THE CONNECTION

Friends of the Fairfax County Animal Shelter (FFCAS) – the shelter's nonprofit, fundraising partner – ensures that animals needing life-saving medical care beyond the shelter's budget limitations, receive it. And with the shelter opening its doors and its heart to more than 5,000 animals a year, that's a tall order.

But by making this money available – as well as funds for animal behavior-training, parasite prevention, dental care and community outreach – the Friends help the shelter in its efforts to offer each animal the best opportunity to find a permanent, loving home. And toward that end, FFCAS recently established a tribute garden at the shelter to help raise money for the animals.

THE NEW GARDEN is at the shelter's front entrance, and shrubs, plants and benches will also be added. But besides being an attractive addition, it's also a special way for people to honor and remember their own pets while helping other animals get adopted.

"For years, we wanted to do something at the entrance and also give people an opportunity to make donations in honor of their pets, friends, family members, etc.," said FFCAS President and co-founder Evelyn Grieve. "We're very excited about this. We thank the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors and the shelter for supporting it. We're hoping this will be a really pretty place for people to come."

The idea is for the garden to serve as a place for visitors to rest and reflect, a thank-you for contributions and a garden for everyone to enjoy. So the community is invited to be part of a limited, commemorative opportunity by purchasing personalized, engraved bricks.

The bricks in the tribute garden are contained within these images of a dog and a cat – the shelter's logo.

The bricks may be inscribed in honor or in memory of an animal or animal lover, or with the donor's name or the name of a family or business. Each brick is 4x8 inches; cost is $200/brick, and each has up to three lines – with 12 characters per line – available for inscription. For more information, email the Friends at generalinfo@ffcas.org or go to www.ffcas.org for ordering instructions or to donate to the tribute garden.

The shelter's logo – a dog and a cat – is replicated in bricks in the garden, and these are the bricks that will be engraved. "It brightens up the building and calls more attention to it," said Grieve. "And since it's also a patio with a quiet place to reflect, it'll be a nice place for people to think about their former pets, as well as a spot where others can take photos of their newly adopted animals."

DIGNITARIES at the garden's groundbreaking included then-Fairfax County Board of Supervisors Chairman Sharon Bulova, former Sully District Supervisor Michael Frey and former shelter Director Karen Diviney, plus several FFCAS members and volunteers. And despite below-freezing temperatures, they were all delighted to participate.

"I'm thrilled," said Frey, after whom the shelter is named and who's also on the FFCAS Board. "It's a creative way to try to raise money, and that's our purpose. We do a lot of things that many people assume the county pays for, such as flea-and-tick treatment, dental work, behavioral training and surgeries to make the animals more adoptable."

"And for me, it's a continuation of my life-long cause [to improve animals' lives], but I realize there are limits to what the county can fund," he continued. "So this garden provides an opportunity for us to raise money, while enabling people to have a special place to go and remember the pets and other loved ones in their lives. It's also a nice enhancement for the shelter and a really pretty addition to the front."

GreenDrop Donation Site Opens in Centreville

GreenDrop, the organization revolutionizing charitable giving, announced the opening of its Centreville donation center. The second site in Fairfax County will provide residents an easy way to declutter their homes and earn tax deductions early. Conveniently located behind Chipotle and Bonefish Grill, the company began accepting donations on Jan. 1, 2020 at 6317 Multiplex Drive in Centreville.

As local residents resolve to start the new year right, the center will offer another safe and convenient way to organize after the hectic holiday season and recycle gently used items. The donations will provide critical funding for recognized, national charity partners including American Red Cross, Military Order of the Purple Heart and National Federation of the Blind.

This is GreenDrop's second launch in the Fairfax County area in four months as the company opened the doors of its Springfield donation site a few miles away at 8094 Rolling Road in October.

"We're continuing to expand our commitment to providing donation options for northern Virginia residents," said GreenDrop CEO Tony Peressini. "It is our mission to become an integral part of the community and serve for years to come."

GreenDrop makes it easy. Upon arriving to the Centreville location, a friendly uniformed attendant will meet donors at their vehicle to collect gently used items while they select their partner charity of choice. In return, donors will receive tax deductible receipts for the value of the items donated.

With more than 28 charitable donation centers located throughout Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Virginia, Maryland and New York, GreenDrop is transforming the way consumers support their favorite charities by donating lightly worn clothing, used electronics and household goods at conveniently-located, free-standing locations throughout the Mid-Atlantic region.

For more information about GreenDrop, visit the web site at www.GoGreenDrop.com.

WELLBEING

Giving up alcohol during "Dry January" can have positive health benefits.

Dry January?

The benefits of and strategies for taking a month-long booze break.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
THE CONNECTION

After a season filled with Champagne, Whiskey Sours, Gingerbread Martinis and other libations, some might need a break from booze. Dry January, a public health campaign that encourages giving up alcohol until the first of February – can help with that effort. The health benefits of staying dry for a month range from thinner thighs to a fatter wallet.

"It's very common for people to come home after a stressful day and unwind with a glass of wine or two," said Alexandria-based substance abuse counselor Sarah Brewer, Ph.D. "But the reality is that while alcohol does seem to make you more relaxed at first, it can lead to anxiety or a depressed mood."

Weight loss can be a pleasant side effect of abstaining from an evening pour, says nutritionist Kathryn Armstrong, who cites a report by the National Institutes of Health that showed a strong link between weight gain and alcohol. "Basically, the cocktail or wine that you're drinking has empty calories," she said. "Also, many people tend to eat, especially junk food when they drink."

"Another benefit of being alcohol-free for a month is that people often find that they don't need that glass of wine to relax and unwind from a stressful day," added Brewer. "Giving up alcohol for a month might give you an opportunity to find explore other relaxation methods like meditation or going for a walk or some other type of exercise."

For those who regularly attend happy hours with friends or have a glass of wine to relax, abstaining during one of the longest months of the year might seem unpleasant or unappealing, says Bethesda-based therapist Carol Barnaby, LCSW. "You might find things to distract you," she said. "If you're used to having a drink or going to a happy hour at the same time every day, you can schedule something else during that time so you're mind isn't on alcohol. People who enjoy the taste of alcohol might try eating fruit or drinking a fruit flavored sparkling water."

"If you're used to having a drink or going to a happy hour at the same time every day, you can schedule something else during that time so you're mind isn't on alcohol."

"By not drinking you might find that you've been using alcohol to help deal with other issues like depression, PTSD or anxiety. In those cases you should get help from a medical or mental health professional."

— Sarah Brewer, Ph.D.

Attempting to take a break from alcohol might unmask deeper issues, suggests Brewer.

"If you find that you can't stop drinking, it could mean that you have a problem with alcohol consumption," she said. "By not drinking you might find that you've been using alcohol to help deal with other issues like depression, PTSD or anxiety. In those cases you should get help from a medical or mental health professional."

Centreville Man Is Charged with Murder

Fairfax County police have arrested Jeremiah Mouzon, 20, of Centreville, in connection with the Dec. 30 murder of an Alexandria man. Detectives from the Major Crimes Bureau began investigating, early that morning, after receiving a report about two people who were shot in a residential neighborhood in Mount Vernon.

Officers responded to the 7900 block of Sausalito Place around 2:30 a.m. and found Kamren Quick, 18, of Alexandria, outside. Police say he was suffering from an apparent gunshot wound, and officers removed Quick to a safe area nearby for treatment by members of the Fire and Rescue Department. Afterward, he was taken to a local hospital with serious injuries that were later determined to not be life-threatening.

However, inside a home, police discovered the body of Jayden Quick, 20, of Alexandria, dead from an apparent gunshot wound. According to police, detectives do not believe this crime was a random act of violence; and after the incident, they worked extensively to identify the suspect. Once they did so and determined he was Mouzon, detectives from the Fugitive Unit began tracking his whereabouts.

Through their investigative leads, they received information that he was in Maryland. Detectives coordinated his arrest with the Prince George's County Police Department, and Mouzon was safely taken into custody by police there, pending his extradition back to Fairfax County. He was charged with second-degree murder, malicious shooting and use of a firearm in the commission of a felony.

OMG

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

Are you sitting down? I wasn't when I got the call from my oncologist after hours this past Thursday. He was calling me with the results from the previous week's biopsy. He said he had "exciting news." He said the biopsy was not only "typed" (genetic mutation/biomarker) but, as he continued to bury the lead using medical jargon about the slide and stain, finally got around to it: I may not have (or have had, still to be discussed/possibly determined) non-small cell lung cancer, stage IV. Instead, I may have (always had) thyroid cancer, specifically, papillary thyroid cancer, referred to as "the friendly cancer," by my oncology nurse the following infusion when I shared with her these preliminary findings. 'Friendly' referring to one's survival/life expectancy after diagnosis.

Moving forward to begin/confirm this new working diagnosis, I had an ultrasound of my thyroid the next day and Friday the following week, Team Lourie will be meeting with an endocrinologist. She (I saw her picture on the wall outside her office) presumably will have had a discussion, or at the very least, received an email/referral from my oncologist citing chapter and a few verses about who I am, how I've been treated, what scan/results I've had and of course, the news of this most recent biopsy, explaining why he reached out. I really don't expect, given my oncologist's excitement, and the fact that he called me (only the second time in nearly 11 years) that the endocrinologist will be likewise informed and possibly even excited to share a similar diagnosis with a previously-characterized as "terminal" patient who (yours truly) might not be "terminal" after all. 'Might not' being the operative phrase I'm still having difficulty grasping.

Somehow, I have to slow my roll and pull back on the reins. We're still early days here. Right now, I don't know anything definitive, so I'm not quite ready to call this a "Festivus miracle." Though at present it all sounds fairly promising, it's not exactly cast in stone. and neither has a revised Thyroid-cancer-treatment plan been put in place. I'm still a lung cancer "diagnossee" and one still waiting for the other shoe to drop. Therefore, until I'm told otherwise, as of now, I'm scheduled for my bi-weekly opdivo immunotherapy infusion on Jan. 3, 2020.

Now, why all of this is worth writing about, prematurely as it is, is that oncologists, almost by definition, are typically not the bearer of "exciting news." Generally speaking, they are giving bad news and saying it very directly at that. As was said to me in late February 2009: "Why not take that vacation you've always dreamed of while you're still feeling good?" The implication being quite clear that it's likely to get worse from here. To receive a call like I did Thursday from my oncologist now implying that it might get better from here is completely out of the ordinary. Moreover, if he initiated such a communication, I should probably take him at his words and take him very seriously.

Right now, I am possibly elated to be over the moon. However, it's not as if I've been given a clean bill of health. Cleaner, yes, but one still with a significant balance. And until I look the endocrinologist in her stethoscope and hear some magic words, I am keeping my powder dry and not shouting off my mouth - too much.

Cancer is a funny business. There are twists and turns and unexpected results, much of it not controlled by the doctors. And though I may be on the precipice of being blessed with some amazing, life-altering news, this time for the unbelievably good, I am still a week, maybe even weeks away from knowing with any certainty. In the interim, however, I am certain of one thing. If this change in my status does occur and I'm given back my life expectancy, somehow, I will try and return the favor.

Kenny Lourie is an Advertising Representative for The Potomac Almanac & The Connection Newspapers.

BY PAT HERRITY
SPRINGFIELD DISTRICT SUPERVISOR

The past year was a great year here, and as a numbers guy, here are a few of the many highlights I would like to share with you:

- ❖ In 2019, Fairfax County recycled over 3 million pounds of clean glass with the new Purple Bin Program with plans in place to start true glass to glass recycling in 2020.

- ❖ We started a pilot program with two non-profit partners modeled after the "There's a Better Way" program to provide the dignity of work for people who are unemployed and between housing to clean up our streams.

our annual Fairfax County Teen Job and Opportunity Fairs.

General Assembly Session 2020 Underway

BY KENNETH R. "KEN" PLUM
STATE DELEGATE (D-36)

Last Sunday I made my annual winter trek south to Richmond for the General Assembly session. My two-hour trip is not far enough to get me to sunny weather, but it is far enough for me to be in some hot debates. I stay in a hotel with such proximity to my office that my daily commute is just a walk of a couple of minutes. Going south in the winter may be a vacation for some but for the next 60 days, it is the most intense period of work that one can imagine. Fortunately, I get home most weekends for a brief reprieve.

This trip south has been one filled with great anticipation. For the first time in two decades I am not in the minority! I chair a committee now, the Agriculture, Chesapeake and Natural Resources Committee, that will be acting on many environmental bills. I can expect that bills I introduce will get a fair hearing and most of them will pass. My colleagues and I reflect the population of the Commonwealth more than any previous General Assembly session ever. Not only do we have more women in the legislature, but we have the first ever woman Speaker of the House!

Being a member of the majority party brings enormous responsibility. As the party "in power," we must exercise our duties in ways that are judicious and fair. There is no time for political pay-back. We must shift from campaigning mode to governing mode. Although it may be tempting to do otherwise, we must conduct ourselves in ways towards the minority party members that would be the way we want to be treated in the distant future when we may find ourselves the minority again. Yes, the golden rule should apply even in the legislature.

How exciting it is to realize that in a few short months we will be able to add Virginia to the list of states that have ratified the Equal Rights Amendment even if we are the last needed for ratification. We will strengthen our existing antidiscrimination laws and add to them. We will make our communities safer from gun violence. We will add essential funding increases to our educational and human service programs. We will make critical decisions on protecting our environment and responding to climate change. And more. When all this work is done we have a governor who has pledged to sign our bills into law!

Last Saturday's public hearing by the Fairfax General Assembly delegation reminded us that there is not total accord on what we will be doing. About half the audience of around 300 people in attendance seemed to be there to shout down those with whom they disagreed. Their efforts to show support for what they define as their second amendment rights was to violate the first amendment rights of others. The lack of civility in public discourse across the country has found its way to Virginia. What a shame.

I am honored to be here, and I am going to do my best to fairly represent your interests. Make a trip south to see me and the legislative process over the next couple of months. To live-stream the legislative sessions, go to <https://viriniageneralassembly.gov/house/chamber/chamberstream.php> for the House and to http://virginia-senate.granicus.com/ViewPublisher.php?view\_id=3 for the Senate sessions.
