The Potomac School's Class of 2022

June 10 was a perfect day for an outdoor Commencement celebrating The Potomac School's Class of 2022. Hundreds of family members and friends were on hand to cheer for the 108 graduates as they crossed the stage to accept their diplomas from Head of School John Kowalik and shake hands with Board of Trustees Chair Sameer Bhargava.

Owen Diesenhaus '22 spoke on behalf of the graduating class, combining thoughtful insights with humor. He offered his classmates and all in the audience four valuable pieces of advice, playfully dubbing them "Dieselations": Rather than being regretful about the past or anxious about the future, live fully in the present. Recognize that you are always changing and growing, and embrace that process. Listen to your inner voice and "go with your gut." Deepen your existing relationships and actively build new ones.

Upper School science teacher Laura Petro called this year's graduates "an outstanding class – rich in depth, character, and selflessness." She stated that she had observed their courage throughout their high school careers, as they boldly took risks in order to learn and grow – whether that meant trying out for a varsity team, auditioning for a play, signing up for a challenging elective, or speaking about their personal experiences at an assembly. She urged the graduates to hold onto that courage and eagerness to grow, advising that they never be afraid to pursue their passions. Petro also encouraged the graduates to "put time and effort into forming bonds ... so that you have a person or group to celebrate your successes, help carry your burdens, and share your dreams."

Head of School John Kowalik spoke of the many challenges facing the world today, from the pandemic to economic uncertainty, political divisiveness, and violence. "There are no simple answers. But when I look at the faces of Potomac's Class of 2022, I see the antidote to all the misery I just cited. I see your generosity of spirit. I see your ability and your commitment to help make the world a better place," Kowalik said. "I also see some of the things you've learned during the pandemic – that patience and resilience matter, that being part of a community can give us strength."

Kowalik urged the graduates to recognize that they are not powerless, even in the face of seemingly insurmountable challenges. He told them, "You cannot fix everything. ... But you can make a difference. In your own sphere of influence – your family, your community, your career, even with people you meet at random – you have the power to make a positive difference."

FCPS Honors 2022

Recognizing the achievements in education in a challenging year.

By MERCIA HOBSON
THE CONNECTION

At its Honors Reception and Recognition Ceremony on Wednesday, June 8, Fairfax County Public Schools paid tribute to its employees who excelled in teaching students, leading schools, and providing support throughout the 2021-2022 school year. One of the twelve outstanding award recipients is an FCPS employee at Kilmer Middle School in Vienna. Amy Miller received the Outstanding Principal Award.

The program may be considered the school division's Oscars celebration, recognizing exceptional individuals serving in both instructional and operational roles.

Sponsored by Educate Fairfax, over 730 employees, including 71 finalists and 12 winners in 12 different award categories, were recognized at FCPS Honors, held at George Mason Center for the Arts. Fairfax County Public Schools has nearly 25,000 employees.

"You navigated the unexpected with grace and inspired those around you to do the same," Dr. Scott S. Brabrand, superintendent of Fairfax County Public Schools, said during his opening remarks at the event. "Life is unpredictable, and adaptability is a great asset to have. Instead of focusing on the difficulties, you viewed them as opportunities."

Colleagues, parents, students, and community members could nominate FCPS employees who had to meet certain position-specific requirements. Award liaisons from participating schools and departments collaborated with the employee awards team throughout the selection process.

The following comments are sourced from releases by FCPS and the Awards Program.

When Amy Miller took over as Principal of Kilmer Middle School in 2020, it was evident that developing connections and cultivating a community of belonging was at the heart of who she is as a school leader. "She immediately connected with each person in the building.

Her open-door policy provides a warm and nurturing spirit. She ignites and inspires a new sense of passion and professionalism. Amy enables teachers to teach at their best and students to learn at their utmost."

Marymount Professors Prepare Aspiring Biologists For International Competition

Top high school biology students prepare for USA Biolympiad (USABO) competition.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
THE CONNECTION

Marymount University hosted 20 of the nation's brightest high school biology students earlier this month for the USA Biolympiad (USABO) competition. The group received ten days of rigorous science instruction, lab training and testing. They were vying for a chance to become one of the four gold medalists who will represent the U.S. at the International Biology Olympiad in Yerevan, Armenia from July 10-18.

The students, including Lynn Tao of Thomas Jefferson High School for Science and Technology in Alexandria and others were chosen from more than 11,000 students who registered to participate in USABO's national biology exams.

"We start with the 20 who have placed highest on the national test, and we put them through a rigorous week of intense refresher courses and offer them new ways to work through the problems of science," said Todd Rimkus, Ph.D, Director of Marymount's School of Science, Mathematics and Engineering. "Our mission was to prepare them for the competition."

The instruction that students received included day trips to get hands-on experience with the lessons they were studying. "One of the most amazing excursions for these students was a field trip out to a local lake, where they got the opportunity to set turtle traps and then return the following day to see what they were able to catch," said Rimkus. "When we pull up a net with over 100 pounds of different types of turtles, including large snapping turtles, the students are amazed. They learn that not all science happens in a lab, and many areas of science that they may have never considered in the past may contain the kinds of questions they would want to try to answer."

The students were also able to watch an open heart surgery as part of the INOVA Dome Experience program. "Our students at Marymount in the Nursing and Biology majors get an opportunity to see these surgeries on a pretty regular basis," said Rimkus. "It is always a wonderful experience to see the surgeons and nurses work with such care and expertise."

USABO students always ask great questions of our hosts at the hospitals."

USABO is managed by The Center for Excellence in Education (CEE) and Marymount also hosted their scholars in 2018, 2015 and 2014. "[We] have a longstanding relationship with CEE," said Rimkus. "Our close proximity to their headquarters in Washington, D.C., means that they were looking for a University with expertise in the biological sciences. "Our finalists have received many gold medals ... so I am confident that this group is ready to achieve similar outcomes."

Summer's Here and Possibly Time to Stay Put

Fairfax County has plenty of options for a "stay-cation" this summer.

BY MIKE SALMON
THE CONNECTION

With the price of gas nearing $6 a gallon, the summer vacation at the beach may not happen this year, but no worries. Take a stay-cation here in Northern Virginia and just pretend it's the beach – there are plenty of options around here that keep that beachy vibe humming throughout the summer.

Fairfax County has 420 parks on nearly 25,000 acres of parkland so there's something for everyone, said Judy Pedersen of the Fairfax County Park Authority. "With gas prices as high as they are, and the impacts of inflation hitting families hard, staying local and enjoying our wonderful park system makes lots of sense," Pedersen said.

First stop, a go-kart track in the Dulles Airport area called the Autobahn Indoor Speedway. It offers racers an opportunity for speed at their indoor facility with some karts reaching 50 miles per hour. It's a little more high-tech than the tracks at the beach so be prepared. There are "Junior Karts," with a minimum age of 8 and height requirement of at least 48 inches tall.

For the Pro Karts, the minimum age is 13 and drivers must be at least 56 inches tall. Summer go-kart camps are available for ages 8-15.

Vacations and staycations are all about putt-putt golf too. Got to have the flaming volcanoes and waterfalls, and that's just the ticket at Upton Regional Park or the Treasure Island Mini Golf course at Pohick Bay. Other mini golf courses can be found at the Monster Mini Golf in Chantilly or the Cameron Run Mini Golf in Alexandria. Burke Lake has mini golf, and a frisbee golf course and a par-3 course too.

If that's not enough for the thrill seeker, there are several spots in the area that have obstacle courses and rope climbing. At Upton Park in Arlington, "Climb Upton" has a 90-element vertical adventure located next to the Ocean Dunes Waterpark.

In the South Run Rec Center, there's another climbing course called "Go Ape," with five activities depending on the skill level. There are 70 obstacles at South Run and a 320-foot zip line.

Racers at the Autobahn Indoor Speedway near Dulles rev their engines.

"STAYCATIONS definitely are worth taking this year," said Ali Morris, destination marketing manager at Visit Fairfax. She pointed out a few events scheduled this summer that cater to those staying put this year:

♦ Cirque du Soleil's "KURIOS: A Cabinet of Curiosities" under the Big Top at Tysons from July 29 – September 25.

♦ A beer and wine extravaganza at Westfields Marriott Washington Dulles Hotel through the end of September: Two nights at the hotel, wine tasting at a local vineyard, beer flights at 3 different Chantilly breweries, transportation and food credits, plus a welcome bottle of wine and other gifts at check-in.

♦ Capital One Center in Tysons has a new performing arts center, and the Capital One Hall featuring an elevated outdoor Starr Hill Biergarten + amphitheater and an 18-hole miniature golf course that is 11 stories in the air.

Still longing for the beach, surfing and getting gnarly? The Fairfax Surf Shop has boards, skate stuff and trunks as a preparation for the Reston Surf Course. Surf Reston Stand Up Paddleboarding is right on Lake Audubon in Reston. For those who want to ride a board but not on the water, there are skate parks at Wakefield Park, Lake Fairfax, Van Dyck Park, Herndon Skate Park and Powhatan Springs Skate Park inside the beltway.

What If It's Raining?

That's where all eyes turn to the Workhouse Arts Center in Lorton. This art workshop and gallery is mostly indoors, has plenty of parking and is not far from I-95. The Workhouse Arts Center opened to the public in September 2008, with buildings that were part of the old Lorton prison, and now houses artist studios, dance studios, music rooms, event spaces, movement/exercise studios, theater, gift shop, welcome center, administrative offices and the Lucy Burns Museum, honoring suffragists.

Summer Eating

beach munchies at Clare and Don's Beach Shack in Falls Church, or Boardwalk burgers and fries in Kingstowne. At Clare and Don's, dishes range from the Lake Alice Gator Tail ($9), a bowl of Seafood Chowda ($8) to the Inner Harbor Crab Cakes ($28.75)

When evening falls, kick back at the campfire, making s'mores and talking about all the beach fun, and there are several campgrounds in the area for that part of summer fun. At Pohick Bay, there are cabins, tent and camper sites and a spot for wilderness camping as well. Burke Lake also has a campground as does Lake Fairfax where there are cabins too.

GFCA Executive Board Election Results 2022

Local election impacts work and direction of community association.

BY MERCIA HOBSON
THE CONNECTION

The Great Falls Citizens Association (GFCA) conducted its drive-by-in-person Election 2022 to fill nine seats on its Executive Board in the parking lot behind the Great Falls Library on Saturday, June 11, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. GFCA's Executive Board leadership comprises 16 officer positions: president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, and 12 at-large directors. The nine officer seats open were president and vice president, one-year terms (2022-2023); secretary and treasurer, two-year terms (2022-2024); and five at-large directors, two-year terms (2022-2024). New terms will commence on July 1.

GFCA voter Joan Bliss who cast her ballot that morning, said that everyone is responsible for voting and letting others know their views. "That's what elections are about," she said. According to Bliss, there are those who care about the Great Falls community and are "willing to put in the time to find solutions."

Trent announced the election results on Sunday night, saying turnout was 50 percent higher than usual. William Canis is re-elected as president (2022-2023); outgoing director Christopher Rich is elected vice president (2022-2023); Elizabeth Huebner is re-elected secretary (2022-2022).

Re-elected as directors for (2022-2024) are Michael Barclay, Winnie Frost, Dawn MacPhee, Edward Phillips, Phillip Pifer, and Richard Solano.

Trent said several members took advantage of the opportunity when voting to discuss community issues with members of the Executive Board.

The people who were qualified and willing to run for seats were chosen by the Nominating Committee, chaired by James Trent. GFCA members could also nominate candidates. According to bylaws, write-in votes were not permitted nor counted at the annual election. Any citizen who was a bona fide resident of the community of Great Falls in Fairfax County, Virginia, and eighteen years of age or older was eligible for membership and entitled to one vote.

The election process allowed two ways to vote. Ballots could be printed from the GFCA June 2022 newsletter and member email blast, put in an envelope with the eligible voter's name on the front, and after election officials verified the voter's active GFCA membership, dropped into the drive-by ballot box. Eligible voters could also acquire a ballot at the polling location on election day. Members of the GFCA oversaw the voting process and counted the valid votes. Election releases will be posted on the GFCA website and in the July newsletter.

MERCIA HOBSON/THE CONNECTION

James Trent shares a Covid-safe fist bump with a voter at the drive-by-in-person election as Jennifer Falcone (back right) checks the active membership book before accepting the ballot.

To move forward as the pandemic continued in 2021, GFCA developed the drive-by-in-person voting procedure that replicated its usual in-person voting procedure. The process satisfied the organization's bylaws requirement for in-person voting and protected members' health.

On Great Falls issues, no other organization influences elected leaders at the county and state level or is as respected by them as the Great Falls Citizens Association, the all-volunteer, non-profit 501(c)4 states on its website. Since Great Falls is not a municipality, it lacks a town or city government to represent its local interests. That is the role GFCA assumes, advocating for solutions and government actions that benefit Great Falls.

Regular membership meetings are generally held on the second Tuesday of every month. According to GFCA's bylaws, "The purpose of GFCA... is to serve as a community organization to promote all aspects of community interest accruing to the common good and, in general, to preserve the historic, low-density, semi-rural character of Great Falls and its natural resources." Any citizen, whether or not they are a member in good standing of GFCA, is welcome and encouraged to share their opinions at all GFCA meetings unless the GFCA officer, director, or committee chair in charge thinks the opinions are offensive or rude.

The list above is not a comprehensive list of all structures with weight restrictions in the Commonwealth, but shows only structures that have new or changed weight restrictions within the last 30 days. The list contains only basic structure identification and location information and the date the new or changed weight restriction and signage became effective.

For a full listing of all bridge and culvert weight restrictions with detailed information about specific structures, including location data and actual weight limits, visit <https://www.virginiadot.org> and navigate to Info Center/Trucking Resources. This page references a posted structures report and a GIS map tool that contain detailed information about restricted structures in Virginia. To receive email notifications regarding new or updated weight restrictions for structures statewide, complete the sign-up form on the web page.

Notices regarding bridges and culverts with new or updated weight restrictions are published monthly by VDOT. For additional information or questions, please contact haulingpermits@vdot.virginia.gov.

The Virginia Department of Transportation is committed to ensuring that no person is excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or be subjected to discrimination under any of its programs or activities on the basis of race, color, or national origin, as protected by Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. One Small Step for Humankind ...

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

... One Giant Step for Yours Truly. I hope so, anyway. And what am I giant-stepping about? The Entenmann's selection at my local supermarket. After years of disappointment and of suffering in silence concerning the same old-same old choices, I am planning this week to introduce myself to the store's manager to inquire about the possibility of changing the Entenmann's selection to some varieties more to my liking. Specifically adding: the "Marshmallow Iced Devil's Food Cake" and the "Chocolate Chip Iced Cake," and any glazed "Holiday Sprinkled Pop'ems" as well.

To say I speak from experience goes without saying to anybody who knows me. For those of you who don't know me, know this: when it comes to chocolate desserts, I am a maven (Yiddish for expert). I wouldn't say exactly that I've written the book, but I can say I've contributed a few chapters. Thanks to my mother's feeling that her two boys needed to drink eight glasses of milk daily for healthy bones, she (don't call your mother 'she;') I can still hear my father admonishing) deduced that washing down dessert/chocolate with milk would be an excellent/recurring way to reach this goal. And boy was she right. We had dessert multiple times per day: after breakfast, packed with our school lunches, an after-school snack at home, after dinner and finally before bedtime, and always with a glass of milk. Five separate occasions. The product line: Hostess, Drakes, Nabisco; repeat.

And not that I'm the least bit undernourished or deprived by my local supermarket's poor Entenmann's selection. Hardly. If nothing, I'm flexible when it comes to chocolate desserts. However, I have my preferences, and the older I get - and possible even the less healthy I become, I'm going to want/need to treat myself/lift my spirits by eating delectable/desired desserts. Because, at the end of the day (at the beginning too), as I was told many years ago by my publisher after she learned I had been diagnosed with lung cancer: "Kenny, it's all about you." And believe me, upon receiving a "terminal" diagnosis from my oncologist it wasn't much of a stretch to focus on me, myself, and I.

But as time has passed and I have not, I got away from my individual requirements and tried to blend in with whatever choices were available to me. In that time frame, I've purchased a wider variety of desserts, now to include Tasty Cake and Little Debbie to go along with the original big three. But over time, and not able to get over the disappointment in taste and preference of the usual suspects, I expanded my horizons to include Entenmann's products. And with the lack of diversity in my supermarket's Entenmann's' selections (except for the few and far between times when either of my preferences were available), I had become increasingly tolerant - until recently, since my store never has the varieties I crave, so finally, after months of complaining - to my wife, I'm going to get off my couch and try to do something about it.

As I contemplate more than my navel, I am salivating at the prospect of being able to pre-order and in effect, guarantee me that my favorites will be in-store, possibly even with my name on the package and a visible "Not for Resale" warning printed across the cardboard box. What joy this kind of control would bring a cancer patient who only wants to have a "Marshmallow Iced Devil's Food Cake" when I want it, not when it's available - which is never, at least at my local supermarket. This is not exactly a dying man's wish, but it is a wish nonetheless that if I'm going to succumb to my disease, before I die, I would like to have my cake and eat it too.
