Fighting for Children's Lives

Centreville's Crossett lobbies Congress to improve children's cancer treatments.

It's too late to save her own child. Meg Crossett's daughter Rachel died of a cancer called neuroblastoma on July 3, 2001, at age 6. But she's doing her best to improve the quality of care for other children battling the same disease that took Rachel's life.

On Tuesday, June 18, this resident of Centreville's Pleasant Hill community joined forces with more than 150 patients, survivors and their families on Capitol Hill to ask Congress to continue supporting initiatives to improve the treatment and outcomes for children with cancer.

"I came to Capitol Hill today because I do not want any other family to suffer like our family has suffered with the loss of Rachel," said Crossett. "Her siblings and her father and I live with her death every day, and especially this year when she would have graduated from high school and be moving on toward college."

"We need to put more money into researching new cures and to implement palliative care programs for all children," she continued. "I work with DC Candlelighters to help families whose children currently have cancer, and I can see there are no new cures for these families, even 10 years after Rachel's death."

So Crossett participated in Tuesday's second annual Childhood Cancer Action Day event in

ROUNDUPS

Fair Oaks Townhouse Fire

Fire officials say a blaze last week at a Fair Oaks townhouse caused an estimated $50,000 damage. The single-family home is at 4815 Green Duck Lane, and the cause of the fire is under investigation.

Fairfax County Fire and Rescue Department units responded to the townhouse last Thursday, June 14, around 8:05 a.m. Firefighters encountered smoke and fire coming from the rear of the first floor of the middle, two-story townhouse upon arrival.

Firefighters conducted an aggressive attack and brought the flames under control in approximately 10 minutes. Officials say the blaze began near the stairs leading to the second floor. Smoke alarms were present. No one was home when the fire broke out, but one person was displaced. There were no injuries.

Free Carseat Inspections

Certified technicians from the Sully District Police Station will perform free, child safety carseat inspections Thursday, June 20, from 5-8:30 p.m., at the station, 4900 Stonecroft Blvd. in Chantilly. No appointment is necessary. But residents should install the child safety seats themselves so technicians may properly inspect and adjust them, as needed.

However, because of time constraints, only the first 35 vehicles arriving on each date will be inspected. That way, inspectors may have enough time to properly instruct the caregiver on the correct use of the child seat. Call 703-814-7000, ext. 5140, to confirm dates and times.

Fair Oaks CAC to Meet

The Citizens Advisory Council of the Fair Oaks District Police Station will meet Tuesday, June 25, at 7 p.m., in the roll-call room of the police station. It's at 12300 Lee Jackson Memorial Highway in Chantilly.

Frey at Sully Council

Supervisor Michael R. Frey (R-Sully) will discuss the state of Sully at the next meeting of the Sully District Council of Citizens Associations. It's set for Wednesday, June 26, at 7 p.m., in the Sully District Governmental Center, 4900 Stonecroft Blvd. in Chantilly. Call Jeff Parnes, evenings, at 703-904-0131.

Food Donations for WFCM

Western Fairfax Christian Ministries' food pantry urgently needs donations of oil, canned fruit, rice (2-lb. bags), peanut butter, canned tuna and meat, macaroni and cheese, sugar, fruit juice, Hamburger Helper, and pancake mix and syrup. Also needed are toothpaste, deodorant and diapers, sizes 5 and 6. Bring all items to WFCM's new food-pantry location, weekdays, 9 a.m.-1:30 p.m., at 13888 Metrotech Drive, near Papa John's Pizza and Kumon Learning Center, in Chantilly's Sully Place Shopping Center.

'Mountain View Dramatically Changed My Life'

Students overcome adversity, persevere to graduate.

BY BONNIE HOBBS
CENTRE VIEW

Student Ana-Lycia Pena was just about to sing the last word of the National Anthem during Mountain View High's graduation last Friday at Oakton High, when the auditorium went dark.

A driver had struck an electric pole in front of the school, knocking out all power to the building. But that didn't faze the students of Mountain View. They're used to dealing with obstacles, adapting to new circumstances and, ultimately, succeeding.

So no one panicked or complained. Instead, while electricians worked to solve the problem, the ceremony moved across the hall to the gym, which had emergency lights. And there, things went off without a hitch.

"We're extremely proud of your accomplishments," Principal Dave Jagels told the students. "I've seen your struggles and how you came to this school not able to speak English. I've seen you take two jobs to support your families and work with teachers on Saturdays to achieve your goals."

"I'm blown away, completely amazed and humbled to be at a school that gives students a second chance," he continued. "This is why we go into education — to help hardworking and dedicated students like you."

Then, in keeping with Mountain View tradition, three graduating students shared their personal stories. Speaking first June 14 was Delsidia Avelar.

DELSIDIA AVELAR

"I come from a humble home in El Salvador and a family of eight," she said. "My dad lives in the U.S. and my mom has diabetes and anemia so, growing up, I had to help her."

But the family needed more money so, at age 16, Avelar came to America where friends had a job for her. She went to high school, too. "But I wasn't learning anything because I wasn't putting in the effort or getting support from my parents and teachers," she said. "I felt like I was alone in the world."

So she quit school and, two months later, got pregnant. "I cried myself to sleep and got no support from the father of my child," said Avelar. "I felt like a total failure, went into depression and even thought about suicide."

Overcome with emotion, tears rolled down her cheeks and she stopped speaking. Then a girl in the audience yelled out, "You can do it," everyone applauded and Avelar continued. In her condition, she said, she didn't want to go to work or leave the house, but she began meeting with a social worker.

"I now had a second baby, so I had to go back to school so I could get a better job later on," she said. "The social worker gave me information about Mountain View, and I was happy because I'd be with students my own age. I never got along with my Principal urges graduates to never give up.

Since a power failure delayed the start of last week's Mountain View High graduation, Principal Dave Jagels gave an abbreviated version of his prepared speech.

Quoting 40-year teacher Rita Pierson, who now conducts professional-development workshops and seminars for thousands of educators, he said, "Every child deserves a champion: an adult who will never give up on them, who understands the power of connection and insists they become the best they can possibly be."

Jagels then thanked Mountain View's teachers and staff "for the many hours you spent helping these students, including Saturdays and Sundays when you gave up your own time to be with them. And thank you for being their shoulder to cry on or the person there to give a hug when things were beyond bearable."

"Thank you for mentoring these students, calling home when they weren't in school and giving so much of yourselves to help them get to where they are right now," he continued. "I see your efforts on a daily basis and I'm humbled to be part of such a giving staff."

To the students, Jagels said, "The stories you share about your lives and the obstacles you've overcome demonstrate, in a way, that you've already taken some of the first steps to being successful in life. Let Mountain View's motto of 'Family, love and respect' be among your guiding principles. But what you've accomplished doesn't stop now and it doesn't stop here — don't you ever give up."

Before the graduating seniors received their diplomas, five students were given special awards. Math teacher Anne Hoffman presented the Citizenship Award to Delsidia Avelar.

Summer Food Drives Needed

Summer is when WFCM is most in need of food donations. Children are home from school and need three meals a day, but many come from homes where both money and food are scarce. So WFCM is hoping local residents and businesses will hold summer food drives to help it restock its food pantry so it can provide food to local families in need. Anyone interested in doing so should contact Terry Kelly at

Talking, Acting To Keep Them Safe

Reducing drug- and alcohol-related fatalities.

The pages and covers of most of this week's Connection Newspapers, including the Centre View, show the joy and accomplishment associated with high school graduation. The day celebrates graduates who accomplished much just by finishing, graduates headed to college and more.

Most area high schools also celebrate with an all-night graduation party, an event designed and coordinated by parents to provide graduates with safe and appealing fun, with many schools organizing an annual party for more than 20 years.

It was, for example, the 25th annual All Night Drug and Alcohol-Free Graduation Celebration for T.C. Williams High School when the class of 2013 held its party on Saturday, June 15. Since 1989, when this tradition began at T.C. Williams, there have been no drug or alcohol-related graduation night fatalities.

Herndon High School parents have been providing a memorable evening for our graduates in an alcohol and drug free atmosphere for more than 20 years, and report that, "since the All Night Grad Celebrations began, we are happy to say there have been no alcohol or drug related fatalities on graduation night."

Summer is the beginning of many celebrations for young people in this area, and many of them, whether underage and over 21, admit that they celebrate with alcohol. Chances are that if your household includes a high school student, that student sometimes consumes alcohol. Graduation night is not the only danger lurking, as everyone knows.

All night graduation parties provide not only a safe place on graduation night, but also many opportunities before and after to talk about drinking and driving. There is no substitute for parents talking to their children about drinking, no matter how awkward, no matter how many eye-rolls you must endure. Driving while under the influence, or getting into a car as a passenger with someone who is impaired, is not the only danger of drinking, but it is one of the most avoidable.

On graduation day in 2007, West Potomac High School endured the unimaginable tragedy. Two young women who had graduated just hours before died in a car driven by another young woman who had alcohol in her system. The driver and another passenger, a 2005 West Potomac graduate, also died in that crash.

If you've successfully raised a teenager through high school graduation, it is unbearable to think of losing him or her now. Talk. Tell them you love them. Tell them it's been way too much trouble to get to this point to risk losing them now. Tell them that you will come and get them, without consequences, any time they need a ride to avoid getting in a car with someone who has been drinking and/or otherwise under the influence. Look them in the eyes. Say the words.

For Adults Who Need a Reminder

Washington Regional Alcohol Program will provide free rides for those over 21 who find themselves out celebrating on the Fourth of July without a safe ride home.

The 2013 Independence Day SoberRide program will be offered from 10 p.m. Thursday, July 4 until 4 a.m. Friday, July 5.

To receive a free cab ride home (up to a $30.00 fare), please call 800-200-8294 (TAXI). You must be 21 or older to use the SoberRide service.

WRAP's SoberRide has helped to ensure greater Washington, D.C. residents have a safe way home on high-risk holidays. Since 1993, WRAP has provided over 57,990 safe rides home, keeping impaired drivers off the road.

SoberRide operates during the December/January holiday season, St. Patrick's Day, Independence Day and Halloween.

LETTER Valuing Education

To the Editor:

Many of us will go to great lengths in the pursuit of education. Sometimes these sacrifices may be small things for others, but big things for us. For me, it was taking a summer class when I really could use vacation time after a rough spring semester.

However, a saying of the Prophet Mohammed comes to mind whenever I feel a need for that extra motivational push. He said, "Seek education even if you have to travel to China."

Luckily, I do not have to go that far as George Mason's campus is only half an hour away from me. Still, I realize that this opportunity to study is a great blessing for me and that I should appreciate every moment of it. As others around me still struggle to afford higher education, even in these great United States, I for one am very lucky and grateful.

Cox Farms Owners Honored

Eric Cox, Gina Richard named Sully Lord and Lady Fairfax.

BY ALEX McVEIGH
CENTRE VIEW

In 1979 Eric Cox and his wife Gina Richard purchased 116 acres in western Fairfax County. Having founded Cox farms with his brother seven years previously, the new property was considered by some to be too remote to be successful.

More than 30 years later, Fairfax County has grown around them, and Cox Farms have been a go-to place for outdoor recreation and locally grown produce.

"There's always a reason to come by Cox Farm, for anything you need during the year," said Amy Burke of Manassas, who visited the farm's Corner Market recently. "We get our Christmas trees here in the winter, I get flowers for my mother and sisters in the spring, we buy produce here in the summer and try to come to the Fall Festival every year."

Burke is one of thousands of people who have come to the farm since 1983, when Eric Cox's decision to give a hayride to a local group led to the creation of the Fall Festival.

Cox and Richard were honored by Supervisor Michael Frey (R-Sully) on Tuesday, June 4, as Lord and Lady Fairfax from the district. The annual recognition is given to a man and woman each year by each supervisor for their community efforts.

"In addition to growing and selling their own produce, Cox Farms supports numerous community initiatives," Frey said. "They lend tremendous support to Westfield and Chantilly High School. Each year they help Westfield's Mulch Day fundraiser by providing trucks and drivers to haul the mulch. In addition, they purchase program advertisements and allow theater boosters from both schools to use the farm property to promote upcoming theater shows."

Cox and Richard currently run the farm with their three children Lily, Aaron and Lucas.

Rising to Boys & Girls Clubs 'Youth of the Year'

With help of Boys & Girls Clubs, local immigrant student receives full college scholarship.

BY MARILYN CAMPBELL
CENTRE VIEW

Today, Henry Lopez has a bright future, complete with a full scholarship to college. It wasn't always that way, however, and he remembers being a preschool student in a foreign country, unfamiliar with the language and culture, fighting to learn, to fit in, to avoid falling into a gang.

The Boys & Girls Clubs proved an invaluable help to him in this struggle, and Henry was just selected as the Boys & Girls Clubs Youth of the Year for District of Columbia and Commonwealth of Virginia.

"For my family, the American dream when we came here in 1999 was survival," said Henry, who graduated from JEB Stuart High School in Falls Church last week. "In Guatemala, my parents realized that there was no money [or] opportunity to obtain it, so the only way to care for my [family] was to come to the United States."

THAT DREAM has gone far beyond survival, as Henry was accepted into George Mason University's Honors College and awarded a full academic scholarship to the Fairfax school as a University Scholar. Henry was one of 21 students selected from a pool of 1,500 applicants who were expected to "possess exemplary records of academic achievement ... demonstrate evidence of intellectual vision, a commitment to the obligations of citizenship and the potential to overcome obstacles and solve challenging problems," according to Anthony Dyer Hoefer, Ph.D., the director of Mason's University Scholars Program and an Old Town Alexandria resident.

His college application wasn't the first time he impressed George Mason officials, however. While still in the eighth grade, Henry was accepted into George Mason's Early Identification Program, which supports and enriches students who will be the first in their families to attend college.

"He was an exceptional first generation college student," said Lewis E. Forrest II, the program's executive director. "Recently,

Henry Lopez (pictured here in Guatemala with his sister Yuri) moved with his family to Falls Church in search of the American dream. Earlier this month, he graduated from high school with a 4.3 G.P.A., was awarded a full scholarship to George Mason University and was selected as the Boys & Girls Clubs Youth of the Year for the District of Columbia and Commonwealth of Virginia.

I was looking over his eighth grade application and he stated that his number one goal was to go to college. Not only has he met that goal, he has gained a positive reputation before he has even enrolled in classes here at Mason."

Henry graduated with a 4.3 GPA as a member of the National Honor Society, as well as vice president of the JEB Stuart High School's chapter of the Spanish Honor Society. Among a lengthy list of academic and extracurricular accomplishments, he also served on his high school's Student Government Association and ran on the varsity cross-country team. While he's proud of his accomplishments, he gives much of the credit to the support he received from his parents and the Boys & Girls Clubs of Greater Washington (BGCGW), Fairfax region located in Falls Church, Mount Vernon and Herndon.

Henry says his appreciation of hard work came from his parents: Emerita Lopez, who works as a housekeeper, and Arnoldo Lopez, a day laborer.

"Witnessing my parents physically push themselves every day had a tremendous impact on me," said Henry. "I saw their situation and they constantly reminded me that they didn't want me to clean houses or mow lawns."

Emerita said she and her husband had loftier goals for Henry, his 21-year-old sister Yuri and his 13-year-old brother William. "I came here with my husband because it meant a much better life for my kids, but I had to work hard every day," she said.

THE LOPEZ FAMILY moved to the Culmore neighborhood of Falls Church 15 years ago. It's an area with affordable housing, but also gang activity, so the Lopezes found protection for their children in the form of the Culmore Chapter of the Boys & Girls Clubs.

"I start working at 8 in the morning and finished at 8 at night," said Emerita. "I work as a housekeeper so we don't have much money for babysitters. I was looking for a safe place for my kids while I worked long hours. When [they were] at the club, I knew that [they were] safe."

Henry says that at the time, he was unaware of the danger that lurked in Culmore. "I had to grow up at a young age," he said.

The Boys & Girls Clubs not only provided safety, it taught him to dream. "It would have been very easy to be influenced by gang activity because my parents were working all the time," he said. "The Boys & Girls Clubs gave activities, provided me a place to go to learn about college and explore careers. Had it not been for the Boys & Girls Clubs, I would not have had the vision of going to college."

Wonhee Kang, regional director of the Fairfax County Region Boys & Girls Clubs of Greater Washington, has served an important role in Henry's life. "When I first met him, he was 4," she said. "It was right after he arrived in this country from Guatemala. When he first came to the club, he didn't speak any English. He was hiding and he was very shy."

Over the past 14 years, Kang has watched Lopez evolve from that shy little boy into an eloquent orator and a proficient scholar. "I've been watching him grow year after year. He learned slowly about culture, culture of the club and community," she said. "There were times when he didn't have appropriate clothes for speaking engagements and competitions so we made sure that he had a suit. I took him to our Youth of the Year competition in Newport News, Va., and that was his first time staying a hotel. The kids may not have [much] financially, but these are amazing young people."

Henry was selected to speak at the 28th Annual Tim Russert Congressional Dinner presented by the Boys & Girls Clubs of Greater Washington last month, an annual fundraising event for the Boys & Girls Clubs. Kang also invited Henry's family "because this is a once-in-a-lifetime event for Henry."

It was the first time in Henry's life his father was able to attend one of his activities. "It is not that doesn't want to," Kang said. "A lot of times his work schedule doesn't allow it, but he is also afraid to go to events where the majority of people speak English and he doesn't."

Kang's effort to ensure that Henry's family attended the dinner proved to be a profound gesture. "I was overwhelmed the whole time because I had never gone to such an elegant event," said Henry's father, Arnoldo, through an interpreter. "Tears could not stay away as [Henry] spoke. It was hard for me to believe that he was talking in front of so many people."

DURING HIS SPEECH, Henry told the crowd about the challenges he faced growing up in Virginia as an immigrant with financial limitations. "Looking back, the Clubs taught me to channel my responsibilities and develop a balance, providing me with a normal childhood. If it were not for the Boys & Girls Clubs, I would not be pursuing every resource to make a better future for myself and others."

Real Estate Fraud Yields Two Years in Prison

Chantilly woman is sentenced.

BY BONNIE HOBBS
CENTRE VIEW

A Chantilly woman has been sentenced to two years in prison and ordered to pay more than half a million dollars in restitution for her part in a real-estate fraud. She is Melissa McWilliams, 35.

She was among four people who pleaded guilty Feb. 19, in federal court in Alexandria to conspiring to fraudulently take over the titles of homes in Washington, D.C., without the real property owners' knowledge, selling those homes and keeping the profit.

According to court records, Jamaul Roberts, 25, College Park, Md., conspired with others to visit the D.C. tax courts to identify properties with overdue property tax bills. They used sources such as Ancestry.com and the D.C. property tax database to locate vulnerable properties where they could take over the home's title without the real owners' knowledge.

These homes included those left vacant, passed on to heirs after the owner's death, or owned by elderly, nursing-home residents who didn't understand the transactions taking place.

The fraudulent sales were facilitated by two settlement agents, Patricia Mantilla, 35, of Lorton, and McWilliams. Both worked at Ace Title & Escrow in Annandale.

The agents knew the home sales were fraudulent and that the owners appearing at settlement were not the rightful owners. They also assisted the conspirators in hiding profits on the property sales from other parties involved in the sale through fictitious invoices to be paid at closing.

The conspirators, including Michael Brown, 41, Hyattsville, Md., recruited straw sellers to sign documents and falsely represent themselves as the property owners. Brown, for example, appointed himself the personal representative of the rightful owner of a property and prepared a fake death certificate for the owner, even though the owner was still living. He then tried selling that property to another member of the conspiracy for $350,000.

During the course of the scheme, numerous properties were fraudulently sold, resulting in more than $1 million in actual and intended losses.

But eventually, authorities learned what was happening and all four people involved were arrested. And in February in U.S. District Court in Alexandria, Mantilla and McWilliams both pleaded guilty before Judge Gerald Bruce Lee to conspiring to commit wire fraud.

Mantilla returned to court April 26 and, at that time, she was sentenced to two years in prison followed by three years supervised release. Lee also ordered her to pay $643,521 in restitution.

McWilliams learned her fate June 7, when Lee sentenced her, as well, to two years incarceration and three years supervised release. He then ordered her to pay $643,465 in restitution.

GRADUATION '13

Students Persevere To Graduate

teachers until Mountain View.”

When Avelar first started there, she said, “I had to look up almost every word in the dictionary to understand it. I thought I’d graduate in 2015, so I pushed myself to learn English to graduate faster.” Within months, she advanced to ESOL 3 and then to ESOL 4.

“I’m now more mature and more capable of making choices good for me and for the future, not just for the moment,” she said. “I’m confident I can accomplish what I want and give my sons a better life. Thank you, Mountain View.”

ADA RAMIREZ

Next at the podium was Ada Ramirez, 24, who described herself as a “friend, daughter, wife and mother of three.” From a small village in El Salvador, she grew up in poverty. First, her dad left the family for the U.S.; then when she was 11, her mother did, too.

“My heart fell out of me,” said Ramirez, in tears. “I couldn’t understand why she had to leave. I felt abandoned, with no hope. And as the oldest daughter, I had to take care of my younger siblings. But in El Salvador there’s a saying, ‘Do what you have to do’ to survive.”

So at age 13, she and her brothers also headed for America, but it was a tough and perilous trip. “It was a long journey and I walked barefoot part of the way,” she said. “But after no sleep and some danger, my brothers and I entered the U.S.”

Attending high school, Ramirez met her future husband, Luis, and had a son. Some 18 months later, she was pregnant again; and when their oldest child was 3, the family moved to Virginia. She heard about Mountain View and enrolled.

“School was challenging — especially since I was pregnant for the third time,” she said. “I was working 24 hours a day as a wife, mother and student. But Mountain View dramatically changed my life. It’s a school with a family atmosphere where students are treated with love and respect — and where students not born speaking English get all the support they need.”

Now, she’s planning to become an elementary-school teacher. Yet back then, said Ramirez, it would have been easy to give up. “But I didn’t, because of my school, my family and my faith,” she said. “When I was 12, I was a mother to my brothers; and now I’ve learned, you have to do what it takes to reach your goals.”

JAMIE FREAR

When she was younger, Jamie Frear was a follower, not a leader. “I was making poor choices and, at age 15, I was pregnant,” she said. “I couldn’t believe it. I took eight pregnancy tests, but it still didn’t feel real. I felt alone, embarrassed and ashamed of what I’d done. I hid it from my friends, and I was tired and sick and couldn’t focus on my classes.”

With three years of school left, she knew her base school wouldn’t be best for her. “I wanted a new place so I could have a fresh start and concentrate on school and my future,” she said. At Mountain View, counselor Sue Houde welcomed her and told her about the school’s pregnant and parenting students program.

“School was much better here; chemistry was my favorite subject,” said Frear. “I took assignments home and worked hard. I made friends and worked part-time and the feeling of aloneness was gone.”

She, too, wants to teach elementary school and knows she must make wise choices to achieve her objective and make a good life for her daughter, Abigail.

“I’ve learned that, if you focus on the negative, things will stay that way,” said Frear. “But you have to focus on the future, and I’m ready to keep moving forward.”

Jagels: 'Never Give Up'

"Delsidia helped build a positive school community," said Hoffman. "She's a leader and a doer. Despite what would be overwhelming challenges, she persevered and achieved her goals. She also modeled family, love and respect on a daily basis by her care and compassion for her Mountain View family."

Giving the Personal Achievement Award was physics teacher Jeff Jones. "Many Mountain View students wrestle with family, job and adult responsibilities, and this award recognizes that," he said.

He then presented it to Nofa Elias and Catie Chase. "Nofa is a working mother of two, elementary-school students and sets high standards for herself," said Jones. "And Catie works nights and weekends at a veterinary clinic while caring for her family's health needs."

ESOL Department Chair Corri Reamer gave the first two Faculty Awards for academic and personal achievement to Ada Ramirez and Noelia Amurrio. "Ada started at Mountain View three years ago with no English, but helped her peers at every turn," said Reamer. "She was a determined learner and, by the end of her first year, she passed her geosystems SOL."

Reamer said Ramirez also mentored other young mothers and "her compassion and generosity of spirit have made her universally respected here at the View. She was once too timid to speak, but is now a bold and confident woman. She even wrote to President Obama and received an answer."

"She received the highest score on the writing SOL of all Mountain View students, this spring," continued Reamer. "She'd be a phenomenal teacher; and we're certain that, wherever she goes, success will follow."

As for Amurrio, Reamer called her a "uniquely tenacious student. Her drive for excellence is unyielding." Amurrio, too, didn't speak English when she came to the school, but Reamer said an "internal motivation" to do her best propelled her forward.

Jamie Michelle Frear talks about challenges she has faced early in her life and how her transition to Mountain View High School has helped her.

Delsidia Maricela Avelar holds one of her sons after giving one of the student speeches during her graduation ceremony for Mountain View High School last week. Avelar talked about the challenges she has faced in her life that forced the delay of receiving her high school diploma for many years.

"It hasn't always been easy, but Noelia's persevered and also made time to help other students with lesser skills," said Reamer. "In December, she spoke at the ESOL students' meeting and told her story of growth, setbacks and success."

Noelia's passion to be the best and determination to succeed has made her a role model at Mountain View.

Presenting the final Faculty Award was school social worker Cynthia Crissafulli. The recipient was Jamie Frear, who came to Mountain View in her sophomore year.

"Her resilience, generosity and integrity make her a role model to her daughter," said Crissafulli. "And her compassion, honor, diligence and enthusiasm made her a leader among her peers."

Frear was also president of the school's Environmental Club, and her academic ability enabled her to graduate a year early with a 3.76 GPA. Said Crissafulli: "It has been a pleasure and an honor knowing her, and we look forward to hearing about all her future accomplishments."

Testing, 1, 2, 3; Testing, 4, 5, 6; Testing 7, 8, 9...

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

Different from last week's column on the testing subject, "Full Circle," this week's column addresses another emotional battleground: the unknown. Other than selling computers out of Frank Costanza's house and reaching a "Serenity Now"-type nirvana with each sale, outlets available to yours truly – one of many terminal cancer patients anticipating results from a CT scan of my lungs/upper torso, and in turn awaiting the electronic exchange from my oncologist advising me of said results – are difficult to come by. And even though I'm experienced at this process, four-plus years and counting, literally; and accustomed as well to the "cycle of loom," familiar it has become; easier however, it has not.

In effect, this testing and waiting for the results is its own test: of patience, self-discipline, endurance, forbearance; so I tell myself: "Serenity Now," and hope there's not insanity later, as there was for Lloyd Braun on this most memorable Seinfeld episode.

However much I want to pretend, deny and minimize the significance of these results, the reality is, my life sort of depends on them. Moreover the digital images that will appear on the computer screen in the doctor's office will indeed tell the tale, hopefully not of woe. Yours truly hemming and hawing and being asymptomatic are all irrelevant once the radiologist hits send and the images/results end up in my oncologist's inbox. That's when the rubber will truly hit the road and I will learn if my future is now or later.

So you bet it's a test, and it's no stinkin' multiple guess/multiple choice test either. It's a test of character, of will; you against yourself. And though you'd like the best man to win and for you to be the best man, the reality is: cancer may be the man and you may not be. As much as you try, there's an inevitability to science and medicine and not always does the best man win. Death and taxes are inevitable, as the old joke goes – for a reason!

Unfortunately, in many patients, cancer kills; it's not a feeling, it's a fact. My job as a cancer patient is to resist and not succumb to its devastating devices. Every day is a test, physically and especially emotionally. One's effects I can attempt to semi control, the other, not so much. As I cycle around to my next scan, I am reminded of how challenging this whole cancer trip has been. And though I've been there and been doing it now for nearly four and one half years post-diagnosis, each scan presents new risks. For cancer patients though, these scans are a necessity of life. Unfortunately – and this is our harsh reality, they may also be a precursor of death. Try studying for that.
