The LOVEworks at Workhouse Workhouse Arts Center to unveil transformed Virginia Tourism LOVEworks sign.

The Workhouse Arts Center has announced the unveiling of the Virginia Tourism LOVEworks sign permanently located on the Workhouse campus Quad on Friday, Feb. 14, 2020 at 10 a.m. This event is open to the public.

A ribbon cutting will take place after remarks from several county executives, including Supervisor Dan Storck, Visit Fairfax President & CEO Barry Biggar, and Workhouse Arts Center President & CEO Ava Spece. A pop-up coffee bar hosted by Dunkin' Donuts and other treats will be available.

The unveiling will be part of a week-long celebration of love that also includes The Chocolatier, a culinary workshop (Friday, Feb. 7, 6-9 p.m.); Couples Yoga and Cacao Chocolate Tasting (Saturday, Feb. 8, 1-3 p.m.); the Second Saturday Art Walk (Saturday, Feb. 8, 6-9 p.m.); and Couples Therapy: A Comedy Show by Rahmein Presents (Friday, Feb. 14, 8 p.m.)

Artist Marlon Diggs, "Marly McFly," transformed the Virginia Tourism LOVEworks sign at the end of 2019. He was selected by a jury from an open call for artists to have their work featured on the LOVEworks sign. Using acrylic and spray paint, the transformation took a total of 4 days.

The LOVEworks sign permanently located at the Workhouse Arts Center has undergone an artistic transformation and will be unveiled Friday, Feb. 14, 2020 at 10 a.m.

McFly found inspiration in the word "love" and created a collage of facial expressions communicating this term of affection. Through layered and intertwined colorways, graphics and texture, his work represents a melting pot of culture.

He rooted the artwork by acknowledging the LOVEworks sign's location through the incorporation of brick and archway visual elements, each representative of the Workhouse Arts Center's history.

The LOVE letters, representing the "Virginia is for Lovers" slogan, is Fairfax County's first permanent Virginia LOVEworks sign. Last summer, as part of the state's celebration of the iconic slogan's 50th anniversary, Visit Fairfax, the county's official tourism organization, held a ribbon-cutting for the sign before sending it off on an 11-stop tour of Fairfax County, highlighting the various visitor experiences within the destination.

"Visit Fairfax is thrilled that Fairfax County's first official LOVEworks sign now has a permanent home at the stunning Workhouse Arts Center, a place that brings together the county's past and present in a beautifully rich way and truly showcases the power of art," said Barry Biggar, Visit Fairfax President & CEO. "Visitors and residents will enjoy snapping photos with the sign and spending time at this gem of an attraction in Fairfax County."

Workhouse Arts Center is a vibrant organization located at a unique site which offers engaging opportunities and inspiring experiences in visual and performing arts, history and education. Public art is important to enriching communities, igniting imagination, encouraging thought and brightening our common spaces.

New Heliport for the Fairfax County Police is in the Works

Upgraded facility will address the safety and efficiency of this county asset.

BY MIKE SALMON
THE CONNECTION

In the first week of the new year, the Fairfax County Police Helicopter Division flew off to 10 missions ranging from missing persons calls to an overturned boat and river rescue in Prince William County. There are situations coming up all year that require more than just a squad car, so when the division showed the need for an updated helipad out at their base in Chantilly, the county came through with $13 million and is now making it a reality.

The Police Department has identified the Police Heliport at the West Ox Road Complex as a critical facility in need of renovation/expansion or replacement. The facility has exceeded its intended life cycle and no longer meets the needs of the Police Department. The facility is deficient in office space, classroom space, parts storage space, paramedic training requirements as well as staff locker areas. In addition, the current helicopter bay size is inadequate to perform efficient and safe maintenance procedures, police officials said.

When the new heliport was looked at by the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors in early January, Supervisor Pat Herrity (R-Springfield) supported the move. "I am delighted that the police heliport, including the helicopter pad, will finally receive the much-needed upgrades and repairs," he said. "These improvements will create a more secure area for the police helicopter, safer conditions for the officers, and enable first responders to better serve the residents of Fairfax County."

As part of the 2015 Public Safety Bond Referendum, $13 million dedicated for the new Police heliport was approved as part of the FY 2020-FY 2024 Adopted Capital Improvement Program.

Currently, the existing heliport is enclosed only by a guard rail that extends along the western side of the property along Academy Drive, and partially along the northern side between the wet pond and the helicopter facility, and partially along the south side along the access road to the vehicle services building. This rail is two and a half feet high and provides no security for the police staff, operations and equipment. The helicopter building itself as well as the parking area are openly accessible to the public. An eight-foot, non-climbable, security fence is proposed to surround the heliport area.

The heliport is part of a larger county operations area to include the Fairfax County Fire Academy in the west of the building, and the Department of Vehicle Services building in the south. There are no residences in the immediate surroundings that could be impacted. The view from West Ox Road is shielded by existing vegetation.

Per the Zoning Ordinance, the property line along West Ox Road is considered the front yard. The zoning ordinance would be modified to permit the fence height along West Ox Road to be increased from four feet to eight feet. This modification will also permit an increase from seven feet to eight feet along the other three sides of the property.

This item has been coordinated with the Department of Planning and Development. "Currently, there are roughly 150 helicopter missions a month and over 80 medical evacuations a year throughout Fairfax County," Herrity added. "We must continue to equip our law enforcement members with the necessary tools to keep our communities safe," Herrity said.

'Fly Neighborly'

There has been complaints about helicopter noise in Northern Virginia, and while many of the helicopters flying around are military, the Fairfax County Police Department adopted a policy they call "Fly Neighborly," with these steps to reduce noise.

❖ When responding from Fairfax Base to events that are not time critical, pilots should climb over the area of the landfill to an altitude of at least 1200 feet before proceeding on course.

❖ When returning to Fairfax Base, pilots should maintain a minimum altitude of 1200 feet until intercept of a steeper than normal glide path to the base.

❖ Flight operations between the hours of 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. are limited to essential police and medevac missions.

❖ Vary landing and departure courses at Fairfax Base and remain over the landfill as much as possible.

❖ Avoid noise-sensitive areas when possible.

❖ Select routes over areas of high ambient noise levels when possible.

❖ Maintain an altitude of at least 1,000 feet when possible.

❖ Avoid fast cruise speeds when not responding to missions.

❖ Avoid sharp maneuvers.

❖ Use steep takeoff and descent profiles.

Reception Highlights Area Charities

BY SUSAN LAUME

New Fairfax County Board of Supervisors (BOS) Chairman Jeff McKay hosted a new year's reception for citizens at the Government Center, on Jan. 30, continuing a tradition observed by former Chairman, Sharon Bulova.

Receiving citizens for comments and photographs, the Chairman also collected donations for charity. Those attending were encouraged to bring items for the municipal animal shelter and for the county's neighborhood community service effort to fight hunger.

Some, like the "Save Blake Lane Park" grassroots group, came to remind the Chairman of their cause. Supported by the Northern Virginia Conservation Trust, and Friends of Accotink Creek, the group seeks to preserve what they describe as their "island of green space" in Oakton against construction of a needed new school. Says Jennifer Pradas, a teacher and resident of the area, "Every tree counts; other school alternatives need to be reviewed." Adds Dennis Allerton, "It's not too much to ask to have both," referring to needs for adequate schools and green space.

Chairman McKay seems to agree. While visiting the park during his campaign, he said, "Green spaces are limited... Where we have an opportunity like this to protect an environmental treasure in a community, we need to be able to do that."

Others, like Mary Jackson, of Reston, came "Just to see what's going on." Mary works to be sure young people understand the importance of voting and get registered.

Citizens meet County Board Chairman Jeff McKay.

Police Chief Ed Roessler was available to speak with citizens. He described his office's three primary functions: 1) prevent and fight crime, 2) preserve the sanctity of life, and 3) keep pace with urbanization in policing, a nod to the growth and challenges of policing in high rise buildings and with the growing urbanization of the county.

The County's "Stuff the Bus" program, highlighted for donation by Chairman McKay, is a food collection partnership to fight hunger in our neighborhoods. Weekly through February, the bus makes stops at local grocery stores to collect food and household items. A schedule of stops is available at the County's Neighborhood Community Services calendar, at <https://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/neighborhood-community.../calendars>.

The Fairfax County Animal Shelter is an open municipal shelter with an outstanding animal placement rate and vibrant volunteer program. More information and the Shelter's wish list for donations can be found at <https://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/animalshelter>.

District, County Present Ongoing Changes

At Mount Vernon Town Hall Meeting citizens get a front-seat view of projects underway.

In the Mount Vernon District, there are a number of developments on the planning board that will improve the district and make life a little better for the residents. Those projects and a whole lot more were featured at the Mount Vernon Town Meeting on Feb. 1 at Mount Vernon High School.

“The Mount Vernon district is renowned for its scenic beauty, civic activism, hospitality, history and diversity; and we are balancing these assets with 21st century opportunities,” said Supervisor Dan Storck (D-Mount Vernon).

This was Mount Vernon’s 33rd annual town meeting and a good opportunity for the residents of Mount Vernon to find out what’s going on. Greeting the visitors in the lobby were six poster boards of things that were in the works, with descriptions, schedules and price tags for all to see. There is a new $11.9 million Woodlawn Fire and Rescue Station in the works, and it is scheduled to open in 2024, read the one of the posters. Other district projects include the future South County Police Station and animal shelter; the Lorton Volunteer Fire Department Station; the Lorton Community Library redevelopment; and the old Mount Vernon High School redevelopment. In addition, the United States Army’s National Museum is opening at Fort Belvoir on June 4, possibly attracting an estimated 700,000 visitors a year, the Army said.

The cafeteria at Mount Vernon was full of county service representatives handing out information and answering questions. The Fairfax County Sheriff's office, the Richmond Highway Bus Rapid Transit, Mount Vernon Lion's Club, bicycle representatives, animal control and others lined the room. Smoke detectors were on the agenda for the Fairfax County Fire and Rescue. "Last year we did thousands of alarm replacements," said representatives Wyleng Liew. "We recommend monthly testing," she said.

At the animal table, coyotes were a topic of discussion, and animal control expert Katherine Edwards knows about coyotes, who have been sighted in the Northern Virginia area over the last 10 years. People often confuse coyotes with foxes since they look similar. "We're getting more and more sightings, this time of the year is mating season," she said.

In addition to the county facilities at the event, there were a few political tables as well. The Fairfax Democrats set up right by the door, and promoted their candidate in several races, and Republican candidate Mark Ellmore was set up a few tables down. He is a candidate this spring against Representative Don Beyer (D) in the 8th District with several "red" points on his platform like securing the nation's borders, low taxes and second amendment rights. "There's no voice for moderation," Ellmore said.

Holly Dougherty represented the Mount Vernon-Lee Chamber of Commerce and was concentrating on activities in Richmond that could impact the chamber. "A lot of anti-business legislation in the General Assembly," she said.

The new Army Museum is scheduled to open June 4, 2020.

Elected Officials Speak

In the auditorium, Storck was joined by suffragist re-enactors and special guest speaker Congressman Gerry Connolly, who opened this portion of the event with formal remarks. Connolly was followed by other local leaders, including new Board Chairman Jeffrey C. McKay and new EDA President and CEO Victor Hoskins, who spoke about the State of Mount Vernon, economic revitalization of the Richmond Highway Corridor, updates on District

Storck declared 2020 the Year of the Woman and recognized Virginia's appointment of the first female leader of the House of Delegates and the passage of the ERA, as well as the recent opening of the Lucy Burns Museum and the opening of the Turning Point Suffragist Memorial in August.

"It is an honor and a privilege to be your Mount Vernon District Supervisor," Storck said. "Together we have accomplished much, and I know we will accomplish far more in the future."

Important Bills Are Moving

BY SCOTT SUROVELL
STATE SENATOR (D-86)

In the fourth week of our historic General Assembly session, both the Senate and the House of Delegates voted to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment after a 50 year battle. Our Clerks transmitted the ratifications to the Archivist of the United States of America and now the battle moves to Congress and the courts. We had a lengthy debate in the Senate on repealing unnecessary restrictions on women's access to reproductive health, including requiring an intrusive, medically-unnecessary ultrasound before seeking an abortion and rules designed to make abortion clinics extremely expensive to construct. The Senate voted 20-20 and the Lieutenant Governor broke the tie to approve the measure.

On Tuesday, the Senate Commerce and Labor Committee passed my legislation to eviscerate predatory lending in Virginia. The bill provides a 36 percent interest rate cap with monthly fees that result in annual percentage interest rates (APR's) of 50-110 percent, depending on the length of the loan. The longer the loan, the smaller the rate. The bill would prohibit the 267percent loans currently allowed at title lenders, businesses that have exploded along U.S. 1 and online loans currently made at rates exceeding 400 percent. I expect a tough Senate floor fight. The House has already passed similar legislation.

The Senate Transportation Committee approved my bill to repeal the 2004 law requiring drivers to prove legal status to obtain a Virginia driver's license. I have worked for five years with Senator Jennifer Boysko and Republican Delegate Rob Bloxsom to pass this bill. The implementation of federal Real ID rules eliminates the need for drivers to prove legal status which is required for a Real ID compliant driver's license and this proposal is the top priority for my Hispanic constituents. It will make our streets safer and enhance everyone's quality of life. Imagine trying to live in our society without a driver's license.

On a 33 to seven vote, the Senate passed my legislation prohibiting drivers from using handheld phones in moving vehicles. Similar legislation is moving through the House and enactment looks promising. This will reduce accidents and make our roads safer.

My legislation to empower Northern Virginia localities to hold retailers accountable for failing to control their shopping carts passed the Senate 20 to 19. To me, this is like someone, in effect, allowing their property to be stolen thousands of times and continually expecting others to clean up the mess. I am thankful for support from Board of Supervisors Chairman Jeff McKay and Supervisors Rodney Lusk and Dan Storck who have promised to implement this authority when enacted.

The Senate approved my bill to prohibit hydraulic fracturing or "fracking" east of Interstate-95 and now the House of Delegates will consider it.

On Jan. 27 and 28, my eight Puller Institute only the recognition they deserve, but it will pave the way for other states and even nations to recognize and embrace equal rights as well. If we—as residents of the state of Virginia—are one step closer to becoming a more equal and inclusive community, then we must hold a responsibility to report on these views and enlighten others along the way.

Don't Abolish The Death Penalty

To the Editor:

It's become quite clear that the movement to abolish the death penalty has reached Virginia. Death penalty opponents have suggested replacing it with life without parole (LWOP). They advocate for it as a more humane alternative to execution. That it's "punishment enough." Except you shouldn't believe that death penalty opponents will keep LWOP

Recent legislation in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, and Vermont is seeking to end LWOP, using the exact same arguments that have been used against the death penalty. "Few civilized countries have LWOP, it's too harsh," et cetera. The movement to abolish the death penalty has become a moving of goalposts, as opponents from West Potomac, Mount Vernon, Hayfield, Osborne Park and Brooke Point High Schools visited Richmond. They met with the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, other elected officials, government relations professionals and were interviewed for public access cable television. I look forward to their project submissions.

Mike Rizzo, the General Manager of the Washington Nationals baseball team also visited us and I learned that many Nationals' employees, including the team's Communications Director, live in the 36th District (It's an easy Metro ride or commute to and from Nats' Park!).

A few of my bills found their lives cut short. The Senate Finance Committee continued my proposal to reinstate the estate tax to the next session. The bill exempted family farms, closely-held businesses and any couple worth less than $23.5 million and would generate about $600 million per decade. I will try again next year. My bill to rename and refocus the Crime Commission on broader justice issues also failed, along with my bill to create an exception to contributory negligence for bike and pedestrian collisions.

This coming week we will address major issues, including the death penalty, decarbonizing our economy, criminal justice reform and protecting personal data. Hard work on the budget also begins.

Please visit me in Richmond, complete my constituent survey at <http://scottsurovell.org/2020-constituent-survey/> and email me at scott@scottsurovell.org if you have any feedback! It is an honor to serve as your State Senator.

nents (who have suggested LWOP) as an alternative, are using the very same arguments they used against the death penalty, to advocate for the removal of the very same alternative punishment that they suggested in the first place! Vox News and The Sentencing Project are now promoting the abolition of LWOP, so you shouldn't think it's me fearmongering. The death penalty should stay in Virginia, not just because some crimes are just too heinous to be punished by life without parole, but because it also prevents the abolition of life without parole. If the death penalty is abolished on a Monday, the movement to abolish life without parole will begin the following day. And before you know it, murderers will be back on the streets.

Fairfax Symphony Spotlights Vivaldi's 'The Four Seasons'

Paired with Pizzola's sensual
"The Four Seasons of Buenos Aires."

BY DAVID SIEGEL
THE CONNECTION

Northern Virginia audiences have a distinctive concert in store with the Fairfax Symphony Orchestra (FSO). It is an evening pairing Vivaldi's classic masterpiece "The Four Seasons" with Astor Piazzola's lush "The Four Seasons of Buenos Aires."

What's more, the concert features the violinist Simone Porter as a special guest performer with the FSO. "We are delighted to present guest soloist, Simone Porter—a remarkable, young virtuoso making her FSO debut...in a performance you won't want to miss!" said Jim McKeever, Fairfax Symphony Board Chairman

Chris Zimmerman, Music Director and Conductor, Fairfax Symphony Orchestra described the concert as "One virtuoso violinist playing two irresistibly entertaining pieces, with a smallish group of colleagues (a string orchestra)."

"The two pieces are connected in title—"The Four Seasons"—one being directly inspired by the other, yet in a completely different musical style," noted Zimmerman. "Vivaldi's music steeped in the baroque style of 17th century Italy; Piazzola's music steeped in the sensuous, steamy, heavily rhythmic music of the Tango."

Violinist Simone Porter will be performing with The Fairfax Symphony Orchestra.

Where and When

Fairfax Symphony Orchestra presents "The Four Seasons" with special guest violinist Simone Porter at the Center for the Arts, George Mason University, 4373 Mason Pond Drive, Fairfax. Performance Feb. 8, 2020. Tickets: $25, $39, $50, $53, and $65. Student tickets are $15. Visit online at <https://www.fairfaxsymphony.org/> or by phone at 703-993-2787. Note: Stories behind the music with music director Christopher Zimmerman and special guests before the Feb. 8, 2020 concert at 7 p.m.

Vivaldi's "The Four Seasons" is composed of four violin concertos depicting the seasons of the year; spring, summer, autumn and winter. "Whether it is the summer storm portrayed by the super-fast cascading runs of violins, or the lone 'woof' of a dog on the viola in the countryside in spring, or the antics of a drunkard conjured up by the unpredictable rhythms and melodic leaps of the solo violin in autumn, the connection between music and the scene it evokes has always captivated the listener," noted Zimmerman.

"The listeners will get a real kick out of Piazzola's 'Four Seasons of Buenos Aires.' Not only are the rhythms and tunes totally awesome, you'll want to also listen closely for quotes from his inspiration Vivaldi," added Zimmerman.

In an interview, Simone Porter, who is 23, indicated "The Four Seasons" and "The Four Seasons of Buenos Aires" provide an opportunity to showcase what is possible with a violin. The violin can conjure in the mind the seasons of the year and "a delightful night in a tango dance hall." The violin can be utilized to sound "emotionally stimulating, sensual, exciting and even flashy."

Jim McKeever noted that the FSO is working with Fairfax County Public Schools (FCPS). "For this concert, we're partnering with FCPS's Woodburn School for the Fine and Communicative Arts and Westlawn Elementary Schools as part of our ongoing partnership for their Multidisciplinary Arts Integration program. It's a wonderful partnership."

The FSO/FCPS partnership includes not only the students learning about Vivaldi's "The Four Seasons" but providing free tickets for the students and their families to attend the Center for the Arts concert.

Fairfax Symphony Orchestra. 8 p.m.

At GMU Center for the Arts, 4373 Mason Pond Dr, Fairfax. Violinist Simone Porter is the virtuoso soloist in Vivaldi's dazzlingly imaginative evocation of the sights, sounds and sensations of the Italian seasons. The Four Seasons violin concertos are so richly detailed you can feel the sirocco of summer, hear the dancing villagers of Autumn and slip on the ice of a Venetian winter. The master of the New Tango, Ástor Piazzolla, brought the wild dance of Buenos Aires into the concert hall. There's an apt nod to Vivaldi in Leonid Desyatnikov's sensational string arrangements of the Estaciones Portañas, but they have an atmosphere that's unique to Buenos Aires — fiercely sensual in summer, hazy and melancholic in winter, all moving to the heartbeat of the tango. Vivaldi's seasons enfold Piazzolla's in this dance around the year. Prices begin at $25; $15 for students. Visit the website: <https://cfa.gmu.edu/>

Goodness Triumphs in Rossini's 'Cinderella'

Virginia Opera performances Feb. 15 and 16 at Center for the Arts.

BY DAVID SIEGEL
THE CONNECTION

Where and When

Human connections are at the heart of Rossini's "Cinderella" ("La Cenerentola"). It is a comic opera unlike the fairy tale some may recall or read to children and grandchildren.

Rossini's "Cinderella" differs from the more classic fairytale. It is not full of the supernatural or magical characters. "There is no fairy godmother, no magic pumpkin, or even a glass slipper," noted Kyle Lang, Virginia Opera director. Rossini's opera has glimmering splendor, comic characters, "with an ending about forgiveness and transformation."

Rather Rosinni's "Cinderella" has "characters who are quite human and tangible," added Lang. There are "disguises and mistaken identities" as key points for the opera's story. And the opera is full of "movement and music and that entwine in the story." Adam Turner will conduct the orchestra for this production provided by the Virginia Symphony Orchestra.

Rossini's enduring "Cinderella" was composed in late 1816 when he was 25 years old. In place of the traditional evil stepmother, the character of Cinderella is mistreated by an obnoxious, rather broke aristocrat. Instead of a fairy godmother, Cinderella is helped by a kindly tutor. There are two conceited step-sisters. And a love-struck prince with his clever valet who trade places

Virginia Opera presents Rossini's "Cinderella" (La Cenerentola) at Center for the Arts, Concert Hall, 4373 Mason Pond Drive, Fairfax. Performance Feb 15 at 8 p.m. and Feb 16 at 2:30 p.m. Tickets: $110, $70, $40. Call 703-993-2787 or visit www.cfa.gmu.edu. Note: Sung in Italian with English supertitles. An "Opera Up Close" pre-performance discussion with Dr. Glenn Winters begins 45 minutes prior to the performance. Seating is limited. Special Note: There is a Valentine's Package available including a Fairytale Valentine photo station. The special Valentine's Date Package includes: Two tickets for "Cinderella", Champagne and chocolates, two commemorative champagne glasses and two spill-proof tumblers to enjoy the champagne during the opera! Valentine Date Package tickets: $255, $175, $115. This offer valid for either performance, Feb. 15 or 16. To purchase package call the Center for the Arts Ticket Office at 703-993-2787. Package is non-refundable and cannot be exchanged.

with a critical purpose in mind. Another difference from the classic fairy tale; no sparkling, showy glass slippers. There are a matching pair of bracelets for the lovers to find each other.

What makes Rossini's "Cinderella" unique; his "vision of forgiveness; not just transformation at the heart of the production. It is emotionally moving," noted Lang.

The role of Angelina (the character of Cinderella) is sung by the vocally distinctive Alyssa Martin. "Cinderella" is marvelous. It is funny and thought provoking. Envy and pride are vanquished as goodness wins the

SATURDAY-SUNDAY/FEB. 15-16

Virginia Opera's "Cinderella." 8 p.m. Saturday; 2 p.m. Sunday. At GMU Center for the Arts, 4373 Mason Pond Drive, Fairfax. Gioachino Rossini's Cinderella (La Cenerentola) is one of his funniest and best-known comic operas. Following on his success of The Barber of Seville, Rossini and librettist Jacopo Ferretti worked day and night to create this opera in just three weeks. The story differs somewhat from the classic fairytale: there is no fairy godmother, magic pumpkin, or even a glass slipper! Even so, this enchanting tale delivers with all of the glimmering splendor, the comic characters, and the happy ending, of course. Best of all, it includes Rossini's effervescent score with the epic orchestral storm before the Prince finally finds Cenerentola, and the arias "Miei rampolli femminini," and "Nacqui all'affanno...Non piu mesta." Directed by Kyle Lang. Sung in Italian with English supertitles. Tickets are $45-$115. Visit the website: www.cfa.gmu.edu.

SUNDAY/FEB. 16

NTrak Model Train Show. 1-4 p.m. At Fairfax Station Railroad Museum, 11200 Fairfax Station Road, Fairfax Station. The Northern Virginia NTRAK members will hold a N gauge Model Train Display. day," said Martin.

Martin grew up in a small rural town outside of Greensboro, N.C. She knew from an early age that she wanted to sing. With the support of her family and local music and voice teachers she discovered and nurtured her voice talent.

The role of Cinderella is one Martin indicated is "a favorite; if fits my voice range" Martin added the character Cinderella is "a woman who makes her own choices. She is powerful and authentic; not an object. Love, family, and connections are what matter to her.

"The human voices can do so much when not amplified," said Martin inviting audiences to take in the Virginia Opera production.

Off Topic, Way Off

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

From cancer to toilet paper. Is that 'off' enough? My reason for writing this column might be because I need a diversion (see last week's column), and because, as is so happened recently, I needed to replenish our toilet paper supply. (It had nothing to do with a winter advisory in the forecast.) As the consumer in the house, I am keen and motivated to spend our money wisely. I look for sales, I use paper coupons, I use digital coupons and of course, I peruse the advertising circulars, in print and online (if necessary) regularly. In addition, I have a number of plastic bonus cards hanging on my keychain. In short, I am prepared and ready for any retail or wholesale opportunity that might present itself.

With respect to toilet paper, I believe us regular users have been victimized by the toilet paper manufacturers. I refer specifically to the increase in the size of the actual roll itself; from single to double to triple to jumbo to mega and now super mega. Since the manufacturers can't exactly increase demand, they've devised a strategy to increase supply - in our homes. And though using myself as an example is hardly empirical evidence, I will nonetheless continue to do so in an effort to justify my accusation.

If you're like me, you probably like to have an ample supply of toilet paper in the house, just in case (it happened once in college; not good). And to that end, the toilet paper manufacturers have offered up multipacks equivalent to as high as 96 rolls, if I'm not mistaken, to address this potential shortage. However, my beef is not with the number of rolls in these multipacks, my beef, as I've said, is with the size of the rolls. In these cases, size does matter.

For years, we've been buying 4-, 6-, 9-, 12-, 24-, 36- and even 48-roll multipacks, some single and some double to stock the bathroom linen closets, so we're used to having a specific number of rolls on hand/in inventory. Now the rolls are double or even triple the size we had grown accustomed to having as back-ups. But we're still, in spite of the gargantuan size of the newer mega/super mega rolls, wanting to have the same number of rolls in the closet as we've always had (I do, anyway). Sort of a comfort level, you might say. The problem is that having the same number of super mega rolls in inventory as previously one had as single or double rolls gives one way more toilet paper in the house than you ever had. In effect, we have over-purchased. The toilet paper manufacturers have used our predispositions against us in order to take a greater share of our household budget previously allocated for toilet paper.

I don't need six super mega rolls in our bathroom. But I do want to see at least six rolls in reserve (aid and comfort you might say). If the six rolls in reserve were single or doubles, their size would be irrelevant. The number of rolls was more important - in my head. And now, because of the toilet paper manufacturer's insistence that size matters, I am forced to buy these spare-tire, donut-sized rolls that I can't possibly use no matter what "snowmageddon" might hit us. But I can't stock my shelves with reasonably-sized rolls because their unit cost is prohibitive compared to the big roll multipacks. As the consumer I am, I am loathe to overpay for such household necessities. So I buy in bulk, stuff my shelves with ply and go about my business. I just wish I had more than a hand in their decision-making.
