

Autism Speaks 5K Is this Saturday

BY BONNIE HOBBS THE CONNECTION

wen Nuttall loves music, working at a local restaurant and making people laugh. The 20-yearold Centreville resident also has autism; and this weekend, he and his family and many others will participate in the Autism Speaks 5K Run/Walk.

It's this Saturday, Aug. 17, at 9 a.m., outside the Fairfax County Government Center, 12000 Government Center Parkway in Fairfax. And since autism impacts 1 in 59 children in the U.S., this family-friendly event aims to increase understanding and acceptance of the autism

It's the inaugural Autism Speaks 5K in Fairfax, and Owen will be doing it with his family and friends on a 50-member team called Owen's Turn. "Those were the first, two words he spoke," said his dad, Ed Nuttall, an attornev in Fairfax City. "It was while playing a game when he was 6. We've been doing this race in Potomac, Md., for 15 years, so when the organization asked if I'd help put one on in Fairfax, I said yes."

THE NUTTALL FAMILY, of Sequoia Farms, also includes Owen's mom, Anne, the race cochair, plus sisters Emily, 22 - who lives in Boston, but is coming home for the event as a surprise for her brother - and Meghan, 16, who has severe epilepsy and is Owen's best friend. Meghan is in Paul VI High's Options Program, and many Paul VI teachers and students will participate in the 5K, too.

The race also raises money for Autism Speaks, a national nonprofit which advocates for individuals with autism and supports them and their families. In addition, it does state, local and federal lobbying for adults and youth with autism.

"Most recently, it got legislation passed in Virginia giving health insurance to people of any age with autism," said Nuttall. "And that's also thanks to the Virginia Autism Project, another lobbying group that refers people for ser-

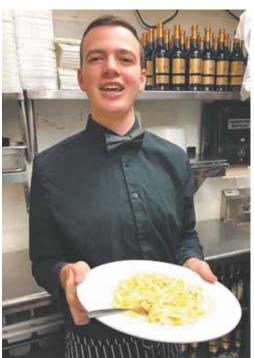

Some 85 percent of the race proceeds will go toward research or local grants for people with autism, and Nuttall hopes it'll raise $50,000. People may participate individually, form their own teams or join existing ones. Entry fees are adults, $40, through Aug. 15, and $45 on race day; and $20 at all times for children 14 and under.

Registration at http://act.autismspeaks.org/ site/TR/TeamUp/ TeamUp?fr id=4551&pg=entry is available until Aug. 15 at 5 p.m. People may also register on race day (get there by 8:30 a.m.). Packet pick-up is Aug. 17 at 7:30 a.m. Those unable to participate, but wishing to contribute to the cause, may donate at the Website, either individually or to any team.

The course is a 3.1-mile loop around the Government Center. Awards go to the top five overall male and female finishers, top male and female finishers age 40 and older, and top three male and female finishers in various age groups. All participants receive commemora- fries, and after his shift, Chef Anthony tive T-shirts and medals. For safety reasons, wheelchairs, strollers, baby joggers, skates, pets and headphones aren't permitted.

As for Owen, his dad says he needs 'roundthe-clock help with the activities of daily living. "He's largely nonverbal, but he understands everything you say," said Nuttall. "His goal is to help people."

He's a 2018 Westfield High grad and currently attends The Davis Center for training in career and employment skills. He also works as a busboy, a couple days a week, a few hours a day, at Ciao Osteria, an award-winning Italian restaurant in Centreville.

"He's been there a year and loves it," said Nuttall. "Everyone treats him really well, and it gives him a sense of purpose and camaraderie. Owen loves to eat French makes fries especially for him."

OWEN also loves music, ranging from opera to The Wiggles. He enjoys running and likes memorizing lines from movies, TV and songs. And, said his dad, "He loves dressing up in a bowtie, shirt, slacks and dress shoes - all the time, every day."

Owen also likes participating in the Autism Speaks 5K, and Nuttall hopes this year's event will get a great turnout. "The run brings everybody in the community together," he said. "And it's a time when Owen can go to something with others like him and be accepted by everybody, without question."

Major sponsors are Carroll & Nuttall, P.C.; Greenspun Shapiro; Virginia Autism Project, Freedom Bail Bonds and Wegmans. To learn more about autism, go to www.AutismSpeaks.org.

Westfield to Celebrate 20th Anniversary

Anthony E. Copeland, PhD, Principal, Westfield High School:

Westfield High School will celebrate its 20th anniversary during the 2019-2020 school year. We will unveil new banners at the Bulldog BBQ — annual kickoff event on Aug. 20. We have launched a fundraiser to renovate our senior courtyard/learning space and purchase new chairs for our Lecture Hall.

We will also have a 20th Anniversary Tailgate for former staff members in October.

All High School students will receive a laptop computer. Our teachers will continue Blended Learning to better incorporate these practices into their skill set.

Westfield staff will continue our work in Cultural Responsiveness as we make connections with our students and each other.

ach year, on the first Tuesday evening in August, people throughout the U.S. gather with first responders in recognition of National Night Out. This community-building and crime-prevention event enables residents to meet and mingle with their local police officers and firefighters, as well as their own neighbors.

This year's event was Aug. 6, and communities in the area celebrated with a variety of activities, including pool parties, ice-cream socials, children's games, face-painting, music and food galore. Below are details of two of the gatherings in the Fair Lakes/Chantilly area.

Fair Lakes Condos

At the 156-unit Fair Lakes Condos, residents gathered at the park off Fair Crest Court for food, fun and camaraderie. "It's our third year doing this," said Debbie Ansman. "We hope to continue to expand it and maybe partner with another community next year."

She said it's important for people to come out and talk to members of the police and fire departments. "If the residents have any questions about crime in the neighborhood, or safety, it's a good way for them to get to know their public-safety providers," said Ansman. "And the kids get to climb on fire trucks and meet police officers and not be afraid of them."

Gavin Page and daughter Regan, 1, have fun at Brookfield's event.

The Fair Lakes Condo Assn. Board put on the event. Attendees munched on chicken nuggets from Chick-fil-A, cookies and chips, and a table full of giveaways included a child-protection I.D. kit,

"We have a great group of people here, and they're what make it a special community," said Property Manager Michelle Johnson. "There's a good mix of families and singles. And it's a really nice location, as well, with mature trees, besides being close to all the amenities in Fair Lakes. It's kind of an oasis."

Abdullah Hamidaddin agreed. "I've lived here three years, and I just love the local area and all the amenities around us," he said. "We're within five minutes' driving distance of shopping centers, grocery stores and all the dining options of the Fair Lakes Shopping Center and the Fairfax Towne Center."

"We're also close to I-66 and have a nice mix of quiet and activities," he continued. As for National Night Out, he called it "A great opportunity to get to know your community and make a connection with your local police and fire departments."

Brookfield

This neighborhood's event was held outside Brookfield Elementary, off Lees Corner Road in Chantilly. Besides the residents and police from the Sully District Station, attendees included Supervisor Kathy Smith (D-Sully).

"I think it's really wonderful to bring our residents and law enforcement together to build community," she said. "It lets people talk to each other and get to know the services offered by our public safety officers. And it's great that the League of Women Voters is here registering people to vote, and the Sheriff's Office is doing child identification."

Resident Gavin Page sat on the grassy field with daughter Regan, 1, who was having a good time playing with a big, polka-dot, beach ball. "We came here to see friends and neighbors," said Page. "And as long as my daughter has a giant ball, she's excited."

Police PFC Taylor DeMarre was there attending National Night Out for the first time. "I like how it brings the community together," he said. "It's important that we're there, as well, to show support for the community and to let people know that we're around if they need us."

On the menu were cold beverages, cookies, crackers and ice cream. And children had fun playing with beach balls and hula hoops and having games of ring toss. Among those enjoying it all was Margie Wheedleton, secretary of the community's homeowners' association, Friends of Brookfield.

"There are people of many different cultures here in Brookfield," she said. "So this event is an opportunity to foster intentional community. People get to come out, meet their neighbors and thank their police officers, firefighters and Sheriff's Office personnel for all they do for us. They also see that, despite our diversity, we share a community and work together to build friendships to make Brookfield the best that it can be."

Home Organization For a New School Year

Accessories and design elements to create a smooth start.

By Marilyn Campbell
The Connection

s a new school year looms large over the horizon, the hectic reality of packing lunches, buying school supplies and making space for new backpacks comes into focus. Making time for home organization can decrease stress before the school bus arrives.

The kitchen is often the of nucleus or command center of a family's home, especially during the school year. To help quell the chaos, Shannon Kadwell of Anthony Wilder Design/Build suggests centralization. "A snack station and breakfast center can be great for letting the kids get food on their own while you get together meals and lunches," she said. "The snack station [can be] a drawer in the kitchen that kids can go into at anytime to get healthy snacks. Granola bars, nuts, crackers, dried fruit, can be pre-measured for individual servings for easy grab and Getting dressed in the morning can become a source of tension, but Sallie Finney Kjos of Grey Hunt Interiors says that she incorporates an elegant design solution into the bedrooms of her clients homes that helps ease the day-break anxiety.

"Get a basket for each kid and roll their outfits for the day, tie them together and place them upright in the basket," she said. "Give your kid independence and let them pick out their own clothes. Not only will their outfits match, but you'll know that they didn't create a mess finding the perfect shirt."

In fact, baskets can offer a versatile and chic method of organization throughout one's home says, Courtney Thomas of home accessories store, The Picket

"Baskets are an easy and often inexpensive way to contain clutter."

— Courtney Thomas, The Picket Fence

Fence. "They are available in endless sizes and styles," she said. "Baskets are an easy and often inexpensive way to contain clutter. Larger ones are perfect for blankets and pillows, smaller ones keep toys corralled, and there are even baskets with file hangers to keep ... papers organized. If baskets aren't your style, we also love using vintage boxes and crates to serve the same function."

Getting creative with clear containers can help maintain order without sacrificing a home's aesthetic, says Thomas. "You can find options that are much more stylish than the traditional plastic tub," she said. "Since they are seethrough it's easy to see what's inside and find what you need. Use mason jars for pencils and crayons." A coffee table can serve double duty as both a home accessory and a clandestine storage space, says Kjos. "They can be a catch all for busy families," she said. "Consider topping them with a few decorative boxes to hold needed items." Over the course of a school year, a home's mud room can become a black hole of backpacks, soccer cleats and lacrosse sticks. "Having a locker with a door for each child gives the mudroom a clean, organized feel," said Kadwell. "The kids don't need to be neat and tidy inside their own spaces."

Back-to-school organization can extend to the laundry rooms, continues Kadwell. "Set up drop stations to have kids drop off clothes that are in need of washing," she said. "Have bins in an easy to get to space for the kids that are labeled whites, darks and towels. Kids can place their clothing in them according to the labels. This helps cut down the laundry time by having them already sorted."

A family calendar to keep track of deadlines, appointments, and events is a must-have, continued Kadwell. "[Place it] at a level kids can see," she said. "This can be a whole wall that you can paint with a magnetic chalk paint and create a paneled wall effect."

Selecting a New Life for Historic Ellmore Farmhouse

Park Authority welcomes comments on curator applications.

By Mercia Hobson The Connection

airfax County Park Authority announced it is asking the public to submit comments in writing by Friday, Sept. 6, 2019, regarding the two applications under review for its Resident Curator Program at the historic Ellmore Farmhouse, 2739 West Ox Road in Herndon. Curators are determined through an open and competitive application process, based on several criteria, including a formal proposal, demonstrated experience, competency in historic preservation techniques, financial capabilities, and the incorporation of public benefits. Completed applications can be viewed online at www.fairfaxcounty.gov/parks/resident-curator-program/ellmore.

The Evaluation Team will hold a meeting open to the public concerning the applications on Thursday, Sept. 12, 9 a.m. in the Park Authority boardroom, 9th floor of the Herrity Building, 12055 Government Center Parkway, Fairfax, but there will be no opportunity for public comment at that time.

In the first of the two cover letters and completed applications sent to Stephanie Langton, resident curator program manager, Applicant #1 stated: "We have been coming to Frying Pan Farm Park for more than a decade with our four children. ... We would enjoy the opportunity to make the Ellmore Farmhouse a place where children can learn and play again. Our children, much like the Ellmore and Smith children, have had the opportunity to spend time learning about farming and caring for animals through the 4-H... Living in the Ellmore Farmhouse would allow us more time to learn and share with others about the original families and animals that lived here on this property."

Regarding skills, Applicant #1 stated: "I do not have any specialized skills in historic preservation projects outside of the general remodeling and construction skills I have learned over the years doing projects on the houses I have lived in... I am a Mechanical Engineer working in Aerospace... On a daily basis, I am required to pay attention to details, follow strict standards, and know the requirements of a task prior to acting on it."

In the other cover letter and completed application, Applicant #2 stated: "After rehabilitation and renovations are completed, ServiceSource proposes using the Ellmore Farmhouse as a "launchpad" for one of our Long-Term and Community Integration Services (LTCIS) programs. A group of approximately 15 people with disabilities and staff will gather at the Ellmore Farmhouse from 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Monday-Friday... ServiceSource has a 47-year history of providing high-quality, innovative programming in Northern Virginia. In FY 2018, we served more than 4,000 people with disabilities through long-term and community integration services, senior services, employment supports, and other services."

Regarding skills, Applicant #2 stated: "To rehabilitate and renovate this historic property, ServiceSource has selected Pizzano Contractors as a partner for this project...Pizzano Contractors was an early adopter in the "Green Building" movement and continues to demonstrate leadership in this area...Pizzano Contractors continue to include LEED design and best practices in their projects... Additionally, Pizzano Contractors has extensive experience in renovating historic properties, including former residences, for modern times-a major asset for the Ellmore Farmhouse project."

According to the Park Authority, the farmhouse is a two-story, 3,300-square-foot property within Frying Pan Farm Park. Members of the Ellmore family occupied the two-story, 12 room home for more than 50 years, operating a productive dairy farm there through 1945. In February 2001, the Park Authority purchased the property for inclusion within Frying Pan Farm Park. The Resident Curator Program provides the opportunity for individuals, nonprofit and for-profit organizations to secure long-term lease agreements in beautiful public park settings. The curator leases are without charge in exchange for a financial commitment towards approved rehabilitation of the Park Authority's underutilized historic properties.

For additional information, visit www.fairfaxcounty.gov/parks/resident-curator-program. Or contact Stephanie Langton, manager of the Resident Curator Program, at 703-324-8791. Web: https://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/parks/park-news/2018/z-ir126.

Don't Monkee Around With Me

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

I mean, he didn't even examine me, which he rarely does. (The CT scan pretty much tells him what he needs to know, so he says.)

In addition (or is that subtraction), he didn't even ask me the standard questions he typically does about my quality of life, activities of daily living and general health and welfare. In fact, near the presumptive end of our appointment, as peculiar and uncharacteristic of an appointment as it was, I felt compelled to blurt out the answers to all the questions that he didn't bother to ask that for years he's always asked: any pain, shortness of breath, coughing, headaches, neuropathy, muscle weakness or any new or persistent symptoms? All he could muster was a perfunctory "Do you need any prescriptions filled?"

And then the semi-out-of-the-blue-bombshell: "Are you familiar with Palliative Care?"

Followed by the offer to refer us to a book that he thought we might find helpful/useful.

Helpful? Useful?

I didn't say it at the time because the entire appointment was so odd and impersonal almost. But WHAT?! Palliative Care? What are you talking about? He has never brought up palliative care before. (Although way back when, he had given us a brochure titled "Final Wishes.")

You see, we know about palliative care. We've attended multiple conferences organized by LUNGevity, "the largest national lung cancer-focused non-profit in the country" where palliative care doctors often have spoken. Palliative Care is not hospice care but it's a transitional level of care to be sure.

If I'm transitioning, I wish somebody would have told me, and not by asking about my familiarity with this type of care.

In a word, palliative care is a type of downsizing, as best as I can describe its subtleties; separate and apart from hospice care which is, if vou don't know it. "the last train to Clarksville." if you get my euphemism (and hopefully someone is meeting you at the station)? But so far as I've been told, I'm not on the last train to Clarksville or any other final destination.

In fact, I rarely take the train. Not that being on or off the train matters when one comes to the end of the line.

Nevertheless, as I review in my mind what my oncologist said this past Monday, I have to wonder if he was feeding me a line, throwing me a line or just reciting a line that is required of oncologists in their regular communications with their cancer patients - a sort of caveat emptor for long-time cancer survivors who are inexplicably still alive (as evidence of such sentiment, my oncologist refers to me as his "third miracle").

But I didn't feel much like a miracle on Monday. I felt more like a dope. Like I was being told something I didn't realize, sort of an emperor has no clothes "something." It was a feeling I had never experienced before; during or after any of our appointments.

Previously, even at the initial Team Lourie meeting in late February 2009 when the hammer came down, I had - though having it in utter disbelief - a grasp of the obvious: "terminal cancer," with a "13-month-to-two-year" prognosis to boot. The particulars of which would be sorted out over the following weeks and months beginning with my first chemotherapy six days later.

And boy were they ever sorted. Ten years and almost six months later, I'm still sorting.

Was I just given an updated "terminal" diagnosis/prognosis or was my oncologist merely having an off day?

Obviously he knows that his words carry enormous weight and significance and create terrible burdens for his patients and their families. But he can't simply toss out the phrase palliative care like it has no impact. Its impact is huge.

It's akin to being hit by a speeding train, the likes of which would prevent one from getting anywhere near Clarksville, let alone being on the Show your support for our organization which continues to be here to support the forces of good in our communities.

Our annual Newcomers and Community Guide is a thematic paper publishing Aug. 28, 2019 for all 15 Connection Newspapers. Deadline is Aug. 22.

If you have a marketing budget, and you value coverage of local newspapers (not just ours), why wouldn't you spend a portion of that budget (any portion) in newspapers? Heed the cautionary tale in the accelerating closures of newspapers recently. Support local news.

For the same reasons that organizations, businesses and campaigns know they want local newspaper coverage, newspaper advertising is an effective way to reach voters, residents, clients. The Connection has an audience of more than 150,000 in print and online, including remarkable demographics. Our readers include local and national decision makers in the public and private sectors.

The deadline for the Newcomers and Community Guide is Aug. 22. Digital enhancements and support are available. More information at email sales@connectionnewspapers.com or call 703-778-9431.

We also need help from our readers for content of our annual Guide.

We're hoping to share special places, activities, events, organizations and volunteer opportunities. What should someone new to your neighborhood know about? What is it that you love most about where you live?

We will publish a selection of local viewpoints along with information useful to newcomers and long-time residents alike, including information on how to vote and more.

Instilling the Virtue of Sacrifice

To the Editor:

Eid-ul-Adha was celebrated on Aug. 11, 2019 after the completion of Hajj, the Islamic pilgrimage to Mecca. Eid is celebrated to commemorate Prophet Abraham's (peace be on him) submission to God's command to sacrifice his son Prophet Ishmael (peace be on him). Muslims emulate this act by offering sacrifice of an animal, such as goat, cow, or sheep.

Through Eid God instills the virtue of sacrifice, social equity, and animal rights.

The Holy Quran states, "Their flesh reaches not God, nor does their blood, but it is your righteousness that reaches Him. Thus, He subjected them to you, that you may glorify God for His guiding you. So, give glad tidings to those who do good" [22:38].

Eid-ul-Adha bears lessons that benefit our spiritual and social lives. First, Eid fosters submission and steadfastness. Through remembering God's mercy to replace Prophet Ishmael with a lamb at the moment of the slaughter, reminds one to remain steadfast. Also, his deference for his father is a phenomenal example of selflessness. Thus, Eid encourages submission and self-sacrifice for human beings as well as for God. Second, Eidul-Adha promotes social equity on these kids justified is prepos-within community as the meat of the sacrificed animal is meant to be shared among relatives, neighbors, and the less privileged. Third, the stringent rules of Zabiha (Islamic way of animal slaughter) promote animal health and safety, humane ways of animal slaughter, and reduce the slaughter of animals during other times of the year. Moreover, when vegetarianism is a trending lifestyle, there is a direction from God that the nutritional needs of humans take precedence over the present-day definition of animal rights.

Senators Urged to Restore Fairness

To the Editor:

I heard, hundreds of children came back from school one day to an empty house, their parents having been taken into custody without warning for being undocumented immigrants. The president has claimed that undocumented immigrants are a threat to the country, but the thought that the parents of schoolchildren constitute any measure of threat that would make the trauma inflicted

I urge Sen. Kaine and Sen. Warner to keep working hard to bring justice and fairness into this country, because we need good people like them in positions of power at this critical moment of our country's history. Any energy they could direct towards trying to abate these terrible policies and bring some relief to these families is both necessary and well appreciated. I urge the Senators to please keep fighting for the best interest of all the American people.

'Summer Break' that Wasn't

To the Editor:

The final school bell rings and rushing to get out of school I can sense a feeling of relief on everyone's face that summer break is finally here.

I am a rising senior in high school and to this day I still do not understand the reason behind summer assignments. The argument many teachers may use is to keep our minds fresh over the summer or to make sure students have a background on the subject before coming into the class on the first day. The reality of it is that high school students' summer breaks are never real breaks. Coming into sophomore and junior year the dreadful SAT and ACT are two tests you cannot move out of the way. The summer is a very popular time to study for these two tests since during the school year, time is of the essence. In addition, students will use endless amounts of time applying to and trying to find the best institution or university where students will spend their next four years. Not to mention a number of high school students, including me, have fallen victim to taking summer courses which you must work on for

As you can see, being a high school student means the summers have little "break" to offer, which means that summer assignments have little priority. Walking into class on the first day you can often see over half the class starting with a zero because of these summer assignments. The fact is that the content in summer assignments are often repeated in class anyway so the easiest fix for students and teachers is to get rid of them.
