GROW AND PLANT UNDERWATER GRASSES

Volunteers are needed across Virginia to restore native underwater grasses by growing them at home, school, or work through the Chesapeake Bay Foundation's Grasses for the Masses program. These wild celery grasses grow underwater in Virginia's tidal rivers and offer many benefits for both wildlife and clean water. While submerged grasses in Virginia have been seriously depleted by pollution, they are beginning to make a comeback.

To participate, volunteers must attend one of several upcoming workshops in the area. Volunteers then grow grasses from seed in trays submerged in the provided tubs. They nurture these grass sprouts until late spring, when they will transplant their grasses to restoration sites in the James, Rappahannock, Chickahominy, and Potomac rivers. Advance registration is required. Participants will receive a self-contained indoor growing kit, seeds, and instructions at any of the following workshops:

- In Northern Virginia, on Jan. 22 at Daniels Run Elementary School in Fairfax and on Feb. 2 and Feb. 8 at Alexandria ReNew Enterprises; there is a $40 fee per grass growing kit. Visit www.cbf.org/grassesworkshops.

401st VA General Assembly reconvenes with a tsunami of filed legislation.

BY MERCIA HOBSON
THE CONNECTION

When the Virginia General Assembly reconvened for the 60-day 2020 Session, the week opened with a series of firsts. The first time since 1993, Democrats took the reins with a trifecta: In the 2019 election, they garnered decisive majorities in the House of Delegates and state Senate, with a Democratic governor.

Women rose to power in numbers and leadership positions. Gov. Ralph Northam announced the new 'Virginia 2020 Plan', and with it said, "The landscape has changed."

For the first time in a long time, Republicans could not stop the Democrats from advancing landmark legislation such as the Equal Rights Amendment, gun policies and climate control measures. Democratic legislators, many from the Fairfax County delegation filed bills and resolutions, rallying in support of the 2020 Plan.

TUESDAY, JAN. 7 - With Speaker-designee Eileen Filler-Corn (D-41), incoming Senate Majority Leader, Richard L. Saslaw (D-35), incoming House Majority Leader Charniele Herring (D-46), and incoming Senate Caucus Chair Mamie Locke (D-2) standing by, Northam talked about his 'Virginia 2020 Plan.' "It's more forward-looking," he said.

The 11-Point Plan includes: pass the ERA; restore women's reproductive rights; ban discrimination in housing and employment; raise the minimum wage; make voting easier with no-excuse early voting and make Election Day a state holiday; reform criminal justice by ceasing suspending driver's licenses for unpaid fines; advance common-sense gun safety measures, universal background checks, "Red Flag" laws, restore one gun a month limits; fight climate change; protect natural resources; increase education funding including free community college for low- and middle-income and people going into high-demand fields with in-state tuition for DREAMers; and expand transit and broadband.

Incoming Senate Majority Leader Saslaw (D-35) said they were going to be sure that Virginia became a better place to work and do business.

Speaker-designee Filler-Corn added: "We intend to protect Virginia's greatest assets."

WEDNESDAY, JAN. 8 - The Virginia General Assembly officially reconvened. Outside the capitol building, demonstrators aired their concerns — ERA, gun reform, climate change, and more.

Inside, shortly after 1 p.m., applause welcomed Del. Filler-Corn as she entered the House floor before being sworn in as House Speaker by Virginia Supreme Court Chief Justice Donald W. Lemons. House Speaker Filler-Corn became the first woman and first Jewish person to hold the office.

"This session brings many firsts. We will have the first women of color to lead committees and have a historically diverse group of committee chairs and vice-chairs. And these leaders are Members of the most diverse House of Delegates in Virginia history. This House is not only diverse in terms of race or Lawmakers elected Eileen Filler-Corn as the 56th Speaker of the Virginia House of Delegates and the first woman to hold the role in the 401-year history of the body. "We were the country's first legislature, and I strongly believe that Virginia can lead — by showing the country the rewards that collaboration can bring," Speaker Eileen Filler-Corn said in her address.

gender. The Members of this House represent a wide range of experience, thought, orientation, religion and backgrounds... The people demanded we act on many areas where Virginia has lagged behind. This House will pass the Equal Rights Amendment. And we will address discrimination in our laws. We will take common sense measures to prevent gun violence and keep Virginians safe. And, we will address the threat that climate change poses to our entire Commonwealth, especially our coastal communities."

Del. David Bulova (D-37), later said, "I couldn't be more proud of my colleague Eileen Filler-Corn, who my wife and I have called friend for more than 20 years."

That evening, Gov. Northam, 73rd Governor of Virginia, delivered the annual State of the Commonwealth address. He highlighted accomplishments and shared his vision to continue building a "stronger, fairer, and more equitable Virginia," he said.

Afterward, Sen. Dick Saslaw (D-35) tweeted, "This evening, @GovernorVA delivered a resounding message that the state of our Commonwealth is strong! VA is a better place to live and work for so many people. I look forward to the progress the Senate can deliver working with Gov. Northam over the coming months."

Attorney General of the Commonwealth of Virginia Del. Mark Herring tweeted, "I'll be pushing to Decriminalize marijuana Resolve past convictions Move toward legal adult use Pass the ERA Pass common-sense gun safety laws Address the rise in white supremacist violence Stop predatory lending Let's go."

FRIDAY, JAN. 10 - By early morning, the Virginia Legislative Information System posted 2,574 bills and resolutions filed by delegates and senators for the 2020 Session.

The Burke Lake Seniors Golf Club is about more than just playing a round of golf.

THE CONNECTION

On the surface, a prerequisite for joining something like the Burke Lake Seniors Golf Club would be to know how to play golf. That wasn't the case for Jerry Gold and Gary Falconer, members of the club that weren't golfers when they joined, but now head the social committee for this club that uses the Burke Lake Golf Course as a social gathering place for seniors more than anything else.

The Burke Lake Golf Course has all the ingredients they need and although it is a public course operated by Fairfax County, the club members developed a sense of community around the course. There is a big club house that serves beer and light foods, the course is only a par-three so walking for a round of golf isn't too strenuous, and it's not too costly. Perfect for the retired men and women around the Burke area, and being in the club fosters a social aspect that many seniors don't have.

"We're a very inviting group," said Gold.

Course manager Lewis Musolf has seen that too. When a golfer comes in alone, "they get paired up with others and by the end of the day, they come walking in and they're best friends," he said.

One time, while teeing off, one of the club members' ball sliced off and hit Gold in the knee, and while it was painful at the time, "we've been good friends ever since," he said.

The club started in 1982, and the minimum age is 50, so not everyone's retired. There are about 126 people in the club, which includes 80-year-old Ellie Anderson, who takes Uber to

Del. David Bulova (D-37) introduced HB 1012

Early childhood care and education; establishment of system, licensure. “A child’s earliest experiences - and particularly those in the critical years between birth and age five - have lifelong impacts on their likelihood of success. However, according to statistics from the Virginia Department of Education, 40 percent of students entering kindergarten lack the key literacy, math and social emotional skills that predict success. Further, only 25 percent of Virginia’s early childhood programs that receive public funding participate in the state’s voluntary quality measurement system. I am pleased to be carrying House Bill 1012 on behalf of the Governor, which directs the Board of Education to consolidate and simplify Virginia’s early childhood education programs and create a uniform quality rating system for programs that accept public funding. This will improve quality, foster continuous improvement, and help parents better understand their options. As the parent of three children, this is very important to me. I have personally witnessed the difference that a quality pre-school program has made on my children.”

Sen. Jennifer Boysko (D-33):

My top priority is recovering the local funding for our regional transportation. Today (*Monday - Jan. 13), I cast my first votes on the Senate Judiciary Committee and was able to vote for four life-saving bills to prevent gun violence: universal background checks, giving municipalities local control about allowing firearms in government buildings, a red flag law and restricting gun purchases to one gun a month. Last week I cast my first vote on the Senate Privilege and Elections Committee to make Virginia the 38th state to Ratify the ERA.

Del. Ibraheem Samirah (D-86)- introduced HB 152 Middle housing allowed on lots zoned for single-family use. “Middle housing is defined as two-family residential units, including duplexes, townhouses, cottages, and any similar structure. Such structures shall not require a special use permit or be subjected to any other local requirements beyond those imposed upon other authorized residential uses.” Samirah said, “Across the country, there is a shortage of affordable units that is putting a squeeze on working families and contributing to rises in rents for existing units...I will certainly get pushback for this”

Del. Mark Keam (D-35)

HB 572 Distributed renewable energy; promotes the establishment thereof. Del. Keam said, “This bill would free up the solar market, not only for local governments... but also for residents, businesses, schools, institutions and non-profits that want to install solar for their own use... (It would) remove the rule that limits customers to installing only as big an array as would have served their needs in the past year ... Today, residential customers are penalized with so-called “standby charges” if they install more than 10 kilowatts of solar (enough for a larger home, or a modest home with electric vehicles) ... Many Virginians do not have access to solar at all, especially if they live in rental apartments or condominiums, because the building owners are not allowed to install solar panels and sell the output to tenants. My bill would make this legal.”

Sen. J. Chapman Peterson (D-34) introduced SB 26 Plastic bags; tax in the Chesapeake Bay Watershed which imposes a five-cent per bag tax on plastic bags provided to customers by certain retailers in localities located wholly within the Chesapeake Bay Watershed and directs revenues to be used to support the Chesapeake Bay Watershed Implementation Plan.

Sen. Scott Surovell (D-36) introduced SB 436 Establishment of the Virginia Voluntary Do Not Sell Firearms List; penalty. The bill creates the Virginia Voluntary Do Not Sell Firearms List (the List) that prohibits the possession, transportation and sale of firearms to any person who voluntarily registers himself to be enrolled into the List.

Del. Karrie Delaney (D-67) introduced HB 547 Virginia Energy and Economy Transition Council; established, report. The bill establishes the Virginia Energy and Economy Transition Council, consisting of 28 members, to develop plans to assist the Commonwealth in transitioning from the use of fossil fuel energy to renewable energy by 2050

Del. Paul Krizek (D-44) introduced HB 15 Public school buses seat belts. The bill requires the Board of Education to make regulations to require each new public school bus purchased for the transportation of students to be equipped with a seat belt consisting of a lap belt and shoulder strap or harness in every seat. He also introduced HB 16 Safety belt system; all occupants of motor vehicles to utilize.

Eagle Scout Projects at the Fairfax Station Railroad Museum

Two Eagle Scout projects were completed at the end of 2019 at the Fairfax Station Railroad Museum. Greg Arpin of Troop 1137 (Centreville) and Patrick Comer of Troop 995 (Springfield) led separate projects to improve the museum's nature walk area.

Greg and his fellow Scouts extended the hard surfaced path deeper into the station's wooded areas while Patrick and his troop's Scouts constructed a water conservation and drainage system that helps preserve existing trails and natural runoff. Jack Migliaccio, President of The Friends of the Fairfax Station commented, "We have benefitted in so many ways over the years from Scout projects. We are truly grateful."

The Museum is located at 11200 Fairfax Station Road in Fairfax Station. www.fairfax-station.org, www.facebook.com/FFXSRR, 703-425-9225.

FCPS Students Get One Day for Civic Engagement

Beginning Jan. 21, 2020 FCPS students in grades 7-12 will be allowed one partial school day absence each school year to participate in civic engagement activities.

"Historically, students in Fairfax County, with its proximity to the nation's capital, have been engaged in civic activities. Civic engagement is something that is emphasized in our government classes and the new regulation recognizes that our students are offered multiple opportunities to participate because of our location," said FCPS School Board Chair Karen Corbett Sanders.

Under the revised regulation, students and parents must complete the appropriate prearranged absence form and include documented evidence of participation in an organized event or activity. Parents or guardians must authorize student participation and are responsible for their students' participation. Other than those activities required by FCPS course curriculum, civic engagement activities are optional. As such, civic engagement activities are not supervised by FCPS staff.

Civic engagement could include a wide variety of activities, including meetings with elected officials, volunteering for a campaign or participating in other activities within the community.

"The new regulation makes sense for our students as they can learn firsthand about the important role each of us can have in our communities," said Corbett Sanders.

Environmental Benefits and Lower Electric Costs

Fairfax County awards solar power purchase agreement contracts.

BY MERCIA HOBSON
THE CONNECTION

After Fairfax County's June 2019 release of a request for proposals for roof-mounted and canopy/carport-mounted solar installations at 113 sites, and following its evaluation of the proposals and negotiations, County officials announced on Dec. 10 contracts with multiple solar power purchase agreement service providers.

The County awarded contracts to three teams of solar providers. They are Sigora Solar/Standard Solar, BrightSuite, a subsidiary of Dominion Energy, /Sun Tribe Solar, and Ipsun Solar/SunLight General Capital, according to county officials. The contracts allow for the installation of solar photovoltaic arrays at Fairfax County government, school and park sites, and provide the potential for both substantial cost avoidance and environmental benefits over time.

"Fairfax County is excited to take a major step toward a more sustainable energy future," said Bryan Hill, Fairfax County Executive. "Implementing on-site solar will hopefully lower our electricity costs as we support our Board of Supervisors adopted priorities. Fairfax County is striving to promote and encourage the use of renewable energy as we reduce our carbon footprint. We are committed to making choices around energy resources that benefit the residents of Fairfax County now and in the future," he said.

According to Fairfax County, this is the largest solar power purchase agreement initiative by a local municipality in Virginia to date. Kambiz Agazi is the director of the county office of Environmental and Energy Coordination. He said when the County asked fifteen solar companies, it included 113 potential sites as a sample to the companies showing the possible program magnitude. The County could increase the number of sites or reduce the number of sites he said, taking into consideration the impact of tree canopies, orientation, and such on solar gain for given sites.

The United States Environmental Protection Agency defines a solar power purchase agreement as: "A financial arrangement in which a third-party developer owns, operates, and maintains the photovoltaic (PV) system and a host customer agrees to site the system on its property and purchases the system's electric output from the solar services provider for a predetermined period."

SOME OF THE KEY BENEFITS to a host customer using the agreements are, according to the Environmental Protection Agency, there are no installation, management and maintenance costs; the solar power service provider is responsible. Also, the host customer avoids other traditional barriers to the installation of on-site solar systems such as complex design and permitting processes. A third benefit is that the contracts established by Fairfax County with the solar power purchase agreement vendors are rideable, said Agazi. This means neighboring jurisdictions - cities, towns, municipalities, and the like could also take advantage of the competitive rates and reduce their greenhouse gas emissions. They would be guaranteed the same with solar photovoltaic arrays installed on their government buildings, town offices and such according to Agazi. A fourth significant benefit to the host customer is the contracts include favorable electricity rates that, in most cases, are fixed for the duration of the contracts according to Agazi "They will be selling us electricity at power rate lower than incumbent electric Dominion Energy, Inc. and Dominion Virginia Energy," he said. Finally, the solar power purchase arrangements can be cash flow positive for the host customer from the day the system is commissioned. According to Fairfax County: "This initiative could potentially yield over $60 million in electricity cost avoidance over the terms of the contracts." Agazi said the term length is 25 years.

While cost avoidance is important, solar power purchase agreement contracts offer significant environmental benefits as well. "Over the contracts' terms, approximately 1.73 million megawatt-hours of clean, renewable energy could potentially be delivered to Fairfax County facilities - an amount roughly equivalent to the electricity used by 213,680 homes in a single year. In terms of greenhouse gas reductions, the contracts have the potential to avoid the emission of more than 1.2 million metric tons of carbon dioxide equivalent or an amount comparable to the emissions of 260,155 passenger vehicles over the course of one year," according to County.

IN RETURN, the solar services provider or another party acquires valuable financial benefits, such as tax credits and income generated from the sale of electricity, according to the Environmental Protection Agency.

"We're excited to be partnering with the County in a movement that's good for our students, families, and our environment," said Fairfax County Public Schools Superintendent Scott S. Brabrand. "Lower energy costs through solar power purchase agreements will enable FCPS to save millions of dollars while freeing up additional funds for classroom investments. We look forward to working with the County to expand this initiative to as many FCPS schools and facilities as possible. Our solar investment will also become an amazing learning lab for our students to reinforce the value and sustainability of solar energy," said Brabrand.

According to Fairfax County officials: "This initiative is one piece of a larger set of strategies and actions Fairfax County is undertaking to address energy and climate-related issues. With the advent of the newly established Office of Environmental and Energy Coordination (OEEC), the County is placing a renewed and concerted focus on energy use both in county facilities and in homes and businesses. The OEEC is principally responsible for the Community-wide Energy and Climate Action Plan and will engage county residents and stakeholders to devise a plan to reduce greenhouse gas emissions in the coming year."

Beautiful, Bold, Soothing: Classic Blue

Dependable, stable and calming are the characteristic of the Color of the Year for 2020.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
THE CONNECTION

Dependable, stable and calming are the characteristic of the Color of the Year for 2020. For the past 21 years, Pantone Color Institute has announced a “Color of the Year,” which the self-proclaimed authority on color says will be on trend during the year ahead. Local designers share how the color can be used in a home’s interior.

“Classic Blue is a beautiful and bold, yet soothing color reminiscent of the evening sky and the deep blue ocean,” said Keira St. Claire of Anthony Wilder Design/Build in Bethesda, Maryland. “Soft, rich and versatile, this color has the potential to inject creative confidence into your interiors.”

From an accent wall in a child’s bedroom, throw pillows or a kitchen backsplash to a home’s front door, mailbox or shutters, Allie Mann, designer and senior interiors specialist at Case Design/Remodeling suggests a variety of ways to use classic blue. “Perhaps as a ceiling color to draw your eye up or add interest,” she said. “As a powder room wall color or vanity, this bold color will work well in the tiniest of spaces including the back of a bookcase or built-in, a reading nook, a laundry room or mudroom or as cubbies.”

Whether bold or subtle, St. Claire said the design options are plentiful. “Opt to incorporate this color in your home with decorative accents like throw blankets, pillows, rugs, and artwork and even kitchenware to add a pop of color without feeling over-saturated,” she said. “Repurpose old pieces [or furniture]. A fresh blue lacquered coat of paint would magically transform an old chair or dresser into a unique statement piece.”

For the courageous homeowner, St. Claire suggests a bolder approach. “Paint your walls or refinish your kitchen or bathroom cabinets in blue or upholster a large piece of furniture like a sofa or armchair in blue,” she said. “Introduce other complementary colors like olive greens, golds or magenta to really offset the color and make a statement. Classic blue doesn’t have to be the only pop of color.”

Adding the color gradually is what Amanda Mertins of Patina Polished Living in Alexandria, Virginia suggests. “Infuse it into your home and fashion design in bits and pieces,” added “Maybe you paint an accent wall classic blue and let that be the focus. The color blue is kind to many colors and therefore easy to use in a room as an accent color. You can also mix varying shades of blue.”

“Classic blue is just that, it’s classic and timeless and can be weaved into many design schemes,” said Mann. “Do not be afraid of color.”

SATURDAY/FEB. 8

Fairfax Symphony Orchestra. 8 p.m. At GMU Center for the Arts, 4373 Mason Pond Dr, Fairfax. Violinist Simone Porter is the virtuoso soloist in Vivaldi's dazzlingly imaginative evocation of the sights, sounds and sensations of the Italian seasons. The Four Seasons violin concertos are so richly detailed you can feel the sirocco of summer, hear the dancing villagers of Autumn and slip on the ice of a Venetian winter. The master of the New Tango, Ástor Piazzolla, brought the wild dance of Buenos Aires into the concert hall. There's an apt nod to Vivaldi in Leonid Desyatnikov's sensational string arrangements of the Estaciones Porteñas, but they have an atmosphere that's unique to Buenos Aires – fiercely sensual in summer, hazy and melancholic in winter, all moving to the heartbeat of the tango. Vivaldi's seasons unfold Piazzolla's in this dance around the year. Prices begin at $25; $15 for students. Visit the website: <https://cfa.gmu.edu/>

Girls on the Run Celebrates 20 Years

Inspiring girls to be strong, confident and healthy.

It's a new year and Girls on the Run of Northern Virginia (GOTR NOVA) is celebrating its 20th year of empowering girls to be confident, healthy and strong. Since it began in 2000, Girls on the Run NOVA has served more than 70,000 girls throughout the region. And, every step taken has a story.

This program for girls in third through eighth grade encourages participants to recognize their individual strengths and celebrate connections with others. Each season, girls gain a better understanding of who they are and what's important to them, the value of teamwork and healthy relationships, and how they can have a positive impact on the world. Running is woven into the program to inspire healthy habits and teach life skills including treating others with care, practicing gratitude and managing emotions. The season culminates with the Girls on the Run 5K event that provides girls with a sense of accomplishment and instills the value of goal setting at a young age.

Studies show that by adolescence, girls' confidence drops about twice as much as boys'. Friendships become more complicated and challenging, girls' perception of their academic ability declines, the likelihood of anxiety and depression increases and participation in physical activity plummets. Girls on the Run NOVA provides girls the lifelong tools they need to face challenges.

An Arlington coach shared a highlight from this past Fall during their team's practice 5K: "A girl cried with pure joy at the end of our 5K practice. She was so proud of herself." Another coach from Falls Church described a girl who during her seventh season of Girls on the Run NOVA became a real leader with the younger members of her team.

"We are excited to celebrate 20 years of strong girls throughout the entire year. At GOTR NOVA we believe strong girls become strong women who build strong communities," says Nicole Wright, GOTR NOVA's Interim Executive Director. "The program's success is a result of the hundreds of dedicated volunteer coaches who mentor and lead teams in their communities and our generous supporters who ensure financial barriers do not prevent any girl from having access."

In 2020, Girls on the Run NOVA will celebrate this monumental anniversary with activities throughout the year. As well as continuing their focus on growth in Prince William and Loudoun Counties, increasing the number of participants receiving financial assistance, and aim to serve more than 80,000 by start of 2024.

They will kick off their 20th year with program registration for the Spring 2020 season opening on Jan. 27. Teams are now forming around the region at the course, and keeps her clubs behind the counter at the pro shop. Management doesn't mind, and it's that kind of relationship that keeps things lively.

"Golf's not an aerobic sport but it's good to get out and walk," Musolf said.

The golf club has a deal with the course that members of the club staff the positions as starter and marshal throughout the day. The starter sits out front and each golfer has to check in with the starter before starting, and the marshal rides around in a cart to make sure the groups are moving hole to hole, and not backing up the course. In return, they get to play at a senior rate, and talk to people all day. "We get everybody to cross-pollinate whether they like it or not," said Gold. Some volunteers take those skills and volunteer for other Professional Golfers Association tournaments in the area.

Joining the club is not too expensive, and they have two annual meetings a year for everyone to participate and catch up with other club members they haven't seen in a while. At the meeting, they have raffles and drawings all day, and most of the items raffled are donated from area businesses that support community activities. The meeting is usually held at PJ Skidoos in Fairfax, so they raffle off a couple of PJ Skidoos meal coupons, meal coupons from Glory Days in Burke, gift cards from Dick's Sporting Goods at Springfield Town Center, or even a sweatshirt from the Burke Lake Pro Shop.

"The local community has been fantastic," said Falconer.

The club is always looking for more members, and prospective members can get information at the pro shop about joining. There is no website or social media channels connected with the club, but this is one area they are working on. "It's going to be part of our discussion this year," said Gold.

Teeing Off

The course at Burke Lake has gone through a couple of changes in the last few years. The club house was rebuilt and expanded to a 4,000-square-foot facility with additional seating and food serving capabilities, and the driving range was expanded as well. The putting green was moved and the back nine and front nine were switched around, so what used to be the first tee is now number 10 and the old number 10 tee is now the first tee. The reason for the switch, according to Musolf, was to increase the sales at the snack bar, and increase pedestrian traffic through that area. "Our sales have increased dramatically," he said.

Still Waiting for "Canswers"

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

As I half expected, with my oncologist out on vacation this week, he and the endocrinologist didn't speak. As a result, after sitting in the examining chair, the first question the doctor asks is "So you have thyroid cancer?" I snickered and said something like "Hopefully," before I began to elaborate. Though she had access to my medical records, I can't say she was prepped and ready for our appointment. As she listened to my story, I could she see was simultaneously trying to review my medical history on her computer. In fact, as I hemmed and hawed in response to some of her medical questions, I kept saying/pointing to her computer for her to get the proper answer.

Nevertheless, eventually we were able to move forward in the determination of exactly what kind of cancer I have: thyroid cancer or lung cancer - or both (it's possible, she said). To that end-result, the doctor performed a biopsy on my "Adam's Apple" tumor, as I call it. The biopsy I had two weeks prior was from a lymph node. The results from which caused my oncologist to call me with his "exciting news." Apparently, those results were not enough for the endocrinologist (who had never seen me before) to make a definitive judgment, so in her office, that day, this second biopsy was performed. Fine with me since a second biopsy from a different tumor is absolutely moving the ball forward, as if is so often said these days; I just hope it leads to a touchdown instead of another possible fumble.

For the last nearly 11 years, I've been diagnosed with non small cell lung cancer, stage IV. Now after two biopsies, not so much. Right now, the assessment of my cancer status is somewhere between a definite maybe and a confirmed I don't know.

Will I now know - in another week's time (when the results of this most recent biopsy are confirmed) whether my non small cell lung cancer is actually thyroid cancer or will there be additional biopsies, additional diagnostic scans, injections of isotopes, etc., to make a once-and-for-all confirmation of what the heck is going on (or has been going on) in my body? If so, it's been a long time coming. I first went to the Emergency Room Jan. 1, 2009 so it's sort of an anniversary of sorts as I write this column. I'd just as soon we get it right this time, if in fact it was ever wrong.

I have a few questions, some of which were answered by the endocrinologist. Yes, I can have two types of cancer. Could my lung cancer have changed to become thyroid cancer? No. And the underlying curiosity/question: During this cancer life that I have lived, I have been told - and seen multiple times on discharge-type paperwork I've received that I have "metastatic cancer" meaning that the cancer has moved. Moreover, when one considers the staging aspect, my cancer was stage IV. Stage IV means, among "relevancies," (like inoperable) that the cancer has moved from its "primary" location. I remember asking my oncologist where did my lung cancer come from (I'm a lifelong non-smoker with no cancer history in my immediate family). His answer, if I recall correctly, and I may not due to "chemo brain," a confirmed side effect of chemotherapy) was that he didn't know, and if I further recall correctly, he wasn't particularly interested in finding out and accordingly no additional tests were ordered. Perhaps we misunderstand the need to know now or misunderstood the answers we were given then (Feb., 2009). But as of this past Friday, Team Lourie is sort of wondering as was the endocrinologist.

As of this moment, our focus is on hearing back from the endocrinologist. Until then, we'll try to move forward. What's done is done and we'll hear back when we hear back. I have what I have (and have had what I've had) and right now, all we can do is wait.

That being said, we are having a little difficulty restraining ourselves. We can't get past the fact that my oncologist called us in the first place, and in the last place, if he wasn't so sure, why call us and get our collective hope sky high? Why go out on such a presumptive limb? In spite of that call, somehow, we have to internalize and compartmentalize and try to synthesize fact from fiction. So far, it's proving extremely difficult.
