SNOW DAY

More Than 7 Inches of Snow in Arlington

chools and almost everything else were closed Monday and Tuesday in Arlington as more than 7 inches of snow was recorded at National Airport.

Neighbors were popping out the front door with the video on their phone or pulling out the regular Nikon and taking pictures on Monday to send to their relatives in sunnier parts of the country. Nobody here ventured out in the frigid temperatures so they captured the images in their own backyards including animal tracks across the yard, hungry birds, snow covered furniture and the handy little red wagon covered in snow instead of loaded with groceries.

BUSINESS

Penny Morrill, a long-time customer, says her favorite spread is the Moroccan cilantro.

Kitchen to Market — Brady and Heather Make It Work

By Shirley Ruhe Arlington Connection

oday the herbed goat cheese dip is the customer favorite at Arlingtonian Brady Marz's Picnic gourmet spread demo at Balducci's in McLean on the afternoon of New Year's Eve. Two weeks ago the favorite was Moroccan cilantro. Marz says they currently offer three dips with two new ones, Parmesan and jalapeño herb, to come out next month. "We used to have a lot more choices but some of them, like caramelized onion and chipotle sage, never found a market. We figure out what sells."

The business started in their kitchen in Charleston, South Carolina in 2009 where Marz's wife, Heather, experimented with making labneh and adding different herbs. 4 ARLINGTON CONNECTION SANUARY 8-21, 2025

"We were in the furniture business at the time and then the recession hit and we weren't selling furniture. So we had to pivot."

They moved this area in 2011 where they found business at local farmer's markets, and they picked up Whole Foods. But then Covid hit. "I remember my last demo at Giant when somebody said to me 'do you think you should be doing this?' That was March 16, [2020]." And then he didn't do any demos for four years. Marz says before Covid hit he was doing eight demos a week but now he does about two.

"I really like to meet the people and talk to them but I have found that we sell close to the same number of spreads without or without demos," Brady says.

Marz remembers that when Covid hit, business actually spiked as people were stocking up on things as they anticipated "the end of 21, 2025 HANK YO the world." He says he and Heather adjusted the website to reflect the new situation and offer recommendations to home "chefs" on how to use the Picnic spreads now that they were cooking at home and not eating at restaurants much anymore.

Marz explains the spreads took hold by word of mouth. And now in addition to Whole Foods, they have Balducci's, wineries and small specialty stores. Marz says on holidays business is generally good but he has noticed customer behavior can be a little different. "People can come in with one thing on their mind that they have to find for their New Year's Eve party and ignore everything else." But today Marz is guessing he will sell four cases of 12 units.

Penny Morrill is checking out what they have today. "I've been coming here since years ago when Brady first started. I get the spreads all the time — Moroccan cilantro is my favorite."

A mother and daughter stop by. Marz explains to everyone who is curious about tasting the spreads. "The spreads are healthy, all natural and versatile; good with meat or fish or as a traditional dip with crackers or vegetables." The mother comments, "I don't usually like goat cheese but this is good."

Marz says when they started the business it was a learning experience in many ways. Working with Whole Foods took some effort because all ingredients had to be certified as natural. "There was a whole list of things we couldn't use." In addition, he says, "We weren't in the food business and started out with a modest $2,000 budget for ingredients and containers. We had no investors, no backing. We did this by the seat of our pants — printing labels at Kinkos, no advertising budget — just me as salesman." He says they were two people with no expenses just trying to see if their product had legs.

Now Brady and Heather work with a copacking facility that produces their product by upscaling the recipe under their specifications. "We just launched into it and made it work."

Salt Smart

Photos by Glenda Booth

When Snow and Ice Come, Be Salt Smart

By Glenda C. Booth Connection Newspapers

his week's snowstorm not only brought a winter wonderland and slippery conditions, it also brought salt. Many homeowners and building, parking lot and highway managers apply salt to prevent ice from forming on pavement.

Winter salt is either rock salt (sodium chloride) or ice melt (a blend of sodium chloride, magnesium chloride and other salt) and bags were jumping off store shelves over the weekend.

Salt Levels Rising

"Chloride concentrations in the Potomac River have risen substantially in recent decades," says the Interstate Commission on the Potomac River Basin, stressing that the river is a drinking water source for about 6.89 million people. Average winter concentrations have jumped almost ten-fold, the commission contends. Salt flowing off impervious surfaces is a major contributing factor. Over the past 30 years, salt has increased 104 percent in the Potomac River, reports the WSSC, the water utility for Maryland's Montgomery and Prince George's counties.

"Salt levels in the Potomac River and Occoquan Reservoir ... have risen noticeably over the past decades, with average concentrations more than doubling," reports the Northern Virginia Regional Commission. The reservoir is also a drinking water source for two million Northern Virginians.

"Deicing salt applied to areas such as roads, sidewalks and driveways is a major source of chloride in developed areas surrounding the upper Accotink Creek," a 2021 study by Wetland Studies and Solutions found, noting that "tracked concentrations spike in the winter months." Other Northern Virginia streams likely have similar conditions, Virginia Department of Environmental Quality officials maintained at that time.

Safer Driving, but Some Harms

Highway managers apply salt to enhance driving safety. Salt can reduce vehicle crashes by 88 to 95 percent, reports the Northern Virginia Regional Commission. While modern mobility may require de-icing pavements, salt has some downsides.

Salts do not biodegrade and can be washed into storm drains, streams, rivers and oceans.

Water treatment technologies typically cannot remove salt. Elevated salt in drinking water can create some health risks, especially for people on low-sodium diets.

Because salt is corrosive, it can deteriorate plumbing and highway infrastructure like bridges. Salt accelerates metal corrosion in vehicles.

Animals attracted to road salt can create hazards. Birds can mistake road salt crystals for seeds or grit. There are approximately one million vehicle-animal crashes on roads each year, reports the American Automobile Association (AAA), killing 200 people and costing up to $8 billion.

Excessive salt can also degrade soil and terrestrial and aquatic plants and animals. Salty sprays from vehicles, spreaders, the wind and runoff can kill trees and shrubs.

Managing Icy Conditions

Several organizations have some "salt 2025

Correct use of salt or ice-melt, with a few granules spread out.

smart" tips. Here are some from Fairfax Water:

Shovel early and often. Remove snow before it turns to ice.

Use salt only after clearing snow and never to "burn off" snow. Spread it evenly. Clear and salt only in areas needed for safety.

Use less. More salt does not mean more melting. A 12-ounce coffee mug of salt should be enough for a 20-foot driveway or about 10 sidewalk squares.

✤ If temperatures drop below 15 degrees, do not use salt. It will not work. Try sand or native bird seed.

✤ After the ice melts, sweep remaining salt into safe storage.

Channel downspout water to drain onto ground areas rather than impervious walks and driveways where it will run off.

RIVER BASIN Incorrect use of salt or ice-melt

Managing Roads The Virginia Department of Transportation (VDOT) is responsible for 14,238 miles of Northern Virginia roads and begins plowing when two inches of snow have fallen, Mount Vernon Supervisor Dan Storck told constituents in his Jan. 3 newsletter. When problematic weather is predicted, VDOT pre-treats some roads with a salt and water mix called brine, "to help prevent a bond from forming between the pavement and icy precipitation, making it helpful for crews to make roads passable," says VDOT's website.

VDOT's snow removal priorities are as follows: first interstate highways and limited-access roadways; then, primary roads and major secondary roads; low-volume secondary roads.

Happy New Year.

or the snow lovers among us, it's been a wonderful week, if you could take the time off and enjoy the snow. Some find it a bit of a rude awakening, cold weather combined with snow that just kept coming. Plus we all know people who have moved here from snowier states who can't help but express their dismay at the local willingness to close schools and stay home to be safe and make way for the plows to do their jobs.

To begin 2025, the Connection Newspapers, along with the Mount Vernon Gazette and Alexandria Gazette Packet, are planning to publish on a new schedule, twice a month, first and third weeks of the month in most months. We hope to use this potentially cost saving measure to provide more opportunities for digital news in the weeks between, bringing news alerts and items of interest via email, website and social media. Arlington National Cemetery Annual Wreaths Out Event rlington National Cemetery and Soldiers' and Airmen's Home National Cemetery in Washington, D.C. will hold their annual removal of wreaths, known as Wreaths Out, on Saturday, Jan. 11, beginning at 8 a.m.

Thousands of visitors are expected to help remove approximately 257,000 wreaths at Arlington National Cemetery and approximately 14,000 at SAHNC. The high volume of visitors at Arlington National Cemetery may create traffic congestion and delays on nearby streets and at the cemetery's entrances.

The top priority is the safety and security of visitors and employees during this event.

Visitors should anticipate large crowds and difficulty driving vehicles in the vicinity of Arlington National Cemetery due to road closures.

Visitors are encouraged to use all four entrances to access the cemetery: the Memorial Avenue Welcome Center, the Ord and Weitzel Gate (near the Marine Corps War Memorial), the Service Complex Gate (near the Air Force Memorial) and, for DoD cardholders, the Old Post Chapel Gate.

Vehicular access on cemetery grounds will not be permitted until normal operations resume. The Welcome Center Parking Garage will open to the public at 8 a.m. on a first-come, first-served basis. There will be no visitor tram service on Saturday. The gravesite shuttle will resume once the cemetery returns to normal operations.

We recommend that visitors use public transportation or a ride share service for travel to and from the cemetery.

The drop-off location for ride share services is adjacent to the Arlington Cemetery Metro Stop on Memorial Avenue.

All visitors must pass through security screening before entering the cemetery. Prohibited items include: large bags or backpacks, firearms and weapons of any type, laser pointers, aerosol containers, soda cans, coolers, picnic baskets, tripods, lighters, screwdrivers (or similar tools), air horns, personal protection sprays and insulated beverage containers. Clear plastic water bottles are permitted.

Guidance for Visitors

Give vehicles and heavy equipment the right of way.

Remove Wreaths Across America wreaths only. Leave all other wreaths/decorations in place.Place wreaths in dumpsters positioned throughout the cemetery.

✤ When dumpsters are filled, carry remaining wreaths to unfilled dumpsters. Please do not place wreaths outside of dumpsters or anywhere else in the cemetery.

Please follow instructions from staff to ensure the safety of visitors.

✤ To aid with the removal of multiple wreaths, the public is permitted to bring in PVC pipe, rope and broomsticks. No sharp metal objects are permitted.

✤ Visitors are encouraged to dress warmly and bring work gloves, or other appropriate gear.

Apply to the 29th Community Police Academy

he Arlington County Police Department is accepting applications for the 29th Community Police Academy. The Community Police Academy is an educational program designed to enhance communication, collaboration and mutual understanding between the police and the community they serve. Its goal is to increase participants' awareness of how the Arlington County Police Department operates and its vital role within the community.

Program Overview

Through an immersive, multiweek experience, participants will gain knowledge and understanding of how police officers are trained, their daily work environment, and the wide scope of work they perform in service to the Arlington community. The program includes lectures, panel discussions, question and answer sessions, and hands-on experiences, including a special off-site session on a Saturday, outside of Arlington County. Classes are presented by Departmental leadership, sworn and civilian staff from across the agency and government partners. Participants will engage in thought-provoking discussions, including those about current events and effective policing practices, and can ask questions of presenters throughout the program. Some of the topics covered in the Community Police Academy curriculum include recruitment, legal considerations, use of force, mental health interventions, homeless outreach, community and youth outreach, criminal investigations, the K9 unit, tactical operations, and patrol operations.

is a 10-week program beginning on Thursday, Feb. 27. Classes will take place on Thursdays from 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. at the Arlington County Courthouse (1425 N. Courthouse Road). An Experience Day will take place on a Saturday during the program at the Northern Virginia Criminal Justice Academy in Ashburn, Va. During the Experience Day, participants will have the opportunity to put their new skills and knowledge from the Community Police Academy into action during simulation call for service scenarios put on by officers from various units within the department. There will not be a session held on April 17 in observance of Arlington County Public School's spring break.

To receive a graduation certificate, participants must attend at least eight of the 10 sessions.

Interested applicants must be at least 18 years old and should live, work, attend school, or be otherwise affiliated or engaged with Arlington community organizations. Due to the nature of the material covered in the academy, a criminal history check will be conducted on each applicant. Prior arrests and/or convictions do not necessarily prohibit participation in the academy and each applicant will be reviewed on a case-bycase basis. Class size is limited, and every effort will be made to maintain a balanced enrollment reflective of Arlington's diverse community. Online applications are due no later than Sunday, Jan. 26, 2025 at 11:59 p.m.

Point Taken

By KENNETH B. LOURIE

Monday sometime, unbeknownst to me, I stepped on a spikey thing (not "a pop top"), but I did "cruise on back home." It wasn't until later when I took my right sneaker off and couldn't pull my foot out that I saw the rusty nail-ish thing that had penetrated the sole of my sneaker and then embedded itself in the ball of my foot, thereby preventing an easy removal (I was attached, sort of) . However, after 15-plus years of miscellaneous chemotherapy, not only do I have neuropathy (as a side effect) in both feet, but I also have frozen/numb-ish feet (fortunately, no other extremities are affected). As a result, I didn't feel the penetration. Only later, as I've described, did I see what had gone in.

Naturally, being a blockhead and stubborn male, I did nothing about this intrusion. I don't even think I told my wife Dina about it. My theory and reasoning concerning this kind of possible medical event is not addressing it immediately and expecting/hoping that neglect will somehow lead to healing: wrong! And certainly not the smartest move by a long-term cancer patient who presumably has a compromised immune system, given that I'm still on chemotherapy/targeted therapy seven days a week, every week. That being said, and I hope I don't jinx myself by saying it, but, I am never sick; cold, flu, allergies, nothing. I do take a lot of supplements, less than before, but I can't say for sure whether they're contributing to my overall good health or not. I'll be naïve and say: I imagine they're helping. After all, I am 15 years, give or take, past the original "13 months to two years" prognosis I received back in Feb. 2009.

But when medical incidents, like this spikey, rusty nail occur/intrude in life, common sense must prevail. I have always been told by my previous oncologist and medical staff not to hesitate but rather always call/ come in when anything/everything happens. Being a cancer patient is serious business and offers little advantage to those who wait. If one is ever to have a chance minimizing the effects of whatever is causing pain, et cetera, it is better to be safe than sorry – or worse. Still, human nature (or at least my nature) sometimes wins out and the smarter more prudent action is not taken. My incorrect assumption is somewhere between the less said the better and I'll be all right in a day or two. Hardly the right play when you have Papillary Thyroid cancer with a side of stage IV chronic kidney disease and have had meetings recently with a dialysis expert. I may be a cynic (may be?) but it's unlikely being slow on the uptick is going to keep me alive. I need to be Quick-draw McGraw if I'm going to defeat this enemy. And if cancer isn't the health enemy number one, I shudder to think who's vying for the title. Cancer doesn't need a competitor, it's scary as hell on its own.

And maybe it's that fear which haunts me, going into a hospital and never coming out. In fact, the end of this saga is, I finally went to Urgent Care after an appointment I had previously scheduled with and orthopedic doctor to address a chronic sore knee. The knee I knew to address, but the rusty spike I thought I should ignore. Good thinking, Ken. Hopefully, I've learned my lesson. I really don't suppose the longer I'm an active cancer patient, the more able I'll be to fend off whatever medical malady presents. It's probably the exact opposite. Da! I guess I'm afraid of the slippery slope.
