Silver Line Transferred to Metro's Control

Passenger service date to be determined by Metro's Board of Directors.

THE CONNECTION

After years of delays, at 6 a.m. on June 23, Metro formally took over control of the Phase 2 Dulles Extension project of the Silver Line from the Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority. In a news release, Metro Board Chairman Paul C. Smedberg said, "We are one step closer to extending our service offerings to customers that have long-awaited access to Metro."

The conditional milestone is known as the Operational Readiness Date. While there is still more work to do, achieving this milestone towards opening the Silver Line Extension will create jobs, improve economic vitality, and increase ridership for the region. We appreciate the support and understanding of our jurisdictional partners and customers as we work towards project completion," Smedberg said.

When Phase 2 opens to ridership, on a date still to be determined, the extension will provide a direct transit connection to Washington Dulles International Airport and points in Loudoun County with the terminus at Ashburn.

The six new rail stations are Reston Town Center, Herndon, Innovation Center, Washington Dulles International Airport, Loudoun Gateway, and Ashburn. The Extension also includes a new, 90-acre rail yard with a storage capacity for 168 railcars and new maintenance facilities to service, inspect, and clean the trains, according to Metro.

yard with a storage capacity for 168 railcars and new maintenance facilities to service, inspect, and clean the trains, according to Metro.

"[The] announcement brings the National Capital Region a big step closer to new rail service which will connect existing Metro stations with Dulles Airport and Loudoun County," said U.S. Representatives Don Beyer (D-8th District), Gerry Connolly (D-11th District), and Jennifer Wexton (D-10th District), who represent Northern Virginia in the U.S. House in a joint release. "We are encouraged by this news, and will continue to seek safe, reliable Metro service that benefits as many of our constituents as possible."

After the most recently announced Silver Line Phase 2 delay on March 29, 2022, Wexton, Beyer, and Connolly wrote a letter to John Potter, president and chief executive officer of the Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority, and William Sudow, chairperson, Board of Directors of the Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority. In the letter, they expressed concern about the additional delay as revenue service was planned to start before June 30, 2022.

The Members of Congress wrote, "During recent testimony before the House Committee on Oversight and Reform, Mr. Wiedefeld stated that his goal was to begin revenue service on Phase 2 before the end of Metro's fiscal year and Mr. Wiedefeld's retirement on June 30, 2022, but, with this update, that goal is unfortunately no longer attainable."

There is still important work to do before the Silver Line Extension (Phase 2) can be opened for passenger service, including readiness testing and workforce training.

Supervisor Walter Alcorn (D-Hunter Mill) said that Phase 2 of the Silver Line "should be open and running in 2-3 months." There are no guarantees, however. The opening date for Phase 2 of the Silver Line passenger service will follow action by Metro's Board of Directors on the final acceptance of the line by MWAA.

Phase 1 of the new Silver Line opened for revenue service over eight years ago, on August 26, 2014, after a ribbon-cutting ceremony. Local, county, and state elected officials and dignitaries boarded a train that departed the Wiehle-Reston East Metro station, the present western terminus of the line.

"This is a major milestone having the Metro transferred and testing now beginning," said Sheila Olem, mayor of the Town of Herndon. "I look forward to the opportunity to ride the train as I did in Phase 1, this time when the Silver Line Extension opens."

Remembering a Good Friend of Great Falls, Robin Rentsch

Environmental advocate mentored many.

BY MERCIA HOBSON
THE CONNECTION

Longtime resident of Great Falls, Robin Ould Rentsch (formerly Sabin), died on May 30, 2022. She was 83 years old. Family members and friends recalled Robin as a Renaissance woman. They praised her adventurous spirit, talent in whatever she did, high intellect, and stunning beauty. But mostly, they spoke of Robin's compassion, drive, mentoring, and generosity, characteristics they will miss the most.

"Just call Robin, and she will fix it," her friend Christine Huffman recalled members of the Great Falls community saying. "But now there is no Robin to fix it. ... She was a force to be reckoned with," Huffman said.

Bill Marmon, Robin's cousin, said that she was his favorite cousin and that they had been close since they were little children when she lived in Roanoke and he in Richmond. Despite growing up in a sheltered Virginia setting, Robin somehow overcame it, according to Marmon. She developed a desire for adventure and mentorship. Marmon looked up to Robin as a role model. A Robin was fantastic at everything and was intelligent, fun, and beautiful, Marmon said, adding that every man who came within 6 feet of Robin fell in love with her.

Marmon recalled their childhood beach trips to Florida in the late 1940s and early 1950s. Robin's boldness in pushing boundaries was evident at a young age. Robin insisted on being "the king and being in command" while they played, Marmon said. "We let her. I was the prince, and my sister was the servant. We were pretty low on the totem pole."

Robin's daughter, Catherine Brooke Sabin, said Robin was an environmentalist, animal lover, and world traveler. "She was a longtime Great Falls resident and a well-known community volunteer who worked tirelessly to improve local trails and parks," Sabin said. Robin received numerous county awards, including Virginia Horse Council's Outstanding Volunteer Award, Fairfax County Park Authority's Sally Ormsby Environmental Stewardship Award, and Fairfax County's Lady Fairfax Award.

Bill Canis of Great Falls said that Robin became one of his best friends. Canis first met Robin when he relocated to Great Falls in 1999. "I would even go so far as to say she was essentially a mentor to me in terms of becoming engaged in the community and a range of environmental issues," he said.

Canis told the story of how Robin organized a significant number of Great Falls homes to be Certified Wildlife Habitat by The National Wildlife Federation. "Robin researched and publicized this and promoted it extensively," he said. According to the April 17, 2007 Connection story, Certified Community at Last, Great Falls became the "23rd community to achieve Certified Habitat Community status in the nation."

"In an unprecedented one year, we were able to get certified," said Rentsch in the story. "It was an amazing effort."

Canis described Robin's commitment and activism for the native plant garden at the Great Falls Library. "She was instrumental in working with the Great Fall Garden Club to turn that from a mowed grass area into the Native Plant Garden it is today. ... It's a beautiful addition to the community," he said. According to Canis, Robin was "definitely out front," and she wasn't shy if there were issues she thought the community should know. She was very articulate and brought them to the public's attention.

Robin was not above getting her hands dirty, even stepping forward to plant trees. They stand today in front of the Old Forestville Schoolhouse. "I still remember to this day that Robin grabbed the shovel from me and said, 'Look, I'm going to show you the right way to dig a hole for a tree,'" Canis said. "I captured it with my camera, and there's Robin digging the hole with the Girl Scouts watching."

According to Canis, the other thing that Robin did was place a conservation easement on her personal property. "It protects the property in its current state forever," Canis said.

Friend Christine Huffman said Robin volunteered an immense amount of time for Great Falls. She and Robin spent two days doing a census of the number of horses in the community to support the need for trails. "Robin single-handedly created the trail network that still exists," Huffman said, noting the trails are on county maps.

"I went with her a few times, and we walked in front of the tractor so the man wouldn't mow any turtles," Huffman said.

Christa Newton was Robin's lifelong friend. Christa described Robin as "extremely generous and kind," housing families home on leave for several weeks. "That's a lot to offer, but she did it gladly," Newton said.

Asked what she would miss the most about Robin, Newton said, "Her generosity. I miss her intelligent mind. It was incredible ... I loved her dearly. We all did."

Robin is predeceased by her brother, Edward Hatcher Ould III, and her husband, Samuel Burton Rentsch. A celebration of life will be held in the fall. Instead of flowers, donations may be made to the Alzheimer's Association or the Nature Conservancy.

Police Advise: Avoid, Deny, Defend in Active Attacks

Would you know how to respond in critical minutes?

BY SUSAN LAUME
THE CONNECTION

Recent news reports of active shooting events in distant locations, like Uvalde Texas and Buffalo New York, and in our own backyard, at Tysons Corner Center, have some wondering when it will stop.

Calling to mind the tragic deaths in earlier Virginia incidents at VA Tech, Virginia Beach municipal building, and at various locations around the beltway by two snipers, you also might well ask, "What should I do to survive in an active shooter situation?"

Fairfax County police have advice and training for the public to help people prepare, as best one can, for a traumatic active attacker event. Training provided on June 25th, at West Springfield District Government Building, by MPO Anthony Capizzi, from the police department's crime prevention unit, taught attendees how to respond to an active situation, learning from tragedies that happened before.

While almost all past mass killing incidents involve guns, use of knives and cars in such attacks have led law enforcement to use the term "active attacker" instead of "active shooter." The FBI and DHS still refer to "active shooters."

Most attackers, 95 percent, are male of any age, set on avenging a perceived wrong done to them in a location they have some connection with; many broadcast their plans in advance on social media or by other means. The majority of incidents occur at commercial establishments, about 50 percent; about 25 percent at schools, and 15 percent outdoors, according to police.

Regardless of the method or location, police urge people who find themselves in such situations to "avoid, deny, and defend," previously called "run, hide, fight," as the FBI still refers to the strategy.

❖ AVOID means run away from the area if you can to avoid the killer. This might include using an exit other than the one you used to enter an area.

❖ DENY means precluding the killer the ability to see or get to you. It may be possible to hide and be undetectable, or to block access to your location by locking or tying doors, creating barriers or changing your position to remain unseen.

❖ DEFEND is the action you might need to take if "avoid" or "deny" are not possible. It means to take aggressive action to defend yourself using whatever materials may be at hand, grabbing the gun, or fighting the attacker. Police advise that you do not attempt to "play dead" as this is not likely to be convincing and is more likely to make you an easy target.

While police cannot prepare you for every situation possible, they say using the "Avoid/Deny/Defend" strategy provides your best chance of survival until they arrive on the scene. Police response time, at a national average of three minutes from a 911 call, while short, means you may need to rely on your own preparation and deliberations for critical moments. Training yourself to make note of possible exits when you enter any area, giving prior consideration to defense, and keeping "avoid/deny/defend" strategy training in mind, could help save your life.

Capizzi also says it's important to come to your action decision quickly, to fight the denial phase; if you hear gunshots — react — don't wait to convince yourself gun fire is happening.

OPINION

U.S. Supreme Court Threatens Women's Fundamental Rights

BY SEN. SCOTT SUROVELL

Last week the U.S. Supreme Court issued three very important decisions: Carson v. Maikín, New York Rifle & Pistol Assn v. Bruen and Dobbs v. Jackson Women's Health Org. (Dobbs). The Carson case relates to taxpayer funding of religious schools. NY Rifle affects firearm violence prevention. Dobbs eviscerates a woman's right to make her own healthcare decisions. This column addresses the Dobbs decision. I will discuss NY Rifle next week, Carson and the Governor's budget amendments in future columns.

The Dobbs case overruled the landmark Roe v. Wade decision which has been the law of the land since Jan. 22, 1973. That decision held that the right to privacy, embodied in various amendments in the U.S. Constitution's Bill of Rights, gave women a constitutional right to make their own healthcare decisions. Justice Samuel Alito wrote that the Roe case was wrongly decided and should no longer stand.

The Dobbs decision does not change Virginia law -- yet. In Virginia, abortion is legal and in 2020 we even repealed a series of restrictions on a woman's right to make this decision, limits put in place between 2010 and 2019, including requiring an external ultrasound and a picture of the ultrasound's results given to the woman, requiring a 24-hour wait after obtaining the ultrasound, the provision of medically inaccurate information, and revoking a mandate to the Board of Health to unnecessarily regulate abortion clinics like hospitals.

Today, a Virginia woman may obtain an abortion in the state without restriction during her pregnancy's first two trimesters or during the third trimester if three medical doctors certify that the pregnancy will lead to the woman's death or "substantially and irretrievably impair the mental or physical health of the woman."

After the Supreme Court's decision, Virginia Governor Glenn Youngkin announced that he will propose legislation to ban all abortions after the fifteenth week of pregnancy. Another Senator has announced that he will introduce legislation to state that life begins at conception. These bills will not pass the current Senate Education and Health Committee, but after the 2023 elections, if the membership and control of the State Senate changes, Virginia's laws could be significantly modified or repealed.

I support a woman's right to make her own healthcare decisions. In 2020, I even introduced legislation to codify Roe v. Wade, to put that policy into Virginia's laws. Senator Dick Saslaw introduced legislation to start the process of placing Roe in the Constitution of Virginia. We withdrew our own bills at the request of several abortion rights organizations who did not want the legislation to be presented for various reasons. The current composition of the General Assembly along with Governor Youngkin's views make it impossible to pass these bills today, but that could change after 2023 or 2025 when we could try again.

I cannot convey how disturbed I am by the Supreme Court's decisions. While past precedents have fallen before, the Court has never taken away a constitutional right. Americans rely on the Court to follow our Constitution and the law through reliance upon precedent and incremental change. Last week, the Court inappropriately behaved like a legislature.

Five of the six justices who signed on to Dobbs and the other two opinions were nominated by presidents who did not win the American popular vote. All six told Congress that Roe was settled precedent in their confirmation hearings. One was confirmed after the U. S. Senate refused to hold confirmation hearings six months before an election. Three were confirmed after the Republican majority changed internal rules and exempted Supreme Court nominations from the filibuster. All were confirmed by U. S. Senators representing a minority of America's population.

The Court's legitimacy derives from the public's trust, that the public believes that the court bases its opinions on the law and not on a judge's personal opinions or religious beliefs. This week's decisions have eviscerated public confidence and will further inflame the divisions that have plagued our country for the last five years.

I will do everything I can to protect the ability of Virginia's women to have access to contraception and make healthcare decisions without government interference.

All Aboard!

DELEGATE KENNETH R. "KEN" PLUM

The latest word is that the second phase of the Metrorail Silver Line from the Wiehle-Reston East Station to the Route 606 Station in Loudoun County will open this fall. It was originally slated to open in 2018, but a number of hiccups related to construction delayed the project. Many of us will breathe a deep sigh of relief for the completion of a project that has taken decades of our effort. The work will have been worth it. As the Washington Post editorialized in 2005, the Silver Line will "stitch together an incongruent edge city whose future is integral to the region's."

My direct involvement with the project that for some periods of time became an almost full-time job began in 1989 when the Transportation Committee of the Reston Association asked me to meet with them to advise them of my thoughts on how the long-term challenges of getting in and out of Reston might be solved. I was a long-term believer that mass transit had to be part of the answer with my belief that an extension of Metrorail was the best solution for Reston and for Dulles Airport. I knew that the Committee chaired by urban planner and transportation expert Patty Nicoson and membership including transportation planning expert Joe Stowers would not be satisfied with a too-generalized and simplistic answer. I advised them that I was going to establish an organization made up of community and business leaders with whom I would work to advocate for an extension of Metrorail in the Dulles Corridor. The organization became the Dulles Corridor Rail Association (DCRA)—I chaired its Board and Patty Nicoson became Executive Director for nearly two decades until the project was approved and underway.

I anticipate that the ride on the Silver Line will be a smooth one extending from Ashburn in Loudoun County past Dulles Airport, Reston and Tysons Corner into the District of Columbia and Maryland with no need to get out of your seat. The years getting official approv-

HOW TO RESPOND WHEN AN ACTIVE SHOOTER IS IN YOUR VICINITY

QUICKLY DETERMINE THE MOST REASONABLE WAY TO PROTECT YOUR OWN LIFE. CUSTOMERS AND CLIENTS ARE LIKELY TO FOLLOW THE LEAD OF EMPLOYEES AND MANAGERS DURING AN ACTIVE SHOOTER SITUATION.

1. EVACUATE

- Have an escape route and plan in mind
- Leave your belongings behind
- Keep your hands visible

2. HIDE OUT

- Hide in an area out of the active shooter's view.
- Block entry to your hiding place and lock the doors

3. TAKE ACTION

- As a last resort and only when your life is in imminent danger.
- Attempt to incapacitate the active shooter
- Act with physical aggression and throw items at the active shooter

Should the worst happen and you or someone around you is wounded, the Fairfax County Police training includes instruction on how to stop bleeding, which saves lives. The instruction includes applying pressure to and packing wounds, and possible use of a tourniquet until professional emergency medical help arrives. You could need to assist the wounded even as police arrive since their first priority would be to stop the killing. Only after eliminating the continued threat will police then assist with treatment of the wounded, and evacuation of the injured.

Statistically, public active shooter events are very unusual according to FBI documents, referring to them as "low probability, high impact events." For example in 2006, the average school in the U.S. could expect to see a current or former student involved in a homicide on its grounds every 13,000 years.

The next training for citizen response to active at-

NOVA Parks Is Seeking Input by July 8

NOVA Parks is seeking community input on its Draft 2023-2027 Strategic Plan. The parks agency is asking Northern Virginia residents, businesses, visitors and community organizations to review the draft plan and provide feedback online by 5 p.m. on Friday, July 8. Input will help inform NOVA Parks' priorities through 2027. <https://www.novaparks.com/StrategicPlan>

By 2027, NOVA Parks aims to increase parkland; enhance park amenities; offer new services; serve more community members; create a sense of belonging; offset carbon; conserve energy; become a national brand; attract and retain top-quality employees; and further develop the systems to support and grow this dynamic agency. The 5-year strategic plan provides specific goals and objectives to achieve this vision. Highlights of the plan include:

- ❖ Plant over 50,000 trees creating new areas of forest
- ❖ Create or improve trails with a focus on sustainability and an investment of over $6 million
- ❖ Create a W&OD Visitor Center
- ❖ Create a new wetland park for environmental education and sustainability

- ❖ Invest in electric vehicles and mowers, and take other steps to lower carbon footprint
- ❖ Add five new parkland properties, and manage existing parkland to better sequester carbon
- ❖ Expand cultural events and festivals
- ❖ Lead effort to commemorate the Declaration of Independence with interpretive efforts focused on liberty, justice, and freedom
- ❖ Expand partnerships with community groups
- ❖ Grow entrepreneurial revenues to support park improvements
- ❖ Create a team and programs that are reflective of our changing and diverse community

The draft plan is organized into 5 pillars — Environment, Belonging, Our Team, Building the Future, and Revenue and Efficiency — with two short questions per section and two overall questions. Responses will take only a few minutes and will help inform NOVA Parks' upcoming priorities.

Visit novaparks.com/StrategicPlan to review the Draft 2023-2027 Strategic Plan and provide feedback by July 8.

Exceptional Design Awards

Fairfax County is now accepting submissions for the James M. Scott Exceptional Design Awards.

Established in 1984, the awards program aims to celebrate and raise awareness of outstanding planning and design projects among design professionals and the general public.

Any project completed in Fairfax County since January 1, 2017 is eligible for a nomination. Submissions must be sent by email or mail by 5 p.m. on Friday, July 29, 2022. Details about submission categories, requirements and the entry form can be found on the awards webpage.

<https://www.fairfaxcounty.gov/planning-development/exceptional-design-awards/requirements-and-entry-form>

All award entries should meet some or all of the following criteria:

- ❖ Exemplifies a superior work of architecture.
- ❖ Incorporates outstanding site design and landscaping.
- ❖ Takes into account the context of the project design in relationship to its surroundings.
- ❖ Applies energy and water conservation, and other green building practices.

Awards are granted in three categories: honor, merit and honorable mention. A jury of design professionals, including architects, select the winners who are announced in mid-October.

The James M. Scott Exceptional Design Awards program is sponsored by the Fairfax County Board of Supervisors and administered by the Fairfax County Department of Planning and Development, in cooperation with the county's Architectural Review Board and the Northern Virginia Chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

Collect for Kids

School supply and backpack collection efforts are underway for students in FCPS.

Educate Fairfax works alongside many local non-profits, businesses and faith-based organizations to provide school supplies and backpacks to students in need in FCPS. These supplies prepare them to start school in the fall with a smile.

Educate Fairfax purchases school supply kits to be delivered to schools. Your $10 donation will provide a kit with 10 items in it for a student in need.

Collect for Kids is a county-wide coordinated effort related to the collection and distribution of school supplies and backpacks in Fairfax County.

Educate Fairfax raises funds for the purchase of preassembled school supply kits for our students in need. Monetary donations can be made at the Collect for Kids donation page. <https://educatefairfax.app.neoncrm.com/np/clients/educatefairfax/donation.jsp>

FCPS does not accept physical donations of backpacks or school supplies, but will share best practices on collection efforts for interested groups. These groups may be connected directly to one of the many local organizations that work with the Collect for Kids effort.

Email Kathy Ryan kryan@fcps.edu for more information.

als and agreed-upon details were more like a roller coaster ride, however. DCRA had a professional survey conducted that showed 93 percent support for the project, but the federal administration at the time was backing away from costly mass transit ventures. The late Senator John Warner and then Governor Tim Kaine and Congressman Frank Wolfe provided critical and timely support. DCRA organized dozens of citizens, businesses, and organizations in a "Dulles Rail Now" advocacy effort. There were debates on alignment, over or under in Tysons Corner, financing alternatives, and other issues. Supervision for building the project was assigned to the Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority (MWAA) as it had experience with large project management with the airport expansions. Metro that operates the entire subway and bus system for the region will operate the extension as an integral part of the system.

With the opening of Phase One of the Silver Line and contracts approved for Phase Two, DCRA recognized that its mission had been accomplished, and it merged with the Northern Virginia Transportation Alliance in 2017. I am relieved that we seem to be past the delays. See you on board Metro in the near future!

INPUT NEEDED ON MCC DRAFT STRATEGIC PLAN

The McLean Community Center is seeking public input as it works to finalize the MCC Draft Strategic Plan. The plan is based on public feedback MCC has gathered from district residents over several months spanning 2021-2022. MCC is located at 1234 Ingleside Ave. MCC has hired consultants AMS Planning & Research to help craft the plan. AMS has extensive nationwide experience in strategic research for community centers and nonprofit organizations that are similar in scope to MCC. The goal is to design an effective strategic plan that will yield significant impact over the next three to five years. The next step is to invite residents of Dranesville Small District 1A, who pay a real estate surcharge to support the center, and other patrons and stakeholders to again express their ideas about the future programming and strategic priorities of the center.

An in-person public hearing on the MCC Draft Strategic Plan will be held at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, July 6, at the center. AMS staff will present the draft plan to attendees and record their responses. The draft plan is posted on the center's website, www.mcleancenter.org, and printed copies are available at the center's welcome desk.

Being Naïve Is Just Plain Stupid

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

Even though I was unexpectedly diagnosed at age 54 and a half with stage IV, non-small cell lung cancer, I never felt compelled to look for additional trouble by ever having an age-recommended colonoscopy – until recently, that is. I figured what I didn't know wouldn't hurt me or rather, I had already been hurt enough (my pre-existing cancer diagnosis). As such, I didn't consider that cancer has its own set of rules and presuming otherwise is not a prudent course of action – or in my case, inaction. Incorrectly, I also thought that having one cancer diagnosis would somehow mitigate against having another cancer. I must have thought that there was some logic to the process. I should have known better. Cancer and logic aren't usually a part of the same diagnosis/prognosis.

But I rationalized that since I was regularly being CT-scanned, MRI'd, bone-scanned and P.E.T. scanned, I thought – wrongly, that if there was cancer to be found in my body somewhere, all these scans would find it, even if they weren't exactly looking for it. I mean, who's having more diagnostic scans than a "terminal" cancer patient undergoing active treatment? Given how much diagnostic process I was already enduring, I didn't/never really grasped the importance of doing more. I figured I was already doing more than my share. Not that share has anything to do with fending off cancer. Nevertheless, it made for plausible deniability and so it wasn't until nearly age 67, almost 13 and half years after my initial lung cancer diagnosis in 2009, that I acted my age and not my shoe size. I scheduled the procedure and am relieved to report that all's well that ends well, except that I still have a "terminal" form of papillary thyroid cancer. 'Terminal' in that the medication I'm taking, and which is working to keep me stable, has a limited shelf life: three years, expiring Sept. 2023-ish. So either I'll need new medicine or a stronger shelf.

But I can't worry about any of that. I must live my life like everyday matters and that means getting scanned/examined like my life depends on it because you know what? It just might. And in the process of paying attention/following doctor's orders/age-related protocols, I just might improve my quality of life by lifting that bale and toeing that line because it's probably not going to happen by itself. I'm a humanities person, not a science person and so there are lots of substance that is lost on me. Certainly, I can keep my eye on the ball but it's the ball I'm sort of paying attention to. The problem is? There's a lot more than the ball I need to be paying attention to. Fortunately, delaying this most recent procedure hasn't complicated my life. In a way, it's sort of unencumbered me. I'm less afraid now that the next procedure will result in something bad because I've been through one that wasn't. Not that I was paranoid, but when you've been diagnosed with cancer at a relatively young/unexpected age (54 for me), your entire orientation, how you think and feel, how you prioritize and analyze and theorize changes. On the one hand, you live and learn, on the other you value each day as if it might be your last. And when an oncologist tells you your prognosis is "terminal," as mine told me in late February 2009, you take him at his word, that the next day really could be your last.

But that was a long time ago and somehow, I'm still alive. And though I've been given no assurances of anything living forward, I am grateful for each day and will try to care for myself in a way that doesn't hasten my demise but rather prevents it. And if that means having colonoscopies annually so, be it. It's a small price to pay/minor inconvenience to endure to take advantage of the blessings I've been given.
