Memorial to Suffragist Women Dedicated

To educate, inspire, empower present and future generations.

THE CONNECTION

For more than seven decades, millions of American women sought the right to vote. On May 16, the first monument in the country to commemorate their struggles, to tell the lengthy story of the suffragist movement, and to celebrate suffragists' accomplishment - the passing of the 19th Amendment - was dedicated in Lor-ton. Located on the grounds of Occoquan Regional Park, not far from where suffragists were incarcerated and tortured for peacefully picketing on the sidewalk in front of the White House, the Turning Point Suffragists Memorial was dedicated in a small ceremony, live streamed across the country, in advance of its public opening.

Jane Barker, Vice Chair/CoFounder of the memorial association, shared the early humble vision, first discussed by League of Women Voters with NOVA Parks staff, to tell the local story of the suffragists imprisoned at the nearby Occoquan Workhouse. They discussed "a brick wall with a few picture plaques of the women, ...on a small brick-paved area that would be called the Turning Point Plaza; the projected cost was $25,000." They soon realized "telling just part of the 72 year long struggle wasn't enough - we needed to create a national memorial that was befitting their sacrifices and accomplishments." The nearly $3 million dollar memorial, designed by Robert E. Beach Architects, LLC, is the culmination of that needed recognition.

Re-enactrist Lynne Garvey-Hodges, as Mrs. Robert 'Mimi' Walker who was arrested for picketing and served 60 days at the Workhouse, poses with the statue of Carrie Chapman Catt, a leader in the suffrage movement and founder of the League of Women Voters.

SEVERAL SPEAKERS spoke of the effort that went into making the bigger vision come to completion. The site is seen as an apt location due to its historical setting near where the horrible treatment of suffragists led to the important "turning point" in public opinion, from which the memorial draws its name. Cate Magennis Wyatt, Chair of the NOVA Parks Board, said thousands who stroll by will have the opportunity to learn the story of the right to vote struggle in America which is not taught in history books; to learn history and "herstory." And through international tourism, "for people world-wide to aspire to suffrage in their own countries."

Association members, NoVA Parks Board members, State legislators, and County Supervisor cut the Turning Point Suffragist Memorial ribbon in front of the entrance replicating the White House gates where suffragists maintained their "silent sentinel."

NOVA Parks will steward the care and upkeep of the memorial on its grounds.

Executive Director/CEO of the memorial association, Pat Wirth, who oversaw completion of the project, spoke of her expectation that the Turning Point Institute to follow will inspire girls to leadership roles and train Relief Is on the Way!

BY KENNETH R. "KEN" PLUM
STATE DELEGATE (D-36)

COMMENTARY

Relief seems to be on the way for some of the drastic effects of the COVID-19 pandemic with the discovery and manufacturing of several vaccines and the incredible rate at which the vaccines are being administered. There has been some easing of regulations of everyday life, but caution is in order to ensure that we do not ease ourselves back into high rates of incidences. It is safe to be hopeful, but caution is the smarter way to go. Over time with continued public encouragement the hard-core opposition by a small minority to vaccinations will gradually become less. How much evidence is needed as to the dangers inherent in the pandemic and the successes that vaccinations are having to change the minds of the very hard-core remains to be seen.

On the economic front there is very good relief. President Biden signed into law in March the American Rescue Plan from which Virginia will realize nearly seven billion dollars for state and local government. That is a lot of money by any measure but especially when compared with the $3.2 billion from the CARES Act funding last year. The American Rescue Plan provides $4.3 billion to the Commonwealth of Virginia and an additional $2.7 billion going directly to counties and cities.

While this huge chunk of money coming to Virginia will go a long way to offset some of the economic losses from the pandemic, it also will provide a jump-start to programs that have long been needed but never funded or funded at less than a sufficient level. It will not be necessary to wait for the money as it is being immediately distributed by federal agencies.

Last week Governor Ralph Northam and leadership of the House of Delegates and the State Senate announced "shared priorities for American Rescue Plan Funding" that will be considered in a special legislative session this summer to formally allocate the funds. Those priorities read like a wish list for those familiar with the operation of the Virginia government but now with the understanding that funding will be available to meet these priorities.

The priorities include upgrading state and local health services that were shown to be inadequate during the pandemic. Funding will be provided in addition to that appropriated in the last legislative session to help people with the cost of housing and utilities. The new money will help to fully fund the "Rebuild Virginia" small business recovery plan and provide relief dollars for the hardest-hit industries.

The Unemployment Trust Fund will be replenished after the historically high demand for relief by unemployed workers. Technology and staffing in the Virginia Employment Commission will be upgraded to better meet employment demands.

The pandemic made us aware of the need to rehabilitate and upgrade existing public school facilities to make them healthier, safer, and more conducive to learning. The additional money coming to the state will permit the acceleration of the ten-year plan to bring broadband to all of the cities and rural areas in the Commonwealth.

If you hear a big sigh of relief coming from the direction of the State Capitol in Richmond it is because relief is on the way!

MCC Appoints New Executive Director

Singh outlines the Center's 180-day plan.

The McLean Community Center (MCC) Governing Board has appointed Daniel Phoenix Singh as the center's new executive director. Singh is replacing George Sachs, who retired on Friday, May 7, after 11 years of service. MCC is located at 1234 Ingleside Ave.

In his previous position as Division Chief of Tourism and Cultural Arts for Baltimore County, Singh led countywide initiatives in coordination with the Tourism Commission and the Arts and Sciences Commission. Singh is also Artistic and Executive Director of Dakshina/Daniel Phoenix Singh Dance Company, which he founded in 2003. The multi-genre dance company has won national acclaim and was lauded by DC critics as one of the top three local dance companies in 2012. Singh has earned two master's degrees in subjects that are highly relevant to his new position: a master's degree in Business Administration from Georgetown University and a master's degree in Fine Arts from the University of Maryland.

MCC Board Chair Suzanne LeMenestrel said of Singh, "On behalf of the Governing Board, we are thrilled that Daniel will be leading the MCC. His expertise in the arts, technology and recreation and his commitment to diversity, equity and inclusion will serve our community exceptionally well. We are looking forward to working with Daniel as the MCC welcomes community members back to the center."

SINGH is working with community members, board members and staff to launch several new programs in the next 180 days. He will be working closely with Le Menestrel to conduct in-depth McLean listening sessions on community needs, interests and ideas. From the foundation of the community input, the Board and staff will be launching a Strategic Planning process to bring the community, staff and board vision to fruition. "As soon as spacing restrictions are lifted, we will be holding an event to celebrate the life and contributions of Mr. Robert Alden in our theater," said Singh. "The staff and board are incredibly talented, and the community is very passionate about the mission and have already presented wonderful ideas for us to continue George Sachs' legacy."

Michael Fisher and Christian Hayes are announcing Seniors in Action, a diverse range of programming focused on bringing seniors back to MCC for a series of events centered on their wellness and to build a robust community and cultural support system for them. Programming includes open coffee talks, craft sessions, book clubs, Bridge, Mah-Jongg, yoga, Bingo and pot-lucks. MCC Community Events is working on ways to safely get back to offering in-person events after celebrating their successes with virtual programming.

Singh and Performing Arts Director Sarah Schallern Treff are launching a series of arts initiatives such as a poetry event celebrating AAPI month in May, community partnerships in honor of LGBTQ Pride in June and weaving in visiting artists with camp participants. The staff will be unveiling an artist-in-residence series to highlight the rich array of regional, national and international artists. Schallern Treff will also be leading projects for creative placemaking to include murals, outdoor art installations and pop-up events in downtown McLean.

REIMAGINING all departments of MCC as an active community service and programming opportunity, Singh and Director of Communications Sabrina Anwah will be launching a community-focused blog and a robust social media presence. Alden Technical Director Jennifer Garrett is exploring how design elements can become a larger focus in and around the center's building with seasonal or event specific lighting installations and exciting projection mapping projects to re-envision familiar spaces with new ideas as a fresh canvas. Facilities Manager Joe McGovern is considering how outdoor spaces can be activated to keep safety at the forefront while welcoming community members back home to MCC. Andrew Carter, the general manager of The Old Firehouse is excited to launch in-person summer programming and is also kicking off a series of Block Parties to celebrate our teens.

"I am incredibly lucky to be inheriting this strong staff that George has so carefully cultivated," said Singh. "MCC is uniquely positioned to address the pressing issues and ramifications of re-entry into the world after COVID-19; the racial climate and equity needs surfacing in the U.S.; or considering how we can affect change locally for global problems such as climate justice. We want to be 'The Center of It All' for both McLean community members and the issues that are of importance to them."

Preventing Riverbend Park Erosion

Great Falls Youth Organizations install hundreds of native plants to stabilize the soil.

BSA Scout Troop 55G [girls] of Great Falls, sponsored by St. Francis Episcopal Church in Great Falls recently completed a service project at Riverbend Park. Scout Elise Zhu of Oakton had previously noticed several areas of the park roped off due to erosion, so she decided to research what native plants could be planted in these areas to help with riverbank erosion and increase the beauty of the park.

Rotaract of Great Falls Members

With the park's permission, Elise and her fellow scouts decided to plant hundreds of Virginia Wild-Rye grass plugs and 40 tree seedlings along the riverbank so that they would grow roots and sure up the soil, therefore, preventing water from eroding the bank.

To complete the project, Troop 55G [girls], led by Scoutmaster Gary Pan, teamed up with Troop 55B [boys], Rotary Great Falls, Rotaract Great Falls, and Rita Peralta, Natural Resource Manager with Fairfax County Park Authority (FCPA) at Riverbend Park.

"I noticed a problem, and I wanted to fix it. I was really glad that my fellow scouts, members of Rotary and Rotaract, and Ms. Peralta of FCPA were so helpful in carrying out this project. I wanted to make sure we protect the beauty of our area, and I'm glad I could do something to better our environment for future generations," said scout Elise Zhu, 15, of Oakton.

Celebrating Asian-American and Pacific Islander Heritage Month

Importance emphasized in context of recent discrimination and hate crimes.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
THE CONNECTION

Educational videos and on-line trivia questions, organized by the school's Asian-Pacific Islander Heritage Committee, are giving Montgomery College students an opportunity for reflection, while food, music and film offer students at Marymount University in Arlington a glimpse of a different culture. These experiences are in observance of Asian/Pacific Islander American Heritage Month, celebrated each May.

"It's a time to reflect and celebrate the contributions of the Asian Pacific American community who shaped and influenced the history and culture of the United States," said Tait Brooks, Associate Director of Diversity, Equity & Inclusion and Deputy Title IX Coordinator at Marymount University.

The importance of this year's observances, in emphasized by growing evidence of discrimination and hate crimes targeting Asian Americans. Educators are using the month to address and work toward solutions to some of these current issues.

"The recent violent actions are steeped in xenophobia. Education and learning their history and its significance to American history is the solution," said Brooks. "Once we know more Asian history, we will understand their plight."

"Schools and universities can pursue inclusive curriculum that fully integrates the experiences and contributions of Asian Americans," added Dae Young Kim, Ph.D., associate professor of Sociology and Anthropology at George Mason University. His message: "Educate on Asian American history and experience and show support to the Asian American community by standing against racism."

For Kim O'Connell, author of "Echoes of Little Saigon," a booklet on the Vietnamese immigration to Arlington, May is a monthlong opportunity to use education as a vehicle for reconciling some of the wounds incurred through recent racial turmoil.

"I hope that people will realize that Asian Americans are as diverse as any other group," she said. "They can't be characterized in one simple way and they definitely should not be subject to the racism that we've seen in recent months."

For some in the Asian-American and Pacific Islander community, celebrations this year's observances are accompanied with fear.

"It is clear that many Asian Americans are feeling that they are not immune to acts of violence and bias and social media is helping to increase awareness of such incidents, which is prompting more conversation and action," said Kim. "We are feeling fearful of violence directed against us. This is what makes this month different from previous years."

In recent weeks, Kim has engaged in dialogue and outreach aimed at helping others understand the experience of Asian Americans now. "I've participated in a roundtable conversation with Governor [Ralph] Northam and Asian American community leaders about hate crimes against Asian Americans," he said. "I was on a panel organized by Inova ... to talk about the Asian American experience."

"Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders have contributed to American culture, society and history in immeasurable ways and I encourage everyone to learn more about these contributions," said O'Connell.

Eli Roberts and Abhaya Tyrka in Langley High performance of 'Real Talk,' May 14, 2021.

Langley High Presents 'Real Talk'

BY MAX BELMAR
JUSTICE HIGH SCHOOL

During moments of contention, people must choose their path. In high school, college, and even as an adult, we are all riddled with overwhelming pressure from ourselves and others to live up to expectations. Langley High School's earnest original production, "Real Talk," wonderfully depicts this generational plight.

Piecing together the story of one boy, Leo (Eli Roberts) who is journeying off to college and choosing his major, all while working to please his father. But the concern that Leo's father has for his future slowly manifests into unrealistic expectations and unnecessary stress. These circumstances prompt Leo to seek out guidance from a therapist (Keya Umesh.) Their conversations serve as a guiding light throughout the play and ultimately provide Leo with much-needed reassurance, recognizing that he is certainly not alone in his struggle to succeed.

The creative team at Langley HS was responsible for writing and directing this ambitious production. These efforts were spearheaded by Gunnar Peacock and Conor Farah, who used their own experiences to cultivate this poignant narrative. In addition to their leadership on the project, both Peacock and Farah performed in the roles of Mr. Halifax and Mel, respectively, managing to captivate audiences from both on and off-screen.

Eli Roberts did a brilliant job in the role of Leo, using his mastery of body language and a quivering voice to establish the mental toll these people have taken on his mental health. That nervous energy beautifully juxtaposed the calming nature of his therapist. Keya Umesh created an environment of peace and introspection, even though she wasn't in the same room as Roberts. Unlike the other actors who performed their scenes in person, Umesh and Roberts were tasked with developing a relationship on screen. However, their talent and dedication to the craft aided them in constructing an unparalleled performance, building off one another's facial movements and laying the groundwork for other actors to utilize during their own performances later.

Other notable performances were Connor Farah as Mel and Gunnar Peacock as Mr. Halifax. Farah was hilarious in the role of Mel, serving as comedic relief to the show's more dramatic moments. Mr. Halifax acted as a parallel to Leo, as they both dealt with paternal pressure at a young age. However, Mr. Halifax was able to rise above and follow his own passions of fashion design. This determination inspires Leo in the final scene to follow his dreams, and not simply choose a major because his father told him to.

"Real Talk" is an inspiring tale about passion, reminding audiences that our parent's path is not necessarily our own. Through conversations with mentors, friends, and therapists, we can begin traveling down our own path. Always doing what is best for us, and allowing the other pieces to fall into place.

Eric Knudsen Receives Glen Sjoblom Award

The award recognizes service contributions to the development of the Great Falls community.

By Mercia Hobson
The Connection

The Executive Board of the Great Falls Citizen Association (GFCa) recognized Eric Knudsen on Saturday, May 15, as the recipient of its 2021 Glen Sjoblom Award for his “long-time, extensive and meritorious service to the community of Great Falls.” Local, regional, and state leaders attended the special program held at the Great Falls Village Centre Green. GFCa honored Knudsen, who tirelessly devoted himself for several decades to enhancing Great Falls through his work on local transportation, land use, and environmental matters.

GFCa established the Glen Sjoblom Award to recognize its members who excel in serving their community. It is the organization’s only award for outstanding service. Current GFCa President Bill Canis said that without this kind of civic involvement and activism, the community Great Falls citizens and others know today would have withered away.

“We are gathered to celebrate the people who are dedicated to that philosophy,” said Canis. Eric Knudsen is one of those people.

Glen Sjoblom is the 2019 Award recipient. He put the award in the context of the long commitment of GFCa’s pioneering board members, those who served the community since the organization’s founding in 1968.

According to the honoring resolution, Knudsen served on the GFCa board with a distinguished record for more than 15 years, including three years as president, three years as vice-president, and additional terms as chair of the Transportation and Land Use & Zoning Committee.

AS PRESIDENT, Knudsen improved the efficiency and management of GFCa board proceedings, collaborating with past presidents to create GFCa’s first Policy & Procedures Manual that guides the organization. His prioritization of on-site visits to personally evaluate land use and transportation issues provided accurate perspectives and insights. The documented visits became a hallmark of GFCa’s work, validating issues the organization brings forward to the staff at Fairfax County and Commonwealth and developers.

Knudsen launched ongoing investigative and mitigation efforts in the community to control stormwater runoff. He participated in a GFCa committee tasked with overseeing the cleanup of chemical spills in the center of Great Falls that threatened residents’ well water. It culminated in a program managed by the Virginia Department of Environmental Quality.

Leading land use negotiations with the County and developers led to the rezoning of Brooks Farm and plans for a SunTrust Bank. According to the resolution, Knudsen became a “driving force for the establishment of the Great Falls Grange Foundation, serving as the GFCa representative in establishing that organization to preserve one of our community’s most important historical assets.”

Knudsen also co-chaired the Transportation Committee. In collaboration with co-chair Joan Barnes, they worked to have the Virginia Department of Transportation (VDOT) revise its proposed plans for the intersection of Route 7 and Georgetown Pike, reducing congestion and ensuring greater safety. Knudsen initiated and managed negotiations with engineers and county staff to narrow Walker Road, facilitating pedestrian crossings in the commercial center.

Knudsen’s interest in citizen input in the widening project of Route 7 between Reston Avenue and Tysons led to the Route 7 Working Group. This eight-year commitment advised VDOT and included participation by the McLean and Reston citizens associations.

SPEAKERS at the May 15 award presentation praised Knudsen for his record of service. Virginia State Senator Barbara Favola (D-31) commended Knudsen for giving residents a voice by reaching out to them for verified consensus. She called these characteristics the hallmark of strong nonprofit organizations.

GFCa Board member Gary Pan worked with Knudsen to establish the Great Falls Grange Foundation. He commended him for helping to breathe new life into the historic building and providing a new level of community involvement.

“I have worked closely with Eric Knudsen on numerous transportation and land use projects over the years,” said Fairfax County Supervisor John Foust (D-Dranesville). “His leadership has improved life for residents of the Great Falls community. In 2011, I selected him to represent Dranesville as Lord Fairfax. He is a worthy recipient of the Glen Sjoblom Award for community service,” Foust said.

Knockouts on the Menu

Restaurant Review: Mookie’s BBQ in Great Falls.

By Alexandra Greeley
The Connection

As locals applaud the re-opening of restaurants in the DMV, folks craving the ideal summer grub—barbecue—should head over to Mookie’s BBQ in Great Falls. Of course, its scrumptious, smoky eats are tempting all year, but why crank up the outdoor grill when this genius restaurant fits the bill for casual eats.

Opened back in 2015, its success and public draw are attributed to owner Brian Varani, who had been in the food world since a youngster—although being a cook/chef was not his first career choice. But after college and working in the corporate world for a few years, Varani fell in love with the smoky flavors of barbecued foods when he bought a smoker. That led to his eventual dedication to serving out the best BBQ meals in the area.

On a recent Sunday, even with still-limited seating, Mookie’s drew in folks aplenty—and fortunately its outside patio was open, despite the threat of possible showers—which never turned up. Regardless of where folks sit, the service is prompt and friendly. But what may take patrons awhile is scanning the menu: it’s not just barbecue!

But why not just barbecue? For example, the BBQ nachos starter is a heaping mound of crispy taco chips (tortillas homemade? we wondered) covered with one’s choice of meats—chicken, pulled pork, and brisket—plus scoops of homemade cheese sauce and sprinkling of scallions, etc.

Frankly, this could really fit the bill of a whole meal....but, then folks would miss out on some starter and entrée knockouts.

One can select soups (chili with or without cheese) or one of several entrée salads. Or people can select smaller entrées, such as one of the many sandwiches that include pulled pork; pulled chicken; brisket as well as assorted burger choices and short rib grilled cheese. And for burger fans, the Mookie’s Burger with beef, pulled pork, cheddar, and jalapeños.

For the real BBQ special treat, however, scan through the choices of platters that include pulled pork; smoked sausage; smoked turkey; plus others, all leading down the menu page to the ribs! Choices there include an order of one-third, one-half, or a full rack of baby back ribs. These, as do other choices, come with sides plus a wedge of cornbread.

Whether you want a take-home pack of leftovers or not, do not skip the dessert choices, and frankly, the superstar is the Key Lime Pie with whipped cream. It is a fitting favor climax to all the smoky dishes beforehand. Other choices include warm chocolate chip cookie a la mode, chocolate pecan pie, and banana pudding, plus others.

Mookie’s also offers to-go family packs so folks can eat BBQ at home with family and friends. Mookie’s also offers a bar up-front with beers, more. Check the website for daily specials.

The Turning Point Suffragist Memorial uses a significant number of stations, 19, to tell the suffrage movement story from 1848 to 1920. Its cost was funded through contributions of thousands of donors from 45 states and the District of Columbia, Fairfax County, the Virginia Commonwealth, foundations, corporations, the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, women's associations, and non-profit organizations. Three life-sized bronze statues, donated by the National Suffrage Centennial Commission, reflect the images of Alice Paul, co-founder of the National Women's Party; Mary Church Terrell, co-founder of the NAACP and an organizer and honorary member of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority; and Carrie Chapman Catt, President of the National Woman Suffrage Association.

Contractor Terry Dubeau, Culpeper, works on completing columns last week for the memorial's central rotunda in preparation for the dedication.

Peri and Page Schiavone sit taking in the memorial's grounds and 19 history information stations with other visitors

Also included in the memorial is an actual section of the White House fence, on loan from the National Park Service; the first section to be given.

THE FENCE was a backdrop for the quiet picketing the suffragists carried on in front of the White House, the first ever to protest there, to gain President Wilson's attention, earning them the name, "Silent Sentinels".

The Nineteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution prohibits the United States and individual states from denying the right to vote to citizens on the basis of sex. The first women's suffrage amendment was introduced in Congress in 1878, but not passed until 1919; it was ratified by the required 36 states and was certified on Aug. 26, 1920.

Detectives Seek Witnesses After Pedestrian Dies in Hit and Run Crash

A 43-year-old man has died following a hit and run crash that occurred Sunday morning, May 16, near the intersection of Leesburg Pike and Redberry Court in Great Falls. Officers responded around 5:21 a.m. for the report of a person who was hit by several cars. Officers found Allen Romero, of McLean, lying in the center eastbound lane of Leesburg Pike. Rescue personnel pronounced him deceased at the scene -- reports FCPD Public Affairs Bureau.

Detectives from Crash Reconstruction Unit have preliminarily determined Romero was crossing eastbound Leesburg Pike just prior to the intersection when he was hit by a 2011-2015 Ford Fusion. As a result of the crash, Romero landed in the eastbound lanes and was subsequently struck by other vehicles, one of which remained at the scene. The initial striking car did not stop, but detectives were able to preliminarily identify the make and model of the vehicle as a driver's side mirror was recovered at the scene. Detectives continue to investigate to determine if speed or alcohol were factors in this crash.

If you have any information or believe you may have been involved in this crash, contact Crash Reconstruction Unit at 703-280-0543. Tips can also be submitted anonymously through Crime Solvers by phone - 1-866-411-TIPS (866-411-8477), by text - Type "FCCS" plus tip to 847411, and by web - Click HERE. Download Mobile tip411 App "Fairfax Co Crime Solvers". Anonymous tipsters are eligible for cash rewards of $100 to $1000 dollars if their information leads to an arrest. Please leave contact information if you wish for a detective to contact you.

This is the 5th pedestrian fatality in the county to date in 2021.

A True Sense of Insecurity

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

From the moment you hear the word cancer spoken in your direction - from your new best friend, an oncologist with whom you've had zero previous interaction, you are transported to a new reality. A reality that a few of those moments before, was nowhere on your radar. Whatever innocence, expectation of normalcy and/or predictability you anticipated experiencing in your life, is now completely gone. Not only are you not in Kansas anymore, you are nowhere to be found, emotionally. All your hopes, dreams and presumptions about your life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness are back-burnered by your life-changing diagnosis. A diagnosis which will require some kind of treatment, side effects notwithstanding, which will likely dampen your enthusiasm for living and affect all your decisions. Figuratively speaking, there's a new sheriff in town and if you're not compliant and attentive to your doctor's orders, you'll become a prisoner to your disease.

Even if you are compliant, a cancer diagnosis, however curable, is the kind of news that sticks with you no matter how long into your remission you are or how encouraging your diagnostic scans appear to be. Since I've not experienced being cancer free - after having received an initial diagnosis/prognosis, I can't imagine the relief and rebirth one might feel after learning their cancer has been beaten into submission. It's really too much to even contemplate when you've been given a sort of death sentence. Practically speaking, how does one go from being constantly under threat of a worsening outcome to one which is completely free from the emotional and physical tentacles of a cancer diagnosis?

You can't really unwring the bill, to coin a phrase. Moreover, hearing "You have cancer" sticks with you like Gorilla Glue. It's hard to even imagine ever hearing anything worse. Then one day, hearing your oncologist say "no sign of cancer" to you. To quote my late mother: "It's too much for anybody's nerves." And it's almost too much to ever consider. Your reality is that you have a very serious medical condition/disease, and once again, to quote my late mother: "No one gets out of this life alive." Thinking, even contemplating a miracle cure is a tease most unhelpful, to invoke the syntax of Hercule Poirot. Somehow one must learn to live with their disease or else you'll die having been unable to lock it away in your vault, so to speak. Somehow having cancer can't be the predominant consideration in your life. Yet, when every waking moment is nearly consumed by your less-than-ideal circumstances, it's an emotional battle, most royal. If you win your share of skirmishes, you'll likely be rewarded with more life to live. However, nothing is guaranteed, except you know what: death and taxes."

"Any way you slice it, it's still ham," as my father used to say. Meaning that cancer is a serious business and no amount of joking or obfuscation is going to change that fact. Nevertheless, if one doesn't try and gives in to the disease psychologically, the internal damage may be compounded. Not that I've denied my diagnosis or ever taken it lightly, but I have tried to embrace it and become friends with it; not wanting to be controlled by it anymore than I already am. Given that I'll likely never be free of my cancer, either I learn to live with it or die trying. And I'd rather go down fighting than go down quietly. My situation has not changed or gotten worse. Still my disease is a major part of me and integrating into my program is the best way I know to try and make a molehill out of a mountain. I have been there and have done that. Hopefully, I'm not done being there.
