes more affordable than painted pieces."

Works of art that one purchases spontaneously, such as during travels, is often both more meaningful and more likely to enhance a home's décor, says Walker. "When art is purchased for the entire home all at once, the result can often feel contrived," she said.

"Surround yourself with art, furnishings and objects that make you feel joyful, and consult a design professional if you need help editing or arranging your collection," continued Walker. "I've often helped clients sort through their existing art collections and place them in just the right spot," she said. "Moving a piece of art from the wrong location to the right location can not only transform a room, it can transform the work of art itself."

Mount Vernon's Be Washington Experience Wins Design Award

ount Vernon's interactive theater, Be Washington: It's Your Turn to Lead, has received a merit award from the Society for Experiential Graphic Design (SEGD). This award honors design work that connects people to place by providing direction, content, and compelling experiences in public spaces. The Be Washington on-site experience is included with admission, and is also available for free online.

"Mount Vernon and the Be Washington team are honored by this SEGD Merit award," said Rob Shenk, senior vice president for Visitor Engagement at George Washington's Mount Vernon. "Our goal was to transport our players back into the world that George Washington inhabited.

Not only has great care and attention been paid to the Be Washington user interface, but also to all the physical and digital design elements that make you feel like you are in the presidential mansion in Philadelphia, the rough fields outside Pittsburgh, or the battlefields along the Delaware n- River."

Be Washington invites visitors to step into Washington's shoes and experience first-hand four historical scenarios that Washington faced as both general and president, deepening their understanding of Washington's leadership and the challenges he faced. The interactive theater, which opened in February 2018, features a 25-foot, 6K LED wall and 18 touchscreen desks that enable guests to interact with the films. The SEGD jury noted "Live-ac-

The SEGD jury noted "Live-action reenactments are an underrated and under-utilized interpretive tool in history museums, yet they are difficult to pull off tastefully — and without violating visitors' suspension of disbelief. This project puts well-produced reenactments within an interpretive, gamified framework, challenging visitors to engage with historic characters that are immediate and real, and also engage with each other through a communal, multiplayer experience."

Gallagher and Associates, and Solomon Group, which helped design the AV systems and in fabricating the space. Funding for the project was provided by the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association, the Donald W. Reynolds Foundation, and The Hearst Foundations.

Be Washington also received the 2019 Thea Award of Outstanding Achievement in the museum experience, limited budget category from the Themed Entertainment Association, as well as top honors at the Southern Museum Conference Technology Competition in the media production category in 2018.

ENTERTAINMENT The Sting of Shakespeare's Intent

Metropolitan Homeschool Productions is optimistic about relationships in "The Taming of the Shrew."

By Elena Marie Auclair

" f I be waspish, best beware my sting!" warns Katherina in "The Taming of the Shrew." The sting of Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew" is that it is a madcap examination of marriage, gender, and the social climate of the Elizabethan period. Sparking controversy because of the plot that, on face value, puts forward submission under abuse. Metropolitan Homeschool Productions (MHP) will bring the zany humor of this Shakespeare classic to life later this month at the Metropolitan School of the Arts' Black Box Theatre in Alexandria with a production directed by Barbara Schwartz.

Set in Padua, "The Taming of the Shrew" relays how eager suitors - including the scholarly Lucentio - pursue the father's, Baptista, lovely daughter, Bianca. Informed that Bianca's ill-tempered sister Katherina (Annie Farias) must marry first, a negotiation for Katherina's marriage with the "gentle" man Petruchio (Lewis Bliss) is made, and so the craziness begins.

"The Taming of the Shrew" is one of Shakespeare's earlier comedies in the style

Union St. Featuring work by Alan Sislen. The highly graphic, black and white architectural images in this exhibit explore the range and beauty of tones that might or might not have existed, but were visible in the mind of the r photographer. Whether it's the darkest tones that convey a sense of mystery, the brightest tones that attract attention, or the mid-tones that provide the connecting tissue, it is this range of tonalities that shapes the lines, curves, volumes and objects to give the structures life, beauty and meaning. This exhibit is an of Commedia dell'Arte, which was an Italian theater form that relied on parodied characters and situations. For example, the vecchi were old selfish men like Baptista, and the innamorati were young lovers like Bianca and Lucentio who must overcome the vecchi. However, what makes this play unique is that the two leads, Katherina and Petruchio, don't fit these stock parodied forms - they're characters with complex motivations.

Schwartz believes that especially this play of Shakespeare's should be taught and directed within its historical context. Bad-tempered women had to face punishments like carting — a public shaming by being carried through the streets in a cart wearing a metal bit. "Looking at it through an Elizabethan lens," said Schwartz, "Might help us understand that, while treatment toward women in their society was not at all favorable (and things haven't improved much in some parts of the world), we should give Shakespeare a little credit for trying to correct some of the sins of his time."

"The Taming of the Shrew's" main plotline is how Katherina and Petruchio find each other equals. Instead of trying to update the play, Schwartz would rather that the students "walk away from a period piece with a better understanding of that culture."

With that being said, MHP will perform "The Taming of the Shrew" as the Commedia dell'Arte play it is — as Schwartz put it, "a tongue-in-cheek, slapstick poke on marriage and societal norms ... all wrapped up in Shakespeare's never-wavering theme that true love ... should reign supreme." Instead of being cynical about the Katherina's controversial ending speech, in which she says, "Thy husband is thy lord, thy life, thy keeper, thy head, thy sovereign," $\vec{\circ}$ (Act V, Scene II) Schwartz chooses to be [∞] optimistic.

"The script suggests," Schwartz said, "that are in harmony with each other. The lesson marriage is preferable to one that manipulates or dominates."

"I hope that our audiences will be less quick to judge the play if they understand that there is a logical transformation in Kate and Petruchio's relationship," said Schwartz. "Ultimately, I want ... our audiences to see this play as a fun parody of marriage and family relationships, and what, according to Shakespeare, constitutes good ones over rocky one."

MHP's "The Taming of the Shrew" takes place June 20-23 in the Black Box Theatre, 5775 Barclay Dr., Suite 4, Alexandria. Tickets are available at https:// /metropolitanarts.org/tickets. Email questions to homeschool@metropolitanarts.org

ENTERTAINMENT

Mount Vernon Community Band Celebrates 40 Years

By KATHY SHENKLE MVCB Percussion/Pianist

he Mount Vernon Community Band (MVCB) is celebrating its 40th season. Come hear the MVCB's Concert Band at the National Park Service's Summer Concert Series at Fort Hunt Park at 8999 Fort Hunt Road, Alexandria, on Sunday June 16 from 7-8 p.m.

Concert Band rehearsals are held at Mount Vernon High School's Band Room at 8515 Old Mount Vernon Road, Alexandria, every Tuesday from 7:30- 9:30 p.m. Players at any level are welcome without audition. Bring your own musical instrument.

The Mount Vernon Community Band was founded in 1978. The MVCB includes six groups. They are the Mount Vernon: Concert Band, Swing Band, Dixieland Band, German Band, Brass Ensemble, and Flute Ensemble

The band is a volunteer local group of musicians who wish to keep their musical skills in tune. Members include graduating high school students, former military musicians, college musicians, and other Mount Vernon area neighbors.

Each ensemble plays at many types of events: Fourth of July picnics, retirement homes, senior centers, civic association meetings, local government events, the Mount Vernon Yacht Club's annual commissioning, schools, libraries, parks, churches and Oktoberfest events. Concert band performances include marches, light classics, popular show tunes and overtures, and patriotic selections. The band has also played at George Washington's Mount Vernon estate. The band plays concerts and/or background music.

Band members, including the conductor, volunteer their time and represent a wide range of ages, careers and personal interests. The goal of the group is to provide pleasure and service to the community and enjoyment to the members who play music together.

Eric Leighty is the president of the band. See the band's website for conductor biographies, and scheduling information at www.mvbands.com/concert-band/

Owen Hammett Retires From Band

Owen Hammett has been a vital part of the volunteer Mount Vernon Community Band for over 25 years.

He conducted the Swing Band, the Dixieland band, and sometimes the German Band and the Concert Band.

He played the trombone and euphonium in all of the Mount Vernon bands (Concert, Swing, German, Dixieland, and Brass). Last Fall, he played the bass drum in the Concert Band and the German Band.

Hammett has also been the band's logistics expert, manager, scheduler, promoter, and announcer.

It will take five people to do the jobs that Owen has done over the years.

In recent years, Owen Hammett has volunteered with the National Park Service by coordinating, recruiting, scheduling and setting up for the bands playing in the Fort Hunt Park Summer Concert series. He invites all of the Mount Vernon Community Band groups each year.

He played in the volunteer Washington Redskins Band for 10 years.

Owen's past musical resume includes: principal trombone in the University of Alabama Symphony, three years as a volunteer with the band of the Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers Europe (SHAPE), leader of the Saint John's Brass Ensemble (Saint John's Cathedral, Izmir, Turkey). He has been performing big band music since the late 1950s. A native of Alabama, Hammett served in the U.S. Army, and worked as a civilian.

The MVCB has also granted an annual competitive Dale Moore Memorial Scholarship to a graduating senior from the Mount Vernon High School band program since 2002

> United States Navy's official chorus will treat guests to a performance that ranges from traditional choral music to opera, Broadway, and contemporary music. Guests at Workhouse Fireworks will also be able to enjoy local food trucks and craft beer and fine wine, as well as soft drinks. Free admission; $25 per vehicle parking (purchase in advance online). Visit workhousearts.org/ fireworks.

What A Week!

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

The least of it was my pre-immunotherapy lab work on Wednesday and then my actual immunotherapy infusion on Friday. The most of it was my navigating websites and trying to properly complete applications/enrollment forms for the Virginia Unemployment Commission and the Maryland Health Connection.

For a man (me) who fancies himself your go-toguy for sports and chocolate, getting immersed in policies and procedures for government agencies providing unemployment benefits and health care – with our (my wife, Dina and I) respective lives somewhat dependent on the time-sensitive comple tion of said documents, was akin to sending yours truly out to sing the National Anthem at the next Nationals' game. It would be a disaster of titanic proportions (fortunately without the loss of life). As it has been my entire life, I can't sing any more than I can now compute.

As I sit and write this week's column, having barely survived the excruciating ordeal of this past week – with only an in-office visit left to go on Monday – I now have next week to look forward to. And what garden path am I leading you down?

Another week of time-sensitive/computer-centric tasks, of course. Once again I will be sitting at my computer attempting to navigate through another government web site and this time a private sector website, as I try to sign up for Medicare effective Sept. 1, as well as the associated but independent supplemental medical insurance necessary to fill in the coverage gaps that I, as a former insurance broker, know exist.

Granted, with these two tasks I do have some time. I just hope I have the wherewithal.

This past week took a toll emotionally. And I'm not sure if I really want to climb that emotional mountain yet again.

This week's tasks are not any easier. Shooting fish in a barrel they're not. They're more like having to make the barrel and then catch the fish. Not easier said than impossibly done. For a man who knows his limitations, the week ahead will likely test those limitations.

But if not me, then who? Unfortunately, it has to be me. The other party with whom I share a long-standing arrangement has a skill set unsuited to and incompatible with, computers, and the kind of searching/deciphering/hunting and pecking on web sites required for completion of this week's tasks.

Moreover, if I enlist her support or insist on her participation, my present and future will not be enhanced by the experience. She may be a resource in many other respects, but in this respect, she's not.

And I can respect that. Give me a little credit, I've learned something in our 40 years together.

That being said – and understood, I think I'll take the weekend off from such endeavors and prepare myself for next week as I consider the challenges which lie ahead.

I'd like to think I've gained some confidence in the progress I made this past week. I've nearly completed both tasks, tasks which initially seemed almost insurmountable. However, if it were not for the amazingly patient, courteous and knowledgeable assistance I received from the call centers associated with these sites, I'd still be stumbling and stammering (literally) into oblivion.

But as of this past Friday, I've nearly reached the promised land. ("I can see Russia from my house.") I can only imagine the satisfaction I'll feel next Friday when I anticipate I will have completed two more of these tedious tasks and secured yet another part of our financial and emotional future.

Four huge hurdles overcome, but still with a few more yet to go: probably applying for a reverse mortgage and possibly researching a kitchen repovation

Wait a second. Don't I have lung cancer? Jeez, I almost forgot.

With all this other stuff going on, the cancer compartment stayed closed. Now it's open again. Damn, now I really have problems.
