Toll Lane Construction on I-66 Calls for Patience

Interchange reconstructions are a big piece of the puzzle.

BY MIKE SALMON
THE CONNECTION

Toll lanes cannot be added to the interstate highways without reconstructing the interchanges involved, and with “Transform 66” underway, drivers know this all too well when they pass through Routes 50, 123, 28 and Lee Highway interchanges on I-66. The quagmire of cranes, beams and trucks are there for a reason, and so are the delays that add to travel times.

The plan on I-66 outside the beltway is to add another lane on each side and turn them into toll lanes so single drivers have a choice to pay the toll for a faster trip or stay in the general purpose lanes, and carpoolers can ride for free. That choice for a single driver might be a $35 toll, as drivers have experienced on the other express lanes during rush hours. But access to the tolling portion of the project requires rebuilding these interchanges to accommodate the additional lane, and this involves lane closures and detours.

Nutley and Vaden Street in Vienna

The work to rebuild the interchange at Nutley Street shifted into high gear last summer, with a few high-tech solutions implemented including a double roundabout interchange, similar to the “diverging diamond,” that has caused panics elsewhere in the state. This involves two roundabouts on either side of I-66.

The bridge at Vaden Street was demolished, and a new bridge will open in September 2020, officials say, but in the meantime, all traffic is being routed to the Nutley Street bridge to cross over I-66. By closing the road at Vaden Street, it “reduces construction timeline of bridge to 12 months vs. 24 months if bridge remained partially open during construction,” VDOT says. Since there are residences close to the bridge demolition site, VDOT is trying to minimize disruption during construction by taking precautions with lighting, dust control, and noise.

According to Lynne Coan with the Town of Vienna, the outreach they have conducted about the construction has been good but the noise was a factor. “We do feel that VDOT is doing a good job of keeping the Town in the loop with info about what’s going on, especially if the impact is close to Vienna,” she said. The bridge destruction at Vaden Street did generate some complaints early on, as did the increased traffic on Nutley Street, “but as of yet we’re not seeing a significant impact,” on the traffic jams, she said.

Route 28 Interchange

The Route 28 interchange along I-66 in western Fairfax County is a big part of the project. Drivers on Route 28 heading north, and trying to get to I-66 east have a more complicated drive now that VDOT closed the ramp and are using a turn at the existing traffic signal.

The area around E.C. Lawrence Park is being redesigned too. The old park entrance from Route 28 permanently closed in December and there’s a new park access road. Near the park though, there is the Braddock Road connection to consider, and an overpass is planned to link Braddock to Walney. Detours for this construction involve a U-turn which could disrupt traffic. When construction is complete in 2022, the new configuration will be a multi-level interchange with 11 new bridges providing separate access to and from the I-66 express and general-purpose lanes.

VDOT acknowledged that this interchange is complicated. The configuration is going from a single level interchange to a two-and-a-half level interchange with connections to both the I-66 general purpose and express lanes, and removing the four traffic signals along Route 28 between the park and Route 29.

“All of these improvements are designed to improve traffic flow along Route 28 and I-66, and provide easy access between Route 28 and I-66 for all travelers,” said VDOT project spokesperson Michelle Holland.

Chain Bridge Road

It’s much of the same at the Chain Bridge Road (Route 123) interchange, except the adjustments for the bike trails that are part of the picture. Throughout the public hearing process, the biking community spoke up, and the engineers made efforts to ensure the bicyclists that their needs were being addressed. The George Snyder Trail is one part they are working to link to another trail along the northern edge of I-66 between the Vienna Metro Station and Route 123.

Route 29 Interchange

The I-66 overpass bridge at Route 29, was demolished in December, incorporating overnight detours, and putting the wheels in motion for that interchange to be rebuilt. The left turn from Route 29 to I-66 east will be closed until later this spring. The new bridge over Route 29 will be wider for additional lanes to be added to Route 29 in the future, and there will be additional clearance to the Route 29 underpass for commercial vehicles.

There was a recent project update meeting at Stone Middle School in Centreville that was attended by about 130 people, Holland said. At the public meeting, VDOT discussed the work happening at the Route 28 and Route 29 interchanges, as well as along Route 28 between I-66 and Westfields Boulevard.

The project is a public-private partnership between VDOT, the Department of Rail and Public Transportation (DRPT), and private partner, I-66 Express Mobility Partners, delivering $3.7 billion of transportation improvements in the I-66 corridor. The project is scheduled for completion in December 2022.

Promises Kept

None of us came to Congress to impeach a president, but each of us took an oath to protect and defend the Constitution of the United States.

BY U.S. REP. GERALD E. CONNOLLY (D-VA)

In 2018, Democrats reclaimed our majority in the House of Representatives with a promise to deliver on bold, progressive solutions to the most pressing issues we face as a nation. Now, one year into the 116th Congress, that promise has been kept.

The House approved more than 400 pieces of legislation last year alone, more than 275 of which are bipartisan. Each of these bills is important and many are even life-changing, but there are several that are particularly worth highlighting.

I cannot go anywhere in our community without hearing how access to healthcare is affecting people's lives. While the Affordable Care Act and Medicaid expansion have increased access, Virginians are still struggling with skyrocketing prescription drug prices. That is why I am so proud the House passed the Elijah E. Cummings Lower Drug Costs Now Act, legislation that will lower prescription drug costs by increasing competition and would allow Medicare to renegotiate lower prices for more than 250 prescription drugs.

Conversations about our gun violence crisis are equally unavoidable. Like far too many communities across America, Northern Virginia is no stranger to the pain and loss wrought by mass shootings. I was Chairman of the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors during the Virginia Tech massacre. I, like so many of our neighbors, will never forget the six young people we buried in the wake of that horrific day.

We need to pass gun control that makes our communities safer. That is why I was so proud the House passed the Bipartisan Background Checks Act and the Enhanced Background Checks Act. These long overdue bills would close dangerous loopholes and ensure that no American can purchase a gun without first clearing a federal background check. We are in the middle of a national crisis, and this legislation is the least we can do to address it.

We have also had important successes for our region — particularly for federal employees. Thanks to Democratic efforts, we finally secured 12 weeks of paid parental leave and a 3.1 percent pay raise for federal employees. As Chairman of the Subcommittee on Government Operations, I successfully led the fight to stop the Trump administration's disastrous proposal to abolish the Office of Personnel Management (OPM). We secured back pay for federal employees following the President's damaging 35-day shutdown, and I held a hearing on the need to provide equal protections for federal contract workers.

Of course, despite our achievements, the last several months of 2019 were not easy for the Congress or the country. None of us came to Congress to impeach a president, but each of us took an oath to protect and defend the Constitution of the United States. That oath demanded we take action in the face of unprecedented wrongdoing by an out-of-control executive. To extort a foreign country to investigate your political opponent is an unconstitutional abuse of power. To solicit foreign interference in an American election is an unconstitutional abuse of power. And the delicate balance of power that underpins our democracy is threatened when a President disregards the Constitution by obstructing Congress to cover up these unconstitutional abuses of power.

Impeachment is a uniquely serious issue, but it isn't the only issue. Through even the most difficult moments, our legislative work never stopped. Last month, the House voted on a bipartisan basis to replace NAFTA with the United States - Mexico - Canada Agreement (USMCA). After months of tough negotiating, Democrats secured a deal that includes the strongest enforcement mechanisms of any U.S. trade agreement, as well as critical victories for workers, lower prescription drug costs, and much-needed environmental protections. We also adopted a bipartisan appropriations agreement to fully fund the government for fiscal year 2020.

These successes are a reminder of the incredible progress our country can make. But they also bring into focus the stark reality that the House of Representatives cannot make laws on its own. Leader McConnell has unilaterally blocked the Senate from debating and voting on 80 percent of the bills that we in the House have sent to his desk — most of them bipartisan, and all of them worthy of consideration. His failure of leadership, however, will not deter us from doing the business of the American people.

As we say goodbye to 2019, you can rest assured that we will build upon the progress we've made and continue to hold the Trump administration accountable in the New Year.

General Assembly Session 2020 Underway

BY KENNETH R. "KEN" PLUM
STATE DELEGATE (D-36)

COMMENTARY

Last Sunday I made my annual winter trek south to the General Assembly session. My two-hour trip is not far enough to get me to sunny weather, but it is far enough for me to be in some hot debates. I stay in a hotel with such proximity to my office that my daily commute is just a walk of a couple of minutes. Going south in the winter may be a vacation for some but for the next 60 days, it is the most intense period of work that one can imagine. Fortunately, I get home most weekends for a brief reprieve.

This trip south has been one filled with great anticipation. For the first time in two decades I am not in the minority! I chair a committee now, the Agriculture, Chesapeake and Natural Resources Committee, that will be acting on many environmental bills. I can expect that bills I introduce will get a fair hearing and most of them will pass. My colleagues and I reflect the population of the Commonwealth more than any previous General Assembly session ever. Not only do we have more women in the legislature, but we have the first ever woman Speaker of the House!

Being a member of the majority party brings enormous responsibility. As the party "in power," we must exercise our duties in ways that are judicious and fair. There is no time for political pay-back. We must shift from campaigning mode to governing mode. Although it may be tempting to do otherwise, we must conduct ourselves in ways towards the minority party members that would be the way we want to be treated in the distant future when we may find ourselves the minority again. Yes, the golden rule should apply even in the legislature.

How exciting it is to realize that in a few short months we will be able to add Virginia to the list of states that have ratified the Equal Rights Amendment even if we are the last needed for ratification. We will strengthen our existing antidiscrimination laws and add to them. We will make our communities safer from gun violence. We will add essential funding increases to our educational and human service programs. We will make critical decisions on protecting our environment and responding to climate change. And more. When all this work is done we have a governor who has pledged to sign our bills into law!

WELLBEING

Giving up alcohol during “Dry January” can have positive health benefits.

Dry January?

The benefits of and strategies for taking a month-long booze break.

After a season filled with Champagne, Whiskey Sours, Gingerbread Martinis and other libations, some might need a break from booze. Dry January, a public health campaign that encourages giving up alcohol until the first of February – can help with that effort. The health benefits of staying dry for a month range from thinner thighs to a fatter wallet.

“It’s very common for people to come home after a stressful day and unwind with a glass of wine or two,” said Alexandria-based substance abuse counselor Sarah Brewer, Ph.D. “But the reality is that while alcohol does seem to make you more relaxed at first, it can lead to anxiety or a depressed mood.”

Weight loss can be a pleasant side effect of abstaining from an evening pour, says nutritionist Kathryn Armstrong, who cites a report by the National Institutes of Health that showed a strong link between weight gain and alcohol. “Basically, the cocktail or wine that you’re drinking has empty calories,” she said. “Also, many people tend to eat, especially junk food when they drink.”

“Another benefit of being alcohol-free for a month is that people often find that they don’t need that glass of wine to relax and unwind from a stressful day,” added Brewer. “Giving up alcohol for a month might give you an opportunity to find explore other relaxation methods like meditation or going for a walk or some other type of exercise.”

“By not drinking you might find that you’ve been using alcohol to help deal with other issues like depression, PTSD or anxiety. In those cases you should get help from a medical or mental health professional.”

— Sarah Brewer, Ph.D.

For those who regularly attend happy hours with friends or have a glass of wine to relax, abstaining during one of the longest months of the year might seem unpleasant or unappealing, says Bethesda-based therapist Carol Barnaby, LCSW. “You might find things to distract you,” she said. “If you’re used to having a drink or going to a happy hour at the same time every day, you can schedule something else during that time so you’re mind isn’t on alcohol. People who enjoy the taste of alcohol might try eating fruit or drinking a fruit flavored sparkling water.”

“If you’re used to having a drink or going to a happy hour at the same time every day, you can schedule something else during that time so you’re mind isn’t on alcohol.”

— Carol Barnaby, LCSW

Attempting to take a break from alcohol might unmask deeper issues, suggests Brewer.

“If you find that you can’t stop drinking, it could mean that you have a problem with alcohol consumption,” she said. “By not drinking you might find that you’ve been using alcohol to help deal with other issues like depression, PTSD or anxiety. In those cases you should get help from a medical or mental health professional.”

Last Saturday's public hearing by the Fairfax General Assembly delegation reminded us that there is not total accord on what we will be doing. About half the audience of around 300 people in attendance seemed to be there to shout down those with whom they disagreed. Their efforts to show support for what they define as their second amendment rights was to violate the first amendment rights of others. The lack of civility in public discourse across the country has found its way to Virginia.

What a shame.

Route 123 Bridge Rehabilitation. Work began Friday, Jan. 3 to rehabilitate the northbound and southbound Route 123 (Chain Bridge Road) bridges over Route 7 (Leesburg Pike) to improve safety for drivers and pedestrians and extend the overall life of the bridges, according to the Virginia Department of Transportation.

Improvements include:
❖ Repairing and resurfacing the concrete bridge decks;
❖ Repairing bridge piers, abutments and bearings;
❖ Painting steel bridge beams;
❖ Repaving Route 123 adjacent to the bridges.
Work will take place exclusively at night. Drivers can expect lane closures on Route 123 and Route

Opening the Floodgates

BY MICHAEL LEE POPE
THE CONNECTION

When they were in the minority, Democrats were mostly united in their views about everything from gun control and reproductive rights to the Equal Rights Amendment. Now that they've seized power, though, members of the newly minted majority are hearing from opposite sides on everything from gerrymandering and labor rights. That push and pull was evident during a legislative hearing of the Fairfax delegation, the largest in Virginia and home of the new speaker of the House and the Senate majority leader. The hearing was dominated by dozens of firearms enthusiasts sporting orange "guns save lives" stickers from the Virginia Citizens Defense League.

"It's important that our board be given the authority to keep guns out of our rec centers and government centers," said Fairfax County Board of Supervisors Chairman Jeff McKay, the first to testify, drawing jeers from the heavily armed crowd.

McKay went through a number of gun control measures Democrats campaigned on last year: universal background checks and limitation on how many firearms an individual can purchase a month as well as a ban on assault weapons to include suppressors, bump stocks and high-capacity magazines. That prompted loud and extensive heckling from the crowd, who responded by yelling loudly that he was a "traitor" and a "communist." Later in the hearing, when gun advocates took the microphone, they warned of "a civil war" if Virginia took action to limit what they view as their Second Amendment rights.

"It's a lot like looking at modern art," said Vincent Dory, who described himself as a rank-and-file member of the Virginia Citizens Defense League. "Modern art and gun control are both extremely confusing to look at, extremely pretentious and extremely ridiculous."

THE DEBATE OVER GERRYMANDERING is one of the thorniest questions before lawmakers, an issue that divides Democrats as they prepare to take control for the first time in a generation. On one side of the debate is supporters of a group called Virginia 2021, which struck a compromise last year between Democrats and Republicans to craft a constitutional amendment that would take the power to draw legislative districts out of the hands of lawmakers and give it to a bipartisan commission. One volunteer with Virginia 2021 even broke into song, crooning to the tune of "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen."

"All rest ye merry gentle folk, let nothing you dismay. Remember gerrymandering will let us get our way," sang

SEIU Virginia 512 president David Broder asks lawmakers to raise the minimum wage, allowing collective bargaining for public employees and pass a homecare workers bill of rights.

Michael Martin. "And save us from all others hopes. They do not have a say. Oh, tidings of corruption and joy."

The proposed amendment passed last year, and because of the amendment process in Virginia it has to pass again this year and then go to voters. But now that Democrats have control of the General Assembly, they would be the ones drawing the maps. Many Democrats say they would be squandering their newfound power by yielding that power to a commission, especially because the maps would likely end up before the Republican-dominated Supreme Court of Virginia. Advocates of the amendment say that can be fixed by enabling legislation that would require a special master draw the districts. But many people associated with Indivisible groups in Northern Virginia are urging lawmakers to vote no on the amendment.

"If I could rid myself of the concerns that I have with respect to that amendment and some of the backdoor was this could work against Democrats, in particular, I would support it," said Luke Levasseur of McLean. "I cannot support it, and I believe that the amendment that we have is not a step forward. It's a step in the wrong direction, sideways, potentially off a cliff."

LABOR ISSUES have long been a

Northern Virginia Democrats wrestle with power now that they have it.

sticking point in Richmond, where the Republican majority and their allies in the business world have resisted the agenda of labor leaders. Now things have changed, and labor unions across Virginia are pressing lawmakers on a lengthy list of agenda items. SEIU Virginia 512 president David Broder asked members of the Fairfax delegation to raise the minimum wage, allowing collective bargaining for public employees and pass a homecare workers bill of rights — slate of bills to make sure homecare workers under the state's Medicaid program get a living wage, benefits and health care.

"Many of us are working longer hours for less pay with fewer benefits than ever before with virtually no rights on the job."

— David Broder,
president of SEIU Virginia 512

"Many of us are working longer hours for less pay with fewer benefits than ever before with virtually no rights on the job," said Broder. "Many of us have two or three jobs just to put together the income that one job used to provide, and so it's no surprise that under the previous Republican majorities OXFAM America ranked Virginia as the worst state for working people two years in a row."

Notably absent from the SEIU's list of priorities was repealing Virginia's infamous right-to-work law, a 1940s era restriction on employers from compelling employees to pay union dues. Broder says his organization has always been in favor of repealing the law, which he says hurts working families. But, he adds, it's not a priority because it wouldn't help as many people as raising the minimum wage or allowing collective bargaining for public employees. Representatives of the American Federation of Teachers and the Fairfax Education Association, however, both outlined repealing the right-to-work law as a top priority.

"They would be more appropriately named right-to fire-laws or right-to-work for less laws," said David Walrod of the Fairfax County Federation of Teachers. "By stripping employees of the right to collectively organize and have a collective voice, the power is returned to CEOs rather than employees."

Obituary

George Russell McLean, beloved father, Papa and friend, passed away on Friday, December 13, 2019. George was born on December 19, 1942 to Melvin and Hazel McLean of Lillington, North Carolina. He grew up in Harbinger, NC and was a graduate of Knapp High School. He went on to attend the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill graduating in 1966. George played on the basketball team under Dean Smith in his inaugural season at UNC. He spent his summers during college on the Outer Banks, working and managing the Seafare restaurant and the Nags Head hotel.

George relocated to Northern Virginia coaching and teaching Physical Education at James Madison High School, where he would remain until retirement. He led the men's varsity basketball team as head coach from 1973-1988, mentoring many young men on and off the court and holds the school record for the most wins, with 206. During his tenure he was named Coach of the Year five times while winning four district championships and appearing in six regional tournaments. He was inducted into the James Madison High School Hall of Fame in 2003.

George retired to Nags Head, NC where he enjoyed golfing, fishing, and spending time with his seven grandchildren. He was an avid storyteller and never met a stranger. George was one of a kind and will be missed by many.

He is survived by his three children: Kelly Hayman (Shaun) and their children Andrew, Trent, and Morgan of Nags Head, NC; Chrissy Evans (Lynwood) and their children Ginger, Anna McLean, and Webb of Greenville, NC; and Rusty McLean and his son Finley of Nags Head. He is also survived by his brother Jon McLean (Pam) of Birmingham, Alabama and beloved friend Pat Voss of Nags Head. George was predeceased by his wife Virginia (Ginger) Kelly McLean and his brother Melvin McLean.

Join family and friends in casual attire for a celebration of his life at Sugar Creek Restaurant, 7340-A S Virginia Dare Trail, Nags Head, North Carolina on Saturday, January 11, from 3:30-5:30pm. Share a George story or memory with georgestories19@yahoo.com or George McLean Jr, PO Box 294, Nags Head NC 27959.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to a high school athletic booster club of your choice.

❖ Nonprofit Leadership Award — Joe Meyer, Executive Director and CEO, Shelter House

Meyer is the dynamic leader enabling Shelter House to continue to grow its mission to address the issues of homelessness and domestic violence in our community. As Executive Director and CEO he is focused on fostering a culture of excellence, mentoring and inspiring his team, and engaging each individual, from the highest state official down to each volunteer, and the clients they serve to reach their potential.

❖ Corporate Leadership Award – Individual: Shirley Luu, Founder and President, Shirley Luu Associates

Luu loves working with people, enjoys educating and empowering women and men to prepare them financially for retirement. Powered by First Financial Security, Shirley Luu and Associates, brings the latest in financial services, concepts, and products to improve the saving habits, health insurance, family protection, and wealth building of its clients.

❖ Trustee Leadership Award: Linda Mathes, CEO, American Red Cross – National Capital Region

Mathes demonstrates vision on a national, regional, and local level. Her awareness of the broad vision of the American Red Cross led her own efforts to ensure they are organizationally aligned. Regionally, following local and national disasters, Mathes mobilizes the community in support of disaster response, readiness and preparedness activities, raising funds, and recruiting large entities to support her vision, including the Active Shooter Symposium, Disaster Preparedness Summit, and multiple Urban Areas Security Initiative grant.

Karen Cleveland, CEO and President of Leadership Fairfax, said: “With these awards, we celebrate the selfless dedication and accomplishments of individuals and organizations whose work is central to our mission to develop, engage, connect and inspire community leaders.” Nominations for the 2020 Northern Virginia Leadership Awards open in September 2020, and community representatives are encouraged to submit nominations.

Leadership Fairfax headquarters are located at 8230 Old Courthouse Rd., Ste 100, Vienna. To learn more, call 703-752-7555 and visit leadershipfairfax.org.

OMG

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

Are you sitting down? I wasn't when I got the call from my oncologist after hours this past Thursday. He was calling me with the results from the previous week's biopsy. He said he had “exciting news.” He said the biopsy was not only “typed” (genetic mutation/biomarker) but, as he continued to bury the lead using medical jargon about the slide and stain, finally got around to it: I may not have (or have had, still to be discussed/possibly determined) non-small cell lung cancer, stage IV. Instead, I may have (always had) thyroid cancer, specifically, papillary thyroid cancer, referred to as “the friendly cancer,” by my oncology nurse the following infusion when I shared with her these preliminary findings. ‘Friendly’ referring to one's survival/life expectancy after diagnosis.

Moving forward to begin/confirm this new working diagnosis, I had an ultrasound of my thyroid the next day and Friday the following week, Team Lourie will be meeting with an endocrinologist. She (I saw her picture on the wall outside her office) presumably will have had a discussion, or at the very least, received an email/referral from my oncologist citing chapter and a few verses about who I am, how I've been treated, what scan/results I've had and of course, the news of this most recent biopsy, explaining why he reached out. I really don't expect, given my oncologist's excitement, and the fact that he called me (only the second time in nearly 11 years) that the endocrinologist will be likewise informed and possibly even excited to share a similar diagnosis with a previously-characterized as “terminal” patient who (yours truly) might not be “terminal” after all. ‘Might not’ being the operative phrase I'm still having difficulty grasping.

Somehow, I have to slow my roll and pull back on the reins. We're still early days here. Right now, I don't know anything definitive, so I'm not quite ready to call this a “Festivus miracle.” Though at present it all sounds fairly promising, it's not exactly cast in stone. and neither has a revised Thyroid-cancer-treatment plan been put in place. I'm still a lung cancer “diagnossee” and one still waiting for the other shoe to drop. Therefore, until I'm told otherwise, as of now, I'm scheduled for my bi-weekly opdivo immunotherapy infusion on Jan. 3, 2020.

Now, why all of this is worth writing about, prematurely as it is, is that oncologists, almost by definition, are typically not the bearer of “exciting news.” Generally speaking, they are giving bad news and saying it very directly at that. As was said to me in late February 2009: “Why not take that vacation you've always dreamed of while you're still feeling good?” The implication being quite clear that it's likely to get worse from here. To receive a call like I did Thursday from my oncologist now implying that it might get better from here is completely out of the ordinary. Moreover, if he initiated such a communication, I should probably take him at his words and take him very seriously.

Right now, I am possibly elated to be over the moon. However, it's not as if I've been given a clean bill of health. Cleaner, yes, but one still with a significant balance. And until I look the endocrinologist in her stethoscope and hear some magic words, I am keeping my powder dry and not shouting off my mouth - too much.

Cancer is a funny business. There are twists and turns and unexpected results, much of it not controlled by the doctors. And though I may be on the precipice of being blessed with some amazing, life-altering news, this time for the unbelievably good, I am still a week, maybe even weeks away from knowing with any certainty. In the interim, however, I am certain of one thing. If this change in my status does occur and I'm given back my life expectancy, somehow, I will try and return the favor.

Coach McLean Remembered

Before the start of the game a moment of silence for former Madison Coach George McLean, who died recently. McLean coached the Warhawks from 1973-1998 and holds the school record for wins at 206. During his tenure he was named Coach of the Year five times while winning four district championships and appearing in six regional tournaments. He was inducted into the James Madison High School Hall of Fame in 2003. McLean played for Dean Smith at the University of North Carolina in Smith's inaugural season.
